WITHOUT THE WAYNE COUNTY JUVENILE Detention Center, area counties are concerned over what they will do with juvenile law breakers. Officials from some of the counties which are contracted to use the Wayne County facility say they would support either providing more money for the facility or administrative changes.

Closure would be damaging Decision puzzles officials

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

County officials from six of the 22 contracted governing bodies involved in the agreement to operate the Wayne County Juvenile Detention Center (JDC), are mystified by the Wayne County Commissioners decision to close the facility.

County officials were contacted on the basis of counties close to the same size as Wayne County, with the exception of Dakota County. Counties contacted are all responsible for the operation of the JDC. Contacts with Dakota County were made because of its proximity to and use of the Wayne County facility. Of the individuals interviewed, all but one knew of the problems the JDC has had with approximately eight escapes.

Officials expressed everything from shock of the announcement to disappointment. Most said they would like to delve into the problem further and a few of the officials said they thought the JDC should be governed by a broader body with an administrator in control of the facility, rather than having the county sheriff pull double duty. None of the counties contacted said they anticipate that lawsuits will result from the closure. So far, the counties have not been officially notified.

If all figures add up, Wayne County could face a bigger financial crisis than originally expected. Surveys of sheriff/jail budgets for Antelope, Cedar, Dakota, Dixon, Pierce and Thurston Counties is considerably higher than the initial $50,000 Wayne County could face if the jail transforms from a juvenile facility to an adult facility.

The lowest cost of operating an adult facility/sheriff's department, came from Dixon County, which saw $165,111 in expenditures

Should it be closed: second in a series.

This is the second article in a series analyzing whether the Wayne County Juvenile Detention Center should be closed.

The third, and final, installment will focus on what options are available for where a juvenile detention center can go. It will also address the perceptions of having it in Wayne County and it will analyze the use of the Wayne County facility as a juvenile detention center.

during the 1990-91 fiscal year. Dixon County's projected budget for the 1991-92 fiscal year runs at $189,823. The highest budget was in Dakota County, which overbudgeted in 1990-91 had expenditures of $706,131. Their estimated budget for 1991-92 is $735,057.

From the counties which provided jail costs, Cedar County's budget for 1991-92 is $85,180; Pierce County's budget for 1991-92 is $92,125 and Thurston County's budget for 1991-92 is $107,000. Dixon County's jail budget alone composes $47,560.

Sheriff's operations in four of the counties reporting were higher than Wayne County's, which is $40,415. Thurston County's budget in 1991-92 is $115,280; Pierce County's is $110,125; Dixon County's is $142,263; and Cedar County's is $179,943.

"It's their county and their facility," said Cedar County Sheriff Elliot Arens. "They have a right to determine what it's used for but they (Wayne County) did choose to get involved in the first place. I think they should have studied closing the facility a little bit more before deciding to close it. They shouldn't react to a small number of people's complaints."

Money there

Representatives from Pierce and Dixon Counties both said they thought the commissioners were quick to make their decision to close the JDC. Dwaine Gansbom of Osmond, chairman for the Pierce County Commissioners, said Pierce County would be willing to provide more money for juvenile justice. So did Dixon County Board of Supervisors Chairman Russel Fleury of Ponca.

"We were shocked and opposed to the closing," Fleury said. "When we contracted, it was with the understanding that adults (from Wayne County) would be housed in other facilities and the juveniles would be sent to Wayne. The problem I have with this decision is that Wayne County has a three-commissioner form of government, two votes close the facility. What I'd like to see is a meeting of representatives from each of the 20 participating counties sometime in January to see if something can be worked out."

Both Fleury and Gansbom said they favor seeing efforts made to make the JDC more secure. Officials said they would like to see an additional fence built around the JDC and many said they would like to see a lid put on the facility's ex-

Hospital seeks physicians

The Governing Board and Medical Staff of Providence Medical Center have analyzed the physician situation in Wayne and in the satellite communities physicians visit. It has been determined that to better serve the population, more physicians are needed, according to a written press release issued by Providence Medical Center.

To facilitate communication a physician recruitment task force was formed. Members of the task force include: Dr. Donald Mash, Wayne; Rod Tompkins, Wayne; Lowell Johnson, Wakefield; Jean Gardner, Wakefield; Jim Recob, Laurel; Marilyn White, Laurel; Clarence Schmitt, Wisner; and Richard Norgard, Wisner. Sister Kevin Hermen represents the PMC governing board and the hospital administrator, Marcie Thomas, is a member as well.

The members of the PMC medical staff give impetus to the task force with their presence.

THE TASK FORCE met for the first time Dec. 5 at Providence. There was considerable discussion on the difficulties facing rural health care delivery which include: Short supply of new family physicians and intense competition for those remaining candidates. Incentives communities are offering include: 1. sign on bonus; 2.

medical school loan retirement or help with repayment; 3. low interest bank loans.

According to recent statistics, northeast Nebraska has lost approximately 45 percent of its physicians in the last 10 years. Changing governmental regulations and reimbursement patterns further complicate this process. Coordinating funding from multiple sources to support this process was discussed.

Marcie Thomas informed the group that the financial position of the hospital at the present time is stable, but that an adequate medical staff is necessary to ensure future growth and service.

Stater upsets WSC officials

Wayne State College officials say they are disappointed with several members of the Wayne Stater staff following the publication of a satirical section of their newspaper which contained vulgarities.

"We are extremely disappointed in the poor judgement that was used by several members of the Wayne Stater staff this past week," said Jeff Beckman, director of college relations.

"A few staff members violated editorial privileges with which they are entrusted. It's unfortunate that irresponsible actions by a few staff members have embarrassed the college, its students and our alumni and friends."

BECKMAN SAID Stater staff members prepared the four-page satirical section with permission from their faculty advisor; however, Maureen Williams, the advisor, said she gave students permission to print the special section upon the condition that nothing vulgar or libelous would be published.

Ms. Williams, who normally reviews each issue, was off-campus when the Stater was composed on Tuesday and printed on Wednesday, so she called the Stater editor on the publication date and was assured by the editor that the conditions would be met.

Ms. Williams said she was "shocked, embarrassed and upset" with the section when she discovered that her conditions were not honored.

RACHAEL BELZ, editor of the Stater, said she and several staff members decided to publish the section after reading other college newspapers that carried similar sections.

"We had seen other colleges' parody joke issues," Belz said. "We felt it would be fun and light-hearted for the college since there is a lot of stress with papers and stress during finals week. I don't believe the words used were offensive."

Beckman said college officials strongly disagreed with Belz.

"We feel the vulgarities were offensive and we apologize to persons who were offended. The words used in the Stater, and the actions of a few Stater members, run counter to the fine reputation the college and the Stater have developed over the years."

"The vast majority of our students and Stater staff members are responsible adults who use good professional judgement. In this case, several students failed to responsibly exercise good judgement. Unfortunately, many will suffer embarrassment because of the actions of a few Stater staff members."

ercise area, so juveniles can't scale the fence.

By Thursday, the Wayne County Commissioners had received, at least, one letter from the Pierce County Board endorsing its support for the JDC. Gansbom said he would like to see the Wayne County Commissioners reconsider their position. The commissioners voted 2-1 to close the facility.

"If there's problems, we'd go along with the increase in fees," he said. "If there's administrative problems, we'll support a change."

One option

One idea Fleury said he would like to see brought forth at the next meeting of the JDC county representatives is to have a joint commission with representatives from all of the counties determine how the JDC should be run. He said he doesn't support the idea that three commissioners from one county can determine the future of a facility he considers vital to northeast Nebraska.

"For a facility which houses juvenile offenders from 22 counties, it's quite a responsibility for three people, especially when they're elected from only one county," he said.

One suggestion that has been made would be to create a governing board composed of representatives from all of the counties participating in the agreement. That governing board would be composed of all three Wayne County Commissioners and, at least, one representative from each of the 22 contracted governing bodies.

Through that governing body, a commission in Wayne County would be established and the two bodies would hire an administrator to oversee operations at the JDC. Gansbom said he believes the lines of communication need to be opened, not only between Wayne County and other county officials but among the Wayne County Board and Sheriff.

"I can understand Wayne County's point of view," he said. "If the Wayne County board decides to close it, it's done. But that puts other counties in a bind. I don't want to criticize Wayne County but we're willing to work with them to get the problem resolved."

"Not only does this benefit all the counties but it also benefits Wayne County," Arens said. "I think the whole matter has been blown out of proportion. ...I think (Wayne County Sheriff) LeRoy Janssen has done a great job for what he has to work with but this decision is going to put all the participating counties in a bind. With a little input from the 22 bodies, the problem could have been resolved. I don't know, maybe it still can be."

Wakefield boys win big while girls lose by one

The Wakefield boys basketball team battled a stingy Wausa team Friday night in Wakefield for three quarters before Brad Hoskins team pulled away for a convincing 65-47 victory to up the record to 2-1.

Gregg Cruickshank's girls team, however, didn't have the same luck as Wausa pulled out a close 39-38 decision sending the Trojans to their first loss at 2-1.

In the boys contest Anthony Brown made a mockery of the Wausa defense as he weaved and gunned his way to a 25 point night—16 of which came in the first half.

Fortunately for the Trojans, Brown was having a good night in the first half because it didn't seem like anyone else was as Hoskins wasn't overly impressed with his team's first half performance.

"We were disappointed in our first half play," Hoskins said. "We challenged the kids to come out and play much better on the defensive side of the ball in the second half and they responded."

Wakefield led 16-15 after one quarter of play and 32-26 at the break. The Trojans outscored Wausa 12-8 in the third quarter to take a 10-point cushion into the final eight minutes at 44-34.

Wakefield built its lead to 22 points in the fourth period before the benches were cleared for the subs. Wausa scored five points in the final minute to help close the margin of defeat.

Brown, as mentioned, led the Trojans with 25 points and the senior guard nearly pulled the infamous triple double as he hauled down a team high 10 rebounds and dished out a team high eight assists. Brown also blocked two shots.

Two other Trojans finished in double figures as Dalton Rhodes and Ben Dutton scored 11 points apiece while Marcus Tappe scored seven points before fouling out in the fourth period. Larry Johnson netted five and Steve Clark added four before Jon Johnson closed out the scoring with two.

The Trojans connected on 16 of 22 free throw attempts while Wausa hit just 8-16. Wakefield had 17 turnovers which was too many in the mind of Hoskins. The Trojans defense forced the Vikings into 25 turnovers.

Wakefield dominated the battle of the boards, 28-12. Counting Friday's win over Wausa the Trojans started a five-game, eight day stretch of games. After a contest in Lyons on Saturday the Trojans host Osmond on Thursday before traveling to Hartington on Friday.

The Wakefield girls led 11-9 after the first quarter against Wausa and maintained that two point advantage at halftime with a 20-18 score. Wakefield could not shake the visitors as they held that same two point lead after three quarters of play at 30-28.

Down the stretch in the fourth quarter the Trojans built a 34-30 lead and gained control of the basketball only to have the inbound pass stolen which resulted in an easy lay-in for Wausa to close the gap to two at 34-32.

Finally, with 15 seconds left in the contest and the score tied at 38, Elizabeth Clarkson stepped to the free throw line for two shots. She made the first one to give her team a 39-38 advantage. She missed the second and Wakefield brought the ball down court for what they hoped was the eventual game winner. The shot however, drew iron and thus, the Trojans were upset on their home floor.

"It's a tough loss," Cruickshank said. "I was happy with the way our girls competed but too many mistakes against the press hurt us and it wasn't the press that really hurt us but unforced errors against the press."

Cruickshank, however, gave Wausa credit for playing a good game. "They executed their offense well," Cruickshank said. "You really have to give them credit."

Lisa Blecke led Wakefield with 12 points while Heidi Muller came off the bench to pour in 10. Angi Peterson added eight and Sarah Salmon scored four. Kristen Miller and Lisa Anderson added two points each.

Wayne gals defeated

The Wayne Blue Devils girls basketball team traveled to Battle Creek to face the rated Bravettes Thursday night and Marlene Uhing's team fell, 45-36, which left Wayne with a 0-2 record.

"We played a good game until the fourth quarter when we were outscored by eight," Uhing said. "Our girls gave a lot better effort this game and we ran the offense better. Rebounding and turnovers hurt us."

managed just three, fourth quarter points and Battle Creek hit five free throws down the stretch to preserve the win.

"We just didn't hit our shots," Uhing said. "We were 15-46 from the floor for 33 percent. We gave Battle Creek to many offensive rebounds which resulted in second chance points."

Liz Heg led Wayne with 14 points while Erin Pick netted eight. Susan Ensz and Danielle Nelson each scored seven points to round out the Blue Devils scoring.

Battle Creek held a 23-18 advantage on the boards with Wayne being led by Pick's seven caroms. The Blue Devils suffered 17 turnovers in the game while Battle

Allen girls lose close battle against Ponca

The Allen girls basketball team lost a close game to highly touted Ponca Thursday night, 58-49 in Allen. The loss left coaches Lori Koester and Gary Erwin with a 1-1 record while Ponca remained undefeated in four outings.

"It was a very close game all the way," Koester said. "We lost a couple girls in the fourth quarter with fouls and that hurt us but we also had too many turnovers which proved to be costly."

Ponca held a 15-14 lead after the first period and a 30-25 lead at the intermission. Both teams battled evenly in the third period so Ponca maintained a five point lead heading to the fourth quarter at 41-36.

"Both teams played a very pressing game and we felt we could wear them out but in the process we kind of got wore down," Koester said. "We felt that we did a good job of handling Ponca's press up the court but we got into trouble with turnovers when we had the ball on our half of the court."

Cindy Chase proved to be unstoppable for the Lady Eagles as she tallied 21 points while Heather Sachau was also in double figures with 11. Steph Martinson finished with six points and Denise Boyle netted five.

Christy Philbrick scored four points and Sonya Plueger rounded out the scoring with two. The Eagles out-rebounded Ponca, 35-34 as Chase led the way with 11 caroms.

Allen had 28 turnovers in the game while Ponca suffered 17. The Eagles were 13-18 from the free throw line while Ponca was 13-32. "We shot free throws very well," Koester said. "In fact we hit 7-10 in the fourth quarter."

Allen will travel to play Hartington on Tuesday before traveling to play state rated Newcastle on Thursday.

Junior-high girls play West Point

WAYNE-The junior high girls basketball teams traveled to play West Point recently with the seventh graders improving to 3-0 with a 25-10 win. Kari Wetterberg and Anne Wiseman led the way with five points each while Katy Wilson and Katie Lutt scored four each. Carrie Hampton, Melissa Weber and Christine Swinney netted two each and Sarah Metzler had one.

Metzler led the team in rebounding with eight while Wilson hauled down six boards. Wiseman had five rebounds and Lutt had four.

The eighth grade team lost 23-11 to drop to 0-3. Cori Langenfeld led the team with four points while Sandy Burbach scored three. Erica Stoltenberg and Erin Langemeier finished with two points each.

Langenfeld led the team in rebounds with eight while Burbach had five and Stoltenberg, four.

Creek had 12.

Wayne was 5-10 from the foul line while the host team was 7-11.

"We were forced to foul them late in the fourth quarter because we were behind and they hit their free throws," Uhing said.

In the reserve game Wayne was blasted by Battle Creek, 52-21. Jenny Thompson led the reserves with six points while Kim Kruse added five. Wayne will host West Point on Thursday.

Winside falls to 0-4 after loss

The Winside girls basketball team fell to 0-4 Thursday night with a 46-30 loss to Newcastle on the number six-rated Lady Red Raiders home floor. Winside trailed 12-10 after the first quarter but the Wildcats scored just two points in the second period while the host team scored 12 for a 24-12 intermission advantage.

"I believe the second quarter is where we lost the game," Winside coach Paul Giesselmann said. "Wendy Rabe and Holly Holdorf got into foul trouble in that quarter and we just couldn't put the ball in the basket."

Giesselmann was pleased with his team's overall performance, however. "We played right with the number six team in the state for three quarters," Giesselmann said. "We had just 14 turnovers and we played on their home floor."

Jenny Jacobsen led Winside with 16 points while Rabe netted six. Holdorf finished with four while Christi Mundil and Patty Oberle netted two points apiece.

One area Winside needs to improve on is rebounding as they were pounded on the boards, 62-34. "We gave up 28 offensive rebounds which resulted in a lot of second chance points," Giesselmann said. "Newcastle is a big and physical team but we should have done a better job of blocking out on the boards."

Winside forced Newcastle into 19 turnovers and the Wildcats were 4-9 from the free throw line while Newcastle was 1-10. "The five free throws we missed were all front ends of one-and-ones," Giesselmann said. "We feel we are starting to put things together but we have to cut down on fouls and keep playing hard."

Winside will host another top caliber team in Bancroft-Rosalie on Tuesday in a girls-boys double-header.

WSC women gain huge victory

Mike Barry's Wayne State women's basketball team gained a huge victory Wednesday night in Rice Auditorium as they upset the University of South Dakota, 82-81 in overtime.

The Wildcats gained revenge on the Lady Coyotes for an embarrassing 37-point loss just two weeks earlier in South Dakota. "Our girls came in with a great mental attitude about playing USD despite our big loss to them earlier," Barry said. "This was our first win ever over USD in nine outings and for them it was the first loss of the season in six games."

The teams battled back and forth all game long as WSC's biggest lead of the game was six points while USD's biggest lead was seven. The visitors maintained a 35-33 halftime advantage.

Mary Schnitzler drained a 3-pointer to start the second half for WSC which put them on top by one point at 36-35. The lead then see-sawed down to the final seconds of regulation.

The game was tied at 73 with 24 seconds left after USD's Susan McEntee hit two free throws. WSC brought the ball up the floor to set up for the final shot. Barry called time out with seven seconds remaining to set up the play but McEntee stepped in front of a Dana Olmsted pass and time expired which sent the game into overtime.

WSC took a 76-73 lead on USD early in overtime but the visitors came back and led 79-78 before Cheri VanAuker got the offensive rebound on a missed Lisa Chamberlin jump shot and hit the short jumper to give WSC back the lead at 80-79.

McEntee, however, made two free throws to give her squad back the lead at 81-80 with 1:54 remaining. Both teams then missed scoring opportunities until WSC got the ball back with 32 seconds when VanAuker rebounded a missed USD shot attempt.

Chamberlin got open and drove the baseline for a lay-up for the eventual game winner with 22 seconds left. USD missed a 3-pointer and committed a foul which sent Kairi Backer to the free throw line for a one-and-one with six seconds remaining.

Backer missed the free throw but the Wildcats defense did not allow USD a good clean shot at the buzzer. "This is just a gigantic win for our program," Barry said. "This could be a victory that propels us for the rest of the season. Last year we got upset wins over Midland and Mankato State."

The Wildcats connected on 29-61 shot attempts from the field which is 47.5 percent while USD was 29-75 for 38.7 percent. The Wildcats were 5-8 from three-point range while USD was 5-12. WSC connected on 19-31 free throw attempts and USD was 18-26 from the charity stripe.

Chamberlin led the Wildcats in scoring with 21 points while Schnitzler poured in 19. Jodi Otjen scored 15 points and VanAuker finished in double figures with 12. Olmsted scored five and Backer added four. Lynn Nohr and Linda Heller each scored three points to round out the attack. McEntee led USD with 23 points.

WSC out-rebounded USD, 49-44 led by the two post players. Otjen and VanAuker with 12 caroms apiece. Chamberlin hauled down seven boards and Schnitzler notched five rebounds.

The win for WSC put them over the .500 mark at 4-3.

Wayne State men lose to Bearcats by seven

The Wayne State men's basketball team fell to 2-5 with a 62-55 loss against Northwest Missouri State University Wednesday night in Rice Auditorium. The win left NWMSU undefeated in seven outings.

The Wildcats jumped out to a 4-0 lead quickly on a short jumper by David Allen and a lay-up by Billy Patterson but the visiting Bearcats clawed their way back and eventually took a seven point lead at 24-17 with 7:36 remaining in the first half.

Wayne State closed that gap to one at 31-30 with just over a minute to go in the first half but NWMSU went into the locker room with a two point advantage at 32-30.

In the second half the Wildcats came out and tied the score on a tip-in from Allen. On the next trip down the floor and trailing by one, Doug Kuszak shot from three-point range and missed but Allen rebounded and shot himself. He also missed but Ricky Watson was there and tipped the ball back in to give Mike Brewen's Wildcats a 34-33 advantage.

Buckets by Allen and Watson on ensuing trips increased WSC's lead to five at 38-33 but consecutive 3-pointers by Kevin Shelvin gave the visitors the lead back at 39-38.

The lead kept changing hands until the 6:32 mark of the second half when Steve Dunbar drained a 3-pointer which gave WSC a 50-47 advantage. Unfortunately for the Wildcats, it was the final lead they would enjoy as NWMSU went on a 12-0 run to lead 59-50 with 2:41 remaining.

The Wildcats could only get as close as six points from that point on. WSC shot 39.6 percent from the floor on 21-53 attempts while sinking just 34.6 percent from the free throw line on 9-26.

NWMSU shot 41.3 percent from the floor on 19-46 attempts but they won the game at the free throw line where they hit 20 of 28 attempts for 71.4 percent.

Allen led WSC in scoring with 17 points while Doug Kuszak scored 10. Patterson finished with nine and Dunbar added eight. Watson scored seven and John Schott netted three. Keith Whitfield finished with one point.

Allen also led WSC in rebounding with 15 caroms. WSC out-rebounded their opponent, 37-35. The Wildcats had 17 turnovers while NWMSU had 18. Allen led WSC in assists with four while Dunbar dished out three.

Groundwater contamination is becoming a concern for Northeast Nebraskans. Water from many domestic and irrigation wells in this part of the state have tested at or over the established safety level for nitrate-nitrogen.

There are several possible causes for this and other types of groundwater contamination, but one source many people are not aware of is abandoned wells.

It is estimated that there could be as many as 150,000 abandoned wells in Nebraska. These wells include old domestic wells on deserted farmsteads and irrigation wells that are no longer in use.

Besides being a safety hazard for children, adults and animals who could fall into a large diameter well, abandoned wells can also be a direct conduit for groundwater contamination.

Surface runoff that could contain ag chemicals and other contaminants can easily run down an abandoned well and enter the aquifer. According to DeLynn Hay, University of Nebraska water resources and irrigation extension specialist, "Pesticides, fertilizers, bacteria and livestock waste have the potential of going down an old well and could threaten the landowner's own domestic water supply."

Contaminated runoff can even flow into wells that are covered with rocks, sheet metal or other materials. A properly sealed well can eliminate both the safety and contamination hazards of abandoned wells.

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District has established the Well Sealing Program to help landowners properly seal abandoned wells on their property.

Landowners who qualify for the program will pay the first $100 for sealing an irrigation well or $50 for sealing a domestic well. The Lower Elkhorn NRD will contract with well drillers to seal the well and will pay the remaining cost.

Applications for the Lower Elkhorn NRD Well Sealing Program will be accepted until January 31, 1992. To apply, contact your local Soil Conservation Service office.
