Licensing not a requirement, but it can be helpful

a three-part series focusing on home day care providers.

By Mark Crist Managing Editor

There are a number of reasons why home day care providers should license their facilities. While should license their facilities. While many do, there are others that choose not to.

"There is some misinformation on what it takes to become licensed," says Jeann Granstra, a licensing specialist with the Nebraska Department of Social Services office in Norfolk. "Some people are hesitant to deal with now. vices office in Norfolk. "Some people are hesitant to deal with government involvement. It's really not that big a deal."

Rules of administering a licensed day care in the providers' home are clearly outlined in the Nebraska Rules for Family Day Care book, which is published by the Nebraska Department of Social Services. In all reality, however, the rules are fairly simple.

GRANSTRA, WHO conducts inspections of much of northeast Nebraska, says everything she checks is listed in the rule book. She said for the most part the license requests her office receives cense requests her office receives are ultimately approved by the Nebraska Department of Social Services office in Lincoln.

"Day care homes become registered through a check list we provide," Granstra says. "It (licensing) is primarily based on their honesty with us."

Sanitation, and FIPE Safety.

Granstra says if providers follow the rules as outlined in the book, their periodic inspections wind up spotless. She says basically, if providers follow the rules, parents can feel more comfortable about placing their children in those homes. homes.

Copies of the rule book are available upon request at the Social Services office, located in the basement of the Wayne County

WHILE THE rules are specific, they usually are not hard to follow, Granstra says. For instance, care-givers must be at least 19 years of to assume responsibility for provid-ing adequate and appropriate su-pervision at all times children are in attendance. Evidence of neglect or willful lack of supervision is basis for denial of an application or suspen-sion or revocation of the license. Caregivers are also required by law to not engage in any other employment which interferes with the care of children.

DAY CARE homes are limited under the law to the number of children they may hold. Laws are outlined according to age of the children they provide the service. For instance, the caregiver shall provide care to no more than four children at any one time if care is provided for infants only. This inprovided for infants only. This includes the caregiver's own children age seven or younger.

caregivers are also instructed to provide care for no more than 10 children at any one time if care is provided only for school age children. With mixed ages, the provider can take in no more than eight children of mixed ages (infant, preschool and school age). There are also other tiles providers. There are also other rules providers must adhere to.

TO MAKE SURE providers are following the rules, the Depart-ment of Social Services sends out a monthly list of homes which need to be checked. Granstra says each month, the computer kicks out a random selection of homes for in-

She says this system helps monitor the care children receive.

"We want to insure providers are in compliance with the regula-tions," she says. "It provides the provider the opportunity to ask questions. Sometimes when I visit, I find out they have misinterpreted the regulations. We do it more as a help to the provider, rather than to point out what they're doing

Electric fire damages property

A fire at 108 Lincoln St. in Wayne caused minimal damage to the property Wednesday night, according to Fire Chief Dutch Sitz-man of the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department.

The Wayne Volunteer Fire Department responded to the call at approximately 8 p.m. Wednesday.

THE MINOR blaze, which resulted mostly in smoke damage to the property, was caused by a tree falling on the house. The residence is owned by Dave and Karla Hix. Sitzman said the tree fell on the home's service entrance.

home's service entrance. Sitzman said the tree fell either due to high winds Wednesday from storms that passed through the area or by lightning. He said there was very little fire damage to the property but there was some extensive electrical damage to appliances and wings. An estimate for the damage was not available Friday.

It also includes an introduction to qualitative analysis. Chemistry I is a pre-requisite to Chemistry II and the instructor is Kim Timperly.

Organic Chemistry I will be of-fered Monday through Wednesday, 9-9:50 a.m. with a laboratory session on Thursdays from 9-10:40 a.m. The four credit hour class will give students a working knowledge of organic chemistry nomencla-ture, the properties of various organic chemicals and the reactions and reaction mechanisms that describe the nature of organic chemistry. Chemistry I and II are prerequisites to Organic Chemistry I and Timperly is also the instructor.

Chemistry majors, health career students and pre-professional students are among the students who might be interested in the new course of ferrings, according to course offerings, according to Brenneman. The expanded offerings are a result of the hiring of an additional instructor in the de-

Eric Piatkowski made a big splash in his freshman season with the Huskers after redshirting for a season. The Rapid City, S.D. native earned South Dakota's 1989 Mr. Basketball honor after leading Stevens High School to an 18-4 record and the state Class AA title. He averaged 25.6 points, 10.3 rebounds and 3.3 assists as a senior and set a state Class AA single game scoring record with 51 points against Rapid City Douglas.

He helped his team to three straight state tournament appear ances and landed a spot on the all tournament team each year. In 1989 he tallied 79 points in three games at state which is a Class AA cent of his shots from the field and 88 percent from the free throw line as a senior and earned South Dakota player-of-the-year acco-lades from USA Today, Gatorade and the South Dakota Coaches Association.

Piatkowski was one of just three players from the Big 8 Conference selected to compete at the 1992 U.S. Olympic Festival in Los Angeles. He was named to the Big Eight's all-freshman team and will be NU's second-leading returning scorer at 10.9 points per game. Piatkowski set a new Nebraska record for three-pointers in one game this past season with six against Missouri on Jan. 30. He also set a record for the most games played by a freshman at 34 breaking Dave Hoppen's record of 32 in 1983. Piatkowski also holds the Husker record for three point 32 in 1903. Platkowski also noiss the Husker record for three point goals for a freshman at 44 and he holds the record for most attempts from three point range by a freshman at 127.

Piatkowski also holds the record for free throw percentage by a freshman at 83.7.
