Rental dispute at issue

Cable goes out

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

A dispute has arisen in a lease agreement between the owner of property which houses the Wakefield Cable TV system and Douglas Cable, the carriers of the service.

The dispute has arisen between Wakefield property owner Terry Nicholson and Douglas Cable after a lease agreement expired in April. Earlier this month, Nicholson served the owner with notice to vacate the property.

"We seemed to have an agreement but they did things outside the agreement," said Reavis Gibb, a Douglas Cable official with the Topeka, Kan. office.

Since April, Douglas Cable has continued to provide its customers with cable TV service until just recently when the system experienced a malfunction and Douglas Cable service workers could not gain entry into the building, since it has been padlocked shut. Douglas Cable maintains a equipment and reception center in Wakefield but has no office there. Their office is located in Logan, Iowa and the main office is in Topeka, Kan.

ACCORDING TO Wakefield City Administrator Lowell Johnson, the city is doing its best to keep track of the situation despite failed attempts to reach a new contract. Johnson said Nicholson has attempted to negotiate a renewal but Douglas Cable has not responded.

Theresa Miner, who is representing Nicholson in the dispute, said Monday that neither she nor Nicholson want to comment on the situation since legal proceedings are in progress.

But Gibb said his company plans to file an injunctive release against Nicholson. He said he believes locking up the Wakefield location is against the company's rights.

"We're continuing to seek a renewal in good faith," Gibb said.

WSC hikes use fee

An increase in fees for use of the Wayne State College football field has shocked Wayne School Board members, as well as the Wayne School administration.

In a proposal to the Wayne schools, Wayne State College is requesting that the school pay $600 a game for use of the field and $150 for use of the recreation center locker-rooms. That's an increase from the former rate of $10 per hour for field use and free locker rooms. On average, the high school pays for five hours use for home games. Only visiting teams use the locker rooms.

According to college officials, the Wayne schools didn't pay anything for using the field for the 1991 season due to a bookkeeping mistake. College officials say there's a rationale behind the $600 rental fee, but public school officials, however, are crying foul.

"The rationale behind the $600 is fairly well worked out," said Andrew Soll, vice-president for finances. "We don't think it should cost the college anything. All we're trying to do is cover our costs."

SOLL SAID he, Athletic Director Pete Chapman and Director of Administrative Services Bob Lohrborg, put together the proposal. Soll said since the increase is only for covering direct and indirect costs, the increase in fees are not for stadium upgrading planned over the next two years.

For the 1991 season, the Wayne schools spent $677 for their five home games. According to information provided by the Wayne schools, no field rental costs were charged for years 1988, 1989, 1990 or 1991.

In the past, the high school has paid for its own custodian and electrician to run the games but under the college's proposal, the custodian and electrician would be paid by the college. Soll said the college wants to use its own personnel and pay them for liability purposes.

As a result of the increase, Wayne School Board Members Cap Peterson, Dr. Ken Liska and Ken Dahl will meet with WSC President Dr. Donald Mash to discuss the increase.

FORMER WAYNE GIRLS softball coach Doug Sturm addresses the city council during Tuesday's meeting.

Dismissal upsets ex-softball coach

Former Wayne Girls Recreation Softball Coach Doug Sturm expressed concerns with the way he was relieved of his duties Tuesday night before the Wayne City Council.

Sturm, who coached the girls softball team for the last two years, was not asked back for a third season this year. The only way he found out he didn't have the coaching post was by reading an advertisement for the position in the Wayne Herald.

"I don't want to jeopardize Mary Ann Lutt because I think she'll do a fine job," he said. "... I feel for some reason I was slighted and wrongfully overlooked for the job."

Wayne City Administrator Joe Salitros said the decision to advertise for the position was sparked from the recreation commission when two or three members thought a coaching change might be beneficial. There are seven members on the board.

UNDER TERMS of policy Salitros cited, a coach is not an employee of the city but rather a provider of a contracted service. Notice of retention is only served if the person is asked to come back.

"The city recreation board is the ears for feedback from the public and parents," he said. "The commission as a whole wasn't saying that (a coaching change was needed) but some felt it might be good."

According to Sturm, he had to reapply for his coaching position. After going through an interview process with three or four other applicants, another individual then got the job and then resigned five days before practices began. Then, Lutt was hired as the girls softball coach. Sturm said he was not contacted to assume the job after the first coach resigned.

Salitros said he is comfortable that the right decision has been made.

"We're seeing great things with this program under Mrs. Lutt," he said. "There's a strong esprit de corps among the players. They're winning ball games and they're having a good time."

Center gets OK

By LaVon Anderson
Assistant Editor

Members of the Wayne Planning Commission have given their okay for location of the new Wayne Day Care Center at a site along 14th Street.

Chairman George Phelps pointed out that the commission's approval is only a recommendation and that the site location must still receive final approval by the Wayne City Council.

Mary Kranz, president of the Wayne Child Care Board, said ground breaking for the new facility could take place as early as August if things go according to schedule.

The day care center is expected to cost approximately $260,000 and will accommodate up to 60 youngsters.

It is expected to be located on three lots in the new Vintage Hill addition, across the street northeast from the new Educational Service Unit 1 facility which is presently under construction west of the Wayne America water tower.

THE planning commission's approval came following a public hearing Monday night during which several representatives of the Wayne Child Care Board were present to answer questions regarding the new facility.

Also attending the meeting were several residents who live nearby the proposed day care facility. They voiced their concerns regarding the noise and traffic which will be created when the facility is completed.

Pat Prather, president of the Merrywood Homes Association, presented planning commission members with a note signed by several residents of the condominium area.

"We're not against children or child care centers," said Prather, "however some residents and owners of the condominium do not feel that the day care center should be built in a prime residential area consisting mainly of older people."

Prather added that the residents are worried about the additional noise the children will generate and the increased traffic as parents travel to and from the facility.

She also pointed out that many residents purchased their homes in this area with the idea that they would not be near children and the noise they create.

Also addressing the planning commission was Pat Cook, who also resides in the vicinity of the proposed day care center.

"My main complaint will be the construction itself. I don't think there is anything wrong with the location, but please have pity on us when actual construction gets underway."

KRANZ pointed out that members of the Wayne Child Care Board looked at several other possible locations, however none were as ideally located or large enough to house the facility.

"We didn't just pick this location out of the air," stressed Kranz, adding that the site along 14th Street is off the highway, in a residential area, and convenient to hospital staff and Wayne State College students.

"With all that in mind, we decided to pursue the present site."

ALSO addressing the planning commission and concerned residents was Janet Dyer, vice chairman of the child care board.

Dyer pointed out that the board has been in contact with Forester Steve Rasmussen, who has assisted with landscape layout. She assured the residents that a buffer of trees and bushes is planned to reduce the noise.

She also pointed out that the play area for children will be located in a fenced in area northwest of the day care facility.

"Children can make noise, but we feel that will not really be a problem since we're far enough away and with the buffer of trees."

"Steve has agreed to work with us in applying for matching funds or possibly a grant so that relatively mature trees can be planted," said Kranz. "If not, then we would have to raise money to do that."

MARY Temme, also a member of the child care board, addressed the

Madison County voters join to unseat Conway

By Les Mann
Herald Publisher

Madison county political leaders from both parties have joined forces to try to unseat 17th district Sen. Gerald Conway of Wayne.

Both chairpersons of the Republican and Democrat Parties in Madison county have endorsed Kurt Hohenstein against Conway and they invited all their party members to attend a fund-raiser for the challenger.

The fund-raiser was held Tuesday in Norfolk.

Calling the circumstances "rather unique," Connie Day, Madison County Democrat Chairperson, said it "may be the first and last time we see such a unity between the two parties."

MANY Madison Countians were upset with Conway's support of a legislative redistricting plan that divided Madison County in half and eliminated the 21st Legislative District represented by Sen. Richard Peterson of Norfolk.

While they won't have a vote in the outcome of the 17th district election, Mrs. Day and her GOP counterpart Jim Scheer told the Norfolk Daily News they nonetheless hope Madison County influence will help unseat Conway.

"We're not trying to change the voice of that area, just reinforce the need for change they felt in the primary," Scheer told the Daily News. "We're just trying to help his challenger unseat him."

Hohenstein faces Conway in the November general election after outpolling the incumbent with 56 percent of the vote in the primary.

Both Hohenstein and Conway are registered Republicans which makes the Madison County Democratic endorsement of Hohenstein even more unique. The legislative seat they seek is officially non-partisan.

Bond continues

The Wayne City Council plugged through all but one item on their agenda Tuesday night but that one item couldn't be dealt with because of a shortage of council members present.

The council sought to approve a law which authorizes the early redemption of a prior issue of industrial development revenue bonds for Great Dane Trailers of Wayne but ran into a snafu when only five council members were present and the law needed six to pass at one meeting. The bond would settle Great Dane's $8 million bond issue with the city.

What made the situation even more pressing is that the bonds are due Monday, June 15. With five votes, the council can approve the measure at three different meetings and that's exactly what they set out to do.

In accordance with state statutes, the council agreed to hold two emergency meetings on consecutive days: Thursday, June 11 at 8:30 a.m. and Friday, June 12 at 3 p.m. By holding the meetings 24 hours apart, the council can approve the bonds in time for the Monday deadline.

According to City Administrator Joe Salitros, Councilman Darrel Heier is away on the Nebraska BRAN ride, Councilman Ralph Barclay is away on vacation and Councilwoman Jane O'Leary is away with a family emergency.

In other matters, the council:

- Approved a special designated liquor permit for the Eagles Club.

- Reviewed the annexation plan for property northeast of Wayne and set a public hearing for 7:35 p.m. on June 30.

- Considered the planning commission recommendation and set a public hearing on the rezoning of Vintage Hill Addition for June 30 at 8 p.m.

- Approved letting bids for a utility tractor, estimated to cost between $11,500 and $12,500.

Couple to reign over county fair

A "royal couple" will be selected to reign over the Q-125 festivities during the 1992 Wayne County Fair this summer.

"Wayne county's namesake, Revolutionary War General Mad Anthony Wayne, helped send King George packing over two hundred years ago," said Leland Herman, fair board member, "now Wayne countians can pick new royalty."

The county fair is an officially sanctioned Q-125 event as Nebraska celebrates its 125th year.

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Wayne will be selecting the king and queen from nominations received from the public.

Anyone in Northeast Nebraska is eligible and considerations will be given to the nominee's contributions to the well-being of Northeast Nebraska — past, present and future.

Nominations are due by July 24. Send your nominations along with the person's qualifications to BPW, 521 East 6th Street, Wayne, 68787.

Manager promoted

Larry Welsh, the technical operations manager for the Jones Intercable office in Wayne, announced Tuesday night at the Wayne City Council meeting that he will be leaving the community to accept a promotion for a position in Indiana within the Jones Intercable system.

Welsh, who thanked the council for their years of cooperation, announced his departure to the company Monday.

During his tenure in Wayne, Welsh has overseen the addition of several new TV channels and the implementation of a complete system update, which is in the second of its three phases.

Andy Gordon, manager of the Wayne system who works out of the Jones Intercable office in South Sioux City, said Welsh's replacement is being sought but it may be difficult to find someone of his caliber. He said he hopes to have the position filled within a month.

Although Welsh is leaving, the Wayne office will continue to operate as normal. Linda Sweetland, who currently serves as office manager, will continue in her position.

Program plans set

Plans are progressing for a Fourth of July Celebration to honor long-time Wayne Recreation Director of Baseball Coach Henry "Hank" Overin, who retired following last year's baseball season.

Jim Sturm spoke on behalf of the group planning the celebration. Included in the celebration is a baseball game between Wakefield and Wayne, a roast dinner in the evening, fireworks and a raffle. Donations from the raffle will be used for the fireworks display.

Sturm also asked that the council place two items on the next agenda: have Mayor Bob Carhart sign a proclamation making July 4 as "Henry 'Hank' Overin Day" in Wayne for his contributions and 29 years of loyalty to the Wayne recreation programs, and approval of funds for the fireworks display.

Sturm said the firework display will be a separate celebration for Wayne to maintain its American heritage and celebration of independence.

ESU 1 board meets

Buildings, budgets top talk

By LaVon Anderson
Assistant Editor

Buildings and budgets were on the minds of Educational Service Unit 1 (ESU 1) board of director members during a meeting Tuesday night in Wakefield.

Board members heard a report by Administrator Rodney Garwood regarding progress on the new ESU 1 facility being constructed in Wayne to house the unit's two Wayne programs — the Wayne Children's Development Center and the Wayne Learning Center.

Garwood reminded board members that the new building will of course need to be equipped, however he said the administration plans to move slowly on the purchase of equipment until after the building is occupied and specific needs are determined.

"We're still planning to move in on Sept. 1, and then we will see what our needs will be," he added that basic equipment will be brought in, however other items will be purchased after staff members have familiarized themselves with the building and their needs.

Board members Tuesday night did approve the purchase of a copier, AT & T telephone system and lawn mower for the new facility.

THE BOARD also approved a one-year contract with East Catholic Elementary School in St. Helena for a new center-based program for three early childhood and one primary age child.

Special Education Director Duane Tappe said the program, which is similar to the Wayne Children's Development Center, is presently located in Crofton.

"Right now we're renting the party room at the Cottonwood Villa in Crofton," said Tappe. "They've been wonderful to us, however there just isn't enough space and no other buildings were available in Crofton."

"The only other alternative was for those kids to travel to Wayne, and that's just too far."

The contract with East Catholic Elementary School includes the rental of two classrooms and two offices at a cost of $3,600 a year.

Tappe pointed out that in addition to gaining needed space, the program will be expanded from nine to 21 hours a week.

IN OTHER business regarding buildings, ESU 1 board members approved a list of summer projects for the office in Wakefield, including making the building more accessible to the handicapped.

"We've been concerned that perhaps this building is not very accessible," said Administrator Garwood, who recommended a buzzer on the outside of the building so that visitors can request assistance and converting a present storage room into an accessible handicapped restroom.

The board gave unanimous approval to the project at an estimated cost of $3,750.

Garwood pointed out that the project will bring ESU 1 within standards required in the Americans With Disabilities Act.

IN OTHER business Tuesday night, ESU 1 board members:

- Heard a report by Administrator Garwood regarding the ESU 1 budget process and structure. Board members set Thursday, Aug. 27 as the date for a special meeting to set the levy;

- Heard a report by board member Randy Hummel regarding a possible candidate to replace Keith Pfeiffer, who resigned from the board in April. A new at-large board member is expected to be sworn in next month;

- Approved contract changes and additions for five ESU 1 employees and accepted the resignation of Joyce Botts, a certified occupational therapy assistant.

audience regarding their concerns of increased traffic.

Temme pointed out that parents want the quickest, easiest route and that the Centennial Road will probably be the most efficient avenue for parents traveling to and from the facility.

"We really feel that the majority of traffic will be on Centennial Road rather than Providence Road, thereby reducing the amount of traffic on 14th Street."

It was also pointed out that tentative plans call for the facility to be open five days a week from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., and that the largest traffic flow will probably be from 6 to 8 a.m. and from 3 to 6 p.m.

CITY Planner Don Siefken

shared his concerns, along with those of Street Superintendent Vern Schulz, regarding removal of snow along 14th Street.

Temme said a living snow fence, consisting of lilacs, is planned to run along the property line to reduce snow accumulation.

She added that the lilacs will also serve a purpose in deterring children from straying onto 14th Street.

IN ADDITION to approving the site location for the day care center, planning commission members Monday night also conducted a public hearing regarding the rezoning of the Vintage Hill First Addition from A-1 (agricultural) to R-1 (residential of least density).

The commission unanimously approved the rezoning request, along with the final plat.

Good news greets board

The Wayne School Board received good news Tuesday night at their monthly meeting when Dr. Francis Haun informed them that the high school gym floor would not need to be replaced.

The gymnasium floor was damaged when a storm ripped back the roof of the structure during an early May storm. Water from the storm leaked through and caused extensive water damage but not enough to call for replacement of the floor.

Dr. Haun informed the board that the floor will have to be sanded and repainted due to the damage. Haun said insurance will cover the costs of repairs. The board also learned that the gym roof had been fixed.

IN ANOTHER matter, the board also reviewed plans for the transition of leadership for the system. Dr. Haun, due to retire at the end of this month, presented the plans to the board.

Haun said he will be out of the office by June 25 to enable incoming Superintendent Dr. Dennis Jensen to take the helm. The time between Dr. Haun's vacating of the office and June 30 will allow custodians to clean the office before Dr. Jensen's arrival July 1.

In the meantime, Dr. Haun will move the budget office to the elementary school.

IN A REPORT to the board from Wayne High School Guidance Counselor Terry Munson, it was reported that surveys were sent to all 75 members of the Class of 1989 and 38 were returned. Thirty-five of the responses were from students who were presently or who had recently attended a post secondary institution. Twenty-eight of the respondents indicated that the Wayne High School had prepared them adequately, very well or more than adequately.

The data gathered from the survey will be used by school officials for research purposes and to help improve educational experiences at WHS.

IN OTHER matters, the board:

- Reviewed an in-depth report on inservice and professional growth activities of the high school faculty as submitted by Principal Dr. Donald Zeiss.

- Reviewed post-graduation plans of the Class of 1992.

- Reviewed preliminary worksheets dealing with proposed budget expenditures for the 1992-93 school year with the realization that budget data will not be available until July for culmination of budget work.

- Accepted the resignation of Kathleen Rasmussen from the Wayne kindergarten position.

- Approved the transfer of Patricia Jenkins from the Carroll school first and second grade position to the Wayne kindergarten position.

- Approved the appointment of Kathleen Pallas, a Chapter I teacher in Carroll, to the position of first and second grade teacher in Carroll.

Each of the four teams present played two games instead of the previously scheduled three. Wayne played Hartington in the first game and the Juniors came out on top of a 3-1 decision in eight innings.

Brian Gamble pitched a complete game for Wayne and earned the victory after giving up one run on five hits. Gamble also struck out eight and walked just two.

Wayne finished with three runs on seven hits and three errors. The game went to the eighth inning tied at one where normal Wayne Midget player Kelly Meyer, who was moved to Legion because of the lack of numbers, smacked an RBI single to score Brian Brasch to give Wayne a 2-1 lead. Brent Gamble and Robert Longe led Wayne with two singles apiece.

Wayne's second game was against O'Neill and the Juniors fell victim to O'Neill pitcher Kirby Hoffart who nearly tossed a perfect game at the Wayne Juniors, but settled for a 15-0 no-hitter.

The 14 and under team was seeing their first action of the season and in the first game, Wayne defeated Pender, 16-3 in five innings. Katie Lutt got the pitching victory with 11 strike outs and four walks.

Wayne had eight hits led by Lutt's home run, triple and single while Kari Wetterberg had a triple and a single. Mandi Higbee, Christine Swinney and Kari Lutt each had a single.

In the second game Wayne fell to Pierce, 9-5 in five innings. Kari Wetterberg was the losing pitcher despite four strike outs. Wayne managed just four hits with Wetterberg trying to aid her own cause with a double and a triple while Katie Lutt tripled and Katy Wilson singled.

Wayne's third game was against South Sioux Bobier Photography. The locals lost an 11-6 decision. Katie Lutt was credited with the loss despite eight strike outs.

Wayne was again held to four hits as Kari Wetterberg managed two singles while Mandi Higbee and Christine Swinney each had one single.

Wayne captured its final game of the tournament with a 14-9 victory over South Sioux Augustine. Kari Wetterberg got the pitching victory and she was the offensive catalyst on a nine-hit attack with a home run and a single.

Katie Lutt had three singles and Mandi Higbee had two singles while Cori Langenfeld and Christine Swinney each singled once. "I was real pleased with the 14 and under team's performance," Lutt said.

"Kari and Katie showed they have the potential to be good pitchers. Offensively, the team hit the ball well with numerous extra base hits. Overall, it was a good learning experience for everyone."

We agree:

Shopping in Wayne just makes cents

Shopping in Wayne is something Rev. Donald Nunnally and his wife Barbara try to do all the time. They, like others in the community, understand the importance of supporting local merchants.

What makes the Nunnally's shop locally? Don says good quality, competitive pricing and good service.

"Whenever we can, we make it a point to buy in our community," he says.

He adds that it's important to shop Wayne because business people are the "ones who write our checks and they are our friends and neighbors trying to make an honest living and as community members, we care about one another."

Most of the time, Don says, it's possible to find what they're looking for in the community. For the Nunnallys, availability of top quality merchandise, which they believe they receive in Wayne, is there.

"When you try to find what you're looking for it's usually available," he says.

That's why shopping in Wayne makes sense to the Nunnallys. It goes to show that Shopping in Wayne Just Makes Cents.

Residents eye school's options

District 15 taxpayers plan steps

cesses for establishing affiliation for the one-room school's nine students.

WAYNE COUNTY Superintendent Harry Mills was not present at the meeting but according to information presented, District 15 residents are estimated to pay the same $1.21 per $100 valuation levy whether they choose to send their students into the Wayne-Carroll schools or the Laurel-Concord schools. Under affiliation procedures, 60 percent of the legal voters in the district have to sign a petition to affiliate the school.

While no decision was made at the meeting regarding affiliation, one individual in attendance said he believes the district will be split between the Laurel-Concord system and the Wayne-Carroll system.

Once the affiliation process is complete, a map will be drawn up of which parcels of land will affiliate with which district. That map will then be used by the county assessor's office to establish tax levies.

If no affiliation plan is drawn up, the county reorganization committee or the State Department of Education will determine which K-12 district the school will affiliate with or whether the district will close.

Residents of the Wayne County District 15 school met Monday night with Mary Lee Timperley of Stanton County about preparing their school district affiliation plan.

Approximately 25 residents reviewed ways the school may affiliate. By state law, all Class I districts in Nebraska must affiliate with a K-12 district by July of 1993.

"You people should decide what you want to do with your school," Timperley said. "You live here and you pay the taxes and you shouldn't be forced to do what the affiliated school wants you to do."

Timperley, the Stanton County superintendent, also outlined tax structures and general levies. In her presentation, she provided the pro-

PRO office looks to aid people caught in mess

If you've tested your skills against the IRS computer and lost, or run amuck in a sea of paper, the Problem Resolution Office (PRO) may be able to give you a hand.

Most of the time, you'll be able to take care of any business with the Internal Revenue Service through a phone call or a letter. But once in a while, things snafu and after several letters and phone calls, the problem still isn't solved. That's when the buck stops at the Problem Resolution Office.

Last year, PRO's across the nation helped more than 400,000 Americans with tax problems ranging from misapplied payments and lost refunds to scrambled social security numbers, garbled surnames, address changes, and Taxpayer Assistance Orders. But the PRO's do more than just put out fires; they prevent them too, by spotting glitches in the system and correcting them before they cause trouble for everyone.

If you have a problem with the IRS and haven't been able to solve it through normal channels, call the IRS toll-free at 1-800-829-1040 and ask for the Problem Resolution Office.

Tele-Tax, an automated system of prerecorded tax information, can also provide more details on the Problem Resolution Office. Call 1-800-829-4477 any time of the day or night and request tape number 104.

Red Cross seeks funds

The Wayne Co. Chapter of the American Red Cross has been asked to raise $2,000 in response to back-to-back budget shattering disaster years for the nonprofit organization, according to Mary Nichols, chairman for the local chapter.

"We helped so many families in the last two years that our disaster Relief Funds are gone. At stake is our ability to feed and shelter disaster victims, and lend them a much-needed hand. For many disaster victims, the Red Cross is their only hope!" said Elizabeth Dole, president of the American Red Cross.

The local chapter is asking the public to contribute and is appealing to businesses, clubs, and organizations to donate $100 to the Disaster Fund campaign.

"We need to do our part in this effort to help disaster victims," said Mary Nichols (Chapter Chairman), adding the Red Cross has provided $581,279 in disaster support during six major disaster operations since March 1990. Area fund raising netted $52,050.

The Red Cross responds to an annual average of 55,000 disasters nationwide. Usually, from 11 to 15 are considered massive disaster operations. In 1991, that number jumped to 25.

The American Red Cross receives no federal or state funding, but depends entirely on the generosity of

Capitol News—

Term limit drive in trouble

Political neighborliness

We find it mildly unsettling that the political leaders of neighboring Madison County are attempting to influence the outcome of the legislative election in the 17th district.

Were we in Madison County, we too would likely be upset over the results of last year's legislative redistricting which split that county into two districts and eliminated the legislative district of our senator.

But the idea of a witch-hunt to get the neighboring senator who chaired the redistricting committee now seems counter productive.

The Norfolk area political leaders who support 17th district candidate Kurt Hohenstein have every right to do so, but they should understand there may be a backlash from area voters.

Some might see the Madison county leaders' fund-raising efforts and endorsements of a candidate outside their territory as an attempt to expand their sphere of influence and control.

The Perot phenomenon

Ross Perot's popularity continues to climb in the polls.

In spite of countless reports in the media and pundit commentary about his unworthiness, he is now listed as the front-runner in most polls.

He is definitely not the darling of the national media. We have not seen any favorable reports about him since the first days of speculation about his possible candidacy.

Since then the establishment media has been bashing him right and left.

Since then his popularity has risen dramatically among voters disenchanting with the political status quo.

It makes us wonder.

If the media starts writing good things about him, will his popularity drop?

Drive a Husker Beemer?

Wayne leaders have sent letters of support for location of a huge new automotive assembly plant being considered for Omaha.

The Nebraska site is apparently one of two being considered by the German automotive firm BMW for construction of a plant to eventually employ 2,000.

The additional support businesses and spin-offs would make the industry a major plumb for all of Nebraska.

The impact could even be expected to be felt here in Wayne.

The least of the impacts would be the appearance of a lot more Beemers on the roads in the Midwest.

Nebraskans have a strong sense of what makes an economy work.

They support businesses which make a difference in their communities and in their state.

Nebraskans would buy locally-built Beemers.

Fish stress hard on dads, not fish

The art of fishing has gotten a lot of "bad press" in recent years. People who sell fishing lures and electric powered tackle boxes have been salting the media with erroneous reports about the joys of fishing.

I was reminded of this last weekend when I read that June 6-7 is National Take a Kid Fishing weekend.

"Hooyey. That's just more hype to sell licenses," I grumbled to friend wife who harbored the mis-guided hope of getting a slovenly husband and all the youngsters out of the house for a quiet afternoon at the fishin' hole.

No, she had no intention of going fishing, she just wanted the rest of us out from under foot for awhile.

She reminded me of a recent psychologist's report that says fishing with your family reduces stress. It may happen, but only for mother's who stay quiet and dry at home with a good book. It certainly doesn't happen for fathers out there on the beachhead.

Psychologists, non-fishing mothers and state wildlife agencies may be touting kids and a wet line as an excellent de-stressing tool, but fathers know different.

The psychologist and state game officials must not have done much research to come up with their quackish stress-reducing assessment. They certainly haven't been fishing with the Mann family for instance.

"Fishing is good for you," they claim.

"Bunk," I say. And I know. I've done the research.

The last time I took my kids fishing I came back with a good deal more stress than I if I'd stayed home and stuck fish hooks under my fingernails instead.

"Share your break and enjoyment of the outdoors. Fishing trips offer great opportunities for real conversation and communications. Use the time to re-establish lines of communication with a loved one..." says the psychologist.

With his report in mind, I decided to take the Mann children fishing — open the lines of communication, share the enjoyment of the outdoors, relax, eliminate stress, catch a mess for dinner, stop and smell the Russian olive blossoms...

It was an idyllic dream. I awoke from it with a sneeze and wild-eyed swing at two siblings who were fighting over who should get to flail the water with the pole that had a "Snoopy" bobber.

Five minutes after I got there the parental stress level was at an all time high. I thought I had been miraculously transported into the midst of a Family Circus cartoon.

"Daaaaad! can I have a drink."

"Daaaaad! D'ya know something? Ethan spit in the water."

"Daaaaad! Why aren't the fish biting?"

"I'VE GOT A BITE!"

"NO, SHE DOESN'T. HER WORM'S ON MY BOBBER!"

"Daaaaad! Make them be quiet, I can't read with all this noise."

"Daaaad! Those other people across the lake are leaving." "Can we eat now?"

"WHAAAAAaaaa!"

"Daaaaad! Emy dropped her donut holes in the dirt?"

"No, Dad can't wash them in the lake."

"Can we go home now?"

"Daaaaad! Guess what....I forgot."

"Oh, I remember. How deep is the lake?"

"Do the worms die when you put them on the hook?"

"Why?"

"No, I wanna cast, I wanna cast..."

"Watch out! Will ya?"

"You call this relaxing?"

When I got home I found something less stressful. I practiced sharpening the lawn-mower...while it was running.

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
Nebraska Press Association

When a group last October launched a petition drive to put term limits on our state and federal officeholders, it looked like about as sure a thing as you could get.

With all the anti-incumbency feeling and bad feeling towards government, particularly on the federal level, I thought the signatures would just pour in.

Maybe Ed Jaksha and the boys sponsoring the drive thought it would be real easy to do, too. Which probably explains why with just a few weeks to go, they've barely got half of the more than 57,000 signatures needed to put the issue on the November ballot. It would take almost a miracle for it to happen now.

A miracle, or a lot of money.

Now they've resorted to paying circulators in a final push for signatures.

And what's this: Ed Jaksha paying petition circulators? Say it ain't so.

Jaksha has been an outspoken opponent of paying petition circulators, saying a petition drive needs to derive its support from grassroots appeal.

He in the past has called paying circulators "morally wrong," likened it to buying votes, and called circulators that have hired "mercenaries."

Jaksha blames his new plastic-like principles on the Legislature, saying his group had no choice but to hire circulators because of a bill the Legislature passed.

LB 424 limited circulators to their county of residence. Within three weeks of its passage, it was struck down by the Nebraska Supreme Court as unconstitutional.

But Jaksha said the uncertainty of those three weeks were costly to the drive.

Now, I don't have too much question the Legislature was playing dirty in an attempt to hinder the term limits drive by passing that bill.

But at the same time, I think the term limits people have themselves to blame for most of their current predicament.

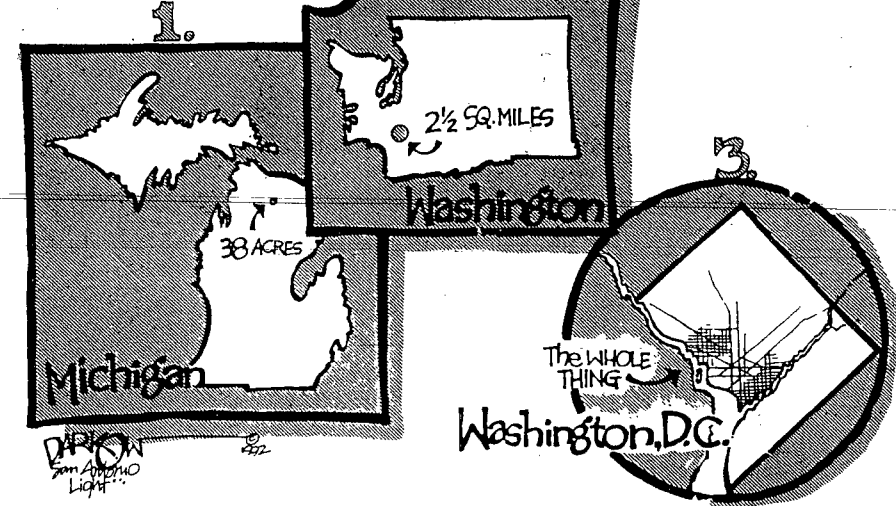

The number of signatures they lost during that three weeks is questionable. The fact of the matter is most people circulate petitions within their own county. And secondly if they only have gotten about 30,000 signatures in all those months they've been going, what makes them think they would have gotten so many more in three weeks?

I think the backers of term limits simply underestimated how hard it is to collect that many petition signatures. Jaksha, who has done dozens of petition drives, most unsuccessful, is the last person who should underestimate the difficulty, and yet he spent most of the winter in sunny Arizona. I understand he wasn't very happy when he came back and saw how little had been accomplished in his absence.

I think it also may be the case that term limits fervor isn't as strong as many of us thought. If it exists, in the next few weeks, the fervor is really going to be put to the test.

Accuracy at issue

Dear Editor:

It has always been my belief that the citizens of this country could rely on the news media to report the happenings of the day with as much accuracy as possible. I am realistic enough to know that a certain amount of bias is likely to creep into the reporting of even the most conscientious writer. However, the kind of out-right mis-reporting that occurs in our local paper is unpardonable. Having recently been the subject of misquotes and been given credit for announcements I did not make, I am particularly irritated. My attempt to avert such problems by supplying the reporter with the written text of my presentation was unsuccessful. Conversations with others have revealed that I am not alone in my anger and disenchantment. I feel there is little reason to continue reading this paper if I cannot rely on the accuracy of the reporting.

A newspaper plays a very important role in the community. It is one of the main vehicles through which the populace is able to obtain information about issues at hand. This is how public opinion is formed. Inaccurate information does a disservice to all involved.

I realize that stories often occur at inconvenient times (close to deadlines) but that does not give a reporter license to write without regard for accuracy.

Correct information

Dear Editor:

I'd like to correct erroneous information that your newspaper presented in the lead story of the June 8 edition of the Wayne Herald concerning our business.

Rod Tompkins has not purchased the building that houses Vakoc Home Building Center, Vakoc Construction Co. and The Final Touch. The report that our business will be relocated is, at the very least, premature and could prove to be completely untrue.

To accommodate the timetable Tompkins has scheduled, we are clearing the warehouse/Lumber Company building, that has been sold, of our inventory and equipment and seeking storage elsewhere. Surplus materials and equipment will be auctioned July 18 at the existing site.

The Tompkins purchase has occurred during the busiest season of a busy year for us. Our highest priority is the uninterrupted service to our clientele and we are not taking any effort away from that commitment in order to finalize our future plans at this time. A number of alternatives are being considered including the construction of a new facility east of Providence Road in the Sunnyview area on commercial property we presently own. As plans for the future are finalized, they will be presented, first, to our employees and then made public.

Marital communication--

'No, you can't put the chair there'

I have increasingly been reading that communication is the key to a good marriage and that moments (mostly) alone with your wife after having a child are important.

So that's what reorganizing the living room is for.

Every couple should reorganize their living room at least once every six months. According to one individual with whom I spoke, who has no knowledge of carpet preservation but thinks he does, it's good to move furniture around every so often because it helps preserve the carpet by creating different traffic patterns in the room.

Not only is it good for the carpet, it's also good for the marriage. Making the carpet last longer creates less financial responsibility in replacing it, thus reducing some stress on a marriage. Besides, it forces a couple to open up and communicate. (It also keeps the golfing husband off the golf course.)

This past weekend, The Boss and I reorganized the living room. It started when she said, "I want to reorganize the living room."

Not wanting to discourage a creative moment on The Boss' behalf, that's what we did — for most of Sunday afternoon, the one day of the week when I know that it's comfortable to get out on the golf course or relax at home and watch golf on TV.

So we moved furniture. It took about a hour before we had things well enough in place before I was ready to quit. How does this look? I asked.

"No. That won't do. You can't see the TV because the couch's arm is blocking the view from this chair."

So I sat down, thinking intently about what would work.

"Why are you sitting down?" "I'm thinking. I'm waiting for an inspirational moment."

I should say that usually I'm the one who handles rearranging the furniture in the living room. That's because it requires heavy equipment to get the job done.

Anyway, five minutes went by. Then ten. Finally, I figured, I'd move the stereo away from the TV. When I turned on the stereo, I realized we couldn't pick up any stations because we had removed the Super Audio unit I had gotten from Jones Interchange.

This won't work. We can't get any radio stations, I said.

"Why don't you set it on the TV?"

Well, the directions tell us not to. I'm afraid it could mess up something inside the stereo if we do.

We did. By the time the entire project was complete, I think I had moved one piece of furniture without asking and everything else I had attempted to do, I had to rearrange. I don't really know why I was there to "help" in the first place other than the fact it's easier if I move the HEAVY furniture.

But it did open up the lines of communication. The Boss told me where to put stuff and I followed her directions. (I used to be the one who would reorganize the furniture by myself, without counsel, but now, even that right has been lost.)

The last remaining choice I have left is how my dresser drawers are organized. I wonder how long it will take before that right is lost.

I never thought I would be a victim of the women's rights movement. Now I understand how women have felt all these years.

Northeast pays tribute to area man

Don Kraemer, sports director of WJAG/KEXL radio stations in Norfolk, and formerly of Dixon, has received the 1992 Friend of Kappa Award from the Northeast Nebraska Chapter of the Phi Delta Kappa professional education fraternity.

The award is presented to someone outside the field of education who has demonstrated outstanding leadership and community service.

Kraemer, who has been WJAG/KEXL's sports director since 1971, is a widely recognized voice of football, basketball, track and baseball broadcasts in both regional and state competitions. This past spring, he surpassed his 1,000th career basketball broadcast.

"Don's professionalism and dedication to accurate and exciting sports reporting, and his support of youth activities, exemplifies the very nature of this award," said Dr. Robert Cox, president of Northeast Community College. "He has been, and will continue to be, a valuable asset to Norfolk and northeast Nebraska."

Prior to WJAG/KEXL, Kraemer was an announcer at KTCH Radio in Wayne from 1968 to 1971. He is a graduate of Dixon High School, and has also attended Wayne State College.

He and his wife, LuAnn, have two children, Kristin, 17, and Kody, 13.

Phi Delta Kappa is a professional education fraternity dedicated to the promotion and improvement of publicly supported and universally available education.

For event Patrons being sought

Individuals or families wishing to become patrons of the Chautauqua in Wayne this summer may do so by making their tax deductible contribution of $25 or more according to Tom Cook, one of the organizers of the event.

The Chautauqua tent show, featuring noted scholars portraying great American literary figures and related activities, will be in Wayne July 16-21.

Patrons are needed to help fund the celebration which annually attracts thousands of participants. Each year the Great Plains Chautauqua society selects only two cities in Nebraska to serve as hosts for the event. This year Wayne and Sidney were selected.

Chautauqua patrons will receive a complimentary season pass to all the events and will be listed in the official Chautauqua program.

Patrons should make checks payable to "Forward Wayne" and send them to Chautauqua, c/o Wayne Chamber of Commerce, 108 West 3rd Street, Wayne, 68787 no later than June 25. Patrons may also drop off donations with Dave Ewing, Jr. at Midwest Land Co. or with Cook at Wayne State College.

The Chautauqua Committee is also seeking artists, crafters and collectors who wish to be exhibitors or vendors at the Chautauqua. These may include quilters who wish to display quilts at the Chautauqua quilt show. Several exhibitors already include wood carvers, antique collectors and landscape painters but many more are welcome according to Bob Zetocha, exhibits coordinator. Those interested should contact Zetocha at 375-7234 (8 a.m. to 4 p.m.) or 375-2623 (6 p.m. to 9 p.m.).

The Chautauqua Committee also needs a person or firm to donate the use of a travel trailer or motor home during the Chautauqua week. This will be used as living quarters for the tent master at the fairgrounds. Please contact the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, 375-2240.

Herald hires new staff member

Rick Kerkman of Wayne has joined the Wayne Herald staff as advertising and promotions director.

Prior to joining the newspaper Kerkman was an office equipment sales person for AB Dick Co. out of Sioux City.

He and his wife Stacy, an elementary teacher at the Wayne Middle School, have maintained their home in Wayne since 1987 when he moved here to begin work in the commercial printing department of the Wayne Herald.

"We are fortunate to have a person of Rick's talents back full time in Wayne helping us promote our town," said Herald Publisher Les Mann.

Kerkman is a native of northeast Nebraska, born in Neligh and raised in Clearwater. He attended both UNL and Northeast Community College in Norfolk.

He played two years of intercollegiate basketball while in college. Hobbies now include golf and spectator sports.

The Kerkmans have two children; Justin, who is 7 months old, and Jordan, 2.

Key to marriage

Dining out strengthens bonds

I had not been home, to the farm, for a month. Ann has rearranged the furniture, taken down a bunch of stuff on the walls, and generally "streamlined" the place. She claims it's easier to clean this way, and I'm sure she's right. It just looks so bare.

Every time I come, I box up some more stuff and throw some other stuff. As Mike spends more time in Lincoln, I need more things to cook with. I don't cook for myself. Now I know what my widow friends are talking about.

I've always said marriages thrive on three little words anyway, "Let's eat out!"

It's become our favorite form of stress relief at work. We gravitate to places like Grandmother's and K's.

About a month ago, I heard that a classmate of Jon's had purchased Hungry's Brewery in Stanton.

Shaun Boldt has been in the food preparation business for a long time. The last time I had talked to him was at the Village restaurant and motel on I-80 at York.

By Pat Meierhenry

The rain kept people in town on Friday, some more came to try it on Saturday, and the place was full for Sunday buffet. We judged it to be a success. The new owner looks tired, but satisfied. He's used over 800 pounds of sirloin.

The old wood beams are still present, and the rough plank floor in the entrance. There is a quilted wall hanging by Mom Boldt.

We tried a fair salad bar, complete with chocolate pudding; and then heaped our plates with fish, chicken, beef, potatoes, gravy and green beans.

The only thing missing was dessert, so we came home and I baked a couple of peach pies. My rolling pin has disappeared, and I used a salad dressing bottle to roll out the crusts. I don't think I took it to the apartment, but I must have. I'll be glad when we get to one place.

Meanwhile, the corn is looking good, hay is baled, and the rains have been lovely. Try the Brewery in Stanton this week.

Precautions help in stoppage of illness

Beginning in Spring and continuing until September is the high risk season for Lyme disease. With a few precautions, however, the chances for being bitten by the tick carrying the disease can greatly be reduced.

The Arthritis Foundation offers these suggestions:

•Wear protective clothing.
•Check yourself, children and pets for ticks.

•Clear away brushy or grassy areas near your home that attract ticks.

"People and pets who live/work near or enter wooded or marshy areas are most at risk," said Rita Bartlett, Program Director of the Arthritis Foundation, Nebraska Chapter. "These areas are home to the tiny tick that can carry a special kind of bacteria. When these ticks bite, they can pass along the infection that causes Lyme disease."

Early signs of Lyme disease include flu-like symptoms out of flu season, an expanding skin rash and joint or muscle pain. If left untreated, Lyme disease can cause serious nerve or heart problems as well as a disabling type of arthritis. Early treatment of Lyme disease symptoms with antibiotics can prevent these more serious medical problems.

For more information or to request a copy of the brochure Lyme Disease, contact the Arthritis Foundation, Nebraska Chapter at 2229 N. 91st Court, Omaha, Neb. 68134.

The Arthritis Foundation is the source of help and hope for an estimated 37 million Americans who have arthritis. The foundation supports research to find the cures for and preventions of arthritis diseases, and seeks to improve the quality of life for those affected by arthritis.

CONCORD - Joni Eareckson Tada is featured in the film, "The Journey," which will be shown Sunday, June 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the Evangelical Free Church in Concord.

In the film, produced by Billy Graham's World Wide Pictures, Joni shares her personal relationship with God and the way he has given her answers to questions about the purpose of her life.

The film speaks directly to viewers and gives them an opportunity to learn more about prayer and how to enhance their relationship with God. There is a special appearance by Billy Graham, and the music in the film is by the popular Christian musical group, "Glad."

Youth completes training

Heidi Wriedt of Wayne recently completed a 10 day training session with Nebraska Lutheran Outdoor Ministries (NLOM). The training prepared her to be a youth counselor for Camp Carol Joy Holling, a Christ centered camp owned and operated by NLOM.

In its 14th season, Camp Carol Joy Holling offers camping sessions to church youth ranging from second grade to senior high each summer.

As a counselor, Heidi is working directly with the youth, leading Bible study, participating in outdoor and camping activities and acting as a Christian role model.

She joins a 64 member counseling and support staff for the 1992 camping season. This is Heidi's second summer with the camp.

Upon completion of training, Heidi began counseling at the camp's Ranch Camp site, working with seventh through ninth grade confirmation classes attending a special confirmation camp with their parents. Other sites at the camp include the Circle R Retreat Center, Mainsite and Tipi Village.

Heidi is counseling for 10 weeks at the camp which covers 317 acres of forest and meadow land near Ashland. Over 2,000 campers will attend Camp Carol Joy Holling this year and more are anticipated in future summers with the addition of The Springs, a new campsite expected to begin operation by 1993. The program for the site will emphasize the development of self-esteem for sixth grade campers.

Heidi is the daughter of Ron and Sandra Wriedt of Wayne, and a member of Redeemer Lutheran Church in Wayne.

Youth tour 'Palace'

Fifty-one preschool and elementary children enjoyed a five-day tour of "The King's Palace" during vacation Bible school classes held May 26-30 at the Concord Evangelical Free Church.

Judy Brenner, co-director, said a unique feature of vacation Bible school was that each teacher prepared one lesson only, which was presented each day to a different age group of children.

The teachers stayed at one center while the children rotated to a different room in the "palace" each day.

Tour guides and teachers were junior and senior high teenagers from the church. The teenagers decorated their rooms appropriate to the theme and were responsible for the story, Bible memory, crafts, games, music and snacks.

"THE BANQUET Hall" was decorated and taught by five junior high girls, including Tracy Ankeny and Becky Forsberg of Concord, Laurie Lipp and June Dickey of Laurel, and Angie Grosvenor of Ponca.

The room was decorated with pastel crepe paper and a long banquet table. Children crossed a draw bridge which was raised or lowered so that none might enter the King's banquet without an invitation. The youngsters learned the story of The Prodigal Son and feasted on assorted fruits.

In the "Royal Treasury," the children learned that Jesus is the greatest treasure of all. Teachers were Phillip Bloom, Jaime Mann and Mark Olson, all of Concord.

The youngsters made small leather pouches with a draw string in which they put a tiny pearl. The room was decorated with silver and gold nuggets and jewels.

JIM DICKEY, Daniel Lipp and Lathan Boysen of Laurel told the Biblical story of The Good Samaritan in the "King's Inn." They outfitted their room with a cot and cushions.

Some students transplanted and watered petunias, symbolic that Jesus cares for everyone and of the care they too should extend to others. The heart-shaped cookie snacks also were reminders of how much the King cares for everyone.

Children removed their shoes before entering the "Throne Room," symbolic of entering the presence of Jesus the King. Teachers Diane Boysen of Laurel, Shane Kardell of Concord, and Mark Patefield were costumed for their story of the persistent widow and the judge.

The room was decorated with a throne and oriental rugs. Snacks included flour tortillas filled with peanut butter or cheese and tied with licorice, representing scrolls.

The eye of the needle entrance to the "Castle Construction Site" forced taller students and adults to bend low to enter.

Teachers Shannon Arduser of Coleridge, Chad Carlson of Laurel, and Dustin Ankeny and Natasha Kardell of Concord told the children about the wise and foolish builders and how they should build their lives and faith on a firm foundation of Jesus Christ. Their snacks, in accordance with the theme, were graham crackers (bricks) with frosting (mortar).

NATASHA Kardell, Diane Boysen, Lathan Boysen and Jason Kvols had a music ministry and skits for the opening and closing ceremonies. Shane Kardell and Jim Dickey sounded the trumpet call to closing ceremonies, and Deb Carlson of Laurel assisted with snacks.

Judy Kvols of Laurel was director and Judy Brenner of Concord was co-director in charge of supplies and crafts.

"We consider this vacation Bible school a training opportunity for our teenagers for other ministries outside the church," said Kvols and Brenner, adding that the enthusiasm, creativity and involvement of the youth was "incredible."

The Library Card

This column is written twice a month to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at Wayne Public Library.

There has been quite a bit of activity lately upstairs and downstairs in your library!

The Chamber of Commerce hosted a morning coffee last week and dedicated the recently installed flag and flag pole given in memory of Melvin (Bud) Froehlich by his wife, Marian. An attractive plaque was presented to the library commemorating the gift. The plaque will be installed in the entrance of the library in a prominent spot. This is a very thoughtful and appropriate gift, greatly appreciated.

We are also fortunate to have individuals and organizations in the community who make it possible for us to add to our collection. The auxiliary of the Fraternal Order of Eagles is one such organization. They have made donations each year for the purpose of enlarging our large print collection. Part of the donation also pays for the Reader's Digest large print subscription. Within the past year, we have rearranged our shelves in order to put all large print books in one place for easier browsing. We received another donation recently from the auxiliary. We would like to thank them for their continued support.

As to the activity downstairs, we are bracing ourselves for the opening of our summer reading program. Your library will be humming (or splashing) with children taking part in the activity programs, reporting on books read, or selecting new books to read. The theme this year is "Dive Into a Good Book" and we have a variety of books about water, the sea and all the creatures who inhabit the deep. Beginning June 9 and continuing through July 12, we expect a lot of activity.

By the time this gets into print, we will have completed our "Let's Talk About It" series. We have found this an interesting series and from the enthusiastic discussions we have had, so have you. We hope this preliminary discussion of American authors will whet your appetites for the chautauqua programs!

During the week of chautauqua, July 16-21, the library has arranged for a special display of dolls in authentic costumes. These dolls are a part of the American Girls series which feature fictional families who lived in America, from Colonial times to the 1940's. This series is available in the library and many youngsters have discovered these attractive books.

Just a reminder. Summer hours are now in effect. They are Monday through Friday from 1 to 8 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

'Storm' hits big screen

Wakefield Covenant plans show

ning TV journalist Tom Edwards (Jeff Conaway), and his producer, Patricia "Pete" Peterson (Connie Sellecca) are given the task of "keeping the ratings high."

It puts them at odds, since Tom feels the best "story" is one which would trash the faith of returning servicemen and women. "The war is over, what role does God play now? Is He out in the open or has He been put back in the closet?" asks Tom in his TV interviews. "Pete" urges him to let God "speak" for Himself.

Tom's real war is at home with his daughter and within his own heart. In the wake of his wife's death, Tom immerses himself in his work, leaving Jill (Deborah Tucker) hurt and alone. Their struggling attempts to reach out to each other serve only to widen the gap between them.

Through the moving stories of soldiers from Operation Desert Storm and the faithful support of co-worker "Pete" Peterson, Tom comes to experience genuine peace in the midst of the storms that engulf him.

"Eye of the Storm" addresses vital, timely issues very relevant in today's society. Families will be captivated by this contemporary story of what faces many single parents and their children as careers are juggled with personal relationships.

This film will pierce the hearts of viewers, both young and old, as they identify with very human hurts and find hope in very real answers.

"Eye of the Storm" is produced by World Wide Pictures, the motion picture ministry of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association.

Pastor Chuck Wahlstrom and the members of the Wakefield Covenant Church would like you to attend this outstanding new film, "Eye of the Storm" on June 21 at 7:30 p.m.

For more information, call the church office at 287-2692.

Student plans farm visit over weekend

A participant from the Institute for International Students will be spending the weekend of June 27-28 with a LEAD (Leadership Education Action Development) family from Wakefield.

Kevin and Bonnie Kai will host S.S.B.D. Jayawardena of Sri Lanka.

The institute, which is being held in the East Campus of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln June 14-July 3, is designed for international students with undergraduate degrees who have the potential to become leaders or managers in their home countries. Ten students are enrolled in the institute to develop leadership skills, experience group decision making and master problem solving techniques.

The farm visit will enable the students to interact with the families and make observations about family life, the farm operation and the community.

NORTHERN NEBRASKA'S CATARACT SPECIALIST

"I was watching television, patch and all."

Irene Theisen had a cataract.

She had "Single-Stitch" Cataract Surgery.

"Dr. Feidler told me I had a cataract. My vision got blurred and I wanted to rub my eye all the time because I couldn't see, so I decided to have it removed.

I had the operation on Friday and I went home at noon. I watched television, patch and all. The next day when they took the patch off I could see.

If you need cataract surgery go ahead and have it done. It's better to see than not see. I had all these things built up in my mind, but it was so easy. I was so impressed.

The staff at Dr. Feidler's is very concerned and helpful. They are tremendous. I've been coming here ever since Dr. Feidler came to Norfolk over 20 years ago. Most of my family comes here also."

RHEN plans meetings

Representatives of the University of Nebraska Medical Center plan to visit with health professionals and community representatives in 15 Nebraska communities in mid-June to discuss the Rural Health Education Network (RHEN). RHEN is an innovative program developed by UNMC to help address the shortage of health professionals in rural Nebraska.

The visits are part of a series of statewide meetings that have been held as part of UNMC's ongoing plan to develop RHEN, said William O. Berndt, Ph.D., interim chancellor of the Medical Center.

This is the last set of meetings that will be held in the series, Dr. Berndt said. "The Medical Center had planned to visit some of these communities earlier this year, but the meetings were canceled due to bad weather."

In the last year, UNMC representatives have visited communities in the Panhandle, southwestern, southeastern and central parts of the state. In all, Medical Center representatives will visit a total of 93 communities.

The 15 communities that the Medical Center plans to visit include: Ainsworth, Bassett, Central City, Geneva, Henderson, Holdrege, Loup City, Pawnee City, Ponca, Randolph, Sutton, Syracuse, Talmage, Utica, and Valentine.

For more information about the meetings in the other communities, contact Ms. Johns, (402) 559-8068, after June 10.

HOW MUCH DO YOU KNOW about your Social Security benefits? Are you sure you're getting all you're entitled to? There are times when mistakes are made during the working years, resulting in benefits that may be too low, often because all the earned wages weren't made part of the Social Security accounts record. (A recent report shows that some 10 million people may have been short changed in assessing their benefits because of errors made either by their employers or the government.)

A new agreement requires that the government accept a person's claim that he or she earned a certain amount of money for which no government records exist under the following conditions: IF there is no evidence to contradict that claim; IF the government has a record of the person's earnings from the employer in the year just before or right after the year in question, and IF the claimed earnings are consistent with the earlier and later wages.

If you have any suspicions that you may be one of those 10 million, check with your local Social Security office. You have nothing to lose, and, potentially, a great deal to gain.

NEW FLU SHOTS FOR THIS FALL: The flu vaccine for this year's expected flu season will protect against three of the major flu types, including the one known as Type A-H3N2, which accounted for 80 percent of the flu cases so many of us sniffled through this past winter. This strain has been exceptionally hard on older folks. In some cases, it has proved fatal.

Please, while this is fresh in your mind, take a pencil, turn to October on your calendar and write: CHECK DOCTOR FOR FLU SHOT. This is vital. Last year, the flu outbreak started in October, a month earlier than expected, and reached epidemic levels from December to February. Since it takes several weeks for the vaccine to become effective, it's wise to have the shots as soon as the health authorities announce the vaccine's availability.

Check with your doctor, your senior center, or your local Health Department for information on (1) whether you can have the shots (in some rare instances, the shots may affect an existing medical condition, or cause allergic reactions) and (2) where you can obtain the shots either at very low cost or free.

OTC Jock Itch Remedy

Jock itch (tinea cruris) is caused by fungi (plant-like organisms) that take up residence on the skin and in the uppermost layers of skin. For the most part, medicines that kill bacteria or prevent bacteria from multiplying are not effective against fungi. Therefore, most antiseptics and antibiotic ointments provide no benefit in care of jock itch. Two commonly-used ingredients in over-the-counter (OTC) jock itch remedies are tolnaftate and miconazole. Both are effective against the organisms that cause jock itch. Miconazole also kills the yeast Candida which sometimes causes skin infections. Antifungal medicines can cure a health problem, not just reduce symptoms. What type of antifungal medicine should you select? Ask your pharmacist to help you identify a product that is just right for you.

The GOLDEN YEARS by Pat Lichty

How do people 65 and over compare with other age groups in terms of income? The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) reports that, based on 1990 data: Households headed by people aged 45 to 54 had the highest average income — $43,451. Next came the 35-44 age group, $41,308, and then the 55-64 group, $35,309. Households of people age 25-34 weren't far behind with average incomes of $32,325. Ranking at bottom were households headed by those 65 and over. For this group the average annual income was $18,546.

One morning in 1948 a literary agent sent a note to a little-known writer, rejecting him on the ground that he showed no promise. That afternoon—the same writer received another note, informing him that his first novel published the previous year had been awarded the Pulitzer Prize for fiction. The book was "Tales of the South Pacific" and since then writer James A. Michener published 32 more that have made his name familiar worldwide.

Remember When? January 15, 1967 — The Green Bay Packers beat the Kansas City Chiefs, 35-10, in Los Angeles in the first superbowl.

Heavy load Farmers Co-op undertakes project

By Dianne Jaeger
Winside Correspondent

The Winside division of the Winside/Pilger Farmers Co-op drew a crowd of spectators on June 3.

Workers were busy installing two 12,000 gallon fuel tanks on the west side of the service station.

"We're replacing our old smaller tanks that were buried in the 1960's with new larger ones to meet EPA regulations," said Jerry Wyatt, general manager.

Wyatt added that the co-op will be installing new pumps and adding four new ones, including two diesel pumps. "One diesel will be non-taxed agricultural diesel and the other road-taxed diesel. All pumps will work with the current automated cardrol system."

THE HOLE for the tanks measures 18 1/2 feet deep, 25 feet wide and 36 feet long. Sand was dumped in the hole several feet deep and will completely encase the tanks to prevent foreign matter from touching the tanks and thereby preserving them longer.

Each tank is divided in the middle for the individual fuels.

Wyatt said the project will take about three weeks to complete, with installation of new pumps and concrete work, at an approximate cost of $60,000.

"I want to emphasize, however, that we are by no means out of service to our customers. Our unleaded and gasohol pumps are still completely operational and we appreciate our customers putting up with any inconvenience they may encounter related to the construction."

General contractors for the job were Stanley Petroleum Maintenance of Norfolk and Jensen Construction of Pilger, with Hartmann Crane Service of Winside also assisting.

Warner, Lesta Hubbard and Carol Chase served lunch.

Physician retains status

Dr. James Lindas of Wayne has completed continuing medical education requirements to retain active members in the American Academy of Family Physicians (AAFP), the national association of family doctors.

The requirements call for members to complete a minimum of 150 hours of accredited continuing medical study every three years. The Academy, the country's largest medical specialty association with more than 69,000 members, was the first national medical group to require members to keep up with medical progress through continuing education.

Dr. Lindas has been an AAFP active member since 1979. As a family physician, Dr. Lindas is qualified to work in all major medical areas and trained to treat up to 90 percent of all patients. Family physicians care for all family members — all ages and both sexes.

The Academy, headquartered in Kansas City, Mo., was instrumental in establishing the medical specialty of family practice in 1960. The Academy is the advocate for patients and endeavors to educate the public in all health-related matters. The organization works to preserve and promote quality, cost-effective health care. It promotes the science and art of family medicine and works to ensure an optimum supply of well-trained family physicians. The Academy also provides advocacy, representation and leadership for the specialty of family practice.
