Studying newspapers

WAYNE ELEMENTARY SECOND GRADER ANDY COSTA takes part in a segment of the schools' newspaper in education studies. Next week, Wayne second graders will be touring The Wayne Herald as a part of their studies. Tours of the Herald are often done for classes studying newspapers.

School firms list of candidates

The Wayne Community School Board has set dates for interviewing candidates for the superintendent's position.

Interviews will start Saturday, March 14 and continue on Monday, March 16. From there, they will be held Thursday, March 19; Friday, March 20; Saturday, March 21 and Monday, March 23.

According to school board officials, the field has been rounded down to six candidates.

ACCORDING TO the school board, additional dates will be arranged as needed.

Members of the community-based committees designed to visit and meet with superintendent candidates are invited for coffee at the Wayne Country Club at 2:30 p.m. on the dates listed above.

The interviews are being conducted to find a replacement for current Superintendent Dr. Francis Haun, who is retiring from the position he has held in Wayne for the last 28 years.

The Wayne School Board has indicated that a selection of a superintendent could be completed by April 15.

Business zones get look

Change shifts focus

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

The Wayne City Planning Commission has handed over documentation to the city council which may provide some developers with the opportunity they've been looking for.

According to the document, submitted from City Planner Don Siefken and George Phelps, chairman of the planning commission, the document provides amendments to Wayne Zoning Regulations in the B-1, B-2 and B-3 business zones.

"The commission is working together with the firm of Hanna-Keelan in the review and update of the Wayne Comprehensive Plan," the document reads.

"... One could contend that amendment now might be premature. However, after much deliberation, the commission offers these proposed amendments not in an attempt to second guess the final conclusions of the comprehensive plan now being researched, but rather as a stop-gap measure to judiciously ease some barriers found in the current plan/regulations, which the commission feels are unnecessarily restrictive, as well as to incorporate recommended council suggestions."

UNDER TERMS of the recommended changes, the B-1 district may be opened to restaurants, eating establishments, cafes and food service, subject to restrictions.

As a result of the change, developers looking to locate restaurants in the B-1 zone may be allowed to do so. In the past, the council has denied the construction of new restaurants due to zoning laws.

In addition, the proposal permits by exception child care homes and centers in conformance with city and state laws and it permits by exception multi-family residential uses, provided that such uses follow an array of standards.

This change could allow the Head Start program, for example, to be located in the B-2 zone. It will also allow for the reconstruction of the Geno's Steakhouse building as a multi-family residential dwelling; situations that are not currently permitted under zoning laws.

As a result of the documentation, the Wayne City Council will review the item before taking further action.

At a meeting Tuesday night, the council planned to set up a board discussion prior to a public hearing at the March 31 meeting.

Outgoing members share tips on service

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Collectively, Ken Dahl and Neil Sandahl have put in 20 years on the Wayne Community School Board. That soon will change.

A year from now, neither Sandahl nor Dahl will spend the second Tuesday of each month in the board meeting room. Neither school board members is seeking another term.

"We have so many talented people in the Wayne area (who can serve on the school board) that we should take advantage of their services more," Sandahl said. "More people need to get involved. When you have two positions open now, like we do, you should have at least half a dozen people interested in running."

Sandahl's estimate seems to be correct. By Tuesday, seven people had filed to seek the three positions on the board, not including one incumbent filing by Sid Hillier. Non-incumbents filing include: Leslie Hausmann, Phyllis Spethman, Robert Dyer, Mary Temme, Marion Arneson and John Corollo, all of Wayne, and Karma Magnuson of Carroll.

WHILE BOTH outgoing members have much to say about their experiences, each said whomever is elected should be prepared.

Dahl said incoming members need to take advantage of as many seminars for new members as possible. He said it has taken him all of his four years to become acquainted with the duties. He said there's a vast amount of information new members need to fulfill their duties.

On that same note, Sandahl said he believes it's imperative that board members be open minded and willing to communicate with

George Pick

Hartington man opts to run for legislature

George "Gus" Pick has filed for to represent the 19th Legislative District, which includes all of Dixon, Cedar and parts of Knox, Pierce and Wayne Counties.

A native of Hartington, Pick is a farmer and rancher who has been involved in various projects and organizations, including: Pioneer and first president, Nebraska Pork Producers Association, 1960-63; first president, Northeast Nebraska Pork Producers Association (now broken into two organizations); chairperson, two state pork banquets; Hartington District 8 School Board member; Ak-Sar-Ben ambassador, Hartington area, 1969 to present; served on ASCS boards, election boards.

PICK AND HIS wife Marilyn, a former rural school teacher who took time off to raise a family and has since returned to the work force as a factory worker the past 10 years, are the parents of five children. They are: Steve, serving in the Navy for four years; Terri, a computer programmer; Scott, who farms with his father and attended the University of Nebraska-Lincoln; Doug, a pharmacy graduate of Creighton University, co-owns a drug store; and Danny, a graduate of Omaha Technical School, presently employed by American Information Systems, Inc.

Pick said he believes that government should encourage a return to family values, a healthy environment, social justice, child-centered education and a fair tax system that is legal and not political.

HE SAID HE believes he is well qualified addressing Nebraska's tax problems as he holds an assessors certificate from the Nebraska Department of Revenue and has been employed in the property tax division of a county assessors office.

Most of all, he said, he wants a chance to represent the common people.

State National honors employee

Etter celebrates 40 years

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Beverly Etter gets teased occasionally that she must have started working at State National Bank when she was eight years old.

While that's not true, it is a fact that she will celebrate her 40th anniversary with the bank March 18.

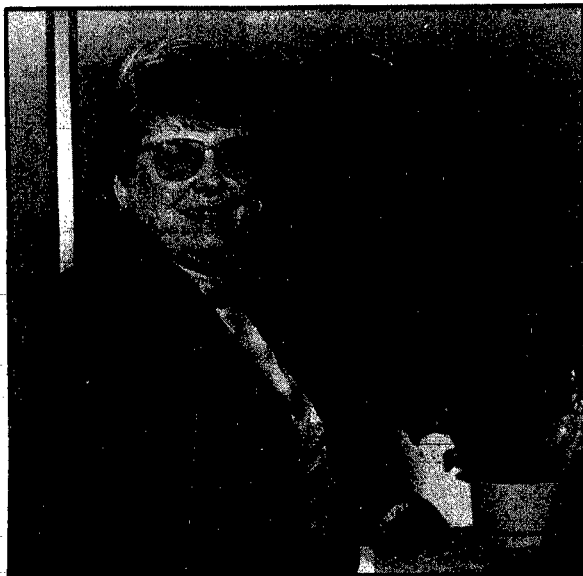

"I'd like to go for the gold," she says, referring to the potential for celebrating a 50th anniversary with the bank. "I still have a son in college and I want to help him get through school."

"Of course, sticking around will depend on how my health is and how long they want to keep me around," she says, jokingly.

ETTER STARTED working at State National Bank March 18, 1952. While she says she only planned to work there a couple years, she never left Wayne because she fell in love with her husband Ralph four years after returning home from Omaha.

Hiring her on at the bank was Jim Hein. When she started, senior management included Rollie W. Ley, Herman Lundberg and Henry E. Ley. The bank officers were Fred Nyberg, Archie Wert, Everett Rees and Ted Armbruster. Shortly after she joined the State National staff, Leland "Shorty" Ellis and Ted Bahe came on staff. At the time she started working, Nina Thompson was the executive secretary of the board, a position which Etter took over in 1967.

"I've worked with so many people doing so many things, it's hard to know where to start," she says, modestly. "I see people come into the bank who I used to give suckers to when they were children. Now, most of them come in with their children."

DURING HER tenure, she holds mostly fond memories. She says bank officials through the years have been good about providing her with the training she needed to do the job.

"When I became Hank Ley's secretary, he really became my mentor," she says. "He helped me and he talked with me and he worked with me. He taught me to do the job."

Born in Wayne, Etter left the community when she was 16, shortly after graduating high school. After two years working for Northwest Bell in Omaha, she returned to Wayne. She says today, that's a move she has never regretted.

Since returning, she has worked

United Methodist Church hosts World Day of Prayer

The First United Methodist Church hosted World Day of Prayer services in Wayne on March 6 with 68 persons attending.

This year's program theme, "Living Wisely With Creation," stressed reverence for the abundant beauty of God's handiwork in the creation of the planet.

It also expressed deep concern about the environment through the overuse of modern technology and appealed to all men and women to make the necessary changes in their lives to restore and heal the Earth's resources.

LEADING the program was Wayne Church Women United President Marian Jordan of St. Mary's Church. Assisting were Marilyn Carhart of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Fern Kelley of the First United Methodist Church, Bette Ream of the Baptist Church, Kirk Swanson of Redeemer Lutheran Church and Zita Jenkins of the Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Donald Nunnally of the First United Methodist Church spoke to the group and gave the closing benediction and prayer. Other ministers attending the service were the Rev. Gordon Granberg of the Baptist Church, the Rev. Frank Rothfuss of Redeemer Lutheran, and the Rev. Jack Williams of St. Paul's Lutheran.

Mrs. Barbara Nunnally assisted with slides, and special guests were TuTu Nath of India and Jun Fan and Jin Sun, both from China.

United Methodist Women served coffee and cookies following the program in the church fellowship hall.

Seminar assists women

A seminar designed to help women discover leadership skills for their personal and professional lives is scheduled for eight Nebraska cities in April and May, said Sheila Kepler, seminar organizer.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln Center for Leadership Development program, called "The Women's Leadership Agenda: Voices and Visions for Tomorrow", is billed as an in-depth look at personal and interpersonal leadership effectiveness for women, said Kepler, coordinator of special projects in the center.

She said the one-day seminars are designed to help women identify personal leadership strengths and styles, improve their personal and professional lives, learn to create change in their lives, recognize and celebrate all stages of life, create self-improvement plans and a personal mission statement, recognize life's "scripts" and discard ineffective ones, explore roles and goals and learn the importance of a personal marketing plan.

The seminars, which run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., are scheduled for the following locations:

- South Sioux City—Marina Inn, Fourth and B streets, April 28.
- Norfolk—Northeast Community College, 801 E. Benjamin Ave., April 29.

A seminar fee of $75 includes all workshop materials and instruction as well as lunch and refreshment breaks, Kepler said.

For more information, contact Kepler at the Center for Leadership Development, Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, 300 Agricultural Hall, P.O. Box 830711, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Lincoln, NE 68583-0711 or phone: (402) 472-2809.

The Principal's Office

By Donald V. Zeiss

What books do teenagers like to read when allowed to make their own choices?

Books on subjects as diverse as the teens themselves it seems. As a team leader for the Young Adult's Program, sponsored by the International Reading Association, Barbara G. Smith analyzed the written responses of more than 2,200 students in grades seven through 12 who voted for their favorite book.

She was not surprised that students favored books that featured teen protagonists that seemed "real" to them and that involved teens with problems they themselves had or thought those around them had.

But they also like books on a diverse range of subjects of interest to them personally, from Vietnam and Mayan civilizations to sports and space. She said that most of all they "appreciate the opportunity to select those books they want to read."

Area teacher gets funds

Sandra Dahlkoetter, a fifth grade teacher at Stanton Elementary School, has won a Cooper Foundation Award for the third time. This time it was for a geography project she designed.

Dahlkoetter, who is the niece of Mrs. Bruno Splittgerber, a longtime Wayne resident, won Cooper Foundation Awards in 1988 for an explorer unit, and in 1990 for a "This is Your Life" language arts unit. In 1989, she won a Peter Kiewitt Foundation Scholarship for a map skills unit.

Sponsors for this year's awards for excellence in teaching were the Cooper Foundation and the Nebraska Department of Education.

Dahlkoetter's project was one of 176 entries and was selected as one of 35 winners to receive a $1,000 prize. The categories for entries included: economics, fine arts, foreign language, geography, global studies, mathematics and science.

In addition to her relations in Wayne, she is currently taking graduate classes at Wayne State College and working on her master's degree while teaching in Stanton.

The winning projects will be published by the Nebraska Department of Education and distributed to all elementary and secondary schools in the state.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK'S SENIOR CITIZEN CORNER

HOUSING PROJECT HORRORS: Several weeks ago, I printed a letter from a woman concerned about her aunt's safety. The older woman lives in a housing project in which several youth gangs have caused problems for the other residents, especially the elderly who are their favored mugging targets. The niece tried to persuade her aunt to move but was unsuccessful. She wrote to ask readers of this column for advice.

Ms. Emily Spence of N. Grafton, Mass. discussed this with several friends. The following is excerpted from her excellent list of suggestions:

1. Call the regular police and ask for advice for increased help. Perhaps (she) can look at mug shots or make a composite drawing of the muggers (so they can be) identified and prosecuted.
2. Call the owner or agent (government or otherwise) who hires the manager and/or building security police. Threaten law suits or exposure of their inadequate maintenance.
3. Start a building crime watch organization. Invite whatever anti-crime groups exist in the area (e.g., Guardian Angels), police, concerned citizens to meetings to discuss making the building safer. Invite speakers from communities with the most effective programs.
4. Never go out alone but only in groups, with some younger, stronger people accompanying the group. Set up a sign-up sheet for shopping times and places, doctors' appointments, etc., so that these can be coordinated with the group. Arrange where the group can gather before going out; also arrange to have each member escorted to his or her apartment door afterward.

5. Contact senior citizen agencies in the area and ask for their help and advice. Also contact political (local and congressional) representatives. Explain the problem and ask for assistance.
6. Contact local media (newspapers, radio, TV) to publicize the problem. Media exposure often puts pressure on those who can take the necessary steps to effect change.
7. Contact your local legal aid society and ask for advice.
8. Call a building meeting to discuss the situation. If enough people are fed up (not apathetic), things can be done.

Ms. Spence had some other ideas, but I had to leave them out in the interest of space. I'd appreciate your comments on her letter and I'd also appreciate any suggestions you can offer. Write me c/o King Features Weekly Service, 235 East 45th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Concern in wrong area

It goes without saying that more needs to be done to help the ag industry in the United States. But at this point, the White House seems more concerned over conflicts of trade interest with the auto industry, a problem they have gotten the nation into, than they do about the ag industry.

Why not pay attention to the farmer? An explanation to that question can easily be derived. In our own state, the Nebraska Legislature has given urban centers more priority with the personal property tax crisis than they have given the ag sector. For an agricultural state, that's a sad state of affairs.

While we don't necessarily support the 3R proposal — taxing farm machinery, certain types of livestock and business inventory — before the Legislature, we agree with Sen. Gerald Conway's approach to provide sales tax exemptions for the purchase of goods which are used as economic investments.

But even when the state resolves the personal property tax crisis, things won't clear up.

The Federal Government doesn't appear to care about the ag industry. If the feds gave a hoot about farming, maybe they would show that in the way of financial support by working to open more global markets and broadening subsidies. If that happened, the hit Nebraska farmers are about to take from the personal property tax crisis wouldn't be as severe. In fact, many of us wouldn't be as worried about the problem the state faces.

It's the least the federal government can do for an industry which has been the most stable for our nation in the past 200 years.

Campaigns against all odds

The one thing that Bob Kerrey did effectively in his erstwhile campaign for President was accurately characterize the Democrat Party's chances for a win with Bill Clinton as the nominee.

Clinton, distancing himself from the rest of the pack as the choice of the Democrats, is not the candidate that can beat even a beleaguered President Bush.

The Republicans, who have written the book on negative campaign practices, will beat Clinton over the head mercilessly with his draft resistance and personal life history.

He is not the candidate that can put the Democrats back in the White House.

Franklin may have been correct: 'offend nobody'

Ben Franklin, who was in the newspaper publishing business in the days before "media" became a dirty word in America, once said "Print nothing, offend nobody."

His point was, whenever you put things on paper, especially personal opinions, there will be someone who will disagree and take offense.

Mark Crist, the generally genial managing editor of the Herald, is discovering the wisdom of Franklin's words this week. Since Mark's column last week, in which he made a kamikazi swipe at country and western music and the people who listen to it, he has been hearing a cacophony of opposing views.

"At least it's nice to know people are reading my column," said Mark, who added parenthetically that he holds no malice against country lovers even if the feeling isn't mutual.

For the record, not everyone at the newspaper holds the same view as Mark. Dare I say, not anyone at the newspaper holds the same view. In fact, some of his strongest (least civil) opposing commentary has come from newspaper staff members.

"Even if you don't like the sound, that ain't no cause to kick my music around," seems to be the gist of the comments so far. Sounds like a great C&W song title to me.

The situation gives us a good opportunity to remind readers that the letters to the editor column — traditionally one of the best read features of a newspaper and always better-read (and more interesting) than the personal rantings and ravings of editors and publishers — provides an opportunity to have your views heard.

We encourage letters which present opposing views. We welcome them, even when they are unkind and hyper-critical of the things we write in the newspaper.

There have even been times when editors, and I have been guilty of this, have written opinions they personally didn't agree with, just to frankenknow.

Mr. Franklin response that a strong, self-governed society needed a free exchange of ideas and opinions. He also knew and we subscribe to the logic, that if you give it out, you've got to expect to get it back.

By Les Mann

If you criticize, expect people to be critical in return.

If I can be permitted a little leap of logic here, the same principle applies to Tom Osborne. What's the connection between Dr. Tom and Mark Crist, you ask. Well it's the same principle.

Some people were critical of Dr. Tom last week when he took some swipes at the way the news media covers the Huskers, both on and off the field.

Since when has it been forbidden for a citizen to have an opinion that pornography is bad, that the media is often biased and unyielding and that doing the right thing can't be translated into a box score.

Some of the same media people who are openly critical of Osborne's on and off the field philosophy are aghast when the coach expresses an opinion that touches close to their personal and professional ethics.

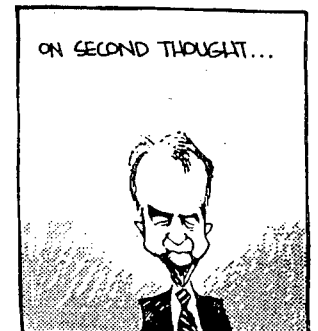

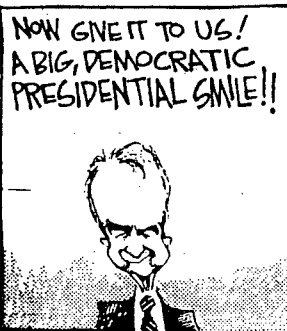

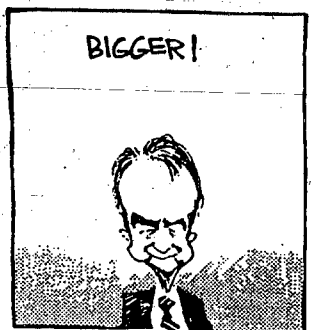

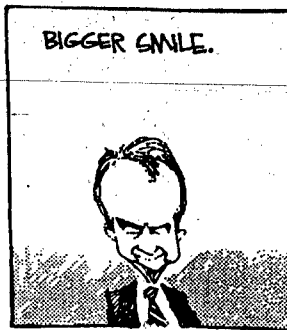

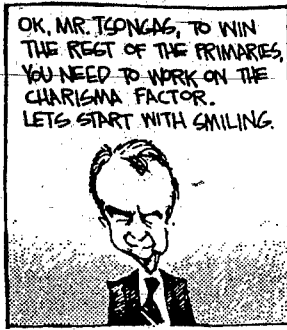

One writer last week said Osborne was trying to impose censorship with his stand on pornography and his commentary to journalism students about the state of the media in the nation.

I have an idea that Dr. Tom and Ben Franklin would agree on the issue of censorship. We don't need it, they'd say.

But we do need to be able to openly and reasonably express opinions and discuss issues — from tastes in music to morals and journalistic practices.

That's why Osborne has every right to say whatever he wants about the media practices and readers of the Herald have every right to say what they want about our Mr. Crist and his eccentric musical tastes.

Ain't this a great country?

A few comments

I have a couple of comments on Mark Crist's column in the March 5 Wayne Herald issue about "Not a country western fan, beer or not."

1. Mr. Crist said that Country Music, which in the 1980s and '90s is better known as COUNTRY MUSIC, is the same, continuous, twangy twang music. Apparently you're not listening to today's country radio stations and you're not aware of the wide variety of groups and new artists in country music today. And, if country music is so continuous and twangy twang, why is it the fastest growing format on radio today? (In 1980 there were 1,800 country music stations. Today, there are 2,500 and growing.)

2. You said that Country Music is the same "I'm lookin' for a man but I love my dog more" music. Who's column do I see mentioning his dogs at least once every 4-6 weeks? For as many times as you praise your dogs, according to your column, wouldn't you be considered somewhat of a country western fan then?

3. You stated that you attended a wedding dance where cowboys got wild to the Country Music and consumed a considerable amount of alcohol. This complexed world which consume alcohol and wedding dances play more than just Country Music. Also, it's uncalled for and unfair to compare alcohol with just Country Music and cowboys like you did in your column.

With all the Country Music fans in the area, I'm sure that I was not the only one you heard from about your poor taste in defining Country Music. Here's to suggesting you choose better taste on topics in your future columns.

Mike Groz Wayne

Real shocker

Your strong words against Country Music (it hasn't been called Country Western for years) really shocked me. I, too, like some of all kinds of music, but I sure don't see how "I'm lookin' for a man but I love my dog more" can make anyone appreciate the worst of rock and roll bands as you stated. Lyrics urging kids to end their lives, kill their mothers, shoot-up and many more explicit terms? Come on, Mark.

Cowboys and people who live in a territory famous for its Country (again not C-W) Music aren't the only ones who drink beer. Open your eyes and look around you, or do some traveling. It's all over.

I get the impression that you don't care for Bob Dylan. Well, I agree with you there. The last couple of times I saw him on TV, he sounded like a cow in pain and I couldn't make out any of the words (for which I think I will always be grateful).

I can't imagine anyone being forced to watch Country, Lawrence Welk or MTV. This is America — where we can choose what we watch and where we are entitled to express our opinion. I thank you for giving me the opportunity and allowing me to express mine.

Judy Carlson Wayne

Music tastes differ

First, to agree with you we've found that we don't like all kinds of music either. For example, rap, contemporary, post modern and jazz fail to reach the top of our list. Do you see us going around and criticizing the music other people listen to? We have accepted all their opinions, but nobody has done it in such a distasteful manner as you did. Now it is our turn to express how we feel.

Unlike some music, you can actually understand the words the first time you hear them. Country Music must be pretty darn popular to maintain a number one spot on the pop charts for not one but two weeks. Does the name Garth Brooks ring a bell? Speaking of success with Billy Joel's "Shameless" then Mr. Joel could ever hope for. Your misconceptions of "women who want a man or men who want a woman (but love their dog more)" are preposterous. After thinking for a substantial period of time, we came up with maybe two songs that refer to a dog.

You act as though every time you buy a country CD a coupon for a free 12-pack (of beer) accompanies it. We hate to break it to you, but that's not true. It is unfair to say that all people who listen to Country Music drink. The type of music you listen to does not make you drink.

Oh, by the way, we've decided that Lawrence Welk would be honored to be associated with Country Western musicians.

Elizabeth Lutt Teresa Prokop Tara Nichols Wayne

Response to column

This letter is in response to your column, "Mark'n The Spot" in last Thursday's Wayne Herald. This is not a rebuttal, I just want to explain to you about Country Western music. There is country, there is western, there is bluegrass, there is folk ... all of them seem to be lumped into "Country" these days.

As one who cut his teeth on good country and folk music, I believe you have been exposed to the wrong genre. Real Country Music is about life ... Country (real country) is about family; it's about community; it's about growing up with meaningful moral values; it's about cows, horses, cowboys and weather; it's about war (WWII, Korea, Vietnam); it's just as much about loving, both winning and losing; it's about county fairs, dances and "Shindigs"; in short, it's about life.

As one who is over 60 years of age, I have seen country music deteriorate (they call it evolve) from a true folk expression of sentiments, to a ditty penned in haste to make a few quick bucks. What you have described is not real Country Music — what you have heard is "Country Rock." Sure, the Country Music you heard might be what you say it is, but it's a whole lot more. Country Music is really folk culture ... the same elements of which country music is made is also true of you, blues and opera (what do you think that fat lady is singing about?) I also agree with you, that much, if not most, of "country" these days is too loud, (many folks are unaware that the volume knob also turns to the left.)

A good way for you to get into real country music would be to get a tape or CD of the Statler Brothers and reminisce as they sing about the "Class of '57" — who of us doesn't like to think about our old high school or college classes? Also, "Do-You Remember These?" — who of us doesn't enjoy going back in time to our favorite movies? I sat through "The Best Years of Our Lives" three times — I never understood it, I just enjoyed it because my Mom was thrilled by it. Listen to "I'm the Official Historian on Shirley Jean Burrell," and think about your first girlfriend. The rest of them on this tape are in the same vein. There may be a twang, it might be a little nasal, but there is real feeling in that music.

I hope you can understand a little about how we who love Country Music might feel about it. Thanks for your understanding.

Charles R. Maler Wayne

Chemicals a threat

Since our Legislature, after listening to lobbyists, chose not to tighten the chemical laws in our state, the weakest in the nation (something I feel is life threatening to all of us), I feel morally bound to say what is on my mind.

I have a blood condition, caused by the chemicals I used or came in contact with over the years as a farmer, I, and members of my family, have been in and out of hospitals and clinics for the past three years, sometimes as many as three times a week. During those experiences, many waiting rooms are full with as many as 25 to 30 people waiting to see oncologists. The people in those waiting rooms are all blood and cancer patients. One nurse told us that one doctor will see as many as 50 patients a day with that average increasing by five to seven each week. Most are from a wide belt, living from O'Neill to Norfolk and Columbus on south.

I have lived my life, so people shouldn't fret so much about my age group. But in this waiting room I visited, there was a father with three young children, on a school day. The nurse said the doctors had given up on the father and it was possibly his last visit. As a result of that, his children wanted to be with him as much as they could.

First, my sister-in-law was struck by this disease; then my niece and now our grandchildren are afflicted. Nearly every family member will be hit by it at some point.

Please don't take offense to what I'm about to say, but if I was in circulation I would probably do what many people do by going to work at Waldbaums or for some other employer. Progress is supposed to be harvesting 20 rows of crops through fields by using farm chemicals. While I have nothing against Waldbaums (thank God we have them here), I'm sure many employees would rather be self-employed, harvesting crops on property they own.

Some remember when we had seven barbers, five grocery stores, standing only in our churches, everyone was your neighbor and families spent time with their families. That was when our water was pure, our air was clean, our breakfast food wasn't treated and our fish weren't dying.

I don't know whether we want to do what we can to keep from progressing into extinction.

Weldon Mortenson Wakefield

Limits hazardous

These term-limiting petitions are making the rounds now, and I wonder if these signers really know what will happen if this resolution happens to pass.

This term-limiting scheme is fraught with hazard. While it does promote lots of turnover in these political offices, it does not necessarily make for good government. Any newcomer in office goes through quite a learning stage and does not become very effective until he (or she) has been there for a while. Until that time they are very vulnerable to lobbyists and other special interest groups.

Some legislation takes years (and a lot of hard work by dedicated people) to get accomplished. The Unicameral Legislature and the Natural Resources District concepts were not accomplished by first or second term legislators; yet these two pieces of legislation are the envy of the rest of the country. This is also true at the national level. Taking out the seniority of longtime congressmen would level the playing field, so to speak, but it would put states like Nebraska with few congressmen at a distinct disadvantage with more populous states with large Congressional delegations. Long-term congressmen like Doug Bereuter are the only hope for Nebraska to get a fair shake in Congress.

We currently have term limiting. It's called the ballot box. It works wonderfully if used. Why mess up a good system that we already have.

Board deals with issues

While the Wayne School Board scheduled interviews with prospective candidates for the superintendent's position, they also dealt with a wide array of issues.

The board reviewed two proposals concerning results from the technology committee and the possibility of moving the weight room from the high school to the track building but they didn't take action in either case.

In focusing their attention on the possibility of securing additional funding for the purchase of technology equipment, the board directed Superintendent Dr. Francis Haun to obtain further specifics as to what is needed and where the school district budget fits into the long-range plan for the purchase of computers.

After addressing the possibility of relocating the high school's weight room, the board learned that the elementary addition will be paid off in September.

IN OTHER matters, the board:

- Learned that a contract had been awarded to the Premier Bleacher Company for renovation of the east side bleachers in the high school. The work is scheduled to begin the last week in March.
- Acknowledged an invitation from the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce to attend a chamber coffee and luncheon Friday, March 13. The luncheon focuses on current legislation and discussions with area legislators.

- Reviewed and made note of unanswered questions concerning school affiliation.
- Accepted a low bid of $5,323 from Tri-State Communications of South Sioux City for the purchase and installation of UHF radios in school vehicles.

• Reviewed but took no action on a report for the need of future repair to the high schools' boiler burner.

• Approved certified staff as recommended by building principals.

• Approved affiliation with the Nebraska Association of School Boards for 1992-93.

• Discussed negotiations and personnel in executive session.

Signs of spring

WHILE THIS LITTLE ROBIN DIDN'T seem to like the snow very much, it was a pleasant reminder that spring is just around the corner.

Rural school plans affiliation

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Plans appear to be taking shape for the affiliation of the District 25 school, located approximately eight miles south of Wakefield.

At a meeting Monday night, the board discussed its affiliation plans with district residents and it appears that the school will affiliate with both the Wakefield and Pender Public Schools.

"So far, the split of land going into Wakefield and Pender is coming up along an even dividing line," District 25 Board President Glen Meyer said. "We're doing it this way to avoid creating any islands."

Composing most of the district is land in the Leslie Precinct, with parcels located in the southern part of the Logan Precinct and the eastern edge of the Plum Creek Precinct in southeastern Wayne County.

ACCORDING TO Board Secretary Dale Hansen, landowners in the Plum Creek and Logan precincts have indicated that they want their land to go into the Wakefield School District.

Under a map he shared with people in attendance, an even dividing line in the Leslie Precinct is beginning to take shape, with half of the landowners directing property into Pender and half going to Wakefield.

While dissolving the rural school district received little attention, many in attendance indicated they want to affiliate with both high school districts.

Under a Nebraska law passed in 1990, Class I schools must affiliate with a high school system.

For residents in the District 25 area, patrons choosing to go into the Pender Schools will be paying a levy of .9924. Residents choosing to have their land go to the Wakefield will pay a .9579 levy.

Once the affiliation plan is done, 60 percent of the registered voters in the district have to approve the plan. Once that is complete, the school districts will have to approve the plan and finally, the county affiliation committee will have to approve the affiliation plan.

City official addresses shortages

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

While Wayne's Public Works department is getting ready for a number of projects, Director Vern Schulz says they're short manned.

That was the message in Schulz's report to the Wayne City Council Tuesday night.

Despite being short of manpower, the public works department has a number of projects planned for the near future.

Projects on the table for the Public Works Department vary from filling chuck holes on city streets to overseeing the painting of lines on city streets. Currently, Schulz said, the department is waiting for weather to improve before either of these projects can be taken on.

IN 1992, the department's first priority is to fill chuck holes. After that they will do extensive work on cross-walks in the city, prior to the start of school. Along that same theme, parking lots and street lines will be recovered.

In addition to the three priority items, the department will reseed and maintain many of the city's parks in the upcoming year and they may provide a service to Wayne residents.

Schulz said a portion of the city's compost pile is ready for use and if all of it isn't used, he may open it to the public. He said wood chips may also be made available.

Distribution manager lists activity

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

City electrical distribution Manager Garry Poutre submitted his annual report to the city council Tuesday night and in it are some bright spots for the community.

According to Poutre, there are three main projects residents can look forward to this year.

One involves working on the replacement of the city's overhead wiring. Poutre said the older the system becomes, the more susceptible to the elements it is. He said work needs to be directed to have the overhead system worked on to see what can be done to bury it underground.

A PROJECT which appears to save the city some money for years down the road is underway. Poutre said city crews are working steadily to replace many of the lights downtown, with plans to replace others throughout the community in the future. The change eliminates the mercury lighting system currently used in Wayne to the high-pressure sodium bulbs.

As a result of the change, city street lights will use 33 percent less energy while being 22 percent more efficient. The new lights give off an orange, peach or yellow colored tint.

Finally, the electrical distribution department is working to eliminate PCB oil from lines and transistors. Poutre said work has already begun on this project but it will be a little while before it's finished.

The old PCB contaminated lines are having to be fixed as a result of Environmental Protection Agency requirements, Poutre said.

Wayne State men fall to Kearney in last game of season; Allen sets carom record

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

The Wayne State men's basketball team closed out their 1991-92 schedule Saturday night in Kearney against the Lopers. The Wildcats were looking to end the season on a positive note as were the Lopers but a WSC victory would have evened the all-time series between the two teams at 67 wins apiece.

Wayne State hadn't won in Kearney since Jan. 9 of 1970 which was also the last time the Wildcats swept a season series from the Lopers. WSC drilled Kearney by 20 in Rice Auditorium on Jan. 25 but it was Kearney who returned the favor with an 88-82 final on Saturday.

The Wildcats jumped out on top first on a short jumper by freshman Billy Patterson. Both teams traded leads with the University of Nebraska at Kearney grabbing an 8-6 advantage following a Scott Somerhalder bucket.

During the next five minutes, however, WSC out-scored Kearney, 20-4 to grab a 26-12 lead. During that stretch senior Doug Kuzsak and Patterson connected on 3-pointers while David Allen and John Schott scored four points each. Patterson scored seven of his 11, first half points in that stretch.

UNK fought back and went on a scoring binge of its own, scoring 30 points in the final 10:39 while holding WSC to 16 points to tie the score at 42 at the intermission. Kearney hit five, 3-pointers in the last eight minutes of the first half to help them overcome a 14-point deficit.

"We didn't play that good of defense the whole game," Wayne State coach Mike Brewen said. "They kept penetrating the lane and when we would pick them up they dished off to the open man which led to five, first half 3-pointers."

In the second half Kearney went to its inside game with Mike Boss, Mike Mueller and Brian Nielsen as the three-some combined for 35 of Kearney's 46, second half points.

"In the first half it was the quick penetration and dish off to the open man that hurt us and in the second half it was our post people not getting back on defense that hurt us," Brewen said.

Kearney built a 10-point lead mid-way through the second half and had an 11-point lead at the 2:03 mark at 84-73 before WSC out-scored them down the stretch, 9-4.

Despite the loss David Allen established a new single season rebound record with 362 caroms—breaking the mark of 355 set by Marques Wilson in 1988-89.

Allen came into the Kearney game needing seven rebounds to break the mark. At the intermission he had six but he notched eight more boards in the second half to finish the game with 14. He came within two rebounds of having a 13 carom per game average on the year.

Patterson led the Wildcats in the scoring column with 23 points while Allen and Schott poured in 17 apiece. Kuzsak finished with nine while Omar Clark and Davy Summers scored six apiece. Keith Whitfield rounded out the attack with four points.

Kearney was led by Boss with 21 points—14 of which came in the second half. Mueller poured in 19 and Nielsen added 14. Mueller and Nielsen scored 11 and 10 points respectively in the second half.

Scott Somerhalder also finished in double figures for the Lopers with 10 points and the Lincoln native dished out a game-high 13 assists. Both teams finished with 40 rebounds with Allen leading WSC with 14 while Nielsen led Kearney with 13.

Allen led the Wildcats in assists with eight while Patterson dished out four. WSC had 22 team assists while suffering 17 turnovers while Kearney had 26 assists and 14 turnovers.

The Wildcats were deadly from the foul line, connecting on 17 of 22 attempts while Kearney was 16-30. The loss left WSC with an 11-17 mark while Kearney improved to 9-19.

Despite the losing season Brewen feels his squad is headed in the right direction. "We had a 5-1 record at home during second semester," Brewen said. "We ended up going 9-7 overall second semester. Also, there are at least five teams we played that are looking to play in post season tournaments with others still playing in conference tournaments."

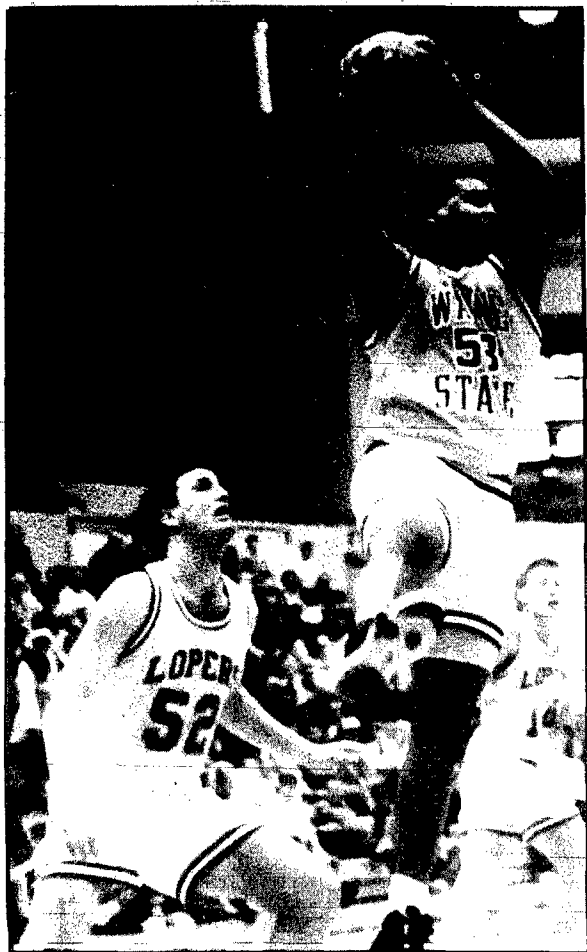

Missouri Western, South Dakota State, Washburn, Briar Cliff and Northwestern have already earned spots in post season tournaments. "Of our 21 different opponent's we faced, 13 recorded at least 18 wins," Brewen said. "That says something about the caliber of our schedule."

Eleven of WSC's 17 losses were by less than 10 points which meant the Wildcats were in every game they played. Kuzsak, Schott and Davarryl Williamson played their final games as Wildcats but WSC has a good solid nucleus coming back next fall.

Michael Parks, Omar Clark and Billy Patterson will be sophomores while Davy Summers returns for his junior year. David Allen, Jason Bangs, Kevin Thurman, Keith Whitfield and Carlos Moore are expected to return for their senior seasons.

Wayne resident will have close ties to Summer Olympics

Although the Olympics draw world-wide attention every four years with hundreds of millions of viewers, this summer's Olympic games in Barcelona, Spain, will draw a little more focus for Wayne radio station KTCH manager Mark Ahmann.

That's because Ahmann's niece, Crissy Ahmann Leighton has qualified to compete in the Olympics after winning the 100-meter breast stroke in the Olympic trials last Wednesday in Indianapolis, Ind.

Leighton, daughter of Leo and Candi Ahmann of Benson, Ar., not only won the Olympic trial event but she recorded the second fastest time in world history with a

The 21-year-old Leighton is a University of Arizona senior who is married to a water polo player, (Glenn). "I believe Crissy started swimming when she was 10 or 11 years of age," Mark Ahmann said. "I really can't remember what got her to really love the sport because she lived in New London, Ia., at the time and my brother Leo would have to drive her over 20 miles for lessons in Burlington, Ia."

Crissy's father is a Yankton College graduate who lettered in basketball and baseball. He began coaching high school basketball in Mark's home town of Remsen, Ia., before moving to New London, Ia. He is now the head basketball coach of Benson High School in Arizona.

Mark Ahmann did remember hearing of his Niece's first race ever—a 25-yard competition that she got halfway through before she said she wanted to quit. She continued on, however, and could now be headed for Olympic stardom.

"My brother promised Crissy a new car if she qualified for the Olympics," Ahmann said. "I talked to him recently and he said he is going to pay up." The superstar swimmer will have her own personal cheering section while she is at the Olympics as her father and husband along with her brother Matt and her father-in-law plan on making the trip.

As she steps up to the starting blocks for the preliminaries of the 100-meter butterfly however, she'll have a whole nation behind her. The Summer Olympics will commence on July 25 and run through Aug. 9.

Wayne State baseball team battling California squads

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

The Wayne State baseball team dropped the first game of their San Diego, Ca., trip with a 6-3 setback to the University of California at San Diego on Sunday.

Monday's game with the University of San Diego was postponed to Wednesday afternoon due to wet fields but the Wildcats got in a twinbill with Cal-San Bernadino on Tuesday with the 'Cats losing the first game, 15-2 but winning the nightcap, 5-3.

Jeff Lutt was credited with the pitching loss in Sunday's game after tossing five and one third innings and giving up six runs on eight hits while striking out one and walking five.

Jeff Gohr came in for relief for the final two and two thirds innings and didn't allow a hit while striking out two and walking a pair.

The Wildcats fell behind 5-0 before scoring twice in the fifth inning. The final WSC run came in the seventh inning. The 'Cats managed five hits and one error while San Diego had eight hits and no errors.

Shane Kober was WSC's big stick as he belted a double and a triple while notching two rbi and Cory Reeder continued his torrid batting pace with a pair of singles. Rick Roberts recorded the Wildcats other rbi with a sacrifice fly.

In Tuesday's first game with San Bernadino, (an NCAA Division II school), Jeff Bjerke took the pitching loss after throwing five and one third innings and giving up five runs. Troy Parrott came in for relief and he was later relieved by Mike Stauffer.

The winners pounded out 17 hits and committed two errors in scoring 15 runs while WSC had six hits and one error while recording two runs. Rusty Hamer belted his first collegiate home run and added a single while Rick Roberts smacked a double and a triple. Shane Kober doubled and Jeff Schneider singled.

"Cal-San Bernadino really hit the ball well," Wayne State coach Lenny Klaver said. "They are an NCAA Division II school that plays a lot of division I teams so their 10-10 record is a bit deceptive."

In the nightcap it was Jeff Schneider receiving the pitching victory after throwing five and one third innings and allowing three runs on four hits while striking out five and walking three.

Shane Kober came in for relief for the final one and two third innings. The Wildcats had five runs on nine hits and three errors—all of which came in the seventh inning while San Bernadino had three runs on six hits and two errors.

"We were pretty much in control the whole game," Klaver said. "We scored two runs in the second inning and added three more in the fourth while San Bernadino had one run in the first inning and scored two in the final inning."

The 6-3 Wildcats had just one extra base hit in the game off the bat of Jeff Burger who also singled while Brent Cameron had two singles and two rbi. Troy Test and Shane Kober each laced a pair of singles and Jeff Lutt had one single to round out the hitting.

After playing San Diego University on Wednesday afternoon the 'Cats will play Point Loma Nazarene in a nine-inning affair on Thursday afternoon and then on Friday afternoon before returning to Wayne over the weekend.

Escape plans

KYLE TRIGGS, (bottom), son of Jeff and Kim Triggs of Wayne, makes plans of escaping this hold by an opponent during action at the Wayne Junior Wrestling Tournament Saturday at Wayne High School while referee Dwaine Junck keeps a close eye on the action. Tournament director John Murtaugh said he was expecting around 250 participants but was delighted when over 380 wrestlers showed up to take part. A complete wrap-up with pictures will appear in Monday's edition of the Wayne Herald.

Benefit volleyball tourney

WINSIDE—There will be a co-ed volleyball tournament benefit in Winside on March 28-29 for Mrs. Tabitha Miller. The event is being sponsored by AAL Branch 1960 of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Up to $1500 raised will be matched by AAL to help the family pay medical costs incurred from complications of a blood disorder.

Entry fee per team is $25. The tournament will be in the Winside High School gym from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Saturday and 1-6 on Sunday. To sign up for a team, call Joni Jaeger at 286-4453 or Tami Hoffman at 286-4573.

Woes continue for ESU board

By LaVon Anderson
Assistant Editor

A dilemma which has plagued Educational Service Unit One (ESU 1) for several years — funding of the nursing services program — once again occupied a majority of the board's time during a meeting Tuesday night in Wakefield.

The controversy regarding funding of the program began several years ago when escalating costs of nursing services resulted in increased spending of the general levy budget. That resulted in the board implementing a policy by which the majority of the program is funded by ESU 1, with the remaining cost burden shared by schools receiving the service.

Board members Tuesday night rejected a recommendation by Administrator Rodney Garwood that nursing services for 1992-93 be funded at a level of 80/20 — with ESU 1 bearing 80 percent of the costs and the schools receiving the service the other 20 percent.

Garwood pointed out that the unit's share of the nursing costs would be approximately $230,000. "I STILL believe that 20 percent for the schools is too high," said board member John Post of Bloomfield. "The other problem I have is that a year ago the schools paid 11 percent and this year they are scheduled to pay double, or about 21 percent."

"I think a 15 percent share by the schools is large enough and I still think the unit can afford to pay 85 percent."

Post said that a 85/15 split would constitute a nearly $15,000 difference to schools from the 80/20 split as recommended by Garwood.

"That higher percentage shows us (ESU 1) making money and I'm not in favor of that," stressed Post. "I move again that the split be 85/15."

"WHAT WE'VE done in the past," pointed out Garwood, "is bill the schools appropriately for money we didn't expend. We certainly didn't set on that money."

"I'd like to see us have a philosophy on nursing and some consistency," said board member Paul Steffen of Hartington. "In the long term we have to address this issue and adopt a philosophy."

Following lengthy discussion, board members Tuesday night voted unanimously in favor of the 85/15 split as stated in Post's motion.

The board also agreed to discuss the issue further and hopefully adopt a philosophy regarding the nursing services program.

IN OTHER business Tuesday night, the ESU 1 board voted to accept a two-year master contract agreement with ESU 1 Education Association.

The contract would set the base salary for the first year at $17,500 for certified employees and at $14,300 for school nurses.

Certified staff employees would receive a base salary of $18,250 during the second year of the contract, with the base salary for school nursing going to $14,950.

Garwood said the contract has yet to be ratified by the ESU 1 Education Association.

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER

World Day of Prayer was held Friday at the United Methodist Church with 13 present. This year's observance marked the 106th year of the international service.

Mrs. Keith Owens of the Presbyterian Church, assisted by secretary-treasurer Etta Fisher, was chairperson. Representatives from their respective churches were Mrs. Irwin Morris, Presbyterian; Mrs. Ronald Rees, Congregational; and Mrs. Wayne Kerstine, United Methodist. Mrs. Delbert Claussen was accompanist for the services. The program was "Living Wisely with Creation," which was written by women of Switzerland, Austria and Germany.

The business meeting following the service was conducted by Mrs. Keith Owens. Plans were made for World Day of Prayer in 1993. Mrs. John Rees of the Presbyterian Church will be the chairperson, Etta Fisher will continue as secretary-treasurer and representatives from each church will be Mrs. Stanley Morris, Congregational; Mrs. Don Harmer, United Methodist; and Mrs. Milton Owens, Presbyterian. The women of the Presbyterian Church will be in charge of lunch. Next year's World Day of Prayer will be March 5, 1993 at the United Methodist Church.

A free will offering was taken and after expenses are paid the remainder of the offering will go to Church Women of New York.

Following the service and business meeting, lunch was served by the women of the Congregational Church, with Mrs. Ronald Rees as chairperson.

The board also voted to extend the contracts of Jean Dowhower, assistant special education director, and Betty Heier, staff development director. Dowhower's contract runs for 200 days and calls for a salary of $35,000. Heier will receive $34,000 for 220 days.

ADMINISTRATOR Garwood informed board members that he had been in touch with the architectural firm of Dana, Larson and Roubal in Omaha concerning the new facility to be constructed in Wayne to house the ESU 1's two Wayne programs — the Wayne Children's Development Center and the Wayne Learning Center.

Garwood reminded board members that March 17 at 2 p.m. has been set as the time for public bid opening at ESU 1 headquarters in Wakefield. A special meeting of the board to accept or reject bids has been scheduled March 19 at 7 p.m.

The new 7,500 square foot structure will be built on a five-acre site located directly west of the Wayne America water tower, with construction expected to begin this spring. The target completion date is September 1992.

Garwood said the architect requested that the ESU 1 board adopt a professional services modification to increase the architect's fee from $25,000 to $30,000.

"We've increased the square footage of the facility considerably and I do believe their request is probably fair," said Garwood. The board unanimously agreed to the increased fee as requested by the architect.

BOARD MEMBERS Tuesday night took action on several other agenda items, including:

—Unanimous approval of a recommendation by the search committee to appoint Ronald Wenstrand of Wakefield to fill an unexpired term on the board created in January following the resignation of Ken Lahrs of Ponca. Wenstrand is serving as Dixon County's board representative and his position will be up for election in November;

—Voted unanimously to offer a contract to Pat Laughlin to serve as a gifted consultant. Garwood said the new program will cost approximately $35,000 to $40,000 and Laughlin will begin her duties Sept. 1 if she accepts the contract;

—Voted unanimously on a recommendation by the building and grounds committee to have Property Exchange-ERA of Wayne assist in the sale of the ESU 1 building which now houses the Wayne Learning Center;

—The appointment of Brian Newton, chairman, Paul Steffen and Ron Wenstrand to serve on the ESU 1 Ad Hoc committee. The function of committee is to explore the future direction of ESU 1 and review the allocation of funds for services;

—Unanimously approved first reading of a change in board policy which states that the ESU 1 board of directors will meet at 5 p.m. during November through April and at 7 p.m. during May through October, on the second Tuesday of each month. The second and final reading is scheduled to take place next month.

PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN

The Presbyterian Women met March 4 for a noon carry-in lunch. Mrs. Milton Owens was hostess for the meal and welcomed 12 members.

Following the meal, Mrs. Keith Owens conducted the business meeting, which was attended by the 12 members and one guest, Mrs. Dean Owens. The meeting was opened with Mrs. Keith Owens reading articles on Lent and Ash Wednesday, and articles taken from Portals of Prayer. The minutes of last meeting and the treasurer's report were given. It was announced that the deadline for the reading list is March 21.

Mrs. Milton Owens brought the material for the group's next quilting project.

A brochure from the Dakota Boys Ranch at Minot, N.D. was viewed and discussed by the group.

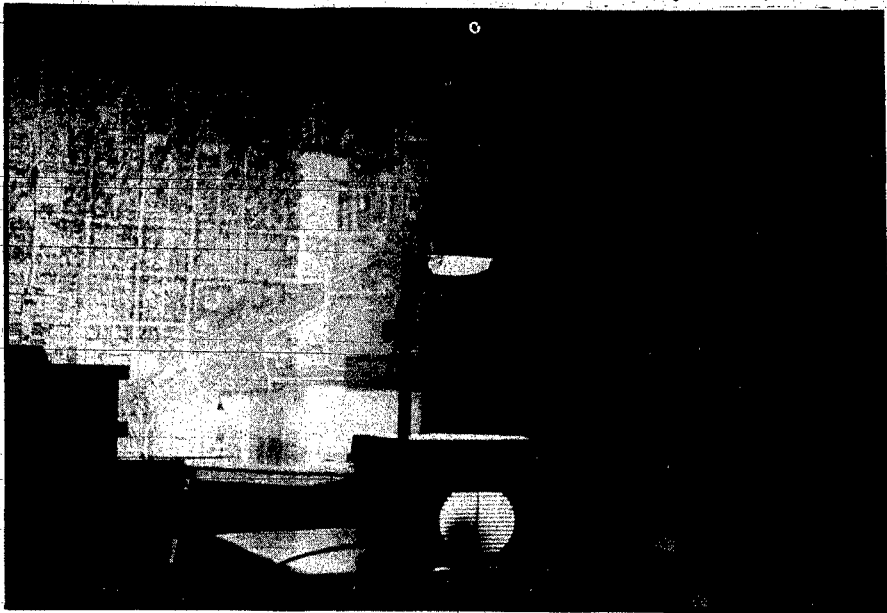

The women decided to serve coffee and cookies following the Lenten service today (Thursday).

Tillie Jones had the lesson entitled "Be Perfect — As Your Heavenly Father Is Perfect," taken from Matthew 5. In closing, the group united in the singing of the hymn, "In My Heart There Rings a Melody."

Wednesday, March 18 will be the last noon carry-in meal of the season with Mrs. Irwin Morris as hostess. Following the meal, Rev. Gail Axen will have the lesson, entitled "Heal The Soul and Justice Will Follow."

WAYNE CITY ADMINISTRATOR Joe Salitros shows the portions of the city which are scheduled for sidewalk improvements this summer. The majority of the improvements are planned in the southeast quadrant.

Sidewalks back in spotlight

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Wayne residents living in the southeast quadrant of the city can look forward to seeing some sidewalk improvements in 1992.

That was the message delivered by Wayne City Administrator Joe Salitros to the council Tuesday night as he unveiled preliminary plans for the 1992 sidewalk improvement districts.

Under conditions of the proposed project, sidewalk improvements are planned all along Logan Street; from Main to Dearborn along 5th street; and from Main to Dearborn along 4th street. Other sidewalk replacements are tentatively scheduled on Windom street between 4th and 5th and a mixture of replacement and new sidewalk on 6th street between Main and Logan.

NEW SIDEWALK runs between Main and Logan on 5th street; between Logan and Nebraska on the south side of 5th street; between 4th and 5th on Logan; and around Overin Field.

Under city laws, the sidewalk cost sharing with residents is utilized for the replacement of sections of sidewalk that are chipped, cracked, or raised or sunken beyond repair. Cost for new sidewalk is borne by the landowner. Handicapped curb cuts are handled by the city.

While the council gave approval to proceed with the tentative plans, Wayne resident Duane Schroeder questioned whether homeowners will be told in the future that they have to place in new sidewalks.

"I can see what's coming here and I want the council to know that," he said. "Just because the city has the right to construct these sidewalks doesn't make it right."

IN 1991, the first year the program was run, city council members and the city administrator said the public received it well.

One reason for praise was because in 1991, the city figured that 30 percent of the homeowners would pay off the debt for the program, while others would pay for it as an assessment against the property. That figure, however, turned out to be low since 70 percent of the homeowners paid for the improvements in 1991 in full.

Walnut Street project receives council attention

Progress with the Walnut Street improvements are moving along as scheduled.

Roger Severin, the president of Olson Associates, spoke to the city council about the project Tuesday night.

Under the project, the city is paving a stretch of Walnut Street, approximately from 12th to 14th in conjunction to the addition of a parking lot at Wayne State College. The parking lot is located between Walnut street and Providence Medical Center, where the women's softball diamond is currently located.

With the estimated cost for the project running at $49,800, the street improvement is scheduled to be let for bids the same day the college lets bids for the parking lot improvement.

Senior Center director submits report

Work at the Wayne Senior Center is going well, according to Georgia Janssen, director of the center, and it may come in under budget with a lot of help from supporters of the center.

According to a report from Janssen, $79,100 of the $112,400 budget has been expended at this point in the fiscal year, which ends at the conclusion of July. The budget expenditures for the senior center is composed of $54,200 in grants and donations and $24,900 from the city.

Under the annual report provided to the Wayne City Council Tuesday night, the senior center provides Wayne's elderly residents with a number of services they might not otherwise receive. Among those things the center provides are: nutritional services, transportation services, health services, social services, leisure services and social travels.

Most important to the function of the senior center are the nutritional services. In that category, the center provides congregate meals with an average daily count of 39 and home delivered meals, in which volunteers deliver daily food to an average daily count of 30.

"This helps keep people out of the rest home," she said.

Health services range from things like blood pressure clinics, hearing clinics and a pedicure clinic. Exercises are also included in the program for seniors who wish to use it.

PROBABLY THE most trying time at the bank was when it burned down over six years ago. She said it took her several months to adjust.

"So many things went up in smoke," she says. "We had all the fond memories of doing things as a team and when the bank burned down, that seemed to be all gone."

the public. He added that board members need to be honest.

"The board of education is not what I thought it was," Dahl said. "We're not into educational matters as much as I thought we'd be. But maybe we shouldn't be. We have very qualified administrators, so maybe we don't need to be."

"People on the board need to listen and take notes. They need to take advantage of all the seminars and schoolings that are available to new board members. The first couple years your mind will be swarming with things and the seminars will help new board members to understand the process a little better."

IF THERE'S ONE concern the outgoing members share, it's that they won't be on the board long under the new superintendent. With Dr. Francis Haun scheduled to retire at the end of June, Dahl and Sandahl will work with the new superintendent only a few months.

Other matters:

In other matters, the Wayne City Council:

• Was introduced to April Smalley, who has been hired as the assistant accountant for the city.

• Approved the final plat of Boyle's Subdivision to the city. The land will be used for the construction of the new Wayne Care Centre, scheduled to begin sometime this spring.

• Approved by resolution the city's participation in the Nebraska Municipal Power Pool. The participation, however, has no effect on the city's membership with the Nebraska Public Power District.

• Approved by resolution to have Gilmore and Associates engineer the preliminary work for street improvement on 6th street. The addition of road runs from the south end of the El Toro parking lot to the car wash on the east edge of Wayne.

• Approved a promotional request from the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce for $3,000. Money for the request comes from a portion of money from an increase in cable TV rates according to a franchise agreement between Jones Intercable and the City of Wayne.

Assault charge filed with court

The Wayne County Attorney's office has filed charges against an individual who allegedly assaulted a residence assistant at Wayne State College Jan. 26 in one of the college's dormitories.

Misdemeanor charges have been filed against Leon T. White for allegedly assaulting residence hall assistant Michelle Young in Pile Hall Jan. 26.

ACCORDING TO reports from the incident, Young was allegedly assaulted when she and another residence hall assistant questioned White, who was visiting the dorm, about a violation of the campus alcohol policy. Following the incident, Young was taken to Providence Medical Center and treated for minor injuries.

As a result of the incident, Wayne State College President Dr. Donald Mash has called for policy changes to deal with campus incidents.

The charges against White were filed March 10 in the Wayne County Court.

Meeting looks at estates

Estate planning for agricultural landowners will be the subject of a videoconference which may be viewed March 12 from 2 to 4 p.m. CST, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln farm management specialist announced.

The videoconference on "What Will Happen To The Farm When You Are Gone?" will focus on estate taxes, social security, wills, trusts and other aspects of estate planning, said Doug Jose.

This program depicts two generations of family members as they plan to settle their estate, Jose pointed out. Family members identify their retirement goals and long-range plans for the farm, decide whether to keep the farm or sell it and identify factors other than taxes that affect estate planning.

Following the videoconference, NU Cooperative Extension staff will host a panel of local professionals who will lead discussions and answer questions about estate planning at Concord, Northeast Research and Extension Center.

There is no registration fee to attend the videoconference, Jose said.

The videoconference also can be seen on any private satellite dish. For more information, call (800) 755-7765.

The videoconference is being produced by NU and Iowa State University Cooperative Extension and funded by the American Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers and the U.S. Department of Agriculture Extension Service.

Custom calving an option for producers

Various share and lease arrangements have long been common among farmers and ranchers. A newer variation on the theme is custom calving, in which a second party provides labor and feed during the calving season, said a University of Nebraska-Lincoln beef specialist.

Jim Gosey said such arrangements are becoming more common when the herd owner is faced with specific problems, such as a poor location or facilities for calving, or a shortage of labor during the busy calving season.

"Producers can use custom calving to take the herd out of a difficult climatic situation, such as the mud typical of eastern Nebraska in the spring," Gosey said.

He said the time periods of such arrangements vary from as little as six weeks, which is long enough to include a typical calving season, to six months, which would leave the herd on the provider's land through most of the grazing season.

Prices for the service will vary according to the circumstances, Gosey said. For example, $2,000 per month for a herd of 400 heifers would be reasonable. Providers also often get an incentive bonus for each live calf produced, typically about $5 per calf, he said.

Although some such deals are sealed with a handshake, Gosey said a written agreement that spells out the obligations of both parties is preferable.

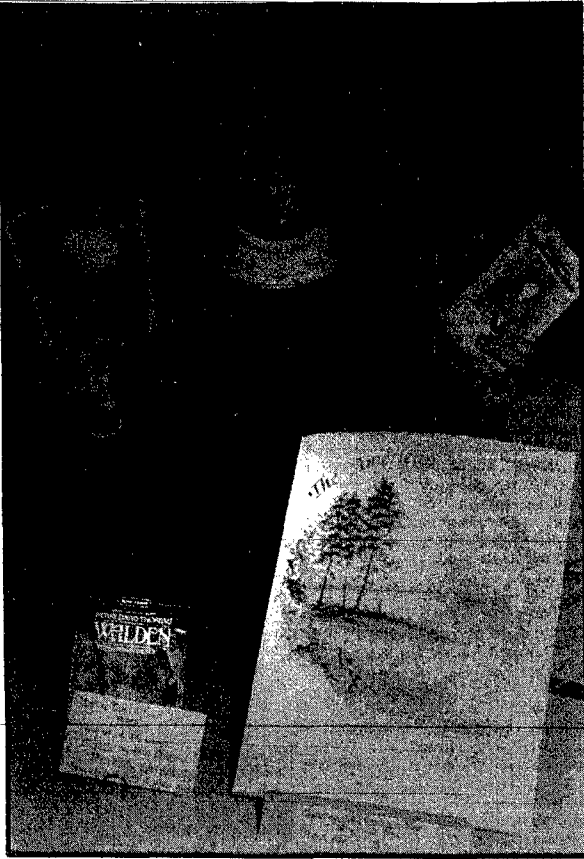

A publication that will aid in developing a fair contract, "Livestock Share Rental Arrangements for Your Farm," is available for 50 cents at local extension offices. It lists points to be considered, and includes examples of finished contracts and calculations used to set prices.

Workshop for EMS set

A free workshop for pre-hospital personnel on medical emergencies will be offered at the Osmond Fire Station on Monday, March 16, from 7 to 10 p.m.

The workshop is sponsored by the Osmond Ambulance Service, Northeast Community College and the Emergency Medical Services Division of the Nebraska Department of Health.

For more information, call Eddy Williams, emergency medical services coordinator at the Health Department, 800-422-3460.

WAYNE LIBRARIAN JOLENE KLEIN holds up some of the classic books which will be read during the "Let's Talk About It" program.

Wayne Library program creates 'classic' discussion

By Les Mann
Herald Publisher

Talk around the table at the coffee shops in Wayne doesn't usually center around the subtle meanings behind the classics in American literature, but the discussion might change under a new program being offered through the Wayne Public Library.

"Let's Talk About It," is a grant-funded program where library patrons may check out duplicate copies of American classics, read them and join together at the library for group discussions on the literature.

Twenty-five copies of each of four classics have been loaned to the Wayne library for check-out to interested readers. The "Let's Talk About It" series is funded through a grant from the Nebraska Council for the Humanities.

"Walden," by Henry David Thoreau will be the first book which will be the subject of discussion on Monday, March 30 at the library. The Thoreau discussion will be led by Sayre Anderson of Wayne State College.

"The program provides a good tie-in with this summer's Chautauqua events in Wayne," said Jolene Klein, Wayne librarian. She said the community is fortunate to have an opportunity to participate in the humanities program.

A different scholar will lead the discussion at each of the four evening talk sessions said Ms. Klein. Each session is open to the public whether they check out the classic book or not she said. The discussion sessions will be held at the library from 7:30 to 9:30.

April 9 will be the second discussion session when the subject will be "Little Women" by Louisa May Alcott. Dr. Elaine Kruse of WSC will lead that discussion. She will also lead discussion on Alcott's short story "Behind a Mask."

Walt Whitman's classic, "Leaves of Grass" will be featured in May's discussion on the 13th. Dr. Carroll Peterson of Doane College in Crete, Neb. will lead that discussion.

While in Wayne, Peterson will also talk to students in Sylvia Ruhl's literature class at Wayne High School.

Peterson, who is one of the Chautauqua performers due to be in Wayne in July, will talk to the students in the character and costume of Whitman. His performance is also sponsored by the Nebraska Council for the Humanities.

The final discussion session, set for June 10 will be led by Dr. Jo Taylor of Wayne State College. It's subject will be "Narrative of the Life of Frederick Douglass, An American Slave." The work is an autobiography.

Persons interested in participating in the reading and discussion sessions should contact the Wayne Public Library.

Chapter 1 students compete in 'Olympics'

While the 1991 Winter Olympics has been over a couple of weeks, another set of gold, silver and bronze medals have been handed out at Wayne Elementary.

Students in the Chapter 1 reading and math program have been competing for top honors the last two weeks. The students are instructed by Lauren Walton.

"These Academic Olympics have focused on training and performance and discussions have been held on the importance of persevering and setting goals, as well as putting forth one's best effort," Walton said.

Under the program, students have accumulated points for study time at home, class performance and extra efforts toward academic growth. Walton said many parents deserve special credit for being involved in this activity.

The program seems to have gone over well with students, too.

"This was the best thing I've done all year," said third grader Monica Novak.

"I like being in the Olympics," said Jarrod Neuhaus.

"Practicing at home and school made me a better math student," said second grade student Tanya Grashorn.

Walton said each student became an Olympian.

"I am very proud of the hard work I've seen in the past two weeks," she said. "Becoming strong intellectually takes discipline as well as physical achievement does. It's my hope that a base has been built for each person participating in our Academic Olympics and that many more goals will be set by each individual."

An Olympic celebration was held Friday, March 6 for all participants and medalists were recognized. Events and medalists are: Fourth grade reading — Jarrod Neuhaus, gold; Wes Anderson, silver; Ryan Haase, bronze; first grade math — Nathan Wacker, gold; Jeremy Gaunt, silver; and Sabrina Booth, bronze.

Second grade math — Brian Kemp, gold; Tanya Grashorn, silver; Amanda Young, bronze; first grade math — Nathan Wacker, gold; Jeremy Gaunt, silver; and Sabrina Booth, bronze.

Fire chief promotes safety

Wayne Fire Chief Dutch Sitzman has announced that his department has again been working with the National Fire Safety Council in a continuing effort to reduce the staggering loss due to fire and burns. They are now organizing their annual Fire Safety and Burn Prevention Educational Program geared toward children in the community.

Sitzman said that in cooperation with the department, educationally sound fire safety educational materials will be provided to youngsters. The materials have been designed exclusively by National Fire Safety Council, a 501 (c)(3) tax-exempt, non-profit organization. This vital program will assist in teaching children fire safety and burn prevention. The department strongly believes that reaching the children in this way is the key to reducing the tragedy of fire loss, burns, and death.

The Wayne Volunteer Fire Department has mailed out program sponsor request letters which explain the entire program to area business, industrial, and professional leaders. The letter will also solicit their financial support to help cover the cost of the materials utilized by the department for this desperately needed program.

Sitzman said that all supporters will be acknowledged with a listing on the Prestige Page of activity manuals under the heading "provided as a public service by people who care".

Sitzman also said this is the only Fire Safety and Burn Prevention Educational Program their department endorses or sponsors. Should any other person call upon you for any other program, please contact his department immediately.

Lovable grandson a joy

The concensus after church this morning was that our grandson is the kind you like to squeeze, and he is. He's also very chubby, which makes him even more huggable, and he responds easily with smiles and laughter.

He's also easily distracted by voices, and over-stimulated by lots of people. Consequently, he spent part of the service in the "cry room", and had a hard time settling down for a nap when he got home.

His dad's in Florida on a sales trip, and he and his mom are spending the weekend with us. The poor kid gets no love and affection, you can imagine.

We called brother Jim in South Carolina last Sunday, and Jay was bragging about the 70 degree weather. It was 80 degrees here! But I had a hunch that winter wasn't over yet, and sure enough, there's snow in the forecast today. After all that rain.

It's getting cold again because we're ready to start calving, I'm sure of it.

How do the geese know when to head north? I've really been hearing them this week.

By Pat Melerhenry

I attended my first girls' state basketball game Thursday. Battle Creek played Lincoln Christian, and it was close until the last minutes. We viewed the championship game on TV last night.

Right now, Missouri is playing Kansas. The Huskers were ahead of the Sooners last night, but couldn't quite pull it off. It looks to me as if the Big Eight has achieved parity, and the conference tournament could have some interesting games.

Chuck Peter put on his annual tournament in Winside last weekend, and talked Jon into playing with his team. Then Patty and TJ, two NWU buddies, decided to enter a team too. I nonchalantly offered to have them stay here. The next thing I knew, I had a whole team here, including subs!

When you are in the habit of cooking for two again, eight grown men can seem like a bunch. So for lunch on Saturday, I made a double batch of Shipwreck. I don't know where this dish originated, or where it got its name. Aunt Hazel sent it out here one day, years ago, when I was sick and had two men to feed.

You put two pounds of raw hamburger in the bottom of a small roaster, and add salt, pepper, and onion. Then you slice a bunch of potatoes, and add more salt and pepper. Next, a layer of pork and beans (16 oz. can) and a can of tomato soup over all. Bake at 325 degrees for two hours.

As my cousin Philip used to say: "It can't miss. It has hamburger, potatoes, and pork and beans." It's a man's dish, and feeds a bunch. Plus, it's easy.

New restrictions pose little change of fungicide use by Nebraska crop producers

Restrictions recently proposed by the Environmental Protection Agency on a class of fungicides will have little impact on Nebraska crop producers, but some effect on homeowners, said a University of Nebraska-Lincoln plant pathologist.

David Wysong explained that the chemicals, known as EBDCs, and sold under the names mancozeb, maneb and metiram, had only limited use here on common field and vegetable crops for treating fungus diseases. However, they are commonly used by homeowners. The EPA has proposed banning some uses, but this will have little effect in Nebraska, he said.

The EPA originally proposed banning the products because of a suspected cancer risk. However, the agency concluded after a chemical-industry study of almost 6,000 food samples that little of the chemical survives long enough to make it into the food supply. It now estimates the risk is one additional cancer per every 1 million people exposed for a lifetime, which fits the agency's "negligible risk" standard.

"This action completes the most extensive review, analysis and assessment of data ever undertaken on any pesticide," said EPA Administrator William Reilly. "The agency is satisfied that those EBDC food-crop uses that will continue do not pose a health risk to consumers."

Use on 11 crops will be banned. They are apricots, carrots, celery, collards, mustard greens, nectarines, peaches, rhubarb, spinach, succulent beans and turnips. Wysong said these crops are not grown commercially in Nebraska.

Wysong said the chemicals are occasionally used on seed corn fields, wheat, potatoes and sugar beets, all of which are commercial crops in the state. These uses still will be permitted.

"The acreage treated in any one year is pretty low," the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist said. "It's not a routine practice here."

He said the EPA has evaluated the risk to home users from applying the products to turf, trees and vegetable crops and estimates that the benefits exceed the risks for all uses, except for mancozeb on fruit trees and turf.

"Therefore, all mancozeb product labels for home garden uses for fruit trees and turf are being canceled," Wysong said. "All other uses for maneb, mancozeb and metiram on flowers, vegetables, woody ornamentals and shrub fruits will continue, he said, but users will be required to wear chemical-resistant gloves, and long pants and shirts."

The EPA also is requiring a number of other changes, including reduced application rates and total treatments of one crop, and increasing the time between treatment and harvest.

The agency suggests that consumers wash or peel fruits and vegetables before eating because most of the residue is found on the surface.

HAPPY HOMEMAKERS

The Wakefield Happy Homemakers Extension Club met at the home of Helen Domsch on March 2. Lois Berns, president, presided at the meeting. They read in unison "We Prepare For Tomorrow." Six members answered roll call. The secretary and treasurer reports were read and approved. Sondra Mattes took the information regarding the poster contest to the third grade teacher. The theme this year is "Clean up the Roadside." The council will furnish the prize money this year. The prizes to be given are for first, second, third and honorable mention.

Sondra Mattes reported on the recycling place in Wayne. They will take H1, H2 and H3 plastic, but prefer it to be kept separate. They also are accepting corrugated cardboard as well as other cardboard boxes, which also are to be kept separate.

Evelyn Kahl brought the group up to date on the Arboretum program. They will be doing tree grafting. Anna Marie White will again donate a wall hanging for the drawing, which will again take place during the Dixon County Fair. This year the drawing will be open to all members as well as new members. Evelyn encouraged them all to become an Arboretum member.

Bills were presented and paid. The president will advise them of the Wakefield Health Care Center date when they are to help residents play bingo and serve refreshments.

They discussed items they could take to the cultured arts fair.

The next meeting will be with Sondra Mattes on Monday, April 6 at 1:30 p.m. She will also present the lesson, "Beef in The Diet." The meeting was adjourned. Lois Berns read the poem, "Never Quit." Ellen Wriedt gave the lesson "Working With An Attorney."

NUTRITION MONTH

The Fair Store in Wakefield, along with other grocery stores in Dixon County, is cooperating with the University of Nebraska Extension to promote National Nutrition Month in March. Currently posters are on display, nutrition flyers are available and the Fair Store is also sponsoring a poster coloring activity for elementary students.

When Wakefield students have completed coloring the posters, they will be displayed in the Fair Store and each participant will receive a treat, compliments of the store.

The nutritional information this year, according to the Extension Service, will focus on the new dietary guidelines adopted in 1990.

OFFERS SCHOLARSHIP

Again this year, the Wakefield Education Association will award two scholarships in the amount of $200 each for graduating seniors who plan to attend college. The monies will be appropriated to the college of the student's choice for second semester tuition.

Students interested in applying for the scholarships should contact Ellie Studer or Julee Boeshart at the school. Deadline for submitting application is April 1.

PROMOTE WAKEFIELD

As a class project, the junior/senior English students devised a brochure to highlight Wakefield's qualities. The students targeted specific groups — business, young adults, senior citizens and parents and children. The students plan to display their illustrated brochures in a downtown business place. Class instructor is Val Bard.

Public invited to health fair

WAKEFIELD - All area residents are invited to attend a free Health Fair on Sunday, March 15 from 2 to 5 p.m. at Salem Lutheran Church in Wakefield, located at 411 Winter St.

The Health Fair is sponsored by Aid Association for Lutherans Branch 1542 of Wakefield and will feature information and screenings in the areas of early detection/health promotion, heart and lung health, safety, and alcohol and drug education. Health care professionals and a variety of activities will also help participants assess their current health, plan for better health and learn about local health resources.

Northeast schedules ADA conference on March 18

Northeast Community College will continue its series of videoconferences concerning the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) with the next videoconference scheduled for Wednesday, March 18.

Beginning in January, new civil rights legislation had a profound effect on businesses and professions. Designs for open spaces and the interiors and exteriors of more than five million buildings were regulated in ways that called for in-depth knowledge of the ADA law and the enforcement codes, and creative design solutions.

The goal of this comprehensive civil rights legislation is to "open the doors" to people with disabilities.

This first program, being held in Northeast's Activities Center Theatre from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., is entitled "ADA: Accessible Design." It zeroes in on issues surrounding exterior interior architecture design and offers compliance strategies to answer many of the design needs of the disabled.

For information concerning registration and participation fees, contact Joe Ferguson, (402) 644-0587.

The final videoconference, "Enforcing the ADA at State and Local Levels," is scheduled for April 21.

SCHOOL NEWS

There will be no school in Winside on Thursday, March 19 for parent-teacher conferences. Parents of students K-12 will receive an assigned time by mail. Parents of grades 7-12 will not be assigned times, however, the administration encourages all these parents to come and visit with the high school teachers.

On March 24, grades 6-12 will be spending the entire school day learning about drugs, alcohol and their effects. Several speakers will be present to visit with the students. This will be a kick-off for National Drug Awareness month which is April. Anyone wanting more information can contact the High School Guidance Counselor, Mrs. Leigh Fuhrman.

There will be no school for grades K-6 on Friday, March 27 because of a teacher workday. There will be classes held for grades 7-12 but no bus service. There will be hot lunch.

April 14 has been set for this year's Kindergarten Round-up beginning at 9 a.m. If you have moved into the district recently or know of someone who has, and there is a child in the family who will be coming to kindergarten next fall, please contact the school at 286-4466. Round-up schedules and information will be mailed by mid March.

LADIES AID

Twenty members of St. Paul's Ladies Aid and one guest Tami Hoffman met March 4. Bev Voss, president, welcomed everyone. Gertrude Heins gave devotions Psalms 19:4 which was read in unison followed by the singing of "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross". She also gave meditation on the Lenten wreath and what the six candles mean. Pastor Jeffrey Lee gave the Bible study "My Song is Love Unknown". The secretary and treasurers report was read. The mitte box total is $25.46. Auditing committee will be Janice Jaeger and Lajeanne Marotz.

March visiting committee is Irene Ditman, Gloria Evans, and Bev Hansen. The ladies aid will insert the song "Brothers and Sisters in Christ" into the church hymnals. Church cleaning days will be March 16-17 with a noon pot luck lunch. Hostess for today were Erna Hoffman and Bev Hansen. The Birthday table was observed.

The next meeting will be April 1 for a 1:30 p.m. guest day salad luncheon. Hostess will be Marguerite Janke, Pat Janke, Arlene Allemann, Norma Janke, Erna Hoffman, and Emma Willers. Entertainment Committee will be Bev Hansen, Janice Jaeger and Gertrude Heins. STILL HELPING Winside 4-Her, Connie VanHouten, a member of the Helping Hands 4-H club has received a news update from the South Dakota Make A Wish Foundation stating that last year 26 South Dakota children were granted wishes. Two of the children were from the Yankton area. Three year old Nick who has Leukemia and eight year old Tiffany who has undifferentiated Sarcoma. Both children wished for trips to Disneyland.

Wishes for children usually cost between $3500-$4000. The South Dakota Foundation hopes to raise enough funds this year to grant 35 wishes.

Connie has been collecting and saving pull tabs from beverage cans and donates them to the Foundation to help with their efforts. She started this as a 4-H project in the spring of 1991. Anyone who would like to help Connie with this project by saving tabs can call her at 286-4802. If you would like to make a direct contribution to the Foundation their address is Make A Wish Foundation of South Dakota, P.O. Box 88439, Sioux Falls, S.D. 57105. HONORED

The GOLDEN YEARS
 by Pat Slichty

Hadden Wood, 60, of Greenwich, Connecticut, and Gene Feeney, 65, of nearby North Castle, New York, get their kicks at retirement age by continuing their longtime hobby: sky diving. Each has made several thousand parachute jumps. Feeney, a semi-retired appliance servicer, has been at it since 1959, except for a period in 1970 spent recovering from an accident. He had jumped with an experimental square canopy chute, which tilted near the ground. Resulting fractures left him on crutches for several months. Wood, a pilot, says sky diving has become much safer since that time, and both say that age alone doesn't prevent anyone from making a first parachute jump.

Among the vital statistics gathered by the Census Bureau: for every three unmarried men between 45 and 64, there are five unmarried women. Single men 65 and over are outnumbered 3 to 1 by single women.

Remember When? 1931 — "Cimaron" was named the best motion picture of the year, and remained the only Western awarded an Oscar until "Dances With Wolves" won the Academy Award 50 years later.

CARDS OF THANKS

WE WOULD like to thank Dr. Lindau and the nurses and staff at Providence Medical Center for the excellent care. Sincere thank you to Ardyce and Alvin Reeg for taking care of Ashley and Luke during our hospital stay. We would also like to thank our family, friends and neighbors for the visits, flowers, cards, food, gifts and prayers during our stay at the hospital and since our return home. Your kindness and generosity are greatly appreciated. God bless you! Sincerely, Ron, Diane, Ashley, Luke and Kelly Gentrup. M12

FRIENDSHIP is a priceless gift. That cannot be bought or sold, its value is far greater - Than a mountain of gold - For gold is cold and lifeless - It can neither see nor hear, - and in the time of trouble - It is powerless to cheer - It has not ears to listen, - No heart to understand! - It cannot bring you comfort - Or reach out a helping hand - The gift of a true friend is a priceless gift from God. - Thank you very much for the cards, flowers, many phone calls and the love and support from my many friends and family. My recovery from my surgery is slow, but I'm starting to feel better every day. The miles may separate us in the winter months - but my heart is always in Wayne. God bless you all ... Betty Meyer. M12

I THANK my many friends and relatives who were so thoughtful of me during my stay and the Lutheran Hospital and Heritage of Bel Air. The visits and cards and gifts and telephone calls really helped me recuperate quickly. Gladys Gaebler. M12

I WOULD like to say Thank You to my family and friends for all the flowers, cards, phone calls and the food that I received since my surgery. A special thank you to Pastor Bertels for his prayers and visits. Merlin Reinhardt. M12
