Fire strikes Waldbaums

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

A fire late Tuesday destroyed all of one laying facility and half of another at the M.C. Waldbaums' Big Red Farms complex located along Highway 35 northeast of Wakefield.

The blaze also killed approximately 30,000 birds and resulted in the loss of 60,000 total.

The cause of the fire was still under investigation at press time. No estimates of damage were available.

RESPONDING TO the three alarm blaze were volunteer fire fighters from Wakefield, Emerson and Wayne.

The fire, which was reported to the authorities around 8:15 p.m. Tuesday, completely destroyed Big Red Farms house five and half of Big Red Farms house six, according to Waldbaums spokesman Ted Helberg. It is believed to have started in house five.

Fortunately, for Waldbaums, house five was under renovation and no birds were in it. Helberg said that Waldbaums officials are uncertain at this time whether they'll replace laying house five.

"The front half of house six was ruined and half of the birds died in the fire — mostly due to smoke," he said. "The rest of the birds will be sent to slaughter and the ones that died will be sent to a rendering plant."

ACCORDING TO the Waldbaum official, there are seven houses in complex one. The fire was isolated only to houses five and six.

According to reports of the incident, fire fighters had the blaze contained by 10 p.m. Fire personnel left around 2 a.m. Wednesday. Officials remained at the scene throughout the night to make sure that embers didn't start up any more fires.

Helberg said someone from the state fire marshal's office was to review the blaze to determine a cause sometime Wednesday. Details of the report were unavailable at press time.

There were no reported injuries to firefighters or Waldbaum personnel in the blaze.

Helberg said a value for the birds lost and destroyed from the fire was not available at press time. He said the cost to replace laying house five is in the hundreds of thousands.

FIRE FIGHTERS BATTLE THE BLAZE AT the Waldbaums' laying facility. The blaze destroyed one laying house that was under renovation and caused extensive damage to another. In all, the M.C. Waldbaum Company lost approximately 60,000 chickens to the fire. The cause of the fire was still under investigation at press time, so no more information was available.

Conway prepares for legislative session, tax issues

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

State Sen. Gerald Conway, R-Wayne, sees the 1992 legislative session as an important benchmark to the future of the state.

With the personal property tax dilemma looming over the Unicameral's head, he said he believes that whatever decision the state's governing body comes up with will shape the future of the state for years to come.

"This year's legislative session will prove if we're one Nebraska and sharing in the good fortune and ills together," he said. "The decisions we make this year will be a litmus test for the future society of Nebraska as we resolve some of the issues on the table."

First and foremost in the senator's mind, like many of his constituents and legislative counterparts, is dealing with the personal property tax crisis. He said right now he thinks he'll support the decision announced by the governor's 3-R committee, so long as the rough edges are smoothed out.

The issues Conway discussed with The Wayne Herald deal with the death penalty, living wills, radioactive and solid waste, income taxes, safety belts, water, gambling, election laws, abortion, property taxes and local sales taxes. Conway also said he may introduce some of his own legislation this year.

Property taxes

Conway said it's hard to tell which direction the personal property tax issue will go at this point because nothing has come down since the 3-R committee released its report. At this point, no other senators have come out with any other proposals.

"What's on the table is what's been on the table," he said. "There are several dimensions in it which are going to be hard to argue."

He said the good thing about it is that it keeps the railroads and utilities on the tax rolls and if they were to come off, the entire burden would be placed on farmers' laps. He said he believes it will be unlikely that all property will be taken off and be made up for on sales and income taxes.

The reason he is leaning toward favoring the 3-R proposal is due to the fact it won't hurt the small farmers. He said the way the proposal shapes up, the property tax will lie with big farms, which he said is something the state has been opposed to for a number of years.

He said right now, he'd like to see refinements to the 3-R proposal. He said if that's done, there are alternatives the legislature can look at which won't place the burden on the farm sector.

Local option

Senators Rex Haberman of Imperial and Elroy Hefner of Coleridge are planning on presenting the Unicameral with a bill which would repeal the local sales tax option 44 cities in the state currently utilize. While Conway said he never favored the local sales tax option, he thinks his two legislative counterparts are threatening to repeal it only as a "veiled threat."

"Right now all I know about it is that they have two votes," he said.

He said it seems odd that two senators who favor local control as taxing authorities would propose repealing the local option tax.

Mann purchases newspaper

Herald gets new owners

Gary and Peggy Wright, owners of The Wayne Herald and its affiliates, have announced the sale of their publishing company to a new Nebraska corporation headed by Lester J. Mann, formerly of Chadron, Neb.

The ownership and management change was announced Monday and is effective immediately.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright, who have been owners of the newspaper since 1987, said they would be pursuing other business opportunities.

MANN, 37, is a veteran of 15 years in newspaper management, the bulk of them at the Chadron Record. He will assume day-to-day responsibility for the operations of The Wayne Herald as editor and publisher in addition to serving as president of Northeast Nebraska Media, Inc.

"We will be a community-oriented newspaper company which places the needs to readers and advertisers first; the employees second; with stockholders and management coming in a distant third," Mann said.

Lester J. Mann

A principal with Mann in the new Nebraska newspaper corporation is Ben M. Smith of Fort Payne, Ala., who is chairman of one of the leading community newspaper organizations in the nation. Smith's newspaper management company is also associated with other community newspapers in the region, including papers in Broken Bow and Chadron, Hot Springs, S.D. and Sac

City, Clarinda and Centerville, Iowa.

Mann and his wife Debbie have four children. The family will be relocating to Wayne in the near future. While in Chadron they were active in community, church and civic endeavors.

UNDER HIS leadership the Chadron newspaper won more than 50 state and national press awards, many of those for community service efforts.

"We believe a community newspaper should be used as a tool for betterment of the community," Mann said. He was named Chadron's leading citizen by the Chamber of Commerce there in 1991 for his community service work.

Mann is a graduate of the University of Oregon School of Journalism. He has collegiate level journalism teaching experience. He serves on the board of the Nebraska Press Advertising Service, and has completed a year as its president.

ASCS administers program

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will administer a crop disaster assistance program to compensate eligible producers for crop losses caused by drought, flood and other natural disasters in either 1990 or 1991.

"To be eligible, producers with crop insurance must have had losses greater than 35 percent," said Wayne County ASCS County Executive Director Terri Post. "Producers without crop insurance must have had losses greater than 40 percent."

Losses are calculated according to the farm's ASCS yield. Program applications may be filed from Feb. 3 through March 13.

THE 1990-91 crop disaster program provides cash payments for production losses on participating program crops of wheat, feed grains, upland cotton, extra long staple cotton and rice; nonparticipating program crops; peanuts, soybeans, sunflowers, sugar beets, sugarcane and tobacco; and all commercial nonprogram crops.

Post said producers who intend to file should begin to assemble their records now, so they will be ready when the program opens. She said that farmers will receive a mailing with specific information on the program this month.

"If a producer does not receive the disaster program information in the mail by Feb. 3, he or she should call the Wayne County ASCS office," Post said. The ASCS number is 375-2453.

Post explained that a producer may not file on one crop on a farm for one year and a different crop on the same farm for the other. She said the producer may request benefits for 1990 on one farm and for 1991 on another farm.

POST SAID disaster payments would be computed according to the 1990 Farm Bill. She said the ASCS office hopes to begin issuing payments to farmers by April 16.

Public invited to program on hazardous household waste

"What do you do with leftover paint and paint thinner, used household batteries, motor oil, solvent-based cleaners, old appliances and household pesticides?"

Karen Wermers, area extension agent, said hazardous household wastes should not be poured down the drain or on the ground, burned, or thrown in a ditch where they could possibly contaminate the environment or cause health problems.

Although there are few alternatives for disposal of these products, Wermers said there are safer ways to store, use and dispose of them.

A PROGRAM focusing on the storage, use and disposal of hazardous household waste is being offered to the public on Monday, Jan. 13 at 1:30 p.m. at the Northeast Research and Extension Center near Concord.

Carol Larvick, Dakota County extension agent-home economics, will be presenting the program which is designed for individuals to in turn present to local extension clubs and other groups.

DISCRIMINATION

When you remember Martin Luther King, Jr. this month, don't think that his movement for civil rights and human dignity ended with a national holiday. In America today, some people still treat others differently for a variety of reasons:

- Race (black, hispanic, indian, etc.)
 - Sex (one sex is better for a job than the other)
 - Age (too young, too old)
 - Religion (Jews, Mormons, etc.)
 - Condition (handicapped, HIV positive, low income, etc.)
- Crosses are being burned. Job opportunities are being denied. Homes are being vandalized.

PEOPLE ARE NOT BEING LOVED

Last month, Americans every where wished good will to all the world. This month I hope that each one of us gets the opportunity to show that prejudice has no home in Wayne, only Love and Understanding.

DONT MAKE ASSUMPTIONS.
GIVE EACH STRANGER A CHANCE.

Further details of the disaster payment program may be obtained from the Wayne County ASCS.

"The producer must accept the responsibility of preparing the worksheet, gathering supporting documents on the amount of loss and making an appointment with the Wayne County ASCS office to apply for the program benefits," Post said.

After all applications are filed they will go to ASCS' central computer facility, producer benefits will be summarized and the national allocation factor for limiting total payments to the $995 million will be computed.

Dixon County eligible

AREA - Gov. Ben Nelson expressed partial satisfaction after receiving notification from Secretary of Agriculture Ed Madigan that his request for disaster designations for 22 counties earlier this fall had been approved.

Under the Emergency Agricultural Credit Act, producers in Dixon County may apply for emergency loans. Although Dixon County is not a primary disaster county, it lies adjacent to Thurston County, which is.

Farmers without federal crop insurance must prove production losses of 60 percent below normal. Producers who carry federal crop insurance are eligible for disaster payments on any production below 65 percent of normal.

Regulations regarding this disaster assistance are expected in late January and should be available through local county ASCS offices.

Fast track kids can develop problems.

The efforts of affluent, overly-competitive parents to produce academically superior children may yield maladjusted youngsters instead, says Andree Aelion Books, author of the book "Children of Fast-Track Parents." She criticizes "fast track" parents who view their children as simply a part of the total image that they are trying so hard to project.

In too many of these households, second-best is second rate

"and the children know it," she charges. The results of too much pressure to be perfect: Children who suffer nervous disorders, cheat in order to get top grades and have trouble making friends because they see their peers as competitors.

Session

Conway said he believes it was said in a moment of frustration over the personal property tax issue. He said he doubts if the measure can pass and because South Sioux City uses the local option and pressure to keep it on will keep him from voting to repeal the option.

Income taxes

The Wayne senator said although he hasn't seen Gov. Ben Nelson's proposal to reduce the income taxes Nebraskans pay, he said he believes the proposal will shift the way the state's income earners are taxed.

He said he believes the plan is to shift income brackets upward, so that people earning $30,000 a year aren't carrying the same tax burden as people earning $50,000 a year. He said tax brackets haven't changed since the 1970s.

"This is an attempt so that we don't tax middle income people as though they're wealthy and very wealthy people are taxed the same because they fall in that same rate," Conway said. "The rates won't change much in regards to percentage but rather when you kick in to the next higher level."

IN DEALING with other issues the legislature will face, Conway said he anticipates dealing with the following issues as follows:

• Election laws — A priority bill in the 1991 session, Conway saw the governor veto the measure after the legislature had recessed. The bill he proposed would have provided some restraints against problems experienced during the 1990 election with ballots and election officials.

He said the way the law stands now, election officials can twist the rules to help party politics. He said if this measure passes this year, he will probably have the bill set up so it doesn't take effect until after the 1992 election.

• Death penalty — Conway said he's had some problems with the death penalty issue for a long time. He said one problem with the death penalty is that it hasn't been implemented since 1958. He said right now the system isn't working and it needs to be changed but he said because there's too many other things on the agenda the legislature needs to deal with, he doesn't believe the death penalty issue deserves to come to a vote.

• Living Wills — Conway said he will most likely vote against any living will bill that comes before the legislature. He said he favors providing people with the durable power of attorney option.

What durable power of attorney allows is for family members to make decisions for critically ill family members rather than having a doctor make a determination from a living will. A living will is a binding contract which, Conway says, could get medical professionals into trouble.

• Waste measures — Conway said solid waste and radioactive waste are issues which are getting old. He said he favors providing regional options rather than community or county options.

• Water issues — The Wayne senator said while water issues are not directly affecting his district, he said this is something people should pay closer attention to. He said priorities need to be set to determine what priorities are over the water issues that exist.

• Abortion — While Conway opposes most abortions, he said he does favor the proposed bill which would require a 24 hour waiting period before an abortion can be performed. He said he would rather see measures which provide people alternatives to receiving an abortion.

• Safety belts — Since the state voted out a previous seat belt law only a few years ago, Conway said he doesn't plan to approve another seat belt measure for the state. He said, however, that he strongly supports child restraint laws.

• Gambling — Since many of the state's around Nebraska already utilize the Lotto America jackpot, Conway said he believes Nebraska should go ahead and take part in it. He said, however, that he does not favor the establishment of a statewide lottery since so many states have already done it. He said there would be nothing unique about Nebraska having a statewide lottery.

The GOLDEN YEARS

by Pat Shekty

Sarah Delany was born in 1889 and her sister Elizabeth in 1891. They were among 10 children reared by parents who ran a small college in Raleigh, North Carolina, for African Americans. (Their father was six years old when the end of the Civil War freed him from slavery.) The sisters went to New York in their 20s, attended college and began their careers — Sarah as a high school teacher and Elizabeth as a dentist. The centenarians continue to live independently in Mount Vernon, New York. Morning routines include a dose of cod liver oil, a chopped garlic clove and, except Sundays, yoga exercises. Elizabeth quips, "We never had husbands to worry us to death."

A dozen men and women turned out in Abington Township, Pennsylvania, for a Golden Century and a Half Tennis Tournament. It was for doubles teams whose ages totaled at least 150 years. Connie Ebert, 67, and George Henning, 83, won the longest match — three sets in 2 hours and 25 minutes. The oldest player was Morley Richards, 84, who also went three sets. "I do better at running," he said. "In the senior games at Shippensburg, Pennsylvania, I won the 100 meters."

Arboretum slates meeting Jan. 10 at Northeast Station

The Northeast Arboretum Annual meeting has been scheduled for Friday, Jan. 10, starting at 1:30 p.m. at the Northeast Research and Extension Center in Concord. The format will be similar to last year's meeting and the guest speaker will be Addie Scheve, a well recognized local author and speaker.

According to Steve Rasmussen, the arboretum has been busy this past year. He said the annual meeting kicked off 1991, followed by an Arbor Day program involving area school children. He said the arboretum also established 10 new species of trees followed by three membership/work days, a fruit tree grafting workshop, a tour of Maskenthine Arboretum and Bluebird Nursery and participation in the Dixon County Fair.

In 1992, the arboretum plans to continue the Arbor Day program for area sixth graders, host another grafting workshop for members, establish 12-15 new species of trees and/or shrubs, organize several meetings/work days throughout the year, and have a tour to another arboretum.

To help the arboretum continue to promote new tree plantings at the Northeast Arboretum, people are asked to pay their membership dues.

For more information about the meeting, or about dues, contact Rasmussen at 584-2261.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK'S SENIOR CITIZEN CORNER

A REAL "ROLE" MODEL FOR SENIORS: The legendary stage, film, and television star, Nina Foch, who began her Hollywood career almost 50 years ago, makes far too few screen appearances these days to suit her fans. But that's mostly because she has too many other interesting things to do to accept just any role. "I love to act," she said, "but I don't want to do something simply because it's offered to me. It has to be something I would really enjoy doing."

She found such a role in the new NBC thriller, "In the Arms of a Killer" starring Jaclyn Smith, Michael Nouri, and "L.A. Law's" John Spencer. The film airs on NBC January 6, 9-11 p.m., ET.

"There aren't too many interesting roles that come along for women my age. So, it's especially nice not only to find one I would enjoy doing, but also to work with someone I very much admire, and that's Jaclyn Smith."

"The role is rather a small one. But the woman I play is a very interesting person. She just cannot imagine that her son could possibly do anything wrong, even though it would appear he may have done a great many things that weren't, shall we say, right?"

Foch won an Oscar nomination for another small, but highly effective role in "Executive Suite." She starred in such films as "Spartacus," "The Ten Commandments," "Scaramouche," "An American in Paris." At an age when many people might be happy simply to coast on their achievements and put most of their goals on hold, Nina Foch continues to add more activities to an already busy schedule. She started, and continues to run, the Nina Foch Studio. She's accepted the position of Adjunct Professor in the Cinema-Television School of University of Southern California. She continues to act (taking what she described as "select" roles); she directs, and she's a consultant for directors.

Foch's career started on the stage. But unlike many actors who say they make movies only to subsidize their theater work, Foch says: "Yes, of course, I love working in front of live audiences. There's nothing like it. But I also really do love films. I feel there is so much one can do in film that can't be done in any other medium."

Foch won't accept the too widely held belief that growing older is nature's way of putting a brake on one's goals. "Not at all," she said. "I think it would be awful not to be able to set your sights on a new challenge and work at meeting it."

As for the time when she might eventually stop working so hard, and retire to enjoy a life of quiet contemplation, Foch said: "Why would I want to give up doing what I already enjoy?"

Change needed

Under the City of Wayne's current codes, there is a clause which requires developers to deed to the city a portion of land for the development of parks or be assessed a fee of 8 percent of the land value. The choice, however, is up to the city council; not the developer.

This code has created a double standard and it needs to be reevaluated.

One project, which is estimated at $1.5 million, was allowed to deed land to the city for the park development. Another project, valued at $3.3 million, may be required to pay the fee, rather than donate the land.

Both projects will utilize local developers and both will employ local individuals once completed. The difference between the two is that the estimated $1.5 million project is a government agency. The $3.3 million project is financed with private funds.

Some officials who live in Wayne believe that the decision whether the developer pays park fees or donates the land should be left up to the developer, not the city council. We agree with this philosophy.

If developers coming to Wayne have the option of whether to donate land for parks or pay the fee, we believe most developers will lean toward paying the fee, providing it's reasonable. Leaving the choice up to developers will also create a more user-friendly atmosphere for future development.

We would like to suggest that the city construct codes which encourage development, not discourage it. Let's open up our minds a little to foster the continuous development of our community.

Listing top items for short session

When you read this the 92nd Legislature will have already convened the short legislative session for 1992. The President of the Legislature, Lieutenant Governor Maxine Moul, gave the Unimacramal into session on Wednesday, Jan. 8 at 10 a.m. This session will meet for sixty days. Only the days that we meet in the Legislative Chamber are counted as legislative days, thus the tentative adjournment date will be around the middle of April.

The week's activities will evolve around introduction of new bills and the adoption of legislative rules. The senators have ten days in which to introduce new bills and it is anticipated that with the carry-over bills from last year we will have more than enough work to do in the coming weeks. Debate on carry-over bills will begin immediately and we are faced with many controversial and emotional issues such as personal property taxes, environmental issues, repeal of the death penalty, legal recognition of living wills, budget deficits, changing the state income tax system, requiring seat-belts, requiring a 24-hour waiting period before an abortion could be performed, stricter drunk driving laws and many others.

My priority bill is a proposal that allows blood alcohol tests to be used in Nebraska—courts, even when such tests are taken by out-of-state medical personnel and hospitals on suspected drunken drivers who are transported across state lines for medical treatment. Some of the other bills I'll be introducing will include repeal of the city sales tax, using lethal injection to carry out the death penalty, and stricter laws on licensing vehicles out-of-state when a person lives in Nebraska. I will go into more detail on these bills in future articles.

A five-minute recap of legislative issues and events will be televised Monday through Friday at 6:55 p.m. over NETV, Channel 19 (or if you have cable it may be another channel). Every Thursday night at 8:30 CST NETV will televise "Nebraskans Ask". This is a program where people can call in to ask about legislative issues.

If you have questions concerning legislative issues, the Legislature will continue its operation of the "HOT-LINE" which gives citizens of Nebraska the opportunity to call a toll-free number (800-742-7456), Monday through Friday, for an update on any piece of legislation until the end of the session. The Nebraska State Ombudsman's office also has a toll-free number (800-472-7690), which may be used for voicing complaints concerning state government. Office hours are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. for both toll-free numbers, five days a week.

To continue my service to you as your representative from the 19th Legislative District, I need to hear from you personally on how you stand on various issues as they come before the Legislature. I welcome your views. They are needed and very much appreciated. Address letters to me as follows so that I may receive them promptly: Senator Elroy M. Hefner, District 19, State Capitol, Lincoln, NE 68509. My telephone at the Capitol is 402-471-2624. On weekends (weather permitting) you can reach me at my home in Coleridge, phone 283-4475.

Top priority: tax issue

I will ask the 1992 Legislature to make their top priority a resolution to the personal property tax crisis.

Prior to 1967, when state sales and income taxes were enacted to finance state government, property taxes supported all government operations in Nebraska not just local government as they do today. Every year we had to file at the courthouse a list of our personal property; this was frequently known as the "liar's tax".

Since then, the property tax base has been gradually eroded by the exemption of a variety of personal property such as inventories, livestock and farm equipment. The result has been an increased tax burden on real property and non-exempt personal property.

As a result of federal legislation known as the 4-R Act, railroads have sought protection from property taxes on the basis that they were entitled to the same treatment as exempt classes of personal property.

Other centrally-assessed companies then challenged in the courts the taxes they were assessed because of the exemptions granted to other classes of personal property.

Consequently, the Nebraska Supreme Court has ruled the personal property tax system unconstitutional and ordered previously exempt personal property back on the tax rolls beginning Jan 1, 1992, unless the system is changed.

If the Legislature does nothing in the 1992 session, we go back to the old system where all personal property was taxed at its actual value, or the entire tax burden is shifted, onto real estate, or other taxes must be raised to make up the lost revenue base.

These are not attractive choices.

Last April I formed a group of legislative and administration officials to examine the property tax system. After months of review and considerable public input, the Revenue Revitalization and Restructuring (3-R) Committee has proposed a solution which includes a constitutional amendment and legislation to be enacted this year.

A constitutional amendment is necessary in any proposed solution. I believe, as I have said since the last legislative session, that Nebraskans should be given the opportunity to vote on an amendment separating real and personal property into different classes and allowing the Legislature to determine the method of taxation for tangible personal property.

Legislative elements of the proposed solution would establish a tax only on personal property that is depreciated on federal income tax. The value of the property that would be taxed would be based on its cost less depreciation. If you don't depreciate property on your federal tax return, you won't pay this tax. Business and agricultural inventory would not be taxed.

Any increase in the tax base that might result from this proposal is intended to support local government and any unexpected growth should be used as property tax relief. The proposal includes the continuation of a lid on local government spending.

We will hear differing opinions in the weeks ahead, but I firmly believe this proposal is the most workable for the most Nebraskans, I support the 3-R solution.

This proposal preserves local control of local government by keeping property tax collection and distribution of revenues at the local level. Taxes will not be collected in Lincoln and redistributed by the Legislature.

This proposal maintains a business property tax, rather than shifting the burden onto homeowners and individuals.

This proposal can be easily administered because the information required is already provided on federal tax returns, and it uses an objective measure of value in depreciation.

Business and agricultural inventory will not be taxed and, once property that is taxed is fully depreciated it will no longer be taxed.

This proposal will provide a stable tax base for local government services, and minimizes the uncertainty businesses now face with our tax structure.

The personal property of railroads and centrally-assessed public services, groups that have brought about this crisis by filing against the state lawsuits seeking property tax exemptions, will be taxed.

We have a great many things to accomplish for Nebraska during this legislative session and in the future.

Solving the personal property tax crisis first, with the plan just outlined, will stabilize the revenue base for counties, cities, community colleges and other local government entities; allowing state government to focus on the educational, environmental and economic development issues that will affect our future.

Please examine this solution and share your support for it with members of the Legislature.

Another failure to form a legislative solution to the property tax dilemma will only prolong the crisis, injure small businesses and individual taxpayers and slow Nebraska's nationwide leadership on several fronts.

Columnist limits thoughts

Resolutions, predictions for 1992

Since it's 1992 now, it's time to release this year's six resolutions and six predictions for the new year.

I'm limiting it to six because there are some resolutions I don't want to make public and there's some predictions which fall into the same category. I could have listed 10 (or more) resolutions for the new year but I don't want to write a column as long as 1991's top 25 stories.

My first resolution is to pray all year long that Nebraska won't play in another Orange Bowl against Miami. I'm tired of seeing the Huskers get into the big game and play one of the nation's top teams on its home field and getting ... well, you know.

MY SECOND resolution is not to use my credit cards for anything except emergencies. One reason for this is so that I can get my totals down. The second reason is so that Rhonda will have more room to exploit my credit limit (just kidding).

My third resolution is to determine what constitutes an emergency use of my credit cards.

My fourth resolution is to file my income tax returns early so that I can pay off the national debt sooner. I think this will be a good idea since the federal government needs the money so that it can spend it on worm research.

My fifth resolution is to shoot a round of golf below 50 at least once during men's league. Along with this resolution, I resolve to not get mad when I have a golf round over 60 and to do my darndest to have, at least, 10 rounds in the 40s this summer (whether it be golf league or not).

Now for my sixth resolution. I resolve to make every effort possible to do everything to the best of my abilities whether I want to do it or not. Washing the dogs falls into this category.

OK, NOW FOR predictions. These predictions are a little harder to make because my crystal ball lapped and fell to the ground and lately it's been making predictions for 1991. I'm trying to decipher which ones apply for 1992.

Prediction number one: Nebraska will not win a national championship in football in 1992 or 1993 (or 1994, or 1995, or 1996, or etc.). This one is a safe bet since I said Nebraska would not win a national championship under its current coaching staff back in 1984. So far I have, unfortunately, been right. Along with this, I predict that some changes will take shape which will affect the future of the Nebraska athletic programs.

Prediction number two: More changes will take shape in what was the Soviet Union. Hopefully, they will be peaceful changes but don't count on it.

PREDICTION NUMBER three: More rumors will circulate over new fast food restaurants and other businesses coming to Wayne. Along this same line, some of the rumors will be true; some won't.

Prediction number four: The Nebraska Legislature will do very little to solve the state's property tax crisis in a fashion which satisfies the majority of the public. When the matter is resolved, it will mean an increase in taxes for everyone and more money for the state to hand over to the federal government for worm research.

Prediction number five: Some changes will take shape in Wayne which will affect the entire community. Most of the changes will be positive. Some of the changes will surprise some people.

Prediction number six: A surprise winner will be named in an election which affects all of us. The surprise winner will leave the loser scrambling.

Recalling battles fought by Asian-Americans after WWII

By January of 1946, World War II had been over five months. But some returning veterans discovered that there were still battles to be fought at home. Sergeant Ben Kuroki, a native of Hershey, Nebraska, served with distinction as a tail gunner on B-24s in Europe and B-29s in the Pacific Theater. He was the first Japanese-American to win the Distinguished Flying Cross fighting against Japan. Growing up in Nebraska, Kuroki had experienced little prejudice. But then the war came, and some people didn't see Kuroki's medals—they only saw his oriental appearance. He wrote, "Maybe that was when I first got the idea I wasn't through with this war."

"Not only did I go to war to fight the fascist ideas of Germany and Japan but also to fight against a few Americans who fail to understand the principles of freedom and equality upon which this country is founded."

"I'm not authority; I don't know anything that any boy from Nebraska couldn't tell you. But I know this: I fought with a lot of men in this war, all kinds—a Polish gunner, a Jewish engineer, a German bombardier and a full-blooded Dakota Indian. I saw men wounded, and whatever land their grandfathers came from, their blood was always the same color. And whatever church they went to, the screams of pain sounded the same."

"I've had 58 bombing missions now, and I'm still tired enough so my hands shake, and plenty of nights I don't sleep so good. I'd like to go home to Nebraska and forget the war and just lie under a tree somewhere and take it easy."

By the Nebraska State Historical Society

It's hard to realize that the war is not over for me. Not for a lot of us, Jewish-Americans, Italian-Americans, Negro-Americans, Japanese-Americans. While there is still hatred and prejudice, our fight goes on.

"Back in high school in Nebraska, one of the things they taught me was that American is a land where it isn't race or religion that makes free men. That's why I went to Tokyo. I went to fight for my country, where freedom isn't a color but a way of life, and all men are created equal until they prove otherwise. That's an old idea we have in Hershey, Nebraska, just down the highway from North Platte."

The story of Ben Kuroki—excerpted here from the January 1946 Reader's Digest—and the thousands of other Nebraskans who served in World War II is told in a new exhibit, "What Did You Do in the War?" now at the Museum of Nebraska History, 15th and P Streets, Lincoln.

Winside girls gain first win

The Winside girls won their first game of the season Tuesday night as they defeated Walthill in overtime, 64-63 in Walthill.

Paul Giesselmann's troops trailed by three points with 20 seconds left in regulation but senior Jenny Jacobsen drained a 3-pointer with about 15 seconds left and the Wildcats defense didn't even allow the host team a final shot before the game went into overtime.

"We beat a good basketball team on their home floor," Giesselmann said. "Walthill shot 52 percent from the field and we were still able to pull out the win."

The Wildcats led 18-11 after the first quarter and 32-29 at halftime. Walthill gained a two point advantage after the third quarter at 50-48 and both teams saw-sawed in the fourth quarter.

Winside was perfect in overtime as they attempted three shots and hit all three with Jacobsen, Holly Holdorf and Kari Pichler hitting the shots. Jacobsen led Winside with 19 points while Wendy Rabe poured in 18. Holdorf finished with 12 and Christi Mundil netted nine. Pichler scored four and Patty Oberle netted two.

Winside was out-rebounded 38-34. Rabe led the Wildcats with 10 caroms while Mundil netted nine. Winside finished with 24 turnovers while forcing the host team into 27.

"I really didn't mind having that many turnovers when you consider it was a very up-tempo game," Giesselmann said. "I was pleased with our balanced scoring and that we had three girls with at least three assists."

Boys lose

The Winside boys were not as fortunate as the girls in earning their first win of the season. Shannon Pospisil's crew was beaten soundly by Walthill, 80-41. Winside's hopes of a possible upset were dampened before the game even started as leading scorer Cory Miller was injured in warm-ups.

"Cory got hurt just going up for a routine lay-up in warm-ups," Pospisil said. "We don't know for sure what happened but he was unable to play. He went to see the doctor on Wednesday."

Jason Paulsen was also a starter for Winside during the first six games of the year but Paulsen has left the team for personal reasons leaving the Wildcats with a makeshift line-up.

Walthill raced to a 22-6 lead after the first quarter and a 45-19 halftime advantage. Winside trailed 68-25 after three quarters. Cory Jensen led the Wildcats with 23 points while John Hancock netted 12. Ryan Brogren scored four and Cam Shelton added two.

Jensen and Shelton led Winside on the boards with 10 and nine caroms respectively. Winside was out-rebounded 44-37. The Wildcats had 18 turnovers while Walthill suffered 20. Winside hit 11-15 from the foul line while Walthill was 10-11.

"We were mentally ready to play the game until Cory got hurt," Pospisil said. "That just kind of deflated us and it showed in how we played." The Winside girls will host Beemer in Thursday night action while the boys travel to play Beemer on Friday.

Erin Pick returns to lead Blue Devils

Wayne led 8-6 after the first quarter and 17-13 at the intermission before taking an eight point lead into the fourth quarter at 30-22. The Blue Devils, however, went scoreless for the first 4:19 of the fourth quarter but Randolph could not make a sizeable dent in the eight point margin.

ket in the final period as they also netted six free throws.

Danielle Nelson and Liz Reeg added six points apiece while Schluns scored four. Angie Thompson rounded out the attack with two points. "We had a lot of girls sitting out with foul trouble," Uhing said. "Liz, Susie and Angie all had early foul trouble and had to sit in the first half."

her team's defensive effort. "We played well on defense," Uhing said, "but we still have a lot of areas to improve on." Wayne held a slim 21-20 advantage on the boards with Pick leading the way with seven.

The Wayne State men's basketball team traveled to take part in the Ramada Inn-Loper Classic in Kearney last Friday and Saturday and the Wildcats, who went into the tournament with a 2-10 record, emerged as the tournament winner with two victories in two games.

WSC played Southern Colorado in the first game and the Wildcats came out on top of a 74-63 score against the 9-4 Colorado school. The Wildcats led 38-31 at the intermission and went on to out-score Southern Colorado, 36-32 in the second half.

In the second contest WSC took on a Northwest Oklahoma State team that was riding an 11-game win streak but Mike Brewen's troops put a halt to that with a 67-62 victory leaving the Oklahoma team with an 11-2 mark while WSC won its fourth game of the season.

The Wildcats held a 35-28 lead at halftime. Allen led the Wildcats with 15 points while Moore chipped in 11 before getting hurt early in the second half. Dunbar followed with nine points while Clark finished with eight. Summers scored seven and Thurman netted six.

Allen girls and boys defeated Eagles lose at Wausa

The Allen girls and boys basketball teams traveled to Wausa Tuesday night and it proved to be an unsuccessful trip for the Eagles as the girls were defeated, 43-36 while the boys lost a 58-44 decision.

In the girls contest Allen suffered a lackluster first quarter defensively which proved to be the difference. The Lady Eagles trailed 18-12 after one period of play and 28-22 at the break.

Both teams came out of the locker room a little cold in the third quarter as each squad managed just four, third quarter points. "We just had a bad first quarter," Allen coaches Lori Koester and Gary Erwin said. "We came out sluggish and Wausa took advantage by scoring 18 points in the first quarter."

Koester said that the 6-2 Lady Vikings controlled the tempo of the game which played in their favor. Cindy Chase led Allen in scoring with 10 points while Heather Sachau netted eight.

Sonya Plueger and Christy Philbrick scored six points apiece and Denise Boyle added four. Steph Martinson rounded out the Allen scoring with two points.

Wausa held a slim 23-22 advantage on the boards as Allen was led by Sachau's seven caroms. Plueger hauled down five rebounds. Allen had only 13 turnovers while Wausa had 11. The loss left Allen with a 3-3 record and the Eagles will travel to play Ponca on Thursday.

Boys lose by 14

The Allen boys basketball team lost their sixth consecutive game in Wausa with a 58-44 setback. Jeff Schoning's boys won their season opener over Winside and have lost every game since.

"We had a terrible night shooting from the field," Schoning said. "We hit just 18 of 66 shot attempts for 27 percent and you just don't win a lot of games when you hit 27 percent of your shots."

Allen actually jumped out to a 13-8 lead after the first quarter but Wausa out-scored the Eagles 14-7 in the second period for a 22-20 halftime advantage. Wausa continued its second quarter pace into the third quarter with a 17-9 scoring advantage to take a 39-29 lead into the final period.

The Library Card

This column is written twice a month to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at Wayne Public Library.

The second American author in our series of biographies related to the Chautauqua programs is Frederick Douglass.

Little is known about his birthdate. In fact, even Douglass was unsure of his age. One source puts his birth in 1818. He had believed it was 1817. He was born Frederick Augustus Washington Bailey of a slave mother and a white father in Maryland. He later adopted the name Frederick Douglass from a character in a Walter Scott novel.

He lived as a slave until he escaped in 1838 and eventually settled in New Bedford, Mass. In 1841, at an abolitionist meeting, he spoke of his experiences as a slave which led to speaking engagements throughout the East for antislavery groups. Douglass published his first work, "The Narrative of the Life of Frederick Douglass," in 1845. In the book he identified his master, thereby endangering his liberty. He fled to England where friends eventually purchased his freedom from his master.

After his return to the United States, he published his own abolitionist newspaper in Rochester, N.Y. Douglass continued his championing of the abolition of slavery, using his lecture fees to assist run-away slaves. During this time he headed the Rochester station on the underground railway.

Douglass was an early advocate of women's rights and supported the call for a constitutional amendment to guarantee the vote for women.

He was an eloquent speaker and was in demand by a wide audience. Our chief knowledge today of Douglass comes, however, from his published works — three autobiographies, one work of fiction, "The Heroic Slave," articles, speeches and letters.

The library has a new biography of Douglass, "Frederick Douglass," by William S. McFeely. We will mention other books on Douglass as they are added to the collection.

For related reading, we recommend "Roll, Jordan, Roll: the World the Slaves Made" by Eugene D. Genovese as a source of background material on the living conditions of slaves.

We are planning a winter story hour for Saturday mornings, beginning Jan. 11 and continuing through Feb. 22, from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Watch for further notices in the paper about this.

Students plan DARE project

Beginning Jan. 13, sixth graders at Wayne Middle School will be participating in Project D.A.R.E. D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) is a joint project of the Nebraska State Patrol, local and county law enforcement agencies, the area school districts and local communities to prevent drug abuse in children and youth.

The program emphasis of D.A.R.E. is to help students recognize and resist the many subtle pressures that influence them to experiment with alcohol and marijuana. In addition, program strategies are planned to focus on feelings relating to self-esteem, interpersonal and communication skills, decision making and positive alternatives to drug abuse behavior.

Trooper Randy Morehead, of the Nebraska State Patrol will conduct the program, which is organized in seventeen 50 minute sessions to be taught once a week. The three sixth grade homerooms will each have separate D.A.R.E. classes with Mr. Morehead every Monday morning. Mr. Morehead will also be teaching the program to 5th and 6th grade students at St. Mary's school on Monday afternoons.

Wayne K-8 Counselor, Joan Sudmann, is excited about the D.A.R.E. program. Ms. Sudmann states that bringing D.A.R.E. into the Middle School has been one of her goals since she began working there two years ago. She feels the students will respond favorably to Trooper Morehead.

Ms. Sudmann states, "D.A.R.E. fits very well into the K-8 prevention program that we already have in place in the elementary and middle school. The K-4 guidance program teaches the skills emphasized in D.A.R.E., as does the Middle School's PEER (Positive Educational Experiences in Relationships) program. For sixth grade students, D.A.R.E. will replace the PEER program during the second semester. When sixth grade students complete D.A.R.E., they will be eligible to participate in the junior high FRIENDS (Facts Raising Interest Ending Needless Drugs) Drug-Free Youth Group. This group gives them support for choosing to be drug-free. To be effective, the interpersonal skills and drug-free message need to be consistently taught and reinforced throughout the child's education, both at school and at home."

WARM UP TIME

It's a crisp winter day and some people warm up by lighting up the fireplace, some turn the thermostat up and others begin the day with a morning jog. Before you begin your jog you prepare yourself by stretching. This is the way you have always started and you consider it the right way. According to the athletes and doctors doing this study, the best way to prepare for jogging, cycling or any other exercise is to warm up the muscles, then do your stretches. Try it, it can't hurt you. Stretching cold muscles may lead to injury.

Looking forward to a Friday Christmas

Another holiday season is just a memory. After more ice for Thanksgiving, the weather in December was wonderful for traveling. I'm like Andy Rooney; there's only one decent day for Christmas, and that's Friday. Next year, because of Leap Year, that's when it is. But I wouldn't want the powers that be to make it a fixed date, like Memorial Day.

The past month has been a blur of Christmas memories, beginning with an Advent soup supper that featured thick chicken soup with wide noodles and spicy chili, candles and centerpiece and lots of seasonal music.

The Hospice staff and their families caroling in the nursing home, and one dear little Latvian gentleman closing his eyes and folding his hands as we sang Silent Night.

By Pat Melerhenry

Sacking the Christmas Eve bags in the thirty-minutes in the church basement—a new record:

Monte's pecan pie, Grandma's cookies and peanut brittle, Kay's breakfast casserole, and Mary's cranberry tea:

Jim and Jay hunting pheasants

while Linda hunted in the Big Farmer's junk shop:

Taking turns opening presents and taking photos of new sweaters, and Thomas in a red Santa suit:

A white elephant gift exchange, complete with rubber chicken:

Shopping all the craft and antique shops in Papillion-my buy: a complete set of Cherry Ames, my childhood nurse heroine. We passed up a 200 year old tilt-top table that was on sale for $1000.

Finally, seeing Thomas baptized before an altar completely covered with poinsettias.

The annual church council dinner was today, the new puzzle is waiting to be put together, and it's "back to normal", whatever that means.

Happy New Year!

Vitamin Doses to Help Prevent Cancer

Many cancer researchers and nutritional experts believe that the vitamins A, E, and C and the mineral selenium help prevent certain types of cancer. These nutrients seem to neutralize free radicals within the body. Free radicals attack polyunsaturated fats in membranes and may initiate the formation of cancer cells. Foods contain these nutrients and provide an ideal source. According to a newsletter of the Vitamin E Research and Information Service, the recommended daily doses for cancer prevention in adults is as follows:

- Vitamin E - 200-800 IU
- Vitamin A - 12,500 IU
- Vitamin C - 1,000 mg
- Selenium - 50-200 mcg
