By LaVon Anderson

The board of directors of Educational Service Unit One, headquartered in Wakefield, voted unanimously Tuesday night to enter into a $25,000 contract with the architectural firm of Dana, Larson and Roubal in Omaha to design a new facility in Wayne to house the unit's two Wayne programs.

Marvin Borg, chairman of the building and grounds committee, told board members that the negotiated fee of $25,000 is for a building not to exceed 6,000 square feet.

The architect's fee represents approximately eight percent of the total projected cost of $300,000 for the new facility.

Board Chairman Ken Lahrs of Ponca stressed that it is imperative the board contract with an architect for a project of such magnitude.

ALTHOUGH a site for the new facility has not yet been secured, board members Tuesday night authorized the building and grounds committee to begin negotiations for purchase of property in Wayne.

The new facility will house the Wayne Children's Development Center, a program for severe and profound youngsters presently located in a building leased from Region IV, and the Wayne Learning Center, a behaviorally disordered program located in a building owned by ESU 1 on the east edge of Wayne.

BOARD members Tuesday night also approved a recommendation by Duane Tappe, ESU 1 special education director, regarding the

CDBG money will create day care center

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

WANTED: A piece of land about 15,000 square feet.

That's what the Wayne Child Care Board, organized by the START Day Care Task Force, needs to build a child day care center in Wayne. They also need funds.

To meet monetary demands, the City of Wayne is applying to the State of Nebraska for a Community Development Block Grant for the construction of a day care facility.

With $250,000 in estimated costs, if the CDBG is approved, it could cover anywhere from 50 percent to 75 percent of the construction costs.

"We'd like to stress that a day care center would give the opportunity to parents to choose a center or have their children taken to a day care provider," said Carolee Stuberg, who is co-chairperson of the Wayne Child Care Board. "There's a lot of people who want their children in a home setting. This will provide the parent the opportunity to choose."

ACCORDING TO statistics provided by Stuberg, there are 623

Two receive sentences

WAYNE - Judge Merritt C. Warren, judge of the ninth judicial district in Nebraska, handed down sentences on two Wayne area men Wednesday, June 5.

Chad Young was sentenced to 18 to 36 months in state prison with credit for time served. Young was also ordered to pay costs of the proceedings.

Young was arrested by authorities Oct. 5, 1990 for attempting to deliver marijuana. He pled guilty to the charge May 1.

Young was also sentenced in the Dixon County District Court

Monday, June 10 to 18 to 36 months for criminal conspiracy. He will serve the sentence consecutively with the one handed down in Wayne County, court officials said.

Warren also handed down a sentence against Richard G. Pearson for escape. Pearson was sentenced to 24 months probation and six months in jail with credit for time served. He also has to pay the costs of his court proceedings. He pled guilty to the charge May 1.

Pearson escaped from the Wayne County Juvenile Detention Center July 8, 1989.

Wayne State gets funding

WAYNE - The Nebraska Legislature has signed into law a bill that will provide $4 million for the construction of a new business building at Wayne State College.

Originally, Gov. Ben Nelson vetoed the bill which contained funding for the building. However, legislators vetoed 33-11-4 to override Governor Nelson's veto last Wednesday.

"We are pleased with the legislature's decision to approved funding for a new business building for our growing campus," says Dr. Donald J. Mash, president of Wayne State College.

"With out significant growth in enrollment and the growth of the business program, our current classroom and faculty office space is inadequate. This new building will enable us to operate more efficiently and our students and region will be better served."

CURRENTLY, THE division of business shares Connell Hall with the division of social sciences, the college's two largest credit-hour producers. When constructed, the building will represent the only new classroom space built on the campus in over 20 years.

When the business division moves into the new building, Connell Hall will be renovated to meet the needs of the social science division and other general academic space.

THE NEW business building will probably not be available until 1996, according to Andrew Soll, vice-president for administration and finance. He says major funding for the building — approximately $2 million each year — will not be available until the 1993-94 and 1994-95 academic years. Construction will probably begin in 1993, Soll says.

Consistent with the college's recently completed master plan, the new business building will be constructed directly south of Bowen Hall in the area which currently serves as a parking lot. New parking lots will be developed nearby, Soll says.

Originally, college officials asked for $5.8 million for a business and information technology building. The reduction in funding will not allow for the construction of information technology space.

Council takes step toward sidewalk plan

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Although the City of Wayne may not have its sidewalk replacement plan completely in place, the city council moved another step in that direction Tuesday night.

Due to stipulations of city ordinance, the council could not pass a new law the same night of a public hearing. The meeting will be continued Monday, June 17 at 8:30 a.m.

The plan calls for a 50-50 cost sharing sidewalk replacement program between residents and the City of Wayne. According to City Administrator Joe Salitros, only sidewalk sections designated in need of replacement will be fixed.

Salitros answered a number of questions from residents whose walkways have been designated in need of replacement. No residents opposed the cost-sharing program.

ONCE THE new law is in place, bids for the program will be taken in July for a modified H-shaped area of town.

The area runs along Pearl Street from First to Seventh Street, Sherman Street from First to Seventh Street with modifications and along Third Street from Pearl to Sherman. Various other areas of Wayne have also been designated at the request of residents.

According to Salitros, businesses bidding on the project will be from Norfolk and Hartington. He said five individuals in Wayne, who do sidewalk work, are also expected to bid.

IN TWO OTHER matters, the city council passed a resolution dealing with hardship repayments of personal property taxes and listened to concerns with the sewer line along West First Street.

Bereuter seeks public input to issues

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

U.S. Rep. Doug Bereuter sought public input to an array of issues Monday during a "Hear the Citizens" meeting at the Black Knight in Wayne. Topics which seemed to dominate the meeting dealt with IRAs and housing.

The discussion about IRAs, led by Wayne Financial Planner George Phelps, surrounded problems in the way Congress deals with retirement accounts. Phelps' comments were supported by Wayne resident Pat Prather.

Phelps said he would like to see the IRA accounts increase as people get older. Currently, IRAs can only be credited on tax returns in $2,000 increments if people are not under another pension plan.

"I have to tell you I don't think there will be any additional money for the foreseeable future," Bereuter said. "People are going to be very reluctant in Congress to replace the revenue that might be lost."

DESPITE BEREUTER'S strong belief that there won't be any change in Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs), Prather said Congress needs to take into consideration how the money is used by older individuals and their families.

"You talk a lot about family and trying to preserve family," Prather said. "I think this creates a wedge in families because your children and grandchildren come to expect that you have the money put away for yourself so they won't have to look after you. They'll drill at their family: 'I need this money. I need this money.' I don't think it's a good thing any way you look at it."

Terry Hanson of Wayne said the fact Congress has established such low limits on IRA funds indicates that Congress isn't concerned with encouraging Americans to save money. He said problems have developed which create conflicts

- Campaign finance: Favors reduction in PAC funds and campaign reforms.

Board learns of sidewalk improvements Plan

WAYNE - Like residents in the proposed sidewalk improvement area, the Wayne School Board learned Tuesday night that walks around the Middle School may need work.

In a letter from Wayne City Administrator Joe Salitros to Superintendent of Schools Dr. F.R. Haun, the program will cost the schools 50 percent of the total price. The city will share the other 50 percent. Salitros said in his letter that bids will be taken later this month.

Along similar lines, Haun reported to the board about the building/grounds projects for the summer.

NEW TREES were planted at Wayne High School on June 4. Haun said grass has been seeded and sod is in place at the new addition to the Wayne Elementary School and the middle school band room floor has been removed. According to custodian reports, the old floor was dangerously rotted. Concrete replacing the floor has been poured.

Plans have also been made with Otte Construction to make the high school restrooms barrier free. Haun said the elementary fire alarm wiring is pending, as is the freezer installation.

The school board also accepted approximately 1,100 acres of land transferred from school district 5 into Wayne. The District 5 School closed in May. It is located near Altona.

The board also adopted a resolution declaring tax hardship for Dixon County, which is identical to the one passed for Wayne County in May.

IN OTHER matters, the board:

- Heard a report from Legislative Chairman Cap Peterson relative to action taken by the legislature since the May meeting. Haun reported that the State Department of Education would be holding an informational and procedural meeting on Monday, June 17 in Norfolk. The meeting will bring school officials up to date on their budget options.

- Learned that Whittle Broadcasting will provide their customers with profiles of colleges in the United States that might be of interest to students.

- Voiced no objection to a proposed plat for a city subdivision as requested by the Wayne Planning Commission.

- Gave approval to a vocational education consortium consisting of Wayne, Winside, Pender and Emerson.

- Learned from Haun that little action had been taken on the 1991-92 budget.

- Approved a schedule of board meetings on a tentative basis for the 1991-92 school year.

Speaking on behalf of his neighborhood, Bob Johnson asked the council why neither he nor his neighbors had been contacted since the last meeting in May. He said he anticipated having a response by now. The sewer item was not on the agenda. Johnson spoke to the council during the public forum.

Salitros informed Johnson that there are other private lines in town. Salitros added that through dye readings, one neighbor in the West First Street neighborhood, believed to be on the same line, isn't. Salitros added no further comment.

LIKE OTHER governmental bodies, the city council was encouraged to pass a resolution of hardship pertaining to repayment of certain personal property taxes.

What this means to the city will be that once all the claims for refunds are resolved, the city will have two years to pay back the taxes. Currently the city owes around $7,000 in tax repayments.

The situation dates back to the Nebraska Supreme Court ruling earlier this year finding that pipelines, transportation companies and railroads are exempt from personal property taxes under the Nebraska Constitution.

length of special education programs.

Tappe's proposal, which will go into effect next summer, calls for a reduction in the length of the Wayne Level III programs serving severely retarded students at one site and behaviorally disordered students at another site.

Both programs are currently in session for 232 days, with vacation time at Christmas and three weeks in July.

The proposal, as approved by the board, would reduce the number of actual student days to 222 (a reduction of 10 days). Staff contracts would voluntarily be reduced to 226 days, with the four-day differential due to the need for teacher inservice days at ESU 1 and elsewhere.

The new proposal calls for a four-week vacation in July, regular Christmas vacation, and an extended Easter vacation.

TAPPE told board members Tuesday night that even with the reduction in the number of days, the ESU 1 special education programs will still exceed similar programs in Nebraska.

He also told the board that he does not feel the cut in length of the programs will cause regression in students.

"It is our hope that this change will help keep our staff relatively fresh and enthusiastic about their jobs," added Tappe.

Board member John Post of Bloomfield expressed concern regarding the reaction of parents to the change in the length of the programs. "I want to make sure this transition is made with the understanding of parents."

Tappe assured the board that he will meet individually with parents, or as a group, to explain the change.

IN OTHER business Tuesday night, ESU 1 board members set the salaries for classified staff members for 1991-92.

The board unanimously approved a 25¢ increase on base salary — from $4.85 to $5.10 an hour.

In addition, the 1991-92 salary schedule calls for an increase in Blue Cross/Blue Shield insurance premiums to $140.40 for a single policy and $383.25 for a family policy, with ESU 1 providing one-half of the family premium, or full single premium, for any employee working 25 hours or more.

Employees working 25 hours or more who chose not to be a member of the group health plan will receive $50 per month added to their salary.

In addition, the new contract allows employees to advance one additional step if they have 30 college credit hours that would lead to a BA degree from an accredited college or institution.

BEFORE adjourning, board members voted to change the budget structure to establish a building fund and to calculate an amount to transfer out of the budget in August.

The board also approved new contracts for Edye Winnail and Linda Tronvold, occupational therapists; Angela Rehal, resource teacher; Wendy Hansen, language resource teacher; and Michele Chwirka, school nurse.

children ages infant to 9 years living in Wayne. Of those children, 65 percent, or 405 children, will need day care at some point.

Currently, there are 25 licensed day care providers and an estimated 10 unlicensed providers, who each legally care for eight children at a time. That leaves space for 125 children who need care.

"Currently, there are some day care providers who do not wish to take infants," said Mary Temme, co-chairperson of the board. "This will help out the home providers. Since it won't meet the entire need, providers will still have their businesses intact and they can pick and choose to some degree."

If the CDBG funds are approved, the new center could employ up to eight people and care for around 60 children.

According to blueprints of the building, the main floor would be approximately 3,700 square feet in size.

A public hearing to discuss the matter has been scheduled for Thursday, June 20 at 9:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. in the city council chambers. Application deadline is June 28.

SINCE THE WAYNE Child Care Board is composed entirely of volunteers, the money the center will make will be used for staff salaries, facility upkeep and upgrading. No board member will garnish funds.

"The board members are all volunteers and they can't receive any pay under the terms of our constitution," Temme said. "Profits will be turned back into the center to improve the building or the playground areas."

According to Stuber, the $250,000 estimate is only for the building. It does not include furnishing.

The Child Day Care Board presently has eight members, Temme, Stuber, Janet Dyer, Nancy Heithold, Leslie Hausmann, Diane Ehrhardt, Bonna Barner and Rev. John Mitchell.

The application for CDBG funds comes as a result of the START survey in 1990, in which 65 percent of the respondents believed additional day care was needed in the community.

Issues

between IRAs and pension plans.

FOCUSING ON the housing problem, local builders Rod Tompkins and Bob Carhart each expressed concerns dealing with lumber price increases and slow HUD processing.

Tompkins primary concern dealt with delays with HUD financing approval. He said in the last couple years HUD fees have increased to the point it hurts home buyers and, in return, hurts builders.

"It takes as long or longer to get HUD approval than it takes to build a home," Tompkins said. "If we lose that, will we be able to build first-time homebuyer homes?"

Bereuter said he did not think the delay HUD is making is tolerable. He said his office will give it more attention. He said the general trend under both the Reagan and Bush administrations is to get away from high risk loans, which could pose a threat to the treasury.

CARHART SAID the price of lumber has increased substantially over the past year. He said some lumber has increased as much as 60 percent.

Bereuter said one of the reasons for the lumber increase is due to an effort in California and the northwest to save the spotted owl. He said the debate about saving the owl versus lumber is not yet over.

"This is a controversy that will inevitably find its way to the floor because of the financial implications," Bereuter said.

The "Hear the Citizens" meeting lasted a little over an hour. Bereuter also discussed wetlands issues, agriculture, campaign finance reforms, groundwater issues and free trade issues.

Publisher's Perspective

By Gary Wright

Herald, other co-op newspapers receive statewide attention

It was nice to receive some state wide publicity about the Wayne Herald's cooperative effort with seven other newspapers to produce Leisure Times for the senior citizens of northeast Nebraska.

The article, circulated last week in the May/June issue of Nebraska Newspaper, was published under the page heading "Industry Awareness" and distributed to all 199 weekly and daily newspapers who belong to the Nebraska Press Association. Numerous associate members of the trade group also received copies of the 64 page magazine.

As the article notes, the project has come together quite nicely. Readers and advertisers alike have been happy with it and have been making suggestions for further issues. We are very appreciative of these comments.

Credit for the Wayne Herald portion of this popular 24 page tabloid goes to editors/writers/photographers Mark Crist, LaVon Anderson and Kevin Peterson, Winside Correspondent Diann Jaeger, advertising manager Jan Bartholomaeus and composition foreman Judi Topp, who also coordinates the overall appearance of the monthly publication.

Printed below are excerpts from last week's state wide magazine article headlined "Co-op tabloid targets senior citizens."

Co-op tabloid targets senior citizens

WAYNE - A new monthly senior citizens publication in northeast Nebraska is thriving.

"Leisure Times" is a special supplement to eight newspapers — the Wayne Herald, Laurel Advocate, Randolph Times, Osmond Republican, Hartington's Cedar County News, Pender Times, Walthill Citizen, and the South Sioux City Star. The cooperative tabloid is distributed to more than 31,600 readers.

The staff of each paper is responsible for filling a certain number of pages per issue. That includes writing stories, setting type, selling and producing advertising and actually pasting up the pages, said Herald Publisher Gary Wright.

The papers rotate responsibility for the front and back pages. The camera ready pages are sent to Wayne. The Herald staff checks for duplication before the tabloid is printed.

"It all comes together as a nice variety," Wright said.

A standardized type style and format are outlined for consistency, Wright said. A 10 point type was selected since the product is geared to senior citizens.

Leisure Times has prompted an increase in the number of subscribers at the individual papers, provided a new vehicle for locally generated feature stories and it has opened up advertising ideas, Wright said. The health, finance and travel industries have found it especially beneficial.

"Other papers are looking at joining our co-op," Wright said. "It's been the best idea in '91 for us."

Lawmakers wrap up session

LINCOLN - The Nebraska Legislature completed the work of its 1991 legislative session on Wednesday, June 5. The final three days were lengthy while several important issues were heavily debated by senators.

VETO OVERRIDES
During the final hours of the legislative session on Wednesday, June 5, senators made several attempts to override vetoes made by Governor Nelson. Successful override attempts made a relatively small dent in the Governor's overall veto package. Because of lower than expected state revenues, senators were very selective in the vetoes that were overridden.

One of the governor's vetoes that senators were successful in overriding was for construction projects to be funded by cigarette taxes over the next three years. Many senators felt this override was appropriate since cigarette tax money has always been used for capital construction and has no im-act on the general fund budget. A support building at the North-east Station at Concord and a new business building at Wayne State College are included in the construction projects overridden by the senators.

Other successful override attempts were for funding of mental retardation programs and for cancer screenings and chlamydia testing for low-income women.

AG LAND VALUATION
The senators also gave final approval to a bill which will implement a constitutional amendment passed by voters last November. The amendment authorized the Legislature to value agricultural land differently from other types of property.

The proposal approved by the Legislature sets up a formula for valuing agricultural land that includes income generated by the land as well as elements of market value. Most experts believe that an income-based approach is a fair way to treat agricultural land because factors such as severe weather could prevent it from producing any income.

Capitol Views

By Sen. Gerald Conway

PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX

In the final days of the session, senators made several attempts to find a solution to the personal property tax problems that are facing the state of Nebraska. On the last day of the regular session, senators passed LB 829, a short-term remedy that would repeal the property tax on business machinery and equipment.

It is hoped that the passage of this bill will clear up legal questions that the Nebraska Supreme Court has raised about a state personal property tax system that has taxes some classes of personal property but exempted others.

Although the short-term solution was approved by the legislature, a proposed special election on a constitutional amendment which would put real and personal property in separate classes for tax purposes lacked the forty votes necessary to put the question on the ballot in August. Many senators were concerned about the potential impact the proposed change in the constitution might have on the middle-income homeowner. I was also concerned as to whether the hastily written amendment would result in additional lawsuits.

The failure to pass the special election proposal will most likely require senators to be called back into a special session later this summer.

Presence makes historic timeline

Plans for Nebraska's quasicentennial, or 125th birthday celebration have garnered their share of headlines. In June of 1876, it was Nebraska's presence at America's centennial party in Philadelphia that made the pa-

"After All Our Fuss Our State Will be Well Represented," the headline reads.

"Notwithstanding the fact that no appropriation was made by the legislature for properly representing Nebraska at the Centennial, and that the matter promised to go entirely by default, it is very gratifying to know that through the prompt and energetic exertions of Governor Garber, our State will make a good exhibition at the great Exposition.

In conversation with Governor Garber and Secretary Harwood yesterday, we learned that the exhibition of the State is contained in two octagon cases of gothic style, made of black walnut, and 12 feet in height. They are finished in jet and gilt, and are pronounced the finest on the ground. In these elegant cases, the seeds and grasses of the State are exhibited, each sample box being labeled with the name of the grain enclosed and the State.

The gothic panels of the cases are filled with Japan tin, and on each an appropriate motto in gold letters appears, of which the following are prominent:

'Nebraska virgin and productive soil.' 'Nebraska relies on her soil for her foundation.' 'Nebraska — the great middle farming and stock region.' 'Nebraska — the best for wheat, corn, hogs, cattle and sheep.' 'Nebraska — springs and streams in abundance.' 'Nebraska — on the route across the continent.' 'Nebraska winters mild and short.' 'Nebraska summers genial and pleasant.' 'Nebraska, the champion State for fruit.'

Between the octagon cases is displayed a full outfit of farmer's tools and agricultural implements, and surrounding this is the sign which reads, 'State of Nebraska — the youngest and best.'

'The Kansas legislature appropriated $38,000 to represent that State at the Exposition. By pledging his personal credit, and by his excellent management, Governor Garber will procure a better representation of Nebraska for about $8,000.'

Event very common

Dogs, baby plan to rattle Dad's nerves

There are so many wonderful experiences when you're expecting your first child.

Since Rhonda's about seven months along, we go through a nightly routine. The routine started the first month after we learned of our upcoming joy, so you'd think I'd learn my lesson by now. I haven't.

Every night around 9 p.m. she'll get up from her Lay-Z-Boy to go upstairs. After about 10 minutes, I hear her walk across the floor. This means she's in the bedroom.

Five minutes after the floor stops creaking, there's this shrieking yell: "Maaaaaaark. Come upstairs. Quick."

Naturally, I'm half asleep in my chair with my leg rest in the up position.

"What?" I bark at the ceiling, feeling like I'm having a cardiac arrest.

NOW I KNOW she hears me but she doesn't respond. Being an expectant father, I'm naturally worried. I dash from my chair to the stairway, stumbling over the dog's toys. Quickly turning the corner and heading upstairs, I trip over one of the dogs and swear. "Stupid (blankety, blank) dog. Get out of my way."

It is my supposition that the dogs think it's a race to see who can get up the stairs the quickest. Naturally, since I'm busy falling up

Mark'n' the Spot

by Mark Crist

the stairs, they always get up first. I think the two dogs plot the race every day.

"OK, you trip him and I'll beat him up the stairs," would be the likely tone of their conversation.

BY THE TIME I reach the top of the stairs, I'm out of breath. I've stubbed my toe and I'm mad at the dogs. Finally, I reach Rhonda's side of the bed.

"Honey, the baby's moving," she'll say.

Wanting to be a supportive husband (and some day, Daddy), I stand by her side and place my hand on her stomach. Five minutes go by. Then 10 minutes are gone. Nothing happens. Not a kick, not even a movement. Sure, Rhonda's bump is getting bigger but the kid won't do anything when I place my hand on her stomach.

"Aw, forget it," I'll say. "It won't move for me."

A second after I move my hand, Rhonda will put her hand back on her tummy. Guess what? The kid starts to move.

This means one of two things. Either the baby is a girl and it likes Daddy's touch, so it won't move when Daddy places his hand on Mommy's tummy, or the dogs organize the whole thing during the night with the kid and keep it a secret until the next evening. I'm sure if they do this, they laugh about it all night long.

One of these days, Daddy will get in the action.

Newsletter marks session's end

by ElRoy Hefner

As this final newsletter is being written, the 92nd Legislature is now history. After burning the midnight oil several nights in a row, the senators are finally getting a chance to catch their breath as we adjourned sine die Wednesday at midnight. It has been a most controversial and hectic 90-day session.

Among the heavy-weight issues acted on were the property tax problems, abortion, statewide lottery, budget, a State railroad, redistricting Legislative and Congressional Districts, gun control, repeal of the death penalty, appeals court, veto overrides, ag land valuation, community consent on low level radioactive waste facility, minimum wage, State Election Board, ethanol fuels and many others.

However, the Legislature failed to pass the Governor's proposed constitutional amendment, LR 186, by a 34-10 vote. Forty votes were needed for it to be put on a special election ballot in August. The amendment would put real and personal property into separate classes for tax purposes and would allow the Legislature to exempt or tax personal property without having to comply with the current constitutional requirement that property be taxed uniformly and proportionately. The Governor said he wants to assess the vote and then decide if he wants to call a special session.

Over 850 bills and constitutional amendment resolutions were introduced since opening day in January. About 250 bills have been passed by the Legislature and approximately 175 were indefinitely postponed. Bills on which no action was taken this year will be carried over to be taken up next year.

I was disappointed that the Legislature reversed course the other night and adopted a new Congressional redistricting plan.

The next proposal shifts two northeast counties, Pierce and Knox Counties, to the Third Congressional District from the First. I preferred and supported the previous plan which left Pierce and Knox Counties in the First District. This made a lot more sense to me. However, the Governor had said that the previous plan was subject to a veto.

Congressman Bereuter, who represents District 1, has been working with us on some projects in these two counties including the proposed new bridge across the Missouri River near Niobrara.

I feel this was strictly a partisan maneuver as well as all 21 Democrat senators voted for it along with four Republican senators from southern Nebraska. I voted against the bill on final reading.

I also feel that the Legislative redistricting bill was a disaster. We lose Legislative District 21 from northeast Nebraska and another one in central Nebraska. So that means that we lose two rural senators. Each state is forced to redistrict every 10 years due to population changes.

In Legislative District 19 I lose a portion of Knox County including the western townships and the towns of Niobrara, Verdell, Verdigre and Winnetoon. All of Dixon county is added to my District. Each state senator represents approximately 32,000 citizens.

The GOLDEN YEARS

by Edith Walzer

The Center for Creative Retirement, located on the Asheville campus of the University of North Carolina, is promoting a growing trend among retirees — to engage in meaningful community service and take classes in a college setting, while still leaving time for golf or other pastimes. About 2,000 retirees a year attend classes of the College for Seniors or take part in programs to tutor school children, serve as mentors for college students, and find other ways to put their skills and experience to use as volunteers.

"At my age (93), you learn to appreciate what you have," Edith Walzer told an interviewer. "If you only need a walker to get around, you say 'thank goodness I don't need a wheelchair.'" Walzer, who retired as a teacher 30 years ago, lives in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. She isn't one to sit around. After a series of tests, she received an OK to work out on the bicycle, treadmill and rowing machine in a gym.

Wayne Legion downs visiting Albion

The Wayne Junior Legion baseball team defeated visiting Albion last Friday by a 6-1 margin as pitcher Jeff Griesch tossed a two-hitter. Griesch retired the first three batters by way of strike out and he took out the first six batters in order before walking the first batter in the third inning.

Albion's lone run came in the fifth inning following back-to-back hits, the only hits they earned on the evening. Wayne scored twice in the first inning and added three more in the fifth before closing out the scoring with one run in the sixth.

Wayne had five hits on the night including a pair of singles by first baseman Brian Lentz. Griesch and John Murphy each singled and Rusty Hamer had the game's only extra base hit with a double.

On Sunday afternoon at Hank Overin Field in Wayne the local Juniors lost a heart breaking 1-0 decision to a team from Pierre, S.D. coached by former Wayne State student and athlete Scott Rau.

The visitors scored the lone run of the game in the third inning in a contest which lasted under an hour and a half. Pierre had five hits in the game while Wayne had just three in the pitchers dual that saw Brian Penne take the loss for Wayne.

Wayne's lone hits came from Rusty Hamer with a single in the first inning and Brian Lentz's single in the fifth. Jim Hoffman also singled in the seventh inning to round out the hitting for the locals.

Wayne kids down Wakefield

The Wayne Little League and Pony League boys baseball teams swept a twinbill from visiting Wakefield Tuesday afternoon at Hank Overin Field in Wayne.

In the opener Tyler Endicott pitched the locals to a 17-7 victory while Terry Hamer got the save. Wayne pounded out eight hits in the contest with Jeremy Lutt doing the most damage with a single and a triple.

Aaron Beltz followed with two singles while Andy Brasch, Jeremiah Rethwisch and Terry Hamer all singled. Tyler Endicott aided his own pitching cause with a double.

In the Pony League contest pitcher Craig Wetterburg breezed to a 9-2 victory as he struck out eight Wakefield batters in the process. Wayne jumped out to a 7-0 lead after one inning of play after Wakefield pitchers struggled early by walking several Wayne batters.

The locals finished the game with eight hits total while Wetterburg literally shut down the visitors by allowing just three hits. Wetterburg was the offensive catalyst as well for Wayne as he was the only batter to garner more than one hit in the game with a pair of singles.

Jeff Hamer had Wayne's only extra base hit of the contest with a double while Joe Lutt, Ryan Junck, Dusty Jensen, Carl Samuelson and Jaimey Holdorf each hit singles.

Wayne's Little League and Pony League teams will host Emerson on Thursday with action beginning at 1 p.m. with the Little League and approximately 3 p.m. for the Ponys.

Midgets, Legion split with Pender

The Wayne Midgets and Junior Legion baseball teams traveled to Pender Monday night and the local teams earned a split as the Midgets lost a close 5-4 decision to a Pender team that has just two losses this year in 14 outings. The Wayne Juniors however, took the second game by a 10-4 margin.

In the Midget contest Tim Reinhardt was given the loss from the mound but the left handed hurler struck out five and walked just one while allowing the host team just three hits.

Wayne actually out hit Pender by a 5-3 margin despite coming up one run short in the run column.

Pender grabbed a 2-0 lead after the first inning of play but Wayne scored four times in the top of the third inning to lead 4-2. Pender added one more in the bottom of the third and then scored the tying run and the go ahead run in the bottom of the fifth inning.

The 2-2 Midgets were led at the bat by Todd Fredrickson who went 2-3 from the plate with a single and a double. Reinhardt, Mike Williams and Day each had a base hit.

Travis Stracke was credited with the pitching victory in the Junior contest while Brian Lentz pitched the final 2 1/3 innings for the save. Stracke struck out five and allowed just four hits while Lentz recorded one strike out and allowed just one hit in his pitching stint.

Wayne had a narrow 2-1 lead after three innings of play but blew the door open in the fourth inning with a seven run explosion that Pender never recovered from.

Wayne belted nine hits compared to five by the host team. Rusty Hamer was the offensive catalyst for the locals as he belted two doubles while Dave Hewitt hit a single and a double. Brian Lentz also smacked a double while Stracke, Brian Penne and Jim Hoffman all notched base hits.

Wayne improved its season record to 5-3 with the victory and will play Wakefield on Wednesday night before hosting West Point on Thursday at Hank Overin Field.

SPEAKING TO ONE OF THE three groups of people in the customer relations seminar is John Allen. The event was sponsored by Farmers and Merchants Bank of Wayne. Around 300 people attended the event.

Free customer relations seminar sees 300 people

WAYNE - Nearly 300 attended the free customer relations seminars held June 10 at the Wayne State College Student Center.

Local business owners and their employees were treated to an entertaining show as well as a seminar. Audiences laughed as John Allen, the speaker for the programs, used himself as a bad example in dealing with business customers. By Allen's humorous method of showing inept customer treatment, he made all aware of quality customer care.

All during his presentations, Allen frequently mentioned that most customer relations errors are unconscious unintentional mistakes. None the less, customers are offended by these errors. Often times, business personnel in their efforts to serve customers quickly and efficiently, end up treating customers very routinely. Allen cautioned that customer contact personnel should try very hard not to get into the habit of saying the same thing to each customer as sounding monotone and bored with their job.

Allen noted that more and more businesses are beginning to see that their competitive edge is customer treatment. Study after study has confirmed that repeat business is profitable business. People go back repeatedly where they are treated well.

Tim Keller, president of Farmers and Merchants Bank, who underwrote Allen's appearance in Wayne, said that the bank was pleased by the turnout for the programs and the response they have received from area business for providing this training for the business community.

"Because of the response, we hope to sponsor more such programs in the future for the business community," Keller said.

INDEPENDENCE FOR THE FRAIL ELDERLY?
For some time, our good friend in Congress, Representative Edward R. Roybal (D.-Calif.), has been trying to find a way to help the frail elderly live in their homes and avoid having to go into nursing facilities where, even in the best of these establishments, they're bound to lose some of their precious independence.

In early May, Roybal scheduled a hearing on an innovative program now in use in several states which could, eventually, become a national program. It's called PACE — the Program of All-inclusive Care for the Elderly. Currently, it's up and running in four cities: Portland, Oregon; Columbia, South Carolina; Boston, Massachusetts; and Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Other sites scheduled to open are Denver, Colorado; the Bronx section of New York City; Chicago, Illinois; and El Paso, Texas.

PACE is designed to replicate the highly successful "On Lok" program for the frail elderly which originated in San Francisco some 20 years ago. Chairman Roybal explained that under certain Medicare and Medicaid waivers, PACE takes on total responsibility for providing comprehensive health care for the sickest senior citizens. With a team of doctors, nurses, and social workers to manage and provide the care, PACE can cut costs for both the federal and state governments by reducing the need for nursing home care or hospitalization.

If you are a recipient of a PACE program, you can share your experiences with the program either by writing to me c/o King Features Weekly Service, 235 East 45th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017 — and I'll send the information on to Congressman Roybal — or by writing directly to Edward R. Roybal, Chairman, Select Committee on Aging, U.S. House of Representatives, 300 New Jersey Avenue, SE, Room 712, Washington, D.C. 20515.

USE YOUR HEAD — DON'T TAKE CHANCES WITH IT: We usually think head injuries happen to people in car accidents, or young folks on motorbikes, or free fall chutists. Actually, seniors are also victims of head injury accidents mostly because they don't think they're taking any risks. A New Medico Head Injury System release noted that in 1989 more than 100,000 people were treated for head injuries caused by accidents resulting from falls from ladders. Since many seniors spend a good deal of time fixing things around the house, they rank high on that list. Some medications often prescribed for seniors may make them dizzy, or they may have problems with their eyes — can give them a false sense of space. In any event, be careful, and when you use a stepladder, make sure it's sturdy, and securely supported.

Weight Loss is No Secret

Our bodies require energy to function, and energy is obtained from the foods we eat. If we eat more food calories than needed, the excess is stored as fat. We gain weight. If we eat fewer food calories than needed, we consume body fat as a source of energy. We lose weight. All overweight persons have, over their lives, consumed more food than needed to satisfy energy requirements. Some energy is needed for our bodies to function even when sleeping. Physical activities such as walking, typing, cooking, and cleaning add to the body's basic energy needs. If energy requirements are increased - through additional exercise - weight loss occurs because body fat is consumed. For most persons, weight loss involves both a reduction in food calories consumed and an increase in exercise.

The Library Card

This column is written twice a month to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at Wayne Public Library.

How many of you can remember when you took geography? How many years ago was that? In fact, are you even sure you had a course in geography?

Recent articles in newspapers and magazines tell us Americans know very little about the world, the country, and even the state we live in. Which brings us to a new book entitled "Where On Earth? A refreshing view of Geography" by Donnat V. Grillet. The author stresses the importance of our need to know more about our environment and the natural resources of our whole earth. Without that knowledge, we will be unable to understand the world's political and economic events and how they will affect us. Mr. Grillet has written a book made up of multiple choice questions that are deceptively simple. Here is a sample.

- QUIZ 1 / Agriculture / Food
1. The most abundant food in the world is 1. Plankton, b. Krill, c. Maize, d. Rice.
 2. The cereal grain that is the basic food for more than half of the world's population is a. Rice, b. Wheat, c. Oats, d. Barley.
 3. The number one fruit harvest in the United States is 1. Orange, b. Grape, c. Pineapple, d. Peach.
 4. The world's leading producer of corn is a. The United States, b. Brazil, c. Peru, d. Spain.
 5. In the United States, the farm animal whose distribution is most closely related to the growing of corn is the a. Horse, b. Swine, c. Cow, d. Chicken.
 6. The _____ was termed "the miracle bean" by the ancient Chinese, and it has been rated the most remarkable of all legumes. a. Soybean, b. Black bean, c. Red bean, d. Brown bean.

- QUIZ 2 / Cities
1. The first cities in the Americas were in a. Eastern Canada, b. Mexico, c. The southwest United States, d. Peru.
 2. The city of _____ has both the largest library in the world and the largest printing establishment in the world. a. Alexandria, Egypt, b. London, England, c. Beijing, the People's Republic of China, d. Washington, D.C.
 3. The Middle Eastern city that is the Holy City of three major religions is a. Istanbul, b. Damascus, c. Nazareth, d. Jerusalem.
 4. _____ is the highest capital city in Europe. a. Prague, Czechoslovakia, b. Geneva, Switzerland, c. Madrid, Spain, d. Copenhagen, Denmark.

- QUIZ 3 / Climate / Weather
1. _____ experienced the highest wind velocity ever recorded in North America. a. Boulder, Colo., b. Mount Washington, N.H., c. Hudson Bay, Canada, d. Edmonton, Alberta (Canada).
 2. Jet streams are long, narrow belts of rapidly moving air that occur at altitudes of 6 to _____ miles. 1. 7, b. 8, c. 9, d. 10.
 3. In winter, the most active seaport in Canada is a. Quebec, b. Vancouver, c. Halifax, d. Prince Edward Island.
 4. In the climate called Mediterranean, it rains most often in a. Spring, b. Summer, c. Autumn, d. Winter.

- QUIZ 4 / The United States
1. The 50th state to join the Union, the Hawaiian Islands, stretches _____ miles across the Pacific Ocean. 1. 415, b. 590, c. 1,000, d. 1,500.
 2. The first state in the area in the U.S. is _____ and the 50th in population is _____. 1. Alaska - Wyoming, b. Alaska - Alaska, c. Alaska - the Hawaiian Islands, d. Texas - New Mexico.

 4. Eleven states of the U.S. are in the "_____ " belt. 1. Rust, b. Corn, c. Frost, d. Borscht.

That just scratched the surface of this book. It just goes to remind us that even the study of geography has changed since we were kids! We will have copies of the answers of the quiz at the desk if you are interested. Just ask us.

By Pat Meierhenry

I cannot believe how much my cooking has deteriorated. I used to pride myself on "meals made from scratch." Now I'm just happy to have something to put on the table.

The Big Farmer is very good about eating left-overs, but I can't get him trained to go to town for lunch. "Takes too much time, and I don't get my nap."

Every town around has a cafe or bar that features noon meals, and they are delicious. I attended a retirement luncheon at the Hotel in Wakefield recently, and was amazed at the choices. I also saw lots of men in work clothes, so I know it is always good.

Jim Teeter treated us to lunch at the Stop Inn in Winside one day last month, and I was interested to see the husbands and wives that were there together. Also, a corn-shelling crew whose farm wife was at her job.

I know Big Ern's in Hoskins also cooks, but I haven't had opportunity to try them.

On the rare occasion I'm here to cook, I try to make big batches, and put the left-overs in glass plates that warm up nicely in the microwave.

I think Mike has been looking for ways to get me to COOK. Lately, Jon Behmer and his boys helped work calves. The vet was here last week to test bulls. (Sarah asked what that meant, and when I explained, she said she was sorry she asked.) Both times, I lucked out, and they did not stay for dinner (the noon meal on the farm.)

Then he had Sarah and David come to chop thistles. Now I was back to three meals a day, which is where he wants me. Sarah does have basic cooking skills, so that helped.

I cooked the first half of the week, and they ate left-overs on the last half. Roast beef, stroganoff, pork chops—all were consumed.

On Tuesday, I filled the cookie jar. It was empty by Thursday. The graham crackers were gone, as was the ice cream. The left-over ginger ale from Kay's graduation party disappeared. Orange juice, lemonade, and iced tea were used to quench terrible thirsts, and we were constantly buying milk.

Today, I'm checking a drawer in the frig that contains cheese, a couple of wieners, left-over roast beef, and some baloney. There is a party pizza in the freezer part, and a little potato salad in a cool-whip container. But I need to make a trip to the grocery store. I'll cook tomorrow, I promise!
