O'Leary gets honored as citizen of the year

By Mark Crist Managing Editor

Jane O'Leary's face lighted up Sunday night and she continued beaming on Monday. That's because O'Leary was named the Wayne's Citizen of the Year Sunday when the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce held its annual meeting at the Black

When Dr. Wayne Wessel, who was the 1990 citizen of the year, read off information about the 1991 winner, O'Leary had no idea initially who it was. She said when Wessel read that the winner was born in West Point the same year she was, she tried to figure out who else was born in West Point the same year as she.

SHORTLY THEREAFTER, Wessel said the winner was someone to crow about, alluding to O'Leary's involvement with the Wayne Chicken Show. That hint made her

"I feel real flattered," she said. "It's something real nice. I'm not sure there weren't a few other people in Wayne who should have won it but I'm real flattered and real surprised.

real surprised.

"He said 'her' and he (Wessel) made references to West Point and Oakland and then he said 'something to crow about.' After that I don't remember what he said. I'd listen every once in a while to verify it but it didn't sink in until he said it was me."

promotion Sunday night during the annual meeting. According to Curt Wilwerding, executive director of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce, the campaign brings the community back to basics. In his presentation, Wilwerding said the campaign takes a common sense approach to targeting local consumers to slow the leakage of dollars from commerce and other civic organizations as well they should because isn't just the consumers who are shopping out of town.

Wilwerding's remarks were sup-

"The business community, government and even local organizations and churches are just as quilty of shopping out of town. By in-cluding business, government and others in your program you are showing the citizens that this is a community wide effort. These requests are not meant to make residents feel defensive, but are residents feel defensive, but are made for the benefit of shoppers and businesses alike," he added.

According to Richard, every year business, government and consumers in the Wayne area spend approximately $80.5 million. Of that $80.5 million, $45 million is spent locally, leaving over $35 million leaving Wayne. This means: lion leaving Wayne. This means approximately $95,000 is leaving the community daily, he said.

HE ADDED that if the Wayne area spent just 5 percent of the money leaving the community at home — just a nickel out of every dollar — the local economy would grow by $1.8 million annually.

"We're not talking about increasing your spending, we are just talking about redirecting it,"

The centerpiece for the campaign is to build interest through local advertising. One part of the campaign consists of ten, 60 second radio ads featuring the recog-nizable voice of Tom Boddette of Motel 6 fame. Examples of those cholesterol?

A.Cholesterol is a sterol (waxy alcohol, not a fat) found in all animal tissue. It is used by the body to synthesize vitamin D, to make hormones (including the sex hormones), and to make bile salts to aid in digestion of fat. Cholesterol is a component of all cell membranes, and it is found in large amounts in brain and nerve tissue. The liver may produce two to three times more cholesterol than we eat: thus, in some cases reducing the amount of cholesterol in the diet may have only a small effect on the total cholesterol level in the blood.

The vitality of our communities is due to the cooperative spirits among our neighbors. However, we increasingly find that we lack housing for growing communities. Because of concerns over local nousing needs I am sponsoring LB 1134. #### Viewpoint_

Pat on the back

We'd like to give the Wayne County Commissioners some recognition for their recent decision to have some much-needed minor renovation work done to the Wayne County Courthouse. The change is immesurable.

For a number of years, the county courthouse's lobby was gloomy and dark. The lighting inside the lobby was poor and it often left people wondering whether the building was open for business. Worse yet, it looked run down and it did not leave a positive impression on those who visited the historic building.

But this little facelift the commissioners have had Loberg Construction of Carroll do, breathes life into the courthouse. Not only was the project relatively inexpensive, but it took little time to do and the craftsmanship is excellent. We applaud all involved who saw this $9,300 project to it's finish.

With the ceiling work nearing completion on all levels of the building, we would like to endorse our support at this time to have the commissioners either carpet all the stairwells and lobbies or see if the floors can be restored.

These additional changes would only enhance an already beautifully done project. We'd like to see more.

Thanks, Jane

Community leaders come in all styles and each style is an integral part of creating a community with high quality of life.

Some leaders consciously try to be leaders. Some fall into leadership by accident. Some leaders attract and receive recognition. Others work tirelessly behind the scenes in productive anonymity. Some leaders are earnest, organized and image conscious. Others are carefree, fun and favor enthusiasm

But all leaders are crucial to small communities and have a general commonality of purpose. They want to make their town better and they are willing to make personal sacrifices to do it. The Wayne Chamber of Commerce rightfully honors community leaders for their efforts during its annual meeting.

This year's honoree as Citizen of the Year is Jane O'Leary. Her name is a fitting addition to the long list of honorees which includes most of Wayne's key community leaders.

Mrs. O'Leary is a driving force behind the Chicken Days celebration in addition to being a leader in a long list of other community endeavors.

She is the kind of enthusiastic, fun-loving leader that often goes unrecognized and we commend the chamber for paying tribute to her contributions to the community.

Aggies take upper hand

LINCOLN - Round one to the aggies.

That's how one state senator described the Revenue Committee's deliberations last week over personal property taxes.

The committee voted 5-3 to send a bill that repeals all personal property taxes—the solution most favored by rural senators—to the floor of the Legislature.

In doing so, the committee rejected the solution Governor Nelson has pushed, the 3R proposal to return depreciated machinery and breeding livestock to local property

That committee also advanced a proposed constitutional amendment most agree is needed to re-solve the tax mess. It's scheduled to be on the May ballot, which is a pretty tricky proposition. That would take 40 votes. I don't think you could get 40 votes agreeing to go to lunch with the way this Legislature is divided this year.

There's still going to be a lot of fighting over this, but the aggies appear to have the upper hand.

In committee, they had an un-usual savior. Omaha Senator Tim Hall is the sponsor of the plan that was advanced out of committee. I didn't know they grew that much sorghum or corn in South Omaha. never seen the man wear a seed cap.

Though it repeals all personal property and raises more than $100 million in sales and income $100 million in sales and income taxes, he said his plan redistributes that money through formulas that keeps people paying taxes in the same proportion they are now, generally. That's very general. Everyone's taxes are going to change a little no matter which plan they

But for the people he represents, the plan appears to be a wash. And for farmers it appears to be about a $10 million tax in crease, about the amount the 3R plan was supposed to raise farmer in a single year.

There were some efforts by ag senators to cut some of those taxes in committee. But Senator Carson Rogers of Ord, a real aggie who I have seen wear a seed cap, opposed the efforts.

He said if a plan is going to get through the Legislature and pass this year, realistically, this might be as good as it can get for ag.

Flight keeps nerves on end

Eighteen, or so, months ago I had the occasion to make a commercial airline flight out of Denver. My uneventful flight took place just a few days after the tragic DC-10 flight from Denver that ended in a cartwheeling fireball in Sioux City.

Though my flight went off without a hitch there was an unmistak-able sense of tension throughout the cabin. Necks jerked around in split second terror when a bever age cart bump created a metal banging on metal sound.

I saw more than one waiting passenger, acutely conscious of the recent bad news, peaking out the concourse window to see what kind of plane we would be flying. I found myself wondering how old our 737 was and whether metal of one's mind the likelihood of a crash when you are making a flight shortly after an air disaster or series even caught myself estimating the number of passengers on board and imagining what the headline would say as we were gathering speed for takeoff. "98 die in airline disaster" It's a my daydreams.

I remember fatalistically thinking during that flight that where I was sitting in the forward section, by a window, I would not be one of the survivors if there were any dur-

Even though the likelihood of a crash is remote and much less threatening than the danger we face when we drive home from the airport we are given the impression through media coverage of disas-ters that they are commonplace. In their critical book examining the influence of the media in our society a couple of former college professors of mine, John Hulteng and Roy Nelson deal specifically with this issue.

"A plane crash causing several deaths is undentably a part of the news: It belongs on the front page and on the television newscast. Yet the readers and viewers who get a vivid impression of the crash see or read nothing about the hundreds of other planes that flew routinely and safely to their destinations that same day. It is also not front page news that 99.9 percent of Americans went about their business in law abiding fashion on a given day. It is news that one among those millions opened fire with a rifle on a crowded down-town street, killing or wounding nine persons before being himself shot down by the police."

Hulteng and Nelson contend that media viewers and readers are left with an unwarranted sense that the world is a dark and crumbling place, and that as individuals in that media world we are naturally apprehensive.

The emphasis on disaster cover age and negative events in the news has a tendency to distort our outlook on society in general. We are then conditioned when we get on an airplane, to imagine horrible possibilities even though they are remote indeed.

The same influence affects our lives in the microcosm of small

The news coverage decisions made at the Wayne Herald and KTCH radio as well as the other KICH radio as well as the other media outlets which regularly cover this area, can and do have a profound effect on the community image we retain and in turn reflect.

Bad news must indeed be covered. It is after all news. But we as media workers should not ignore the good that is around us. We the good that is around: us. We daily strive to present both the good and bad in our community. In a small town we in the media are more able to (indeed we have more of an obligation to) search out the positive aspects of the world around us rather than simply relying on the (often negative) oc-currence of events to shape our Intelligent media consumers, both in small towns and when viewing the world picture, need to understand the media and the limits on it.

They need to consume what all media has to offer with a more skeptical view--understanding that the presentation of news events of the day is not necessarily a true picture of life in general.

And when you next fly, ignore the nervous looks of those passengers around you and the white knuckle guy next to you who is probably composing disaster headlines in his mind.

Re-regulate cable

President Bush has threatened to veto a consumer-oriented bill to re-regulate the cable television industry. Congress has responded to their Constituents' complaints and have realized that an unregulated monopoly in an era of lax antitrust enforcement is not in the public's best interest. The Senate has overwhelmingly passed this legisla-tion and it is pending in the House.

A television programmer makes a business decision to bounce his signal off of a satellite. These signals fall into every backyard in America like raindrops. They have no right to discriminate by pricing, or in any other way, who or what technology receives this signal on the ground. The fact that cable operators have a financial interest and too much influence over these programmers is an impediment to the free flow of information. It is our government's responsibility to see that the airwaves are used in the public's best interest.

If the cable operators do not want government regulation, let them compete in a free market environment. If they want to sign exclusive distribution agreements with programmers and receive a direct signal, either a landline or microwave relay, then legislation probably would not be needed. Cable operators are not in the entertainment business. They are in the business of delivering a signal from their dish antenna to a sub-scribers' home. They decide where the cable ends and what homes do not get served. They decide which signals to offer and which to ignore. Do you think in a competitive marketplace a cable operator could put his channels into small packages and demand that you packages and demand that you buy programming that you may not want in order to get the programming you do want? What ever happened to freedom of choice?

The Republican Administration of the last 11 years must be held accountable for their failure to assume responsibility in seeing that

Dust bunnies in 'spot' light

This week I want to talk to you about something personal. So personal, in fact, that you may want to read everything else on this page (or perhaps in this newspaper) before you come back and read what I have to say.

I don't mean to alarm you, but this week's topic is dust bunnies. Ever heard of them? Your house probably suffers from them and you may not even know it. You may also find them where you work. But they could be anywhere indoors lurking, waiting to jump out at you at any moment, without no-

Some dust bunnies hang from the ceiling like vampire bats awaiting their prey. Others scurry across wood floors. Occasionally, you'll see them jump out from be-hind the stove or from behind the refrigerator, especially in homes with linoleum kitchen floors.

IN EXHAUSTIVE research performed by my one-member panel, there are few ways to avoid dust bunnies. Of the four known to humankind, all of them

1. Live outdoors. Dust bunnies hate to go outside. In most cases when they've been removed from natural environment, they've been known to attempt to take to flight to avoid the persecution at the bottom of the garbage can. Dust bunnies cannot lead a healthy existence outdoors. That's a scien

2. Live in a hospital. Dust bunnies hate hospitals. For dust bun-nies, however, their existence in a hospital is usually limited and their lives are squelched by top-notch cleaning crews specially trained to hunt down and destroy them.

3. Live in a biosphere. Being at a biosphere is supposed to be 3. LIVE In a DIOSphere. Dening that a biosphere is supposed to be unaffected by climactic conditions surrounding it. Since dust bunnies thrive better during the wintermonths, it's easy to assume that a permanently controlled environ-ment would make it next to impossible for dust bunnies to thrive. In a biosphere, their existence is less entertaining because they can't reproduce as

4. Hold spring cleaning every weekend and every evening. Dust bunnies run for cover whenever they see a broom, a vacuum or a dust cloth.

IF YOU AREN'T familiar with the signs and symptoms of dust bun-nines in our home or place of em-ployment, here's a few simple tips.

 If your home has a spattered, speckled or textured ceiling and one of those $19.95 attachments that fits all household vacuums you received for buying the ginzu knife (or used whatever you use to clean ceilings), look up at your ceiling. The dust bunnies are hanging there at the end of the texture or dangling from a cobweb.

If you have an oak or • If you have an oak or wooden floor (that's uncarpeted) in your home, just breathe or point a handy hairdryer at the floor and turn it on. You'll be fikely to see the dust bunnies appear like good movies during the TV ratings super week.

These fine examples of the en-graver's art depict Indian scenes, steamboats, and pioneer life, but the financial disaster caused in part by these notes in 1857-58 overshadow their beauty.

The first three sessions of the Territorial Legislature chartered several banks to print and circulate "wildcat" notes, but included no safegaurds to insure the institutions' responsibility. These bills often circulated without the necessary gold to redeem the issue. In effect, the charters legalized *printing press* money. Local newspapers and businessmen gave these banks full confidence, since they helped to alleviate the scarcity of Federal money and provided cash for local investments.

Banks in Omaha, Florence, Brownville, DeSoto, Tekamah, and Nebraska City were chartered by the territorial legislature. In addition, several private banks and land companies issued currency without the benefit of legislative approval. The day of reckoning for the "wildcats" came during the depression of 1857-58. Nebraska suffered severe losses; most banks failed to honor their notes and assets totaled less than $500. including 10x12 foot shanty with a stove. The same year the Nemaha Valley Bank collapsed when demands for $12,000 met an empty vault.

Allen falls in sub-district finals

The Allen girls basketball team advanced to the finals of the D1-7 sub-district after blasting Win-nebago, 58-30, Monday night in Laurel. On Tuesday the Lady Ea-gles came within eight minutes of advancing to the district final for the right to play for a state tour-nament berth, but Newcastle overcame an eight-point deficit in the fourth quarter and went on to post a 56-46 victory.

In Monday's contest the Eagles never trailed as they opened up a 13-4 lead after the first quarter. Allen held a comfortable 30-17 lead at the intermission and the Eagles put the exclamation point on the game in the third quarter after they out-scored the Indians, 14-5 to lead 44-22.

"We really played a good manto-man defense," Allen co-head coach tori Koester said: "It was nice to see us out-score them in every quarter." Nine different players hit the scoring column for Koester and Gary Erwin, led by Denise Boyle was also in double figures with 11 points while Sonya Plueger poured in 10. Cindy Chase added eight points while Christy Philbrick, Heather Sachau and Dawn Diediker scored four apiece. Marcia Hansen and Tanya Plueger rounded out the attack with two points each.

Allen dominated the boards nearly as bad as they dominated the score with a 48-29 advantage. The three players that scored in double figures for the Eagles also reached double figures in rebounds with Plueger leading the way with 12 caroms while Martinson had 11 and Boyle, 10. Allen did have 28 turnovers while Winnebago-had 26 and the Eagles were not prolific from the foul line, connecting on 8-21 while Winnebago was 12-23.

Allen wears down
In the sub-district championship the Eagles just wore down after dominating the Lady Raiders of just ran out of gas," Koester said.
"Our pressure defense expended a lot of energy but that's how we play each game."

Allen led 14-9 after the first quarter of play and led 26-19 at the intermission. The only downside of the first half for Allen was having to play the whole second quarter without senior Cindy Chase who suffered three, first quarter fouls.

The flip side of that, however, was the positive impact that sophomore Steph Martinson had on the game as she came off the bench to score eight, second quarter points on the way to her team-high 16. Newcastle had managed to cut the Allen lead to one point in one stretch of the second quarter at 16-15 but the Eagles closed out the half with a 10-4 run including a bucket by Martinson with two seconds left before half.

Often times it is said that the first three minutes of the second half tells the story for the rest of the game but Allen managed to increase its lead on Newcastle after three quarters of play to eight points at 38-30.

The first three minutes of the fourth quarter, however, is what told the story as Newcastle outscored Allen 11-2 to take a 41-40 lead. Newcastle would shoot 19, fourth quarter free throws and connect on 12 which turned the game in its favor.

As mentioned. Martinson led

As mentioned, Martinson led Allen with 16 points while Sachau scored eight. Sonya Plueger and Philbrick scored six each including a 3-3 outing from the field in the first quarter by Philbrick. Boyle and Chase were each held far below their season averages with four points apiece while Steph Chase rounded out the scoring with two points. Newcastle held a 44-32 rebounding advan-tage on Allen despite eight caroms each from Martinson and Boyle.

Allen had 16 turnovers but forced Newcastle into 24. The Eagles were 2-8 from the foul line while Newcastle was 16-30. Allen closed out the season with a 10-7 record. "We're disappointed on record. "We're disappointed on how the season ended but we are very pleased with the way the girls played all year long," Koester said.

Wakefield girls close out season with loss

Gregg-Gruickshank's Wakefield Trojans girls basketball team was defeated by Ponca for the second time this season, Monday night in Rice Auditorium, 44-29.

This time, however, the loss ended Wakefield's season as it came in first round action of the C1-7 sub-district tournament. "If someone had told me before the someone had told me before the game that we were going to hold Ponca to 44 points, I would have felt pretty good about our chances," Cruickshank said, "It was just a real frustrating night on the offensive end."

offensive end."

Wakefield failed to score in double digits in any quarter. Ponca led 12-7 after the first period and the Indians maintained a 19-13 lead at the intermission.

Wakefield was still within range after the third quarter, trailing 29-21 but Ponca out-scored the Lady Trojans, 15-8 in the final stanza. The biggest settjack for Wakefield happened late in the first quarter. happened late in the first quarter when senior guard Lisa Anderson went down with a knee injury that sidelined her the rest of the game.

Anderson was on crutches following the game and unofficial reports say she may have a torn cartilege in her knee. Lisa Blecke led Wakefield in her final game as a Trojan, with 10 points. Blecke owns .virtually every scoring and re-bounding record in the Trojan his-tory books.

Kristen Miller and Sarah Salmon also played in their final games as Trojans and they scored six and trojans and they scored six and Maria Eaton, Heidi Mueller and Anderson scored two points each while Angi Peterson added one.

"We just couldn't get our shots to fall," Cruickshank said. "We hit 11 of 36 shots from the floor and we didn't fare a whole lot better from the free throw line where we were 5-16."

Cruickshank gave Ponca credit for its defense. "You have to give Ponca credit for what they accom-plished against us," Cruickshank said. "They have a fine team."

Katie Kayl led Ponca with 17 points while Nikki Keller poured in 13. "I told our girls after the game that we may have our ups and downs this season but if you look at the last two years, we've accomplished more than any other complished more than any other team in Wakefield girls history," Cruickshank said. "That's something to be proud of." Wakefield finished the season with a school record 14 victories

Winside did not go down without a fight, however, as Paul Gies-selmann's Wildcats sprinted to a 17-10 lead in the first quarter and maintained a 27-23 advantage at the intermission.

Foul trouble eventually took its toll on the Wildcats as four of the starting five were seated on the bench during the last couple min-utes of the first half with three fouls apiece.

"We played as hard as I've seen these girls play in the last two years," Giesselmann said. "Foul trouble really hurt us in the second half because we weren't able to be nail because we weren't able to be as aggressive as we were in the first half when we built leads as much as 11 points. Winside came out and scored the first bucket of the third quarter

Tradition motivates Winside to district wrestling championship

The Winside Wildcats wrestling team used a little tradition to kick in some extra incentive at the district wrestling tournament held in Brainard at East Butler High School last Friday and Saturday, and the result was a district championship by one point over favored Weeping Water.

The . Wildcats tallied 153.5 points while Weeping Water finished runner-up with 152.5. The district crown came down to the final match of the tournament as the second rated heavoweight in the second rated heavyweight in Class D, Trevor. Topp faced off against the third rated heavyweight in Mitch Cave of Weeping Water.

"Trevor just dominated the finals with Cave," Winside wrestling coach Paul Sók said. "He didn't allow him to score a single point in a Friend placed third with 112 points while Humboldt placed fourth with 111.5. Pender and Deshler tied for fifth with 59 points each while East Butler placed seventh with S6. Osmond finished eighth with 54 and Newman Grove finished ninth with 32. Meridian placed 10th with 20 points while Adams placed 11th with 19. Dorchester rounded out the field of teams with 13 points.

Both Winside and Weeping Water had five qualify for the finals but the difference in the meet was Winside had all five in the finals, win with two of them coming against Weeping Water in head-to-head competition.

"I think a little tradition kicked in," Sok said. "Our kids really wres-tled well. I didn't think we were going to be in a position to win af-ter Friday's quarterfinals because Weeping Water had 35.5 points and we had 26 but after Brady Frahm's final at 145, I could see where it was going to be down to the wire."

Scott Jacobsen, Marc Janssen, Frady Frahm, Jason Krueger and Trevor Topp all earned individual championships while Jason Wylie, Chris Mann, Jason Topp and Jason Magwire also earned a state tour-nament berth by placing in the top four of their respective weight

"We're sending nine to the state tournament," Sok said.

BURLINGTON NORTHERN CREWS CONDUCT REPAIRS to the railroad tracks Tuesday after a train derailed at a location two miles west of Laurel Sunday. Burlington Northern officials said the derailment is still under investigation. Fortunately, there were no injuries in the accident.

Train derails Sunday near Laurel

Managing Editor

A train derailment Sunday night is still under investigation, a Burlington Northern official said

Tuesday. James Blaser, public information officer for Burlington Northern, said the accident, which occurred two miles west of Laurel north of Highway 20, occurred about 8:05 p.m.

Blaser said it appears that the third locomotive derailed from the tracks, pulling with it seven cars. Of the cars which went off the tracks, two were loaded with corn, he

ACCORDING TO the Cedar County Sheriff's Office, there were 76 cars and three engines moving on the track at the time of the derailment. Two of the cars which tipped over were carrying 6,400 bushels of corn, 2,000 bushels of which were spilled.

Blaser added that two of the cars that derailed remained upon their side or leaning. As a result of the accident, two cars piled onto three others.

The train, which Blaser said is considered a local line, runs be-tween Sioux City and O'Neill. He said he is uncertain which direction it was headed when the derail-

Awaiting an end to the New Hampshire primary

New Hampshire primary is over. So will the people of New Hampshire. As one commentator remarked, we must have interviewed every one in the state by now. I'm a little surprised, and disappointed, in Bob Kerrey's showing. He's apparently perceived as a one-issue candidate, and that probably is accurate. But the cost of health care is a mighty important issue; and the cost of insurance. issue; and the cost of insurance, the inequities, the regulations, etc.

I have a UNL friend who is the campaign who reports that Bob's speeches are so inconsistent. One time, he's putting people to sleep. Another, he's got the audience on its feet. Of course, I'm sure it must be very hard to keep the same level of excitement day after day.

I've heard costs of $700,000 just for television ads and now he's fired his media director.

Someone handed me a copy of a column in the Lincoln Journal that blasted Bush for quadrupled debt, and the Big Farmer reminds me that it's Congress who passes leg-islation. It seems to me the more they promise to cut, the more it is eased

I believe the good people of New Hampshire have noticed this, too. They are not easily won over. They are basically honest people and expect others to be, also. This and expect others to be, asso. WAYNE STATE STUDENTS Ty Adams (center) and Ned Hodgson present Capt. Dave Winkler with a $100 donation for the purchase of a police dog.

Group makes donation

The Wayne State College Criminal Justice Association re-cently donated $100 toward the purchase of a police service dog for the Nebraska State Patrol.

The patrol would use the dog in the northeast and north central Nebraska area, The money will become part of an effort to bring come part of an effort to bring such a dog to the patrol force in the area, according to Capt. Dave Winkler, Troop B commander for the Nebraska State Patrol in Norfolk.

The patrol currently has two police service dogs on the force. One is stationed in North Platte and the other is in Lincoln.

CAPTAIN WINKLER says the patrol uses its dogs primarily for detecting drugs, searching for missing persons and fugitives and for officer protection. The cost of finding a suitable animal and training it can run as high as $6,000.

"All it takes is for the dog to prevent one large drug shipment from reaching our community to make it worthwhile," Winkler says.
"A drug-detecting dog helped Illinois State Troopers uncover more than 900 lbs. of cocaine recently. The dog found the cocaine locked in toollower buried under 42 000 in toolboxes buried under 42,000 lbs. of potatoes."

WSC faculty members take part in symposium

the Wayne State College Center for Cultural Outreach took part in a recent symposium on Aaron Copland, Emily Dickinson and

"Words, Tones, and Colors."

The Library Card

This column is written twice a month to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are avaliable at Wayne Public

Our fifth Chautauqua author is Henry David Thoreau. He has been called by various biographers, writers and friends, a deliberate author; a skeptic; a man of conscience; a searcher for reality; a Transcendentalist; a friend of Ralph Waldo Emerson, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Bronson Alcott and Margaret Fuller.

Thoreau was born in Concord, Mass. on July 12, 1817 and Concord remained the corter of his life, although he lived briefly in Thoreau taught school, tried tutoring, worked from time to time in his father's pencil manufacturing business. None of these met his avowed goal to be a writer. Writing was a precarious way to make a living at that time, but he persevered and worked at odd jobs to support himself.

His first Book, "A Week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers, His first Book, "A Week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers," and a rough draft of his best known book, "Walden," came out of his experiment of living alone on the banks of Walden Pond.

He said, "I went to the woods because I wished to live deliberately, to front only the essential facts of life, and see if I could not learn what it had to teach, and not, when I came to die, discover that I had not lived."

Although he never earned a living by his pen, his works fill 20 volumes. Some critics say that his greatest achievement is his private journal, written from 1837 to 1862, and published nearly 50 years after his death. It records his observations, material for his works, and experiments in a new literary system of "miniatures."

Thoreau said of himself, "If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drum-

Week designated to recognize 4-H parents

The week of Feb. 16-22 has been designated 4-H Parents Week as a time to thank 4-H parents for their role in helping children gain life skills.

"Four-H is a youth organization centered around the involvement of the family," says Karen Wermers, area extension agent, adding that parents, neighbors and others serve as volunteer leaders to assist and encourage 4-H members.

WERMERS said "life skills" is a term used to explain how 4-H helps youth. Those "life skills" in-

PAIN CAN BE A LIFESAVER: Recently, a doctor told me about a patient, a man in his late 70s, who sustained a very severe burn injury because of reduced pain perception. The man was boiling water in a kettle. The lid had not been secured tightly. When the kettle whistle sounded, the man took hold of the handle, and was unaware that his hand Reduced pain perception occurs in some older folks because of neurosensory system changes. The person's intellectual capacities are not involved. The change takes menectual capacines are not involved. The change takes place only in that area of the brain that responds to stimulus. The reaction, instead of being immediate, is slowed. This means, for example, that someone can pick up a hot pot and rather than drop it immediately, can hold it long enough to be burned. It also means a higher risk of being scalded in the tub or shower by hot water that would not usually be tolerated by the body.

If someone you know is sustaining burns or other injuries because they don't feel heat in time, or perceive any other sensation quickly enough to get away from an injury, source, get that person to a doctor to determine if he or she is experiencing neurosensory system changes.

New Norco. What's in it for producers?

Open a Norco feed bag these days, and you can expect to find some exciting new We're now a division of GTA Feeds, a major livestock products manufacturer whose facilities span an eight-state region. Because we now share GTA Feeds' resources and experience of more than three decades, we're able to offer more services and greater value with every bag of feed.

Take a look at the new Norco advantages:

▼ Feed that Reflects the Latest in Nutrition—With the addition of GTA's staff of highly-qualified swine, cattle and dairy nutritionists, we will continue to provide feed and supplements that keep pace with advances in the science of livestock nutrition.

▼ Lab Analysis—No need to guess about the nutritional value of your forage or grain. With the additional resources of GTA Feeds, we can now offer expanded, more sophisticated analyses of your grain and feedstuffs.

▼ Management Consulting—Programs such as SwineSource provide invaluable information to help you manage your operation more efficiently and economically. In addition, GTA Feeds feed consultants possess the computer capabilities for ration formulations, feed efficiencies and profit. projections. Norco will soon have these same capabilities available to you.

▼ Customer Financing—Help when you need it most through FinAg, a custom financing program for feed, livestock and facilities offered by Harvest States Cooperative, GTA Feeds' parent company.

▼ Stability—GTA Feeds brings to Norco a history of stability based on dedicated service to producers from Wisconsin to the Pacific. With the affiliation of Harvest States Cooperative, GTA Feeds and Norco are part of one of the country's largest farmer-owned cooperatives committed to livestock and agriculture for the long term.

Norco is now better than ever because it's fortified with the services, expertise and stability of GTA Feeds. Look into the new Norco and you'll find everything it takes for a better bottom line.

Your Medicap pharmacist

MISUNDERSTOOD DIRECTIONS

The percentage of people taking medications that doesn't follow the Doctors directions is very high. They think they understand, but for some reason or other they don't. Your Medicap pharmacist attempts to be sure you understand. Too many times the customer doesn't ask the pharmacist for a better explanation simply because they don't want to admit they don't understand. "Take twice a day," "Take on an empty stomach," "Take 3 a day" type of directions really don't tell the whole story. If there is something you don't understand, ask your pharmacist. By taking your medication correctly, you'll get more benefit from your medicaiton.
