The Wayne City Council passed into law the sidewalk improvement district Monday.

By a unanimous 7-0 vote, the city designated Sidewalk Improvement District 91-1. The district runs along the east and west sides of Pearl Street from First to Seventh; the east and west sides of Lincoln Street from Second to Fourth; the west side of Douglas Street from Second to Third Streets; the east side of Sherman Street from Second to Seventh and the west side of Sherman Street from First to Seventh; the north and south sides of west Third from Pearl to Sherman Street; and the south side of Fourth Street from Pearl to Lincoln.

COUNCILMAN Ralph Barclay was not present for the meeting. According to the new law, improvements shall be construction of sidewalk improvements, including the removal and replacement and the con-struction, reconstruction or repair of four foot and five foot wide sidewalk and the construction of handicap curb ramps. Bids on the district are expected to be taken later this month or early in July. Along with establishing the new law, the council approved two res-olutions. One resolution determined the necessity of the sidewalk im-provement and the other appoints Bruce Gilmore and Associates as city engineers for the district.

Fiscus plans horse ride to promote town's centennial By Mark Crist Managing Editor

It's amazing what crazy things people will do. That could be the thought you might have about Charles Fiscus' horse ride from O'Neill to Allen but his cause is a noteworthy one. Fiscus and five other people will be riding horseback from O'Neill to Allen to promote Allen's Centen-nial July 4-7.

Fiscus, who has ridden a horse "ever since I can remember" de-cided riding a horse along a 100 mile journey, would be a good way to promote the village's centen-nial. He selected the 100 mile ride to represent "one mile for each to represent "one mile for each year. "I decided I'd do it because I wanted to do it and because it's the only time I'll get to do it," he said. "I really didn't know it would get me so much publicity."

Along with talking to The Wayne Herald, Fiscus has been approached by other medias.

JOINING FISCUS on the ride will be his wife Lila and his son Shane.

If you're curious what grows and what doesn't, you may want to give Dr. Chuck Maier a call. Maier, a professor in the math Fiscus will travel along Highway 20. He said he plans to make stops every 10 miles to water the horses and he plans to make five overnight stops. He said tentatively they will stay overnight in Orchard, Brunswick, Plainview, Randolph and Laurel.

HE SAID HE will also be taking enough food for the horses for three meals a day. He said he and the other participants will probably eat in restaurants in towns along the way.

Heavy rains cause flooding

By Mark Crist Managing Editor

Storms Friday delivered a powerful blow to area communities when as much as 5 inches of rain fell in parts of The Wayne Herald coverage area and lightning left some residents without electricity and telephone service.

According to Wayne Weather Observer Pat Gross, Wayne re-ceived 2.74 inches of rain Friday, which caused some street flooding and damage to area grain fields.

ALTHOUGH THE storm had mostly passed through Wayne, a lightning strike at 7:09 p.m. left residents in a portion of the north-west quarter of the northwest quarter of town without power when it struck a transformer near Twelfth and Sherman Streets. Residents were left without electricity for about three hours. According to Garry Poutre, the lightning hit the transformer di-rectly, which is a rare occurrence. He said lightning also left Wayne State College without power for a time.

time. Rain totals for Winside mea-sured 3 inches Friday night and early Saturday morning. A two day total measured 4.62 inches.

ACCORDING TO the National Weather Service in Norfolk, a flood warning was issued Saturday morn-ing in Wakefield when Logan Creek climbed above its banks from water flowing from Logan Creek and Dog Creek in Wayne. Rain totals for Carroll, Hoskins, Allen and Wakefield were not available.

As a result of the flooding, a number of area farms suffered crop damage and parts of the Wayne

Country Club were under water for about two hours Friday. No dam-age was reported by country club officials.

ON THE Bruce Johnson farm north of Great Dane Trailers, flood waters damaged much of their farm and covered a country road for about a quarter mile, making the road impassible. Officials at the screen said flood waters caused scene said flood waters caused some damage to a bridge near South of Concord, residents were left without telephone ser-vice when water in a canal became too high near a bridge and washed out the cable lines. Telephone of-ficials said everyone was back on line by late Monday.

HEAVY RAINS CAUSED FLOODING to fields in Wayne and Dixon County. For instance, this farm had a great deal of standing water in it after Friday's storms. The good news is that help is available.

ASCS officials assess storm damage

WAYNE - The Wayne County Emergency Board met Monday, June 17 to discuss the Friday lune evening storms and damage as-sessed from the storm. According to ASCS officials, each of the board members have to get an overall look at damage. Hail from pea size to golf ball size was reported over a large area, however, most of the dam-age was due to lowland flooding. Rod Patent, Wayne County Ex tension Agent, said that most of the hailed crops have a good chance of recovery but flooded crops may need to be replanted possibly to a forage crop. Patent added that herbicide usage could make it tough to replant some of the ground to soybeans. He suggested that if a producer less than 20 percent damage, may want to leave it alone and has less not replant.

TERRI POST, ASCS director, said producers are considering re-anting, they should contact the SCS office to fill out disaster forms before destroying the crop. If forms are not completed, there is the possibility of loss of some base, benefits or both.

Larry Wetterberg, DC, SCS, said that there had been some struc-tural damage to terraces, drains and waterways. He said he encourages all producers with structural damage from the storm to contact the SCS as some cost-share assistance may be available to help in repairing damage. Application for Emergency Conservation Program benefits cost-sharing is being made by the ASCS office to get relief for producers who would qualify. He also said that no-till farmers seemed to have less soil erosion damage. Mark Moser, supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration office, said that at this time disaster applications are not available from FmHA. "The important thing right now is to report any damage or crop destruction as soon as possible be-fore destroying to replant," Post said.

Winside couple says life in castle 'creepy'

By Dianne jaeger Winside Correspondent

Little girls often dream of growing up, meeting a handsome prince and living happily ever after prince and using one. in a big castle. Former Winside resident Christina Mundil has discovered Christina found her handsome prince — Daryl Mundil — and is now living at Kinnaird Castle in Scotland.

"It's creepyl," smiles Christina.

CHRISTINA and Daryl, who is also a native of Winside, were mar-ried in October 1989 while Daryl was home on leave from the U.S. Navy. Daryl left for Scotland's Royal Air Force Base Edzell in December 1989, however Christina wasn't able to join him until March 1990. Christina was more than a little surprised when her husband said they would be renting a flat in a surprised castle on Southesk Estate, located about 30 minutes from the base. The flat the Mundils reside in is located on the castle's third floor and is the smallest of 10 in the castle. It is designed with two bed-rooms, a kitchen, bath and living room complete with a fireplace.

"There used to be a fireplace in every room, but many of them have been made into storage cupboards. That was the only source of heat at one time, how-ever now they have a boiler system. "Everything in the castle is old and antique, but we do get our milk delivered to our door by the milkman," says Christina.

THE LORD of the castle is 97 years of age and his Lady is in her late 80's.

There also is a castle landlord with whom the Mundils deal with, however everything they need or want must be approved first by the Lord and Lady.

In addition, there are several maids, two cooks, a forester, deer keeper and three grounds keepers. "They raise deer on the estate as well as pheasants for hunting. I think the deer are primarily for eating like we raise cattle." Mundils said the entire estate is surrounded by a stone fence and there are also several houses on the property which are rented out.

"I DON'T know how many rooms are in the castle or how old it is, but many of the villages around are celebrating their seventh and eighth centennials. "The castle is built in a U shape with patieng in the middle. We pay

"It's spooky going up those three flights of stairs and long hallways when we come home in the dark. And when the Lord and Lady hear someone, they often peer out their door at us. I've even had bad dreams since living there," says Christina. "There are no laundry facilities so we have to do our laundry in town and lug the clothes, along with groceries, up the long flights of sta

"The castle is built in a U shape with parking in the middle. We pay 200 pounds (about $350) for our flat, however the value of a pound varies from day to day." Mundlis agree that the novelty of living in a castle has long worn off and they say they are on a waiting list at the base for a house. They are scheduled to remain in Scotland until December 1992. Christina keeps busy working at the base in the theater, bowling alley, gear issue and gym. Both she and Daryl are active in base sports and Christina coordi-nates all base activities such as volleyball, softball, roller skating, etc. etc. Christina says Scotland's weather is relatively nice, with summer temperatures reaching about 65 degrees and winters not nearly as severe as in Nebraska. "It only snowed about three times last year and it was gone in a couple days and it was gone in a couple days. Retired teachers greeting visitors to school museum

Members of the Wayne Area Retired Teachers Association invite he public to visit the Mamie McCorkindale School Museum on Sunthe public day, June 23. The school museum is located on the Wayne State College campus and visitors are welcome between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m. There is no charge.

THE SCHOOL was built in 1880 and served as District 13 in Wayne County, located one and a half miles south of Wakefield, for nearly 80 years.

The school was purchased by the Wayne State Foundation for 1300 and moved to the Wayne State campus. It was formally dedicated on July 2, 1966 with Miss McCorkindale, John G. Neihardt and former Nebraska Governor Val Peterson in attendance. The school is named for Mamie McCorkindale who taught at Wayne State from 1920-49 and for many years served as supervisor of rural school teacher training.

THE WAYNE State Foundation restored the school with donations of furnishings and equipment from alumni and friends of the college and other rural schools in the area.

The period depicted by the restoration of the school is 1910. Re-flecting this period are such features as a 46 star flag, an 1890 globe, 1910 maps and a picture of Teddy Roosevelt. Other features of the school include a cloak room with water pail other reatures of the school include a cloak room with water pail and dipper, coat hooks, book shelves and lunch pail. The main room includes a pump organ, single and double student desks complete with ink wells, a recitation bench, pot-bellied stove, dunce chair and hat, teacher's desk and school bell. Visitors are welcome to thumb through the books and wander through the building at will.

Reports make us wonder if drug, gang threat taken seriously A recent report that crime is on the increase in rural areas is something law enforcement should have seen coming. It's a question whether they took the threat seriously. The threat began during the mid-80s when gang violence began to plague major cities on both coasts. Los Angeles, New York, Washington, D.C. and Miami were the first hit by gang violence. Eventually, it spread to intercontinen-tal cities like Denver, Kansas City, Omaha and St. Louis. Now the same type of violence appears to be knocking on our deputter.

doorstep. Despite all the educational efforts which were made to warn young people about the threat of drugs and gangs, not enough ef-fort has been made to fight the early signs of the problem. Drugs have obviously infiltrated the area and reports coming from rural northwest lowa seem to indicate there are problems with satanic

Despite local law enforcements' insistence that there aren't any problems with satanic activity and drugs, we beg to differ. If we allow law enforcement to bury the problem and not bring it to a head, it will only worsen to the problem and not only it be head, it will only worsen to the point it will be uncontrollable. What we need to see is more cooperative efforts between local law enforcement and the Nebraska State Patrol. The county sher-iff's office has shown numerous times its willingness to cooperate with the other other between the second states when it has with the state patrol but there have been occasions when it has been a problem with the police.

We also should encourage increases in the size of the forces. The Wayne County Sheriff's office could use an extra deputy or two and the Wayne Police Department could use, at least, two more officers.

Also, we need to encourage our state lawmakers to create a statewide fingerprinting, or background check, system. This would allow instant access to criminal records.

Let's stop the threat of violence before it becomes too big to handle. As the old saying goes: "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Nelson veto hampers service levels of state's domestic violence programs

Governor Ben Nelson's veto of the first substantial increase in funding for domestic violence pro-grams since 1982 is tragic. His veto denied an increase of $500,000 denied an increase of $500,000 which would have been divided among the 24 domestic violence programs in our state. The $500,000 was a reduction from the $1.2 million requested just to maintain minimal levels of service. The single greatest chance for The single greatest chance for women to be victims of crime in the State of Nebraska is to be beaten in their own home. Children in homes where domestic violence occurs are physically abused or neglected at a rate of 1,500 percent higher than the navisional average, and children from violent homes have higher risks of alcohol/drug abuse and juvenile delinquency. And this doesn't de-serve our attention?

In the past three years, Haven House has seen an increase of ap-proximately 500 percent in the number of abused women and children seeking shelter and ser-vices. All of the other state pro-grams have seen a similar increase

Our program, along with the other programs in the state, pro-vide state mandated services in an extremely frugal way. These ser-vices are provided on a 24 hour a day basis in our area. For us to be expected to continue these services, without an increase in state funding since 1982, is unrealistic and shows a sad lack of concern for the safety and well being of women and children in our state. It is also sad that we can look

Women's service vital to wars past just like it was during Gulf crisis

Women played a significant role in the conflict in the Persian Gulf, and performed duty that was defi-nitely "in harm's way." In earlier wars, women served in less obvious,

Wayne seniors improve to 9-1 with win

The Wayne girls 18 and under fast pitch softball team improved to 9-1 on the season Tuesday night with a 10-4 home victory over Allen at Hank Overin Field. Jennifer Hammer was on the hill for Wayne and the right handed hurler tossed a 3-hitter while strik-ing out 13 Allen batters en route to the victory. Offensively Wayne jumped out to a 3-0 lead after two inning subt erupted for six third in-ning runs and threatened to end the game in five innings but the wisiting Eagles from Allen scored in the fifth and sixth innings to ex-tend the game in seven tend the game to seven.

Wayne finished with 10 runs on 16 hits while Allen had four runs on three hits. Tara Erxleben singled three times for the winners while Hammer aided her own pitching cause with three hits including two singles and a triple. Shannon Holdorf finished with a pair of singles. "I thought we played well early," Wayne coach Doug Sturm early," Wayne coach Doug Sturm said. "But when we got ahead, we couldn't deliver the knock out punch."

Sturm's 16 and under team had a much closer contest with Allen but the locals came out on top of an 8-7 score as Wendy Beiermann got the pitching victory. Beiermann struck out five Allen batters en route to the win. The locals scored the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning as Tina Lutt drew a bases loaded walk

Wayne Legion downs South Sioux by one run

The Wayne Junior Legion base-ball team has been nothing short of spectacular as of late, winning seven of its last eight games after starting off the season at 1-2.

Monday night at Hank Overin Field in Wayne the locals improved to 8-3 on the year with a narrow 1-0 victory over South Sioux as the game ended in dramatic fashion.

The game went to the bottom of the final inning before a winner was determined. Brian Penne smacked a one out triple to left center field and scored on Jim Hoffman's fielders choice to the second baseman. The South Sioux infield was playing in on Hoffman so they could make the throw at home but the throw from second base to but the throw from second base to home hit the dirt and Penne scored easily for the winning run. Jeff Griesch continued his pitching mastery over opponent's this season as he improved to 5-0 with the win. Griesch has now pitched 31 innings this season and has allowed just four runs and 14 hits. In Monday's game Griesch had his curve ball working to per-fection as he struck out eight South Stoux batters.

South Sioux batters. Wayne finished with five hits and one error while South Sioux had four hits and two errors. Rusty Hamer had a first inning single and singled before Penne's seventh in-ning triple. Wayne left a total of five run-ners on base while South Sioux stranded seven. South Sioux left two runners on in the first inning and left two on in the seventh in-ning. They left bases loaded in the sixth inning. Wayne's only other scoring threat of the game came in the fifth inning before John Murphy was thrown out at home plate. The Wayne defense has been very stingy during the last eight games as they have given up a total of 10 runs during that stint and the only loss came with a 1-0 set back to Pierre, S.D. For example, homeowners who want to do some landscaping can find out what will survive the region's climate seeing what survives and what doesn't at the arbore-tum. People can also learn what grows best in shaded areas and what grows well in sunny locations. THE WAYNE State arboretum has two tours available to individu-als or groups. One tour takes you through the campus' infrastructure and the other is located north of the tennis courts. Each tour can take from a half hour to several hours, depending on interest.

The tour throughout the cam-pus features primarily trees from the Colorado blue spruce to the Siberian pea-tree. Plants can be as exotic as the Japanese barberry to the Persian lilac. The campus tour is referred to as the Willow Bowl trail trail.

Larson has been working at the local post office on a temporary basis since former clerk, Janelle McTaggart, accepted a postmaster position in Hartington.

Producers have opportunity to vote

WAYNE - Mohair producers in the county will vote for or against the continuation of a Market Promotion Agreement between the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Mohair Council of America.

Terri Post, director of the Wayne County Agricultural Stabi-lization and Conservation Service, says the referendum will be conducted from June 17 to June 28.

The agreement authorizes the tributed to mohair producers upon Agriculture Department to with-hold up to 4 1/2 cents per pound on 1991-1995 Mohair Marketings for advertising sales and promotion programs. The funds would also be used to conduct information pro-grams for producers on production management and marketing im-provement official notification. Ballots may be returned by mail or in person to the county ASCS office on or be-fore june 28. For the first time, Wool and Mohair programs fall under pay-ment limitation rules, limiting 1991 payments to $200,000 per and requiring that each participle actively engaged in farming.
