Recapping 1991's top stories

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following year-ending article lists the top 25 stories of 1991 in The Wayne Herald coverage area. Stories are listed by their publication dates.

U.S. goes to war in Persian Gulf. Victory swift; Gulf war ends.
Kennedy nephew accused of sexual assault. Jury acquits William Kennedy Smith in December.

Thurgood Marshall retires from Supreme Court. Bush nominates Clarence Thomas. Senate approves nominee after accusations of sexual harassment Soviet Union in turmoil, Gorbachev appears overthrown. Gorbachev resigns as Soviet Union dissolves.

These are just a few examples of stories that have touched the lives of many of us during 1991. Just as the nation and the world have seen a number of transformations many of us believed unbelievable, a number of events have occurred which will shape the future.

This year ender article offers a chance to review what has happened in 1991 with particular emphasis on The Wayne Herald coverage area. During the course of the year, much has happened. At times events have been positive. On other occasions it has been tragic. In every case, things that have occurred will shape the course for our future in 1992.

War affects many area people

With the war in the Persian Gulf underway, many communities in the area undertook projects to show their support for troops sent to Saudi Arabia. Residents in Wakefield decorated their town with plaques and ribbons to support soldiers from there. During the course of the war, yellow ribbons decorated many areas of northeast Nebraska.

Like many in the nation, people were glued to their TV sets to watch

CNN to see how events were taking shape in the war. Churches and support groups were set up to assist families that had members fighting in the Persian Gulf. Fortunately, the war ended quickly and there were no local deaths from the conflict.

City's recreation-leisure plan fails

Feb. 14, 25, 28

Wayne residents came out in full force opposing plans by the city to reorganize its recreation department. Under the initial proposal, the city administrator would hire a recreation director and that individual would have been in charge of the city's programs.

Due to citizen input and opposition to the plan, the measure failed. The council later drew up a new plan in which the city administrator would oversee the recreation-leisure services program, establishing an expanded committee that would implement programs and a leisure coordinator would oversee program operations.

The GOLDEN YEARS Pat Suchty

What does it take to make a mar riage last for 50 years or more? Fifty couples who have been married from 50 to 72 years were asked to tell why their marriages had endured. Foremost among the answers was "communication" - the willingness to talk things out. among other reasons they cited were dating for a year or more before marriage and for life. The 50 happily-married couples responded to queries by the Family and Child Studies Center of Miami University in Oxford, Ohio.

Looking at alternatives when market tightens

As profit margins are squeezed in the feeder cattle market, other marketing alternatives should be considered.
Dr. Terry Mader, beef specialist for the University of Nebraska, Northeast Research and Extension center, Concord, says, "Whenever we get into the situation where the cost of production, or in this case, the profits from selling weaned calves may be less than what the cost of production is, we need to evaluate what alternatives we have to cover our costs.

A rough rule of thumb is that you need to average at least 90-to 95 cents per pound for weaned steer and heifer calves, says Mader. Current market conditions put producers at about the break even "If the market should dwindle anymore," says Mader, "then we need to consider feeding them ourselves, by holding onto them a little longer through backgrounding or possibly finishing phases of production. For producers to do this, it depends on the feed sources that they have available and the cost of the feed sources."

and the cost of the feed sources. He adds that hay and corn are generally inexpensive in this area.

"It's possible for producers to efficiently background these calves with feed and yardage at about 40 cents per pound per gain," Mader adds. "When achieving a two-pound gain per day or more, this alternative is very economical."

According to Mader, back-

According to Mader, back-grounding is taking the weaned calf and providing a high roughage ration for 60 to 80 days. Typically, the diet consists of hay, corn silage and some corn. This ration helps them adjust to the feedlot and them adjust to the feedlot and feeding conditions, preparing them for higher energy rations containing grain.

There are some advantages to having a commercial feedlot finish cattle out as opposed to the origi-nal owner. Normally, a commercial feedlot has the expertise to get optimum performance. Their cost of gains are typically lower than maybe what we might see in some maybe what we might see in some retained ownership situations where that calf stays on the producer's place. Also, the cattle are typically marketed a lot quicker," says Mader. "However, before entering into any agreement with a commercial lot, make sure feed and feeding costs are known."

Some commercial feedlots allow the farmer/feeder to utilize their own feed. This helps keep his feed costs down and he can use it to feed his own livestock rather than selling it elsewhere.

Mader says that taking cattle to a commercial feedlot is often recommended if a producer does not have proper facilities to feed them out. Also, other enterprises, such as calving and corn planting inter-fere with feedlot cattle care. Sim-ply stated, producers do not always have time to give calves the best possible care.

The only drawback to finishing calves is it doesn't matter whether you sell the calves to somebody else. 'The fat cattle have been else. "The fat cattle have been extremely variable for finished cattle during the summer and fall periods," says Mader, "Typically, however, between the time of weaning and finishing, there is almost always a chance to sell that animal at a profit and get a return that's above the cost of production."

Allen girls nearly pull upset ALLEN-The Allen girls basketball team nearly pulled the upset of the season last week in Newcastle, but wound up dropping a 51-50 decision to the fourth rated Lady Red Raiders.

Allen led 10-8 after the first quarter but the host team held a slim two-point advantage at the intermission at 23-21. Allen trimmed that lead to just one point at 38-37 heading into the final eight minutes where both teams see-sawed back and forth before Pleaster Sachau led the Eagles with 22 points while Sonya Plueger poured in 10. "It was a good game all the way," Allen coaches Lori Koester and Gary Erwin said. "We went into the game without some of our girls who had the flu but we played them touch." The Eagles definitely made a statement that they will be a force to be reckoned with come districts. Allen out-rebounded Newcastle, to be reckoned with come districts. Allen out-rebounded Newcastle, 31-26 as Plueger hauled down nine and freshman Tonya Plueger had five. "We had to start a freshman because of our sickness," Koester said. "Tonya stepped in and did a real good job." Allen had 21 turnovers while the host team suffered 25. The Eagles were 6-12 from the free throw line while Newcastle was 8-19. "Newcastle had two real fine players in Mandy Thomas who scored 26 and Becky Addison who had 16," Koester said.

Some tips for holiday goodies

Whether you're preparing food for a crowd or a New Year's Eve party, it's not hard to eat healthy, even at holiday time, according to Darlene Martin, University of Ne-braska nutrition specialist.

"Just keep in mind a few survival strategies," she suggests. "Try to strive for variety in your total diet by including foods from all of the food groups. For example, have fruits and vegetables as well as cakes and cookies. Go easy on cakes and cookies. Go easy on holiday goodies that are loaded with fat, sugar and salt. Moderation is the key.

"It's your total diet that counts, not just one food or one meal. Any food can fit into a healthful diet," said Martin who is located at the NU Northeast Research and Extension Center.

While dusting off treasured family recipes, said Martin, keep in mind how to reduce sugar and fat content. Reduce the amount of fat by using low fat or skim milk in-stead of whole milk. Use only two tablespoons of fat per cup of flour for cakes and quick breads. Reduce the amount of sugar in cakes and cookies by using only one-half cup of sugar per cup of flour. In many of your favorite recipes, add a small amount of vanilla, cinnamon or nutmeg to enhance flavor when reducing sugar.

"When partaking at a party," says Martin, "keep in mind that you went to spend time with friends or family, not at the buffet table. By eating a nutritious snack before the party, you won't be famished when you arrive and you'll. find it easier to make healthier choices."

healthful eating, Martin recom-mends contacting the home economist at your local Coopera-tive Extension Office or a registered dietitian.

Newborn males who were to be circumcised were given a pacifier dipped in water, a pacifier dipped in a su-crose solution, or nothing. Following circumcision, infants who were given pacifiers dipped in water stopped crying sooner than infants who did not receive pacifiers, and infants who were given pacifiers dipped in sucrose stopped crying sooner than the other two groups of infants. Similar results were obtained when newborns were given about a half-teaspoonful of sucrose solution prior to a heel-stick blood test. They cried less after the heelstick than did infants who received water.

Winside High students help fifth graders to learn Spanish language

By Dianne Jaeger Winside Correspondent

Winside High School students in the Spanish I class, taught by Kathy Hladky, recently visited the fifth grade class for two weeks to teach Spanish to the younger stu-

High school students worked with the youngsters for approxi-mately 15 minutes each day.

"These grade school students were also worked with last year, so we are reviewing basic greetings, numbers, colors, family members, numbers, colors, family members, names, days of the week, months, sports and weather," said Hladky, adding that the fifth graders are grasping the language more easily since they were exposed to some

HLADKY said the objective is to encourage the younger students to learn about foreign languages and cultures and to accept the differences. "We also want to make it fun for them."

In addition, Hladky said the experience helps high school Spanish students review what they have learned. "When you are teaching someone else you are also helping yourself learn."

The Spanish II high school class also worked with this year's fourth graders between Halloween and Thanksgiving.

JOINT VENTURES: According to a release from the National Exercise for Life Institute, exercise may be one of the more effective treatments for rejuvenating joints that have been damaged by arthritis. It appears that exercise done under a doctor's supervision (of course!) improve joint mobility and in many cases help to control

In the past, people with arthritis were told to rest. However, prolonged inactivity often contributed to a deteriorating physical status and that, in turn, affected the arthritic condition. Today, more doctors, as well as the Arthritis oundation, are encouraging increased levels of exerci (where indicated and approved by the person's physician).

The idea is to be as active as possible.
Dr. Richard Kyle, chief of the orthopedic department and a staff physician for the Arthritis Care Program at Metropolitan Mount Sinai Medical Center in Minneapolis mends exercises that have smooth, repetitive motions, for example, walking and bisyoling.

Use these seven guidelines to help prevent joint damage:

1. Become aware of body positions. Avoid activities that involve a tight grip, or put too much pressure on your fingers. 2. Control your weight. Extra pounds put pressure on joints. 3. Avoid holding one position for a long time. 4. Use your strongest joints and muscles whenever possible.

5. Balance rest and activity. 6. Simplify your work by planning ahead and organizing work and storage areas. 7.

Ask for help when you need it.

MALNUTRITION AMONG SENIORS: Malnutrition is increasing in the senior population. Many found to be malnourished are those older Americans who lack appropriate diets and must also cope with poverty, social isolation, disability, acute or chronic disease, and long term medication. Some art victims of depression and are often unable to eat although proper food is available to Suggestions on how to deal with this growing problem include screening for malnutrition during medical examinations. Seniors living alone should be seen regularly by social agencies to make sure they have access to proper foods. Shopping assistance or meals should be provided for those housebound or bedridden.

Wayne High teams fare well in mock trial competitions

Each year, the Nebraska State Bar Association sponsors a Mock Trial Project. This competition is designed to give students a better understanding of the steps and procedures of the criminal justice

This year's case dealt with a woman who was accused of the murder of her husband. She claimed that she killed her spouse as a result of a mental disorder known as "Battered Woman's Syndrome."

Two teams from Wayne High School participated in this project.

Each team consists of three attorneys and three witnesses. The stu-dents are responsible for roleplaying their respective parts. They are then evaluated by two attorneys who act as performance

The members of team 1 were Bryon Langenfeld, Troy Frey, Matt Ley, Jason Polt, Katy Anderson and Jennifer Chapman. They competed against Norfolk Catholic in first round action on Oct. 31 at the Pierce County Courthouse in Pierce. Team 1 lost on a split deci-

Team A consisted of Jason Johs, Lisa-Ewing, Kyle Dahl, Matt Metz, Todd Fuelberth and Shawn Powell. They received a bye in the first round of competition. In the second round on Nov. 19 at the Stanton County Courthouse, Team A defeated Norfolk Senior High School. On Dec. 10, the district semi-finals were held in Stanton. Team A was defeated by Norfolk Catholic on a split decision. The teacher-coach for the Wayne teams was John Murtaugh and the attorney-coach was Mike Pieper.

Property tax woes plaque the state

March to December

In March, the Nebraska Supreme Court struck down the state's right to assess personal property taxes. The court later expanded its ruling to say that under the Nebraska Constitution, all businesses are subject to be

Following the ruling, the Nebraska Legislature was unable to resolve the matter in regular session and a special session, called by Nebraska Gov. Ben Nelson

After experiencing those difficulties, the governor appointed the 3-R Committee to find a solution. Because of the ruling, all businesses inventories will be taxed starting-lan-1, 1992. The 3-R-committee recommended that certain types of business and farm machinery and livestock should be taxed but those taxes cannot be put into effect until the legislature approves and the public votes on a new constitutional amendment in the general election in November of 1992.

Wayne State gets building funds

Following years of work, Wayne State received notification that the Nebraska Unicameral had approved $4 million for the construction of a new business technology building.

The legislature approved the funding for the project following an override of Gov. Ben Nelson's veto. The override vote was 33-7. The project will be funded, primarily, through cigarette taxes.

ESU enters contract for new facility

lune 13

The Educational Service Unit One, headquartered in Wakefield, entered into a $25,000 contract with the architectural firm of Dana, Larson and Roubal in Omaha to design a new facility to house the unit's two Wayne programs.

The fee represents approximately 8 percent of the project's estimated costs of $300,000. Following this meeting, the ESU purchased a stretch of land south of east 14th Street, where the new ESU building will be lo-

The new facility will house the Wayne Children's Development Center, a program for severe and profound youngsters presently located in a building leased from Region IV, and the Wayne Learning Center, a behaviorally disordered program located in a building owned by ESU 1 on the east edge of Wayne.

Wayne gets Chautauqua in 1992

Officials at the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce received good news in July that Wayne had been approved for one of two regional sites to host Chautauqua in 1992.

A group of Wayne residents had applied for a grant to host Chau-uqua earlier in the year. Chautauqua, which originally began in 1874, arted as a means of providing Sunday school training about theology and biblical history. The theme of the 1992 Chautauqua is "American Re-naissance: The Literature of Our Democracy." The Chautauqua will be in Wayne July 16-21, 1992.

Court rules against Conway

July 29, Nov. 4

The Nebraska Supreme Court ruled that Wayne Sen. Gerald Conway cannot serve in both the legislature and work as a teacher at Wayne State College. The court said that since Conway is a state legislator, he is a member of the legislative branch of government, and as a college professor, he is a member of the executive branch of government.

Following a request for a rehearing, which the court denied, Conway resigned his teaching post at Wayne State in November.

Proposal brings protest from residents

In the process of approving the city's 1991-92 budget, the Wayne City Council was challenged on two things: an attempt to remove Hazel's Beauty Salon from the Wayne City Auditorium, to make room for a recreation-leisure services office, and concerns over charging fees for youth involvement in recreation programs.

Despite the attempt to remove Hazel Mau's shop, she was allowed to keep Hazel's Beauty Salon there and although some areas of the recreation budget now charge for services, the budget was drawn up to keep fees away from most youth activities.

Police nab burglary suspect

August 22

Following nine burglaries in Wayne and a number of other burglaries in the West Point area, police arrested Edmond Richardo Arruza on suspicion that he committed the burglaries.

In November, Arruza pled not guilty to the charges and his case will go to trial in February.

Due to the fact that then-Wayne County Attorney Bob Ensz was one of the alleged victims, a special prosecutor was appointed in the case. Pierce County Attorney Verlyn Luebbe was appointed to represent the the top floor of Geno's Steakhouse in Wayne on Sept. 6.

The blaze, which shot flames in the air of up to 15 feet, resulted in a four alarm fire. The Wayne Volunteer Fire Department was assisted by units from Winside, Wakefield and South Sioux City.

At the time of the fire, Geno's Steakhouse was undergoing renovation procedures to allow for low to moderate income level housing for the el-derly and handicapped. The project was supported, in part, by Commu-nity Development Block Grant funds. Discussions over how to resolve the situation have continued since the fire, prompting the city to analyze its

JDC escapes prompt commissioners' vote

July-November

With several escapes from the Wayne County Juvenile Detention Center in 1991, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners voted to close the facility at their Nov. 19 meeting.

At an earlier Nov. 19 meeting, the county board voted 2-1 to extend the JDC's deadline to Jan. 1, 1992 to meet safety and escape preventative measures but two days after their meeting, two more juveniles escaped, providing the final straw for the commissioners vote to close the facility. The JDC was also the topic of a series of articles in December, addressing whether the facility should close. The Wayne Herald's series an-alyzed what the costs would be of setting up an adult facility, as well as the options the 22 contracted governing bodies may face if the JDC Discussions between counties will be held in January to determine the IDC's future.
