Mash says college going strong, must remain strong for future

WAYNE - The president of Wayne State College told faculty members Monday that the State College System is strong today and it must remain strong in the future.

Dr. Donald J. Mash said it is in Nebraska's best interest to strengthen rural regions through state colleges in the future.

"I'm confident that our system will remain vital and important and I believe recognition of the quality of our work and the critical nature of our presence in rural Nebraska will continue growing," Mash said during the open faculty meeting.

"We're the most visible extension of state government in rural Nebraska."

Mash said the new three-college system will continue to focus its role and mission on strong teaching and on public service to assist with the community and economic development needs in rural Nebraska.

HE ALSO believes the state colleges have and will be able to make strong cases for support with the new Coordinating Commission.

"I believe Wayne State stands to benefit from a less politicized method of resource allocation," Mash said. "A strong and objective coordinating commission should provide the forum to make that happen. Our case is strong and we have the data and plans in place to present our case effectively."

The president told faculty members they should be prepared for the largest enrollment in the history of Wayne State. Classes at the state college began Wednesday.

Overall enrollment will approach 4,000 this fall, which is higher than last fall's previous record of 3,627 students. Since the fall of 1988, overall enrollment has increased nearly 40 percent (2,875 to 4,000).

A RECORD-SIZED freshman class of approximately 680 new students is expected. This compares to 479 freshmen in the fall of 1988. Last year, 624 freshmen were enrolled.

Dormitory occupancy is also expected to be near capacity this fall for the first time in nearly two decades. Approximately 1,500 students will be residing on campus this fall compared to approximately 1,000 in 1988.

Mash also urged faculty members to focus on Wayne State's traditional strengths, which include outstanding classroom teaching, interaction between faculty and students outside of classrooms and strong general education course requirements.

He cited recent research from an article in the Chronicle for Higher Education which indicated that non-elite colleges, such as Wayne State, measure up to more prestigious institutions. He pointed out that research indicates that college officials should look more closely at quality of teaching, interaction between faculty and students outside of the classroom and the type of courses students take.

Kerrey encourages debate of Health USA proposal during town hall visit in Wayne

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Sen. Bob Kerrey, D-Neb., is encouraging the public to debate the details of his Health Care USA proposal, the U.S. senator said in a telephone interview with The Wayne Herald Wednesday morning.

Kerrey, who stopped in Wayne Wednesday afternoon, said he wants as much public participation in this issue as can be achieved. He said the town hall meetings are allowing Nebraskans to have a say in what he calls a long-term proposal for health care.

He said he wants to "reinforce that this (the proposal) will enable us to control cost. Unless we change the rules, we will not be able to control cost and we will spend a great deal more money under the current system than we will under a changed system that I'm proposing. This won't cost us more money, it will cost us less."

Bob Kerrey

THE SENATOR said paying for the health care package will be determined by a number of ways.

The first way payments will be determined will be through people's income.

For example, people who earn less than $40,000 will be paying less for health care than will be individuals who earn more than $40,000. Kerrey said since he earns over $100,000 he will pay more for health care than people who earn less than $100,000. The $40,000 is the average figure for middle income people, according to national statistics, Kerrey said.

Other determining factors will be individual's health history and lifestyles. Kerrey said this system will encourage people to maintain good health patterns. Age may also play a determining factor.

"In crafting this legislation, I'm putting the appeal out to give me specific suggestions for improving it," he said.

City affirms vote from 1984

By Mark Crist

Deja Vu. The Wayne City Council affirmed Tuesday night its position on an informal policy that the city council of 1984 passed, endorsing support for construction of restaurants in B-2 zoned areas.

The problem is, the 1984 council apparently didn't follow up on its informal policy, and thus B-2 zoning was never changed to allow for construction of restaurants and that is causing a dilemma for a Wayne businessman who already owns one restaurant and has been denied an application for another similar-type business.

Now, Wayne businessman Jack Middendorf faces a dilemma. The quirk of the whole matter is that his request for a building permit is for a Little King Deli and delis are permitted under B-2 laws. However, the zoning administrator doesn't see that a Little King is a deli, but rather, a restaurant under what Middendorf's attorney Duane Schroeder calls a conservative interpretation of the law.

MIDDENDORF HAS applied for and been denied a building permit to locate a Little King south of Dairy Queen. Schroeder said in response to the denial, Middendorf has filed for a variance ruling and he has filed an appeal to the board of adjustments.

"Any code can be interpreted strictly or liberally," Schroeder said. "Persons with whom I have talked with are starting to say that Wayne is getting a reputation for being too strict in its interpretations. We believe the council needs to establish a policy with respect" to interpretations.

Ensz gets nod for judgeship

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Nebraska Gov. Ben Nelson has selected Wayne County Attorney Bob Ensz as the person to take the bench appointment for the ninth judicial district. The announcement was made Tuesday.

Ensz, 45, fills the vacancy created by the retirement of Judge Merritt C. Warren of Creighton.

"I am extremely pleased that Bob Ensz was available for this appointment," Nelson said. "He has certainly performed extraordinary legal services to the area and I believe his record as district judge will be strong."

Bob Ensz

ENSZ, A registered Republican, beat out three other candidates for the position. Other candidates included Charles W. Balsinger and Richard D. Stafford, both of Norfolk, and Stephen P. Finn of Neligh. Candidates were selected by a regional board, who then sent the names to Nelson. The governor said his choices were all well qualified, so it was a hard decision.

"These are four highly qualified and talented men of law," Nelson said, "any one of whom would make an outstanding district judge. Bob Ensz is the right person for the job at this time, however."

Ensz, the Wayne County Attorney since 1983, has been a partner with the Wayne law firm of Olds, Ensz and Pieper. He came to Wayne to work with the firm in 1977.

BY BEING selected, Ensz will serve the seven counties of the ninth judicial district. Those counties include: Knox, Antelope, Pierce, Wayne, Madison, Stanton and Cuming.

Upon hearing of the news, Ensz was given a warm hug by his wife Deb and a congratulatory pat on the back by his daughter Susie. The Enszs have three children: Susie, 16; David, 12; and Jeff, 9.

Following his undergraduate work at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln in 1968 and two years in the U.S. Army, Ensz returned to Lincoln and received his law degree from the University of Nebraska College of Law in 1973. Prior to coming to Wayne, he was a counsel for the Nebraska Department of Agriculture.

SERVING WAYNE COUNTY PUBLIC POWER subscribers for 40 years are Bernice and LaVerla Marotz. LaVerla began her career Aug. 1, 1951. Bernice started Sept. 4, 1951.

Public power district finds loyalty in two employees

Forty years ago the Wayne County Public Power District was looking for two good office employees. So in an effort to fill the vacancies, they called the now defunct Norfolk Business College.

Apparently, that was the right move. LaVerla and Bernice Marotz are celebrating their 40th anniversary of employment one month apart.

LaVerla was the first to start working at WCPPD. She started working there Aug. 1, 1951. A month later, Sept. 4, 1951, WCPPD hired her older sister, Bernice.

"You work one day at a time and time just clicks away," Bernice says. "It doesn't feel like 40 years."

SINCE WORKING for WCPPD, the two have seen many changes. They have had the opportunity to work for three managers and five office managers. Since they were hired, their duties have remained pretty much the same.

LaVerla works in the consumer accounting department, while Bernice works as the secretary-receptionist.

For LaVerla, the responsibilities consist of helping process the incoming mail the early part of the month, posting monthly remittances to the proper accounts and completing the reconciliation after the posting for each month is completed. Additional duties are keeping accurate accounts of transformer and meter changes and she also helps consumers whenever she can by receiving requests for help with wiring problems and complaints which consumers may have and delivering them to the right department for attention.

BERNICE, ON the other hand, acts as the cashier of the district, which consists of reconciling the daily receipts and preparing bank deposits. Many times each month, she is called on to do typing and record filing in addition to her regular duties.

"It's enjoyable," LaVerla says, "otherwise I wouldn't have stayed that long. We've had good employees to work with and we've had wonderful managers. I enjoy my work."

During the 40 years they've worked with WCPPD, the managers have been Robert Haase, Calvin Comstock and Sam Schroeder. The five office managers the two sisters have seen

The oldest attending was 88-year-old Otto Stueve of Wisner, and the youngest was Joel Hermesen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rob Hermesen of Omaha. Mr. and Mrs. Curt Wegner, Casey and Carly of Kearney traveled the furthest distance.

Four deaths, three marriages and one birth were reported.

The 1992 reunion will be in August in the Arland Aurich home at Wayne.

Carroll home damaged by fire

FIRE EARLY TUESDAY EVENING caused extensive damage to the home of Carroll residents Rex and Ruth Chapman. Firemen from Carroll and Winside were called to the home a little after 6 p.m. when an alarm was sounded by a neighbor of the Chapmans. Chapmans, who were not at home at the time, said the blaze caused major damage to the home's kitchen. There also was extensive smoke and water damage throughout. As of Wednesday morning, cause of the fire was unknown and there was no estimate of damage available.

Items receive discussion

Council covers stop signs, recycling

Two items on Wayne City Council's agenda received a great deal of attention Tuesday night as the council discussed a request for proposed stop signs at the intersection of Fourth and Douglas and heard the recycling committee report from Councilwoman Patty Wieland.

Wieland informed the council that there isn't a great deal the city can do with establishing a program because recycling is such a hot and cold issue. Wieland said the six member board decided it's not feasible to make a city recycling program.

Instead, the recycling committee suggested a number of alternatives. One is for the city to apply for a $1,500 grant used to develop a recycling education program. She also recommended that the city apply for Keep Nebraska Beautiful City status.

ONCE WAYNE attains the KNB status, it would help draw additional grant money, which could go toward hiring a coordinator to handle all the city's recycling efforts. The grants would pay for the coordinator.

"Eventually, recycling will be state regulated and regional collection centers will be established," she said. "... There's not a lot that can be done because recycling is such a hot-cold issue."

IN FOCUSING their attention on the stop sign issue, the board agreed to place crosswalks at the intersection of Fourth and Douglas. The city will also take action to improve intersection visibility.

In addressing a stop sign issue, the city will meet with school officials to study the issue's feasibility.

The council's decision to place a crosswalk at the intersection came after extensive discussion on the matter, involving five of the council's eight members.

IN OTHER matters, the city council:

- Approved a lease agreement with Hazel Mau, which is effective Sept. 1. After 1992, the contract is expected to be automatically renewable.

- Approved a request for a special designated liquor permit for the Black Knight to cater a wedding at the Armory Sept. 14.

- Authorized the submittal of an Application for Litter Reduction and Recycling Program Grant Funds.

- Reviewed briefly sewer improvements along West First Street. Further action on the matter was delayed until the September meeting.

Vote

Schroeder said he does not blame the zoning administrator for the problem. The zoning administrator is City Administrator Joe Saltrios.

ACCORDING to several members of the council, the problem with the current B-2 restrictions is that it is antiquated to today's needs.

Wayne Mayor Bob Carhart said he is uncertain why the 1984 council did not pursue a change to the B-2 zoning ordinances but since that is not done, and the city is in process of having its comprehensive plan and zoning laws updated, he doesn't believe it would be prudent at this time to make an abrupt change. Other council members said they believe this is a matter which will be discussed when the new zoning laws are drawn up in the next 1 1/2 years.

"We're asking for direction from the council to allow for liberal interpretations of the zoning laws when possible," Schroeder said. "If we're too inflexible, our reputation of being hard to deal with will continue."

Despite lengthy discussion over the matter, the council voted 7-1 to affirm the stance taken by the city council in 1984. Councilman Ralph Barclay submitted the only "no" vote.

funds will come directly out of paychecks, similar to the way income taxes are already taken out. This way, the program isn't expected to make any further dents in the continuously skyrocketing federal deficit.

Kerrey said there are a number of factors included with the legislation which would prevent price gouging by medical institutions, which would offer a security buffer to keep health insurance costs from skyrocketing in the event the measure passes. The buffer against price gouging would be controlled by the states.

Additionally, the package would make sure that everyone has health insurance. Kerrey said currently there are approximately 100,000 Nebraskans who don't have health insurance and that tends to create problems for medical institutions once payment is sought.

"People are being forced onto welfare because of the absence of health insurance," he said. "Under Health USA, we will all have health care and people won't have to go to welfare to find it. Under Health USA all will be required to make a contribution."

"If you look at this thing you wonder if you gain individually or not in the short-term. In the long-term, I think all of us will gain."

Loyalty

have been Howard Hall, Leland Adams, Shirley Maben, Charles Denesia and Merle Rise.

Schroeder, who is the current WCPDP manager, said the two 40 year employees have provided stability to the district.

"They've shown a dedication to their job and they've shown a concern for the consumer and their fellow employees which is hard to match," he said. Being able to put up with all the challenges they've faced over the last 40 years shows they're very special people. They've been diligent in doing their job."

Classrooms are no place for lawmakers' abortion law

The Nebraska State Legislature erred when it required that schools distribute information about the parental notification law.

Parental notification about abortions does not belong in the schools. It is neither an issue which schools should have to deal with, nor is it an issue which has a place in the classroom.

If pregnant female students or their male counterparts want to look at the abortion option, they should independently seek counsel. Abortion is a touchy matter which should be based on an informative decision but the public schools are not the place which should be required to provide information. The lawmakers' decision to unload this social dilemma does not belong in our public schools. It proves that our state lawmakers, like other politicians, aren't mature enough to deal with this problem.

Area administrators who plan to keep this situation low-key are right in doing so. As this viewpoint points out, school administrators shouldn't have to deal with this situation in the first place.

Let's hope the state lawmakers don't unload their problems onto the schools in the future. At the same time, let's hope when the state lawmakers reconvene in January that they repeal this stupid law and handle the matter with the maturity voters expect.

Newly approved commission charged with shaping future of higher education in Nebraska

Last year voters approved creation of a new Coordinating Commission for Post-Secondary Education; a body with enhanced authority over that of previous coordinating groups and charged with shaping the future direction of higher education in Nebraska.

The new Coordinating Commission for Post-Secondary Education will work with the governing bodies of Nebraska's community colleges, state colleges and University System to mold that direction.

I want to introduce the eleven Nebraskans I have asked to serve on the new Commission. Six are selected according to the Supreme Court district in which they live. Five serve at-large.

Jane Renner Hood of Lincoln will represent District 1. Jane is a graduate of Doane College and holds an MA and PhD in History from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Jane is executive director of the Nebraska Humanities Council and is a former instructor at Creighton University.

Dick C.E. Davis of Omaha represents District 2. He holds three degrees in Education; a BA from UNL, an MA from the University of Nebraska at Omaha, and a PhD from UNL. Dick is associated with HNG/Internorth and is a former K-12 school administrator.

From District 3 I have selected Rudi Mitchell of Macy. Rudi is a graduate of UNO and holds a Masters of Social Work from UNL, as well as a PhD in Educational Psychology from the University of South Dakota.

District 4 will be represented by Randolph M. Ferlic, MD, of Omaha. Randy is a graduate of Creighton University and the Creighton School of Medicine and has done graduate work at the University of Minnesota School of Medicine. He is a Cardiac Surgeon.

Christine Peterson of Grand Island will represent District 5. She holds a BS in Education from UNL and has completed coursework at Central Community College. Christine is associated with the Leadership Tomorrow program in Hall County.

Janice Carlson of Lodgepole will represent District 6. Janice is a homemaker and is involved in family farming and ranching. She is a former member of the Nebraska ETV Commission and holds a BA in Social Science from Colorado State University.

Publisher Eric R. Seacrest of North Platte will chair the Commission. Eric attended Amherst College. He is a former chair of the existing post-secondary coordinating commission and is a member of the Mid-Plains Community College Foundation. Eric also served on the LB 247 study committee, the group which drafted plans for the new, more powerful Coordinating Commission.

Norman Otto of Lincoln is a retired aide to U.S. Senator Jim Exon and was on his staff as governor. Norm is also a former state senator, a former member of a local board of education and is a member of the Kearney State College Foundation. He has done graduate study at UNL and holds a BS in Education from Kearney State College; now the University of Nebraska at Kearney.

Omahan John Emery is associated with Ameritas Life, is a former instructor at Hastings College and is a member of the Metropolitan Community College Foundation. John has a BS in Education from UNO, did graduate work at Kearney State College, and received his law degree from Blackstone College of Law.

Sheila Griffin of Lincoln is a consultant and a director with the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City. She holds a BA degree from Manhattanville College in New York and has performed master's coursework at UNL. Sheila is also a former UNL administrator, a former trustee at Doane College and a former member of the previous Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Post-Secondary Education.

Scottsbluff attorney John Wright is a graduate of the UNL College of Law and has a BS degree from UNL. He has served on the Scottsbluff School Board.

Education is one of the most important aspects of our society, and one of my three priorities as Governor. The opportunities we give our young people through education, whether grade school, high school or college, will affect their lives and ultimately the quality of life in Nebraska for decades to come.

In times where government resources are stretched almost to their limits and the costs of education are rising, it is critical that we make the most of our educational resources by working together to target and coordinate the educational programs we offer Nebraskans. I look forward to the work of these fine Nebraskans for the future of education.

It was good to see the very young children on stage. They were having a fun time.

Thank you, again for the many good laughs and keep up the good work.

Elusive Betty MayIHelpYou tops list of favorite greetings

I always get a kick out of calling people on the telephone. Of the numerous people I speak with, I've found there's a multitude of ways they answer the phone. I've also found a total hatred for answering machines.

When people answer the phone with any one of a number of responses, I will usually kid them in the way they answer the phone. I'm also finding that there are quite a few people who are related. We have the MayIHelpYou? family and the HowMayIHelpYou's?. While these two family names are different, they are related.

"City of Wayne, this is Betty MayIHelpYou?"

My usual response is "Hello, Betty MayIHelpYou?"

Because this is the way I respond, she always knows who it is calling.

"Hi, Mark," she often says. "Looking for Joe?"

More often than not, I am.

The only thing I can't quite figure out is that when I go to city hall, Betty MayIHelpYou? is not on the nametag of the city administrator's secretary. I think there's a secret person somewhere in city hall that no one sees because I have yet to meet Betty MayIHelpYou?. I have met Betty McGuire but not Betty MayIHelpYou?.

I hope Betty MayIHelpYou? never changes her answering procedures. I enjoy ribbing her about it too much.

THERE'S ONE thing that I get a big kick out of. When I call some-

Mark'n' the Spot

by Mark Crist

one and their secretary answers, it's always tempting to give them a cute response.

For instance, when any given secretary answers and she doesn't know who it is calling, she'll ask, "May I tell (insert name here) who's calling?"

So often I want to say "sure," and just leave it at that. Sometimes I want to say "no."

(I should note here that I almost always tell the person on the other end who it is who's calling but believe me, it's tempting to take an alternate route.)

THEN THERE'S the thing people are starting to use called an answering machine. These are wonderful devices which have no redeeming value.

I have found, however, that the responses people use on these machines are as varied as the individuals who use them.

The most common thing said on the recorder from the answering party is, "We're not here but you

Editorial Brief

Senator Conway should abide by Constitution

The Nebraska Supreme Court's decision that State Senator Jerry Conway of Wayne cannot serve in the Legislature while also serving as an assistant state college professor was not unexpected.

An attorney general's opinion back in 1984 reached the same conclusion but Sen. Conway chose to ignore it.

The late Senator Richard Marvel of Hastings was a member of the faculty at the University of Omaha when it became a part of the University of Nebraska system in the 1960s. Because of an attorney general's opinion, he resigned that position and became a professor at Nebraska Wesleyan, a private college.

U.S. Representative Doug Bereuter, when a member of the Legislature, taught part-time at Kansas State University because it would have been unconstitutional for him to accept employment in the Nebraska University system.

A member of the legislature since 1985, Conway teaches business at Wayne State College. He began teaching there in 1975 and was tenured in 1979 as an assistant professor.

Despite the dominate 5-2 decision, Conway has asked the State Supreme Court for a rehearing on his right to hold the teaching position while serving in the Legislature. Former Attorney General Robert Spire had challenged Conway's right to hold both positions in January, 1990.

Conway has snubbed popular opinions that he was not in line with the state constitution almost from the time he was elected. His rehearing request is nothing more than a delaying process. The Supreme Court's separation-of-powers ruling was not unexpected judging from past history.

Senator Conway, when sworn in as the representative of the 17th Legislative District of Nebraska, took an oath to uphold the constitution of the State of Nebraska.

Conway has been at odds with the state constitution from the time he set foot in the Legislative chambers.

He should stop further maneuvering and abide by the Supreme court ruling even though the heavy cloud which hangs over his service in the legislature because of his dual role, may never be removed.

If a state senator need not abide by the constitution, who should?

Wayne softball season comes to an end

City men's softball titles go to 4th Jug, Lindner's

The Wayne City Men's Softball Association held their annual City Tournament Sunday at the Softball Complex in Wayne with two divisions based on the regular season records.

4th Jug/Nutrena Feeds and Lindner Construction were each crowned champions in the "A" and "B" Divisions respectively.

4th Jug/Nutrena Feeds drew a first round bye in the "A" Division since Wayne Sporting Goods did not field a team. The Jug's first game was against C.C. Express from Winside who got past the Saloon by an 11-8 margin in the first round.

4th Jug defeated the C.C. Express by a 16-8 margin which vaulted them into the finals of the winners bracket in the double elimination format. 4th Jug defeated Sherman's Construction by 3-2 margin in eight innings in a contest marred by extreme windy and dusty conditions.

Sherman's reached the finals of the winners bracket by downing Quality Food Center in the first round by a 9-3 margin. They defeated Diers/Lutt Trucking in the semifinals by a whopping 22-2 score. Diers had reached the semis with a 9-1 win over Dinkmill.

4th Jug's win over Sherman's in the finals of the winners bracket assured them of playing for first place but the opponent would be determined through the losers bracket.

Quality Food Center defeated Dinkmill in the first losers bracket game but was then defeated by C.C. Express by a 10-7 score. The Saloon meanwhile defeated Diers/Lutt Trucking by a 20-9 score to set up a showdown with C.C. Express in which the Express won by a 15-9 score.

Sherman's defeated C.C. Express 5-1 to move into the finals against the 4th Jug/Nutrena Feeds leaving C.C. Express with a third place finish in the tournament.

In the first game Sherman's defeated the Jug by a 6-3 margin which forced another game since the Jug had not been defeated yet. In the championship game Sherman's led 3-0 after four innings of play but the Jug came from behind to claim an 8-3 victory and the championship.

Lindner's crowned champs

The "B" Division champion took a different road to the winners circle than what 4th Jug/Nutrena Feeds did. Lindner's Construction started the tournament with a convincing 25-4 win over Great Dane to move into the semifinals of the winners bracket against the First Bankcard Center where they were defeated by a 5-4 margin which sent them to the loser's bracket of the double elimination tournament. The Bankcard Center had defeated Danmill by a 9-2 score in the first round.

The Black Knight defeated the Varsity by a 13-12 score in another first round game sending them to the winners bracket of the semifinals where they defeated Farm Bureau 10-8. The Black Knight then faced the Card Center in the finals of the winners bracket in which Black Knight won by a 10-8 score which assured them of playing for first place with no losses.

In the loser's bracket of the tournament the Varsity won over Logan Valley due to a forfeit. Lindner's then defeated the Varsity by a 14-3 margin. Great Dane meanwhile, defeated Danmill 18-8 which advanced them to a game with Farm Bureau Insurance where they were defeated by a 12-8 margin.

That win by Farm Bureau forced a game with Lindner's in which the construction firm won 13-3. Lind-ner's then faced the Card Center in a rematch from the winners bracket semis where Lindner's was defeated narrowly.

Lindner's got their revenge on the Card Center in a big way with a convincing 23-10 victory which advanced them into the finals against the Black Knight who had yet to lose.

In the first championship game Lindner's won by a 14-4 margin which forced the second championship game. The final game was much closer but Lindner's edged the Black Knight for the crown with a 6-4 victory.

The Annual Wayne High Sports Kick Off was held in the high school lecture hall last Thursday. Wayne athletic director Ron Carnes gave a short welcome address before Wayne Booster Club representative Gene Casey took the floor.

Casey introduced the new board members for this year's Booster Club. The summer weight lifting awards were then given with John Murtaugh introducing the athletes who received recognition for attending at least 70 percent of the time during the summer months.

Athletes attending at least 70 percent of the time were given certificates while athletes who attended at least 90 percent of the time were awarded certificates and T-shirts.

The 70 percent club included Tami Schluns, Erin Pick, Amy Post, Wendy Beiermann, Carrie Junck, Andy Rise, Chris Sweetland, Troy Jeffrey, Travis Koester, Todd Fredrickson, Jason Wehrer, Clint Dyer, Terry Rutenbeck, Brian Carner and Trevor Hall.

Following the weight lifting awards the guest speakers took center stage. Keith Zimmer, now the athletic/career counselor for the University of Nebraska and a former Wayne graduate, addressed the group of student athletes and parents about the importance of life after sports. Zimmer showed a video tape of several Cornhusker athlete standouts and he spoke of several different programs the University offers as far as career counseling.

Zimmer is also in charge of coordinating the outreach program at Nebraska. Rick Schwieger, Big 8 champion decathlete and first ever Cornhusker all-American decathlete, talked about setting long and short range goals.

Karen Jennings, Husker standout basketball player who led Nebraska's women's basketball team in scoring and was second in rebounding last year, talked about making your own luck and keeping dreams by working to achieve them no matter how long it takes. Jennings, also talked about commitment in athletics as well as academics.

Jennings was voted the Big Eight Conference's Co-Newcomer-of-the-Year last season in her freshman year. The 6-2 Persia, Iowa native had personal season bests of 26 points against Creighton and 17 rebounds against Oklahoma.

Eric Piatkowski from the Nebraska Men's basketball team was the final guest speaker and he spoke of discipline. Piatkowski set several individual records as a freshman on the Huskers cage team last season. He came to Nebraska after a successful high school career in South Dakota where he was named "Mr. Basketball" following his senior season. He will be the Huskers' leading returning scorer this season.

ERIC PIATKOWSKI WAS ONE of three Nebraska Cornhusker athletes who spoke at the Sports Kick Off.

NEBRASKA WOMEN'S BASKETBALL stand out Karen Jennings was also a featured speaker last Thursday.

Football season opens Saturday

WAYNE-WSC coach Dennis Wagner's squad opens the 1991 season Saturday night in St. Joseph, Missouri against Missouri Western State College. The Cats' downed Mo. Western 17-14 last fall at WSC.

The Wildcats return 33 letterwinners from last year's 7-4 squad including linebackers Bob Sterba and Jerry Kleidosty. Those two headline a defense that ranked 9th in NCAA Division II last fall.

Lessmann earns all-star status

WAYNE-Corey Lessmann of Sioux City, Iowa, will represent the Sioux City Saints on the Dodge County League all-star squad for its annual baseball game against the Iowa Western League all-stars at Rosenblatt Stadium in Omaha on Wednesday.

Lessmann, third baseman for the Saints, finished league play with a .415 batting average and tied for the league lead in triples with three. He will be a junior this fall at Briar Cliff College where he plays third base for the Charger baseball team.

Colby Lessmann, who will be a senior this fall at Sioux City North, recently received first team all-conference, first team all-district and honorable mention all-state honors as a junior. Lessmann, a catcher, finished the season batting .357 and led the team with five home runs and 30 rbis. Both Corey and Colby are the grandsons of Merlound and Leona Lessmann of Wayne.

WSC names assistant softball coach

WAYNE-Former all-America pitcher Heather Hansen has been named as an assistant coach for the Wayne State College softball program, according to athletic director Pete Chapman.

Hansen, a 1990 first-team NAIA all-America pitcher for the University of West Florida, will work on her master's degree at WSC while assisting third-year head coach Dan Pollard.

Hansen posted a 30-8 mark in 1990 for UWF, including 15 shutouts and 233 strikeouts in 238 innings pitched. She holds five UWF single season pitching records, including strikeouts in a game (17), and season earned run average (0.68).

Hansen has also competed overseas earning the most valuable player and best pitcher awards at tournaments in Belgium and Holland.

"Bringing someone of Heather's expertise and background to Wayne State's young pitching staff should reap many benefits," Chapman said. "Having someone of her ability to assist on a daily basis will help the softball program attain its goals."

"Heather brings a great work ethic to the Wayne State program," Pollard said. "She will be an excellent role model for our younger student-athletes, allowing them to see what it takes to be an all-America and to be successful at the national level."

The Lincoln, Nebraska native earned an associate of arts degree from Dodge City Community College of Kansas in 1989, and earned a bachelor's degree in psychology from the University of West Florida in 1991.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article is reprinted with permission of the Grand Island Independent.

OMAHA-All it took for Cairo native Chad Anderson to win his first jockey title at Ak-Sar-Ben was a little experience.

Anderson said the title shows how much he has progressed as a rider. He owes much of his success to experience, which enabled him to become a more versatile jockey.

Anderson displayed his versatility during the 1991 Ak-Sar-Ben meet by dominating the jockey standings. He jumped out to an early lead while riding as an apprentice, then proved skeptics wrong by continuing to win without an apprentice's five-pound weight allowance.

Anderson will claim the title Monday during the final day of Ak-Sar-Ben's season. He led runner-up R.D. Williams of Grand Island by 13 wins with only 10 races remaining.

"I tell you I used to dream about winning it," Anderson said. "Now, it's going to finally happen."

Anderson said experience enabled him to quit being a "one-pitch" rider. "One-pitch" riders hurt themselves by not making adjustments that are sometimes necessary to get a horse to respond, he said.

In the past, he used to whip all of his mounts on the right side. Through experience he learned that some horses won't respond unless he switches hands and whips them on the left side. Little changes like that enabled him to become a better rider.

"It's all a matter of experience," Anderson said. "That's all it is." Jockey Dan Beck said it's no fluke that Anderson has a meet-high 96 wins through Sunday.

"Anderson is a very tough rider," Beck said. "He has a lot of patience and he's not a whip-happy jockey. He's just a good, solid rider."

Anderson said his title also was satisfying from a personal standpoint because both his father and grandfather were jockeys. Irving Anderson, Chad's grandfather, rode during the 1940s, while Chad's father, Wayne, has also jockeyed competitively.

His grandfather said he never gave his 18-year-old grandson much advice.

"He doesn't need me to give him advice," the elder Anderson said. "He does pretty well on his own."

Anderson said he never felt any pressure from leading.

"I haven't been yelled at too much yet," he said. "I think the fans know I give 100 percent every time I go out there. As long as they know you're doing that, they usually won't complain."

Anderson said he hopes his jockey title leads to bigger and better things. He plans to skip this year's meet at Agricultural Park in Columbus in favor of riding at Remington Park in Oklahoma City, Okla. He'll see how things go before deciding on 1992.

"It's (the title) another thing I can put on my resume," he said. "And it will help the trainers to have more confidence in me."

Beck said there isn't any reason why trainers shouldn't trust Anderson already.

"I think this kid is a very, very good jockey," Beck said. "I think he'll do a good job wherever he goes."

Anderson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Anderson of Cairo and the grandson of Mrs. Lucille Hitz of Pierce and Mr. and Mrs. Irving Anderson of Hoskins.

August costly for farm fatalities

Eight Nebraskans have died in Nebraska farm accidents this month, making August the state's deadliest month for farm fatalities in more than 20 years, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln specialist said.

"We're calling August the killer month for farm fatalities in Nebraska," said Rollie Schnieder, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources safety specialist. "It's the worst month since July 1969 when nine people died."

As of Monday, 21 people had died in Nebraska farm accidents this year, compared with 20 for all of 1990 and 16 in 1989. Three of this year's fatalities were female; four were under age 16.

The death of a 15-year-old Antelope County boy in an ATV accident Aug. 1 doesn't appear to be farm-related, Schnieder said, but the other seven during the month involved farm work.

"There's no rhyme or reason" for the spate of farm fatalities, Schnieder said, but they emphasize the need for farmers to think about safety.

Providence Medical Center
Admissions: Shannon Graef, Winside; Alvena Gehner, Wayne; Brenda Henderson, Wakefield; Keith Reed, Wayne.
Dismissals: Stella Prescott, Wayne; Shannon Graef, Winside; John Carhart, Laurel; Brenda Henderson and baby boy, Wakefield.

"Learn from the mistakes of others," Schnieder said, "because you can't live long enough to make them all yourself."

September and October tend to be the worst months for farm accidents, Schnieder said. "The worst could be yet to come" this year if safety isn't a priority.

There have been more tractor overturns than usual this year, Schnieder said. Most deaths from tractor overturns or being thrown from a tractor could be avoided if the tractor had a cab, he said.

"Cabs have cut the number of overturn fatalities over the years," Schnieder said. "When I look at 22 year of statistics, we could have saved about 300 lives with tractor cabs."

While farm fatalities are higher this year than in recent years, the number of farm accident deaths generally has declined since about 1974, Schnieder said. An average of 38.6 people annually have died in farm accidents from 1969 through this year.

The deadliest year on Nebraska farms since statistics were kept was 1965 when farm accidents killed 70 people. In 1969, the year with the highest number of farm deaths in a single month, a total of 55 people died.

THE MINNESOTA OPERA PRESENTS the 1991 National Tour of The Magic Flute, Mozart's most brilliant masterpiece. In this scene from the production, Sally Wolf stars as The Queen of the Night.

Opera comes to WSC

WAYNE - The Minnesota Opera will perform Mozart's masterpiece "The Magic Flute" Wednesday, Sept. 18 at Wayne State College as the inaugural event for the College's 1991-92 Black & Gold Series.

Performance time is 8 p.m. in Ramsey Theatre, located in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Building. This performance is part of the Opera's first major national tour which includes over 40 cities in 17 states during its 13-week journey.

"The Magic Flute" was Mozart's final opera and was written 200 years ago. A valiant prince seeks a beautiful princess held captive by the powerful enemies of her mother. The prince is accompanied on his journey by the jovial but not-always-faithful Papageno, a bird catcher by trade.

Aided by magical bells and a flute, the pair encounter not only mysterious creatures and a wicked queen, but another force more powerful than either had ever imagined.

Cat's Closet makes Wayne debut

New clothing store opens

For over a year Terry Henderson has been driving by Presto and without fail she would notice the vacant store next to it. So she decided to do something to change that.

On Tuesday Henderson opened the Cat's Closet, a clothing store which carries men's and women's casual clothing. She said her merchandise will cater to the college population as well as high school and junior high students.

Henderson, who owns the new Wayne business, is the director of the Nebraska Business Development Center at Wayne State College. Because of her position and her contact with students, she says she's well aware of what potential customers are looking for.

"I wanted to be right close to the college," she said. "For the past year, I've wondered what could go in here and I knew it shouldn't be fast food."

Cat's Closet will carry overstock and overrun items of Gap and Banana Republic merchandise. Henderson said the store will run a season behind in some of the merchandise it offers but it will be name brand at a reduced price.

She said carrying name brands at a reduced price was her reason for opening.

"College kids don't have a lot of money but they need clothes and want clothes," she said. "I'm trying to capture some of the students who go to Sioux City and Norfolk to do their shopping."

Cat's Closet will be open Monday through Saturday from noon to 8 p.m. It will employ five people.

WAYNE STATE COLLEGE SENIOR Jennifer Keck of Norfolk steams one of the items on sale at Cat's Closet.

ABE program seeks volunteers

The Adult Basic Education program at Northeast Community College is seeking volunteers and recruiting students for its activities in communities throughout Northeast Nebraska. This is being done in conjunction with International Literacy Day being observed Sept. 8.

375-1492; in the Winside area, contact Elva Farran, 286-4964.

The ABE program, which is free to persons 16 years and older who are not enrolled in school provides preparation for the Nebraska High School Diploma and/or instruction in basic skills in reading, writing, speaking, math, citizenship, job preparatory, and consumer education. Students may begin classes at any time and progress at their own rate.

Volunteers are needed for tutoring students in basic academic skill areas, and they usually prepare them to take the examinations which can lead to a high school diploma. They may also assist students in studying for drivers license exams and filling out job applications.

Volunteers can also teach foreign born students English and help them prepare for citizenship. Other volunteer activities include office and clerical work, and the transportation of students. Northeast's adult education programs are available for upgrading job skills, training for new careers, development of recreational and cultural interests, and earning college credit for persons in the 20-county area. The program is conducted with assistance from local high schools, hospitals, nursing homes, libraries, senior citizen centers, civic organizations, business, industries, and churches, and college credit for persons in the 20-county area.

The Churchwide Assembly is the highest legislative authority in the 5.2 million member church formed in 1988 from the American Lutheran Church, the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches and the Lutheran Church in America.

The assembly will elect a bishop, vice president and secretary for the ELCA. Bishop Herbert W. Chilstrom and Secretary Lowell Almen are eligible for re-election to four-year terms. Vice President Christine Grumm has accepted a job with the Lutheran World Federation in Switzerland.

In addition, more than 190 resolutions, called memorials, from the 65 ELCA synods will be acted upon at the assembly.

They deal with a variety of concerns including the observance of the 500th anniversary in 1992 of the arrival of Christopher Columbus in America, inclusive language, ELCA pension and health benefits, equalized compensation for clergy, human sexuality, immigrants and refugees, the AIDS crisis and the environment.

LENRD passes 1992 budget

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District Board of Directors approved a budget for fiscal year 1992 at the August board meeting Thursday, Aug. 22. A public hearing on the budget preceded the board meeting.

The levy for 1992 will be 2.85 cents per $100 valuation, a decrease from the 1991 levy of 2.95 cents. State law allows NRDs to levy up to 4.5 cents. The new budget requires property taxes of $988,514.

Some of the major items included in the 1992 budget are land treatment cost-share for the prevention of soil erosion and non-point source pollution, the Clean Lakes study for Maskenthine Lake and Willow Creek reservoir, deep soil sampling and analysis, nitrogen demonstration plots, the Logan East Rural Water System, the Scribner Levee project, the wildlife habitat program and several water resource programs.

In 1992, funds will be transferred from a building sinking fund established in 1988. The district will construct a new office building this fiscal year at the Lower Elkhorn NRD Wayside Area north of Norfolk.

Early signs of harvest in sight

GRAIN PRODUCERS WEST OF WAYNE have been busy this past week harvesting silage. In this example, farmers were chopping up and collecting this year's feed for cattle and hogs. Despite making progress, farmers are facing extremely hot temperatures and that has made the task a little more difficult. Despite seeing Indian summer highs in the 90s during the past week, the extended forecast isn't expected to get any better, according to the National Weather Service. Hopefully, temperatures will cool off a little bit, making harvest work a little more comfortable for producers harvesting fields.

While the massive project is causing some problems for student vehicle and foot traffic, the improvement will vastly improve utility systems on the campus. The Farmer's Wife

By Pat Melerhenry

If you ever wondered what "dog days of summer" meant, this must be it. I've seen a drastic change in the corn the past week, our yard is dried up and ugly, and that hot, south wind just keeps blowing. The irrigation wells are running night and day.

A couple of months ago, a young farm wife at work was bemoaning the fact that she never saw her husband. She went alone to graduations, weddings, etc. The kids never saw their father, and so on: an exact copy of the song I used to sing:

I took a patient to her department Saturday evening and asked how things were going. She smiled and said they had actually taken a couple of days to go camping, so she guessed he was making an honest effort to keep her around.

"Sure," I responded sarcastically, "he needs the group insurance from your job." She nodded and added that he also could not buy his own clothes because he didn't know what size he wore!

I've somehow managed to get on every catalog mailing list in the country. They eventually wind up in the round file, but not until I've glanced through them.

One called The Lighter Side came in the mail last week, and there are some great one-liners in it.

Listen, honey—nobody knows how to raise teenagers—you just live through it and one day they're people!

The more people I meet, the more I like my cat.

Work is for people who don't know how to golf.

Young at heart—slightly older in other places.

I used to jog, but the ice kept falling out of my glass.

Three reasons for being a teacher: June, July, August.

Few things are more important than grandchildren fighting over your lap.

I love to give homemade gifts. Which one of the kids would you like?

I love to watch the seasons change. Baseball, Football, Basketball, Hockey.

Life begins at 40. So do wrinkles, arthritis, backaches, and liver spots.

Of all the things I've lost, I miss my mind the most.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK'S SENIOR CITIZEN CORNER

BREAST CANCER: A THREAT TO OLDER WOMEN — There's some good news, and some disappointing news, in the battle against breast cancer in older women. The good news deals with the expanded availability of mammogram examinations under Medicare. Since mammograms detect tumors in breast tissue at least two years before it can be felt by hand, this means lives that might have been lost to cancer may be saved instead.

However, Medicare's role in this expanded program involves only part payment of the costs for women 65 and over who have mammograms every other year at Medicare certified centers. The fact that this restrictive payment policy is in effect can be hazardous for older women who are already the most at-risk group for breast cancer. Part payment for mammograms often means no examinations at all for these older, often poorer women who cannot afford even the partial fees.

"L.A. Law's" Jill Eikenberry, who survived breast cancer because of early detection, notes that the cap set on mammogram fees by Medicare limits the number of older women who can take advantage of this life-saving technology.

"I would ask everyone to write their congressional representatives to get them to remove the cap on these fees," Ms. Eikenberry said. "We should not put restrictions on anything that saves lives, and early detection can do that."

JOBS FOR SENIORS: The job outlook for seniors is worsening. While there may be part-time positions around, most people who have worked full-time, want (and need!) full-time jobs. Also, besides the personal impact on the job seeker, the economy as a whole suffers from the loss of experienced workers who may simply leave the job market.

When I wrote about this recently, the head of a Midwestern local volunteer group suggested I encourage out-of-work seniors to use their skills in community volunteer programs. The idea has merit, at least on its face. But I'm not sure it's enough. Yes, it will keep those skills from becoming rusty and will certainly help fill empty time for the unemployed senior. However, it doesn't solve the problem of providing an income. Many cities have money problems. Still, some budget adjustment should be made to pay something to seniors who volunteer their under-used skills in community work. A paycheck can do a lot for their self-esteem.

Nebraska radio to offer series debut

Beginning Monday, Sept. 2 at 6:30 p.m., Nebraska's first daily statewide public affairs radio series will debut. With the premiere of Nebraska Nightly, the Nebraska Public Radio Network (NPRN) launches its most ambitious project to date.

Hosted and produced by NPRN's public affairs director Janet Domowitz, with additional reporting by news producers Keith Ludden and Martin Wells, Nebraska Nightly will be devoted to public affairs centering on Nebraska issues, people, places and events. The series will offer stories about state government and other news from Lincoln and Omaha, as well as reports about events in central and western Nebraska.

"From the earliest days of its development, Nebraska Public Radio has wanted to create a statewide public affairs service," said network manager Steve Robinson. "Nebraska Nightly represents a dream come true for many people. The system we're creating allows for reports from news media across the state; input from advanced broadcasting students at Hastings College, Wayne State College, the University of Nebraska and other educational institutions; commentary by a wide range of individuals throughout Nebraska; input from listeners; and much more. We're going to have an unparalleled public service available."

According to Dr. Jo Taylor, interim Vice President for Academic Affairs at Wayne State College, the series "will have taken another step in (the Network's) efforts to represent all of Nebraska, to connect the state and to enhance Nebraskans' understandings of each other."

Nebraska Nightly will be broadcast each Monday through Friday at 6:30 p.m., following the popular National Public Radio (NPR) news series All Things Considered.

Clarification to article

A clarification needs to be made in the county budget article from the Monday, Aug. 26 edition of The Wayne Herald.

The county has to make up for approximately $32,000 it lost due to a lawsuit against Great Dane Trailers in May. The remaining $38,000 is money lost from other similar lawsuits involving personal property tax the Nebraska Supreme Court found unconstitutional, totalling $70,000.

The Wayne Herald incorrectly reported that the county had lost $70,000 from the lawsuit against Great Dane.

PBS airs one-hour TV special dealing with 'Math ... Who Needs It!', Sept. 4

On Sept. 4, at 8 p.m., PBS will air a one-hour television special entitled "Math...Who Needs It!" This program is hosted by renowned educator Jamie Escalante.

The goal of the program is to show parents and students that math is not only necessary for math teachers and scientists, but also for those whose careers are not normally associated with math.

Highlighted in the program are skate board designers, roller coaster engineers, music executives, fashion buyers, astronomers and many other individuals with exciting and colorful occupations.

Woven throughout the program are appearances by a host of entertainers: comedians Bill Cosby, Joe Piscopo, Paul Rodriguez, Jeff Altman, D.L. Hughley, Charles Fleisher, and Paula Poundstone; actresses Rosana DeSoto, Teri Garr, and Marla Gibbs; and the legendary jazz musician Dizzy Gillespie. Their humorous observation about school, homework parents, and, above all, math add a welcome dimension to a subject often considered to serious and abstract.
