WAYNE ELEMENTARY SECOND GRADE STUDENTS recently visited the Louis Lutt farm south of Wayne as part of a farming unit the classes were working on. While there, the second graders got to check out farm machinery (above) and visit the hog barns. In one instance, the youngsters learned about the importance of clipping pigs' tails and the importance of health management.

Council discusses topics

By Mark Crist Managing Editor

Although the Wayne City Council met Tuesday night, none of the items on the agenda for the special meeting were ones they were to vote upon. The meeting was more informative than any thing else.

During the 2 1/2 hour meeting, council members discussed items from computer upgrades to utility connections and load management for the city's electrical plant to annexation and replat issues.

In discussing those and other issues the council:

• Learned that a computer upgrade for its IBM system will cost anywhere from $42,000 to $58,000. The upgrade would in-clude new software and hardware for the existing system. The up-grade would also include a mo-dem, which would connect the city automatically with IBM for information services about the system. To buy the upgrade outright it would cost $42,000. To lease it, the cost would be $58,000.

• Showed favor toward drawing up a new replat for a block of property along South Nebraska Street that is outdated by city standards. The new replat would se property owner concerns over lot lines.

 Discussed establishing city user fees for special designated liquor permits.

• Appointed council members Jane O'Leary and Darrel Fuelberth, to a committee which will meet with members of the Wayne In-dustries board to discuss revolving loan fund criteria.

 Discussed problems with util-ity connection fees and appeared to favor the need for more categories.

• Discussed briefly conditions surrounding future and current an-

The next spring, she runs the leaves through a silage chopper and spreads them for mulch. Two years later, the compost pile turns to a potting soil-like material.

Not only does Korn and the community benefit from the program, but so too does the Jaycees.

"WE DO IT for community improvement, to help out the individuals who have leaves they want taken away," said Wayne County Jaycees President Joel Ankeny. We have known for years that Gail wanted the leaves so it's a service for her and for the community."

Ankeny added that he believes the program helps the environ-ment. The annual leaf pick-up is one of two environmental programs the Jaycees do. The other is the adopt-a-highway program. WHILE THERE are a few restrictions in the pick-up, Korn said she doesn't mind if there's a few small amounts of grass clippings mixed in with the leaves. She said, however, that she doesn't like to see bags filled mostly with grass or other solid waste.

Saturday morning accident claims life of Concord man

An one-vehicle accident early Saturday morning took the life of a Concord man.

Scott Nelson, 29, died in an accident along Highway 116, according to reports from the Nebraska State Patrol.

Trooper Bill Fitzgerald, who cov-Prooper Bill Hizgeraid, who covered the accident, said the vehicle Nelson was driving was southbound on Highway 116. The accident occurred around 12:45 a.m. Saturday.

By Fitzgerald's report, Nelson was unable to negotiate the curve west of Concord and ended up going into the ditch, spinning an undetermined number of times. The vehicle, however, did not roll vehicle. According to the report, he was not wearing a seat belt. Fitzgerald said alcohol was involved in the accident but autopsy results are pending with the Dixon County Attorney's office.

The Nebraska State Patrol was first notified of the accident around 2:30 a.m. Saturday and located the vehicle beloeping to cated the vehicle belonging to Nelson but attempts to locate him were unsuccessful. The state patrol was called again at 8:30 a.m. by a passer-by, who located Nelson. According to officials from the Nebraska State Patrol office in Norfolk, the vehicle, after spinning, progressed foward 500 feet down the road on its own before coming to a stop.

Funeral services for Nelson were held Tuesday at Concordia Lutheran Church in Concord, A full

Wise Use of Nose Drops and Sprays

Most nose drops and sprays contain decongestants which are intended to shrink swollen blood vessels in nasal tissues. As these tissues shrink, drainage can occur and one can breath easier. The feeling of "stuffiness" may disappear. Because nose drops and sprays work very quickly, many persons use them for colds and allergies.

If nose drops are used for more than a few days, congestion actually may be worsened. As the constriction caused by the decongestant subsides, the blood vessels may become engorged with blood. To reduce the chances of "rebound congestion" from becoming a problem, use drops or sprays no more frequently and in no greater quantity than the package label indicates. Also, use the product for no more than 3 or 4 days at any one time.

A friendly suggestion
Recent problems surrounding utility connection fees have left city officials looking for some answers.

We would like to offer a friendly suggestion that might help resolve the problem in the future. The matter will take some work by the council and the administrator but it's a resolution that, we believe, will not only help solve the problem, but encourage future development, whether that be in business or residential seton two separate occasions the council has been on the brink of an answer to their problem but both times the answer eluded them. The first occurrance happened two weeks ago when a developer brought to light problems he was experiencing with connecting the church-turned-to-apartment to the city's water line. The second time the council discussed the matter was Tuesday night.

It seems that structures built as far back as the 1930s and 1940s used one water line and one sewer line for two structures. By today's standards, that's obsolete. Under city code, each structure is supposed to have one water (or sewer) line per structure. Because of the old-conditions merging-with the new standards have mixed, a problem has developed. That's the long and short of it. What we would like to see happen is for five separate categories to be established. One category would be strictly for single-family residential dwellings. A second would be for single-family residential dwellings which also lease space for apartments. A third category would be strictly for multiple-family residential dwellings. A fourth category would be for multiple-family dwellings which also house a business or businesses. A fifth category could be established strictly for businesses.

By each of the five definitions, different fee structures could also be established. Say for the smallest, the single-family residential dwelling, the city could charge $500 for first-time hookup fees, which is the rate currently charged. Each of the other four categories could be assessed an additional $250 by category.

For instance, a single-family dwelling which leases space for an apartment would be charged $750 and a multiple family dwelling could be assessed $1,000 hook up fee, and so on.

This seems like a workable solution that might solve problems in the future and pave the way for development. It's a solution that's best for both worlds.

Old news calls for rehash for reader

Attention readers: This may seem like old news. In fact, I didn't even want to discuss the matter of the Thomas nomination this week

First of all, I would like to clarify something for a reader who was confused by my column last week about the days of the Senate Con-firmation Hearings for Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas.

I did not support President Bush's_nomination of Thomas to the Supreme Court based on Thomas' conservatism. The allegations of sexual harassment brought forth by Anita Hill only fed fuel to the fire for my opposition to Thomas. In fact, I was sickened by the support given to Thomas by the Omaha World-Herald but that's besides the point.

IT DOESN'T matter whether I'm a Democrat or a Republican. If the allegations Hill brought forth true, then the Senate never should have confirmed Thomas' nomina-tion to the Supreme Court. I'm not here to say what Hill alleged is true but I'm not going to say that it

I also think that U.S. Senators, whether Democrat or Republican, haven't given proper attention to women's rights in this whole mat-ter. I think Nebraska Sen. J. James Exon underlined that with his vote

Exon underlined that with his vote in support of Thomas.

The situation has given a lot of people black eyes. Members of the Senate Judiciary Committee will attest to that fact. I'm sure Thomas and Hill will, also. In fact, there are quite a few members of the media who came out of this thing with scars. That doesn't even thing with scars. That doesn't even go to mention all the victims of

ON TO ANOTHER matter. I was taken aback by a recent column published in the South Sioux City Star, written by Henry Trysla.

Most weeks I enjoy reading Henry's column. He's usually insightful about a lot of issues, while at the same time being a staunch supporter of his community. Last week, he took his support one step too far.

In his column "Reflections", dated Oct. 17, he referred to Wayne State College as "South Sioux West". He did so because of the number of students who at-tend Wayne State from South

I don't know why that rubbed me the wrong way but it did. I could refer to something in South Sioux City as "Wayne East" but there's nothing redeeming about South Sioux to be called "Wayne East"

Letter from a Peace Corps member

(The following article was written by Jeff Keidel, who is serving with the United States Peace Corps in Thailand. Jeff, son of Dick and Becky Keidel of Wayne, Joined the Peace Corps last February and will remain in Thailand until May 1993. His address is Jeff Keidel, ARD Office, Amphur Muang, Mahasarakham 44000, Thailand). It hardly seems as though pearly

It hardly seems as though nearly is months have passed since I left Nebraska to join the Peace Corps. The morning I left, a chilly 25 degree early February dawn at the Omaha airport, is clearly imprinted upon my mind. I was flying to San Francisco to meet other members Francisco to meet other members of my training group. We would all then depart for Thailand together. After arriving in San Francisco I met the other 52 members of my group. We were a diverse group of group. We were a diverse group of people, but as we boarded the plane for Thailand we all experienced similar emotions as we won-dered what the next two years held in store for us.

Finally, after a 17 hour flight, we rived in Bangkok. We were greeted by strange smells and a heat that was oppressive even then at 2 a.m. The next several days were a blur of orientations,

Your editorial "It's time" in the Oct. 17 issue, suggesting it is time to close the Juvenile Detention Center in Wayne, in my opinion, elasticizes the parameters of logic.

You appear to reason that since the facility has experienced juve-niles breaking out on several occa-sions, the JDC should be closed. That logic mandates the Nebraska Penal Complex in Lincoln, the state community hosting those taxpayer owned facilities proceed to close them down because "we don't

In your lead story, same issue, you quote Wayne County Commissioner Merlin Beiermann as saying, "When LeRoy and Bob Ensz set this thing up, they were doing it to put a feather in their cap. I think they missed the target." If the quote it correct, such a per-briefings, ventures outside our ho-tel into the bewildering city of Bangkok and encounters with Thais whom we could not understand.

THE FOLLOWING three months were devoted to language, cross-cultural and technical training. Successful completion of this training was to prepare us to live and work here for the next two challenging. Most difficult for me was adapting to the tropical heat and learning the Thai language.

The cool February weather of Nebraska I had left behind was in sharp contrast to the stifling heat of Thailand. We had arrived at the beginning of the hot season Throughout our training, as we moved to sites scattered across the country, the heat would continue to increase. Eventually I forsook my mosquito net at night, preferring to do battle with the insects rather than endure the additional heat the enclosure of the net created.

Language was a constant source of frustration. It was of little comfort to be told to be patient, that Thai is a difficult language to learn, while I was forced to eat fried rice three times a day due to my inability to order anything else.

THAI WAS, and is, certainly a challenge. The Thai alphabet has 44 consonants and 12 vowels adapted from ancient Khmer script. Many of the characters look strikingly similar to one another. The language is also tonal in nature. A word not spoken with the correct tone may have quite a different meaning than that which you intend.

you intend. At the end of May, our training finished, we returned to Bangkok. We were then sworn in as official Peace Corps volunteers by the U.S. Ambassador.

The next day we were given our site assignments. Throughout training we had all been anxious to know where our sites would be; now we would find out. I was told rny site was to be in the province of Mahasarakham. Where was that, I wondered, as

This past week I notified my 26 Cabinet members that they are to continue to hold the line on spending requests as state government prepares for its annual budget assessment before the Legislature convenes in January.

I know some agencies are considering asking for funding for new or expanded budget items not funded in the biennial budget.

I reminded code agency directors that there are to be no budget requests this year other than for extreme emergency needs-and only after they have been approved by the State Budget Administrator and myself. I believe ministrator and myself. I believe state government must continue to show restraint in the "off-budget year" in order to keep spending in

During a recent retreat with my Cabinet I stressed that I want state agencies to work better together to maximize their effectiveness and efficiency in delivering services to Nebraskans. We must be concerned over the future stability of state revenues and the need for state government to carefully prioritize the services it delivers.

After several years of spending increases totalling 40 percent, state government is now operating on a budget of less than 6 percent above the previous biennium. That increase includes funding for LB 1059 and LB 829, state aid to education and property tax relief, re-

Nine months ago Americans were transfixed to their televisions vatching the 'War in the Gulf' on CNN. Last week it was C-SPAN that attracted viewers with its coverage of Supreme Court Judge nominee Clarence Thomas and his accuser, Professor Anita Hill.

We're not saying Ms. Hill didn't tell the truth. Nor are we saying Thomas was lying. We simply believe there was a better way to handle the situation than harassing both unnecessarily.

The National Institute on Aging (NIA) is planning a study of why certain people start new careers instead of retiring. The study will focus on men and women 51 and over who begin collecting pen-sions but start new, self-employed careers. Until now, subjects has ignored the self employed. According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor statistics about 11 percent of those age 55 to 64 and more than 23 per cent of those 65 or over are selfcent of those 65 or over are self-employed. The study, which will go on for 12 years, will cover both those who have always been self-employed and those who become self-employed after retiring from fulltime jobs.

Our defense gave up too many big plays by just being out of position and on offense we couldn't score once we got inside the red zone (20-yard line)."

Although the Wildcats were defeated by 38 points on the scoreboard Wagner didn't feel the score was a realistic picture of how good East Texas really is. "We made them look better with our mistakes," Wagner said. "I'm not taking anything away from them because they came ready to play and they did a good job taking it

Nicholson's sweep football contest

WAYNE-Dave and Jackie Nicholson became the first husbandwife team to place first and second in the Wayne Herald Football Contest in the same week. Earlier this season Mike and Peg Grosz accomplished the feat but on different weeks.

Dave Nicholson was the only entrant to miss three games in the contest so it was easy to determine the winner but the runner-up award had to be sorted out through the tie-breaker and Jackie Nicholson nearly had the identical score of Saturday's Wayne StateEast Texas State clash.

Wayne Tietgen, Tom Roberts and Margaret Schram of Wayne

Wayne Tietgen, Tom Roberts and Margaret Schram of Wayne along with Elaine Hedell of West Point were in the running with four misses for runner-up honors but fell shy on the tie-breaker.

Allen gridders down Winnebago

ALLEN-Mike Busselman's Allen Eagles won their second game of the season Friday with a 32-30 victory in Winnebago. Allen led 26-14 at the intermission and 26-20 after three quarters of play. Allen rushed for 181 yards on the night while the host team managed 73 yards. Curtis Oswald was 5-14 in passing with three interceptions along with two touchdowns. The sophomore threw for 100 yards.

Casey Schroeder was the leading receiver with three receptions for 60 yards while Steve Sullivan was the leading rusher with 96 yards on 24 attempts. Oswald rushed for 34 yards on 14 carries. Defensively, Kevin Crosgrove and Bren Mattes led the Eagles with 23 and 19 tackles respectively. The first Eagles score came on a 11-yard pass from Oswald to Schroeder in the first quarter.

In the second quarter Oswald ran for a 13-yard touchdown before hitting Schroeder on a 40-yard pass. The same two-some hooked up for the two-point conversion to give Allen 20 points at the intermission. The Eagles last score came on a three-yard run by

More than 92 percent of the 23,000 high schools in the United States produce one or more plays each year, making secondary school theater numerically the largest single theatrical producer in the nation. Theater has the potential to be an important artistic influence on the entire school and community.

A 1982 study of nearly 1,200 chapters of the International Thespian Society is a useful yardstick. The study showed that the presence of a thespian troupe in the school indicated more experienced teachers, a much greater likelihood of theater courses of-fered for credit, and most important, that the number of teachers. curricula, and the majority of budgets, remained stable despite de-clining students enrollments. To be sure excellent curricula and production programs, Thes-pian Troupes and other theater oriented programs are scattered through the nation, but these are not the norm. The typical secondary theater program remains outside the curriculum directed by teachers with little or no background in theater.

The Wildcat and Harry Husker

The Wildcat and Harry Husker had a mock show-down. We yelled "defense", they yelled "offense". And our Blackshirts got the job down in the last few seconds. As the young man who deflected the last pass said, "I don't like games that close."

And as Quentin Neujahr, two-time Nebraska all-state football player from Utica Centennial commented, "We've come a long ways. One and ten my first season, five and six last year. We aren't going to give up." (He plays for K State.)

I'd love to see them surprise

Two years after attending the last UN-L game, shock hard to handle

The last time I'd been to the UNL stadium for a football game was two years ago. Ann and I were rained on, and froze out. The Big Farmer thinks he got to a game the year before that. Cousin Paul lives in Topeka. So he ordered tickets from the Kansas State ticket office and shared with us. It was Homecoming and the forecast was for 50 degrees. I put on my Husker red sweatshirt. Mike his new sweater and realized too late that the color, purple, was what the other team wore.

We knew we'd be sitting with their fans. They were the best seats we've ever had, section 21, row 21. Far enough up to see the field, but not very high to have to walk up all those steps. We were even against a cement back rest, close to the restrooms. The wind got a bit nippy, but not bad. Barry and Brian Bowers spotted us going in. A former Jayhawk player, Barry said we were about to see history in the making. Knowing they were four and one. I nodded my head in agreement. But I really didn't mean it. After all, they hadn't beat us since '68, and that was a real shock. They haven't exactly been a football power in Manhatten. Everyone knows that.

Well, this year's team marched down the field for a touchdown in the opening moments of the game. Shock! And they have a quarterback who can pass. And, as usual, we don't defend well against the pass. Murt claims Tony Blaha was a good pass defender, but that was theopty wears acc. that was twenty years ago.

It was a great game. The fans in purple had a great time. One of their touchdowns was a mighty cheap one, a 40 yard run when everyone else thought the ball

HALLOWEEN IS COMING

Just a brief reminder of some safety tips for little ones on Halloween. Let's keep it safe. Halloween is a week away, so plan now. Have the little ghosts, goblins or what-have-you dress so they can see where they are going so they won't trip and fall. Each "costume" should have something on it that reflects when car lights shine on them. Collecting "treats" from people you know is a safe bet. A flashlight will come in handy.

HOME RECOMING JUST ANOTHER FOUR LETTER WORD? Just a few years ago, much of the talk among seniors was whether they would eventually move anton a relirement residence, a nursing home, or live with their grown children. Today, while many seniors still have these options, there is an alarming increase in the number of people who have no choice at all. For them, homelessness, or the threat of homelessness, is their one reality.

Some of the reasons for this deplorable nationwide co dition include rising property taxes to make up for reduced aid from state sources. Ironically, there's a concurrent eduction in interest on savings certificates, annuities, and other resources many seniors depend on for their incomes, not to mention the depletion of some retirement funds because of bad investments. When the crunch comes between using their available funds for food and heat, tax payments are often delayed.

For renters, it can be a matter of their landlords losing their properties because of higher taxes and other main ce expenses, forcing the tenants out of their buildings when they're taken over by other interests. There has also been a cutback in funding to restore rundown housing. This has caused more old buildings to be closed down because they're considered uninhabitable. This forces enants out into a rental market that is far beyond their ncomes.

As for subsidized, or public housing, again there's the matter of low or non existent funding in the first instance, and the real factor of crime that exists in some public housing complexes with seniors as targets of these criminals in existence.

It's shocking that anyone should be homeless in the country considered the leader of the Free World, a country which has led the way to democracy, mostly by example, for so many other nations. With elections coming up next month — and the major parties gearing for the presidential elections next year — it's up to us to make the candidates or potential candidates aware that we need action to stop seniors from facing the loss of their homes.
