Conway resigns teaching post

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Nebraska State Sen. Gerald Conway announced Friday that he is resigning his teaching post at Wayne State College.

His resignation could be effective at the end of the fall semester providing the attorney-general's office allows.

Conway's decision came after the Nebraska Supreme Court denied his request for a rehearing a week ago Thursday.

Conway, R-Wayne, said in a telephone interview that he decided not to challenge the ruling in the federal courts. He could have challenged that the ruling was taking away either of the positions without due process.

The high court ruled July 26 that Conway was violating the state's separation of powers clause in the state constitution since he was working at Wayne State College as a tenured instructor and as a state senator.

The Nebraska Supreme Court ruled that as a state legislator, Conway was part of the legislative branch of government and as a professor, he was working under the executive branch of government.

THE STATE senator from Wayne, who represents the 17th legislative district, said he has thought long and hard about whether to resign his post at the college or retain it and give up his legislative seat.

He said it was probably a good thing that the state's high court forced him to make his decision because it opens up new career opportunities.

"I'll be expanding my consulting business," he said. "It was never forced to be structured but this provided me time to think about my career. Business consulting is something I've always wanted to do."

Conway said despite his decision to give up his teaching post at Wayne State, he plans to stay in Wayne. He said he will run his consulting firm from his home.

WAYNE STATE College President Dr. Donald Mash said the college regrets to see that Conway is resigning his faculty position.

"We realize that Sen. Conway had a very difficult decision to make and we are sorry that he has chosen to leave our faculty," Mash said in a press release issued by the college.

"He has been a highly regarded professor at Wayne State College for the past 17 years. We will miss him. At the same time, we are also pleased that he will continue to work for northeast Nebraska as a member of the Unicameral. He is an able and talented public servant. We wish him the best in his professional pursuits."

Conway, an assistant professor of business, has been on the Wayne State faculty since 1975.

ALONG WITH his decision to give up his teaching post, Conway was quick to criticize the Nebraska Supreme Court. He said in a press release that he doesn't feel that the court's decision is his loss but a loss to the people across the state.

"The negative message to all who work in the public sector is that, in effect, you have fewer rights than those in the private sector."

"This court's interpretation of the separation of powers clause is the narrowest in the country, but then they have distinguished themselves with narrow decisions lately," Conway said. "This was not a question of conflict of interest or dual office holding, as some editors mistakenly reported; those issues are covered very clearly in Nebraska law. The question posed to the court was does a legislator who also teaches at a state college exercise the sovereign powers of the executive branch."

Welcome to Winter: Halloween Blizzard, 1991

Winter storm spans area with blizzard

Mother Nature played a cruel trick for Halloween, only it wasn't a treat to area residents.

A winter storm moved into the area late Wednesday and left many people digging out after as much as 10 inches of snow fell Thursday and Friday.

Winds blowing up to 40 mph whipped up blizzard conditions Friday which made travel next to impossible. Drifts were reported as high as five feet in some areas.

Classes at every area school were cancelled Friday as the Halloween Blizzard of 1991 made travel next to impossible. The storm was so bad that classes at Wayne State were cancelled for the day. Administrative offices at the college were closed until 10 a.m.

MANY AREA high school football games Friday were postponed to Saturday and Wayne State's game against Peru State College Saturday was scheduled to be held off until Sunday at 2 p.m.

The game against Peru State was originally scheduled to be parents day but the festivities for parents day were rescheduled for the Nov. 9 game against Chadron State College.

The football contest for Wakefield against Stanton was rescheduled for Saturday at 1:30 p.m. and the Wayne High School game against Pierce was postponed until Monday at 3 p.m. at Memorial Field on the Wayne State College campus. The NAC Conference Volleyball Tournament, which includes Wayne High School, originally scheduled for Thursday and rescheduled for Saturday, has been cancelled.

Mail service was limited to in-town delivery in Wayne and Wakefield as mail transports were unable to move from city to city during the night.

A number of businesses in Wayne also shut their doors for the day. Shifts at First National Omaha Service Center were called off and the first shift at Great Dane Trailers was called off. Restful Knights called off all shifts Friday. Most downtown businesses didn't open their doors until noon.

CITY STREET CREWS DID THEIR BEST to keep ahead of the blizzard but with wind gusts up to 40 mph and 10 inches of snow, the roads remained covered and snowpacked.

The Wayne County Courthouse was also closed for the day as was the Dixon County Courthouse.

ACCORDING TO National Weather Service observer Pat Gross of Wayne, snowfall amounts totalled 10 inches in Wayne.

Wayne Herald weather observers said snowfall totals ranged from eight inches in Winside to nine inches in Hoskins. Reports in Carroll were not available but drifts there were as high as four feet.

Reports were not available from the Northeast Research and Extension Center in Concord since it also closed. The ASCS office in Wayne also closed Friday.

According to National Weather Service observer Paul Burman in Wakefield, snowfall totals were as much as 10 inches. The M.G. Waldbaum Company in Wakefield was operating as scheduled but shifts operated as people were able to make it to work.

City street crews in Wayne worked through the night trying to clear the streets but windy conditions made snow removal difficult. Highway crews were on standby until the wind subsided.

WITH STRONG WIND GUSTS AND as much as 10 inches of snow, Wayne State College students weren't headed anywhere Friday. The severity of the storm shows that these cars south of the campus were almost buried.

A COUPLE OF WAYNE RESIDENTS find that getting their vehicle removed from a snow bank along one of Wayne's alleys was not that easy to do. The two women had to dig as much snow as they could from underneath their car before moving.

Briefly Speaking

PALS meet for Halloween party

WAYNE - The PALS (People Are Loved) group met for a Halloween costume party on Oct. 15 at the First United Methodist Church in Wayne.

Wayne County Women of Today sponsored games, followed with costume judging. Winners were Jackie Reuss in the women's division and Dave Kvols in the men's division. Door prizes were given, followed with bingo and refreshments served by Women of Today. The next meeting of PALS will be Nov. 7.

Leola Larsen hosts 3 M's club

WAYNE - President Marj Porter opened the Oct. 21 meeting of the 3 M's (Monday Merry Mothers) Home Extension Club in the home of Leola Larsen. The secretary and treasurer's reports were given by Lanora Sorensen and Roberta Carman respectively. Seven members answered roll call with a law that affects their family.

President Porter reported on the Oct. 3 meeting of the Wayne County Home Extension Council. Members made name tags for the Achievement Night program scheduled tonight (Monday) in the Carroll auditorium, with registration from 7 to 7:30 p.m.

Members were reminded to bring two items (food or crafts) to the Women of Today Craft Show on Nov. 9 in Wayne city auditorium.

It was announced that there will be a holiday tour of five homes in Stanton on Nov. 9 and 10 and tickets for the tour may be purchased at the Wayne Greenhouse. There will also be an arts and crafts show in the Stanton VFW Club.

The group selected lessons for 1992 and a letter was read regarding the Fantasy of Trees display slated to take place in December.

Jociell Bull gave the lesson, entitled "Laws That Impact Your Lives," including a video presentation.

The next meeting will be Nov. 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Delpha Keiser. Marj Porter will give the lesson.

Leather and Lace dance held

WAYNE - Dean Dederman was caller for the Oct. 25 meeting of the Leather and Lace Square Dance Club in the Student Center on the Wayne State College campus. Dederman also will call for the next dance, scheduled Nov. 8 in the Student Center. Serving lunch will be Trever Hartman and Bruce and Kathy Fiscus.

Lessons will precede the Nov. 8 dance at 7 p.m. in the Student Center.

Alzheimer's family support offered

AREA - The Northeast Nebraska Alzheimer's Family Group will hold its next meeting on Monday, Nov. 11 at 2 p.m. at the Pierce Manor in Pierce.

The primary emphasis of the group is to support friends and families who are caring for victims of Alzheimer's disease. The support group also addresses educational information about Alzheimer's disease and its affect on family members and caregivers.

Persons wishing additional information about the group are asked to call Donna Halsey, 329-6228.

IRS suggests getting numbers

The Internal Revenue Service encourages parents to get ready for the upcoming tax filing season early by obtaining taxpayer identification numbers (TIN's) from their daycare providers and making sure their dependents have social security numbers.

Anyone claiming the credit for child and dependent care expenses must include on their return the name, address, and TIN of each care provider. If the provider is a nonprofit charitable, religious, or educational organization, only the name and address are required.

A TIN is a social security number if the provider is an individual. It's an employer identification number if the provider is a partnership or corporation. The same requirement applies to a person who receives benefits through their employer's dependent care assistance program.

Form W-10 can be used to request this information from the provider. To get a free copy of this form, call the IRS toll-free at 1-800-TAX-FORM (829-3676).

In addition, anyone claiming a dependent age one or over on their 1991 return must enter that person's social security number. For low and moderate income families taking the Earned Income Credit, a similar rule applies to qualifying children ages one and over. For help getting a number, call the Social Security Administration toll-free at 1-800-772-1213.

Friends, relatives gather to honor Brogies on wedding anniversary

Friends and relatives gathered at Christ Lutheran Church in Norfolk on Oct. 27 for an open house reception marking the 40th wedding anniversary of Edwin J. and Vera Brogie of Hoskins.

Hosts were their children, Edwin M. and Joan Brogie of Wayne and Mark and Ellen Brogie of Creighton. There are four grandchildren.

Approximately 100 guests attended and were registered by Gina Larson of Pierce. Arranging gifts was grandson John Brogie of Wayne.

Among those present were

Clarence and Mildred Kruse and Myrtle Winter of Norfolk, attendants at the couple's wedding ceremony 40 years ago.

THE PROGRAM included the family history given by Edwin M. Brogie.

The anniversary cake was cut and served by Karen Larson of Pierce and Veryl Winter of Norfolk. Mildred Kruse and Myrtle Winter of Norfolk poured, and Suzi Carson of Battle Creek served punch.

Brogies were married Oct. 28, 1951 at Christ Lutheran Church in Norfolk.

Baby's birth special for Lions Club

The Wayne Lions Club has a first among Lions Clubs in its district and, perhaps, in Nebraska.

Born to Wayne Lions member Ellen and second vice-president Glenn Kietzmann of the Wayne Lions Club, was a daughter Kaitlin Ashley.

Kaitlin was born in Lutheran Community Hospital in Norfolk Oct. 21 and she weighed 8 lbs. 1 oz.

With this birth, the Wayne Lions Club claims to be the first club to have the distinction in its "den" in District 38B and perhaps in the state to have a female member give birth since women were admitted to the organization.

Tax crisis dominates discussion at forum put on by chamber

By Mark Crisp
Managing Editor

The personal property tax crisis dominated discussion of items facing the Nebraska Legislature in 1992, as the Nebraska Chamber of Commerce held a legislative forum at the Black Knight Wednesday at noon.

Ron Sedlacek, vice-president and general counsel of the Nebraska Chamber of Commerce, said the state chamber is in support of extending LB 829, which removes all business machinery and equipment from personal property taxation, while establishing new taxes and fees on business and agriculture.

He said unless the Nebraska Legislature acts quickly, all personal property will go on the tax rolls at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 1, 1992.

"THE STATE chamber's position is this: we're in favor of extending LB 829 exemptions for tax year 1992 and allowing the legislature to come in without the pressure and emotion and formulate the tax policies on solid foundation," he said. "Either that or to delay the Jan. 1 date. We would (also) support a constitutional amendment."

Extending the deadline, however, cannot be done without another legislative special session. Sedlacek said another special session is a viable alternative since it would cost taxpayers much more money if all personal property went on the tax rolls. He added that it would also be bad for business if all property returns to the tax rolls.

SOME OF THE local Chamber members interviewed by The Wayne Herald said they support the work by the Nebraska Chamber of Commerce to set up conditions which would allow the Nebraska Legislature to resolve the property tax crisis.

Bob Carhart said he favors what the state chamber is trying to do. He said he doesn't want to see the state revert back to the same tax structures it saw 15-25 years ago.

He said if everything goes on the tax rolls, it will most certainly impact his business.

"It's (the Chamber) representative of business and some professional points of view," he said. "They're trying to strike a balance that's fair to everyone. The chamber would like to see the tax structure similar to what it was."

Carhart is a member of the Nebraska Chamber of Commerce board.

CAP PETERSON, who is the chairman of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce's legislative committee, said he supports the idea of a special session so things can be worked out.

"It appears to me that a special session is the only way this can be decided," Peterson said. "If everything goes back on the tax rolls it will raise havoc. The only thing that can be done is for the legislature to deal with it."

"... We can't always let the court dictate our legislation. The legislature needs to come back and create legislation that will work with the constitution."

STATE SENATOR Gerald Conway, R-Wayne, said he doesn't know if there are really alternatives open to the legislature to warrant a special session. Conway was in attendance at Wednesday's meeting.

He said the one thing that the governor needs to be sure of in the event that he calls a special session is to make sure he has the number of votes he needs to ensure that the state's lawmakers will carry over LB 829.

To conclude the meeting, Dan Parsons, who is with the state chamber office, circulated a questionnaire asking the approximate 25 people in attendance how they felt about the personal property tax crisis.

The questionnaire also included questions about how to deal with personal property taxes, economic development issues, tort reform, labor relations, health care, environment, transportation and education.

THE VIENNA CHOIR BOYS will perform at Wayne State College on Nov. 11.

Black and Gold series features elite group

The Vienna Choir Boys will perform at Wayne State College Monday, Nov. 11, as part of the 1991-92 Black & Gold Series.

Performance time is 8 p.m. in Rice Auditorium, located on the northwest edge of campus.

The Vienna Choir Boys, who last performed at Wayne State in 1985, have made more than 3,000 appearances since their first visit to the United States in 1932. Each season brings a new choir of boys carrying on a centuries-old tradition of music-making at its finest.

Through their concert tours, films, recordings and television appearances, they have enchanted millions in every corner of the globe.

They present a program of costumed operettas, sacred songs, and secular and folk music that will delight the entire family.

Tickets, $5 for adults and $3 for high school age or younger, go on sale Thursday, Oct. 31. They may be purchased in the business office of the Hahn Administration Building, or by sending payment and a stamped self-addressed envelope to Black & Gold Tickets, c/o Hahn Building, Wayne State College, Wayne, NE 68787.

By joining, Peterson, an insurance agent with Northeast Nebraska Insurance Agency of Wayne, will add to the company's crop insurance the services of Dornberger/Berry and Company.

Dornberger/Berry is written with Great West Casualty Company of Sioux City. In Peterson's participation with the board, he will be able to help mold the future of crop insurance.

WSC chapter gets honor

For the 14th consecutive year, the Pi Gamma Mu International Social Science Honorary has selected Wayne State College's Delta Chapter to appear on its National Roll of Distinction.

The award is based on the chapter's activities during the previous school year. The Chapter is judged on such criteria as chapter organization and participation, local initiative in developing new activities and programs, effectiveness of the chapter on its campus in promoting scholarships, initiation of members, and financial responsibility.

Being selected to the National Roll of Distinction is the highest honor a local chapter can receive, according to Dr. Jean Karlen, chapter sponsor and division head of Social Sciences at Wayne State.

The event, free and open to the public, will be held in the second-floor lounge of the Humanities Building.

His book, "Dismal River," was published in 1990. Block has also had various poems published in magazines and anthologies. He earned his bachelor or arts degree from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, and his master of arts degree from Syracuse University.

The Plains Writers Circuit is an ambitious effort to bring published authors to Wayne State College, according to Jim Brummels, assistant professor of English and published author at Wayne State.

This year marks the 14th consecutive year that authors have been hosted by the Circuit. Brummels says a consortium of four Nebraska Colleges sponsor the writers. They include Nebraska Wesleyan University, the University of Nebraska-Kearney, and Northeast Community College.

The Plains Writers Circuit also receives funding from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Wildcats win Lewis & Clark Conference Tournament

Winside crowned champs

Paul Giesselmann's Winside Wildcats volleyball team was crowned Lewis & Clark Tournament Champions for the second consecutive year Tuesday night in Ponca with a 15-5, 7-15, 15-6 victory over the host team Ponca.

Winside began tournament play on Monday with a 15-7, 15-4 win over Osmond and a 15-11, 9-15, 15-5 victory over Coleridge before advancing to the semifinals in Ponca on Tuesday.

The Wildcats defeated Wakefield 15-5, 15-9 to advance to the finals where they defeated Ponca. "We're really playing good volleyball right now," Giesselmann said. "It looks like we are peaking at the right time but we have a very tough sub-district so we have a lot of tough work ahead of us."

Against Osmond in the first round the Wildcats were led in serving by Patty Oberle with a 13-13 outing and three aces while Kari Pichler was 10-10 with one ace. Pichler had 13 set assists and Jenny Jacobsen led the team in hitting with six kill spikes. Wendy Rabe and Holly Holdorf each had three kills. Jacobsen and Rabe led the team in blocks with two and one respectively.

"We played very well against Osmond," Giesselmann said. "I was concerned that we might be looking ahead to Coleridge but the girls remained focus."

Pichler led the team in serving against Coleridge with a 17-17 performance and three aces while Oberle was 11-11 with three aces and Rabe was 9-9 with one ace.

Pichler had 26 set assists and Jacobsen led a balanced hitting attack with eight kill spikes while Rabe had seven and Holdorf, six. Oberle finished with five kills. Jacobsen and Rabe also had fine defensive games with seven and five blocks each.

"In our first loss of the season to Coleridge we were beaten at the net," Giesselmann said. "We adjusted on offense and defense this time and our girls really responded."

In semifinal action against Wakefield the Wildcats trailed 5-2 in the first game before scoring the next 13 points to win 15-5. "We played extremely well against Wakefield," Giesselmann said. "That was the best we've hit the ball since I've been in Winside. We finished with a team kill percentage of .600."

Oberle led the team in serving with her 8-8 outing while Pichler was 7-7. Pichler had 14 set assists and Holdorf led the hitters with eight kill spikes while Jacobsen had five. Jacobsen led Winside in blocks with four while Rabe had one.

In the championship match Holdorf led the team in serving with a 12-12 outing and three aces while Pichler was 9-9. Jacobsen was 15-16 with one ace and Oberle was 12-13 with four aces.

Pichler had 19 set assists for the Wildcats and Jacobsen led the team with nine kill spikes while Rabe had seven and Holdorf, five. Rabe led the team in blocks with five and Pichler had three while Jacobsen had two.

"I think some of the keys which are really helping us right now is our serving has improved and we are passing the ball better," Giesselmann said.

WINSIDE SETTER KARI Pichler long sets the ball to a teammate during the championship game of the Lewis & Clark Conference Tournament Tuesday in Ponca. Teammate Chris Colwell looks on.

PATTY OBERLE returns a Ponca serve while receiving encouragement from Jenny Jacobsen. The Wildcats won four straight matches to capture the crown.

Wakefield spikers beaten in semifinals

The Wakefield Trojans volleyball team defeated Wausa in quarterfinal action of the Lewis & Clark Conference Tournament last Monday night 15-8, 15-10 which vaulted them into the semifinals at Ponca on Tuesday in which they were defeated by the eventual champions Winside, 5-15, 9-15.

Against Wausa the Trojans served at 90 percent with Kristen Miller leading the way with a 15-16 outing and four aces. Lisa Blecke was 10-10 and Danielle Fallesen was 8-8. Heather Gustafson was 7-7 with two aces.

Miller was 25-25 in setting with 13 assists while Kathy Otte was 25-27 with 12 assists. Fallesen led the hitters with seven kill spikes on 18-19 attempts while Maria Eaton was 12-13 with five aces. Blecke was 11-13 with five kills and Sarah Salmon was 9-11 with four kills.

Blecke led the team in blocks with three. "We passed the ball real well against Wausa," Wakefield coach Paul Eaton said. "We played a good floor game. Lisa Anderson did a good job of passing the ball and Karla Boeckenhauer made some nice saves."

Things did not go as well for the Trojans against Winside however as they served below 80 percent. Miller led the team with a 6-6 outing and one ace while Kali Baker was 5-5 with one ace. Miller was 14-16 in setting with five assists while Otte was 17-20 with three assists.

Lisa Blecke led the 12-4 Trojans in hitting with eight kill spikes on a 14-17 outing.

Area volleyball teams set for districts

WAYNE-Wayne Herald volleyball coverage teams Wakefield, Allen and Winside will take part in sub-district play beginning Monday. Allen earned the top seed in their sub-district and will play Newcastle Monday night in Winside.

Winside will play Coleridge in the other sub-district game following the Allen-Newcastle clash and the two winners will meet for the right to play for a berth to the state tournament on Thursday in Randolph.

Wakefield will begin sub-district play on Tuesday at home against Ponca. The other contest will pit Wisner-Pilger against Homer. The two winners will square off at 8:15 p.m. with the right to play for a state tournament berth on Friday in Wayne.

Winside gridders defeated in finale

The Winside football team ended their season on a sour note Wednesday as Newcastle rolled to a 52-6 win at Winside. Winside finishes the year at 4-5 while Newcastle earned a state tournament berth with the victory.

"They have a real nice team," Winside head coach Randy Geier said. "The game ended with 35 seconds left in the third quarter." The visitors jumped out to a 24-0 lead after the first quarter and led 30-6 at halftime as Winside's lone score came on a 36-yard pass from Cory Jensen to John Hancock.

Newcastle ran for 319 yards while Winside managed 49. The visitors were 2-3 in passing for 78 yards and Jensen was 1-7 on the 36-yard touchdown pass. Jensen was Winside's leading rusher with 22 yards.

Jason Magwire led the Wildcats defense with 10 tackles while Jensen, Hancock, Jeremy Bruggeman and Jason Topp all had six tackles apiece. "It was a tough season in regard to injuries for us," Geier said. "We started 15 different people throughout the year because of them. I've never had a season with this many people hurt. There were as many injuries to our team this year as the four years before combined that I've been here."

Jason Krueger finished his senior season with the rare distinction of starting every game since he was a freshman through his senior year—36 straight games.

Management seminar in Norfolk on Nov. 12

Norfolk will be one of only three sites statewide for the Feedlot Management and Health Seminar sponsored by Cooperative Extension, Allied Industries Group, Nebraska Cattlemen and Nebraska Veterinary Medical Association. The same seminar will be presented in McCook on Nov. 13 and Hastings, Nov. 14.

The seminar is scheduled for the Villa Inn in Norfolk with registration at 12:30 p.m. and the program running from 1 to 5 p.m. The cost is $10 per person, including refreshments and a printed proceedings.

Dr. Gene White of the UNL Veterinary Science department is the program coordinator. Seminar speakers will discuss management and health issues associated with the feedlot and starting calves on feed. Speakers and topics include: Dr. Dee Griffin, NU Great Plains Veterinary Medical Education Center in Clay Center, vaccine responses; Dr. Earl Dickerson, NU Veterinary Science professor, respiratory diseases; Dr. Donald Hudson, veterinarian, NU West Central Research and Extension Center in North Platte, internal parasites.

Dave McClellan, Allied Industries Group, new industry products; Garry Kuhl, Kansas State University, ration management; Rollin Schneider, NU safety specialist, feedlot safety; and Dr. Rick Stock, NU feedlot specialist, "Cowboy Math" or "How to Improve the Bottom Line".

New map depicts potential for water contamination

With the release of a map depicting the relative vulnerability of Nebraska's groundwater to contamination, Nebraska Department of Environmental Control (NDEC) officials hope to provide a tool to the public that will describe the state's groundwater-pollution realities and possibilities.

So stated Dick Ehrman, unit supervisor for the Ground Water Section, Water Quality Division of NDEC. He also explained that while the computer-generated map, a product of geographic information system (GIS) technology, provides no new information about areas prone to contamination, it should help raise public awareness about vulnerable regions and what is being done about them. As such, the map is useful only for general assessment. Any site-specific examination should involve a professional analysis.

To make the map, statewide groundwater vulnerability was determined using the DRASTIC method, developed in 1985 by the National Water Well Association and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. DRASTIC combines seven hydrogeological, topographic and soils factors into a single map through the use of GIS, said Donald C. Rundquist, director of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Center for Advanced Land Management Information Technologies. Researchers with the center, part of the Conservation and Survey Division of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources at UNL, used GIS to assemble the map.

The DRASTIC acronym stands for the seven factors: depth to water, recharge, aquifer media, soil media, topography, influence of the vadose or unsaturated zone and the conductivity (hydraulic) of the aquifer.

Each factor is given a rating from 1 to 10; 1 indicates a low probability of contamination and 10 indicates a high probability. For example, if the depth to water of a specific location is 5 feet or less, a rating of 10 would be assigned for that variable. It would rate a "1" if the depth to water is 100 feet or more.

The ratings are then multiplied by various "weights" to determine their relative importance, and each factor is mapped separately using a GIS. The final step is to combine all seven maps to produce a single map showing contamination potential.

The NDEC map displays areas with high vulnerability to contamination in warm colors like red and orange and areas with low vulnerability in cool colors like gray and blue. As a result, Ehrman said, the DRASTIC map provides a basic understanding of any area's relative groundwater vulnerability at a glance.

DRASTIC is one method used by NDEC to evaluate contaminated areas and to determine where contamination is possible, Ehrman said. The method also is one considered in the process of setting up special groundwater protection areas to limit nitrate and nonpoint-source pollutant contamination, he said.

The full-color, poster-sized map, titled "Groundwater Vulnerability to Contamination in Nebraska Using the DRASTIC Method," is available for $2.50, plus $1.50 postage for a folded map or $2 for an unfolded map in a tube, from the Conservation and Survey Division, 113 Nebraska Hall, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Lincoln, Neb., 68588-0517.

New herbicide, pesticide bulletins available

New publications that classify herbicides by mode of action and describe pesticide application laws have been released by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Cooperative Extension.

The publication on "Pesticide Laws and Regulations," G79-479 (revised), includes a description of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA) and its user categories.

Other topics include record keeping requirements for commercial and private applicators, certification requirements, unlawful acts, civil and criminal penalties, and the Nebraska Pesticides and Devices Act. The publication was revised in August 1991 by Edward Vitzthum, coordinator of Environmental Programs and Larry Schulze, pesticide coordinator at UNL.

"Herbicide Mode of Action and Injury Symptoms" RP 377, is a North Central Region publication which classified herbicides by mode of action and links the herbicide to injury symptoms. Modes of action described are growth regulation, amino acid synthesis inhibition, lipid synthesis inhibition, weedling growth inhibition, photosynthesis inhibition, cell membrane destruction, and pigment inhibition. Color plant injury photos included can help identification. The cost is $2 plus postage and handling.

These publications can be obtained through local extension offices.

Sealing structure cover stops mite invasion

Keeping clover mites out of buildings this autumn will stop an invasion by their offspring the following spring, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln entomology technician said.

Jim Kalisch said these tiny, greenish-red, eight-legged pests enter buildings in autumn after the plants they thrive on die or become dormant.

These mites then seek shelter in cracks and crevices in walls or windows, Kalisch said. They lay eggs and next spring, the mites and thousands of offspring hatched from reddish eggs can cause a major nuisance as they evacuate the building, he said.

Kalisch offers these tips to keep clover mites out of buildings:

- Caulk cracks and crevices in walls, foundations, and around windows and doors.

- Remove dead plants lying near the building and mow nearby lawn closely.

- Spray insecticide in a band several feet above the soil line along the exterior walls and between 15 to 20 feet into the adjacent lawn. Shrubs and perennials planted in the affected area may be treated as well by some insecticides. Suitable over-the-counter insecticides include chlorpyrifos (Dursban), diazinon, or propoxur (Baygon).

Saving time and money

Cleaning sprayers helps in the spring

Cleaning and protecting commercial, agricultural, and home-use chemical sprayers this autumn can prevent unnecessary costs and wasted time next spring, according to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln engineer.

To clean small, home-use sprayers, Robert Grisso suggests shaking the tank filled with clean water and then dumping it out. Repeat as needed and dry. Then coat the tank interior with WD 40 and store in a dry place, Grisso said.

Grisso and Lancaster County Extension Agent Dave Varner suggest these tips for cleaning and storing larger commercial and agricultural chemical sprayers:

- Check pesticide labels to determine which solution to use in cleaning sprayer.

- Flush sprayer with clean water before adding cleaning solution containing two pounds of detergent for each 30 to 40 gallons.

Agitate thoroughly and let the water-detergent solution circulate through the sprayer's system for several minutes.

- Remove nozzles and flush system twice with clean water. Clean nozzle tips and screens with a strong detergent solution or kerosene with a soft brush such as a toothbrush.

- Store metal nozzle tips in a can of light oil such as diesel fuel or kerosene and store plastic or nylon tips in a dry place.

- Use one gallon of stoddard solvent, kerosene, or diesel fuel for 25 gallons of water to remove the putty-like paste caused by some pesticide combinations. Then use the water-detergent solution.

- Clean tanks previously filled with phenoxy herbicides (such as Esters of 2,4-D) by first rinsing with clean water and then mixing 25 gallons of water with either one quart of household ammonia, one pound of washing soda (sal soda), Cleaning sprayers can prevent unnecessary costs and wasted time in the spring, according to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln engineer.

or two pounds of trisodium phosphate. Circulate this solution and let a little flow through the nozzles. Keep the solution in the tank overnight before pumping it out the next day. Then rinse and flush the system with clean water.

- Examine hoses, clamps, connections, anti-drip valves, nozzle tips and screens and order necessary replacements during final cleaning.

- Store sprayers inside. If this is not possible, remove and clean hoses and store them inside by coiling them around a large round object to prevent sharp creases. Cover the sprayer.

- Add one to five gallons of lightweight oil, depending on tank size, to rinsing water before final flushing of sprayers without rubber parts. When water is pumped from the sprayer, the oil leaves a coating that protects the tank.

- Drain water completely from all parts with compressed air to prevent freezing.

- Remove pump and store in dry place. If this is not possible, add a small amount of pump manufacturer-approved oil and rotate the pump four or five revolutions by hand until the interior is completely coated. If oil is not recommended, use one tablespoon of radiator rust inhibitor in the pump's inlet and outlet to stop corrosion from forming.

WSC hosts career information day

Wayne State College students and faculty will have the opportunity to visit more than 40 employers Thursday, Nov. 7, as the college hosts its annual Career Information Day.
 Students and faculty may visit with various employers from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., in the Wayne State Student Center.

The event is structured as an information-gathering day for students who have question about future careers. Students will also learn about cooperative education and internship opportunities.
 Seniors can begin to identify specific entry-level positions, present resumes, and learn about hiring procedures, career paths, and other relative information.

CITY OF WAYNE ELECTRIC

Albert and Edna chose electric heat and electric water heating for a lot of reasons.
 They chose electricity because it's clean.
 They chose it because it's safe.
 They chose it because electric rates have stayed low.
 But mostly, they chose electric heat because it comes from readily available energy sources.
 With electricity, there's an abundant supply of energy.

Edna wishes the same could be said about Albert.

PRODUCTION WORKERS

IBP currently has good jobs for qualified applicants at its West Point, Nebraska, beef plant. Experience is desirable, but not required. Successful applicants must have a good work history, appropriate physical qualifications and a strong willingness to work. We will train.

And as a new incentive for entry level workers, we have created a "QUICK START" program to allow qualified employees to bypass the starting rate progression to $8 per hour plus skill pay.

Benefits Include:
*A starting wage of $6.65 per hour with .20c increases each 90 days until a base of $8 is reached. Qualification for QUICK START means immediate progression to $8 plus skill play.
*Paid Holidays/Vacation
*Guaranteed 40 hour work week
*Outstanding medical benefits package
*Savings and retirement
*Opportunity for advancement
