Burglary suspect pleads not guilty

A suspect in nine burglaries in Wayne and five in West Point was arraigned Wednesday in the Wayne County District Court.
Edmond Ricardo Arruza, 44, pled not guilty to allegations that he burglarized nine homes in Wayne Aug. 17. Following his plea, District Judge Richard P. Garden set Feb. 10, 1992 as the trial date.
Arruza, who is charged with a Class III felony, is entitled to a jury trial unless he waives that right.
Along with the Wayne and West Point burglaries, Arruza is a suspect in others in South Dakota and Minnesota. He was arrested Aug. 19 in Hooper.

PROSECUTING the case for the state is Verlyn Luebbe of Pierce. Luebbe is handling the prosecution since former Wayne County Attorney Bob Enz was one of the victims of the burglaries in Wayne. Enz was sworn in as a judge for the ninth judicial district Tuesday, Oct. 1.
Defending Arruza is Wayne attorney Duane Schroeder.
Arruza is in the custody of the Wayne County Sheriff's office. He is being held in the Thurston County Jail in Pender.
If convicted, Arruza could face a maximum of one to 20 years in prison or a fine of up to $25,000 or both.

Teachers find students up on changes in USSR

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Wayne High School teachers Ron Carnes and John Murtaugh are finding that their students are well informed about the changes taking shape in the Soviet Union.
Carnes, who teaches the year-long World Studies class to seniors, said his students have amazed him on occasion with their perception of the changes in the Soviet Union and how those changes could affect the United States.
"I asked them for the solution to what they think should be done with our food surplus," Carnes said. "Some said we should give them our surplus. Others said 'now wait a minute, we've got our own problems. We should take care of our own people first. Through that, the students agreed that a little of both should be done."
"What they suggested was to sell our surplus to the Soviet Union at a real cheap price and take that money and designate it to the people in the United States who need help. The only thing is that some said that would never happen because the government would take the profits and spend them on other things. Sounds realistic," he added.

MURTAUGH, who teaches American government to seniors and world studies to freshmen and sophomores, said his students, like Carnes', study current events. He said the main concern his students seem to have is a concern that democracy in the Soviet Union won't last.

"We think it's going to be democratic but we don't know for sure," he said. "My students have been surprised; maybe not to the degree that us who are older have been because we've grown up knowing the Soviet Union is a dictatorship that never respected human rights."
"I think it's surprising to the students but even more surprising to people like me."

IN BOTH teachers' classes, students are curious about the changes in the Soviet Union. Murtaugh said he thinks it will be important for what has been known as the U.S.S.R. to hold onto the Baltic States since they're more industrialized and modernized than much of the rest of the nation.
Carnes said the changes in the Soviet Union have pretty much dominated his weekly current events sessions.
"The students are expressing concerns that this new change may not be successful," Carnes said. "The students are saying that this change is great. They very much approve of it."
"The students want to know what's happening," Murtaugh added. "They want to know how this is going to affect our relations with the Soviet Union. Right now, they think it's going to get better."

JOHNNY APPLESEED, AS PLAYED BY Ron Sebade, hands out apples to Jenna Beckman and Jessica Jammer, seated on Susan Beckman's lap. Sebade recently visited the ABC Preschool in Wayne while performing his Johnny Appleseed Imitation. He also visited Wayne County School District 15 and the Winside Public School first grade class.

Modern day folk hero

Sebade enjoys what he does

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Anyone who has seen Ron Sebade's routine as Johnny Appleseed might attest the fact he enjoys what he does.
But according to one admirer of his imitation of the larger-than-life folk hero will say Johnny Appleseed and Sebade have much in common.
"A lot of his personality traits parallel Johnny Appleseeds," says Eileen Jager, a first grade teacher at Winside. "Johnny Appleseed loved and enjoyed people and that's the way Ron is. He loves talking to people."

SEBADE STARTED his Johnny Appleseed routine Sept. 28, 1983, when he gave his performance at the now-closed District 59 school. He continued with a performance on the same date, the following year, at Winside Elementary.

This year, he performed at the Wayne County District 15 school, ABC Nursery in Wayne and for Jager's first grade class in Winside.
"I was talked into doing it the first time," Sebade says. "It's fun to see the kids faces when I walk into the room. It makes the kids happy. It's like playing Santa Claus."

In his performance, Sebade dresses up with long, gray hair and a worn-out cowboy hat. He wears old overalls and he comes into the classroom barefoot. Like Johnny Appleseed, he carries his belongings in a cloth sack: a coat and a bible. Usually, he'll bring along his dog or a kitten from his farm, along with a wooden stick.

"Johnny Appleseed loved children and Ron's got five of his own," Jager says. "Whenever you go over to Ron and Rhonda's, you'll always see neighbor children there visiting."

LIKE JOHNNY Appleseed, Sebade is an active member in his church, St. Paul's Lutheran of Winside. Sebade also loves animals and he cares about the environment. He says it's often hard to get away from the farm to do his Johnny Appleseed routine, since it usually falls during harvest season.

"I plan to continue doing it when people ask me," he says. "I think what I do is good for the nature and it's good for the kids because they learn something about the environment. I just have a good time doing it."

Escapees admit guilt under plea agreement

Two youth who escaped from the Wayne County Juvenile Detention Center July 27 pled guilty to escape, a Class IV felony.
Pleading guilty were Bernard Paul Jackson and Darwin R. Baker. Both pleas were made under plea agreements.
Sentencing in both cases is scheduled for Nov. 6 at 10 a.m.

JACKSON, 16, was apprehended in Kadoka, S.D. on an unknown date. Baker, 16, who was involved in the same escape attempt, was apprehended by Winnebago authorities Aug. 3.
A Class IV felony can bring up to five years in the state penitentiary or a $10,000 fine, or both. Minimum is nothing.

Citrin talks about child abuse during seminar at Wayne Fire Department

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Child abuse and neglect are present everywhere, whether you live in the city or in rural areas.

That was the message presented by Dr. Anthony Citrin, a professor at Peru State College. Citrin spoke to about 25 emergency medical technicians, medical professionals and law enforcement officials Thursday night at the Wayne Fire Department.

According to national statistics, 76,000 cases of child abuse occur each day and an estimated 600,000 cases of child neglect occur daily.

The problem: most go unreported.

Citrin said people don't realize that cases of child abuse and neglect are predominant in rural areas. Despite the oft heard cases of child abuse in the city, Citrin said rural areas offer the ideal setting for child abuse.

"I don't care where we are, whether it be New York City or Wayne, America, one in 10 children should already have been reported," Citrin said. "Another one out of 10 deserves watching."

"Bear in mind that whenever a child abuse case is reported, more than one child is involved. The number of families may not be that significant but the number of children can be."

Characteristics of abused children

1. Children will be protective toward their parents.
2. The victim accepts the abuse or neglect as a normal part of life.
3. The child will adapt parental attitudes.
4. The victim assumes responsibility for abuse.
5. Child will abuse those they're responsible for.
6. Child will take on assigned characteristics.

Scars common to abuse

Guilt, remorse, angry with life, emotional (psychological), physical, responsible (abused feel responsible for plight).

THROUGHOUT the course of his presentation, Citrin provided information which may prove pertinent to resolving abusive situations. He also outlined the types of child abuse and child neglect.
Child abuse, by Citrin's definition, "is an act of commission such that it interferes with the reasonable or optimal development of the child."

Citrin added the difference between abuse and neglect is that neglect is an act of omission that interferes with the development of a child.

According to the history of child abuse cases, the first report was made in 1875. During the 1950s and 1960s, doctors began to see increased cases of child abuse. It wasn't until 1974 that Congress drew up the first laws to protect children.

According to Citrin, child abuse is one of three things: nonaccidental physical injury, nonaccidental mental injury and sexual abuse. He said child neglect covers four areas: failure to provide adequate food, failure to provide adequate clothing, failure to provide adequate medical care and failure to provide adequate supervision.

DURING THE presentation, those in attendance saw a number of graphic slides depicting the abuse that occurs. Physical scars evident on children ranged from bruises and welts on the lower back and upper legs to cigarette burns on the bottom of the feet or scalding burns on the hands. One slide depicted a child that had rope burns around the ankles. Citrin said this was a sure sign of sexual abuse.

While the physical scars last only a short time, Citrin said the long-term scars are the ones that should

Wayne Library adds computer encyclopedia to list of resources available for public use

You may be surprised the next time you ask for an encyclopedia at the Wayne Public Library. The library has added a computer-driven Compton's MultiMedia encyclopedia to the reference collection.

Library director Sue Buryanek demonstrated the new CD-ROM (compact disc read only memory) encyclopedia to the Library Board at their monthly meeting held Oct. 1.

A single compact disc, about the size of a saucer, contains the entire text of the twenty-six volume 1991 Compton's Encyclopedia plus 15,000 illustrations, 45 animated sequences, 60 minutes of sound, and a 65,000 word dictionary.

THE COMPUTER enables users to go beyond just reading about their topic to see it and hear it as well. Buryanek says the system is easy to operate.

"Users can begin the search through any one of eight research paths which are specially designed to accommodate and encourage different ways of thinking and learning," she says. "You can search by typing in a specific subject or browse a list of topics and click the mouse when the topic you wish appears."

For instance, entering the U.S. history timeline path will enable you to bring up a capsule description and a list of related articles. In some cases, you can activate sound — speeches by American figures such as John F. Kennedy and Neil Armstrong.

OTHER ENTRY paths allow you to jump from an illustration or its caption to the corresponding article, zoom in on a specific place on the globe and focus in on its articles, or browse through science feature articles. A printer is also attached, so text can be printed.

"You really have to try Compton's MultiMedia Encyclopedia to experience for yourself how easy it is to access the information you're looking for," Buryanek says. To check out the new computer system, all people have to do is go to the library. The Wayne Public Library is open Monday through Friday from 1-9 p.m., Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sundays from 2-5 p.m.

concern people.

"The most reported type of abuse is physical abuse because that's the one you can see," Citrin said. "The most publicized is sexual abuse because that's the most socially offensive. The most common form is mental abuse."

CITRIN SAID the challenge that people face is to report situations where they believe children are being abused. He said there are laws in the state now where people can report child abuse and remain anonymous.

He said it is the responsibility of day care workers, educators, EMTs, medical professionals and law enforcement to bring reports of child abuse to the attention of social services. He said if the public sees child abuse or child neglect, it is also their duty to report it to law enforcement officials.

"One of the things people don't realize is that child abuse is prominent in rural areas," Citrin said.

"The other thing people don't realize is that if their family is reported to social services, they should not take it offensively. Social services is there to try to hold the family together, not tear it apart."

Symptoms of the abuser

- Eighty-five percent were abused as children and believe they should pass it on.

4-H offers youth an edge in life

When your nine-to-19-year-old child joins 4-H, he or she becomes a part of the University of Nebraska system. Four-H is one arm of University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension, administered through the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

All county extension agents, specialists and administrative personnel are faculty or staff of the University of Nebraska.

Four-H has its roots in the cooperative effort of rural school teachers, who wanted to help their students learn by doing, and land grant universities, who wanted to pass on new techniques and research to farm communities. Four-H was founded on the practical arts for living and rooted in the environment.

Four-H is not just for farm youth anymore; in fact only one-fourth of Nebraska 4-H'ers actually live on a farm. The 4-H Program has grown and expanded in response to the expressed needs of citizens. Advisory committees of citizens still help to plan the program of 4-H in order to meet the growing needs of young people in rural and urban areas.

Besides "cows and cooking", 4-H'ers of the '90s learn about computers and conservation, rocketry and design, genealogy and veterinary science as well as many other subjects. They learn to make decisions and to speak in public, and find out how our government works.

Give your child the edge. Connect that child with the University of Nebraska. Enroll that child in 4-H.

If you would like more information about becoming a member or an adult volunteer, call the Wayne County Extension Office, 375-3310.

Wildcats improve to 3-2

Winside wins homecoming

The Winside Wildcats football team jumped out to a quick 7-0 lead on Walthill Friday night in Winside but Randy Geier's Wildcats were forced to answer a wake-up call when the visitors scored 16 straight points to lead 16-7 after one quarter of play.

Winside however, scored in blitzkrieg fashion in the second quarter and when the dust had settled the Wildcats had scored 49 unanswered points including 36 in the second period alone, to win going away, 56-24.

"The ultimate key for us was our offensive line play," Geier said. "We got off to a sluggish start but we controlled the line of scrimmage." The Wildcats finished with 23 first downs compared to nine for the visitors.

Winside rushed the ball for 321 yards while holding Walthill to just 15 yards on the ground. Cory Jensen was 3-6 through the air for Winside for 30 yards while Walthill was 7-22 for 158 yards and one interception.

Defensively, the Wildcats were led by Jason Magwire with seven tackles while Frahm and Frederick had six apiece. Jensen and Trent Trautman finished with four stops apiece.

Jensen started out the scoring spree for Winside with a two-yard run in the first period while Jeremy Bruggeman kicked the point after. In the second quarter Krueger rambled nine-yards to bring Winside to within three at 16-13 and the Wildcats took the lead for good when Jensen hit Hancock from six yards out. Jensen converted the two point conversion for a 21-16 lead.

Winside then scored 16 points in eight seconds as Krueger scored on a one-yard run with the two-point conversion being completed by Jensen. Then Krueger picked up a Walthill fumble and sprinted into the endzone from eight yards out for a 37-16 lead. Then on the last play before half Krueger scored from four yards out.

Krueger scored his fifth touchdown of the night on a 17-yard run and Stueckrath scored from six yards out in the fourth quarter.

WINSIDE DEFENSIVE player Jason Magwire sacks the Walthill quarterback and the hit pops the ball loose for a fumble in which the Wildcats recovered at the Walthill six-yard line. One play later the Wildcats scored. Winside improved to 3-2 on the season with the route.

Wayne captures first win of year

The Wayne Blue Devils football team garnered their first victory of the season Friday night with a 14-12 victory over West Point in West Point. Both teams entered the game with 0-4 records.

Wayne was held scoreless for three periods before Kyle Bensen capped a 75-yard drive with a three-yard touchdown run on a third and goal just into the fourth period.

Jason Fink's extra point gave Wayne a 7-6 lead with over 11 minutes remaining in regulation. On the ensuing kickoff West Point made a nice return but fumbled the ball which was recovered by Brian Brasch of Wayne.

Regg Carnes later hit Jack Swiney on a 44-yard touchdown pass to put the Blue Devils up 14-6 but West Point came back with the aid of a long kickoff return. The host Cadets scored to make it a 14-12 game but the try for the two-point conversion was thwarted by Wayne.

Wayne tried to run out the clock but was unsuccessful and forced to punt to put the game's destiny in the hands of the defense which had played well all night.

West Point's rally attempt fell short and following an incomplete pass on fourth down at 15 from midfield the Blue Devils took over with just over one minute to play and just ran out the clock.

"I want to congratulate our kids because they played a heck of a football game," Wayne coach Lonnie Ehrhardt said. "Our defense played exceptionally well."

Wayne finished with 12 first downs while West Point had 13. The Blue Devils rushed for 159 yards while the Cadets rushed for 156. Carnes was 3-14 with two interceptions and one touchdown through the air while West Point was 1-10 for 17 yards and one interception.

Jim Murphy rushed for 43-yards while Kyle Bensen ran for 39. Carnes-rushed the ball for 33-yards. Swiney caught one pass for 44-yards while Bensen caught on for six and Bobby Barnes caught one for 13.

Defensively, Wayne was led by Jason Fink with 14 tackles while Mike Zach had 13. Chad Paysen and Brent Gamble had 12 stops apiece while Matt Metz and Dwaine Junck had nine tackles each.

Wakefield gridders remain undefeated

Wakefield field goal kicker Matt Stanton booted a 37-yard field goal at the 11:00 mark of the second quarter against Homer in Homer Friday night to give Wakefield a 3-0 lead—which was all they would need as the Trojan defense recorded a shut out in a 19-0 blanking.

The 5-0 and sixth-rated Trojans controlled the line of scrimmage on the host team and took advantage of good field position all night to ensure themselves of a winning season.

Wakefield racked up 17 first downs to eight for Homer. The Trojans ran for 250 yards and passed for zero while Homer ran for 102 yards and passed for 51 for a total yardage battle won by Wakefield of 250-153.

Anthony Brown ran for 105 yards on the ground in 19 carries while Thad Nixon rushed for 68 yards on 12 carries. Pat Jepson ran for 61 yards and Marcus Tappe ran for 16.

The Trojans defense was led by Ben Dutton with 12 tackles while T.J. Preston had 10. Matt Stanton finished with eight and Brown had six with an interception. Jepson and Aron Utecht had five tackles apiece while Nixon had four.

Bendon Benson and Brent Oetken each intercepted passes while Bill Rusk recovered a Homer fumble. "Our defense played a great game," Wakefield coach Dennis Wilbur said. "Homer has a good team and we feel this was a big win for us."

Wakefield led 10-0 at the half as Nixon scored from two yards out with 4:20 left in the second quarter to put the Trojans up by 10. Wakefield scored once in the third quarter as Nixon sprinted in from 12 yards out and Stanton closed out the scoring summary with a 24-yard field goal with 2:30 left in the game.

Wilbur felt that Homer may have had the edge on quickness in the game until their main running back was injured in the second quarter with a knee injury. The Trojans will travel to play 4-1 Ponca on Friday.

Allen wins Newcastle tourney

Buffy Romshek's Allen Eagles volleyball team continued its winning ways in the Newcastle Tournament held recently with the Eagles capturing first place in the five-team field.

Allen opened up tourney play against Ponca—one of two teams to defeat them this year in 12 matches. "We played very well against Ponca," Romshek said. "The girls wanted to atone for the loss we had to them in Allen."

The Eagles won convincingly, 15-6, 15-10. Christy Philbrick led the serving with an 18-18 outing with one ace while Cindy Chase was 9-9 with two aces. Allen was

"Emerson really didn't look like they were in sync," Romshek said. "We played well but it was a combination of that and their mistakes which led to a lopsided 15-1 score in the second game."

Philbrick led the servers once again with a 14-15 outing with one ace while Heather Sachau was 6-7 with two aces. Philbrick was 23-26 in setting with eight set assists while Chase led the hitters with an 8-8 performance and four kill spikes. Boyle was 5-5 with one kill and Sachau was 8-10 with three kills.

In the championship Allen defeated the host team Newcastle to improve to 10-2 with scores of 15-11, 11-15, 15-7. "We didn't play as well against Newcastle as we did against Ponca and Emerson but Newcastle had a hand in that because they played very well,"

Romshek said.

Cindy Chase was 16-18 with one ace in serving while Steph Chase was 14-17 with one ace. Philbrick was 28-29 in setting with five assists before leaving the game due to illness.

Dawn Diediker stepped in for Philbrick and according to Romshek, did a marvelous job of running the Eagles offense. Diediker finished 42-45 in setting with 15 assists.

Boyle led the hitters with nine kill spikes on 20-23 while Cindy Chase was 19-24 with six kills. Boyle also led the team in blocks with six.

Giesselmann however, feels that his squad will use the loss against Coleridge to their advantage down the road. "I believe we will learn a lot from this match," Giesselmann said. "Coleridge has a very good team and they won the battle of the net Thursday."

Winside will have a week off before hosting Wynot.

'The Difference We Make' is theme for National 4-H Week

Over 83,000 Nebraska 4-H participants, ranging in age from nine to 19, will join in celebrating National 4-H Week on Oct. 6-12. Theme for this year's observance is "4-H The Difference We Make."

Of the 83,036 4-H'ers in Nebraska, 25% live on farms, 22.2% live in communities under 10,000, 14.3% live in cities between 10,000 and 50,000, and 38.5% live in cities over 50,000.

In Dixon County, there are 326 4-H'ers including traditional club members and school enrichment.

THERE ARE over 150 projects for 4-H'ers to choose from such as raising pets or livestock, photography, computers, rocketry, crafts, sewing, conservation areas, engineering areas, nutrition and genealogy.

"There is something for every area of interest," says Karen Wermers, area extension agent. "There is even a 'Do Your Own Thing' project so 4-H'ers can develop their own ideas if not found in traditional project areas."

WERMERS said 4-H'ers sign up for one or more projects for the year and can work individually, with family members or with club project leaders.

"Four-H continues to make a difference to youth," said Wermers, adding that persons wishing information on becoming a member or project leader are asked to contact the Dixon County Extension Office at 584-2234.

Local pull.

Local people pulling together to meet local needs—that's what public power is all about. Because public power is community owned, we all have a say in how it serves us. Because it's nonprofit, consumers and the community reap all the benefits. And, because public power is locally controlled, it helps set—and achieve—the economic and environmental goals of our community. That makes public power a business that looks good to new business. And that means more people pulling for the future of our community.

Look at public power in a new light. After all, it's yours. CITY OF WAYNE ELECTRIC DEPARTMENT

10,000th trailer complete

EMPLOYEES AT GREAT DANE TRAILERS OF WAYNE celebrated the completion of the Wayne plant's 10,000 trailer recently. Since the trailer industry opened its doors in the mid 1980s, this is the 10,000th trailer to be completed under Timpte and Great Dane ownership. Fire marshal advises precaution on eve of fire prevention week

Civilian fire deaths declined four percent nationwide in 1990, according to results of the annual National Fire Experience Survey by the National Fire Protection Association. Fire departments reporting to the Nebraska Fire Incident Reporting System responded to 21,810 calls during 1990. Fires accounted for almost half of these calls, with rescue ranking as second and false alarms as third.

In Nebraska fire deaths increased. Twenty-one lives were lost in 1990 compared to 17 in 1989. Thirteen deaths occurred in residential properties, seven in vehicles and one in an outdoor property.

Arson and smoking were tied as the leading causes of fire deaths for 1990. Other fire related causes were vehicle accidents, electrical, children playing with fire, suicide and combustible/heat.

State Fire Marshal Mike Durst feels it is important to have an early warning device in all homes to aid in swift evacuation. Durst also reminds Nebraskans of the importance of proper detector maintenance. Detectors should be tested on a weekly basis, with batteries being changed once a year. Batteries should never be removed for any reason. Detectors should be cleaned according to manufacturer's instructions at least once a year. Cobwebs and dust can reduce a detector's sensitivity to smoke.

The young and the elderly are statistically the most likely to die in fire. The elderly are often unable to react quickly in emergency situations, or are physically incapacitated. The young are dependant upon others for their safety and protection.

With Fire Prevention Week Oct. 6-12, the Nebraska State Fire Marshal's office urges all Nebraskans to practice fire prevention and home fire safety. Sixty-two percent of Nebraska residential fires in 1990 occurred in homes where no smoke detectors were present or the detectors did not work.

The theme for Fire Prevention Week is, "Fire Won't Wait — Plan Your Escape." Escape routes should be planned in advance and practiced at least twice a year. Two ways out should be planned for every room in the house, especially bedrooms. Occupants should decide on a meeting place at a safe location outside of the home and meet there to make sure everyone is out. One person should then call the fire department telling the dispatcher the name, address and exact location of the fire and whether anyone is still in the burning structure. Never should anyone re-enter the burning building.

For further information regarding fire safety, smoke detector location and maintenance and escape route planning contact your local fire department or the State Fire Marshal's office.

INFORMED BABY-SITTERS DO BETTER JOB

Babysitting means providing safe care for children—a big responsibility. An informed babysitter is a better and safer babysitter according to the American Red Cross.

The Red Cross suggests that parents allow time to give the babysitter a tour of the house and introductions to children and pets. The tour should include orientation to the door locks, heater, light switches, fire alarm, fire extinguishers, burglar alarms, and special hazards! The babysitter should also be provided with instructions about household routines, food for children and the sitter, bedtime and bathroom routines, and emergency numbers.

Baby-sitter check list:

1. Employer's name, address, phone number
