

Merger unites clinics

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

After a two year process, Benthack Clinic and Wayne Family Practice have joined forces to become Northeast Nebraska Medical Group, P.C., effective June 1.

The merger comes after an in-depth study of rural medicine.

Wiseman, who served as the medical director for the merger, said Northeast Nebraska lost 10 percent of its population in the last 10 years. During that same period of time, rural family doctors declined 50 percent.

"In a shrinking pool, the chance of replacing retiring doctors is dismal," he said. "With that shrinking pool, there will soon be only a few hospitals left. When you consider the recruitment possibilities of two independent practices or one joint practice, the one practice is more appealing, so you have to do what's possible to keep up with the changing trend."

UNDER THE new group, both the Benthack Clinic and the Wayne Family Practice offices will stay where they are with the same physicians operating out of each office. All 35 employees of both clinics will remain employed.

Wiseman said there have been people asking whether the two clinics will move into one office. He said at this point there are no plans to move into one building.

In addition, Northeast Nebraska Medical Group will continue to offer its satellite clinics in Wisner, Laurel and Wakefield. If everything goes according to plan, the Wayne area could see another doctor join the practice within a year and it's possible two additional physicians will join the group within the next five years.

"It's important for people to understand that we have a small window of time for us to grow and survive in this climate," he said. "We will see a steady decline of health care facilities around us but we don't plan to be one of them."

ONE OF THE reasons physician recruitment is so vital is because Dr. Bob Benthack is 70-years-

Celebrating Laurel Ag Days

THESE THREE-LEGGED LAUREL youngsters helped kick off the community's annual Ag Days celebration on Sunday afternoon during kids games for children ages 12 and under. In addition to the gunnysack races, a variety of other events were enjoyed by the children. The celebration continued Tuesday and Wednesday, June 2-3, and included an Ag Days parade on Wednesday at 6:30 p.m., followed with the Ag Fun Relays. Frustration mounts

Law enforcement upsets residents in Wayne County

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Just as the juvenile detention center issue seems laid to rest, Wayne County Sheriff LeRoy Janssen faces another crisis.

Representatives from the Winside and Hoskins village boards met Monday night to discuss concerns over law enforcement protection. Board members said they are growing increasingly frustrated by slow responses from the sheriff's office and their anger is about to boil.

Sue Gilmore, chairperson of the Carroll Village Board, said Carroll shares many of the concerns expressed Monday night during the Winside Village Board meeting. She, however, was unable to attend the meeting.

"We need some system where we have greater communication with the sheriff's department," she said. "We feel frustrated because we don't feel we're getting appropriate police protection."

AT THIS point, Janssen said he's uncertain about how to address the situation, citing that this is the first he's heard of board complaints.

He said he has had no representatives from the village boards discuss the matter with him, nor has he been invited to a village board meeting to discuss the issue with board representatives. He was not in attendance at Monday's meeting.

Most of the discussion at Monday's meeting was between Hoskins Board Chairperson Pat Brudigan, Winside Board Chairperson Marvin Cherry and Winside Board Member Warren Gallop.

Board members said many of their complaints stem from comments they have received from village residents dissatisfied by the department's service. Under a contract between the villages and Wayne County, the sheriff's office serves in-lieu-of a town marshal by upholding community laws. That, however, has not happened, representatives said.

ACCORDING TO people at the meeting, and supported by comments made by Gilmore, the sheriff's department has not responded to complaints of reckless driving, minors in possession, violent acts against animals, theft, burglary and vandalism.

The primary complaint, of those raised, dealt with response time. Citizens and board members said the response time has ranged anywhere from 45 minutes, to 12 hours, to a week or more. Under the terms of the contracts, the villages pay approximately $24,000 for law enforcement protection and they believe they deserve quicker response time.

"It's always been a concern that they're paying too much for what they're getting and that occurs around budget time," Janssen said. "When budgets are set, you want to get the most for your dollar."

Janssen added that the department doesn't have 24-hour-a-day service. He said at times he feels understaffed. Currently, the department has three deputies.

BUT MONEY doesn't seem to be the focus of the issue. While representatives discussed the figure, they were mulling around an array of ideas, ranging from contacting the state attorney general's office to see what could be done, conducting a recall election, hiring a town marshal to serve all three communities, or accumulating grievances and taking them to the county board of commissioners at their June 16 meeting. Representatives agreed to approach the fourth alternative first but there was some concern that the commissioners would not respond to their satisfaction since the county board only controls the department's budget.

"We're all paying for the service but we're not getting it," Brudigan said.

Organizations plan paint swap on June 20

WAYNE - For the do-it-yourself person, June 20 should be circled on the calendar.

The Wayne County Home Extension Clubs and the 4-H Teen Supremes will sponsor a paint swap on Saturday, June 20 from 9-11 a.m. at the Wayne County Fairgrounds. Members are permitted to bring paint but the public is encouraged to come out and choose paint for their summer projects.

This paint swap is to cut down on hazardous household wastes and to share the paint with others.

Carnival ticket sales begin this Saturday

WINSIDE - Advance ticket sales for the carnival rides during the Wayne County Old Settlers Celebration in Winside, June 19-21, go on sale June 6 at most Winside businesses. A complete story in advance to the celebration will be in the June 15 Wayne Herald.

Tickets in advance will be eight for $5 and will be sold until Saturday, June 20. Without advance tickets, children's rides will be $1 each and $1.50 for adults.

Providing the carnival service this year is Coles Rainbow Carnival rides.

Board seeks funds for capital projects

It appears as though the Wayne County Fair Board is doing what it can to enhance the Wayne County Fairgrounds. If all goes as hoped, the fairgrounds could be used all year long.

Fair Board President Mick Topp made a formal request to the Wayne County Commissioners Tuesday in an attempt to secure additional funds for capital improvement projects. Topp was supported in his effort by Howard Greve, Gordon Davis and Leland Herman.

While the commissioners were willing to listen, they couldn't make any promises since the county board is anticipating budget shortfalls estimated around $400,000 for the 1992-93 fiscal year.

BOARD CHAIRMAN Gerald Pospishil said the outcome of additional money for the fair board hinges on what happens with new mill levies and changes in valuations. He added that the outcome of the personal property tax crunch will also have an impact.

Despite the anticipated shortfalls, the commissioners did sound promising in granting a portion of the county fair board's request. They said they think it's possible in the next fiscal year to approve upwards of $5,000 in additional funds for the fairgrounds.

The additional money would be used by the fair board to finish a fence on the east side of the fairgrounds, estimated to cost $1,200; put a fence around recently purchased land north of the fairgrounds, which is expected to cost $750; and restrooms in the commercial building, at an estimated cost of $3,500, Topp said.

old and he's stepping back from active practice. Another reason is because the four remaining practicing physicians are approximately 15 years apart in age and when the time comes for them to retire, a number will retire at the same time.

Under the merger, the business will be managed by Larry Christensen. Christensen will move to Wayne this summer and he has been working closely with the Benthack Clinic and Wayne Family Practice for the last six months to work out the details of the merger. He comes to the new joint venture with 20 years of experience in medical office management.

"The more stable we make this situation, the better the chances are for improved health care in Northeast Nebraska," Wiseman said. "As other areas in the region decline, more people will be coming to Wayne since Wayne has as many family practitioners as Norfolk. That will be good for this area."

Russian experience awesome

By LaVon Anderson
Assistant Editor

"From Russia With Love" may have been the way Bethany Keidel signed off her letters to home during the past four months.

Bethany, daughter of Wayne residents Richard and Becky Keidel, recently returned to the United States following a four-month study abroad program which took her to St. Petersburg, Russia.

Bethany arrived home on May 24 and spent a week sharing her experiences with family and friends before resuming her studies at the University of Kansas at Lawrence.

THE 22-year-old Wayne native said changes which have taken place in Russia during the past several months continue to have a drastic effect on the Russian people as they struggle to maintain their day-to-day existences.

"Most people say they would like life the way it was," says Bethany, adding that although the Russian people don't necessarily want to see the return of communism, they do want to live their lives as before.

"They say before they had no rights, and now they have rights that they can't utilize." An example, says Bethany, is that the Russian people are now free to travel, but very few can afford to travel.

"The people are also upset that there are borders all of the sudden that didn't exist before. Not too long ago they were free to travel to Latvia or Estonia, now they must have a visa to cross into the neighboring countries."

"Before, under communism, everybody was close to equal. Now, there are as many differences between

... My Russian friends felt lucky to know me. That made our friendship really special.

Bethany Keidel

the poor and the rich as in the United States, although their very rich could be compared to our middle or lower middle class.

Despite the hardships, Bethany says the Russian people don't have the same materialistic views as Americans. "Even though they have less, they've always had less."

"It's very prestigious to have an automobile in Russia," points out Bethany.

THE FOUR-MONTH experience also had an effect on Bethany, who says she would love to live in Russia again and continue improving her Russian language skills.

"I didn't really experience as culture shock in regards to how the Russian people live," says Bethany. "The shock for me was in determining how I was suppose to fit in."

"I was so tired at first. It got dark at 5:30 p.m., everything was dirty and dreary because it was the middle of winter, I didn't have any friends, I couldn't say what I wanted to say, and I didn't understand."

"Everything took so much energy and I was constantly standing in lines to travel or buy food."

In spite of the fact that she has taken four years of Russian language in college, Bethany said she still didn't have all the necessary vocabulary. "I can understand a Russian conversation a lot easier than I can speak Russian. It takes a while sometimes for me to think of the right words."

IT DIDN'T take Bethany long to make acquaintances and she said it was very hard in the end to leave her Russian friends.

"Here," explains Bethany, "we tend to take our foreign exchange students for granted. I knew I was lucky to be in Russia, and my Russian friends felt lucky to know me. That made our friendship really special."

"Everybody wants to know about America. They love the American people. They told me that Americans are good people and always happy. They say our faces are cheerful and colorful."

May weather varied

May was definitely a month of extremes, according to weather data provided by Wayne Weather Observer Pat Gross.

The high for the month was recorded on May 1 when the mercury jumped to 91 degrees, which was also the high temperature for the calendar year. The month's low temperature was recorded at a chilly 31 degrees, registered May 3.

For the month, the average high temperature was 74 degrees and the average low temperature was 45 degrees.

During May, the total precipitation measured came in a 1.84 inches, which was well below the 10-year average for the month of 3.66 inches. The greatest amount of rainfall for the month came May 16, when 1.04 inches fell.

In addition to being below the 10-year average for the month, the calendar to date precipitation of 8.44 inches was below the 10-year average of 10.54.

Gross said that moisture is also down 1.78 from 1991 totals.

Bethany said that while most Russians were interested in knowing her as an American friend, others were interested in her because they thought she had dollars.

"If someone asked me where I was from and I really thought they were interested, I would tell them America. If I thought they just wanted to know if I had dollars, I would say I was from Latvia or Estonia."

BECAUSE OF the exchange rate, Bethany said she felt like she had been given monopoly money when she first arrived in Russia and could buy anything she wanted.

"Guilt set in very quickly," says Bethany shaking her head. "I spent $430 during the entire four months I was in Russia, which is equivalent to one and a half years of family income for the average Russian."

"I felt extremely guilty." Bethany explained that before the coup, it cost five Russian kopecks to ride the metro. After the coup, the metro fare rose to 15 kopecks, and in March, the fare went up to 50 kopecks.

"One hundred kopecks is equal to one ruble," explains Bethany, "and right before I left they changed the metro fare to one ruble. So, in less than a year, the metro fare rose 20 times the amount."

"I love Diet Coke," smiles Bethany, "and I remember standing in line to buy one while everyone else was in line for bread. I had to stand in a line to get into the store, another line to buy the Coke, and in another line to pay for it."

"While most people there were buying items costing under 15 rubles, I was spending 55 rubles on a Diet Coke. I felt so stupid by the time it was all over that I never really enjoyed the Coke."

BETHANY SAID the average salary now for a family in Russia is 1,500 to 2,000 rubles a month, which converted to American money would average $15 to $20 per month.

"It's very difficult to explain how out of hand the prices are in Russia," says Bethany, pointing out that a loaf of bread in the United States, if compared to the price structure in Russia, would cost $4.

"Most of the extra food I bought was fruit," says Bethany, adding that a pound of pears would cost approximately 30 rubles.

She added that fruit is scarce in Russia, while abundant in Latvia. "We bought bananas on a trip to Latvia and offered to share one with a Russian friend named Inga on the train ride home. 'Oh yes,' smiled Inga, 'I had one of these once when I was young and I liked them'."

She also bought kiwi in Latvia and brought them back to share with a Russian instructor. "The instructor had tasted kiwi during a trip to the United States and had tried to explain to her children how wonderful it was. She was so grateful for my gift and she wanted to know where I got them."

In addition to her roommates, Bethany said her main friends were a group of artists she met who were displaying their work on the streets of St. Petersburg.

"My friend showed me a painting of a father, mother and little boy at the circus, entitled 'Oranges Growing at the Circus.' The spotlight was behind them and the little boy was holding an orange."

"I asked my friend to explain and he said that for the little boy, having an orange was as big a deal as going to the circus."

BETHANY SAID it's very difficult for the average American to understand how the Russian people live.

"There are a lot of stray animals on the streets of St. Petersburg now because the people couldn't afford to feed them through the winter and simply put them out."

"It was very cold while I was there and the Russians don't have warm coats like us. They would ask me if I had a warm coat and I would answer yes. Then I would feel guilty again!"

Bethany said she was friends of a woman, her husband and their three-year-old son who lived in one room, while another man lived next to them in another room. They all shared a common entrance and the same kitchen and toilet facilities.

"There was a family in the same situation in Estonia, and in both cases the single men living next to them were alcoholics."

"This is very common."

WITH ALL the changes which have taken place, Bethany said the Russian people are very confused.

"So much is legal that didn't use to be, that even the police are confused. Their jobs are very difficult now and they are still enforcing old laws."

"My friends have only recently been allowed by law to display their artwork on the streets, and the police still come by and threaten to break the glass out of them if they aren't taken down."

Bethany says she remembers going into a shop to drink coffee and being the object of intense stares. "They told me it was neat to meet an American friend and that before 1985 I would have been escorted back to my hotel and they would have been taken to prison."

"There's definitely a lot of changes taking place."

DURING HER time in Russia, Bethany was among 15 Americans who attended Gornyi Institute in St. Petersburg and resided in a dormitory.

"They have a very good department of Russian language for foreigners, although the schedule was very difficult to get used to."

Bethany explains that she attended three classes each day, each lasting one and a half hours, with an hour lunch. "It was difficult to listen to Russian for three hours without a break. I got a headache."

In the beginning, Bethany said the difficulty was listening to the words. Later, the difficulty was in learning the material.

Bethany attended classes in Russian grammar, phonetics, conversation, analytical reading, literature, translation and newspapers. "We would read Russian newspapers and discuss their grammatical structures or style of writing."

She pointed out that grammar was her favorite class and translation her least favorite. "The Russian style of teaching is very unstructured and the material seems to be presented randomly, which makes it difficult to deal with in translation."

WHILE STAYING in St. Petersburg, Bethany also had an opportunity to travel to Rita in Latvia, Tartu and Tallinn in Estonia, Moscow, Yalta in the Ukraine, and Sochi and Pskov in Russia.

"The Baltic States are much better off than Russia," says Bethany, adding that although it has always been that way, the difference is even greater today.

Bethany also had an opportunity to assist the U.S. Consulate with humanitarian aid from the United States. She helped unload $3 million of medical aid for distribution to 12 hospitals throughout St. Petersburg.

She pointed out that the shipment she assisted with was one of 65 shipments from the United States to the entire commonwealth from Feb. 10 to Feb. 26 through Operation Provide Hope.

"I was a little disillusioned when I found out that most of what we unloaded was leftover from the Persian Gulf War."

BETHANY plans to graduate this July from the University of Kansas with a BA in Russian language and literature.

Although her future plans are uncertain, she knows she would like to live in Russian again to learn more about the Russian language and culture. "I got so much input while I was there for four months that I couldn't process it all."

"I'd always heard that the Russian people would do anything for you. I didn't find it like that. It was a hard winter and everyone was just trying to survive. Once I met people and got to be friends, then everything I had heard about them applied. It was really hard to leave."

Bethany said she'll plan her next visit during the summer months when things are not so depressing. "When I left, the temperatures were climbing into the 60's and it didn't get dark until around midnight."

"I've heard Leningrad is beautiful in the summertime."

4-H'ers hold Ponca camp June 23 or 24

All 4-H members and their friends from Cedar, Dakota, Dixon, Thurston and Wayne counties are welcome to attend Ponca 4-H Day Camp on June 23 or 24 at Ponca State Park. Campers must have been born Jan. 1, 1978 through Dec. 31, 1983 to attend.

This year's camp, a registered Q125 event, will feature sessions on mountain men, tree history and fishing in addition to crafts, swimming and recreation activities. A highlight of the camp will be mountain man Les Vilda, of rural Wilber. Vilda is celebrating Q125 by traveling across Nebraska twice this summer. On each trip he will represent a different group of people that traveled the state before Nebraska's statehood in 1867.

Registration fee for the camp is $10 and registration deadline is June 12, no walk-ins allowed. The fee includes two meals, swimming, crafts and insurance.

The camp is sponsored by the University of Nebraska Northeast Five Extension Program Unit and registration forms may be obtained from the Cooperative Extension Offices in Cedar, Dakota, Dixon, Thurston or Wayne Counties.

Blood drive is successful

The Siouxland Blood Bank wishes to congratulate the Wayne community and surrounding areas for supporting the blood drive held Thursday, May 28 at Providence Medical Center. Fifty-two individuals volunteered to donate blood and 49 pints were collected.

The Siouxland Blood Bank gratefully acknowledges the following individuals: Robert F. Patefield, five gallon donor; Vernon Bauermeister, four gallon donor; Kristy Otte, three gallon donor; Diane Hefti, Suzanne J. Olson and Michael Lance, two gallon donors; Arlene Bidwell and Lyle Nyhof, one gallon donors; and first time donors Ronald L. Elsberry, Dana K. Nelson and Janice M. Zeiss.

A special thanks goes out to all the volunteers who have helped make the blood drive a success. The Siouxland Blood Bank's commitment to area hospital patients is dependent on the involvement of communities such as Wayne.

Insurance, office relocation wait

Board tables decisions

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Wayne County's commissioners dealt with insurance bids and the possible relocation of the Wayne County Social Services office but took no action on either agenda item.

Two bids were opened for the county's insurance package Tuesday with the low bid coming in from Warnemunde Insurance and Real Estate of Winside at $58,368. The second bid was received from Northeast Nebraska Insurance for $69,106.

The commissioners didn't tabled action on accepting either of the bids until their June 16 meeting because there were some deviations from the specifications. The commissioners agreed that they wanted to wait to make a final decision in order to give them time to analyze the bids.

ACQUISITION OF office space for the Wayne County Social Services office was put on hold due to problems with potential leases.

Board Chairman Gerald Pospishil said he was asked to wait on requesting a decision from the board until one of the potential leases, Roy Coryell, had time to work out some details with the City of Wayne. Pospishil said he was uncertain what details had to be worked out.

The Wayne County Social Services office is being relocated in order to make room to house the Wayne County Sheriff's office in the basement of the courthouse. Under Nebraska law, the county has to provide the same amount of space to social services that it currently provides.

IN OTHER matters, the board:

- Cancelled a reappraisal check in the amount of $9.99.
- Approved the purchase of a used 1984 pickup for $6,000 for road district three.
- Directed County Roads Superintendent Sid Saunders to advertise the sale of a 1980 Chevrolet pickup with bids to be opened July 7.

- Approved a resolution for adding a culvert project 2 1/4 miles west of Altona to the one year road improvement plan.
- Reappointed Frank Noelle to the Veterans Service Board.
- Examined the 1990-91 audit report by Gary J. Pavel, CPA.

Democrats elect officers

Allen O'Donnell was re-elected chairman and Bob Jordan was re-elected as treasurer of the Wayne Democrat Party at the county convention, held June 1 at the Wayne county courthouse. Also, Jociell Bull was elected party secretary, while Edith Zahniser was elected vice-chair of the Wayne County Democrats.

Carol Preston of Wayne, the College Young Democrat president, was appointed to the executive committee of the county party as the young Democrat representative.

Both O'Donnell and Zahniser were elected delegates to the Nebraska Democrat State convention June 12-14 in Omaha, with Carol Preston serving as alternate delegate.

Discussion at the democratic county convention centered on the possible move of a BMW plant to Nebraska, and the scheduled execution of Willie Otey. The matter of capital punishment will be considered at the state convention along with other platform concerns.

Roeber-Barger repeat vows at Wakefield Immanuel Lutheran

Immanuel Lutheran Church, Wakefield, was the setting for the May 16 wedding of Colleen Marie Roeber and Todd William Barger.

The bride is the daughter of Merle and Donna Roeber of Wayne. Parents of the bridegroom are Marilyn and Mary Barger of Wausa.

Officiating at the 6 o'clock, double ring service was the Rev. Richard Carner of Wayne. Decorations included white pew bows and altar arrangements of pink gladioluses and teal carnations.

Organist was Jane O'Leary of Wayne. Wedding music included "God, a Woman and a Man," "And on This Day" and "A Time For Joy," sung by Gwen Jensen of Wayne.

Jennifer Utecht of Omaha registered the guests. Ushers were Dave Krafka of Aurora and Craig Malasek of Central City.

THE BRIDE was given in marriage by her father and appeared in a full-length white satin gown with a highly decorated V neck and an abundance of pearls and sequins.

The gown was fashioned with accordion pleated sleeves throughout the top then fitted and decorated by lace insets. The waistline was heavily accented with a spray of rhinestones from the bodice with tiny beads hanging loosely along the waistline. European lace bordered the hem and a bow, with a fan-type pleat edging the chapel-length train.

Her fingertip veil was accented with iridescent sequins and a heavily beaded white wreath, and she carried an arm bouquet of ivory silk lilies, ivory roses, teal berries and pearls with long ivory-brocade and-teal streamers.

HONOR attendants for the couple were Cheryl Roeber of Wayne and Don Rodgers of Norfolk.

Bridesmaids were Janet Schmale and Karen Oberle, both of Norfolk, and groomsmen were Troy Barger of Wayne and Mark Roeber of Seward.

The bride's attendants were gowned in teal satin dresses with high-low hemlines and sweetheart necklines. They carried hand bouquets of silk ivory lilies and fuchsia roses accented with fuchsia heather and teal berries.

The bridegroom was attired in a black tuxedo and wore an ivory rose boutonniere with teal berries and pearls. His attendants wore black tuxedos with teal bow ties and cummerbunds and fuchsia rose boutonnieres.

Both mothers of the couple chose one-piece, street-length fuchsia dresses.

Flower girl was Faye Roeber of Wayne and ring bearer was Trevor Erickson of Wausa.

THE 200 guests attending the reception and dance in the Wayne National Guard Armory were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Blecke and Mr. and Mrs. Duaine Jacobsen of Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Paulsen of Hubbard, and Mr. and Mrs. Rod Huttman of Olathe, Kan.

The wedding cake was baked and decorated by Janet Schmale of Norfolk, and cut and served by Mrs. Carmie Marotz of Winside and Mrs. Mary Jenkins of Carroll.

Mrs. Diane Lorenzen of Fort

Mr. and Mrs. Todd Barger

Calhoun and Mrs. Arlis Erickson of Norfolk poured coffee. Mrs. Rhonda Hank and Kristin Hank of Laurel poured and served punch.

Waitresses were Linda Paulsen of Hubbard and Debbie McKenzie of Sioux City.

FOLLOWING a wedding trip to the Rocky Mountains in Colorado, the newlyweds are making their home at Aurora.

District LWML meeting slated in June at Norfolk

Approximately 800 women are expected to attend the district Lutheran Women's Missionary League (LWML) convention this month in Norfolk.

The 26th biennial convention will be held June 19-20 at Northeast Community College. The convention will be a celebration of the 50-year anniversary of the LWML.

The LWML's Nebraska District North extends from Valentine to Plattsmouth and is composed of societies within the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

THE TWO-DAY event includes speakers, Bible studies, LWML business and festival services.

Dr. Dale A. Meyer, Lutheran Hour speaker, will be the preacher for the Friday evening celebration service at Christ Lutheran Church in Norfolk.

Bible studies will be led by the Rev. Darold Reiner, international LWML counselor. Keynote speaker will be Marlys Taegle, author of "WINGS" (Women in God's Service), a 50-year history of the International LWML.

Missionary Everett Garwood will speak of his work in the Philippines.

Representatives from the district's 137 societies will bring mission ingathering supplies for Faith Village, a Bethesda subsidiary in Shawnee Mission, Kan.

CONVENTION delegates will vote on officers, bylaw changes and mission projects.

Hosting the biennial convention will be the Norfolk Zone, which is composed of 19 societies in Norfolk, Madison, Pierce, Tilden, Meadow Grove and Hoskins.

The theme is "Celebrate! Glorify His Name."

Organization marks fifth year

PAL volunteers recognized

Special award certificates were presented to four persons during the People Are Loved (PAL) spring banquet held in May at Wayne city auditorium.

Receiving certificates were Margaret Ritze, Shelly Fehringer, Deb Daum and Jill Snider. The four were acknowledged for their efforts in planning and putting together PAL meetings.

Larry Haase also was recognized for being the "King of Bingo," and Don Cattle was presented a broom for faithful clean-up assistance.

THE PAL group was organized five years ago by Lynette Carmichael, Kay Cattle, Emily Haase and Jeanette Geiger as a way of bringing together residents of the community of all ages with handicapped individuals of all ages. The first meeting was held June 5, 1987.

Meetings are generally held twice a month, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., in the fellowship hall of the First United Methodist Church in Wayne, and include a structured social evening of bingo, games, a music corner, arts and crafts, films and refreshments.

THE NON-PROFIT group relies entirely on volunteers who help make each PAL meeting a great experience for themselves as well as for people with disabilities.

Individuals, groups and organizations wishing to assist at a PAL meeting are asked to contact Lynette and Dick Carmichael, 375-4040; Kay and Don Cattle, 375-4073; Emily and Larry Haase, 375-2243; or Jeanette and Roger Geiger, 375-2179. PAL pamphlets are available explaining the purpose of the organization and ways which volunteers can assist. The pamphlets were printed by Don Cattle in the graphic arts department at Wayne State College.

BEEF! IT'S WHAT'S FOR DINNER!

The National Beef Industry has introduced a new advertising campaign to promote beef as a main course for dinner. Through proceeds from beef check-off funds the industry has started a 17 month, 42 million dollar campaign. This logo will appear on T.V., radio, and popular women and general interest magazines. It will include tips on making beef meals in 30 minutes or less and recipes for low calories beef dishes.

The beef industry is also sponsoring a toll-free consumer hot-line for people who have questions about grilling or summer beef preparation tips. You can call 1-800-392-BEEF between 10:00 am and 6:00 pm from June 15 through July 5. They will also send you a Free Copy of Great Grilled Beef Recipes.

Entry deadline for baseball tourney

WAKEFIELD-The 6th Annual Mid-Summer Classic baseball tournament for ages 8-14 has been set for July 5-10 at Wakefield. The 11th and 12th of July will be reserved for rainouts or divisional play-offs.

The 1991 tournament drew more than 60 teams with over 700 youth participating. There are four age levels—pee-wee juniors, pee-wees, little and ponys. It is one of the largest baseball tournaments staged in the nation.

The tournament committee recognizes the entrants with participation ribbons, awards and certificates. A number of baseball contests and several surprises are planned.

Entry deadline is Friday, June 12. Coaches can obtain entry blanks and information by writing '92 Mid-Summer Classic, P.O. Box 329, Wakefield, NE 68784 or by calling Butch Utemark or Terry Baker at 287-2211 during the day.

WSC baseball team inks recruits

WAYNE-Wayne State College interim head baseball coach John Manganaro recently announced the signing of three recruits.

Anthony Brown, Wakefield, Chad Cervany, Omaha and John Harris, Columbus, will continue their athletic and academic careers at Wayne State.

Brown, a 5-11, 170-pound shortstop, was a three-sport letterwinner at Wakefield High School. He was the starting shortstop for the Wakefield 1990 Class C American Legion State Champions, coached by Paul Eaton, Gregg Cruickshank and current WSC graduate assistant Theron Brockish.

Brown also starred in football and basketball at Wakefield. "Anthony's all-around athletic ability and competitive nature will make him a fine college baseball player," Manganaro said.

Cervany, a 5-5, 140-pound shortstop, was a member of the 1992 Omaha Burke State Champion High School baseball team. He also was selected to play in the Collin-Orcutt All-Star game, which features the top area players.

"Chad's athletic ability and the intensity in which he plays the game will make him a valuable asset to the WSC baseball program," Manganaro said. "We are looking for Chad to come in and contribute to the program right away."

Harris, a 5-11, 160-pound right-handed pitcher, is a standout hurler for Mark Mueller's Columbus American Legion Baseball Team. "John is an outstanding talent," Manganaro said. "We are extremely excited and are looking forward to having him on our team next season. We are hoping John will be able to come in and be our number three starter for next season."

Grandson earns basketball honors

WAYNE-Jerry Meyer, grandson of Edna Meyer and the late Don Meyer of Wayne, was recently honored by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics as an Honorable Mention All-America player for his college basketball play as a junior, for David Lipscomb University in Tennessee.

Meyer plays for his father Jerry Meyer, a former Wayne High and Wayne State College graduate. Jerry was named second team All-American by the NABC.

He was also awarded for his efforts in the classroom as he was named CoSIDA/GTE Academic All-American first team and Player of the Year. A 4.0 double major in political science and psychology, he also was presented the Frank Hesselroth Leadership Award.

This award is given each year to the NAIA top junior basketball player who displays leadership on and off the court.

Summer weightlifting hours set

WAYNE-Summer weightlifting hours at the high school will begin June 8th and run from 6-9 a.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The weights will also be available for use from 3-6 p.m. on those same days.

Tuesdays and Thursdays will have the weightroom open from 6-9 a.m., 3-6 p.m. and 6:30-8 p.m.

Major League baseball tryouts

AKRON, IOWA-The Pittsburgh Pirates will be holding their annual tryout camp in Akron, Iowa on Tuesday, June 16. The camp will be under the direction of Hank Krause, scout, Pittsburgh Pirates.

Participants should be from ages 15-18 and all players must provide their own uniforms, gloves and shoes. The camp will be held at the Akron City Park beginning at 9 a.m. and ending around 2 p.m. There will be a number of scouts and college coaches in attendance.

Record number of campers at WSC

WAYNE-A record number of high school students have signed up for the 1992 Wayne State College Football Camp, according to WSC head football coach Dennis Wagner.

Wagner expects over 225 participants for the camp which runs June 14-17 on the Wayne State campus. Last year, a record 208 campers took part in the event.

"This is our fourth year of having a camp on the WSC campus," Wagner said. "Each year we've increased our numbers from the initial year of 60 to over 200 last year. It says a lot about our camp and the camp staff. We're also the most affordable camp in the midwest, so people know they'll get a lot for their money."

The Wayne State Football Camp features instruction and evaluation in weight/fitness training, running skills, and football techniques and fundamentals.

Wayne girls begin year with wins over Ponca

The Wayne girls softball teams opened up season play in Ponca Tuesday night and Mary Ann Lutt's teams came away with convincing victories.

The 16 and under squad came out on top of a 19-2 score as Wendy Beiermann got the pitching victory. Beiermann struck out six and allowed just one hit.

Wayne scored nine runs in the second inning and 10 in the third. Wayne had eight hits with Jenny Thompson leading the way with a pair of doubles and a single while Tracy O'Borny had two singles. Beiermann, Twila Schindler and Carrie Fink each singled.

"The girls played very well," Lutt said. "They did a good job of fielding with limited errors and Wendy pitched a very good game."

The 18 and under team won 13-1 as Beiermann got the win in that game as well from the mound, allowing just three hits. Wayne pounded out 12 hits led by Beiermann's three singles.

Lana Casey and Tracy O'Borny each had a single and a double while Shawn Schroeder laced a pair of singles. Molly Melena, Devanee Jensen and Jenny Thompson each singled for the winners.

"It was a one sided game in our favor," Lutt said. "We got some very strong pitching from Wendy and offensively we hit the ball solidly." Wayne will host South Sioux on Thursday at Overin Field with the 16 and under game beginning at 6:30 p.m. with the 18 and under to follow.

Chuck Fisher captures top prize in Wayne Golf Open

The Wayne Country Club Memorial Men's Golf Open was held Sunday with 206 golfers taking part in 13 flights.

The overall Wayne Open champ was Chuck Fisher of Westminster, Co. Fisher, a three-time winner of the event in the last eight years, fired rounds of 34-36 to take a one stroke lead over West Point native Chad Kurlmel before the final nine holes.

Fisher went on to post a 27-hole score of 108 for a two stroke victory over Kurlmel. Matt Bauer of O'Neill placed third with a 110 while Jerry Schneider of Beemer placed fourth with a 111. Fisher has placed in the Wayne Open consecutively the last eight years.

Dale Erwin of Sioux City placed fifth with a 111 and Bill Fry of Lincoln, finished sixth with a 112 while Kirk Eymann of Papillion, carded a 112 for seventh place. Fremont's Matt Shaner fired a 112 for while Dave Dunn carded an 88 for runner-up honors. Bill Dickey finished third with an 88 and Ken Berglund placed fourth with an 89.

Gary Lubberstedt won the 10th flight with an 87 while Rollie Bertendorf placed second with an 89. Kevin Peterson placed third with a 90 and Brian Borland placed fourth with a 91.

Scott Raasch captured the 11th flight with an 87 and Randy Rink placed runner-up with an 88 while Jim Swanson finished third with a 90. Mike Roeber carded a 92 for fourth place.

Bob Nelson won the 12th flight with a 92 while Pat Burger placed second with a 96. Dan Bowers finished third with a 99 and Steve Muir finished fourth with a 100.

Sioux City boasts unbelievable golf course with Dakota Dunes

It is no major secret that one of my favorite past times is playing golf. Monday, however, I learned what it was to experience golf on a PGA course.

Al Pippitt, Jeff Sperry, Mark Crist, Mike Grosz, Rick Kerkman and yours truly, made the trek to Dakota Dunes Country Club in North Sioux City to play in a four man scramble in what was called "Dakota Dunes Media Day Scramble."

This event, the third year running but the first at the new Dakota Dunes course, was sponsored by the sponsors of the Ben Hogan Dakota Dunes Open which will be held July 13-19.

Like all trips I take, some of the adventure is just getting to the event. Rick drove with three passengers, Al, Mike and myself. Meanwhile, Mark and Jeff drove behind in another car just in case someone had to come back early.

The closer we got to Sioux City we noticed that Mark and Jeff were no where to be found. We pulled over on the four lane outside of South Sioux and waited.

Casually, Rick made the remark that it sure seemed strange that with all the cars driving by no one was even bothering to stop to see if we needed any help.

Of course, within moments after saying that, a pick-up truck pulled along side of us and asked if he could help us in any way. At any rate, we managed to get back on the road and made it to the Dakota Dunes Country Club.

Following a press conference and luncheon, the 80-some golfers made their way to the practice greens and driving range. I was simply amazed at how beautiful it was just in those areas.

We managed to talk Rick into the long drive contest and despite his early resentment of the idea, he decided to give it a try where he ended up placing second.

The teams were divided into foursomes by handicaps. Somehow, Rick, Mike and I were in the same foursome with a true gentleman and scholar named J.D. Walls.

J.D. is a producer for KCAU-TV Channel 9 in Sioux City. The Ohio State Buckeye grad isn't a bad golfer either. You know how I said the foursomes were divided by handicap. Well, for a while it seemed that J.D.'s handicap was his other three golfers.

He came into the scramble as the two-time defending champ and if that didn't make me feel right at home then the fact that my first taking a full swing because it wasn't going to hurt anything and before long I was. Now that I had that part of the game figured out, we came upon a par four that you had to cross the water twice before you got to the green.

That's when I figured out why they gave us a complimentary three-pack of golf balls. Unfortunately, I ended up losing 10 golf balls and between Rick, Mike and I we lost a total of 20 on the day.

I highly recommend that you go over and see this course, whether you play it or not because it is truly a thing of beauty. Just on the 18th hole alone, you step up to the tee box and on your right is the Missouri River and on the left is a forest I don't think they've named yet. The middle 20 yards is the fairway.

We did manage to finish the scramble and unbelievably, our foursome finished second and we were rewarded handsomely. Just to give you some idea about the length of the course, by taking the cart paths only, the course is seven and a half miles.

It was a completely fun-filled day at the Dunes and despite the fact that it took us 15 minutes to get out of the Dakota Dunes Country Club area because of all the circles we made, (sorry Mike) we all decided that we will return once again next year.

Tennis Clinic on Saturday

There will be a free Tennis Clinic on Saturday from 10 a.m. to approximately noon for anyone interested, regardless of age or experience. The clinic is sponsored by the United States Tennis Association and will be conducted by Lincoln native Sig Garnett and coordinated by City Rec Tennis Director and instructor Tom Roberts.

No registration is required for the clinic but those attending should bring their own shoes and rackets.

At 9:30 a.m. on Saturday, tennis registration for city rec free lessons will take place for those who did not make it to early registration during the week.

Classes begin on Monday, June 8, at 7:30 a.m. in three one hour segments. The first class is for boys ages 8-14. From 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. will be lessons for all girls, (all ages.) From 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. will be instructional lessons for boys aged 15 and older.

Classes will run on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays and will last approximately four weeks. There will also be an adult tennis class on Monday and Thursday nights from 6-8 p.m. for men and women.

We would like to take 'Time Out' to extend our Gratitude and Appreciation to everyone who helped us celebrate our Grand Opening. Without your support it wouldn't have been a Success!

U.S. Coast Guard seeks applicants

The United States Coast Guard Academy is now accepting and processing applications for appointment as Cadet, U.S. Coast Guard, Class of 1997.

Applications are being accepted for both men and women. Appointments as Coast Guard Cadets are tendered solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition with no congressional nominations or geographical quotas. Applications must be submitted to the Director of Admissions prior to 15 December, 1992. Candidates must arrange to participate in either the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or American College Testing Assessment (ACT) prior to or including the December 1992 ACT and SAT test administrations.

Appointments as Cadet are tendered based on the candidate's high school record, performance on either the SAT or ACT, and leadership potential as demonstrated by participation in high school activities, community affairs and/or part-time employment. Most successful candidates rank in the top quarter of their high school class and have demonstrated proficiency in both the mathematical and applied science fields.

Candidates must be unmarried at the time of appointment, have no legal obligations resulting from a prior marriage, and must have reached the age of 17 but not 22 by 1 July 1993.

All candidates must be assured of high school graduation by June 30, 1993. All candidates must have completed a minimum of three years of English, and three in mathematics to include algebra and plane or coordinate geometry or their equivalents, and must fulfill basic physical requirements.

To obtain an application or further information write: Director of Admissions, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, 15 Mohegan Avenue, New London, CT 06320; or call (203) 444-8501.

Service Station

Army Spec. Gary L. Anderson has been decorated with the Good Conduct Medal.

The medal is awarded for exemplary conduct while in the active service of the U.S.

Anderson, a military police custom's inspector, is the son of Jerry and Edith Anderson of Wakefield. His wife, Becky, is the daughter of Byron Heier and Barbara Heier, both of Wayne.

The specialist is a 1988 graduate of Wakefield High School and is stationed in Fulda, Germany.

Nebraska admirals take three flags across state

Three flags: American, Nebraskan and Q125, destined for the depths of the world's oceans will be in Dixon and Wayne Counties for a brief flag raising ceremony at each of the county courthouses.

After flying at all 93 county seats the flags will be presented to the commander of the submarine U.S.S. Nebraska, SSBN 739, at christening ceremonies in Groton, Conn. where the ship is now under construction.

The flag raising ceremony for Dixon County will be held in Ponca on Wednesday, June 10 at 2:30 p.m. In Wayne County, the ceremony will be held at the Wayne County Courthouse Thursday, June 11 at 10 a.m.

Two members of the Society of Nebraska Admirals, Roy Landis of North Platte and Byron Nieman of Burwell are carrying the flags in an RV to every county in the state. They have already completed 53 counties in western Nebraska with 40 more to go, all in eastern Nebraska. They report extraordinary receptions to the project so far with many local organizations and officials participating in the flag raising.

Intentions sought

First District Congressional candidate, Gerry Finnegan, called upon all other candidates for Congress to announce their intentions if the Electoral College fails to select a president by majority vote.

Finnegan said, "If the selection of the president is thrown into the House of Representatives I would cast my vote in favor of the candidate with the greatest popular vote."

Finnegan said that the three way race between Bill Clinton, George Bush and Ross Perot greatly increases the likelihood that the House will make that choice under the Twelfth Amendment, and that the composition of its Congressional delegation would make Nebraska a pivotal state in that voting.

Finnegan added that he views this prospect as a potential constitutional crisis and he believes that partisan considerations should be set aside.

Youth is intern

Chad Sebade of Wayne is one of 10 Northeast Community College building construction students who is serving an internship under the college's cooperative education program.

Sebade is working at Carhart Lumber Company of Wayne.

Cooperative intern education provides on the job training in a position related to each student's major field of study and career goals.

Students also receive exposure to practitioners in their chosen field, direct contact with potential employers, college credit while working, and a salary while learning.

Employers have the opportunity to preview candidates for permanent employment, train potential employees, reduce their cost of recruiting and training and increase their company's visibility in the community.

Entries sought

Registration applications are now being accepted for the 29th Annual KTIV Channel 4-River-Cade Parade. The parade will be held on Monday July 20.

The theme of this year's Festival is "Get Hooked on River-Cade".

All parade entries must be decorated floats or have some type of creative theme involved. To insure a high quality parade, all entries must be pre-approved by the River-Cade Parade Fleet.

Five awards will be presented to winners in the following categories:

1. Admiral's Award - most outstanding over-all entry.
2. Commodore's Award - best commercial entry.
3. Queen's Award - best non-commercial entry.

4. Princess' Award - best entry of exceptional merit.

5. Theme Award - best theme entry.

The five traveling trophies are courtesy of Tom and Mary Ellen Sletten, of the Garvey's Trophy Shop in South Sioux City, long-time supporters of the River-Cade Festival.

Registration applications and information packets are available at the River-Cade office located in the Sergeant Floyd Riverboat, 1000 Larsen Park Road. Entry fee is $10 for non-profit organizations and $50 commercial entries.

If further information is needed, please contact the River-Cade office at 277-4226.

Healthy in many ways

Having just concluded Beef Month in May, it is timely to remind ourselves of the importance of the livestock industry to the state and local economy.

Not just beef, but pork, poultry and even sheep are crucial to the Nebraska way of life — a way of life that includes a healthy balanced diet, a healthy environment and a healthy economy.

The well-organized but not well-informed anti-meat groups would have the world believe that the livestock industry is injurious to the environment and wastes food resources that could better be used to feed the world's hungry.

Few things could be further from the truth.

Millions of acres of Nebraska and U.S. lands are unsuitable for any kind of agricultural production other than livestock.

In the past when some of these grasslands have been cultivated for crops, the damage to the environment has been severe. Yet, when grazed sensibly, with proper land management, the lands produce a crop — livestock, that does help feed the world's hungry and improves and sustains the fragile grasslands environment.

Thus, the livestock industry is producing food on lands that would otherwise go unused, and at the same time is working to improve the vast resources that are the rangelands of America.

Professional Dieticians still maintain the best diet is one that includes sensible amounts of all the food groups including protein and vitamin-rich meats.

The meat industry helps maintain a healthy diet, healthy environment and healthy economy for all of us.

The cost of protection

Community leaders in Hoskins, Carroll and Winside have raised some valid concerns about the contracted police protection those communities receive through the Wayne County Sheriff's office.

Leaders there contend they should get more service than they are experiencing. Response to calls ranges from 45 minutes to over a week, they say.

For $24,000, the amount the communities pay extra to the county to provide extra patrols and police services, in their communities, they should be getting better service than they have been experiencing.

We believe the residents of those communities should expect better protection than what their claims show have been happening.

The problem is, it might not be expected to come from a sheriff's department limited to its current manpower and equipment constraints.

By comparison, residents in Wayne pay for and receive 24-hour immediate police services at the tune of over $340,000 a year.

That computes to a per capita cost of around $66.

It would be nice if the residents of Winside, Hoskins and Carroll enjoyed the same level of police services, but it is doubtful it will happen when they are paying for them at the rate of only about $24 per capita.

The 4-man sheriff's office has an obligation to provide service to the residents of the county in general, serve court papers and administer the Juvenile Detention Center in addition to handling calls in villages which have contracted for police services.

It is a workload that understandably stretches the small force pretty thin.

Without a shift in responsibilities and without consideration of additional resources for the sheriff's department, we don't see how all the far flung demands being placed on the department can be met.

Capitol News— Feds flex muscle over road signs

Capital News

By Melvin Paul

Statehouse Correspondent
Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN - All those signs along the highway that urge you to get off the road and sleep at Motel 6, gas up at Stuckey's or see the world's only two-headed cow may become history.

The federal government this year passed a law requiring the states to get rid of all the illegal signs, and buy up all the legal signs along highways, in the name of highway beautification.

And some people are just mad as heck about it.

Folks at Pioneer Village, the museum of Americana in Minden, say they figure they'll lose a fourth of their business when the 176 signs they have all around the state are forced to come down.

Motels, gas stations and others that don't make any money if tourists just blow by on the highway are also real concerned. All in all, about 1,800 signs in Nebraska are targeted. I had one sign owner tell me of the unspeakable things he would do to Lady Bird Johnson if he could get his hands on her now.

You see, it was Lady Bird that brought all this about.

She had been appalled by the proliferation of billboards she saw during a train ride across the country. The billboards were not only advertising tourist stops and roadside services, but products like Burma-Shave shave cream. You remember Burma-Shave signs. Each had

A Few Words...

Breaking Up...

The Message...

As You Drove...

Like This...

A lot of the signs were eyesores, with faded paint and such.

Lady Bird urged her then-President husband to push and then sign the 1965 Highway Beautification Act. Thousands of signs and billboards were removed in Nebraska after Congress passed the beautification act, but hundreds were still left in their wake when the federal funding dried up in 1978.

Now 27 years after it's passage, it's back, and it has been given teeth. The feds say if the state doesn't comply by the end of next year, it could lose 10 percent of its highway funds.

It's an all-too-familiar threat.

Remember the seat belt bill the Legislature passed this year after the feds said do this or else? Maybe the things they're mandating aren't so bad, but just the fact they're putting a gun to your head like that is enough to make you want to secede from the union.

Governor Nelson has granted the billboards at least a temporary reprieve.

Last month, he ordered the Nebraska Department of Roads to stop mailing out purchase contracts to the owners of the targeted billboards. He said he had "grave concerns" and asked for a study on what elimination of the billboards would do to the motorists and businesses.

I don't know what to think about the whole thing. There are people who certainly think the signs detract from our beautiful landscapes.

On the other hand, a sign advertising a two-headed cow sure breaks up the monotony of a long drive.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Even when it's warped—

The brain: an amazing organ, if used

I was intrigued recently with the news reports about a new study that has discovered tiny crystal magnets in the human brain.

Scientists at the California Institute of Technology have identified strongly magnetic, microscopic crystals in the brain.

They are not sure why those magnets are in there but they think they might be a link to why homing pigeons and whales always know which way they are going while the average man can't drive through Omaha without a map and a wife to guide him.

The scientists also theorize that the tiny brain magnets might be affected by electromagnetic fields created by power transmission lines and toasters and such.

If they are, it could be one explanation for why some people get brain tumors.

Now don't get all worried about the weight of the magnets you're carrying around in your brain, they're pretty small. Why, if you could extract all the magnets out of a million human brains, you could put the whole lot in a very small envelope, send them to Cal. Tech. and it would only take a 29-cent stamp.

I know this might seem a little too technical, considering the normal low-brow material that normally occupies this space. But, if you bear with me a minute and it might make sense to you too.

Personally, I think the scientists have missed an obvious explanation for the brain magnets.

I call it the Mann brain warp theory and I think the new crystal magnet discovery confirms it.

The whole concept came to me late one night while I was trying to think up a column subject. Deadline was just a few hours away and I didn't have a clue.

I turned on the TV to see if I could get a subject there and it came to me in a Star Trek rerun. Or was it the electromagnetic impulse from turning the set on?

From whence it came, I know not, but what "it" was, was a flash of deja vu.

I knew I had lived the same late-night scene before; watching the same rerun; worrying about the same column subject; and getting zapped by the same electromagnetic impulse.

It was a moment of discovery.

The characters on the Star Trek show were talking about time travel right then. They theorized that if they could get their "warp drive" engines going fast enough they could travel in time.

Every since Einstein's light speed theory — that being, if we could ever reach the speed of light, we would actually be traveling in time — fiction writers and scientists have toyed with the idea of time travel.

Scientists are building huge super-conducting atomic speed tracks to try to get sub-microscopic particles to travel at or near the speed of light. They use magnets in these super-colliders to help speed the particles along.

Mann Overboard

By Les Mann

My theory is: the newly discovered magnets in our brains serve the same purpose.

When those tiny electronic impulses that make up our thought processes get to flying around in our heads, assisted by the conductivity of the little magnets, sometimes they go faster than the speed of light.

When this happens, our thoughts actually travel in time and we experience deja vu — that feeling of having lived the same scene before. In these cases, when our physical side catches up with our mental side, we sense that we have been there before.

We haven't really, it's just our brain working at warp speed.

Tie in Einstein's theory, the latest atomic research, the new brain magnet discovery, and an episode from Star Trek and it all makes perfect sense.

Remember, you read it here first. Beam me up Scotty.

City Hall's injustice

A couple of months ago there was an ad in the Wayne newspaper saying that there was an opening for the girl's softball coaching position. I wasn't aware that there was a position open for that job. Doug Sturm took over the girl's softball coaching position after Daryl Bailey and his wife left town. He did not have to apply for the job, it was just offered to him and he has always wanted to coach, so he gladly accepted.

Now, two years later, the job is open, not even to Doug's knowledge that he didn't have the job any longer. As a result of the opening, Doug applied for his own job (which I didn't think was right but he applied anyway because he wanted his job back), along with three other people. Another applicant got the job and another got the assistant coaching job, but two weeks later both quit. Instead of offering the job back to Doug (the only other one who applied and shouldn't have had to, and the only one who really wanted the job in the first place), the job was given to someone else entirely. The new coach even asked the city office if Doug could be her assistant and the answer was no.

What is going on? Why all of a sudden did Doug have to apply for the coaching job that he held for two years without any complaints. None of the other coaches had to apply for their jobs this year. I want to say that I think Doug did a very good job with the girls. And I'm not saying the new coach won't be good, too, and I definitely don't think another coaching change would be good for the girls again now so far into the season, but it's the principle of the thing and it just makes me mad at how certain things are being handled in the City of Wayne. Something really needs to be done.

Shame on thieves

What is it that prompts a person to steal a container of flowers from a grave in the Wayne cemetery — beautiful pink petunias and geraniums? Whoever you are, I hope your conscience bothers you enough to prompt you to return them to us.

The graves were those of kind, gentle, loving grandparents who loved nature, particularly flowers. They, too, would be unable to understand your motives. I feel very ashamed of you and for you.

Mark discovers—

Religion and Cool-Aid just don't mix

I might get struck by lightning for discussing such a sensitive religious topic but that's a chance we all have to take at some point. Right?

I haven't figured out what it is but there's something about drinking Cool-Aid at church. I've never been able to peg what it is but it always has this distinctly different taste about it.

Maybe God hates Cool-Aid.

Just lately I had the opportunity to help out my church's youth group when they held a fund raiser so they could take a trip to South Dakota this summer. The fund raiser meal featured lasagna, garlic bread and salad, and those who attended had the option of having Cool-Aid, coffee or water.

While the people at the church know how to make terrific coffee and water is water almost anywhere you go, except in Mexico, from what I hear, Cool-Aid is a whole different subject.

I've been to numerous church fund raisers where Cool-Aid was served. I don't know what it is but it always, and I mean always, has this funny taste. Maybe church water doesn't mix with it well. I just don't know.

Anyway, a family friend, who we will call Marie in order to protect her identity, was serving the drinks, which included Cool-Aid. As I remember, the Cool-Aid was red, so I presume that it was either cherry or raspberry. The only problem was that it didn't taste like cherry or raspberry. It was just red and it had this rather bitter taste to it.

I turned to Marie's daughter, who we will call Beth in order to protect her identity, who was seated next to me, and asked her what flavor this red-colored Cool-Aid was.

"Moosooooom. You forgot the sugar," Beth exclaimed.

So Marie tasted it and this funny little curl came up on her lip. Then she gave this sheepish grin, like she had just been slapped in the face with a lasagna noodle, and made a quick U-turn towards the back of the kitchen.

Anyway, not wanting Marie to think I was rude, I proceeded to drink as much of the red concoction as I could. I made it about half way before my lips started to pucker and my mouth began to dry. Drinking sugarless Cool-Aid may be better for you than drinking it with sugar but it's almost like eating lemons without sugar.

"Is this DIET Cool-Aid?" I asked, teasing Marie about the newest soft drink on the market.

"Would you like me to go home and get that extra pound of sugar we have in the pantry," I teased.

"Oh, come here," she exclaimed. After getting a refill, I overheard her say to another volunteer: "Well no one else noticed and it really was bad."

I think Methodists have grown accustomed to consuming bad Cool-Aid.

I couldn't help but feel sorry for Marie, so I told her that I have never been in a Methodist church where the Cool-Aid was particularly edifying. Come to think of it now, I've never been at any Methodist function where the Cool-Aid was really effective — and that's to quench your thirst or wash down what you've just eaten.

Maybe God doesn't hate Cool-Aid, maybe it's just Methodists.

On second thought, maybe God and Methodists don't hate Cool-Aid, maybe Cool-Aid hates Methodists.

Pool plans activities

With the Wayne Municipal Swimming Pool open for the season, a number of activities are planned.

Lap swim begins Monday, June 8 with lap swim hours running from 12:15-12:45 p.m. Monday through Friday. Senior Citizens Swim is on Saturdays from 11 a.m. to noon.

Aquacize classes also start Monday, June 8 and it will be held from 5 p.m. to 5:50 p.m. Monday through Friday. Daily sessions are $1.50 and a 15 session pass is $17.50. The 25 session pass is $25 and a season pass is $35.

People in the aquacize class must have an aquacize pass or a session card or pay daily for the exercises. Babysitting during the aquacize class is available to all participants. Children ages 1-6 is at a cost of 50 cents per child. Children under age one will not be accepted.

Special events have also been planned at the Wayne pool. Flotation nights will be from 9-10 p.m. on June 3, 17, July 1, 15, 29 and Aug. 5, 9. Junior high nights, which is for students in grades five through eight, June 11, 25, July 9, 23 and Aug. 13. The fee for the junior high nights is $1 or a season pass.

Boys State begins

Approximately 405 high school juniors from across Nebraska will be participating in Cornhusker Boys State, June 7-13 at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln downtown campus. The annual citizenship program, sponsored by the Nebraska American Legion, is designed to provide youth with a better understanding of how city, county and state governments operate.

Each boy is sponsored locally by an organization such as an American Legion Post, or by some other patriotic, civic, fraternal or religious group in cooperation with the local Legion post.

Cornhusker Boys' State is set up as a functional "51st" mythical state and each boy learns how government subdivisions operate by actually doing the job. Participants will campaign for offices, hold elections, take part in band and chorus, compete in athletics and participate in other varied activities as part of the citizenship training program.

Citizens of Cornhusker Boys' State are instructed in the duties of various public offices — they learn the functioning of each office and its power and limitations. They set up their own state government. They draft bills and are taught the proper method of law enforcement.

Textbooks are provided explaining the practical operation and function of government agencies. Special lectures and addresses are delivered by experienced public officials and professional leaders including Governor Ben Nelson, Court of Appeals Chief Judge Richard Sievers and state senators Don Wesely and George Coorsen.

Open forums are conducted with youth citizens having impressed upon them the importance of government being just what they make it.

Cornhusker Boys' State operates as a corporation and has several prominent state and government officials on its board of directors. Alden Johnson, Lincoln, served as a president and is in charge of the event. Boys' State vice presidents are Ed Farr, Cedar Bluffs, and Roy Scheaff, Lincoln. Serving as secretary and administrative officer of the encampment is Duane Bokemper, adjutant of the Nebraska American Legion.

Wallet theft makes for some inconveniences

It turns out my wallet was stolen, along with several others in the same building and they have the culprit. As usual, there was very little cash in mine. But it's all the other things we need!

I had another check book, but when I went to the grocery store to write one for cash, they insisted on a photo ID. I went home and dug out my passport. What do folks who don't have a driver's license do? Mike called the county treasurer's office and they sent me an application for a duplicate. That had to be signed by a notary and returned with $5. Then the duplicate had to go to the driver's testing station on West O Street, where they took a photo and made me legal again.

Being without a Mastercard was worse. I always put gas and other auto expenses on it. Sure enough, I had to replace a heater core (more steam from the dash) and I use a lot of gas.

I was home the weekend I cancelled all my cards and as I got ready to leave on Sunday afternoon, Mike offered me his. He said he never used it anyway.

I stopped at Columbus to spoil the grandchildren and Monte offered to take my car to his service station and fill it. I took him up on it and handed him Mike's credit card.

When the guy at the station ran it through the computer that checks cards, the sign said, "pick up this card." How dumb can we get? We have the same card numbers; just two cards! Monte had to talk fast to get the card back and ended up paying for the gas.

I still haven't bought a new wallet; I can't seem to find one like the one I had. Most have far too many pockets. We really don't need all that. It only helps us forget which pocket items are in.

It's all been a darned nuisance. Penney's sent a new card, but kept the same account number. They said their experience had been that lost cards were seldom used.

I got the new Mastercard on Friday, the same day I replaced the driver's license. I'm in business again! I went immediately to the nearest Richman-Gordman and got birthday gifts for Kay and Sarah, plus a graduation gift for Jay.

Nephew Jay graduates from Lexington, S.C. high school on the 31st and the ceremony is in the Carolina Coliseum in Columbia. He's getting the rubber chicken back that Uncle Mike got in the white elephant gift exchange at Christmas. And the official gift from R-G, of course. Congrats, Jay. We'll try to put up with you as a Gamecock!

Program focuses on stress

Mary Tenski will be the featured presenter for the Grand Rounds program "STRESS: The Greatest Concern of the 20th Century" on Thursday, June 18 at Prenger's Restaurant in Norfolk.

The program will begin with lunch at 11:30 a.m.

Tenski works with the Skilled Nursing Unit at Columbus Hospital, and has lectured extensively to a wide variety of groups.

This program will cover topics such as understanding stress, understanding the body's natural response to stress, and learning how to reduce the effects of stress using nutrition and behavior changes.

It will also cover its effect on metabolism, the dangers of long-term stress, and stress and aging.

The program is open to anyone wishing to learn more about stress and how to deal with it.

Cost of the program is $5 for lunch.

For more information concerning the program, or registration instructions, contact Project Access, 370-3113.

The program is sponsored by Project Access and Northeast Community College.

FmHA raises limits

Effective June 8, Farmer's Home Administration's income limits will be raised for Wayne County. "The revised income limits will increase the number of households that qualify for our housing programs," stated Mark Moser, Farmers Home Administration County Supervisor in Wayne. The revised income limits for Wayne County are according to the chart with this article.

	Very Low Income Limit	Low Income Limit
1 person	$10,450	$16,750
2 persons	11,950	19,150
3 persons	13,450	21,550
4 persons	14,950	23,900
5 persons	16,150	25,850
6 persons	17,350	27,750
7 persons	18,550	29,650
8 persons or more	19,750	31,550

Depending on individual household circumstances, some adjustments can be made to household income before a comparison is made with the above chart. Funds for this fiscal year (ending Sept. 30) should be adequate in both the very-low and low income categories. You may contact the local FmHA office in Wayne concerning more details on the program.

All in the horns (sort of)

WITH UNCERTAINTY OVER WHAT the weather was going to do, the Wayne Community Band held its concert in the City Auditorium last week. While most of the band members played their instruments without any assistance from outside forces, (photo left) Dr. Ken Liska donned his longhorn baseball cap for inspiration.

Up With People stops in Norfolk

Get ready to celebrate. Up With People is bringing its all-new show, "Rhythm of the World" to the Norfolk city auditorium, June 20, 1992 at 8 p.m.

The two-hour musical extravaganza is sponsored by the Norfolk Morning Kiwanis and KNEN Radio.

The Up With People, "Rhythm of the World", celebrates the diversity of cultures and ideas, and is driven by the sights and sounds of current international music. Composed by 15 writers from six countries, the show takes the audience on an unforgettable journey around the world.

Experience the magic of a musical voyage with an international cast of over 130 students. You may find yourself dancing with gypsies, singing on the streets of London, or bopping to the hits of yesterday.

The two hour musical extravaganza dazzles with a striking new set, costuming and lighting and applauds 25 years of entertaining millions across the globe.

Local young people are encouraged to interview for one of the five international casts. No audition is required, acceptance is based on a personal interview. Interviews are held after the show.

Local families have the opportunity to host these international students. For more information, please call one of the advance team representatives already in Norfolk at 379-1440.

ONWARD CHRISTIAN SOLDIER

To receive power by accepting a leader and to obediently follow, seems backward. A mere listener—not a speech maker—might appear passive and weak.

Yet, those fueled by the Holy Spirit have powerful internal engines. They don't push their personal agendas. Instead, they promote God and his dynamic plan.

They have changed the world. THAT'S POWER!

Ag Days get jump start

KIDS GAMES, A PEDAL PULL, sand volleyball tournament and barbecue Sunday afternoon and evening kicked off the 1992 Ag Days in Laurel, sponsored by the Laurel Chamber and Community Club. All youngsters of the community, ages 12 and under, were invited to participate in the kids games. In the photo above, a group of six-year-old boys tighten up their gunnysacks in preparation for a race. Kristen Koch, center photo, and Makayla Hansen, at right, are off to a leaping start. Ag Days continued on Tuesday, June 2, and Wednesday, June 3, with parades, a carnival, and a variety of other activities.

Weather concerns officials

Nebraska Assistant Director of Agriculture Pat Ptacek expressed concern over the current statewide weather situation. In expressing his concern, Ptacek said, "It has been a crazy week of weather all across the state, and we need to see some preliminary crop reports before making any long-term recommendations."

At the request of Governor Ben Nelson and Larry Sitzman, Director of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture, the Drought Assessment Response Team (DART) will continue to monitor the current situation. Ptacek said, "Members of the Nebraska congressional delegation have been apprised of the current situation by the DART committee, agricultural producers, and extension specialists. Our congressional delegation has offered their assistance when, and if, it is needed. We will have a better idea where we stand within the next seven to ten days."

DART committee member Dr. Donald A. Wilhite, Director of the International Drought Information Center and Associate Professor in the UNL Department of Agricultural Meteorology, met with Norton Strommen, USDA Chief Meteorologist, to update him on the early severe dry conditions in western Nebraska and the spotty patches of dry weather over central and eastern Nebraska. Dr. Wilhite stated, "Unfortunately, damage to crops due to the unseasonably late occurrence of frost will take some time to assess."

The DART committee is encouraging producers in the affected areas to contact their local ASCS office to become eligible for possible disaster assistance. Ptacek said, "If any 1992 crops become affected by a natural disaster, it is important to file an ASCS-574 'Request for Disaster Credit' with your local office before the crop is destroyed, or before entering into the 0/92% provisions of the program. Once the form is filed, the ASCS office must make a farm inspection. This will allow proper history credit for the crop and is required for insurance purposes. This is also important in the event a 1992 disaster program is implemented."

According to Ptacek, "The DART committee will continue to monitor the weather situation closely. Based on the reports we receive within the next seven to ten days, a committee recommendation will be made to the Governor's office."

Cathy Keck

Dan Gross

Assistants named

Dan Gross and Cathy Keck have been appointed as assistant directors of admissions at Wayne State College.

In their positions, they will meet with high school counselors, principals, and prospective students regarding enrollment procedures, financial aid availability, and other opportunities at Wayne State.

Gross, who has been serving as an interim assistant director since September of 1991, will represent Wayne State College during his recruiting visits to area Nebraska high schools and community colleges. He is a 1990 graduate of Wayne State where he earned a bachelor of arts degree in education in social sciences. Gross is also a 1986 graduate of Wayne-Carroll High School.

Keck comes to Wayne State from Dana College where she has been an admissions counselor since September of 1990. She covered a tri-state area that included northeast Nebraska, Colorado, and South Dakota. She earned a bachelor of arts degree in international communications and German from Dana College. Keck is a 1986 graduate of Ashland-Greenwood High School.

Keck will represent Wayne State during recruiting visits throughout northwest Iowa.

Plans set for annual czech fest

The 30th annual Clarkson Czech Festival will be held June 26-28. The popular talent contest will kick off the festival on Friday, June 26 and best-of-all-the-entertainment is free.

There will be four age divisions — young children, junior, intermediate and senior. This contest is open to any individual or group of performers with any type of talent. Especially encouraged are entries in the young childrens division and senior division.

Last year there was only one entrant in the young childrens division and only three entrants in the senior division. Trophies will be awarded. No entry fee is required to participate. The sign-up deadline for the contest is June 17.

For more information call or write Randy or Mitzi Vavrina, P.O. Box 420, Clarkson, Neb. 68629, 402-892-3827 or 402-892-3444.

BIBLE SCHOOL

Eighteen students attended vacation Bible school at St. Paul Lutheran Church, Concord, May 26-30. The theme was "Team Up With Jesus," with lessons like "Jump for Joy," "Walk in Faith" and "Stretch for Heaven."

Teachers were Kelli Smith, Carol Hanson, Tillie Rastede, Marcia Rastede and Pastor Richard Carner. Mary Rastede supervised art. The children went for a skating party on Saturday afternoon and had a wiener roast.

During the church service on Sunday, the children sang and did the vacation Bible school workout.

The Ladies Aid furnished cookies for the week and parents of the children served coffee after church service on Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ron McCoy of Crookston and grandson, Kent McCoy, and Lesa Scholl of Sergeant Bluffs, Iowa were May 23 overnight guests in the Ernest Swanson home.

May 24 dinner guests in the Evert Johnson home were Mr. and Mrs. Ron McCoy of Crookston, Kent McCoy and Lesa Scholl of Sergeant Bluffs, Iowa, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Swanson and Evelina Johnson.

Scholars chosen

Marc Bathke of Laurel and Katherine Griess of Wayne are among a number of University of Nebraska Lincoln students to be named scholarship winners for the 1992-93 academic year.

Bathke has been selected to receive the Paul and Edith Babson scholarship and Griess has been selected to receive the Leroy and Irma Nuquist Laase Memorial Scholarship.

Youth selected

Six students from Laurel-Concord High school are among 48 Nebraska high school sophomores and juniors accepted for the Science Enrichment for Nebraska Talented Rural Youth (SENTRY), a three-week summer learning program on the Nebraska Wesleyan University campus.

Students from Laurel-Concord High School who will attend are: Matt Ebmeier, Laurel; Bill Haisch, Concord; Randy Quist, Dixon; Mark Stone, Laurel; Courtney Thomas, Laurel; and Stacy Zeigler, Laurel.

SENTRY '92, sponsored by the National Science Foundation and Nebraska Wesleyan, will be held July 5-24. During the program, students will study two of four subject areas: biology, chemistry, physics or computer science. In addition, each student, either individually or in a group, will work on a research project, which will be completed at home. Students accepted for SENTRY '92 are talented and interested in science and/or computers, and from small rural high schools. They will live in Nebraska Wesleyan residence halls during the program.

Aspirin May Decrease Cancer Deaths

According to a report in New England Journal of Medicine, 598 individuals who took aspirin 16 or more times per month for at least one year had lower risk of death from colon cancer as compared to persons who did not use aspirin as frequently or who used no aspirin. The reasons for reduced risk of colon cancer death is unclear and may be due to a direct affect of aspirin or to other factors. It was determined that taking another pain reliever and fever-reducer (acetaminophen) did not protect against cancer death. In some individuals, aspirin use also has been associated with a reduced risk of having heart attacks. But before one begins taking aspirin on a regular basis for any reason, it is wise to check with a physician who is knowledgeable of one's health history and prescription drug use.

ELCA MEETS

The Women of ELCA of Salem Lutheran Church met May 28 in the church basement. Special guests were Pastor and Mrs. Ray Meador and their children from the Ravena Community Church in South Dakota.

Circle 2 presented the program, with Famy Johnson giving the devotions based on the hymn, "Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life," and verses from Acts.

Pastor Meador and his wife talked on their work with the Yankton Sioux, especially those who are alcoholic and also with the children.

The Meadors also thanked the Salem Women of ELCA for their gifts of quilts and used clothing which are needed and appreciated by the native Americans.

The program ended with the hymn, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds," offering and prayer.

A short business meeting followed. An evening quilt day on June 9 at 6:30 p.m. was announced, as well as the regular guild on June 10. An invitation to a guest breakfast at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Wayne on June 10 was read. Other business included a motion to donate a sum to the fund for children to attend camp. Reminders were given of the planned trip to the quilt auction at Camp Carol Joy Holling on Aug. 1 and Renewal on Sept. 1 at Fremont. Also, the June and July regular meetings of Women of ELCA will be evening meetings at 7:30 p.m. Babysitting will be provided. The benediction was recited in unison and the table prayer sung to end the meeting.

PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN

The Presbyterian Women's organization held a noon Mother's Day luncheon on May 7. Linda Paul, moderator pro-tem, welcomed the ladies and guests present. Nora Linder served as hostess for the evening.

Linda Paul gave the devotions "The Act of Citizenship." Committee reports included Mission opportunities, sewing on the various articles of clothing will be completed this summer and it was decided to purchase crawler outfits.

It was also reported that May 31 will be the last regular church school Sunday for the summer, but that fun activities will be planned.

Eleanor Park reported on the Area 1 gathering at Belden on May 6. Birthday offering envelopes were passed out and the offering will be taken up during the June 4, 9:30 a.m. brunch.

Officers for 1992-93 September-September are Ruth Oetken, moderator; Linda Paul, secretary; and Jo Ann Shart, treasurer. Installation will be at the September meeting.

Happy anniversary wishes went out to Eugene and Phyllis Swanson, May 25 and Kenny and Patsy Wolf, May 29. Birthdays are Brian Boeckenhauer, May 4; Jerry Park, May 10; Drew Sherer, May 14; Eugene Swanson, May 25; Phyllis Swanson, May 26; and Florence Van, May 27.

Margaret Patterson gave a program on "Mother's Day." The hostesses for the June brunch will be Julie Boeckenhauer and Kathy Potter.

FIRE SCHOOL

Wakefield residents Don Kuhl, Cheryl Roberts Jr., Brad Schwarten, Gerald Tappe and Dean Ulrich were among more than 1,800 participants from 287 communities at the 55th annual Nebraska State Fire School May 15-17 in Grand Island.

Participants took classes in fire investigation, emergency vehicle driving, grass and timber wildfires, fire prevention, fire extinguishers and extinguishing exterior fires, anhydrous ammonia emergency response procedures, hazardous materials, basic emergency care, rural water supply and practical hydraulics, basic rope rescue, fire fighter certification, fire fighter safety and survival, victim rescue and extrication, basic pump operations, stress management and other topics.

RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP

Christine Woods and Troy Krusemark, graduates of Wakefield High School, are the 1992-93 recipients of the M.G. Waldbaum scholarship.

The one-year, full-tuition scholarship, valued at approximately $1,350, have been established to benefit children or grandchildren of Waldbaum company employees attending Wayne State College.

Woods, a senior majoring in business administration, is the daughter of Rosalund Woods of Wakefield. At Wayne State, she has been active in W-Club and cheerleading. She has been named a Presidential Scholar athlete and to the Dean's List.

Krusemark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Krusemark of rural Wakefield. He is majoring in accounting at Wayne State. In high school, he was active in band, football and track.

RECEIVES BOOK

Laurene Weisser and Berneal Gustafson represent two of the four businesses who recently presented first graders with a special school days book entitled "Don't Speak to Strangers." Sponsoring businesses were the Wakefield Health Care Center, Ivadell Burcham Real Estate, Wakefield National Bank and the Benthack Clinic of Wakefield.

Besides useful information, the book also provides pages for recording special school events and keeping school photos. Wayne County Sheriff LeRoy Janssen visited the students before the end of the school year and helped the first graders put their fingerprints in the book.

READING VOLUNTEERS

A number of senior citizens this past school year volunteered time to read to elementary students. The students expressed their appreciation to these readers by inviting them to view their plays and presenting them with certificates of appreciation.

Honored were Betty Bressler, Margaret Cisney, Helen Gustafson, Alden Johnson, Marge Johnson, Eileen Fegley, Dorothy Larson, Ardath Mills, Martha Mortenson, Mardell Holm, Milli Carlson, Roy Wiggains, Marvin Bichel, Iris Larson and Edith Erickson.

WOW AT SALEM

WOW stands for Worship on Wednesday. Salem Lutheran Church summer schedule gives people the opportunity to get away on weekends without missing weekly worship, according to Pastor Kip Tyler.

The pastor invites members of the congregation and others to come worship on Wednesday evening at the Chicago Folk Service. Times are, opening services at 7:30 p.m.

for all, Chicago Folk Service at 7:45 p.m. with special activities planned for the youth and fellowship time from 8:30-9 p.m.

Sunday morning worship service will be at 9 a.m. each week, with no Sunday school during the summer.

FUN NIGHT

The Wakefield fire department recently hosted a fun night for the Junior Fire Patrol students. Taking part in the fire safety course last fall were Jesse Kaufman, Ross Gardner, Michelle Schwarten, Richie Dutton, Elizabeth Dutcher, Erin Salmon, Shanda Miner, Erica Conner, Sara Addink, Nick White, Kristen Brudigam, Ami Hampl, Jennifer Victor, Brittany Peters, Lacey Brown, Amanda Ekberg, Amber Johnson and Andrea Lueth.

RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP

Jon Johnson received word recently that he has received a scholarship to attend Quincy College in Quincy, Ill. He is a 1992 graduate of Wakefield High School and is the son of Lowell and Kathy Johnson.

RECEIVES BS

Sheila Anderson received a Bachelor of Science degree from the University of South Dakota at Vermillion. Commencement activities were held in the Dakota Dome on May 9 for approximately 870 students. She is a Wakefield High School graduate and is the daughter of Carl and Shelley Anderson.

The GOLDEN YEARS
by Pat Lichty

Two high school classmates went on to Lincoln University to study law. One was Thurgood Marshall, the former U.S. Supreme Court justice. The other dropped law studies in favor of music — Cab Calloway. Calloway recalled, "I was always terrible at remembering lyrics, so I'd just shout 'hi de ho' in place of some words." Audiences loved it, so he built "hi de ho" into the theme song he wrote in 1931 — "Minnie the Moocher."

At the New School for Social Research in New York, fellow students surprised Caroline Schwebel with champagne and cookies after listening to her present her latest historical research project. The champagne saluted her 90th birthday. Mrs. Schwebel and the others were among more than 500 men and women enrolled in the school's Institute for Retired Professionals. They design their own courses, and teach them. "It's not unusual for people to be active learners well into their 80s," says an Institute official.

Remember When? 1954 — Ernest Hemingway, whose latest novel was "The Old Man and the Sea," won the Nobel Prize for Literature for mastery of narration and influence on contemporary style.

From Cenex/Land O'Lakes

Puls receives $1,000 scholarship

Jennifer Puls of rural Hoskins recently received a $1,000 Livestock Production Scholarship from Cenex/Land O'Lakes, a regional supply cooperative. Puls was one of 10 high school seniors who were awarded the scholarship. She is the daughter of Dallas and Ruth Puls, who are regular customers of the Pilger/Winside Farmers Co-op in Pilger, and plans to attend Iowa State University next fall.

A total of 291 students from the Upper Midwest and Pacific Northwest applied for the scholarship. Participants had to indicate their plans to enroll in a two or four-year livestock production curriculum next fall, supply general information about themselves, and write a short essay on the theme, "Why I am Interested in a Career in Agriculture."

Frank Bezdicek, scholarship committee chairman, said the awards were based on leadership activities and the students' long-term goals.

"THROUGH 1995, there will be 43,000 graduates to fill 46,000 positions available in agriculture and food production," said Bezdicek.

"At Cenex/Land O'Lakes, we're concerned about this trend. The increasing need for specialization in agriculture makes the variety of career options very attractive. Our goal is to encourage more young people to pursue these careers."

Bezdicek added that the scholarship program is an extension of "Agriculture For Growth," a program implemented four years ago. The promotional campaign outlines the wide variety of career options available in agriculture through a speakers bureau of employee volunteers and information sent to high school counselors.

CENEX/ Land O'Lakes is a farm supply cooperative serving 320,000 farmers and ranchers through 1,600 local cooperatives from the Great Lakes to the Pacific Northwest.

The regional cooperative supplies a wide range of petroleum products, plant food, crop protection products, livestock feed, seed, tires, batteries

PACK MEET

Winside Cub Scout Troop 179 and the Wild Cat Patrol Boy Scouts held their monthly pack meeting and Court of Honors awards night in the Winside Legion Hall on May 22. Prior to the meeting, the boys decorated Pleasant View Cemetery with flags in honor of memorial weekend.

The family of Zeke Brummels hosted the pack meet. Derek Van Houten gave a responsive reading.

Awards included Rank Badge advancement of John Neel from Tiger Cub to Bob Cat. He received a belt fob and Wolf book, a one-year Tiger pin, a religious knot, mother's Tiger pin, world crest patch, 1991 quality unit patch and a Scout-O-Rama patch.

Jared Jaeger received a Wolf badge, one gold and one silver arrow, Bear book and scarf and a Scout-O-Rama patch.

Doug Aulner received a family member pin, a geologist and a scientist pin, Boy Scout book and a Scout-O-Rama patch.

Zeke Brummels received a family member, geologist, scientist and naturalist pins, conservation badge and a Boy Scout book.

Jeremy Jaeger received a family member, geologist, travelers and scientist pins; Scout-O-Rama patch, conservation patch and Boy Scout book.

Sam Schrant received a family member and geologist pins; conservation patch, Scout-O-Rama patch, soccer belt loop and Boy Scout book.

Doug Aulner was awarded a perfect attendance award for the third year and received a Boy Scout belt and pin. Zeke Brummels, who had perfect attendance for the fourth year, received a Boy Scout cap.

Highest uniform inspection scores went to Jeremy Jaeger of Den 3 and Jared Jaeger of Den 4. Jeremy received a boy scout belt and Jared, a stop watch.

Receiving wind socks for attending six or more pack meets were Jared Jaeger and Zeke Brummels. Sam Schrant and Jeremy Jaeger both received a Boy Scout cap for attending all the pack meetings.

A bridging into scouting candle lighting ceremony was held by Joni Jaeger, cub master, who was assisted by Robert Neel and the scout's parents.

Kurt Schrant, scout master, and Tim Aulner, assistant scout master, gave the welcome and assisted in the Webelo bridging. Boys crossing were Doug Aulner, Zeke Brummels, Jeremy Jaeger and Sam Schrant.

Each boy received a boy scout badge, troop scarf and slide. Their mothers each received a ribbon and pin. The boys will now be known as the Cobra Patrol Boy Scouts.

Receiving first aid merit badges were Boy Scouts Derek Van Houten, Joshua Jaeger and Jerry Quick.

The ceremony closed with all boys participating in the reading of the 12 points of scouting and a flag ceremony. Doug Aulner and Sam Schrant served as the color guard.

CAMP OUT

Eight Winside Cub and Boy Scouts members, along with five guests, camped all night at Schran's campgrounds Saturday. They started at 9 a.m. that morning in the fire hall by watching a safety film on canoeing. Afterwards, menus were planned and they made a trip to the local grocery store.

After reaching the campground, the boys had to clear a camp site, pitch tents, played skill games and canoed. In the evening, they played games, roasted marshmallows and popped popcorn over their camp fire. For breakfast the boys made their own food using orange peels to bake eggs, fried sausage and bacon over the fire, as well as made hot chocolate.

The boys will be going canoeing at Valentine on June 26. The campout sponsors were Kurt Schrant, Tim Aulner and Joni Jaeger.

VOLLEYBALL RESULTS

The Senior Youth Group of Trinity Lutheran Church, Winside, held a co-ed sand volleyball tournament Saturday at the Wayne fairgrounds. Fourteen teams participated. First place went to the Jacobsen team from Winside, second, Nancy McGreagor's Wayne team; and third, Wakefield Hotel team. Cash prizes were given. They started playing at 8 a.m. and finished at 7:15 p.m. Funds raised by the youth will be used for a trip in June.

TIME CHANGE

Trinity Lutheran Church in Winside will start worship services at 9:30 a.m. on Sunday mornings, June through August, because there will not be any Sunday school during these months. Sunday school classes will resume in September.

Juleene Miller of Norfolk celebrated her 50th birthday in Hoskins on May 16. Seventy guests attended from Wayne, Madison, Carroll, Hoskins, Winside and Norfolk. Vernoff Miller of Winside, Kyle Miller of Norfolk and Tawnya Krueger of Winside sang songs. Cyril Hansen of Carroll played the organ. Mrs. Russell Prince of Winside baked two birthday cakes. They were served along with a lunch.

On May 19, Mrs. Brent Miller of Norfolk baked a birthday cake for Juleene. It was taken to the Stanton Nursing Home and served to the staff. On May 24, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Miller of Seward and Sally Miller of Lincoln came to celebrate with her.

Deadline nears for poets to enter works

The National Library of Poetry has announced that $12,000 in prizes will be awarded this year to over 250 poets in the North American Open Poetry Contest. The deadline for the contest is June 30, 1992. The contest is open to everyone and entry is FREE.

Any poet, whether previously published or not, can be a winner. Every poem entered also has a chance to be published in a deluxe, hardbound anthology.

To enter, send ONE original poem, any subject and any style, to the National Library of Poetry, 11419 Cronridge Dr., P.O. Box 704-ZG, Owings Mills, MD 21117. The poem should be no more than 20 lines, and the poet's name and address should appear on the top of the page. Entries must be postmarked by June 30, 1992. A new contest opens July 1, 1992.

BIBLE SCHOOL

The community vacation Bible school, sponsored by First Lutheran, Springbank Friends and the United Methodist Churches, will hold their summer classes July 27-31 from 9 a.m. to noon each day. Classes will be held for the three year olds through second grade at the United Methodist Church and for the third through sixth grade students at the First Lutheran Church. A program is planned for the Friday evening closing. There are several openings for assisting with the school. If you are available to assist, contact Trish Swetnam or Kris Gensler.

FUND RAISER

The Senior Citizens are planning a fund raiser to assist with their center and the new nutrition site, which they are getting ready to open. They will hold a Belgium waffle breakfast on Sunday, June 14. Tickets are now available from the Senior Citizens active at the center.

CLEANING DAYS

The Allen United Methodist Women will have cleaning days at the church today and tomorrow (Thursday and Friday). Contact Twila Ogle if you cannot help and wish to do a special area at another time.

Also, the ladies of the church are invited to a guest night at Dixon United Methodist Church on Thursday, June 11 at 7:30 p.m. Those planning to attend are asked to contact Twila Ogle by Friday. Those traveling to the event will meet at the church at 7 p.m. to pool rides to Dixon. The program for the guest night will be a traveling film of the "Country Down Under - Australia" by Arlene Martindale of Hartington.

WSC GRADUATE

Troy Harder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Harder of Allen, received his degree in elementary education during spring commencement exercises in the Wayne State College Willow Bowl.

Troy and his wife, Michelle, and daughters, Kari and Amy, reside at Rt. 2, Wayne. Troy is a 1983 graduate of Allen Consolidated High School.

Michelle, Kari and Amy hosted a reception afterward at their home. Mr. and Mrs. Craig Williams, Guttenburg, Iowa, and Michelle's sister and husband, Des and Randy of Colorado, were among out-of-town guests attending. They spent a few days in the Harder home.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS NOTICE OF TAKING OF BIDS FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF ELECTRIC DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM IMPROVEMENTS - 1992 FOR THE CITY OF WAYNE, NEBRASKA

Notice is hereby given that bids will be received for Electric Distribution System Improvements - 1992 in the Council Chambers in Wayne, Nebraska on the 18th day of June, 1992, at 2:00 o'clock P.M., at which time bids will be opened and read. The bids will be acted upon at a later time and place as will be fixed. The proposed construction work is described in general as follows:

Installation of underground primary and secondary electric lines throughout the southwestern sector of the City, including installation of transformers, padmounted switch, and sectionalizing cabinets. The majority of the work is in residential areas. The project consists of approximately 28 staking sheets, with each sheet covering about one city block.

All of the above work and equipment shall be in accordance with the plans and specifications and proposed form of contract now on file at the office of the City Administrator in Wayne, Nebraska, by this reference made a part hereof, as though fully set out and incorporated herein.

Contractors and major material suppliers desiring a copy of the bidding documents for individual use may obtain them from the office of DeWild Grant Reckert and Associates Company, Engineers, Rock Rapids, Iowa. Copies may be obtained upon payment of the deposit listed below, none of which will be refunded.

Specifications and Contract Documents $35.00 Staking Sheets $35.00 Each proposal shall be made out on a blank form furnished by the City and must be accompanied by either a certified check payable to the City of Wayne, Nebraska in an amount of at least ten percent (10%) of the amount of the proposal, drawn on a bank that is a member of the Federal Reserve System or by a bid bond in a like amount executed by a corporate surety authorized to do business in the State of Nebraska.

Such bid security shall be forfeited to the Utility as liquidated damages in the event the successful bidder fails or refuses to enter into a contract within ten (10) days after the award of contract and post bond satisfactory to the City insuring the faithful fulfillment of the contract.

Payment to the Contractor for said improvements will be made from cash on hand. Estimates will be paid monthly by the City to the Contractor in accordance with the following schedule:

Ninety percent (90%) upon certification of units completed; ten percent (10%) thirty-one (31) days after final completion and acceptance.

The construction may be started after the execution of the Construction Agreement and all Parts shall be fully completed by June 1, 1993.

The Council reserves the right to defer acceptance of any proposal for a period not to exceed 30 days after the date proposals are received and no proposal may be withdrawn during this period.

The Council reserves the right to reject any or all bids and enter into such contract as it shall deem to be in the best interest of the City. Issued upon order of the City Council of Wayne, Nebraska.

Dated this 19th day of May, 1992.

Fun day ends school year

WAYNE MIDDLE SCHOOL FIFTH AND sixth graders spent their next-to-last day of school holding a fun day at the high school track. In one of the events, Joe Wadas shows off his frisbee throw for classmate Ryan Thomsen (above). Some events required that working together, just as Michelle Saul and a classmate found out. Water balloon volleyball was the hit of the day, however, except when the balloon burst, just like it did for Melissa Fluent, Becky Fletcher, Jessica Raveling, Heidi Headley and Sarah Dorcey.

PERSONAL SOCIAL SECURITY FILES STOLEN: If you believe that what you've told the Social Security Administration over the years — either on applications for benefits, or through hospital and medical reports — is for their eyes only, get set for a jolt. According to the May AARP Bulletin, networks of so-called "information thieves" have been breaking into Social Security's computer system and stolen confidential personal records of beneficiaries and sold them. So far, some 20 people in 12 states, including several current or former employees of the Social Security Administration have been indicted by federal grand juries. The charge is trafficking in Social Security information.

The information on these records includes lifetime earnings, employment, current benefits, direct deposit instructions, and bank account numbers.

The market for these data are lawyers looking for information on litigants, insurance companies looking for information on people who file claims, and employers doing background checks on prospective employees. There have even been incidents involving drug dealers who were checking to see if their customers might be undercover narcotics agents.

Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan (D.-N.Y.), chairman of the Senate Finance Committee's subcommittee on Social Security, said the case "may well involve the most serious threat to individual privacy in modern times." He's introduced legislation to toughen penalties for illegally divulging SSA information. In the House, Rep. Bob Wise (D.-W.Va.) has proposed a special federal watchdog agency to protect against misuse of computer data banks.

A question for our readers who are lawyers: Since

HOW TO GET INTO THE ZOO'S WHO. Many zoos around the country are looking for seniors who can volunteer to act as guides for children and adults. Some may be asked to talk about wildlife conservation, or teach youngsters about how the animals live in their natural surroundings.

Call your local zoo to find out if they have such a program in operation. If not, discuss with them the possibility of starting one, perhaps with you and several of your friends as founding members. In New York, to learn more about the Bronx Zoo's "Friend of the Zoo" program, contact the New York Zoological Society at (212) 220-5141.
