Bill supported with provisions

Conway endorses 3R plan

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Tax crisis: the history

At the noon Kiwanis meeting Monday, State Sen. Gerald Conway, R-Wayne, said he believes a solution will soon be found to the personal property tax crisis.

Currently, there are four proposals before the Nebraska Legislature to resolve the tax crisis. One is the proposal from the 3R committee, a second is LB 1150, the third is LB 1120 and the fourth is LR 230CA.

The 3R committee proposal calls for a vote of the people to change the constitution so the uniformity clause only applies to real property. Then, personal property would be taxed only on its depreciated value as indicated on federal income tax returns. Under the proposal, items taxed include farm machinery and business equipment.

CONWAY SAID he plans to endorse the 3R proposal if certain conditions are met.

"I've always been in favor of the 3R proposal with exceptions," he said. "Exceptions would include giving farmers a 2 percent tax

- The personal property tax crisis found its roots in the 1970s when the Legislature started making exceptions for personal property. Personal property is the main supporter for public schools, city and county governments.
- In the 1980s, railroads used federal law to win tax breaks on their personal property. Pipelines and telephone companies followed.
- In July 1991, the Nebraska Supreme Court ruled that the personal property tax system is discriminatory, citing the uniformity clause of the state's constitution.
- The current dilemma is that in 1991, no personal property, except motor vehicles, was taxed. In 1992, all personal property that produces income — business equipment, farm machinery, livestock and business inventory — will be taxed.

break on their sales tax and that could apply to all businesses which purchase goods as economic investments."

LB 1120, proposed by Sen. Tim Hall of Omaha, calls for exempting all personal property except motor vehicles. Under the proposal, sales taxes would be broadened to apply to services, raising $65 million. It would also increase income taxes for higher incomes, raising $50 million.

Conway said there's a consensus that three problems exist with Hill's proposal. One that money would go to urban centers, rather than rural areas. Another being that senators don't want to vote for tax increases when farmers get something they shouldn't have had in the first place. The third problem is the loss of local controls, since the state would be sending money back to local governments.

A THIRD proposal is LR 230CA, proposed by Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood. It would repeal all constitutional tax restrictions, so lawmakers can raise revenue any way they want.

"As the week goes on, we will find some kind of compromise," Conway said. "I'm willing to negotiate with the ag sector because a $12 million shift would be a big blow."

Of the proposals originally before the legislature, of which there were initially five, two died in committee. A third proposal has not been advanced, pending review by the revenue committee. That proposal is LB 1150, sponsored by Sen. Howard Lamb of Anselmo. It calls for taxing depreciated farm and business equipment; exempt breeding livestock as well as other livestock and business inventory, repeal the sales tax on farm equipment and eliminating property tax support for community colleges, substituting sales and corporate taxes.

"No matter what happens, every one of these proposals requires a constitutional change," Conway said. "That amendment will go before the people and because of that, the legislation needs to be in place in advance."

County attorney files satellite module charges

The first charges against individuals from Wayne County who were allegedly using altered satellite modules was filed late Tuesday in the Wayne County Court.

Wayne County Attorney Michael Pieper filed charges of theft of services against David H. Asmus, Hoskins; William Thondel, Jr., Hoskins; and Dean Janke, Jr. of Winside; for allegedly possessing an altered satellite system, allowing them to receive satellite services of cable television channels without payment.

Theft of services, a Class II misdemeanor, is punishable by six months in jail or a $1,000 fine, or both. Minimum penalty is nothing.

THE CHARGES stem from an undercover investigation conducted by the Nebraska State Patrol which led to five search warrants being carried out in Wayne County Jan. 16-18.

Counties involved in the investigation aside from Wayne County were Madison, Cedar and Stanton Counties.

Additional charges are pending in Wayne County following further investigation.

The altered satellite modules allegedly came from businesses in Randolph and Stanton.

Non-incumbents file papers for openings on District 17 board

Two Wayne School District 17 residents filed papers March 3 to run for the District 17 board of education.

Mary Temme, rural Wayne, and Karma Magnuson, rural Carroll, each filed to run for election to the board Tuesday with the Wayne County Clerk's office. If elected, each will serve four year terms. Both non-incumbent candidates are non-partisan filings.

THIS YEAR, there were three openings on the Wayne School

Board and only one incumbent filed for re-election. Sid Hillier, who is seeking his third four-year term on the board. He filed for re-election Feb. 13.

The two positions left vacant were those of Neil Sandahl, rural Wayne, and Ken Dahl, Wayne. Sandahl and Dahl both opted not to seek another term on the board.

The filing deadline for any elected office up for election for non-incumbents is Friday, March 13.

Rural school faces choice; survey will define future

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Parents and residents in the District 57 school can expect to receive a survey from their district board in the next few weeks to determine the future of the rural school.

The District 57 school, located four miles south of Wayne, is one of five rural schools in Wayne County forced to mull over its options before Feb. 1, 1993, following a law passed by the Nebraska Legislature in 1990. The law requires Class I schools to either affiliate with K-12 districts or merge with a K-12 district.

"We can always cease affiliation if we begin it and go into a merger," said Gene Lutt, president of the board. "But if we decide to merge, we can't stop and decide we want to affiliate."

WITH 33 STUDENTS in the rural school, approximately 40 parents and residents of the district turned out Tuesday night to listen to their options. While no vote was taken, they found they have quite a few things to decide.

For instance, residents will have to decide before Feb. 1, 1993, which school or schools they want to affiliate with. Their choices include Wayne, Wakefield, Wisner and Winside. Currently, the Nebraska Department of Education is pushing rural school districts to decide by the start of the 1992-93 school year.

Another decision residents have to make is whether to move the upper grades into the system with which they affiliate. They will also have to decide whether to keep the rural school open.

Despite the questions the district faces, Wayne County Superintendent Harry Mills endorsed the quality of education students receive in the school.

"I've visited the school several times," he said. "You have an excellent facility ... and it basically has good instructors. I've always found that the classes are orderly and the students have good instruction. Don't be ashamed of your school. All the board's trying to do is abide by the law."

ACCORDING TO the law, the affiliation process begins with the development of an affiliation plan. The plan may be developed by the board of education of the district, legal voters of the district, the county reorganization committee or any combination of those entities.

If the residents of the district choose to merge, the school will close. But if they choose to affiliate, the school will remain open and it will continue to be governed by its local board, with operating budgets controlled by the county. The only change would be if levies were passed by the K-12 district for high school projects, then landowners would be responsible for paying their fair share of taxes.

Once the survey is tabulated, the board may make its decision at its April 7 meeting.

Jim Savage

Chamber schedules speaker

Motivational speaker Jim Savage, senior vice-president of the Ziglar Corporation, has scheduled an appearance in Wayne this fall to speak on behalf of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce and the Wayne State Student Activity Board.

Savage, heralded by Ziglar as a man of the right principles, will be in Wayne Oct. 6. His talk will be "How to Stay Motivated and Be a Top Performer."

SAVAGE co-authored, with Ziglar, the best selling book Top Performance. Before joining the high-powered speaking circuit, his career included sales, management, teaching, coaching and scouting at the professional football level with the Washington Redskins.

Members of the Wayne Chamber Educational Council are organizing Savage's appearance and are pre-selling tickets to underwrite the cost. The Rice Auditorium seats will sell for $10. Several area firms have already purchased blocks of tickets for their employees or customers.

Anyone interested in purchasing advance tickets for the performance may contact the Chamber.

Johs earns Eagle Scout

Jason Scott Johs, 17, will receive his Eagle Scout at a Troop 174 Court of Honor Monday, March 9 at 7 p.m. The Court of Honor will be held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Friends and neighbors are invited to attend the ceremony. No invitations are being sent. A reception will follow the court of honor.

Johs is the son of Dr. Hilbert and Verdina Johs of Wayne and he is a senior at Wayne High School.

He joined Cub Scout Pack 175 in 1982 and earned the Arrow of Light. In May of 1985, he became a Boy Scout and earned 21 merit badges. He has served his troop as assistant senior patrol leader, librarian, leadership corps and instructor.

Brenda Wessel, Todd Duffack repeat vows in February ceremony at Omaha

Luther Memorial Church in Omaha was the setting for the Feb. 8 ceremony uniting in marriage Brenda Rene Wessel and Todd Duffack, both of Long Beach, Calif.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Wayne Wessel of Wayne. She is a 1982 graduate of Wayne-Carroll High School and a 1987 graduate of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The bridegroom, son of Jim Duffack and Mrs. Gloria Duffack, both of Omaha, graduated from Millard South High School in 1982 and from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in 1987. He is employed at Toyota Motor Sales, Inc., USA, Los Angeles, Calif.

The newlyweds traveled to Maui, Hawaii and are making their home at 230 Termino Ave., Apt. #14, Long Beach, Calif., 90803.

THE REV. Lee Griess of Omaha officiated at the 6 o'clock, double ring ceremony.

The altar was decorated with bouquets of white snowflake chrysanthemums and daisies, and candelabras with fern and white glittered leaves. Other decorations included aisle candelabras and white satin pew bows with white glittered leaves and decorative white glittered sticks.

Lynne Madsen of Omaha registered the guests. Ushers were Scott Babcock of Kansas City, Mo., Todd Rickard of Omaha and John Schonberg of Burnsville, Minn., and junior usher was Michael Van Dyke of Omaha. Lighting candles was Jenny Van Dyke of Omaha.

Wedding music included "The Irish Blessing," "Ave Maria," "Walk Hand in Hand" and "The Lord's Prayer," sung by Ed Downing of Omaha. Organist was Julie Sandene of Omaha and violinists were Christopher and Debi Bonds of Wayne.

MAIDS OF honor were the bride's sisters, Jennifer Wessel and Julie Wessel of Lincoln, and best man was Jim Duffack of Omaha.

Bridesmaid was Terri Duffack of Omaha, sister of the bridegroom, and groomsmen were David Garcia of Kansas City, Mo. and Scott Wessel of Pilger.

Serving as flower girl and ring bearer were Erin Ross of Otoe, Neb. and Wesley Frye of Eagle, Neb.

ON HER wedding day, the bride was given in marriage by her parents and appeared in a white gown of Alencon lace on satin and tulle with a sweep train.

Alencon lace appliques accented with pearls and sequins covered the bodice, which featured an off-the-shoulder sweetheart neckline with a deep V back and long fitted sleeves. The appliques trailed from the bodice to the layered full tulle skirt.

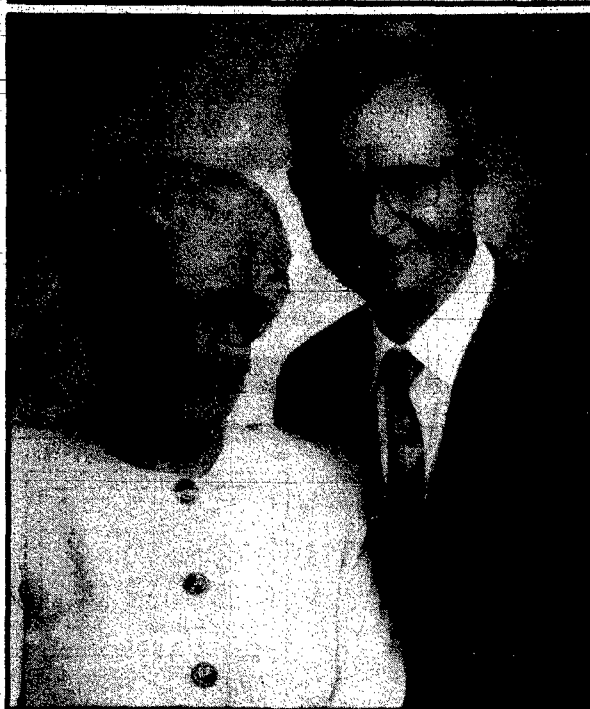

Her headpiece was a custom made crown composed of double arches of pearls and crystal coming to nine points of inverted Austrian teardrop clear crystals. It was framed with a small pouf of white illusion tulle. The veil extended to the length of her sweep train.

The bride carried a teardrop-shaped bouquet of white flowers which included forced open roses, sweetheart roses, tulips and snowflake chrysanthemums, accented with white glittered leaves.

THE BRIDE'S attendants wore navy blue velvet dresses in floor length, fashioned with off-the-shoulder necklines, cap sleeves and straight skirts, with long white satin gloves.

Their bouquets included three white long-stemmed roses with accents of white glittered leaves and tied with iridescent white ribbon.

The men in the wedding party were attired in black double-

Local grocery stores join Extension in promoting National Nutrition Month

Local grocery stores in Dixon County are cooperating with the University of Nebraska Extension to promote National Nutrition Month in March.

Nutrition posters are on display, nutrition fliers are available, and some stores are offering a coloring contest or food tasting booth.

The nutritional information this year will focus on the new Dietary Guidelines for Americans adopted in 1990.

"Many people grew up learning about the Basic Four Food Groups, including breads and cereals, fruits and vegetables, milk products and meat products," said Karen Wermers, area extension agent-home economics/family finances.

Wermers added that under the first of seven new dietary guidelines, Americans over the age of two are encouraged to eat a variety of foods. The guideline encourages consumers to achieve balance in their food selections by choosing a variety of foods from five major food groups — not four.

"THE FIFTH food group, created by splitting the fruits and vegetables group into two separate groups, allows for more specific guidelines," pointed out Wermers, adding that each day consumers can eat a variety of foods from all five of the food groups in the following recommended amounts:

Vegetables (3 to 5 servings); fruits (2 to 4 servings); breads, cereals, rice, pasta (6 to 11 servings); milk, yogurt, cheese (2 to 3 servings); meats, poultry, fish, dry beans, and peas, eggs and nuts (2 to 3 servings).

If there is a need for more food energy, Americans can eat more or larger servings from these five basic groups, or add to their intake by choosing from a sixth category of foods high in fats, oils and sugars.

Wermers stressed that it is important to remember that food choices from the sixth category, including alcoholic beverages, tend to be quite high in calories but low in essential nutrients.

THE BEST advice for today comes from the latest edition of the Dietary Guidelines:

"Get the many nutrients your body needs by choosing different foods you enjoy eating from these five groups daily: vegetables, fruits, grain products, milk and milk products, and meats and meat alternatives."

Wermers said the shift from four food groups to five, with increased numbers of recommended servings in three of the food groups, will help Americans stay on target with their nutritional health.

Holdorfs celebrate 70 years together

A family potluck dinner was held March 1 in the Laurel Senior Center to honor Mr. and Mrs. Max Holdorf on their 70th wedding anniversary.

Approximately 80 guests were present to congratulate the couple, coming from Colorado; Minnesota; Yankton, S.D.; Holstein and Schaller, Iowa; Wisner, Wayne, Winside, West Point, Norfolk, Elkhorn, Fremont, Wakefield, Riverdale, Laurel and Concord.

Following the dinner, a brief program was presented. Clayton Erwin was master of ceremonies and the Rev. Christopher Roepke gave devotions and prayer.

The Jaeger brothers of Winside sang several German hymns and songs, and grandchildren and great grandchildren entertained with songs, baton twirling and instrumental selections.

The program closed with group singing. Anniversary cake and coffee were served for afternoon lunch.

Asthma Treatment With Inhaled Steroids

When properly used, inhaled steroid medicines (also known as corticosteroids) reduce airway inflammation and desensitize air passages in the lungs to the presence of allergens and inhaled irritants that can cause asthma attacks. Steroids can be administered in three ways in the treatment of asthma symptoms - by mouth (tablets and capsules), injection, and inhalation. Inhaled forms of steroids are preferred over oral and injectable forms because of the occurrence of fewer side effects. Frequently prescribed inhaled steroids include beclomethasone dipropionate, triamcinolone acetonide, and flunisolide. When prescribed with bronchodilators, inhaled steroids may relieve asthma symptoms so that lower doses of the bronchodilators can be used.

Closures hit business district

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

With three businesses closing in Wayne, officials with the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce say they are sad to see the closures but at this point, they are not concerned.

"I don't know at this point if we should try to fill those businesses immediately but rather wait and see what market demands exist for new businesses to see if those niches can be filled," Wayne Chamber Director Curt Wilwerding said.

"I think this is just a sign of attrition. These closings came quite suddenly and we didn't have much advance warning that they were going to occur."

BUSINESSES CLOSING in the near future or already closed are True Value Hardware, Touchstones and Cats Closet.

Gary VanMeter, owner of Touchstones, said one of the reasons he's closing the local card and gift shop is to focus his efforts on expanding Mines Jewelers. He said he had a buyer for the business, but at the last minute, the deal fell through.

"If a local buyer could be found immediately, I'm sure something could be worked out," he said. "Business is what you make it."

Wilwerding supported that comment. He said he believes people in the Wayne area are battling the impression that the nationwide recession has struck Wayne, although recent retail data wouldn't support that misperception. He said he believes that since there's so much news about a recession in the media that people are saving their money a little more.

THE CLOSING of Cats Closet was the quickest of all three closures. Cats Closet, a niche store for college students to buy brand name clothing, closed when store owner Terry Henderson found out The Gap and Banana Republic would no longer provide her merchandise.

"The singular contributing factor was the loss of my supplier," she said. "Right now, The Gap is leading the industry and they want to protect that lead by not having small retailers sell their merchandise. I needed to make a quick decision and that's what I did."

She said reopening Cats Closet at this time does not look optimistic, although she is looking for suppliers.

Wilwerding said one reason the chamber is taking a stand-off approach at this point is to protect the businesses which are already here. He said he doesn't want to upset current chamber members.

"When you start trying to fill niches, you run into problems with conflict of interest," he said. "If we started to attract competition of businesses which are chamber members, it could upset that member."

THE CLOSING of Wayne's True

Value Hardware store has been something owners have considered for the past year, according to store manager Ruthie Schamaderer.

"When Wayne's True Value was born in 1987 ... we thought the Wayne area could support the facility," she said. "It didn't work that way and we decided to close the store. We place part of the blame (for the closure) on us."

In addition, store owners Stan and Marilyn Ortmeier said they appreciated the business they received from customers. They said a full line hardware store will someday make it in Wayne.

Wilwerding said while he's sure businesses that are closing did their best to stay open, there are some attitudes which need to change in the community's business district.

"Times are changing and we're going to have to change with the times," he said. "We need to do some things to attract business. We have some people who do that already but we're going to have to do more."

Shaping up bills for property taxes

LINCOLN - The debate on the property tax crisis has moved to the legislative floor. In the next few weeks we will undoubtedly continue to read and listen to arguments from all sides on this issue. There are a couple of bills dealing with this issue but also many amendments and fine-tuning could alter the final reading of these bills.

The property tax issue is very divisive. In part because of the diverse economy of our state. The effect of any change in our tax system will affect various groups (farmers, homeowners and businesses, for example) in different ways.

The argument is regarding who pays not how much. Budgets established by local governing bodies such as School Boards, City Councils and County Commissioners to meet local needs will not be affected. The issue on the floor is not the amount of taxes to be collected but what taxes will be used to fund local services.

Neither is this an issue of State taxation. The State can only levy sales taxes, income taxes, excise taxes, use taxes, etc., for State purposes. Property taxation is a right reserved for local governments for local purposes.

Prior to the Supreme Court's ruling, we were assessing and taxing: real estate, licensed vehicles, business equipment, railroad property, pipelines, and others. The legislature had determined that certain exemptions related to business inventories and agricultural operations were in the best interest of the State. This proceeded satisfactorily until the railroads and some businesses claimed it was unfair. The court agreed ruling that the constitutional requires fairness.

Debate has focused on how to address the court's ruling for uniformity: Do we tax all property or remove all property from the tax rolls. Underlying the debate is whether to fund local services with local taxes or with state distributed aid.

All property, except livestock and inventories, would be returned to the tax rolls under LB 1063, sometimes known as the 3R plan. However, only property that is being depreciated will be assessed, and only assessed at its cost less depreciation expenses. Equipment, machinery, and breeding stock that is not being depreciated on a federal income tax schedule will not be assessed on a county personal property tax schedule. Real Estate and licensed vehicles would be assessed as they were before. This applies to both business and agricultural property.

Removing all personal property from the tax rolls, leaving the entire property tax burden on real estate, is the alternative and is proposed in LB 1120. LB 1120 would also increase the State sales and income taxes. We would then use this money and redistribute it in the form of state aid to the counties to offset lost revenues.

The result of increased State sales and income taxes would be increased collections locally which are then sent to the state for redistribution. However, the majority of the counties will pay into the state significantly more than they will ever get back. This is because the majority of the new taxes collected will be distributed to those counties that were collecting the largest amounts from railroads and pipelines, but would no longer be allowed to tax them.

These proposals represent two attempts to resolve the property tax crisis. Each would redistribute the tax burden shouldered by homeowners, farmers, and businesses. As they are currently written, LB 1063 would eliminate exemptions for equipment and machinery and thereby broaden the property tax base. LB 1120 would eliminate the personal property tax and increase the burden on real estate property taxes, State sales and income taxes.

As we work toward a resolution of this dilemma, bear in mind that if an agreement cannot be reached on the property tax issue then the Supreme Court order will go in to effect and put all real and personal property on the county assessment schedules. Therefore the question regarding the provision of local services is an argument of who pays not how much.

Workshop scheduled

A workshop on rapid extrication of victims from motor vehicle accidents will be held Wednesday, March 11, from 7-10 p.m. at the Stanton Fire Station.

Market records create good potential for savings, earnings

Maintaining market records can be a tedious and time consuming process, according to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln farm management assistant, but the potential for earning and saving money is high as a result.

James Friesen, member of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, told a group of women here Thursday that gathering marketing information over several years will help in determining production costs and setting pricing targets.

IANR Agricultural Economist Larry Bitney said that according to the results of one study, individuals who rank in the high profit group are five times more likely to maintain records.

"There are various methods of maintaining these records," Bitney said. "But the proof of profitability is reason enough."

The GOLDEN YEARS by Pat Slichty

Alcohol abuse by older Americans is a more serious problem than many people realize, according to the National Institute on Aging. Until recently, the problem received little attention because older drinkers who are retired and live alone tend to do their heavy drinking privately. The extent of the problem was revealed by a national survey: 11 percent of men age 66 to 70 and 8 percent of those 71 to 75 described themselves as heavy drinkers. Among women it was 2.6 percent of those 66 to 70 and 4.9 percent of those 71 to 75. Special programs for elderly alcoholics are proving successful.

Wakefield loses district final

The Wakefield Trojans basketball team saw their season come to a close in the C-5 district final Monday night at Wayne High, as they lost 58-50 to defending state runner-up Hartington-Cedar Catholic.

Wakefield, 20-6, got off to an unusually slow start with Cedar building a 17-9 lead after the first quarter. The Trojans managed to cut the gap to six points by intermission at 31-25 but Cedar outscored Brad Hoskins' team, 27-25 in the second half.

"We didn't come out and play aggressively right away," Hoskins said. "We're usually the ones that get off to a good start but it just wasn't the case against Cedar."

The Trojans did cut the Cedar lead down to one point in the second quarter but then just like that, the favored Cedar built its lead back to nine points. "We just dug ourselves a hole right away and played catch up the whole game," Hoskins said. "Cedar was never uncomfortable with us even though we cut the lead down to four points a couple times in the second half."

All-state player Ryan Samelson scored 22 points to lead the winners while Aaron Frank poured in 17. Samelson scored 12 of his 22 points in Cedar's 17-9 first quarter run.

Marcus Tappe led Wakefield in scoring with 15 points while Anthony Brown netted 13. Dalton Rhodes netted eight points while Ben Dutton and Steve Clark scored seven apiece.

Cedar out-rebounded Wakefield, 23-12. Brown had six rebounds while Dutton had four. "There wasn't a whole lot of rebounds because Cedar was 23-39 from the floor," Hoskins said.

The Trojans did do a good job of taking care of the basketball as they had a season low eight turnovers while forcing 15 from Cedar. Wakefield was 5-9 from the foul line and Cedar was 9-14.

'Cats enjoy 17-10 season

WSC women fall in season finale

By Corey Jacobs

Wayne Herald intern
The Wayne State women's basketball team put their six game win streak on the line Saturday at Rice Auditorium against West Texas State University. The sixth rated Lady Buffs proved to be too much for Mike Barry's Wildcats claiming the 83-71 win.

Turnovers plagued both teams as they combined for 78 in the game. The Lady Buffs took advantage of their size and the turnovers to build a 16 point lead in the first half.

The Wildcats used four straight free throws to pull to 29-40 at the break. Free throws proved to be the strength for the 'Cats in the first half as they connected on 7-7 from the line.

"We played a full court game which is what we like," Wildcats head coach Mike Barry said. "We probably tried to play faster than we could, but if we connected we feel we could have beaten them," Barry said. "We talked about it at half-time and decided to slow it down just a bit and concentrate more on technique."

Lisa Chamberlin had the hot hand for the Wildcats in the second half recording 16 of her game high 24 points. Turnovers, however, continued to hurt the Wildcats as the Lady Buffs were able to extend their lead.

The Lady Buffs lead by as many as 26 with 6:32 remaining, but WSC started to put together a run from that point on. In the last six minutes the 'Cats outscored the Buffs 23-9 to close the gap, but it was too little too late as West Texas captured the 83-71 victory.

"We had a lot of turnovers, but we forced them into a lot as well," Barry said. "I felt like we forced them into a style they didn't want to play and that helped us the last six minutes to get us back into the game. We just couldn't find a way to stop their All-American."

West Texas State's Pat McDonald led all scorers with 37 points. Chamberlin's 24 points led the 'Cats and she was WSC's only player in double figures.

Cyndi Savage scored 9 points, Jodi Otjen and Mary Schmitzler scored eight points apiece. Dana Olmstead and Linda Heller each contributed 7 points with Amy Rueger tossing in 4 and Cheri Van Auken and Kairi Backer closing out the scoring with 2 points apiece.

"The girls showed a lot of heart not getting down and coming back at the end," Barry said. "We had three seniors playing in their last game and their leadership was just outstanding all year long," Barry said. "I don't like the loss, but I like the way we played. We have four underclassmen who start and this was just a good game to build on."

The Wildcats finished the season at 17-10, the fourth best record in WSC history and it was Barry's best season since he took over the helm.

Wayne Junior Wrestling Tournament this Saturday

The Wayne Junior Wrestling Tournament will be held Saturday at Wayne High beginning at 9 a.m. The tournament is sponsored by the Wayne Wrestling Club and will begin with the high school division followed by the seventh and eighth grade division at 10:30 a.m.

All times are approximate and tournament director John Murtaugh is expecting around 250 wrestlers to take part. The tournament should conclude around 5 p.m.

The fifth and sixth graders will wrestle around noon with the preschool and kindergartners wrestling at 1:30 p.m. along with the first and second graders. The third and fourth grade division will be held at 3 p.m.

Wayne wrestlers compete

WAYNE-Preschool through eighth grade wrestlers from Wayne took part in the Osmond Tournament recently, and many earned medals. Tanner Niemann, Brad Hansen, Ryan Hank and Travis Koester all earned first place finishes while Lucas Munter placed runner-up in his division.

Those placing third include Ryan Thomsen, Craig Fredrickson, Josh Carr, Ben Meyer, Tony Mrsny, Jon Pickinpaugh, Lynn Junc, Shane Baack, Nick Simmons, Adam Jorgensen, Chris Woehler and Justin Thede.

Fourth place medals were awarded to Jeremiah Rethwisch, Robbie Sturm, Eric Heftl, Andy Brasch, Matt Woehler, Jordan Widner, Mike Enyart, Adam Geiger, Eric Shapiro, Matt Sobansky, Josh Neisen, Matt Hampton, Aaron Jorgensen, Josh Murtaugh and Cody Sobansky.

Winter Sports Night approaching

WAYNE-Wayne High's Winter Sports Night, honoring athletes who went out for girls basketball, boys basketball and wrestling, will be Tuesday, March 17, at 6:30 p.m. at the Commons area of the high school.

Letters and certificates will be awarded to varsity letter winners but everyone will be recognized in grades 9-12 who participated in these sports. For more information contact Ron Carnes at the high school, 375-3150.

WSC spike team nets three recruits

WAYNE-Betty Boldt of Stanton, Laura Pfister of Elkhorn, Kristen Miller of Wakefield and Danielle Fallesen of Wayne, recently signed letters of intent to continue their academic and athletic careers at Wayne State.

Boldt, 5-11, was a standout middle hitter at Stanton High School and Northeast Community College in Norfolk. "Betty will be a strong middle hitter for us and a good leader on the court," says third-year Wayne State volleyball coach Nancy Clark. "She will allow us to have a strong and versatile offensive attack. Betty will also be a strong blocker with an aggressive style of play."

Pfister, a 5-9 outside hitter, was an honorable mention all-conference selection at Elkhorn High School. She made the 1991 Roncalli all-tournament team, and also earned the 1990 Hustler of the Year award.

"Laura is a strong outside player who has a very strong hit and block," Clark said. "She will add some quality depth to the team, and is a good all-around player with good defensive and back-row skills."

Miller, a 5-6 setter, earned first-team all-conference and all-area honors at Wakefield High. She was a two-time honorable mention all-state and Norfolk Daily News Top 12 selection.

"Kristen is an enthusiastic player with a good leadership quality," Clark said. "She will help us not only in the setting position, but she has great serving skills as well."

Fallesen, a 5-9 outside hitter transferred from Wayne to Wakefield for her senior season. "Danielle is an excellent jumper and will help us in the middle position by giving us depth," Clark said. "She is very quick side to side and should help us with blocking."

The Wildcats are coming off the finest season, 31-10 in school history, and lost four players to graduation. Wayne State College competes as independent Division II members of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA-II).

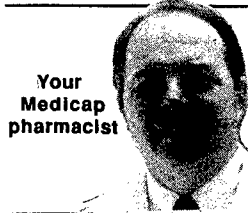

Wayne rec teams compete

WAYNE-The Wayne rec junior high girls and boys basketball teams competed in their own invitational over the weekend. The seventh grade boys placed second behind Hartington Holy Trinity after they defeated Randolph and Laurel.

The eighth grade boys failed to win a game in three contests. They lost to Wisner-Pilger, Wahoops "B" and Bloomfield. The combined team of seventh and eighth grade girls finished fifth with a win over South Sioux and a loss to Pierce and the seventh grade girls team placed seventh with a win over Hartington but a loss to Randolph.

No team scores or individual scoring was available to the Wayne Herald at press time. Pierce was crowned champions of the seventh grade girls division while Wahoops "A" won the eighth grade boys division. North Bend won the eighth grade girls category.

TREATING A COLD?

The first thing many do when they come down with a cold is reach for some aspirin or acetaminophen and even some left-over antibiotic prescription (which should have been taken until gone, when it was originally prescribed). The idea is that it can't hurt and it might help. WRONG. In a study published in the Journal of Infectious Diseases, it was found that aspirin and acetaminophen increased nasal congestion. The antibiotic is not effective against any virus. If you have aches and pains with a cold use IBUPROFEN, plenty of water, lots of rest and possibly a decongestant. Ask your pharmacist for advice.

Northeast slates auditions

Auditions for Our Town, a Norfolk Community Theatre and Northeast Community College production, will be held March 9 and 10, at 7 p.m. in the college's Activities Center Theatre. The dates of production are April 30, May 1, 2, 7, 8, and 9.

Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize winning play is being directed by Patrick Keating, who appeared in an avant-garde production of the drama at Stanford University.

Twenty-six actors are needed, including six boys, two girls, five women and 13 men.

Our Town depicts the life of a New Hampshire village—with its humor, picturesqueness and pathos—set against a background of centuries of time, social history, and religious ideas. As the State Manager in this drama says, "This is the way we were in our growing up and in our marrying and in our doctoring and in our living and in our dying."

The New York Post described

this play as "...beautiful and remarkable...one of the warmest and most deeply human scripts to have come out of our theatre...a spiritual experience."

Technical crews are also needed and anyone interested may either attend the 7 p.m. auditions or contact Paul Peister for more information. Peister may also be contacted at 644-0507 by those wishing to read the script prior to auditions.

Video focuses on estates

Farm and ranch estate planning will be the subject of a videoconference which may be viewed March 12 from 2-4 p.m. (CST) at the Northeast Center east of Concord, according to Rod Patent, Wayne/Dixon County Extension Agent.

The videoconference on "What Will Happen To The Farm When You Are Gone?" will focus on estate taxes, social security, wills, trusts and other aspects of estate planning, said Doug Jose, Farm Management specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The program follows two generations of family members as they plan their estate, he said. Family members identify their retirement goals and long-range plans for the farm, decide whether to keep the farm or sell it and identify factors other than taxes that affect estate planning, Jose said.

A panel of professionals will lead discussions and answer questions about estate planning after the videoconference at the local viewing site.

Patent said those who want to participate at the local viewing site should call 584-2234 to facilitate making local arrangements.

The video conference can also be seen on any private satellite dish. For more information and a free viewer's guide, call (800) 755-7765.

The videoconference is produced by NU and Iowa State University Cooperative extension with funds provided by the American Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers and the U.S. Department of Agriculture Extension Service.

Community college hosts info night on March 24

The public is invited to attend Northeast Community College's Career Information Night Tuesday, March 24.

Activities will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the College's Activities Center Theatre.

Participants can meet with college instructors, and representatives from the admissions and financial aid offices. Campus tours will also be available.

Information concerning careers in agriculture and technology, transportation/construction, and business/management will be available.

For more information, contact Northeast Community College, (402) 371-2020.

WAYNE KIWANIS representatives Rusty Parker and Mike Monaghan receive a T-shirt to thank them for helping sponsor the "Up All Night" teen lock-in to be held Friday, March 13. Presenting the T-shirt are Wayne County 4-H'ers Cory Miller, Holly Sebade and Deb Slevers.

Seminar looks at marketing skills for farm women

Confusion about marketing trends and terms should not stop Nebraska women from becoming information managers for their farm or ranch, according to Rosemary Hartter, an Illinois farm woman and marketing expert.

Hartter, who is leading the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's Women's Marketing Seminar in Kearney today and Friday, said she believes it is difficult to overcome the intimidation of a host of new terms and practices, but told the 75 workshop participants that gaining marketing knowledge is the best way to create their own future. In taking charge of marketing strategies, Hartter said there are five steps to making such plans successful. They include: learning the jargon, keeping records, figuring production costs, using different marketing tools and developing a realistic picture of the operation's financial situation.

Using these tools and charting grain or commodity prices is educational, but Hartter warned that the charts cannot be made responsible for good or bad decisions. "These charts are just history. They cannot tell you one thing about what is going to happen on Chicago's market tomorrow," she said.

Deb Rood, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources conference coordinator, said each participant would leave the two-day session with answers to their marketing questions.

"I want you to talk to each other, to Rosemary and to the other people we have here," Rood said. "Do not think for one minute that your questions are silly. There are certainly other women in this room who are wondering the same things."

Teen lock-in sponsored by Wayne Kiwanis, 4-H

Area teens are invited to take part in a "Stay Up All Night" event sponsored by the Wayne Kiwanis and 4-H.

The event will take place in the Wayne city auditorium, beginning at 10 p.m. Friday, March 13 and continuing until 7 a.m. on Saturday. Early arrivals may check in beginning at 9 p.m.

Collegiate 4-H'ers from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln will present an action packed evening, including games, dancing, lessons, food, and small group discussions dealing with such topics as dating and making friends. Participants should bring pillows and blankets to sit on while watching the movie.

Teens (ages 13 to 19) must pre-register by Friday, March 6. Interested persons are asked to stop by the Wayne County Extension Office, located in the basement of the courthouse, or call 375-3310 to obtain an official registration/health form. The registration fee is $8.

"The World Never Sleeps" T-shirts also will be available at the door for $8.

Bereuter announces art caucus winners in district

Representative Doug Bereuter announced recently the selection of a mixed media picture entitled "Fireflies" by Rynae Reifenrath, a senior at Laurel-Concord High School, as the winning entry in the First Congressional District art competition for high school students.

Selected for Honorable Mention was a collograph entitled "Jacket & Tie Required" by Carol Hansen who is also a senior at Laurel-Concord High School. Arlyls Monson is the art teacher at Laurel-Concord.

The winners will be honored at a ceremony held in conjunction with Youth Arts Month on Saturday, March 7, 1992, in the Nebraska State Capitol Rotunda at 1:30 p.m. A reception at the State Office Building will follow the recognition ceremony.

The artwork will be displayed at the State Office Building in Lincoln during March. Beginning in June, the first place winner will be displayed along with winning entries from other districts in a corridor of the U.S. Capitol in an area dedicated to the artistic skills of today's young artists. Since this nationwide competition was first initiated in 1982, more than 375,000 high school students have participated.

Being poked doesn't hurt

MARILYN BELZ, RN, TAKES BLOOD from Bank Card Center employee Michelle Otte of Wakefield. As a result of the blood bank visit recently, the blood bank collected 61 pints of blood from 69 volunteers.

Manure is topic of workshop

All livestock producers are faced with the tax of manure management.

Wayne, Dixon, Dakota, Thurston and Cedar County livestock producers are invited to attend an informational meeting on March 18 beginning at 1 p.m. at the Northeast Research and Extension Center near Concord where current manure management issues will be addressed.

On hand to discuss regulations and storage options will be Dr. Mike Brumm, extension swine specialist at the University of Nebraska. Land application options and methods to maximize fertilizer benefits from stored manure will be discussed by Dr. Charles Shapiro, extension soils specialist. Dr. Terry Mader, extension beef specialist will examine the issues associated with the feeding of poultry wastes to beef cattle.

Producers with concerns regarding future storage and utilization regulations, ground water contamination and fertilizer potential from use of stored manure are encouraged to attend.

Providence hosts blood bank visit

The Siouxland Blood Bank has released the names of individuals who have donated up to four gallons of blood over an unspecified time. The most recent blood bank was held at Providence Medical Center Feb. 27.

Four gallon donors include: Loren G. Ellis, Kirk Hochstein and Ron Wriedt. The lone two gallon donor was Doug Temme and donating one gallon was Bonnie J. Anderson.

First-time donors include James R. Chapman, David E. Clausen, Charles Dahm and Nancy Jochum.

In all, eighty-six individuals volunteered to donate blood, resulting in 77 pints of blood collected.

Mild month on record

Local weather observer Pat Gross has released the precipitation records for February. For the month, the high temperature was 68 degrees and the low was 10 degrees. The month's high was also the highest recorded temperature for 1992.

The average temperature for the month was 43 degrees and the month's average low temperature was 23 degrees.

For February, total snowfall recorded was one inch. The greatest daily snowfall for the 1991-92 winter was recorded Nov. 1, 1991 when 10 inches of snow fell.

The greatest precipitation for the month was .95 inches, surpassing the 10 year average of .48 inches.

For the year, 1.38 inches of precipitation have been recorded, which also surpasses the 10 year average of .87 inches.

For the year, the temperature failed to reach 32 degrees only five days during February, but the mercury still got close with the lowest temperature reaching 27 degrees and the highest before freezing reaching 31 degrees.

Tales entertaining

I was in a filling station the other day, waiting on my car to be serviced, and I found a newsletter called Impressions, Inc. It has a full page of Modern-Day fairy tales. I found highly entertaining. They went like this;

The check's in the mail
I'll have the pizza there in 20 minutes

Your table will be ready at 8:00
I'm done with my homework
Pre-shrunk, color-fast
Some assembly required
I'm in perfect health
Express check out lane
I'll be right over

We'll have the service person at your house before noon
No salesman will call
One size fits all
If elected, I promise

Leave your name after the beep, and we'll get right back to you

You may have already won $100,000
Our friendly staff is happy to assist

Your money will be cheerfully refunded
I need just 5 minutes of your time

Flight 454 will be on time
This puppy won't grow very large

By Pat Meierhenry

We haven't had one of those models returned

Buy now or it will be gone tomorrow

I know you'll be happy with it—I own one

You can make big money in your spare time

Lose weight fast

You'd really like her

I'll have it for you first thing in the morning

That's what I really meant

It's a quiet apartment

It costs nothing to heat

It was previously owned by a little old lady who only drove it to church

And I'd add to the above: "I'm from the State, and I'm here to help." Plus, the Golden Oldie: "I'll love you tomorrow the way I love you tonight."

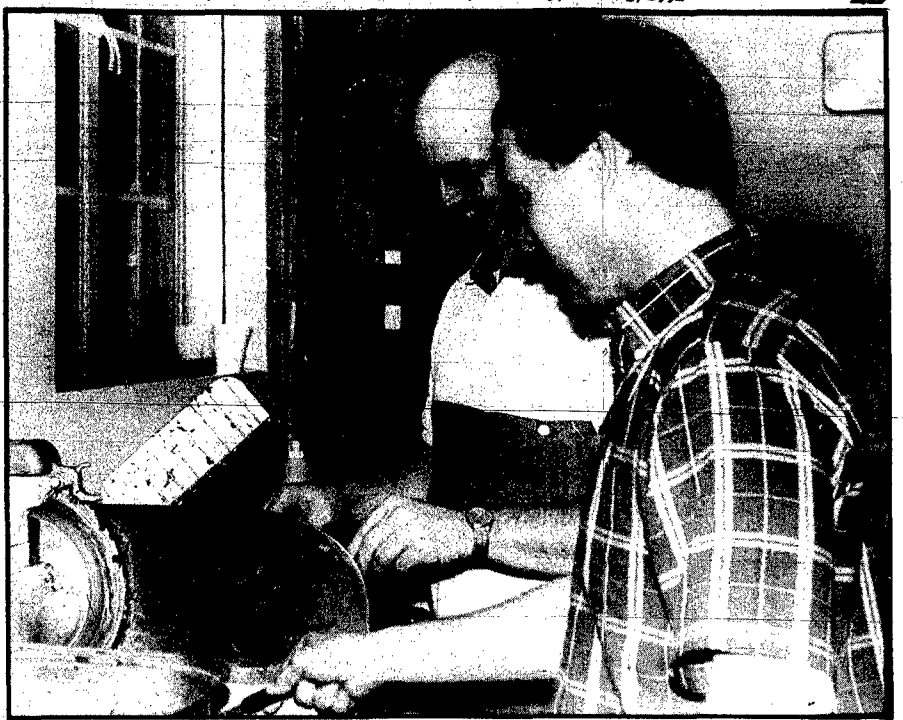

Center hosts Morris

Nebraska Native American Wynema Morris will discuss her people's "Values into the 21st Century" at a free lecture Sunday, March 15 at the John G. Neihardt Center in Bancroft. The 2 p.m. lecture is one of the monthly Sunday Afternoon at the Museum lecture series that is part of the educational program of the Neihardt Center.

Morris is tribal manager of the Omaha Tribe of Nebraska at Walthill and will include in her hour-long presentation a cultural analysis of the worldview of the Native American people, the historical roots and traditional Indian ways that are present in Omaha people today, and non-Indians' understanding of these differences.

Those attending will have the opportunity to view the exhibitions of the life, works and studio of Neihardt, Nebraska's poet laureate. Neihardt Center guides also will be available for a visit on the grounds to the Hoop of the Universe, plantings supervised by Neihardt which represent the vision of Black Elk. He is internationally recognized for his book, Black Elk Speaks, the vision of the Oglala Lakota holy man.

Sunday Afternoon at the Museum programs are made possible, in part, by the Nebraska Humanities Council, a state affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Coffee will be served at 9 a.m. in the church parlors with the program in the church sanctuary at 9:30 a.m. The theme for this year's program is "Living Wisely with Creation." It expresses concern about the threats to the environment and issues an urgent call to women and men in every corner of the globe to make the necessary changes in their lives to restore and heal the resources of this planet. All in the area are welcome to attend the service.

SPELLING CONTEST

The Allen School held their local spelling contest for fifth through eighth grades last week. Winners will advance to the Dixon County spelling contest to be held on March 16 at the Northeast Research Center near Concord. Winners were Carrie Geiger, Tiffany McAfee, Eric Olson, Abbey Schroeder and Tammy Jackson. The winner of the county contest will advance to the Midwest Contest in Omaha.

PICTURES AVAILABLE

Pictures taken at the Sweetheart Dance are now available for viewing, ordering and payment in the eighth grade room with Marcia Rastede.

SAVE NEWSPAPERS

During the month of March, the school students of Allen Public School are asking the public to save newspapers and bring them to the kindergarten room at the school on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Please put them in plastic sacks or brown paper bags. The children are hoping to accumulate enough newspapers to earn enough money to donate to the Allen Community Development Club's fund for historic trees. Several donations have already been made to order the trees and plant them on the north end of the football field at Arbor Day activities being planned.

MUSIC CONTEST

Allen elementary and junior high instrumental band students and their instructor, Mr. Lacy, were in Emerson on Saturday to compete in the instrumental music contest. A farewell party was held at the Senior Center in Concord on Feb. 25 in honor of Al and Mildred Guern, who are moving to Sioux City, Iowa. About 26 were present to visit with the Guerns and coffee and refreshments were served.

Peoples honors local manager

Wayne Local Manager, Jim Markham, has been recognized for 30 years of service with Peoples Natural Gas.

Markham joined Peoples as a utility specialist in Bellevue, in 1961. He was promoted to a serviceman in Elkhorn, in 1964, and then to local representative in Rockport, Mo. In 1984, Markham moved to Wayne as a service specialist and was promoted to local manager in 1987.

"Dedicated employees like Jim have been an important part of Peoples' 60 years of success in the natural gas business," said District Manager, Tim Burke. "With their experience, we're able to provide the safe, dependable service our customers expect and deserve."

Markham serves as president of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce and is a past president of the Wayne Kiwanis. Markham also served as president of the Rockport Rotary and Rockport Chamber.

Peoples delivers natural gas to more than 36,000 homes, businesses and industries in 48 Nebraska communities and a total of 343,000 customers in nearly 330 communities in Nebraska, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado and Kansas.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK'S SENIOR CITIZEN CORNER

THE INVISIBLE AMERICAN: That's the one in eight seniors who is an alcoholic and who suffers from a family, or a "protective" circle of friends who feel they cannot, or should not do anything to help him.
Sometimes even the alcoholic's doctors become part of this curious "support system."
The reason for the unwillingness to get more involved in the senior alcoholic's situation is a belief that drinking problems are a natural part of the aging process and that little can be done, even with treatment.
According to an article in "Modern Maturity" magazine, despite the fact that alcohol can often worsen symptoms such as cantankerousness, confusion, memory gaps, and anxiety, there's still a reluctance to intervene. There is often a feeling that the person may die some time soon, so why not let him have something that gives him pleasure.
But, says Dr. Edith Lisansky Gomberg, a University of Michigan psychologist who has been studying alcoholics for 40 years, "Alcoholism is not a pleasure; it's weird to think that it is."
"Modern Maturity" states that 10 to 15 percent of Americans over 60 suffer from alcoholism. One reason most of us may not detect an alcoholic in our midst is that there are fewer indications among seniors who drink than among younger folks. For example, younger people drive more and, if they drink, are likely to get involved in more alcohol-attributable accidents than older drinkers. Also, younger workers who drink may be spotted by coworkers or supervisors because of tardiness, waning productivity, etc. Many older people who drink are no longer in the workplace.

There are some signs that can tip you off to the possibility of alcoholism in a family member or friend. Look for:
1. Abrupt or significant changes in behavior, including hostility, paranoia, disorientation, forgetfulness, unsteady gait, slurred speech, or trembling hands.
2. Worsening of medical conditions that may have been previously under control, for example, diabetes and hypertension.
3. Insomnia, frequent napping, an absence of restful sleep.
4. Deterioration in grooming, housekeeping, and eating habits.
5. Falls, broken bones, bruises, or burns.
6. Liquor bottles "stashed" in the home.
