WAYNE, NE 68787 THURSDAY, APRIL 30, 1992 — 116TH YEAR — NO. 58 THIS ISSUE — 2 SECTIONS, 18 PAGES LOCAL DELIVERY 25¢ — NEWSSTAND 45¢

WAYNE COUNTY SHERIFF LeRoy Janssen and Deputy Rick Reed frisk a Wayne man suspected of dealing drugs. The arrest was made through efforts of the NEDEEP program.

Program's success continues

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

When a drug bust goes down, you might be surprised how fast it happens.

That, among other things, is one tiny element that has made the Northeast Nebraska Drug Enforcement Project (NEDEEP) so successful.

Since Sept. 1990, when the interlocal program started, a total of 26 drug dealers have been prosecuted in Wayne County alone. Thirteen have been on felony marijuana delivery charges, one was a felony delivery of cocaine and 12 have been misdemeanor drug charges.

For the drug dealer, it's bad news. Prosecutors have not lost one case and that thrills law enforcement officials.

"It's a very successful program," says Deputy Sheriff Rick Reed, who has been Wayne County's liaison to NEDEEP. "Since September 1990, 154 cases have resulted in the drug grant area and every case has had successful prosecution."

IN ALL, THERE'S 60-70 law enforcement officers involved in the grant area. In the program's first year, 108 cases were made. Since September 1991, there's been 46 cases and more are expected.

Since the inception of the NEDEEP program, 626 lbs. of narcotics have been taken off the streets, valued at $18,079. The money generated under the program helps law enforcement continue to battle the drug problem in Northeast Nebraska, according to Dakota County Attorney Kurt Hohenstein, one of the organizers of NEDEEP.

"I think what we're seeing is that it's still out there but it's tougher to buy drugs and the cost of drugs are becoming more expensive, which indicates their supply is lower," Hohenstein says.

The way the program works is by taking drug dealers' cash when an arrest is made or anything of liquid value once a case is prosecuted to its conclusion. The money, in turn, provides local law enforcement funds with which to buy narcotics. It also allows them to have two full time undercover narcotics agents from the Nebraska State Patrol on a regular basis.

Once drug money is recovered, it goes into county drug funds. From there, it goes into the NEDEEP funds. Following that, it goes to the federal government, which, in turn, returns it to multi-jurisdictional programs like NEDEEP.

SINCE NEDEEP's inception, law enforcement officials have seen an array of drugs. While they haven't seen any crack cocaine at this point, the highly addictive form of cocaine which is mixed with baking soda that people smoke, they have made arrests on crank (methamphetamines), marijuana, hashish, which is a high-grade marijuana, and LSD. They have yet to see ice, which is a highly addictive form of heroin.

The multi-jurisdictional task force specifically targets street-level drug dealers. According to Wayne County Sheriff LeRoy Janssen, NEDEEP has increased the cooperation between agencies but their task remains the same.

"No single jurisdiction could do this by themselves," Janssen says. "It's taken drugs off the streets and the availability has been cut down but there are still just as many players involved."

Walls separate people

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

The wall between East and West Berlin came down in 1989 but Germans today are facing the prejudice barrier created by a 45-year split in republics.

That was the message Winnie Hartisch shared Monday with students in Edith Zahniser's German class at Wayne High. Hartisch, 18, is from Kleinmachnow, which is, formerly in what was East Germany, near Berlin.

Winnie is spending a year abroad as a foreign exchange student at Emerson-Hubbard High School, an opportunity she wouldn't have had a little over three years ago.

But she was there when Brandenburg gate opened. She was also there when the wall came down.

"It was a school day," she recalls. "Many pupils said they weren't going to school so they could be there when the wall went down. We couldn't believe the wall would come down. It took a while to sink in. At first, people were happy. But they didn't realize the problems in reuniting. Today, we realize things went too fast."

WINNIE SAYS there's a great discrepancy between what was West Germany and East Germany. Since the crumbling of the Berlin Wall, or "The Revolution," as Winnie calls it, not only has German society changed but there's a vast difference in economies.

Today, many former East Germans find themselves unemployed and their factories dated and closed, unable to compete with their West German counterparts. As a result of the transition from communism to capitalism, some Germans are reverting back to fascist ties and neo-Nazism is gaining momentum.

"They don't realize the ghost they have," she says. "I don't think they realize what they're doing."

Winnie says her mother tells her that many changes have taken shape since she left home. She says she's uncertain what to think when she returns home.

Fortunately, for Winnie's family, both parents are employed. Her mother is a teacher and although her father lost his job following the revolution, he now works as a job consultant.

WHILE WINNIE says there's good things in communism and capitalism, she didn't say she has a preference. She says initially there were some hard feelings toward the Russians for keeping her society so oppressed but those feelings have changed today because there's so many other problems.

She says the people don't know where the country is headed. She says it's going to be difficult for the two societies to come together but she believes it will happen with time.

"There are so many walls between the people that need to be taken away," she says. "There's prejudice in West Germany toward East Germans and that needs to change."

City reviews 'adoption' program

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Roy Sommerfeld likes his "Adopt a Street" concept well enough that he wanted to bring it to the Wayne City Council's attention.

The good news is, his concept might just take off.

Sommerfeld told the council that he'd like to see Wayne establish an adopt a street program, run similarly to the way the "Adopt a Highway" program.

"The highway department assigns a two mile stretch of highway for a year and they ask that it be cleaned off twice a year," he said. "I would like to see the streets cleaned by organizations every two weeks and that could be more or less frequently, depending on what's needed."

THE COUNCIL seemed receptive to the idea, too. While the public works department does something similar to Sommerfeld's proposal, Director Vern Schulz was all ears.

Sommerfeld pointed out to the council that on a walk he took Tuesday, he collected a full grocery store plastic bag full of garbage and that was just on one street.

"Just think how much could be collected if 10, 20 or 30 people volunteered to help me," he said.

One of the ways he thought the program could be implemented is by contacting local service organizations. In response to his discussion item, Councilwoman Patty Wieland asked if he would attend the next recycling committee meeting.

"You bet I would," he said.

Social Services plans distribution

The Wayne office for the Nebraska Department of Social Services will distribute food commodities on the following dates and times:

- Carroll Fire Hall, Thursday, May 7, 9:30-10:30 a.m.
- Hoskins Fire Hall, Thursday, May 7, 1-1:30 p.m.
- Winside City Auditorium, Thursday, May 7, 2-3 p.m.
- Wayne Social Services office,

Friday, May 8, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The following food items will be given away: two 1 lb. units of butter, one 5 lbs. unit of flour, one 2 lbs. unit peanut butter; one 303 unit of pears; and one 303 unit of tomatoes.

A Social Security card and proof of residence, such as a utility bill, are necessary for identification. Food items cannot be picked up by another household unless the Social Service office has a statement of income verification and written permission from the household. These statements can be picked up prior to distribution.

Households are eligible to receive Social Services food commodity items according to income levels.

Methods for taxes change

Local taxpayers must be aware of two important changes in the method used to report their personal property for taxation purposes, Wayne County Assessor Joyce Reeg said this week.

The first change is the filing date by which personal property must be reported to the assessor's office. That date has been extended to June 1.

The second change is that taxpayers are required to file two personal property tax schedules, one based on actual value and another based on depreciated value.

Reeg said the two schedules are required for income-producing tangible personal property only.

REEG SAID the result of the May 12 election on the proposed constitutional amendment needed to enact LB 1063 and change the state's method of taxation would determine whether the actual value schedule or the depreciated value schedule is used this year.

Both schedules are available in the county assessor's office at this time.

For more information, contact the Wayne County Assessor's office at 375-1979.

Right to Life continues abortion fight

In 1991, 253.9 abortions were performed per 1,000 live births in Nebraska and while that's down from 1990 figures, the Nebraska Right to Life's mission continues.

At a Tri-County Right to Life meeting Monday night at St. Mary's Holy Family Hall, Julie Schmit-Albin, executive director of the Nebraska Right to Life, applauded the local chapter for its strength and encouraged members to continue to battle for the life of children and an end to the "exploitation of women."

In Nebraska there are 3,500 active members in the pro life movement, representing 85,000 households, she said.

Schmit-Albin spoke to approximately 40 people from the Wayne area about various pro-life issues.

IN ADDITION TO endorsing candidates seeking legislative posts, Schmit-Albin and Denise Ashby, president of the Nebraska Right to Life organization, said the campaign against abortions must continue.

They added that pro life people must continue to seek legislation opposing abortion and they must do what they can to secure "the rights of human beings who were being denied their civil rights through abortion."

Schmit-Albin, who addressed the audience for much of the evening, called the priest in Buffalo, who said he was carrying an aborted fetus in his hand during a Operation Rescue rally, "interesting."

"If you have a small nucleus that can activate people when needed, you can keep your chapter going," Ashby, the mother of eight children, said.

JULIE SCHMIT-ALBIN, executive director of the Nebraska Right to Life organization, addresses people at St. Mary's Holy Family Hall Monday night.

WITH THE 1992 election, however, the pro life movement faces a pivotal time. The Nebraska Right to Life chapter stands to lose eight senators, supporters of pro life issues, due to retirement or redistricting.

In a handout, the Nebraska Right to Life chapter is supporting District 17 Sen. Gerald Conway in his bid for re-election and they are supporting District 19 candidates Shirley Ann Kraemer of Laurel and Gus Pick of Hartington. Their choices are based on surveys of the candidates. They said at this point they have not endorsed Rep.

Doug Bereuter, although they have in the past.

Schmit-Albin said during her presentation that the Webster decision handed down by the U.S. Supreme Court in 1989 was a landmark case, turning the tide in favor of the pro life movement. She said she's keeping a watchful eye on the "most recent case, which challenges a Pennsylvania law limiting abortions.

"You have to continue that education," she said. "You're making an impact by being here and sharing education" about abortion.

An 80-year-old Easter tradition

THIS EASTER BUNNY has delighted five generations, beginning with the late August and Dora Filscher of Wakefield, who won the bunny and cart over 80 years ago at the John T. Marriot General Store in Wakefield by guessing the number of jelly beans in a jar. Pictured with the bunny is 87-year-old Alta Pearson of Wakefield, daughter of August and Dora. Through the years, the bunny has been enjoyed by Alta's children, seven grandchildren and nine great grandchildren. The molded bunny, dressed in a bright blue jacket and red bow tie, has made its home in recent years with Mrs. Pearson's daughter, Vonis Behrends of Minnesota, and was brought back this year for a family gathering in the home of another daughter and family, Anita Nicholson of Wakefield.

Bridal Showers

Vickie Genoff, Harley Greve

WAKEFIELD - Vickie Genoff and Harley Greve, who plan to be married June 13 at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne, were honored last Saturday evening with a supper/shower in the Art and Mae Greve home, Wakefield. Hosting the event were the bridegroom's aunts and uncles.

Special guests were grandmothers and the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louie Genoff of Newcastle, Wyo.

Following the meal, they were joined by the bridegroom's cousins for a grocery shower and social evening.

Holly Nichols

WAYNE - Bride-elect Holly Nichols was presented a miscellaneous shower on April 26 at Grace Lutheran Church, with 30 guests present from Wayne, Carroll, Pierce and Lincoln.

Hostesses were Jeanette Swanson, Connie Meyer, Connie Thompson, Mary Nichols, Renee Nichols and Heather Nichols. Lona Nichols, Megan Meyer and Sandra Lutt received game prizes and forwarded them to the honoree. The bride's mother poured and the bridegroom's mother served tea for the salad luncheon.

Holly Nichols and Trevor Hurlbert will be married May 23 at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne.

Immanuel Ladies Aid meets

Group singing of "I Know That My Redeemer Lives" opened the April 22 Ladies Aid meeting at Immanuel Lutheran Church, rural Wakefield.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Arnold Roeber and Mrs. Gilbert Rauss, and guests were Mrs. Don Sherbahn and Betty Lessmann. The Rev. Richard Carner presented the devotion and lesson, and Hazel Hank presided at the business meeting.

It was announced that the LWML district meeting will be held in Norfolk on June 19-20. Delegates are Mrs. Gilbert Rauss and Mrs. Harlan Ruwe, and alternates are Mrs. Marvin Rewinkel and Hazel Hank.

Members of the congregation who would like to volunteer to plant flowers in the church urn are asked to contact Hazel Hank.

vance of Immanuel Lutheran Ladies Aid will take place on Sunday, May 3 and will include a cooperative noon dinner followed by a program and coffee.

Committees for May include Mrs. Elmer Schrieber and Mrs. Marvin Nelson, serving; Hazel Hank and Mrs. Lloyd Roeber, visiting; and Mrs. Byron Roeber, Mrs. Marlin Schuttler, Mrs. Kurt Rewinkel and Mrs. Marvin Rewinkel, cleaning and communion ware.

The group recognized the birthdays of Mrs. Ernest Echtenkamp and Mrs. Marvin Nelson and the anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Schrieber.

THE MEETING closed with the Lord's Prayer and table prayer. The next meeting will be May 21.

It was decided that the June meeting will be June 18 at 7:30 p.m.

Free nutrition workshop being offered

Family Service Child Care Food Program is offering a free nutrition workshop on Tuesday, May 5 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the home economics room at Wayne-Carroll High School.

The workshop, entitled "Oodles of Noodles," will focus on main dishes using pasta.

Participants will get ideas on how to use a variety of pastas for main dishes, quick and easy pasta recipes, identifying the different varieties of pasta, basic methods of cooking, storing and freezing pasta, and pasta activities for children.

THE INSERVICE workshop is geared for day care providers, Head Start staff, day care centers, preschools, and interested parents, and has been approved by the Nebraska Department of Social Services for 1.5 hours of inservice credit.

Attendance at the workshop will also meet the Family Service Child Care Food Program nutrition inservice requirement.

Pre-registration is appreciated. Interested persons are asked to call Vicki Meyer at (402) 375-3631 to register or for more information.

Second annual Heart and Sole Classic slated

Observing May Fellowship Day

WAYNE - Church Women United of Wayne will sponsor the annual May Fellowship Day observance on Friday, May 1, beginning with a 9:30 a.m. breakfast in the basement of Redeemer Lutheran Church. All area men and women are invited to attend.

May Fellowship Day is designed to bring persons of faith from differing religious traditions together to experience a sense of bonding and community within an ecumenical environment. The 1992 theme, "Call for a Compassionate Community," recognizes the essence of suffering within each member of the human family.

Lutheran Brotherhood officers meet

WAYNE - Officers of Wayne County Lutheran Brotherhood Branch 8212 met April 28 at Redeemer Lutheran Church with President Dave Olson presiding.

The 1992 project ideas were discussed and branch event dates scheduled. Branch members will participate in an "Adopt a Highway" cleanup project south of Wayne on Sunday, May 3 at 2 p.m.

Officers present for the meeting were Dave Olson, Wayne, president; the Rev. Frank Rothfuss, Wayne, chaplain; Lynette Lentz, Wayne, additional officer; Darrel Rahn, Wayne, treasurer; Melia Hefti, Wayne, secretary; Lanora Sorensen, Wayne, publicity officer; Merlin (Lefty) Olson, Wakefield, education officer; Merrie Eriksen, Hubbard, service officer; and Loren Stutheit, Wayne, and Ashley Nedeau-Owen, Sioux City, fraternal consultants.

The next meeting will be a Lutheran Brotherhood branch event for fraternal communicators and pastors, along with all branch members, on May 15 at 7:15 p.m. at the Wayne Vet's Club.

Melvin Korn hospitalized

WAYNE - Melvin Korn of Wayne is a patient at the Madonna Rehabilitation Hospital in Lincoln. Korn suffered a stroke a week ago and is undergoing rehabilitation. A spokesman for the family said his progress is promising.

Cards and letters will reach him if addressed to Melvin Korn, Madonna Rehabilitation Hospital, 5401 South St., Lincoln, Neb., 68506-2134.

Granddaughter awarded scholarship

ALLEN - Michelle Ann Meyer-Force, daughter of Dr. R. Ken and Roni Ann Meyer-Force of Narragansett, R.I., has been selected from among several hundred students to receive the Rhode Island High School Student Scholastic Scholarship which has a monetary value of $1,000 a year for four years while attending the University of Rhode Island.

Michelle Ann is the granddaughter of John D. and Ann Meyer of rural Allen. She won the scholarship because of her grade point average, SAT scores, and by writing essays, creative writing selections, and personal interviews at the university.

PARTICIPANTS IN THE Earth Day tour sponsored by the Wayne County Home Extension Council got a close-up view from the top of the Douglas County landfill. The facility receives 2,000 to 3,000 tons of solid waste each day. Bus driver Don Oberle also asked the landfill operator to weigh his tour group and promised not to reveal the average weight of each participant.

Home extension council sponsors Earth Day tour

Forty-three women and two men journeyed to Omaha on April 22 for an Earth Day tour sponsored by the Wayne County Home Extension Council.

The group's first stop was the Douglas County landfill near Bennington, a 260 acre site which receives 2,000 to 3,000 tons of garbage each day. The landfill manager explained how the garbage was handled.

The next tour stop was the Heartland of America Park in downtown Omaha for a brief Master Composters demonstration and exhibit.

Tour participants also visited the Western Heritage Museum for a guided tour of the Old Union Pacific Station/Roundhouse which depicted Nebraska (especially Omaha) history from 1890 to 1954.

Lunch was served at the Fire House Dinner Theatre, located in the Old Market, and included a presentation of the play "Barefoot in the Park."

The tour group shopped Crossroads Mall and stopped for dinner in Scribner before returning home.

SERVING ON the tour committee were Doris Marotz, Arlene Flier, Hildegarde Fenske and Extension Agent Lynda Cruickshank.

Members of the tour group were treated to games and a song fest while riding the bus. The driver was Don Oberle, brother of Dwight Oberle of Winside.

In Dixon County

Poster winners announced

Dixon County Home Extension Clubs held their annual third grade poster contest at the county schools in March.

The Dixon County Home Extension Council selected and announced the county winners on April 15.

First place went to Joel McAfee of Allen, son of Kaye and Stan McAfee. Second place winner was Hannah Hoising of Ponca, daughter of Paul and Mary Hoising, and third place went to Gregg Kvols of Laurel, son of Linda and Roger Kvols.

Receiving honorable mention was Kelli Huetig of Concord, daughter of Maggie and Scott Huetig.

THIS YEAR'S theme was "The Environment: It's Ours to Protect — Cleaning Up Roadsides." A small cash prize was given to the top four students.

The posters will be on display at the April 30 Spring Event at the Northeast Research and Extension Center, Concord, and in the ag exhibit hall during the Dixon County Fair.

Judy Martindale of Concord and Denise Peterson of Ponca served on the poster committee.

Middle School holds science fair

The Wayne Middle School has released results of its school science fair held Tuesday night with places being given to students in fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth graders.

Taking first place for the fifth graders was Brian Hochstein and Cody Niemann for their project on how much vitamin C there is in certain fruits. Earning second place was Nick Muir, whose project featured how plants grow under different colored cones. Receiving third place in the contest was the entry from Matt Munsell and Matt Woehler, featuring which insulation is the best.

Leading the pack of sixth graders was a project on how to transplant flowers, conducted by Sara Kinney. Taking second place honors was battery durability by Andrew Morrison and Matt Meyer took third place for his project on exercise and eating healthy.

Jolene Jager received first place in the seventh grade category for her project on how much sugar there is in gum. Ann Swerczek took second place with her study on bacteria for indoor and outdoor cats. Piyali Dalal took third place for her project on a self contained system.

Erica Stoltenberg led the eighth graders category with her project on how plants react to different colored lights. She was the only student to place of the eighth graders participating.

Other fifth graders participating in the science fair, and their categories are as follows: Audrey Kai and Jenny Edwards, which white bread lasts the longest; Casey Junck, do plants grow better with human hair added to the soil; Josh Mrsny and Jon Webb, comparison of the flavors of gum; David Linder, which popcorn pops the best and the fastest; Stephanie Pickinpaugh, comparison of different heart rates; Brooke Parker, discovering the effects of different kinds of water on plants; Becky Fletcher, which paper towels are the best; Ryan Dahl, chromatography; Jake Sorensen, can you make your own electricity with a small generator; Gretchen Wilke, does hair help insulate; Josh Milligan, can light be produced without the use of a socket; Sarah Dorcey and Jessica Raveling, why does the moon look the same size as the sun during an eclipse; Melissa Fluent, what types of rocks erode faster than others from acid rain; Matt Benson, which type of mixture cleans pennies the best; and Sarah Buryanek, can running water produce electricity.

Additional participants in the sixth grade level of the science fair include: Gayle Olson, can plants grow in crowded conditions; Lisa Walton, different sugar amounts in cookies; Chris Dyer, nuclear weapon; David Boehle, recycle; Jason Mader, experimenting with plants; Eric Hefti, how do airplanes fly; Cherie Brandt, paper towel absorbency; and Carla Kemp, growing tulips in different water solutions.

Seventh graders who took part but did not place include: Rachel Walton, how birds react to music; Matt Youngmeier, aerodynamics of flying; Leanne Higbee, how mice respond in a maze; Amanda Loewe, the effect of music on hamsters; Heather Buryanek, how plants grow in different colored lights; Micky Rutenbeck, are rabbits and guinea pigs color blind; and Nicolle McLagen, how balloons are affected by air pressure.

Assisting with the organization of the science fair are: Monte Tilgner, science fair coordinator and 7&8 science; Jill Klaver, 6th grade science; Evelyn Hamley, 5th grade science; and Ellen Imdieke, 5th grade science.

Wayne Chamber saluting Top Moms

The Wayne Area Top Moms are about to be named in a contest sponsored by the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce.

Like Top Gun pilots, the Top Moms, as nominated by their children, will be pinned with medals and hosted at a special Chamber coffee on May 9.

Elementary and Middle School students in the Wayne area were invited to nominate their moms for the honors. Five nominations will be judged "Top Moms" by a group of former school teachers who are pouring over the nominations.

The winning entries and stories about the winning moms will be featured in a special section of the Wayne Herald on May 7. Their identity is supposed to be a closely kept secret until then.

The Mother's Day tribute, the brainchild of Marie Mohr, a member of the Chamber Retail committee, is a part of the Chamber's May promotion effort. The student nomination forms will be posted in businesses throughout Wayne beginning this week.

MR. METTEER AND MR. TILGNER stand with Jolene Jager, Ann Swerczek, Piyali Dalal and Erica Stoltenberg, winners in the seventh and eighth grade categories.

MR. METTEER, MRS. IMDIEKE AND Mrs. Hamley stand with Nick Muir, Matt Woehler, Matt Munsell, Brian Hochstein and Cody Niemann, winners in the fifth grade category.

MR. METTEER AND MRS. Klaver stand with Sara Kinney, Andrew Morrison and Matt Meyer, winners in the sixth grade category.

Ducks line up for race

The ducks are in a row and ready to race in Wayne.

...Rubber ducks that is. The Great Rubber Duck Race is set to start where Logan Creek crosses South Main at 5:30 Thursday. The person who rents the winning duck will receive $150 in Chamber Bucks. Second and third win $100 and $50 respectively.

There's still a lot of ducks available for rent, according to Curt Wilwerding, chamber manager. Proceeds from the rental of the ducks will go to benefit chamber promotion efforts for Wayne.

Ducks may be rented at the Chamber office or any of the following Wayne businesses: First National Bank, The Morning Shopper, State National Bank, Captain Video, Surber's Clothing, R-Way, The Diamond Center, Rain Tree, Sav-Mor Pharmacy, Farmers and Merchants Bank, M&H Apco, Four-In-Hand, Pac 'N' Save, Swan's, The Wayne Herald, Kid's Closet or Dairy Queen. It only takes $5 to rent a duck.

Many Wayne businesses are offering in-store specials and discounts before, during and after the race.

The finish line for the duck race will be in Boy Scout Park. According to time trials conducted earlier, the race should take about 30 minutes.

Program features BRAN ride

Have you ever thought about going on a bike ride—a very long bike ride, one that would take you 500 miles from one end of the state to the other in just seven days?

On this month's broadcast of Nebraska ETV's NEBRASKALAND series, airing Thursday, May 7, at 8:30 p.m. and again Saturday, May 9, at 8:30 a.m., on the Nebraska ETV Network, the entire show will be devoted to an event that some 500 cyclists from around the state and country regard as great fun.

For the past 11 years, the Bike Ride Across Nebraska (BRAN) has brought people from all walks of life together for a memorable trip back to nature. This program follows last year's participants as they cycle from Alliance eastward to Omaha, battling the elements of heat, rain and wind, as well as the body's aches and pains from such an undertaking.

This year's trek across Nebraska's highways and byways—the 12th annual BRAN—is scheduled for June 7-13, beginning at Benkelman and ending in Omaha, a trip of approximately 450 miles.

More News on Marine (Fish) Oil Capsules

Many Americans have high blood fat levels (such as triglycerides or cholesterol) and have been told by their physicians to limit dietary fat intake. Medicines may be prescribed to decrease fat absorption or reduce blood fat levels in some other manner. Some physicians prescribe fish or marine oil capsules for patients with high blood fat levels. These products are available without prescription and are used by many consumers without medical advice. A study reported in Archives of Internal Medicine suggests that marine oil preparations may have varying effects. Those containing the ester and triglyceride forms of oil effectively lowered triglyceride blood fat levels. However, reductions in low-density cholesterol levels did not routinely occur in all patients.

TV's big flop

A new study shows after one year of watching commercial television in classrooms to try to learn more about current events students know little more about what goes on in the world around them than they did before.

In a study of students who are forced to watch Channel One every day there is little indication that the effort is achieving its stated goal.

Oh, to be sure, students register high in retention of commercial messages from the broadcasts. They know about pop, candy, sneakers and bubble gum. Some of the other parts of the normal Channel One program also score well in student learning tests. Teen fashion, rock music and TV stars are frequent subjects for Channel One segments.

But, in knowledge about current events our TV students didn't score much better than kids who weren't tuned in. Schools across the country, including the High School and Middle School in Wayne, signed on with Whittle Communication's Channel One programming when the company agreed to provide thousands of dollars in video and receiving equipment to the schools. As part of the agreement, students must watch 12 minutes of Channel One each day. The programs include news, teen features and two minutes of commercials.

What we want to see is a further study that will track test scores on reading, math and language skills between students who have to watch television drivel each day in the name of learning and students who have a living, breathing, professional teacher imparting information to them throughout the day.

We think educators will come to discover, as one reading specialist has claimed, that "we have sold our educational souls for a few television sets."

One alternative

It is likely that H. Ross Perot will be on the ballot as a third party presidential candidate in the November election in Nebraska and the rest of the states.

The Texas billionaire has a history of charging off on his white horse (or jet) to fight issues he believes are important. He is credited with helping to change the inhumane treatment of POWs in North Vietnam when he chartered a plane and tried to take a load of food and medical supplies to North Vietnam during the war.

When his employees were unjustly held as prisoners in Iran during the early days of the Islamic revolution, Perot led a band of mercenaries who were successful in getting his people out.

He has an astute sense of business that allowed him to build one of the world's richest corporate empires on a $1,000 initial investment. He has repeatedly proven he is a man of his word.

These attributes make the decidedly non-politician Perot an interesting alternative to the mediocrity that seems to be the prime ingredient of candidates who are the current leaders in their political parties.

Perot is not a political hack the likes of which have plunged the nation into the depths of debt we'll never live to see paid.

His candidacy, win or lose, could have a very positive effect on the political process and the candidates it produces.

Honoring volunteers

National Volunteer Week is upon us. Haven House Family Services Center would like to take this time to express our sincere appreciation for the many hours volunteers have given to the agency this year.

The volunteers who work for Haven House, which is a non-profit crisis intervention agency providing services to victims of domestic violence and sexual assault, give their time by taking crisis line shifts and acting as client advocates. They provide crisis intervention counseling, office assistance and emergency transportation. They also assist with public speaking and educational presentations. At times, this work can be emotionally draining. Our volunteers occasionally miss meals with family and friends, a school function, a class or a good night's sleep. They rarely have the opportunity to see the end result of their hard work.

Volunteers for Haven House know that domestic violence is a serious, widespread problem that affects our society as a whole. Without support from these very dedicated people, our work toward ending violence in the community of Wayne, as well as our other catchment areas (Dixon, Cedar, Thurston and Dakota Counties) would be very difficult.

Due to the nature of the work, Haven House will not publish names of volunteers. We do want them to know that their hard work never goes unnoticed. They have touched the lives of many women and children by giving their time to this agency, and they have made a difference. For this, we are extremely grateful. Thank you.

Bill immoral

The two houses of Congress have recently approved similar legislation lifting the ban on fetal tissue research. President Bush has promised a veto but the votes so far have exceeded the two-thirds needed to override it.

In a recent World magazine article, former abortionist Dr. Bernard Nathanson examined some of the lies and distortions that fetal tissue research proponents are using to push this grisly parts-robbing scheme onto our nation. He also noted that they avoid mentioning just how they get their "tissue."

The following is a quotation from Dr. Nathanson.

"Swedish researchers are not as bashful in describing the methodology involved in obtaining fetal neurons transplant cells for Parkinson's disease. Pregnant women at 13-18 weeks are placed on an operating table, the cervix dilated, the bag of waters broken, the fetal head is guided onto position just above the open cervix, the fetal skull is then drilled open and a suction device is placed into the brain. The brain substance is then suctioned out and placed immediately on ice to preserve its viability, then the fetus is destroyed in the abortion process. Similar procedures are used to harvest fetal pancreas, fetal liquid and fetal thymus."

The canard is often repeated that you can't legislate morality. While it's true that you can't legislate a moral quality in a man's heart, we do have to choose, as we always have, between moral laws and immoral laws. I suggest you tell your senator, you congressman and the President just what you think about this.

Taking issue

I take issue with the accusations of Janet M. Schmitz in her letter to the Herald entitled "Honorable" thieves. The title itself seemed to let it be known that our town was perhaps made up of crooks and outlaws, starting or course with our city council. I also attended the council meeting expecting to learn something about the project since I am also affected. I think our city administrator did a pretty thorough job of explaining the planned project and he also appeared to handle the objections tactfully.

The writer of course made a big issue about how tough things had been for her. I have no way of knowing her whole situation but I can make some points of my own. Our immediate family has experienced three out of five cancers, plus car accidents plus heart attacks and some other things I won't mention. I bring this up in reply because I want to make one point that should be obvious to Janet Schmitz as well as anyone else. LIFE IS NOT FAIR. It never has been and never will be. She referred to these hard economic times. Was her income affected by the recession? One observation I have made in life is that regardless of how bad things might seem for me there are others much worse off.

I know a lot of the people in the area affected. There are sidewalks in need of repair and there are people to whom this will be a hardship. Unfortunately, those

Nebraska: From snow to spring

Basking in the marvel of weather

I've always had a newsman's morbid curiosity about the weather.

The power and quirks of nature displayed in storms, wind and water is the stuff of which countless columns of newspaper copy is made.

Bad weather creates challenges we must overcome. It takes us out of our routines. It creates excitement. Granted, it threatens life and property and that's not something to be excited about.

But, you don't need to go bungee jumping or sky diving to get an adrenaline high. For sheer dare devil fun, just experience a Nebraska spring.

It's a marvel. A week after risking death to go outside, we're walking around in shorts on the sunny golf course.

Duck weather

The weather promises to be sparkling for the Great Wayne Duck Race on Thursday. If you haven't rented your rubber duck yet, you'd better hurry.

Over $200 in prize money is available to the winning duck owners.

The race itself promises to be a fun spectator sport as well. Official "Duck Drivers" will keep the racing rubber ducks from getting hung up on the banks of Logan Creek. Drivers include Lyle George, Joe Salitros, Duane Schroeder and Chamber President Jim Markham.

The race will start at 5:30. Rent your duck and be there for the fun.

Voting for the flag

I want to thank everyone who helped us pick the new flag (or nameplate) for the Wayne Herald.

We got back more ballots than we expected and the results were very close.

Our new look will be unveiled next week and we are kind of excited about it.

The winning "contestant" in the nameplate election was not one everyone on the staff would have picked, but we are happy with the reader's choice. It will reflect well on the community and the newspaper's image. Isn't that the way of all elections.

Besides changing the look of your paper, we are also planning some content changes with your guidance and suggestions.

We beg your indulgence while we work through the transition. We think the end result will be a paper everyone in the community can take pride in.

Letters Welcome

Letters from readers are welcome. They should be timely, brief and must contain no libelous statements. We reserve the right to edit or reject any letter.

The mystic of the old radio

I love old radios. There's a certain aura about them. I can't describe what it is, it's just there.

Take, for instance, my General Electric Solid State two way power AM/FM mono radio my Dad used to use on the truck, or cleaning the yard or painting the house or whatever else he used it for. I think it was made before radio stations had been invented.

It's been tuned in to radio stations which are no longer on the air, like KOLT. I used to listen to KOLT when I mowed the lawn in the fall before KFAB was the only station which carried Nebraska football.

That was back in the good old days when KTCH's Mark Ahmann was the voice of the Huskers (in my opinion, he was the best announcer Nebraska football ever had). It was the only way I could pick up Nebraska football games. It was a time when Jarvis Redwine and Junior Miller played for Nebraska. It was a time when Nebraska couldn't beat Oklahoma but they would win their bowl games.

Every time I go to an auction, I go nuts over old, beat up radios; even if they don't work. I saw one at an auction last weekend I would have given the shoes on my feet to have but I had yard work to do while I listened to my beat up General Electric Solid State two way power AM/FM mono radio. The radio at the auction, I'm almost certain, used to carry President Franklin Roosevelt's fireside chats.

These radios, like the one I have, which predates history, aren't like the ones made today. Today you have one-unit, digital tuners with AM/FM cassette stereo and disc players with Dolby sound, Super Bass systems and remote controls, which will blow your neighbor's house down the street the same way a tornado does. If used correctly, those systems are nice. If used incorrectly, they're about as annoying as that itch you get in the middle of your back. You know, the one you can't reach without dislocating your shoulder?

The little old beat up General Electric Solid State two way power AM/FM mono power radios can't do that. They're so weak that even at their peak volume they have trouble-making-an-ant-move-but there's something about them. I think they're what radios were intended to be.

Sure, it's nice to have your Walkman AM/FM cassette or disc player with remote headset that has Dolby sound and makes you feel like you're in the room with the musicians, but the General Electric Solid State two way power AM/FM mono power radio makes you imagine what things sound like and you have to fill in the rest. There's a certain creativity there that can't be achieved with super-sound Walkmans or blow your neighbors house down the street stereos.

It was interesting last week when I was riding with the police working on an article for Monday's newspaper. The patrolman pulled over this nearly-extinct Pinto (I think) and in it were somewhere between four and forty kids, all wearing bandanas who looked like they had just come out of a scene from the movie "Wayne's World." They had speakers in the back of that car which were, at least, as big as the engine and I'd be willing to bet they were listening to the soundtrack from the above mentioned movie banging their heads on the dashboard and singing the same way Queen sang "Bohemian Rhapsody" (yes, that's a song).

But they're missing out on the finer things in radio wear. They don't have that beat up General Electric ... you know the rest.

government) I have to pay any more than me but I still have confidence in my city council. At this point my government hasn't yet mortgaged my great, great grandchildren.

Perhaps Mark Crist should talk to some of the rest of the people affected in the sidewalk improvement zone instead of siding with one person in particular and quick to criticize the council.

Mark my word, I will not always agree with the city council but I think some of the remarks made by Janet Schmitz and Mark Crist were a little out of line.

Recycling needed

I was very disappointed and upset to read that Northeast Recycling was closing in the April 27 edition. In an age when many communities are beginning to require recycling, we are once again forced to drive miles to haul our recyclables.

Recycling is necessary to control the use of our resources and protect the condition of our environment. Until each one of us, from the consumer to the manufacturer, realizes the necessity of recycling we will continue to be a wasteful society. Recycling should be viewed as a privilege and service, not a way to make money. I sincerely hope that some individuals, businesses, or our own cities or counties, step forward and see that these doors open again soon.

Rotten writing

EDITOR'S NOTE: The article referred to was sent to the Wayne Herald from the University of Nebraska Department of Public Relations.

Although the Wayne Herald has won several awards, it was apparent the reporter who wrote the article on Marjorie Lundstrom (in the April 9 edition) will never win a Pulitzer Prize.

My question is this, we the journalism award of excellence presented to Ms. Lundstrom on April 10, April 17 or April 19. I don't know, due to the unclear manner in which the article was written.

It's too bad such a talented writer like Marjorie had to read such a poorly written article about herself in her hometown paper. Any good journalist knows accuracy is important.

We agree:

Shopping in Wayne just makes cents

Like other members in our community, Wayne High School students not only know the value of a dollar but the importance of keeping the money in the town.

That's why Wayne High senior Jennifer Hamer and junior Laura Bauermeister spend their money in Wayne. On occasion when they're studying with their friends, like Megan Cornish and Shawn Powell, they'll discuss the importance of shopping in Wayne.

"The more people shop here, the more likely businesses in our community will prosper," Laura says. "If the economy grows and people shop here, we'll have more to choose from."

Jennifer agrees. She says she likes to see people shop in Wayne because it keeps the economy healthy and it keeps the community growing.

"Without people shopping in Wayne, businesses close," she says.

Both Jennifer and Laura say they like the friendly welcome they receive when going into a Wayne business. They both say it's nice to know the people you're doing business with.

That's why shopping in Wayne just makes cents.

Jenny Jacobsen wins three golds

Winside girls dominate own invitational

The Annual Winside Invitational was held on Wayne High's track Tuesday afternoon due to the resurfacing of Wayne State's track.

Fourteen teams were represented in the meet and for the Winside girls it was the same story as every other meet they've taken part in this spring—team champs! The Wildcats scored 90 points to easily out-distance runner-up Wakefield with 58. Homer placed third with 46 and Beemer scored 39 for fourth while Osmond rounded out the top five teams with 38.

Bancroft finished sixth with 34 and Laurel placed seventh with 31 while Newcastle scored 30.5 for eighth. Allen finished ninth with 27 and Coleridge placed 10th with 21.5. Hartington scored 21 for 11th and Lyons-Decatur tallied 17 for 12th while Wynot scored 13 for 13th. Walthill failed to score in the girls division.

Four Wayne Herald area teams competed including the champs who were led by Jenny Jacobsen with three, first place finishes in the 100, 200 and 400 meter dashes. The senior sprinter was timed in 13.0, 27.0 and 60.4 respectively.

Wendy Rabe earned two, second place finishes in the shot put and the discus with throws of 34-4.5 and 104-7 while Melinda Mohr finished second in the 1600 in 5:51.82.

Mohr added a third place in the 800 in 2:30.17 while Patty Oberle placed third in the 3200 in 13:10.0. The 3200 meter relay team placed third in 10:53.8 with Oberle, Catherine Bussey, Yolanda Sievers and Mohr while the 1600 meter relay team also placed third in 4:29.48 with Jacobsen, Kari Pichler, Bussey and Mohr.

Amy Thompson placed fourth in the 100 in 13.6 while Oberle placed fourth in the 1600 in 6:11.06. Pichler placed fifth in the 100 hurdles in 17.6 and Thompson placed sixth in the 200 in 30.1. The sprint relay team of Pichler, Thompson, Holly Holdorf and Bussey placed sixth in 55.8.

The Wakefield girls tallied 58 points and were led by Richelle Wockman who placed first in the 1600, 3200 and as part of the winning 3200 meter relay team.

Wockman was timed in 5:33.48, 11:55.1 and teamed up with Maria Eaton, Stacey Preston and Kari Baker for a 10:38.0 clocking in the 3200 meter relay.

Wockman added a runner-up finish in the 800 meter run in 2:27.78 while Eaton placed second in the 3200 in 12:48.7. Eaton placed third in the 1600 in 5:59.23 while Preston placed fourth in the 3200 in 13:34.8 and fifth in the 1600 in 6:18.68.

Hartung wins long jump

The Laurel girls scored 31 points and were led by Mandi Hartung in the long jump with a winning leap of 15-7.5. Tina Granquist added a third place finish in the 300 hurdles with a 51.7 clocking while Kitty Schutte high jumped 4-10 for third place.

Granquist added a fifth place effort of 13.6 in the 100 meter dash and a sixth place time of 66.8 in the 400 meter dash while Hartung placed fifth in the 200 in 28.9. Laurel's sprint relay team placed fifth in 55.8 and the 3200 meter relay team placed fifth in 11:20.7.

Plueger leads Allen girls

The Allen girls were led by Sonya Plueger who placed third in both the shot put and the discus with throws of 33-9 and 102-1 while Denise Boyle placed third in the 100 hurdles in 16.7.

Boyle added a fourth place finish in the 300 hurdles in 52.2 and Christy Philbrick placed fourth in the 100 hurdles in 17.6. Stacey Jones rounded out the Allen scoring with a sixth place time of 14:06.9 in the 3200.

Wayne golfers down Norfolk in dual play

The Wayne golf team hosted Norfolk in dual action Tuesday afternoon at the Wayne Country Club. The Blue Devil varsity squad edged the Panthers, 165-169.

Kelly Hammer was the medalist on the day with a 39 while Nate Salmon fired a 40. Kyle Dahl carded a 42 and Jason Claussen shot a 44. Jason Johs also played on the varsity and finished with a 45.

In the reserve match it was Norfolk coming out on top of a 168-182 decision. Medalist was Norfolk's Casey Herbolshemer with a 39. Wayne's top scorer was Todd Koeber with a 43 while Ryan Pick and Jason Carr each carded 46's. Andy Luff finished with a 47 and Bobby Barnes shot a 49.

The Wayne varsity improved to 6-1 on the season while the reserves fell to 7-2.

ALLEN HURDLER CURTIS OSWALD hurdles his way to a sub-16 second clocking in the 110-meter high hurdles. Oswald also added a second in the 300 hurdles.

Softball team splits with Wesleyan

The Wayne State women's softball team split a double-header with Nebraska Wesleyan Monday afternoon at the College Field in Wayne.

The Wildcats won the opener, 9-0 behind some great defense while dropping the nightcap, 7-6 as Wesleyan scored two runs in the top of the seventh inning for the winning run.

Jenny Nieland got the pitching victory in the opener and went the distance in the process. The right-hander scattered five hits while walking one and striking out one.

Wayne State finished with nine runs on 13 hits and one error. The 'Cats scored four times in the first inning and added three more in the third while scoring their final two runs in the sixth inning.

Michele Reinhardt was the offensive catalyst for WSC with a 3-4 outing from the plate that included two doubles and a single with 2 RBI. Jenny Reuland went 3-3 with three singles and 2 RBI while Jenna Flesner and Marti Hunt each had a pair of singles.

Jeni Umbach belted a 2-run single while Carla Gilbertson and Jill Gengler each recorded one base hit.

In the second game WSC built a 3-0 lead until Wesleyan scored one in the top of the third. The 'Cats led 4-1 until the bottom of the fourth when the visitors from Lincoln scored four times to take a 5-4 lead.

WSC bounced back in the bottom of the fifth to score twice and regain the lead at 6-5 until the seventh inning. Alex Ross took the pitching loss after going six and one third innings and giving up seven runs on nine hits and three walks while striking out four.

Michelle Harris relieved Ross and pitched the final two outs of the seventh inning. Wesleyan finished with seven runs on nine hits and three errors while WSC had six runs on 10 hits and three errors.

Dee Henningsen led WSC with three singles and three stolen bases while Jeni Umbach had a triple and a single. Jenna Flesner, Alex Ross, Jenny Reuland, Marti Hunt and Sarah Lee each had one base hit for the 23-20 Wildcats who close out their season on Saturday with a double-header against Kearney at 2 p.m. at the College Field.

THE WAYNE STATE SOFTBALL team hosted Nebraska Wesleyan in double-header action Monday afternoon at the College Field. Above, Marti Hunt tries to beat out the throw to first base while at right, Carla Gilbertson stretches out to catch a line drive. The Wildcats defeated Nebraska Wesleyan, 9-0 in the opening game behind the pitching of Jenny Nieland and a solid defense. The Lincoln based college, however, came back to take the nightcap from the Wildcats, 7-6.

WSC thinclads at Drake Relays

WAYNE-Coach John Johnson's WSC Wildcats added two school records to their collection over the weekend at the Drake Relays. The men's 4x200 and sprint medley squads clocked record-setting marks in the meet.

The 4x200 team comprised of Todd Rolles, Rick Starling, Mark Bliven and Gary Black ran a 1:31.42, but didn't qualify for the finals. The sprint medley team of Marlon Goolsby, Damon Thomas, Todd Rolles and Mark Johnson set a school record of 3:32.13 in the prelims, but were disqualified in the finals.

Also competing at the Drake Relays was the 4x100 team which was clocked at 42.88 with Goolsby, Thomas, Rolles and Scott Fleming. The 3200 meter relay team of Dave Patten, Carson Davis, Steve Dinsmore and Mark Johnson ran to a time of 8:07.1.

WSC spikers ink two recruits

WAYNE-Volleyball standouts Annette Fluckey of Omaha and Becky Hansen of North Platte will continue their academic and athletic careers at Wayne State College.

Fluckey, a 5-7 middle hitter, led Platteview High School in kills and blocks while being named the team's most valuable player last season. She also participated in basketball, softball, and track & field.

"Annette is a strong jumper who has excellent quickness, which will help us in a lot of ways," third-year WSC coach Nancy Clark said. "She will see playing time at both middle and right-side hitter. Annette's a strong freshman to add to our squad."

Hansen, a 6-0 middle hitter, is a transfer from Mid Plains Community College. She was an all-conference and all-state selection at North Platte High School.

"Becky will help strengthen our middle position, Clark said. "She is a quick, aggressive middle hitter.

TARA NICHOLS, JASON PENTICO and Jennifer Chapman were honored during the recent music appreciation banquet at Wayne High School.

Wayne High honors youth for efforts in choir, band this year

During Wayne High Schools annual music appreciation banquet Monday night, three Wayne High School students were honored for their efforts in the band this past year.

Jason Pentico took home three awards and Jennifer Chapman and Tara Nichols each grabbed one.

Pentico received the John Philip Sousa band award for the outstanding senior band member, the Louis Armstrong jazz band award for the outstanding jazz band member and the award for being the outstanding jazz choir member.

Nichols took the Semper Fidelis award for music excellence. The award is sponsored by the United States Marine Corps.

Chapman received the national choir award for the outstanding senior choir member. This award is voted upon by the varsity choir.

Local youth do well at contest

The following Wayne High vocal groups received a superior rating at the District Music Contest held recently.

Groups include: Varsity choir, jazz choir, girls glee, triple trio, girls duet (Kathy Guilliam, Megan McLean), Jason Pentico, Kim Imdieke, Krista Remer, Samantha Thompson, Kerry McCue and Kathy Guilliam.

The following groups and soloists received an excellent rating.

They include: Boy's glee, madrigal, Ryan Harris, Megan McLean, Sara Granberg and Tasha Luther.

WSC prof shows paper

Dr. Gloria Lawrence, assistant professor of psychology at Wayne State College, recently presented a paper at the Nebraska Psychological Association's annual meeting at Nebraska Wesleyan University in Lincoln.

Her paper was entitled "PMS: A Physiological Basis." She also served as a judge for student papers submitted for competition.

Lawrence, who has been on the Wayne State faculty since 1988, earned her bachelor's degree from Kearney State College, and her master's degree and Ph.D. from Kansas State University.

Local man behind drive

Perot gets local support

H. Ross Perot's potential presidential campaign has Wayne area support.

Wayne County chairman of the campaign to get Perot on the ballot, Bob Sheckler, said he joined the effort because he likes what the Texas billionaire stands for.

"He is not your typical politician," said Sheckler. He said Perot has a history of attacking problems and solving them. Sheckler said that expertise is much needed in Washington.

To get Perot on the ballot in Nebraska supporters will need 2,500 signatures of voters registered as independents or from Republicans, Democrats and Libertarians who do not vote in the May presidential primary.

Petitions will be circulated beginning May 17.

Sheckler said he called Perot's "800" number after hearing him on a national radio talk show and registered as the Wayne County Chairman.

Perot, a U.S. Naval Academy graduate, started a data processing company in 1962 with $1,000 borrowed from his wife. Today, the company, EDS, is a multi-billion dollar corporation employing more than 70,000 people.

In 1969 the U.S. government asked Perot to determine what action might be taken to improve the treatment of our prisoners of war were receiving in Southeast Asia. He worked for four years on the project, placing himself at personal risk at times, and eventually received the Defense Department's highest civilian commendation for his efforts.

When two EDS employees were held hostage by the Iranian government in 1979, Perot directed a group of mercenaries who spirited the hostages out of the Middle East. A best selling novel "On the Wings of Eagles" by Ken Follett recounted this episode.

Sheckler said anyone interested in helping with the Perot campaign may contact him at 375-4746.

County office provides input on petition drive

Due to the amount of questions the Wayne County Clerks office has been receiving about H. Ross Perot and petition forms surrounding his possible candidacy for president, the following are answers to some frequently asked questions.

1. If a person votes in the primary election as an Independent, that person can sign the petition to get Perot on the general election presidential ballot.

2. If a person votes in the primary election as either a Republican, Democrat or Libertarian, that person cannot sign the petition for Perot.

3. If an Independent voter wants to vote in the primary on either the Republican, Democrat or Libertarian Congressional ballot that voter can ask for this ballot and still sign the petition. The voter is not voting for a presidential candidate by doing this, therefore, it is possible to sign a petition to put an Independent Presidential candidate on the general ballot.

4. If a person does not vote in the primary election, that person can sign the petition for Perot; regardless of that person's party affiliation (Independent, Republican, Democrat, etc.)

LB 424 does not affect these types of petition drives, however, the circulators need to keep all signatures by county. For example, there cannot be 10 signatures from voters in Wayne County and 10 signatures from Dixon County on a petition sheet. All 20 signatures need to be from either Wayne or Dixon County, respectively.

The following are some phone numbers for people interested in contacting the campaign headquarters for Perot nationally and in Nebraska.

• National Headquarters: 1-800-685-0965.

• Lincoln Contact (John Goff): 483-1767.

• Omaha Contact (Don Van-Scyoc): 556-1165.

• North Platte Contact (Paul Sibert): (303) 534-9857.

WSC student gets honored for work

Joseph Paul Finn, Carroll, has received the American Institute of Chemists Foundation's (ACIF) Student Award for undergraduate chemistry achievement.

Finn, a 1988 graduate of Laurel-Concord High School, is a senior majoring in chemistry/biology at Wayne State College. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Finn.

At Wayne State, Finn is also active in Alpha Lambda Delta, Lambda Delta Lambda, Kappa Mu Epsilon, and Blue Key.

The ACIF Student Award program honors outstanding seniors majoring in chemistry, chemical engineering, or biochemistry.

Awards are given in recognition of potential advancement of the chemical professions on the basis of a student's demonstrated record of leadership, ability, character, and scholastic achievement.

Finn has also received the American Chemical Society's Outstanding Chemistry Senior Award, and the United States Achievement Academy's National Collegiate Natural Sciences Award.

He has also been named to the National Dean's List by placing in the top one-half of one percent of students nationwide, and is listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Council gives nod to bid

Residents along Grainland Road will soon have reason to celebrate. By the end of the summer, a stretch of their road will be paved. It is one of a few roads in Wayne not already paved.

The Wayne City Council accepted a $215,000 bid from Gill Construction Company for the project, to be conducted this summer. It was the only bid received, but it did come in under estimates, City Administrator Joe Salitros said.

The project was estimated by architects to cost approximately $225,000.

SALITROS SAID the city is fortunate that it could get a contractor. He said a number of contractors who do street work are busy this year.

"Construction in the state is unexpectedly high," he said. "Gill happened to get two projects in Wayne and they came in under budget even if they were the only bidders."

Gill Construction is also doing road improvements on Walnut Street, adjacent to Wayne State College's new parking lot, which is to be built this summer.

The money for the Grainland Road project is 75 percent federally funded with 25 percent being borne by local taxpayers. Salitros said Grainland Road is expected to be finished before fall gets here.

This column is written occasionally to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library.

In the words of that oft-quoted poet, Anon...

"Spring has sprung,
The grass has riz.
I wonder where
The flowers iz?"

Even with that nasty reminder of winter that Mother Nature dumped on us recently, we still have hopes that it will soon be time to begin to work in the yard. Our peonies seem to have survived the snow, the lilies-of-the-valley popped up through the drift, and even the lilacs look as if they will bloom. That is the extent of our gardening experience — watching flowers that someone else planted!

But, if you're an enthusiastic gardener, we do have some new books for you.

"Rodale's all-new encyclopedia of organic gardening: the indispensable resource for every gardener" is a real treasure trove of information from argeratums to zinnias and a lot in between. You can find this, at present, on one of the reading tables. It is on reference and can be used only in the library.

"Garden Way's joy of gardening" by Dick Raymond is another good source of hints and suggestions for maintaining your garden. This is found on the new book shelf.

"Tough plants for tough places: how to grow 101 easy-care plants for every part of your yard" by H. Peter Loewer gives you advice about areas in your yard that are difficult to maintain lawn or flowers. This also is found on the new book shelf.

Now, do you need help in maintaining your lawn, garden and utility tractors? We have "Chilton's tractor repair manual: 8 hp through 30 PTO hp-1960 and later models." Typical of Chilton's, this volume has very clear, very specific illustrations to make your repair job easier.

And, while we are talking about repair, we have a new manual on bicycle maintenance; "Sloane's new bicycle maintenance manual" by Eugene A. Sloane. This book is also well illustrated and has easy to follow instructions. Also on the new book shelf.

Spring is a mixed bag in Nebraska. But spring has always been a popular season for weddings. "Tried and true: the bride guide" by Jennifer Rogers describes wedding customs, how to shop for your wedding clothes, wedding etiquette, the honeymoon and more.

Spring also brings out the remodeling bug — that paint-up-fix-up bug that has been in hiding all winter!

Two new books that might give you some help:

"The Complete guide to remodeling your basement" by Gary D. Branson tells you how to create new living space the professional way.

"The smart kitchen" by David Goldbeck has suggestions for a comfortable, safe, energy-efficient kitchen with information about proper placement of cabinets and appliances, along with information about wiring, and other problems you may encounter.

There are other gardening books on our shelves. Just ask at the desk if you can't find what you are looking for. And, happy gardening, tinkering or remodeling!

Chamber seeks booth sponsors

Non-profit organizations interested in sponsoring a booth during the Wayne Country Store days celebration June 11-13 should contact the Wayne Chamber of Commerce at 375-2240.

Chamber organizers are planning the carnival-to-run in conjunction with the Brat Feed, dance and other activities surrounding the special event.

The latest in (um) fashion?

Alternative sites for recycling listed

- MT Can Company, 1704 11th St., Sioux City, tin cans and glass.

- Siouxland Recovery, 1107 Morgan St., Sioux City, newspaper, computer paper, corrugated cardboard.

- Region IV, Wayne and Sioux City, aluminum cans.

- WACO, Inc., 300 S. Martha St., Sioux City, plastic.

Robert G. McLean

Department announces promotion

The Wayne Police Department announced last week that officer Robert G. McLean has been promoted to sergeant.

McLean, 45, has been with the Wayne Police Department since 1976. He was promoted to sergeant effective Monday, April 27.

A 1965 Wayne High School graduate, McLean served one year in Vietnam with an artillery unit from 1967-68. He worked with his father and uncle in Swan-McLean Clothing from 1970-74 and he worked at the City of Wayne Light plant in 1975.

McLean's wife, Rita, is employed at St. Mary's School as a secretary. The couple has two children: Megan, 15, and Mindell, 12.

He is a member of St. Mary's Church, the Police Officers Association of Nebraska and a member of the Experimental Aircraft Association. His hobbies include model airplanes, full-scale airplanes and classic automobiles. He is also a licensed private pilot and is currently constructing a kit-built aircraft in his garage.

In preparation for election

County clerk answers questions

With the primary election May 12, the Wayne County Clerk's office has listed answers to a number of often asked election questions.

Question: How can I vote absentee?

Answer: Three ways. One, you may personally make application for and vote your absentee ballots at the county clerk's office prior to Tuesday, May 12, 1992. Secondly, you may send a written request to the county clerk's office prior to 4 p.m. Friday, May 8 and have your ballots mailed to a specific address. These ballots must be returned no later than Thursday, May 14 at 10 a.m. Thirdly, prior to noon on Tuesday, May 12, an agent may be appointed to pick up and deliver the ballots to you. These ballots must then be returned to the courthouse no later than 8 p.m. on May 12.

Question: How are my absentee ballots kept confidential?

Answer: All absentee ballots are returned in sealed envelopes. The absent and disabled counting board opens the envelopes and places the contents in a ballot box. After all envelopes are opened the combined ballots are counted.

Question: May I take notes into a polling booth?

Answer: Printed matter or notes may be taken into a polling booth extension offices across Nebraska. There is no cost.

Frederick said the publication is designed to present information to Nebraska citizens so they can determine the relative merits of the arguments for and against the amendment. Nebraskans will vote on the proposed amendment May 12.

Free bulletin details tax amendment

A special publication on the 1992 proposed constitutional amendment and statute on personal property taxes in Nebraska has been released by Cooperative Extension at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Copies of the publication by Roy Frederick, UNL public policy specialist, can be obtained at local extension offices across Nebraska. There is no cost.

Frederick said the publication is designed to present information to Nebraska citizens so they can determine the relative merits of the arguments for and against the amendment. Nebraskans will vote on the proposed amendment May 12.

Special Easter egg treat

Chamber hires WSC student as secretary

Nancy Schulz started her new job as executive secretary of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce on Monday.

Schulz, who is from Wakefield, is attending Wayne State College with plans to graduate in August. She is majoring in English with a minor in business administration.

Schulz, whose husband is Merlin, assumes the position after the departure of Colleen Roeber, who left to join her soon-to-be husband in Aurora.

Schulz' husband Merlin farms and works for Tom Keim Construction. The couple has two children: Sean, who just finished his military duty with the Army and plans to attend Wayne State in the fall, and Jennifer, a sophomore at Wayne State.

In addition to her work at the chamber, Schulz belongs to the American Legion Auxiliary in Wakefield, where she holds the office of second vice-president; she is a member of the Wakefield

Nancy Schulz

Community School Board, a president of the Sigma Tau Delta English honorary and a member of the Pi Omega Pi business honorary at Wayne State.

The couple attends Evangelical Covenant Church in Wakefield.

News Briefs

Ceremony honoring local student

WAYNE - Rebecca Sprouls of Wayne will be among a number of Briar Cliff College's nursing students to be honored for her studies in nursing May 2 in a ceremony at Out Lady of Grace Chapel on the Briar Cliff campus.

The Wayne sophomore is currently studying nursing at Briar Cliff College in Sioux City.

Fees for copies of records increases

AREA - The fees charged for certified copies of birth, death, marriage and divorce certificates has increased.

With the passage of LB 1019, the fees for certified copies of vital records in Nebraska have gone up by $2. The cost for a birth certificate is now $8 and the cost of certified copies of death, marriage and divorce certificates is $7.

Local resident is appointed to board

WAYNE - Fred Kirschner of Wayne has been appointed to the Consumer Council of Nebraska, according to Dale Johnson, director of Public Institutions.

The purpose of the council is to advise the director on policy matters of concern to primary consumers of mental health services. Kirschner joins 11 other individuals in Nebraska on the council.

Soybean board announces openings

AREA - Soybean producers are reminded that vacancies on the Nebraska Soybean, Utilization and Marketing Board exist in District 2, which includes Dixon County.

The eight member board, appointed by the governor, are appointed for terms of three years.

Candidacy petitions must carry the signatures of at least 50 resident growers of the district for which the candidate is applying. For more information, contact 471-4894.

Local student wins scholarship to CSC

WAYNE - Erin Schroeder of Wayne has been awarded an Eagle Plus scholarship for being an outstanding high school senior who plans to enroll at Chadron State College in the fall.

The scholarships are given to youths who have excelled both academically and in extracurricular activities in high school. Each scholarship is valued at $600.

Wayne volunteers honored for efforts

The Adult Basic Education (A.B.E.) Program in Northeast Nebraska has served almost 1160 students in the first nine months of this program year, supported almost entirely by volunteers in 53 communities at 106 locations.

In Northeast Nebraska, over 400 people have donated almost 4,625 instructional hours, tutoring students in basic academic skill areas such as reading, writing, and math, usually preparing to take the tests which can lead to a high school diploma.

Volunteers also help students study for drivers license exams, fill out job applications. They also teach foreign born students English and help them prepare them for citizenship.

Outside of the classroom, volunteers have also committed 2,800 other hours in areas such as volunteer recruitment, advisory committees, volunteer training, and office work.

Since the week of April 27 is National Volunteer Recognition Week, Northeast would like to recognize the people who support the basic education of adults. In the Wayne area, the A.B.E. volunteers are Bess Baier, Marilyn Bendenstedt, Gordon Grandberg, Barb Heier, LeRoy Janssen, Fern Kelley, Gloria Leseberg, Arlene Ostendorf, Marie Skokan, Dee Ceeble, Georgia Janssen, and Martha Svoboda.

According to Carolyn Apland, A.B.E. Coordinator at Northeast Community College, anyone with a high school diploma and a concern for the undereducated adult can be a volunteer in the program. To become a volunteer or enroll as a student, contact Apland at 402-644-0510.

INSTANT REPLAY

People who have changed for the better are seldom readily accepted as transformed. Not at first.

Those who knew you before, must be convinced. Even you can't blame them for being skeptical.

But, you know. And one other. God knew immediately. No convincing necessary.

Russell Beckman, 68, of Wayne died Friday, April 24, 1992 at his home. Services were held Monday, April 27 at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Wayne. The Rev. Frank Rothfuss and the Rev. Mike Girlinghouse officiated. James Russell Beckman, the son of Fred and Laurine Melntosh-Beckman, was born July 10, 1923 in Wayne County. He lived his entire life in Wayne County. He was baptized in infancy and confirmed at Redeemer Lutheran Church. He married Helen Gathje on Dec. 2, 1940 at Wayne. The couple farmed northwest of Wayne until 1962 when they moved into Wayne. He worked in construction for several years and was later employed by Wayne City School. He was a member of Redeemer Lutheran Church and was active in Redeemer Lutheran Brotherhood for many years.

Survivors include his wife, Helen Beckman of Wayne; two sons, Dennis Beckman of Wayne and David Beckman of Wakefield; four daughters, Mrs. Dennis (Ellen) Carlson, Mrs. Dan (Sharon) Gustafson and Mrs. Tom (LaVon) Anderson, all of Wakefield, and Mrs. Melvern (Karen) Pagels of Denver, Colo.; 14 grandchildren; two great grandchildren; his mother, Mrs. Laurine Beckman of Wayne; and three sisters, Mrs. Clarence (Lois) Schlines of Wakefield and Mrs. Fred (Faye) Mann and Joann Ostrander, both of Wayne.

He was preceded in death by his father, one son Duane, two infant brothers and two brothers-in-law.

Pallbearers were Michael and Douglas Carlson, Ben Gustafson, Steve Gathje, Loren Dunklau and Kenley Mann.

Burial was in the Greenwood Cemetery in Wayne with Schumacher-McBride-Wiltse Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Earl Davis

Earl Davis, 92, of Carroll died Saturday, April 25, 1992 at the Wayne Care Centre.

Services were held Tuesday, April 28 at the First United Methodist Church in Carroll. The Rev. Don Nunnally officiated.

Earl J. Davis, the son of Griffith and Anna James Davis, was born Feb. 21, 1900 on a farm southwest of Carroll. He attended rural school in District 36 southwest of Carroll. He married Mary Jones on Feb. 22, 1922 at her parents home near Carroll. The couple farmed near Carroll 14 years, moved to Pierce from 1936 to 1944, returning to the Carroll area, where he farmed until 1954. He continued working, operating a corn sheller a number of years, worked at Cunningham Well and was a bus driver for the Wayne-Carroll school system. He was a member of the First United Methodist Church where he served as past chairman of the Administrative Council and Board of Trustees, the Masonic Lodge #120, the Order of the Eastern Star, Royal Arch in Wakefield and the Carroll Saddle Club.

Survivors include one son, Gordon and Norma Davis of Carroll; one daughter-in-law, Mary Davis of Carroll; eight grandchildren; 10 great grandchildren; nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents, wife in 1985, one son and one sister.

Honorary pallbearers were Dr. Robert Benthack, Stanley A. Morris, Clarence Morris, Frank Gilmore, Perry Johnson, Harry Nelson, Orval Brandstetter, Lloyd Straight, Bill Kenny, Stanley J. Morris, Brian Nelson, John Rees, Dean Owens, Russell Hall, Melvin Jenkins, John Paulson and Don Harmer.

Active pallbearers were Kevin, Terry, Rick and Jeff Davis, Todd Holliday and Kenny Hall.

Burial was in the Elmwood Cemetery in Carroll with Masonic Lodge #120, Schumacher-McBride-Wiltse Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Youth take part in districts

Ten Wayne High School youth and four groups received super ratings recently at the District Music Contest held in Norfolk while three youth and three groups earned excellent marks.

Receiving superior ratings at the contest, held April 24 at Northeast Community College, were: Jill O'Leary, clarinet; Christi Carr, flute;

Erin Schroeder, flute; Megan McLean, flute; Lori Eckhoff, flute; Claire Rasmussen, viola; Tara Nichols, multi-percussion; Lizz Claussen, trumpet; Kerry McCue, French horn; and Jason Pentico, trumpet.

Groups earning superior marks included the Jazz Band I, the Clarinet Choir, the Saxophone Quartet and the Trumpet Quartet.

The Wayne High concert band received an excellent rating as did the flute duet and the clarinet trio. Jennifer Schmitz received excellent ratings for a flute and a violin solo. Shawn Powell rounded out Wayne High students receiving excellent marks for a tuba solo.

Area students end careers at Kearney

The Chancellor of the City University of New York Dr. W. Ann Richards will deliver the University of Nebraska at Kearney spring commencement address on Friday, May 8 for 646 graduating students.

Area students scheduled to graduate are Kristal Clay, Wakefield, MSE, speech communication disorders; Jay Lutt, Wayne, BAE, elementary education K-6; and Joel Pedersen, Wayne, BS, biology comprehensive, cum laude.

The UNK Symphonic Band, under the direction of Dr. Gary Davis, formerly a teacher at Wayne State, will open the 10 a.m. ceremonies with "The Crowning Glory" and "Pomp and Circumstance."

UNK Chancellor Dr. William Nester will give the opening welcome. Greetings will be given by John Payne, chair of the University Board of Regents, and Terry Zimmers, president of the UNK Alumni Association.

WSC students present papers

Five students from the Wayne State College Division of Social Sciences recently presented papers at area conferences.

Jennifer Handbury, Persia, Iowa, presented her paper "Ghandi: A Philosopher for the World" at the Midwest Political Science Student Conference.

Wayne State students also presented papers at the University of South Dakota's Alpha Theta Student History Conference.

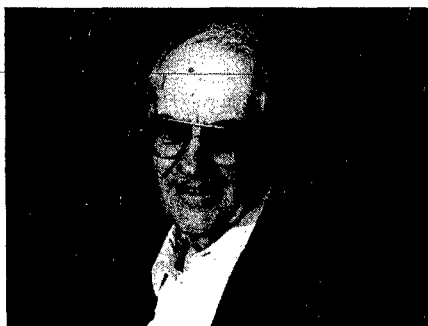

Students presenting papers were Susan Martens, Fremont, "The Effects of the Transatlantic Slave Trade on African Societies," James McGuire, Omaha, "The Terror (French Revolution)," Brenda Meyer, Pilger, "Women in the Heartland: Four Generations of Nebraska Women," and Jerry Wallace, a graduate assistant from Creston, Iowa, "Count Sergei Witte: Russian Cassandra."

When you sort through all the confusion about Amendment 1, here's how it affects taxes. Railroads, big business and production agriculture will be raised to their fair share. Homeowners will see their share actually decrease by $12 million!

Estimated effect:

NET CHANGES IN THE TAX STRUCTURE IF AMENDMENT 1 PASSES

Category	Change
Production Agriculture	Up $8.5 Million
Commercial & Industrial	Up $11 Million
Homeowners	Down $12 Million
Railroads, Pipelines & Telecommunications Cos.	Up $30.7 Million

Column debuts; explains EPU programming

First off, I would like to congratulate the Wayne Herald in reintroducing the Ag Page. Agriculture is the roots of Wayne County. It continues as the prime income source directly or second-handed to the majority of the residents of the area. The Ag Page is a superb way to recognize the contribution agriculture makes to the community.

This is the first, in hopefully a series, of a column. I am not new to Wayne County or the Northeast 5. By the way, the Northeast 5 refers to an extension programming network that includes Wayne, Dixon, Dakota, Thurston and Cedar counties. This organizational structure was created in 1989. All counties in Nebraska were put into programming groups at that time. Now what is it? The programming unit bring together resources from the counties. There are eight extension staff people in the Northeast 5. Each staff person has his or her specialties and individualized interests and training. By sharing information and problems we can better address the needs of you, the client.

All eight of us staff are extension agents by title and are here to conduct educational programs, manage the 4-H program and serve your needs. But, that is where the similarity ends. We are all very different individuals with varying backgrounds. We were all very mid-western, growing-up in Nebraska or South Dakota or Iowa, until last Monday when Dana Rethwisch joined us as the new 4-H Agent officer in Dixon County. Her background is from California and Arizona. We are very happy to welcome her. I'm sure you will be seeing her name appear in the Wayne Herald quite often in the future.

Today, I'll explain the Ag Programming side of the EPU (Extension Programming Unit). Frank Morse, agent in Dakota and Thurston Counties, is involved in horticulture, crop production, waste management and recycling. Michael Lechner, Cedar County agent, is involved in livestock, range management, crops and water. Mike is new in Extension. He started with us in January. He has taught FFA in Sargent, Nebraska for eight years previously.

Back to me, I have a degree in Ag Economics and Farm Management. My Extension program responsibilities are farm financial management, marketing, record-keeping, family relationships, community planning and development. As an example, this past year I have taught Farm and Business record keeping for the new computer user. The Quicken Software program is the one I've been using. It's the most user friendly program I have found. Computers can be a very useful tool. They are wonderful at doing reports and duplicating calculations. However, the software is the key. If the program isn't easy and interesting to use, we don't use it. I, like most farmers, want to keep records and not learn or write computer programs. Well, Quicken can be learned in a day and a couple hours a month will provide us a good, concise set of records. I like that.

My family is ag oriented. My spouse, Carmen, is a farmer. She manages and cares for a small beef cow herd. She loves baby animals. Carmen also presently is a chair person for the Nebraska State ASCS Committee. If that doesn't keep her busy, our two daughters do. Megan, 14, is involved in school activities: music, track, volleyball and loves to compete in 4-H, speech and special things like History day. Keisha, 11, is more outdoor-minded, likes animals, camping and having friends over. She also excels at piano and competes each year at the state music teachers contest. She is also hoping to attend Fun Camp at Wayne State this year.

Programs I do are focused more on family and finance and less on productive issues. Production is important and I am willing to help answer your questions. There are many reliable sources of information on production available. There are a lot of possibilities in the area I work in. Consequently I do things many agents don't offer: financial counseling, long range planning, farm program analysis, swine enterprise records, lease arrangements and land purchase evaluation.

Organization seeks singles on ag scene

Singles in Agriculture, a non-profit organization, whose purpose is to provide fellowship, support and friends for single people who have backgrounds in agriculture or are involved in some aspect of agribusiness. The organization was formed in 1984 following several articles on the social life of farm people printed in a nationally circulated farm magazine. More than 2,700 singles involved in agriculture responded to the articles.

Singles in Agriculture has members in nearly every state. Most of the members are in the middle 20's to early 70's. Many state chapters are organizing; however, one must be a national member before joining a state chapter. The annual National Convention was held in Lincoln in February 1991. The 1992 National Convention was held in Indianapolis, IN., March 5-8.

On May 17 the Nebraska Chapter will leave from Grand Island for a one-day trip to the Fort Randall Casino in South Dakota. For information on this activity, call Pam (402)362-6460 or Jan (402)362-5845 by May 8.

June 14, the Nebraska Chapter will go to Lincoln for a picnic/dancing. For information, call Leila (402) 421-8660.

For further information about Singles in Agriculture, call Janice at (913) 527-5489 evenings. Information may also be obtained by writing to Singles in Agriculture, P.O. Box 205, York, NE 68467-0205.

New 4-H agent begins her work

Northeast Nebraska families and the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension are pleased to welcome Dana Rethwisch to our area.

Rethwisch began work April 20 as the new Extension Agent for 4-H and Youth programs in Wayne, Dixon, Thurston, Dakota and Cedar Counties. She is stationed at the Northeast Research and Extension Center in Concord.

"4-H is an important educational program for youth and families of all areas" Rethwisch said. "4-H participation can and does make lasting differences in the lives of members and volunteers, alike."

If anyone knows how 4-H can influence lives, Rethwisch should. She comes to Nebraska with a great deal of 4-H experience. Dana was raised in central California, where she was a 4-H member for 10 years and an adult 4-H volunteer leader. As a 4-H'er, Dana earned many working honors, including those of State 4-H Ambassador, delegate to National 4-H Conference and National "Leadership" Record Book Winner at National 4-H Congress in Chicago.

Dana worked her way through college largely by serving in county, state and national 4-H staff positions. As a 4-H Program Assistant at the National 4-H Council in Washington, D.C. she helped to plan and conduct educational citizenship and leadership conferences. For the past four years, she has served as the Extension Agent for 4-H Youth Development in Yuma County, Arizona.

While a student at California State University-Fresno, Dana participated in national and international student exchange programs. She received her bachelors degree in Home Economics-Child and Family Relations from Rutgers University in New Jersey, and her masters degree in Adult and Community Education from the University of California-Davis. While a faculty member at the University of Arizona, Dana pursued post-graduate studies in Educational Curriculum Development.

Dana Rethwisch

While in Arizona, Dana met and married Michael D. Rethwisch, originally of Wayne. They are excited about living in Nebraska, and are pleased with the friendly, community-oriented atmosphere of the area.

"We wanted to return to a smaller, more rural community. The opportunity to work with Cooperative Extension here encouraged us to re-locate to this area" Rethwisch said. "I'm looking forward to working with the families in this area, toward the goal of continually providing well-balanced, positive educational opportunities for the youth of our communities."

Dana is the daughter of Bob and Vicky Sheesley, of Fresno, Calif. Michael is the son of Dwaine and Carol Rethwisch, of Wayne.

Dana can be reached through the local county Cooperative Extension office, or directly at the Northeast Research and Extension Center (584-2234).

NRD observes week

Featuring the vital role that trees and forests play in conserving soil and water resources, the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District encouraged local schools, camps, churches, organizations and individuals to join the nationwide observance of Soil and Water Stewardship Week, April 26-May 3.

The Lower Elkhorn NRD, which works throughout the year on soil and water conservation measures, is providing literature and educational materials that describe how people are dependent upon and interact with trees for the week-long observance. The LERND is one of 23 Natural Resources Districts which are celebrating their twentieth year of encouraging the wise use of natural resources.

Materials designed with the 1992 theme, "Our Treasured Trees," are being distributed by the NRD for this week of reflection on our role as stewards of our precious natural resources.

Planting shapes up in Wayne County

Annual tree planting activities in Wayne County are progressing despite the inclement weather problems.

With only a handful of tree planting jobs remaining, the 1992 tree planting season is looking up slightly from previous years in both number of trees planted and number of individuals serviced.

According to SCS records, 5,000 hand plants and 22,400 machine planted trees are being planted through the Nebraska Tree Conservation-Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District tree planting program in Wayne County this year.

THE NEBRASKA Conservation Trees program makes a variety of tree seedlings available to everyone interested in planting trees for conservation purposes, according to Larry Wetterberg of the SCS office in Wayne. Additionally, the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District expands on this program to offer a larger variety of trees, in smaller quantities.

"It contracts a planting-weed control service should an individual want it, so the new seedlings can get off to a good start," Wetterberg said.

USDA is involved in the technical planning and recommendation process of which trees to use, on what soil and for what purposes.

Additionally, USDA through the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP), the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP), and the new Stewardship Incentive Program (SIP) provides a sharing of the costs of preparing a seed bed, buying the trees, planting and some weed control, said Mike Lance, a soil conservation technician for the SCS office in Wayne. Up to 75 percent of the average cost of a tree planting may be shared by the USDA for approved participants.

CONSERVATION tree plantings that qualify for federal funds include but are not limited to: farmstead and feedlot windbreaks, field windbreaks, wildlife plantings, living snow fences and critical area plantings. Walnut, Christmas tree and firewood plantings are variable and may or may not qualify for USDA dollars. Technical assistance is always available and free of charge to any interested individual.

"Even though Nebraska is known as the 'tree planter state' it is 49th among the 50 states in the percentage of land area in forest or tree land," Lance said. "Only

Making a point politely Avoiding confrontation

I don't like confrontation. I'll do anything to avoid it. Besides, I've found it isn't very effective anyway. I found that out raising kids. In my old age, I've learned some other ways of making my point. I wish I had used some of these while they were growing up.

For example, I've been a volunteer at Birthright because I've always believed that if we were going to tell someone not to have an abortion, we need to provide an alternative.

Recently, I've read of a few creative ways to get the message across. There's a new television show called "Murphy Brown" in which the lead character, Candace Bergen, plays a middle-aged, divorced attorney.

I don't watch much TV, but I understand she was carrying around a coffee mug on an episode in March that had the logo for PETA on it. PETA stands for People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals, one of the most strident animal rights groups around. They aim to end production agriculture. Very subtle.

The Animal Industry Foundation suggested a light approach and asked those involved in agriculture give Murphy a chance to carry a mug with a different message.

Candace was "mugged" by coffee-cups-bearing-ag-symbols and polite requests that she take a closer look at what the animal rights movement is all about.

Right after I read about that project, I heard a radio program talking about a theater that was featuring porno films. Instead of picketing, one group of ladies set up tables outside the theater to serve coffee, lemonade and cookies! Nothing wrong with offering refreshments to the patrons as they left, right?

And Hilary Clinton continues to worry voters. She angered stay-at-home wives when she remarked that she "could have stayed at home and baked cookies," but chose to follow a profession. Homemakers sent boxes of homemade cookies! I chuckled when I read that.

Creative solutions fascinate me. Parade Magazine recently featured a middle school that does not "cut" students from teams, cheerleading, music. Some of the kids said they knew it wouldn't last, but they were enjoying it while they could.

I couldn't help dreaming about the social skills, self-confidence and coordination these students were developing; just at a time when self-esteem can drop severely.

Now if I can just think up creative, non-confrontational ways to approach the Big Farmer about his defects!

Concord schedules training for May 22

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln will sponsor the 1992 Integrated Pest Management Field Scout Training in Concord on May 22.

University of Nebraska specialists with the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources will present the program, which will include basic information on identification of crop pests, crop disorders, and methods of irrigation scheduling.

Laboratory sessions will also be used to teach those attending how to properly identify crop pests. These sessions are designed for beginning field crop consultants, crop producers and other interested individuals.

The training will be held at the Northeast Research and Extension Center in Concord, beginning at 9 a.m. and concluding at approximately 4 p.m. A $4 registration fee will be collected at the door, which includes the noon meal cost.

For more information on the Integrated Pest Management Field Scout Training, contact Keith Jarvi at the Northeast Research and Extension Center, (402)584-2261.

Officials assess environmental risks of pesticide use

Two university researchers are developing a tool to help farmers factor environmental risk as well as economics into their pesticide management decisions.

Farmers are concerned about environmental quality, said Leon Higley, University of Nebraska-Lincoln entomologist. However, they have no way to assess the environmental impact of using a particular pesticide in their field.

Joint research by Higley and Wendy Wintersteen, an Iowa State University entomologist, should change that. They are developing procedures farmers could use to weigh environmental costs of a single pesticide application and to select the least environmentally hazardous pesticide for their situation.

"Our aim is to develop procedures that would give individual producers the background information they should have to make informed choices," said Higley, an Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources scientist.

They have devised a formal method for calculating environmental risks from the single use of a pesticide. They plan to translate their calculations into an environmental risk index, creating easy-to-use charts or tables and an interactive computer program for farmers.

"It's another step toward a more sustainable system," Wintersteen said.

Their procedure involves determining the degree of risk a specific insecticide poses to eight individual environmental categories, such as water quality, human health and other organisms, based on its physical properties. They calculated the environmental cost in each environmental category based on whether a pesticide poses a high, medium or low risk. The total environmental cost of an insecticide is the sum of costs for each environmental category.

They computed environmental costs for 70 brands of insecticides used on corn, soybeans, sorghum, alfalfa and wheat in the Midwest. They'll do the same for herbicides.

Higley said placing a dollar value on environmental quality is "inherently subjective" because there is no established market value for things such as clean water, wildlife or beneficial insects. The team conducted a contingent valuation survey of farmers to determine those values.

"Contingent valuation is nothing more than asking people how much they'd be willing to pay for something," Higley said.

More than 1,700 crop producers in Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois and Ohio answered the survey. Respondents ranked the importance of avoiding different types of environmental risk and how much they would spend or accept in yield losses to different levels of risk from pesticide use.

More than 98 percent of respondents said avoiding environmental risks was important and 66 percent said they were willing to pay to avoid risks.

The number of farmers who said they would bear some cost to avoid environmental risk was "surprisingly high," Higley said.

Results indicate many farmers already tolerate some yield loss to avoid using pesticides, Wintersteen said.

The scientists want to build environmental costs into widely used Integrated Pest Management (IPM) techniques. Economic injury levels are key to IPM, providing specific criteria for determining when insect damage equals the cost of chemical control.

Integrating environmental costs to economic injury levels would improve IPM decision-making, he said.

"Then you could begin to make balanced decisions where you could weigh economics and environmental concerns in the same decision," Higley said.

Farmers using the combined environmental and economic injury levels probably would tolerate higher insect infestations before using an insecticide that those using only economic criteria.

However, even farmers who base treatment decisions solely on economics could use the environmental risk information to select the least environmentally hazardous compound, Higley said.

Higley and Wintersteen will test their environmental risk index for insecticides this summer with the help of about 100 farmers in three Iowa counties. Some farmers will have the environmental risk information and others will make pesticide decisions as in the past.

"We want to see if farmers will actually use it, how it affects their pesticide choices and what impact it will have on pesticide use," Wintersteen said.

If this summer's tests go well, Higley and Wintersteen hope to make the environmental risk information available in 1993.

Eventually, national pesticide policy-makers also could use their environmental risk assessment to more objectively calculate the impact of regulatory decisions, Higley said.

Their research is funded by grants from the U.S. Department of Agriculture and ISU's Leopold Center for Sustainable Agriculture, in cooperation with IANR's Agricultural Research Division and ISU's Agriculture and Home Economics Experiment Station.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK'S SENIOR CITIZEN CORNER

AILING SENIOR ABANDONED: By now, many of you may have read the distressing story of an older man who appears to have been abandoned ("dumped" might be a more accurate word) by someone who may not have been able to cope with the Alzheimer's Disease afflicting the 82-year-old man.

According to the most recent reports I read, the man was taken from his hospital in Oregon and removed to Idaho where he was found clutching a teddy bear. All clues to his identity had been removed. Someone saw him on television and identified him. Later, it was learned he'd left his wife and four children years earlier and, so far as they knew, he just vanished. Meanwhile, he had remarried and started another family. His four older children had no idea where he was until last month, and have since indicated they are happy to have him back in their lives.

I won't dwell on who the culprit might be. While that's an important part of this story, it is not as important as the realization that it confirms a terrible trend in this country: abandoning our sick and ailing parents. This case, of course, was the more dramatic for the way it happened. However, reports have been coming in for a long time of elders left in city hospitals because their families are unable to care for them. In some cases, the older folks have Alzheimer's. Others have ailments requiring attention. Some are simply too frail to be left alone.

Before we become too judgmental, and talk about how parents are always able to care for children, but adult children can't seem to care for parents, let's remember that in this country, the costs of long term care, especially for a condition such as Alzheimer's, are overwhelming, and in many cases, are not covered by insurance. It's said most of the children of the people left in public facilities have acted in sorrow, but were confronted not just with the costs of custodial care for their parents, but also the expenses in raising their own youngsters.

How long before this country wakes up to the fact that this is a problem most other industrialized nations do not have? We desperately need a civilized health care system that does not abandon the citizens who contributed so much to their own families and to our country over their lifetimes.

The GOLDEN YEARS
by Pat Slicity

How willing are older people to spend a day following grade-school pupils through classroom and other activities? When a school in Doylestown, Pennsylvania, held its latest Grandparents Day, close to 500 seniors turned out. "I like to see the kids' faces light up when we come into the classroom," said one visitor. School officials say Grandparents Day convinces older residents that school taxes are well spent.

Anthony Benedetto started his career in 1951 as a singing waiter in a New York Club. Bob Hope, who was appearing at the Paramount Theater, heard him sing one night and promised to put him on the stage. But, Hope told the singer, his name was too long for a theater marquis. So it's as Tony Bennett that the singer, at 65 celebrated 40 years in show business — having played about 200 singing dates a year.

Remember When? 1935 — "Mutiny on the Bounty" was such a hit movie that all three stars — Clark Gable, Charles Laughton and Franchot Tone — were nominated as best actor of the year. But the Oscar went to Victor McLaglen for his role in "The Informer."

Wayne students attend fair

On April 9, six German students from Wayne High School, accompanied by their teacher, Edith E. Zahniser, joined 1,500 Nebraska junior and senior high foreign language students to participate in the sixteenth Annual Fair at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

At the day-long event, students competed in drama, music and poetry recitation, as well as in nametag and poster design. "Language: A Key to Global Understanding" was the theme of this year's fair.

As in previous years, a number of non-competitive events were held during the day, including Chinese, Calligraphy; foreign films; mini-lessons in languages such as Czech, Japanese and Swahili; and a Sing-Along in French, German, or Spanish.

The Wayne students enjoyed a successful day. Their short play Das Wechselgeld brought a Superior to Kim Endicott, Dan Janke, Shannon Fletcher, Claire Rasmussen, Krista Remer, and Jennifer Schmitz. A different cast from WHS had earned a Superior with the same play at the Wayne State College Foreign Language Day two weeks earlier.

Krista Remer, Kim Endicott, Shannon Fletcher, and Jennifer Schmitz, who had been awarded a Superior at WSC, received their win in Lincoln, with a performance of the "Bridesmaids' Song" from Carl Maria von Weber's opera Der Freischutz.

Shannon Fletcher, Claire Rasmussen and Jennifer Schmitz earned Superior, and Dan Janke a Very Good in the Poetry Recital. The rules required that poems be recited from memory. Students were judged on pronunciation, delivery of the memorized text, and interpretation through voice and gesture.

Claire Rasmussen's three-dimensional entry in the poster contest was awarded a Superior; Spencer Bayless, who was unable to attend the event, received a Very Good. Matt Ley, also unable to go, sent a nametag for the entire group and won a Good.

JUNE JUBILEE

The annual sidewalk event in Wakefield during June will be expanded this year to include a Wellness Celebration. The day long activities on Saturday, June 20 will be co-sponsored by the Pumpkin Days Committee and the M.G. Waldbaum Co.

The sidewalk sales will include businesses and private individuals with their crafts and commercial products. Also being encouraged are community-wide garage sales for this June Jubilee.

The Wellness Celebration will be a cooperative effort of the Waldbaum Company and Marion Health Center of Sioux City. It will feature 15-20 booths promoting good health. Expected are checks for blood pressure, hearing, vision, spirometry (measurement of lung capacity), body composition analysis; fire aid/CPR; pre-natal care; communicable diseases, stress reduction, cancer screening, home safety and fitness. If possible, the Marion Air Care Helicopter will also be on site for inspection.

There will be an "all you can eat" pancake feed beginning in the morning and running into the afternoon. Indoor space will be available for crafters and others to display and see their items.

The Pumpkin Days Committee will be introducing the new T-shirt which will feature pioneer pumpkins and the Q125 patch. This year's T-shirt was designed by Kaye Hilsinger.

Other activities are being planned for the day including baseball games, a dunking tank and demonstrations by the Wakefield Rescue Squad and Firefighters. A seniors golf tournament is scheduled for Friday, June 19 at the Logan Valley Golf Course.

The Pumpkin Days Committee encourages residents to plan to spend the Father's Day weekend in Wakefield and enjoy all the activities.

RECEIVE TREE CITY FLAG
Wakefield Mayor Merlin "Lefty"

Olson and his wife Sylvia were recently in Lincoln to accept the Tree City USA award and flag. Also present for the special ceremony at the State Capitol were, Dr. Gary Hergenrader, The Nebraska State Forester, Sen. Gerald Conway of Wayne and State Treasurer Dawn Rocky.

Awards were presented to 75 communities in the state during the ceremony. According to Hergenrader in comments made that day, Nebraska is one of the most active states in the Tree City program. It ranks in the top 10 nationally in the number of people living in a participating community.

The Tree City USA designation is made annually in recognition of the community's forestry program. The awards, which include a flag, plaque and a sign are presented by the National Arbor Day Foundation in cooperation with the Nebraska Forest Service.

Wakefield was also the recipient of the Growth Award, a new category this year presented to 12 Tree Cities. This award is based on consecutive Participation and if a community has spent at least as much or more on its forestry program as in the previous year.

RECYCLING PLAN DISCONTINUED

Val Bard, instructor of the Quest Program at School has announced that her students will have to discontinue their plans to collect recyclable items at school. Bard went on to explain that the plant in Wayne which had agreed to accept the items, called her and they would not be able to do so.

She went on to express her disappointment and stated that the response had been very positive.

The Christian Church youth will still be picking up newspaper and aluminum cans.

LEGION AUXILIARY

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit 81 met on April 13 with 11 members present. It was announced that the community service committee plan to assist with Easter Sunrise Services.

Rebecca Goos was selected to represent the Wakefield Unit at Girls State this year. Orientation for Girls state will be held in Wakefield on April 26. Lizz Ekberg, Carol Ulrich and Marian Christensen will assist at the registration table.

Poppy Days will be held May 15-16. Famy Johnson, Iris Larson, Lina Olson, Margaret Cisney and Irene Schulz helped with bingo at the Wakefield Health Care Center on March 13. Banana Bread and cranberry bread was served following bingo.

President Carol Ulrich reported on the District Meeting at West Point on March 13. The Unit's history book, compiled by Jolene Miller, and the poppy centerpiece placed second.

Vernetta Busby and Marian Christensen served lunch.

MUSIC BOOSTERS

During their April meeting Wakefield Music Booster elected officers for the upcoming year. Barb Stout will serve as president; vice-president is Terri Gilliland; Deb Lundahl was elected secretary; and Betty Rouse was re-elected treasurer.

The upcoming District Music Contest was discussed. The Boosters will be serving lunch to the competing musicians and vocalists on Friday, April 24. A second reading and discussion was held on changes to the organizations constitution.

ELCA MEETS

The Women of ELCA of Salem Lutheran Church held their regular meeting on Thursday in the church basement. The meeting opened with president, Mae Greve reading the "Jelly Bean Prayer", an Easter prayer using the colors of Jelly beans, and the group singing the hymn "The Joyful Eastside".

Mardell Holm gave devotions from Psalms 92 and 98, Psalms of joyful praise. The songs "Sometimes Alleluia" and "He Set Me Free" were sung by the Geme a trio popular at Salem events some years ago. This was made possible by the presence of Eleanor Johnson, a former Salem pastor's wife. She along with Gloria Oberg and Mardell Holm made up The Gemes. Excels from the April issue of Lutheran Women Today on humor in the church were read by Mardell Holm. To prove her point the Gemes sang a collection of humorous songs that poked gentle fun at church suppers, quilters, pastors, usher's, choir's, Lutheran and others, with loving mirth. They ended their program with an inspiring song "Alleluia". Martha Mortenson was accompanist. The offering, prayer and the hymn "Earth and all Stars" followed.

A short business meeting was conducted by president Mae Greve. Some special quilts were on display. Margaret Fischer was congratulated on her election to the planning committee for the 1993 Spring Gathering. Members were informed that although Lutheran World Relief does not need baby layettes this year but a use will be found for the program on recycling to be given by April 30 at Cruickshank.

The meeting closed with a Poem "Easter Tidings" read by Mae Greve. The Lord's prayer and the table prayer were recited by the group in prayer.

NPPD establishes new peak record

Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) established a new peak demand record and a new total kilowatt-hour sales record in 1991, during which NPPD residential customers used more electricity at a lower average cost.

NPPD, in its 1991 annual report, notes that NPPD customers used 1.82 million kilowatt-hours of electricity in the hour ending at 5 p.m. on July 17. This surpassed the previous demand record set in 1990 by 89,000 kilowatt-hours. The highest winter peak in 1991 was 1.3 million kilowatt-hours in January. The winter record of 1.4 million kilowatt-hours was established in December 1989. Total kilowatt-hour sales in 1991 were a record 10.7 billion, surpassing the previous high of 10.6 billion kilowatt-hours set in 1988.

NPPD's 106,000 retail customers used 2.5 billion kilowatt-hours in 1991, which was 2.7 percent more than in 1990. Firm wholesale sales to 25 power districts and rural cooperatives were 3.7 billion kilowatt-hours, 5.9 percent higher than the previous year. Firm wholesale sales to 48 total-requirement towns and 20 inter-connected and partial-requirement towns totaled 1.4 billion kilowatt-hours, up 3.8 percent from 1990.

Approximately 76.5 percent of sales were to wholesale customers and 23.5 percent were to retail customers.

Kilowatt hour use by the average residential customer increased 4.6 percent in 1991, while average kilowatt-hour cost for residential customers declined 1.5 percent.

About 60 percent of NPPD's generation in 1991 was coal-fired, 23 percent was nuclear, 15 percent was hydro generation and only 2 percent was from gas, oil or diesel.

Electric system operating revenues were $377 million and operating expenses were $365 million.

A new wholesale rate schedule was adopted that, for the first time, includes winter-summer rate differentials. The average wholesale customer's power costs will decrease approximately 21.8 percent. The new rates place greater emphasis on the control of summer loads through higher rates while encouraging winter load growth through lower rates.

A retail cost of service study was completed early in 1992 and new retail rates were established incorporating the same methodology as the wholesale rates. Adjustment of basic retail rates, the first since 1988, went into effect this month.

In other developments during 1991:

- Iowa Public Service agreed to purchase 100,000 kilowatts of capacity and energy from NPPD's Gerald Gentlemen Station, which will result in revenues of $7 million in 1992 and more than $10.5 million per year through 2000;

- NPPD completed its portion of the Missouri-Iowa-Nebraska Transmission (MINT) Project, a 345,000-volt transmission line from NPPD's Cooper Nuclear Station to St. Joseph, Mo.; the line will provide additional markets for surplus capacity;

- NPPD issued bonds for construction of a new system control central at Doniphan, a new regional office center at Kearney and other additions and improvements. The bonds also refinanced earlier borrowings resulting in a savings of $4.8 million over the next 14 years.

- NPPD paid 201 retail communities more than $13.3 million in lease payments and paid 70 counties nearly $5.2 million in gross revenue and in-lieu-of tax payments.

Local coordinator honored

In honor of National Volunteer Week, Asa Rangne, president of the Educational Foundation for Foreign Study, is recognizing Karen Marra, the international exchange coordinator for the Wayne area.

Through the efforts of people like Marra, students from around the world have the opportunity to spend a year living with an American family, Rangne said. They also provide high school students with the opportunity to spend a year studying abroad.

In addition to Marra, Rangne is recognizing volunteers in the Wayne area who have acted as hosts to foreign exchange students.

DOUBLE CHEESE BURGER DAYS

During the month of May the American Dairy Association is sponsoring "DOUBLE CHEESEBURGER DAYS". You can win a Weber Kettle Grill from Pac'N'Save by showing us your "cheezey" smile. Take a picture of your family chef saying "cheeseburger" while making your favorite cheeseburger on the grill. Bring us your snapshot and we will display it above our ground beef display. A winner will be drawn Saturday, May 30 at 1:00 p.m.

Tips for a perfect grilled hamburger: Select fresh ground 80% ground chuck. Form into patties and refrigerate overnight. Place on glass plate and microwave approximately 2 minutes per patty. (This cooks off some of the fat to prevent grill flare up and gets center of burger done.) Place over medium coals and grill slowly. Season & top with your favorite cheese.

Allen volunteers for ABE honored

The Adult Basic Education (A.B.E.) Program in Northeast Nebraska has served almost 1160 students in the first nine months of this program year, supported almost entirely by volunteers in 53 communities at 106 locations.

In Northeast Nebraska, over 400 people have donated almost 4,625 instructional hours, tutoring students in basic academic skill areas such as reading, writing, and math usually preparing to take the tests which can lead to a high school diploma.

Volunteers also help students study for drivers license exams, fill out job applications. They also teach foreign born students English and help them prepare them for citizenship.

Outside of the classroom, volunteers have also committed

2,800 other hours in areas such as volunteer recruitment, advisory committees, volunteer training, and office work.

Since the week of April 27 is National Volunteer Recognition Week, Northeast would like to recognize the people who support the basic education of adults. In the Allen area, the A.B.E. volunteers are Carol Chase, Dean Chase, Bonnie Kellogg, Mary Lou Koester, Darlene Roberts, and Frances Shubert.

According to Carolyn Apland, A.B.E. Coordinator at Northeast Community College, anyone with a high school diploma and a concern for the undereducated adult can be a volunteer in the program. To become a volunteer or enroll as a student, contact Apland at 402-644-0510.

LEGAL NOTICE OF MEASURE TO BE VOTED UPON MAY 12, 1992 BALLOT TITLE AND TEXT OF CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

Also Included Are Statements of Explanation In Italics Prepared By The Executive Board Of The Legislative Council.

PROPOSED BY THE 1992 LEGISLATURE Proposed Amendment No. 1

A vote FOR this proposal will provide: (1) that the uniformity clause (property taxes to be levied by valuation uniformly and proportionately) would henceforth apply to real property as defined by the Legislature, except as otherwise provided by the constitution...

A vote AGAINST this proposal will: (1) leave both real property and tangible personal property subject to the uniformity clause; (2) prohibit the Legislature from valuing and taxing for property tax purposes non-exempt tangible personal property on a depreciated cost basis...

A constitutional amendment to separate tangible personal property from the uniform and proportionate provision applicable to real property, to provide for the valuation of taxable tangible personal property at depreciated cost or at actual value uniformly and proportionately...

TEXT OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

Now, therefore, be it resolved by the members of the Ninety-Second Legislature of Nebraska, second session:

"Section 1. That at a special election on May 12, 1992, there shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska for approval the following amendment to the Constitution of Nebraska to amend Article VIII, sections 1, 2, and 5, and to add a new section 13 to Article VIII:

CVIII-1 "The necessary revenue of the state and its governmental subdivisions shall be raised by taxation in such manner as the Legislature may direct. Taxes shall be levied by valuation uniformly and proportionately upon all tangible personal property and franchises, except that: (1) The Notwithstanding Article I, section 16, Article III, section 18, or Article VIII, section 4 of this Constitution or any other provision of this Constitution to the contrary: (1) Taxes shall be levied by valuation uniformly and proportionately upon all real property and franchises as defined by the Legislature except as otherwise provided in or permitted by this Constitution; (2) tangible personal property, as defined by the Legislature, not exempted by this Constitution or by legislation shall all be taxed at depreciated cost using the same depreciation method with reasonable class lives, as determined by the Legislature, or shall all be taxed by valuation uniformly and proportionately; (3) the Legislature may provide for a different method of taxing motor vehicles and may also establish a separate class of motor vehicles consisting of those owned and held for resale by motor vehicle dealers which shall be taxed in the manner and to the extent provided by the Legislature and may also establish a separate class for trucks, trailers, semitrailers, truck-tractors, or combinations thereof, consisting of those owned by residents and nonresidents of this state, and operating in interstate commerce, and may provide reciprocal and proportionate taxation of such vehicles; PROVIDED, that such tax proceeds from motor vehicles taxed in each county shall be allocated to the state, counties, townships, cities, villages, and school districts, and other governmental subdivisions of such county in the same proportion that the levy of each bears to the total levy of the county on personal taxable property; and (4) the Legislature may provide that agricultural land and horticultural land, as defined by the Legislature, shall constitute a separate and distinct class of property for purposes of taxation and may provide for a different method of taxing agricultural land and horticultural land which results in values that are not uniform and proportionate with all other tangible real property and franchises but which results in values that are uniform and proportionate upon all property within the class of agricultural land and horticultural land; (5) the Legislature may enact laws to provide that the value of land actively devoted to agricultural or horticultural use shall for property tax purposes be that value which such land has for agricultural or horticultural use without regard to any value which such land might have for other purposes or uses; (6) the Legislature may prescribe standards and methods for the determination of the value of real or other tangible property at uniform and proportionate values; (7) in furtherance of the purposes for which such a law of the United States has been adopted, whenever there exists a law of the United States which is intended to protect a specifically designated type, use, user, or owner of property or franchise from discriminatory state or local taxation, such property or franchise shall constitute a separate class of property or franchise under the laws of the State of Nebraska, and such property or franchise may not be taken into consideration in determining whether taxes are levied by valuation uniformly or proportionately upon any property or franchise, and the Legislature may enact laws which statutorily recognize such class and which tax or exempt from taxation such class of property or franchise in such manner as it determines; and (8) the Legislature may provide that livestock shall constitute a separate and distinct class of property for purposes of taxation and may further provide for reciprocal and proportionate taxation of livestock located in this state for only part of a year. Each actual property tax rate levied for a governmental subdivision shall be the same for all classes of taxes property and franchises. Taxes uniform as to class of property or the ownership or use thereof may be levied by valuation or otherwise upon classes of intangible property as the Legislature may determine, and such intangible property held in trust or otherwise for the purpose of funding pension, profit-sharing, or other employee benefit plans as defined by the Legislature may be declared exempt from taxation. Taxes other than property taxes may be authorized by law. Existing revenue laws shall continue in effect until changed by the Legislature. The Legislature may provide that livestock shall constitute a separate and distinct class of property for purposes of taxation and may further provide for reciprocal and proportionate taxation of livestock located in this state for only part of a year."

CVIII-2 "Notwithstanding Article I, section 16, Article III, section 18, or Article VIII, section 1 or 4 of this Constitution or any other provision of this Constitution to the contrary: (1) The property of the state and its governmental subdivisions shall constitute a separate class of property and shall be exempt from taxation; (2) the Legislature by general law may classify and exempt from taxation property owned by and used exclusively for agricultural and horticultural societies and property owned and used exclusively for educational, religious, charitable, or cemetery purposes, when such property is not owned or used for financial gain or profit to either the owner or user; (3) household - household goods and personal effects, as defined by law, may be exempted from taxation in whole or in part, as may be provided by general law, and the Legislature may prescribe a formula for the determination of value of household goods and personal effects; (4) the Legislature by general law may provide that the increased value of land by reason of shade or ornamental trees planted along the highway shall not be taken into account in the assessment of such land; (5) the Legislature, by the general law and upon any terms, conditions, and restrictions it prescribes, may provide that the increased value of real property resulting from improvements designed primarily for energy conservation may be exempt from taxation; (6) the value of a home substantially contributed by the Veterans Administration of the United States Department of Veterans Affairs for a paraplegic veteran or multiple amputee shall be exempt from taxation during the life of such veteran or until the death of his widow or her remarriage; (7) the Legislature may exempt from an intangible property tax life insurance and life insurance annuity contracts and any payment connected therewith and any right to pension or retirement payments; (8) the Legislature may exempt inventory from taxation; (9) the Legislature may define and classify personal property in such manner as it sees fit, whether by type, use, user, or owner, and may exempt any of such class or classes of property from taxation if such exemption is reasonable or may exempt all personal property from taxation; (10) no property shall be exempt from taxation except as permitted by or as provided in this Constitution; and (11) the Legislature may by general law provide that a portion of the value of any residence actually occupied as a homestead by any classification of owners as determined by the Legislature shall be exempt from taxation."

OLD BUSINESS: Duane Upton met with the Board to discuss possible ways of redacting the street in an area near Carroll Feed & Grain. Since this is going to be a rather expensive undertaking the Board will look into alternative solutions and make a decision at a later time. Ron Benson discussed with the Board the procedures to get started on construction of a new well for the Village. NEW BUSINESS: Mr. & Mrs. Terry Davis sought and received Board approval for a liquor permit for the auditorium for a class reunion on July 11, 1992. Making the motion of approval for said permit was Gilmore, with a second by Rethwick. Mark Tietz and Bob Hall discussed with the Board rates for water at fire calls. For training procedures, there is no charge. Firemen inform the Board that the majority of neighboring communities do have a rate per hundred for water used at fires. The Board asked the firemen to get a run-down on rates of other areas and report back to the Board, so an equitable rate can be set. The firemen also asked to have the Board consider the possibility of helping to finance the cost of hepatitis shots for volunteer firemen. They will get more details and let the Board know the cost, etc., of same. Joni Tietz requested and received approval for funding for another summer of softball for village youth and adults. The Board will continue to maintain the grounds, and to pay all utilities. burning site, for disposal of tree limbs, small brush, etc., will be set up on the northwest corner of the ball park grounds. This will be done on a temporary basis. Times when the service will be available will be posted. Plans are for spring and fall cleanup. Only small tree branches and brush will be permitted, no trash. There will be no dumping, except during specified times. A number of water leaks have surfaced around the village. The Board unanimously approved the repair of same as soon as possible. The Clerk was directed by the Board to send a letter to a customer concerning the use of a back-flow device on a water outlet that is used commercially. There being no further business for discussion, a motion to adjourn was made by Rethwick and seconded by Hitchcock. A roll call vote was taken with all present voting yes. The next regular meeting of the Board will be on May 12, 1992, beginning at 7:30 P.M. at the Carroll Library. Susan E. Gilmore, Chairman Alice C. Rohde, Clerk

STATE OF NEBRASKA COUNTY OF WAYNE I, the undersigned, Clerk for the Village of Carroll, Nebraska hereby certify that all of the subjects included in the above proceedings were contained in the agenda for the meeting of April 15, 1992 kept continually current and available for public inspection at the office of the Clerk; that such subjects were contained in the agenda for at least twenty-four hours prior to said meeting; that the minutes of the Chairman and Board of Trustees for the Village of Carroll were in written form and available for public inspection within ten working days and prior to the next convened meeting of said body.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand this 21st day of April, 1992. Alice C. Rohde, Village Clerk (SEAL) (Publ. April 30)
