'Play ball' echoed over three decades

Overin fields dreams in hearts of youth

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

Henry Clay Overin III may not be your every day household name, but mention the name "Hank" to folks around Wayne, and you are instantly talking about a man who has literally touched the lives of thousands of youth.

"I think I am doing what I was destined to do," Overin said. "I've always been a coach. Even when I was playing I was a coach. I started actually coaching when I was 14-years-old and have been doing it ever since."

A 1952 graduate of Carmel (Calif.) High School — the same town that movie star Clint Eastwood served as mayor for a short time — Overin still holds his high school record for having the most varsity letters in a four-year span: 18.

AN ONLY child of Henry Overin II and Laura, Hank was a four-year letter winner in football, basketball, track and the sport he loved most—baseball. He also lettered twice in golf. Overin said his high school golf team played their home matches on Pebble Beach—the same course used for the annual Bing Crosby Pro Open and later, an annual PGA stop including this year's U.S. Open.

Hank was an all-conference selection in baseball all four years.

He was selected as a first baseman for the team his freshman year and pitcher for the next three seasons.

He was also an all-conference selection in basketball twice, and football once as a running back. Hank's final three baseball years in high school saw him sport a 47-2 pitching record. His final year he was 16-1 and averaged 14 strikeouts per game along with a miniscule era of 0.35.

IN HIS senior season he was selected to the Northwest California all-star team which played in San Francisco. Following that game he was selected to take part in a camp in Oakland, Calif., along with 110 other players.

"The scouts were at this camp and they selected two of us. Hank was selected by the Baltimore Orioles to play on their A league team in Albuquerque, N.M. in the summer of 1952.

Hank spent the next two years of his life in the Army where he went to Korea to fight. In 1955 he returned to Albuquerque where he went 15-14 from the mound.

He transferred to the California State League—a stronger league than A-ball, and Hank went 12-9 the following season. "I got invited to play triple A ball in 1957 in Vancouver, Wash. with spring training in Riverside, Calif. but I got traded to the Chicago White Sox organization and was sent to Colorado Springs," Overin said.

"I wasn't getting much playing time in and eventually I asked to be traded where I could be used more than once a week and involved in a regular rotation."

Hank was sent back to the California League where he threw his arm out but continued to play anyway. "I went 9-18 that year and then I was released," Overin said.

HANK STILL didn't think he was done playing ball so he traveled up the coast to Yakima, Wash. and

I think I'm doing what I was destined to do...I started coaching when I was 14-years-old and have been doing it ever since.

Hank Overin

tried out for the double AA independent team. "I was kept until the last cut and my coach told me that had a spot for me if I wanted one but only pitching once a week," Overin said.

"They sent me to Yankton, S.D. in what was called the Basin League. That league consisted of nine pro players and six college players who were likely to be drafted."

Since the league didn't begin until after the College World Series in May, Hank decided to play for the Northeast Nebraska League as a pitcher for Coleridge.

It was in Coleridge where he was spotted by Wayne baseball board members Norris Weible and Alvin Peterson. "It was in June of 1958 when they approached me and asked if I would consider coming to Wayne to pitch once a week and play first base and right field during the other days," Hank said. "Plus, they told me that I could work for Ote Construction which would help supplement my income."

Hank did return to the Basin League in Yankton—for two weeks, before he decided to return to Wayne. "The amount of travel involved in the Basin League was more than I wanted so I returned to Wayne," Hank said. "I liked it here very much and decided to return the following summer ('59), where I was offered the Wayne Summer Rec position for boys baseball."

At that time Hank had all boys between the ages of 8-15 in what was called the Midgets. He continued to work for Ote Construction in the off seasons until 1963.

"One winter day in 1963 Glenda (Hank's wife who grew up just a few miles from Carmel on the Monterey peninsula) and I were talking about the boys that had nothing to do after school so we started a Boys Club," Overin said. "It was located where Pat's Beauty Salon is now and it was for fresh-

Chautauqua returns to Wayne after 84 years

Old time tent shows will be presented in Wayne this month when Chautauqua returns to the community after 84 years.

The traveling show, which features American Renaissance characters who present programs on American literature and history of the 1830s through the 1890s, will be presented to the public on five consecutive nights, July 17-21, at 7 p.m. at the Wayne County Fairgrounds.

On July 16 at 7 p.m. members of the Chautauqua show and of the community will raise the tent. On Saturday, July 18 at 4 p.m. the Central City Lone Tree Singers will make a special appearance at the fairgrounds.

During the daytime hours, July 17-21, Chautauqua characters will hold workshops that feature nature walks, sessions that compare and explore women's issues and sessions on African American history and culture.

Other activities related to Chautauqua include a community picnic, ice cream social, a quilting bee, dramatic readings, a gospel sing and square dance and ballroom dances.

Besides a cast of scholars who portray famous historical figures, local community members will provide music during the shows.

In January of 1908, members of the Wayne business community joined with J.M. Pile, president of Nebraska Normal College, to form the Wayne Chautauqua Foundation, according to the Wayne Historical Society. In July, 1908, the group sponsored a Chautauqua program provided by the Redpath Horner Chautauqua Service.

Like their counterparts in 1908, the organizers of the 1992 Chautauqua say they appreciate the educational advantages offered to a community through the medium of the Chautauqua.

The nightly programs will feature seven writers of the American Renaissance: Nathaniel Hawthorne, Henry David Thoreau, Louisa May Alcott, Frederick Douglass, Walt Whitman, Margaret Fuller and Herman Melville. These literary figures, brought back to life by humanities scholars, will appear on stage to recreate their time, to tell their stories and to answer questions from the audience.

"From 1835 until after the Civil War, these seven writers introduced themes that continue to be important in American life," says Sayre Andersen, associate professor of American Literature at Wayne State College. Andersen says these themes include: Americans' identity as individuals and as Americans; the importance of self reliance and of a society that will sustain individual dignity; the value of nature; the tragedy of racism; the danger of materialism; the reform of society; and the value of books and education.

"Audiences attending the shows will realize that the literary figures presented at Chautauqua did not necessarily like each other," Andersen says. They certainly did not agree on all the issues.

Additional information and tickets are available at Northeast Nebraska banks, public libraries and chambers of commerce. In Wayne, call 375-2240 for additional information; for tickets, call Pat Gross at the State National Bank at 375-1130.

Officials eye dropoff point

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Just as the City of Wayne passed on an increase in the solid waste disposal fees it charges to haulers, the Wayne City Council found that another opportunity might present itself to recycle some of the waste.

Chris Alexander of the Norfolk Recycling Center, informed the city council that his firm is looking for a satellite location and Wayne may have the opportunity to have a depository directly across the street from the transfer station if the city acts quickly.

Under Alexander's proposal, the city would need to hook up the former Husker Ready Mix building with electricity and water and Norfolk Recycling would locate a part-time dropoff point in Wayne. The building is currently owned by the city.

"Citizens would have to separate items and bring them to the collection site," Alexander said. "People will, in turn, receive money for certain recyclable materials."

THE DROP off site would collect aluminum cans and scrap aluminum, aluminum foil, newspaper, tin cans, plastic bags and batteries, if things work out. Alexander said the business may expand to collecting plastics and tires.

Since an emergency meeting was necessary for next week, due to other agenda items, the council will discuss the possibility of allowing Norfolk Recycling to set up shop in Wayne at a special meeting Monday, July 6 at 5 p.m.

If Wayne is not quick enough in accepting Norfolk Recycling's proposal, Alexander said he will look elsewhere.

Despite the good news about a potential new drop off point, the council learned that its costs of removing solid waste to the L.P. Gill landfill near Jackson has increased 8.6 percent.

ACCORDING TO Wayne City Administrator Joe Salitros, the increase charges to the city is due to a 2.5 percent increase by L.P. Gill for operating costs and a new state law which charges $1.25 a ton to cities which use landfills.

"Costs increase for the supplier and that gets passed on to the city," Salitros said. "When the city gets the increase, it gets passed on to the haulers and what the haulers do with the increase is up to them."

The hike in solid waste removal costs comes on the heels of a 15 percent increase approximately 10 months ago. The increase in rates makes the new rate $7.60 a cubic yard, up from $7 a cubic yard. According to Salitros, 550 lbs. of garbage amounts to a cubic yard.

Currently three haulers use the Wayne transfer station: two from Wayne and one from Wakefield.

JDC boss named

Board fills top position

By Mark Crist
Managing Editor

Gregory D. Eckel, 29, of Bellevue has been selected as the administrator of the Northeast Nebraska Regional Juvenile Detention Facility in Wayne.

"I'm very, very excited," he said. "I'm thrilled about the job. I'm also excited about moving to Wayne, it seems like a nice community. It's a great opportunity for me."

Eckel received bachelor of science degrees in business administration and finance economics from the University of Nebraska at Kearney in 1987. He received his law degree from Creighton University in 1990. Eckel comes on as administrator of the facility following months of work to keep the regional juvenile detention center open.

ACCORDING TO Chris Connolly, who is serving as general counsel for Northeast Nebraska Juvenile Services, Inc., Eckel was one of 18 applicants for the post. Of the applicants, seven were interviewed and from that, finalists were rounded down. Connolly would not disclose how many finalists were in the running.

"We were impressed and generally surprised by the quality of applicants," Connolly said. "We weren't offering a ton of money for the position but all 18 applicants had good qualities."

Gregory Eckel

Neither Connolly nor Eckel would say what the pay for the position was. Connolly said, however, that he negotiated the contract for Eckel's employment.

In 1982, Eckel was a chemical dependency technician with the Epley Treatment Center in Omaha. From 1984-87, he was a correctional youth supervisor at the Youth Development Center in Kearney and in 1989 he started work as a psychiatric technician at Methodist Richard Young Hospital in Omaha.

Bizarre accident hurts Wayne fireman on call

A fire northeast of Wayne late Tuesday resulted in the injury of a Wayne fireman.

Art Barker, 58, was injured when he tried to prevent one of the fire trucks from backing up into another one, which was parked, according to Wayne Fire Chief Duitch Sitzman. The accident occurred around 9:45 p.m.

"We hope Art will have a speedy recovery," Sitzman said. "These accidents happen but you try to avoid them."

According to Sitzman, Barker sustained a fracture to a bone in the pelvic area. After being transported to Providence Medical Center, Barker was immediately air lifted to Marian Health Center in Sioux City. Officials there would not release a report of his condition.

The cause of the fire, which destroyed a haystack on the Lenora Swanson farm three miles east and one mile north of Wayne, is still under investigation. Officials stayed at the scene fighting the blaze for approximately 2 1/2 hours.

man through senior boys to come to after school.

IT WAS open from 4-7 p.m. and kids could play ping pong, pool, pinball and other table games. I got the idea from a place back in Carmel called the Bing Crosby Youth Center and figured something similar would be nice for Wayne.

It was also in 1963 that the City of Wayne approached Hank about taking over as a full-time Rec Director. "That decision took me all of about two minutes," Hank said. "This position allowed me to make up programs for the city to be approved by the Rec Board, which is how we've implemented the programs we now have."

Hank was living the life he'd dreamed about since the days he volunteered to help out with the Carmel Mission Catholic School.

"I used to coach the football and basketball teams from the Mission School while I was going to school," Hank said. "I was lining and marking the football fields when I was in eighth grade."

Hank said he even served mass during the middle of the week for the Mission School and he wasn't even Catholic.

During the time Hank was busy working with Otte Construction and coaching baseball, Glenda was working as society editor for the Wayne Herald for a year, and she spent time working part time for Wittig's Grocery Store.

"I worked part time while we were raising our children Earle and Julie," Glenda said. "In 1963 the Boy Scouts gave up working the concession stand at the ball games so Hank and I talked it over and since I was at all the games anyway, I decided to take the concession stand over and now, 29 years later, I'm still popping the popcorn."

HANK ALSO volunteered to start up the high school baseball team which had been absent from the Wayne Public School for five years. "I coached the high school team for three years but had to give it up when I felt was dedicating so much time to 15 guys when I could be helping 50-60 in the rec program."

Hank enjoyed his work with the Midgets and in 1963 his team and the Junior Legion team coached by the late Ralph Bishop, both won the state baseball championship.

"One of my best friends was Ralph Bishop," Hank said. "He was a great man and he knew how to coach. I assisted him with the Legion team but I never got in the way of his coaching. I helped him with infield practice since he was in a wheelchair."

Bishop, a fine athlete in his own right, suffered a horse and buggy accident at age 16, which eventually led to the amputation of both legs. "He was a heck of a coach," Hank said.

Following the state championship of 1963, Hank was approached by Ralph Bishop and was told that the program would be his the following year because he wouldn't be back.

"I thought he was crazy for saying that," Hank said. "He obviously knew something that I did not because he passed away the following winter."

HANK WANTED to keep Bishop's legacy alive and he did so with the inception of the Ralph Bishop Baseball League which is still in existence today.

"I suggested we start a league in honor of Ralph and we had a board of directors," Hank said. "The league was set up so that one coach could coach all the teams because other towns had trouble getting volunteer coaches."

Wayne, Wakefield, Pender, Emerson, Wisner, Ponca, Winside and Laurel all took part in the initial Ralph Bishop League years with Homer and Hartington eventually joining.

The board eventually dissolved but the league stayed together with Hank doing all the scheduling and planning of games. During this time, Hank was running the Ralph Bishop League, coaching the Midgets and the Juniors, along with girls softball.

TO SAY that Hank is a workaholic could be the understatement of three decades. That's because in 1961 he had a spare hour of his day left each weekday—the noon hour, so he volunteered to be the physical education instructor for St. Mary's School—a position he held for 23 years.

"I did that because those kids were not participating in my rec program," Overin said. "So I dedicated some of my time to help them."

Glenda began working with Wayne Public Schools as a secretary in 1972—a position she held until her retirement in 1987. Hank continued his work with the kids while coaching the Midgets and Legion.

In 1981 plans came out in the Wayne Herald for a new ball park. Baseball was big in Wayne and for good reason. Hank had guided the 1980 Legion team to the state championship—the sixth state championship team Hank had coached.

"I noticed after looking at the plans in the paper that it wasn't going to work because they had the softball fields overlapping each other," Hank said. "I approached the city administrator and he must have felt offended because he turned to me and said if I thought I could do a better job of designing the field to do it myself—so I did."

GILMORE AND Associates were the ones who built the field and they did not change a single thing that Hank had constructed on paper and in 1982 the mayor of Wayne called Hank and Glenda together to the ball field where the City of Wayne had named the ball field Henry "Hank" Overin Field. Hank was also named the 1982 Nebraska Amateur Coach of the Year by Baseball Digest.

Baseball along with other sports has changed dramatically since 1958 when Hank first wandered into the town to play the game he loved for minimal pay.

"The rec programs have grown so much that kids have too much to do," Hank said. "The youth is spread out so fine that burn out becomes prevalent. Kids today have no rest period in between sports—it's like a job."

Three decades of champions

1963 Midgets

Season Record: 30-3.

Both Earle Overin and Mike Meyer were invited to a Kansas City Royals tryout camp.

1976 Legion

Season Record: 19-14.
Championship: Defeated Crofton 5-4.

Paul Mallette got the win, pitching six innings with no hits. Monte Lowe's throw to home from left field kept Crofton from tying the game and preserved the win for Wayne.

1980 Legion

Season Record: 23-8.
Championship: Defeated Wakefield 2-1 before a crowd of 1,200 in Wakefield.

Tim Pfeiffer was the workhorse pitcher, working 33 innings in the championship tournament. Todd Heier had the game-winning double.

1981 Legion

Season Record: 23-8.
Championship: Defeated Kimball 8-2.

All games during the season were played on the visitors turf because Wayne's ball park was being rebuilt. Wayne scored 24 runs in four games against Kimball (2), Syracuse and Dwight.

1990 Legion

Season Record: 25-6.
Championship: Defeated Elkhorn 9-6.

Jeff Lutt was the winning pitcher in the contest. Rusty Harner had a two-run homer and Jeff Lutt, Hamer, Cory Wieseler and Matt Peterson made the all-tournament team. Jeff Lutt finished a career with a 16-1 record.

I believe they've taken the word fun out of the games and replaced it with the word, work. I think it should be changed back."

Hank also feels that television has changed sports and kids as well. "First, television has helped kids with fundamentals with all the tapes and manuals on how to be the best in every sport. However, parents are also watching these tapes and are trying to be their own child's coach which is just leaving many of them confused."

Hank gets a kick out of coaching the kids of the kids he coached many years ago. During his tenure in Wayne Hank has coached two families where each of the boys has won a state championship jacket.

Don, Jerry and Mike Meyer, the sons of Edna, and the late Don Meyer along with Don, Rick and Randy Helgren have each earned state championships. Hank also coached a father and his two sons to state tournament berths with Rod Jorgensen and sons Jeff and Jason.

"I believe in having fun—at my job," Hank said. "I love coaching and have done it for well over 40 years. I consider myself a lucky man because many people go to a job they don't like everyday and I have loved my job in Wayne since the day I walked in."

"It wasn't always a fun filled time," Glenda recalled. "Sometimes Hank's dedication to the kids of Wayne would sometimes cause him to slight his own kids. He didn't do it knowingly but it just happened. He would be so involved with the rec program that he didn't get to see his oldest two children play a lot of high school sports."

WHEN HANK'S youngest son Steve entered high school athletics he did make time to go and watch. "After three plus decades of being together, the only thing Hank and I don't agree are on his music and the air conditioning in the car," Glenda said.

Hank officially resigned his position as City Rec Director in November of 1991. He signed on the contingency that as long as his health stayed good, that he'd come back in the summer and coach the Juniors.

"I'd like to continue next summer with these kids we have now and after that, we'd just have to wait and see," Hank said. "We will always consider Wayne our home after we've gone. We plan on moving to Florida permanently when I get finished coaching but we will visit Wayne yearly as our vacation spot."

Hank and Glenda's children currently reside in the following places: Earle, a 1975 grad of Wayne High lives in the Monterey Peninsula in California with his wife Terry and their sons Henry Clay Overin IV and Lucas. Julie, a 1977 grad of Wayne High resides in Denver, Colo., and Steve, a 1985 grad of Wayne High resides in Orlando, Fla.

No matter when Hank steps down, his legacy will be a part of Wayne athletics for generations to come. He has earned the right of passage into the hearts and minds of thousands of youth who will in turn pass the torch.

Process begins to annex land; start work on Rainbow World

By Mark Crist

On a night when the Wayne City Council gave initial approval of the Vintage Hill First Addition, land owned by developer Dave Gardner northeast of Wayne, the council heard a plea from Wayne Child Day Care Board President Mary Kranz to not delay on approval of construction plans and specifications for the Child Day Care Center, Rainbow World.

According to Wayne City Administrator Joe Salitros, action on the agenda item had to be delayed because not all of the designs have been approved by state architects. With that in mind, the council decided to hold a special meeting Monday, July 6 at 5 p.m.

Once built, Rainbow World will provide day care services to approximately 60 children. The cost of the project is approximately $250,000.

If all goes as planned, construction of the facility could start as soon as August. During the meeting, Salitros was directed by the council to begin negotiations for the land for Rainbow World. The city, initially, will buy the land and have the building constructed and once it is finished, the city will sign a quitclaim deed to have it transferred to the non-profit corporation.

The council was quick to deal with the proposed Vintage Hill First Addition. The eight-member board approved a resolution with conditions on the matter, held a public hearing and gave consideration for required improvement districts for the development.

Included in the addition will be an extension of Aspen Street, the addition of Vintage Hill Street and four blocks with 15 lots. Located on three of the lots will be the child day care center, which will be located directly across the street from the Wayne, America water tower.

Salitros said it is hoped that the financing for required street, water and sewer work can be financed with the Grainland Road project, proposed for the first part of the next fiscal year, which begins Aug. 1. The improvements for the project will be funded with bonds, Salitros said.

"We're taking it slowly so we know we have everything in order," he said.

Allen community club plans July 4 celebration

The Allen Community Development Club invites the public to attend an old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration on Saturday.

The day's activities include a pancake breakfast from 7 a.m. to noon at the fire hall, with proceeds going to the Community Development Day Care project; a family fun run/walk at 8 a.m., beginning at the fire hall with Dale Jackson in charge; and kids games in the park, including a kiddie pedal tractor pull, at 10 a.m.

The Community Development Club will sponsor a picnic in the park, beginning at 6 p.m., and will be selling homemade ice cream and pie for dessert as a fund raiser.

Fourth of July activities in Allen also include a free square dance in the school gym from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., karaoke at the Village Inn, beginning at 9 p.m., and a fireworks display at the Isom-Hill Athletic Field at 9:45 p.m.

HOW MUCH SHOULD YOU TAKE?

As a pharmacist, I run into the situation all too often when the patient purchases a non-prescription liquid medication and asks, "How many teaspoonfuls should I take?" It seems that most people think teaspoonfuls are the way all liquid medications are given. Some liquids are given by a certain number of cc's or ml's. The right medication and the wrong dose aren't the best combination for getting results. Ask your pharmacist.

BALANCED BUDGET AMENDMENT — BOON OR BAD FOR SENIORS? There's a lot of talk during this election year about an amendment to the Constitution that would require the federal government to do what state governments have to do: provide a balanced budget every year. (Of course, states don't have the responsibility of defense, border patrols, domestic and international emergencies, and other factors that can make the comparison between the two entities — the federal government and state governments — unrealistic.)

We've already seen how the states — in order to balance their budgets — have had to raise taxes as well as cut back drastically on providing services to their local communities because of cutbacks in funding from Washington. What will Washington cut back when they have to meet their constitutional mandate?

According to critics of the balanced budget amendment, we can expect drastic cuts in education, health care, and many of the Social Security programs now in effect, including Medicare.

In the next several weeks, you will be hearing much more about this subject. The White House plans a campaign to raise support for the legislation. The amendment's opponents also plan an educational blitz. I recommend that you contact your Congressperson — who may or may not be in favor of the amendment — and ask what the status of entitlement programs would be in this situation.

The idea of the balanced budget, of course, is to get a handle on the deficit. But as I've said before in this column, it would be breaking faith with Americans if this contract we've had with our government over 50 years would be scapegoated to try to solve a financial mess that exploded over the past 10 years.

"SMART" DRUGS CAN BE A DUMB IDEA: Some older folks are involved in a dubious effort to try to combat Alzheimer's disease or other age-related problems of mental decline by using certain so-called "smart" drugs that are supposed to enhance mental performance. But, according to a report in the May, 1992 issue of "Pharmaceutical Representative," the FDA has never approved a drug for enhancing memory or improving intellectual functions.

BREAK THE PRESCRIPTION CYCLE: Many seniors are in the habit of asking for a prescribed medication to deal with every physical problem they have. Talk to your doctor and agree on which of your problems can be handled without medication. You'll probably find you feel much better once you stop taking so many drugs.

The relatives are all descendants of the late Lewis and Amanda Ring of Wakefield.

The event began with a pizza party on Friday evening, June 26 in the Gordon Bard home at Wakefield. Activities on Saturday included a brunch and steak cookout at the Merle Ring farm near Wayne. Chef for the cookout was Dale Bard.

Herb and Joyce Niemann of Carroll catered a Sunday noon dinner in the fellowship hall of the Wakefield Covenant Church, with approximately 50 Ring relatives attending. Also joining the group were several family members attending a Johnson reunion.

The next Ring reunion will be in three years at the same location.

Billheimer-Pilger exchange vows

Making their home at Carroll are Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Pilger Jr., who were united in marriage on June 20 in a double ring service at the United Methodist Church in Carroll.

The bride is the former Kami Sue Billheimer, daughter of Kathy Hochstein of Carroll and Ron Billheimer of Belden. She is a 1992 graduate of Wayne-Carroll High School.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Pilger Sr. of Carroll, attended Wayne-Carroll High School and is employed by Kay House Moving of Wayne.

THE REV. Donald Nunnally of Wayne officiated at the couple's 6 o'clock wedding rites. Decorations included candelabras, a unity candle and pink pew bows.

Pianist was Mary Claussen of Carroll. Music included "Forever and Ever Amen" and "Love Can Build a Bridge."

The guests were registered by Malinda Goldman of Norfolk and ushered to their seats by Tom Sievers and Joel Carlson, both of Wayne. Lighting candles were Desiree Billheimer of Washta, Iowa and Jeremy Calhoun of Norfolk.

Maid of honor was Hollie Trube of Wayne, and bridesmaids were Kristi Reeg of Norfolk and Deb Stevers of Wayne.

Serving as best man was Roger Pilger of Wayne. Groomsmen were Barry Franzen of Wayne and Brad Landanger of Carroll.

Flower girl was Chassidy Pilger of Carroll, daughter of the couple, and ring bearer was Curtis Pilger of Wayne.

THE BRIDE was escorted to the altar by her father and chose a white satin gown in floor length, fashioned with a high neckline and net bodice and sleeves which were accented with a satin bow at the elbows.

Lace and beading highlighted the neckline, sleeves and midriff, and the full skirt fell into a chapel-length train.

Her fingertip veil was held by a crown of white leaves and pearls, and she carried white and pink roses with black bead accents.

Her attendants wore satin floor-length dresses in black with pink trim. The gowns were designed with spaghetti straps, fitted waistlines and full skirts which featured a pink ruffled inset on one side accented with a pink bow.

They wore pink and black rose hair clasps. The maid of honor carried pink and white roses, and the bridesmaids carried a single long-stemmed pink rose.

The bridegroom was attired in a white tuxedo with a pink cummerbund, tie and boutonniere, and his attendants wore black tuxedos with pink cummerbunds and ties, and white boutonnieres.

The bride's mother selected a pink satin floral tuxedo pantsuit with tails, and the bridegroom's mother

MR. AND Mrs. Monte Billheimer of Washta, Iowa and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Leonard of Wakefield greeted the 100 guests who attended a reception afterward in the Carroll auditorium.

The wedding cake was cut and served by Lynell Thies of Wayne and Robin Pilger of Gilroy, Calif. Alycia Jorgensen of Wayne poured and Aubrey Leonard of Wakefield served punch.

A dance followed the reception with music provided by Hitmen.

Ceremony in Iowa church unites Christine Hepola-Todd Gehner

The marriage of Christine Andrea Hepola and Todd Gerald Gehner, both of Wayne, was solemnized in 5:30 p.m. rites on May 30 at Trinity Lutheran Church, Alta, Iowa, with the Rev. Richard Dahle officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Judy Hepola of Alta and Gayle Hepola of Inver Grove Heights, Minn. Parents of the bridegroom are Marilyn Gehner and Gerald Gehner, both of Wayne.

Decorations for the double ring service included emerald green pew bows and altar flowers of peach carnations, daisies and white lilies.

Guests were registered by Stacy Bergquist of Ames, Iowa and Sallie Pender of Leawood, Kan., and ushered into the church by Lowell Heggemeyer of Wayne, Jody Navral of Columbus, Brad Droegmiller of Alta and Dean Woltman of Cherokee, Iowa.

SERVING AS honor attendants for the couple were Amy Anderson and Everett Schultz, both of Wayne.

Bridesmaids were Carrie Hepola of Alta, sister of the bride, Marcy Reineke of Fremont, and Terri Heggemeyer and Kelly Gehner of Wayne, both sisters of the bridegroom.

Groomsmen were Mike Backstrom, Dwight Schultz and Steve Karel, all of Wayne, and Mark Schultz of Gassville, Ark.

Flower girl and ring bearer were Allyson Karel and Brandon Karel, both of Wayne, and candlelighters were Lowell Heggemeyer and Brad Droegmiller.

Wedding music included "Let All Things Now Living," sung by the congregation, "He Has Chosen You for Me" and "The Wedding Song," sung by Teresa Boehle of St. Libory, and "Wind Beneath My Wings," sung by Carrie Hepola. Organist was Bev Wise of Newell, Iowa.

ON HER wedding day, the bride was given in marriage by her parents and appeared in a gown of white satin and schiffli embroidery with full pouf sleeves featuring candy box bows and extended by satin and lace.

The open sweetheart neckline and drop basque bodice were of an Italian rose pattern embroidery. Seed pearls and sequins encrusted the lace.

The satin skirt was trimmed with schiffli embroidered lace and swept into a full semi-cathedral train.

The bride's double-tiered, fingertip veil was attached to a headband of seed pearls and sequins. The pouf crown featured a satin bow trimmed with seed pearls.

She carried white calla lilies with lily of the valley and stephanotis.

THE BRIDE'S attendants were gowned in emerald green iridescent taffeta dresses in tea length, with an overlay of lace on the bodice. The lace pouf sleeves were accented with a cuff of iridescent satin and a small bow.

Each carried three peach calla lilies tied with peach and emerald green ribbon.

The bridegroom was attired in a white tailcoat, and his attendants wore black tailcoats accented with emerald green cummerbunds and ties.

The bride's mother selected an emerald green satin dress designed with long sleeves and a high-low hemline. The bridegroom's mother chose a street-length dress of peach rayon fashioned with a pleated skirt and long sleeves.

A RECEPTION for approximately 200 guests followed at the Alta Community Center. Hosts were Warren and Jean Schultz of Fremont, and Dale Woltman and Quinn Nierling, both of Alta. Arranging gifts were Leslie Thomas of Alta and Bonnie Schultz of Fremont.

Mr. and Mrs. Todd Gehner

The wedding cake was cut and served by Joanne McNatt of Wayne and Deb Schmidt of Alta. Pouring were Shelley Bundy and Lisa Warner, both of Wayne, and serving punch was Mary Lyman of Storm Lake, Iowa.

Waitresses were Lynn Schultz and Becky Schultz, both of Fremont, and assisting in the kitchen were Marge Lyman, Barb Iehl and Lil Cornell, all of Storm Lake.

The bride graduated from Alta High School in 1988 and will be a senior at Wayne State College. She is employed by First National of Omaha-Wayne Service Center.

The bridegroom is a 1989 graduate of Wayne-Carroll High School and a 1991 graduate of Southeast Community College, Milford. He is employed as a detail drafter at Vulcraft in Norfolk.

WAYNE MAYOR Bob Carhart signs a proclamation declaring Saturday, July 4 as Hank Overin Day in Wayne.

City of Wayne gears up to honor Overin

The Wayne City Council approved allocating $850 to assist in the Hank Overin Celebration planned for Saturday, July 4.

According to Jim Keating, chairman for the Hank Committee, the group of Overin enthusiasts fell $950 short of their goal for Saturday's celebration. The total cost of the event is $3,250.

"The game was originally planned in Wakefield," Keating told the council. "Wakefield OK'd foregoing their Fourth of July celebration this year in order to hold it in Wayne."

Council members Ralph Barclay and Patty Wieland said they would like to see some form of July 4 celebration continue in Wayne following this year. Keating said he thinks it will work on a rotating basis following 1992.

The Hank Celebration starts Saturday at 1:30 p.m. with a baseball game between the Wayne and Wakefield Midgets. It will be followed with a tribute to Hank Overin, for his 32 years of service to Wayne recreation programs, at 5 p.m. Following the program, a picnic will be held near the Girl Scout building at 6 p.m. Other events will follow throughout the evening.

"The recreation-leisure services committee has endorsed it," City Administrator Joe Salitros told the council. "Since we're at the end of our budget year, the money is available and will probably come from the general fund."

Public invited to Hoskins for Fourth of July events

Area residents are invited to take part in Fourth of July festivities at Hoskins on Saturday.

Carnival booths and a dunking booth will open at 1 p.m. A parade is scheduled at 3:30 p.m. and entries are asked to meet at the former Hoskins School grounds at 3 p.m. The parade will be followed with kids games and races, along with bathtub races, at 4:30 p.m. Participants in the bathtub race must be at least 14 years of age.

The day-long celebration also will include a barbecue at 6 p.m. at the fire hall, cow pie bingo at 8 p.m., and a fireworks display at the ball park at 10 p.m.

Bridal Showers

April Marotz

PILGER - The Pilger fire hall was the site of a miscellaneous bridal shower held June 20 in honor of April Marotz of Hoskins. Hostesses were Kim Thies of Pilger and Leah Marotz of Hoskins.

Decorations were in pink and black, and 25 guests attended from Norfolk, Madison, Carroll, Wisner, Pilger, Wayne and Hoskins. Contests furnished entertainment and a salad bar lunch was served. Assisting with gifts were Sherri Schmale, Kayla and Kourtney.

Miss Marotz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lane Marotz of Hoskins, and Jay Neisius, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Neisius of Pilger, will be married Aug. 1 at Trinity Lutheran Church, Hoskins.

Kimberly Jaeger

WINSIDE - A kitchen/grocery bridal shower was held June 27 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Winside, honoring Kimberly Jaeger of Lincoln. Approximately 22 guests attended from Winside, Norfolk and Lincoln.

Decorations were in the honoree's chosen colors of black, white and silver, and included a floral arrangement, picture of the couple, and a cutting board personalized by each guest. Several games were played and the bride-elect was gowned in a tissue paper dress by the guests.

A dessert lunch was served, and hostesses were Kathy Jaeger of Lincoln, Arvona Jaeger of Winside, and Kay Nitz of Norfolk.

Miss Jaeger, daughter of Richard Jaeger and Sharon Lefebber, both of Norfolk, will marry Jerry Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Smith of Norfolk, on July 25 at the First Presbyterian Church in Norfolk.

Wayne fast pitch girls struggle in Norfolk

Wayne's 18 and under girls fast pitch softball team took part in the Norfolk Tournament over the weekend. Mary Ann Lutt's crew played some very competitive teams from Omaha, Lincoln, Fremont and North Platte.

There are 24 teams present in the three different divisions and Wayne took its 18 and under team along with the 14 and under team.

Wayne's senior girls went 1-4 over the duration of the weekend, leaving them with a 10-5 record. Capital Cruisers of Lincoln defeated Wayne in the first game, 5-4.

Wendy Beiermann, who pitched every game for Wayne took the loss after scattering four hits and striking out two. Wayne finished with eight hits. Devanee Jensen singled and doubled to lead Wayne's offense while Wendy Beiermann, Lana Casey, Lisa Casey, Carrie Fink, Jenny Thompson and Kristy Hall each singled.

In Wayne's second game they were defeated by last year's Class B state champions in Yutan, 8-0. Beiermann did strike out seven Yutan batters but Wayne's offense managed just one hit while Yutan pounded out 10.

Kristy Hall laced a sixth inning single for Wayne's only hit while Shawn Schroeder was the only other base runner allowed, on a fourth inning error.

The Golden Girls of Norfolk defeated Wayne, 11-2 in the next game as they out-hit Wayne by a 12-5 margin. Beiermann struck out four despite taking the loss.

Wayne's hits came from a pair of singles by Beiermann and singles by Kristine Swanson and Heather Nichols while Twila Schindler doubled. "We got into trouble right away as we let Norfolk score six runs in the first inning," Lutt said.

Wayne lost to the Lady Diamonds of Fremont, 12-7 during Sunday action. Beiermann gave up seven hits and struck out three while Wayne scored seven times on 10 hits.

"Once again we got down 6-0 after the first inning," Lutt said. "When you dig yourselves a deep hole right away, it is tough to come back."

Beiermann tried to aid her pitching cause with a single and a double while Shawn Schroeder also singled and doubled. Kristine Swanson and Lisa Casey each doubled while Devanee Jensen, Lana Casey, Jenny Thompson and Kristy Hall reached on base hits.

"I thought our girls showed a lot of character by coming back and scoring three runs in each of the fifth and sixth innings," Lutt said.

Wayne earned its only victory with an 8-6 win over Columbus in the final game. Beiermann held Columbus to just two hits while striking out two. Wayne scored eight runs on six hits.

Beiermann hit a single and a double while Kristine Swanson ripped a pair of singles. Shawn Schroeder and Jenny Thompson each singled.

14 and under lose four

The Wayne 14 and under team fell on rough times over the weekend with four defeats, leaving them with a 3-9 record. In the first game they fell to The Irish of Omaha, 26-2. Katie Lutt took the loss in a game that saw Wayne commit 16 errors.

Wayne managed three hits as Katie Lutt doubled while Kari Wetterberg and Cori Langenfeld each singled.

In the second game Wayne was defeated, 9-6 by Norfolk Golden Girls. Kari Wetterberg took the loss. Wayne finished with six runs on four hits while Norfolk had nine runs on seven hits. Mandy Higbee hit two singles while Katie Lutt doubled and Amy Post, singled.

Wayne fell to Bob's Point After of Fremont, 6-4 in the third game as Katie Lutt took the loss. Wayne managed two hits in the game—singles by Mandy Higbee and Kari Wetterberg.

On Sunday, Wayne received a forfeit in the first game and closed out play against Bob's Point After of Fremont once again, where they were defeated, 16-1. Kari Wetterberg was the losing pitcher. Wayne had two hits—singles by Mandy Higbee and Amy Post.

Wayne gridgers hit weightroom

Wayne football coach Lonnie Ehrhardt has his football team for 1992 lifting weights over the summer and in order to encourage good participation, he has divided his squad into five, 11-man teams which will compete against each other for attendance.

The first team is captained by Bobby Barnes and after three weeks of weight lifting, his team is in first place with a 92 percent attendance. His team consists of Terry Rutenbeck, Jason Carr, Troy Jeffrey, Jason Zulkosky, Scott Carman, Brian Campbell, Matt Carner, Erik Wiseman, Adam Diediker and Carl Samuelson.

Chad Paysen is the captain of the current second-place team in weight lifting with an 88 percent attendance ratio after three weeks. His team consists of Jason Brandt, Mark Niemann, Matt Blomenkamp, Kelly Meyer, Mark Zach, Matt Robins, Andy Metz, Dusty Jensen, Jeff Hamer and Scott Olson.

Regg Carnes is captain of a team that has a 73 percent attendance ratio after three weeks. His squad consists of Brian Brasch, Brian Carner, Randy Kaup, Kirk Carmichael, Clint Dyer, Ryan Martin, Nate Salmon, Andy Witkowski, Alex Salmon and Scott Sievers.

Matt Rise is the captain of the fourth team which yields a 71 percent attendance ratio after three weeks. His squad consists of Ryan Harris, Chris Hammer, Chris Johnson, Jason Shultheis, Ryan Brown, Jason Starzl, Cory Erleben, Matt Chapman, Andy Rise and Steve Webber.

The fifth team is captained by Jack Swinney and after three weeks, their attendance trails the others at 41 percent. That team consists of Todd Fredrickson, Arnold Schwartz, Jason Williams, Tim Reinhardt, Robert Longe, Adam Bebee, Ryan Pick, Craig Wetterberg, Ryan Junck and Josh Starzl.

The Wayne Herald will run a weekly update on how the teams are doing with just the captain's names being printed followed by the percentage of attendance.

For additional information contact Arnie Cerny.

Wayne Junior Legion team falls in South Sioux invite

The Wayne Junior Legion baseball team struggled through a tough weekend at the South Sioux Tournament with a 1-4 record, dropping the season mark to 5-11.

Wayne opened up tournament play on Friday when they defeated Elk Point, S.D., 13-5 behind the quality pitching of Tim Reinhardt. Wayne pounded out 11 hits in the contest while Reinhardt scattered three while striking out 11.

Brent Gamble, Todd Fredrickson, Robert Longe and Brian Brasch each led Wayne's offense with a pair of hits.

On Saturday the Wayne Juniors lost to Worthington, Minnesota, 12-2 in six innings. According to Wayne coach Hank Overin, Wayne played a good ball game against an exceptionally talented club who went on to win the whole tournament.

Brian Gamble was the losing pitcher. Wayne did manage six hits with Todd Fredrickson leading the way with two. Worthington led 5-2 heading to the fifth when they scored three times before closing it out in the seventh with four runs.

Wayne was then defeated by Brandon Valley, S.D., 7-1. Robert Longe was the losing pitcher in a contest which saw two, Wayne hits. Todd Fredrickson and Brian Brasch each hit singles and Wayne's lone run came in the fifth inning.

St. James, Minnesota, defeated Wayne by a 10-2 margin in the first game on Sunday. Dane Jensen was credited with the pitching loss. Wayne pounded out five hits. Jensen and Brian Gamble each hit rbi singles in the final inning for Wayne's two runs.

The final game saw Wayne lose to Sioux Falls, S.D. by a 17-2 margin. Todd Fredrickson took the loss from the mound despite leading the offense with two hits. Wayne finished with five hits.

Overin said Todd Fredrickson and Tim Reinhardt were the most productive players for Wayne over the whole tournament. Fredrickson hit right around the 450 mark and Reinhardt did a nice job on the mound.

Slice of Americana

This weekend's celebration honoring the contributions Hank Overin has made to the recreational programs and youth of the Wayne Community promises to be a fitting tribute to a man who has become a great Wayne institution.

Hank Overin has helped thousands of Wayne area youngsters and their parents in the growing up and learning processes during his 32 years of dedicated service.

His retirement will leave a void but his example and tribute should be an inspiration to those who follow him. He epitomizes the ideal of American competitive drive and hard work.

The celebration will be, like him, a slice of Americana.

Baseball, hot dogs and fireworks...

...and a whole townful of friends to share them with.

Global milding

We're not sure we should even mention it for fear discussion of the situation might somehow upset the appercart.

We enjoyed, by all accounts, a mild winter. The heating bills were down and that meant everyone had more money in their pockets, unless you own utility company stock.

Now we're having, so far, a mild summer. The cooling bills to date have been easy to bear. In other years everybody would have plunked down a sawbuck or two by now to keep the air conditioners and water pumps running.

Not so this year. Pocket those costs.

It's been mild and timely rains have kept the sprinklers drier than usual.

Multiply your individual savings by several thousand times and that is how much richer the community as a whole is because of the mild weather.

Here's to the benefits of a little "Global Milding" no matter how brief the trend is.

Abortion at forefront

Court ruling draws fire from both sides

Monday's ruling by the Supreme Court has been touted a number of ways, several of which are negative. Pro-lifers don't like it and pro-choiceists don't like it but then again neither group would since it wasn't an absolute ruling. It's unfortunate, not only for the groups but for the woman and the unborn child, that there can't be an objective mediating point.

I'm not an ardent supporter of either side. I knew a pro-lifer when I was in college and she stuffed her views so far down my throat it gagged me. I've felt the same way around staunch pro-choiceists, as well.

I have my own opinions on whether abortions should be legal or not but I'm not going to direct those points of argument in this forum.

But I am point out what I believe Monday's ruling means.

The abortion question has been argued on Capitol Hill since the Roe v. Wade decision, which legalized abortion, was handed down in 1973. It has run rampant in the highest political circles like a dog chasing its tail and to no avail.

The Supreme Court doesn't seem to know what to do with the issue. That was evident in Monday's 3-2(5)-4 decision. Supreme Court Justices William Rehnquist, Byron White, Antonin Scalia and Clarence Thomas—that latter of whom should never have been appointed to the court—wanted to overturn Roe. Justices Harry Blackmun and John Paul Stevens wanted to strike down the Pennsylvania law restricting abortions, and Justices Sandra Day O'Connor, Anthony M. Kennedy and David H. Souter found themselves caught in the middle.

It's accurate to say that O'Connor's, Kennedy's and Souter's position is not unlike the one polls indicate a majority of Americans find themselves. By the ruling, states' elected lawmakers will have to determine how to play their cards. Not a bad deal, since states are always crying that the feds are sapping up "local" controls, but there are ramifications.

A strong point of the ruling shows that, at least, a few members of the Supreme Court do not want to serve in a legislative capacity—a job for which the Court was never intended, but has found itself edging toward due to a self-serving political process where incumbent politicians only care about re-elections and salary increases to pad their already lined pockets. The plague which has consumed Capitol Hill's elite has, on occasion, spilled over to the Supreme Court, but that's a whole different topic.

Mark 'n' the Spot

By Mark Crist

One ramification of the ruling is that it will force state legislators to develop tougher abortion stances—either pro or con. Since abortion is such a political hot mashed-potato (splattering on politicians faces), and state legislators get wrapped up in the ins and outs of all potentially new laws, they'll be ill-prepared to deal with the issue. It's a no-win situation. Legislators, like U.S. Representatives and Senators before them, will volley the political tennis ball to the point of infinity and laws will vary from state to state.

If laws vary, what's to stop someone in Wayne from going to Sioux City or Yankton to have an abortion. The same is true for people living in southeastern Nebraska, where they can go to Kansas or Missouri. And what about the western part of the state. They can go to Colorado or Wyoming and I'll guarantee Colorado's laws are much more liberal than any of the other state's surrounding, and including, Nebraska.

A point should be made for women's rights. If a woman living in western Nebraska can go to Colorado to obtain an abortion more freely than someone in Omaha, what makes the western Nebraskan's rights any more elite than the woman who lives in Omaha and can't obtain an abortion in Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri or Kansas? It's wrong any way you look at it.

The abortion issue will have to be handled on the federal level. But as President Bush said after Monday's announcement, the ruling was "satisfying," although it wasn't what he sought and that means the feds won't deal with it anytime within the next millennium. It was satisfying only because it takes the responsibility off the federal government and places it on the states. It resembles the balanced budget amendment Congress shot down last month. It only gives the feds an excuse not to do anything.

Somewhere along the line, someone will have to make an objective decision. Let's only hope it's the one that's right and fair for all of us.

Call Moms to help ...

'Anagathas' clutter editor's desk

The sniglets dictionary defines "anagathas" as mysterious items that appear on your desk and you don't know what to do with them.

I came across several of these this week in the process of looking for subjects with which to fill my column.

I'll used the opportunity to do a little (very little) desk-cleaning and column writing (even less).

Arrearages not anagathas

I may call the clutter on my desk "anagathas" but the Library of Congress calls its clutter "arreages."

If you think your house or office is a mess, consider the plight of the folks over there at the nation's top library trying to sort out the piles.

A recently published estimate reports 36 million items laying around the library in its storerooms, desk tops and yes, warehouses, that haven't been filed and put away.

They receive four million items to be added to the library every year and it amounts to steam shovel work trying to keep it all in piles for filing and cataloging later.

They don't need librarians at that place. What they need are a few resolute mothers.

Mothers deal with that kind of clutter every week when they crack the whip to get kids (and fathers) to clean their rooms and put things away.

I'll bet a half dozen moms would have that library ship-shape in no time.

The two percent solution

Ed Jaksha lambasted Nebraska Press Association columnist Melvin Paul in a letter to the editor last week. Seems Ed doesn't like others expressing opinions that he doesn't agree with.

I like Ed's effort to get the term limits issue on the ballot. I hope he succeeds.

However, I disagree with Ed's opinion about the rightness or wrongness of someone questioning his methods in a public forum of opinions that a newspaper editorial page should be.

Ed seems awfully anti-newspaper for a guy who gets more than his share of ink and paper. He's been in the news a good bit with 2 percent spending limit petition drives and tax protest issues and now the term limits drive.

His negative letter last week prompted one of our newsroom wags to quip: "That's Ol' Ed. He makes sense about 2 percent of the time."

Tribute to Hank

Dear Editor,

I went to my first major league baseball game two weeks ago. As I walked into the stadium all my senses came alive. I could smell the leather on the glove that a 10-year-old boy carried through the ticket counter in front of me.

The beer, popcorn, polish dogs and kraut tempted my palate, but I only wanted to duck into that tunnel and see the field.

And there they were warming up. The infield perfect, the outfield defining the color of green, the players uniforms were clean yet and they tried to relax with the usual spitting, kicking, scratching, groping... that is major league baseball players.

Who played that night and the game itself, is not important. What is, is the sensitivity and knowledge of the game, as it progressed, and of course, its enjoyment.

I thought, how much I enjoyed this game, as I lay in my motel bed hours later. I thought too of other sports, basketball, football, soccer; I thought of how I enjoyed watching them also. But most of all, I thought of how much I enjoyed playing them and still do. I thought of Hank Overin.

Visions run through my mind: Hours in right field. The shaking of the head when I struck out for the fifth time. Lay-ups. Endless lay-ups. Passing and dribbling drills. Hours of this and that, and never putting a hand on a football. And so much of my fundamental athletic career is vague, but Hank is always there—encouraging, teasing, scolding; literally grabbing your shoulders and walking you up to your teammate and saying, "This is your screen, do you see him?"

If you could not see Hank's point one way, he would come up with another way, but you'd see his point. If that meant an extended interlude on the bench (for observation purposes, of course) then you sat. But the bench was an important position to learn. Because Hank taught me about the importance of being on a team. The importance and gratification of your team winning. Trusting in the coach's wisdom and encouraging people (that you thought you were better than) ... from the bench.

I cannot quote famous or infamous lines that Hank barked out across the field or court. I really wish I could tell you something really profound that he said to me or the rest of the team. Hank was not a profound guy. He loved sports and spoke off the top of his head. He loved kids too, and the combination brought on such inspirational lines as, "... your sister can do that, what's the problem?"

I played sports in high school, not because of any great ability, but because I knew the fundamentals, I knew how to enjoy the game, and had grasped the concepts of defeats, agonizing self evaluation ... and victories' sweet pride. Hank Overin had given me this.

Although Hank should stand in great pride of those who did, I never earned any athletic scholarships or any outstanding awards when I graduated from Wayne High. I would hope that he would stand proud though, for those of us who are not major leaguers, NCAA champs, or pro anything. But dads and moms, shooting hoops in the drive, pitching in the front yard, giving last minute counsel as we tighten the flag belt on our sons and daughters. No matter what we were in Hank's eyes, they are champions in ours. And we are not consciously aware, but his encouragement and counsel flows from our lips to them.

Hank, your legacy will live on in those you least expect. I moved away, as many of us did, but I cannot share childhood memories with brothers, sisters and friends without Hank's name coming up.

My fondest memory is of a night long ago, when I sat on the hood of my father's car somewhere off of right field, and Don Goeden pitched a town team game ... and pitched, and pitched and pitched. Hank caught that game and I always wondered what those guys talked about on the many trips Hank made to the mound.

In all honesty, I probably fell asleep after the 16th inning, but to me it was that night, that the men on the Wayne town team became heroes. Wayne, Nebraska has never seen a baseball game as they did on that night.

What that game portrayed was the whole ideology of Hank Overin's coaching of young people—character.

When I grab the gloves and bats and head out to the yard with my sons and daughter I intend to work on fundamentals, but I know that if I am sensitive, caring yet firm, I can give them more. Hank Overin has given me that, to give to them.

This is Hank's day. All of us second and third stringers, right fielders, bench riders, stand up to you. You have given us character and so many things that go beyond the field or court.

Stand proud in knowing that our children and grandchildren will know your legacy, and with all due respect as an adult, you will remain a hero in a little boy's heart.

Honoring Hank

Dear Editor,

I received your card recently concerning the above referenced tribute to Hank Overin. I will unfortunately not be able to attend but want to extend my congratulations and thanks to Hank for his years of service to the youth of the community.

In my 46 years one of the fondest memories I retain is the summer of 1963 (I think I have the year correct)

News revolution needed:

Roy Sommerfeld brought in the following clipping out of Reader's Digest attributed to Gabe Pressman in Newsday: "Journalism, on the air and in print, feeds on stereotypes and quick-fix stories—the morbid, sensational, sexually titillating. They are simple to cover and don't require the expenditure of much intellectual energy."

"It could be argued that our viewers and readers are eager for negative news, and we give them what they want. But I think that's a cop-out. We overdose people with the grim, horrible and pessimistic because we seem to know nothing else—we are so firmly embedded in this habit we have forgotten that the criteria for news are wide."

"People who are helping and saving others are even more newsworthy than the legion of killers, rapists and child abusers who march across the news columns and fill the tube. What we need is nothing less than a revolution in the way we define journalism."

Right on Gabe! Look around at some of the community newspapers here in Northeast Nebraska. You'll see the revolution has already begun. There's more room being devoted to the good things going on in the communities, the good things young people are accomplishing, the human side of life's successes, the good work being done by our neighbors.

Oh sure, we have to report the negative things too. Bad things happen and to ignore them would be as dangerous as ignoring the good things that people do.

But Gabe is right in complaining about the general lack of balance that pervades the normal news fare.

Too often it is weighted to the negative and his is a healthy reminder for community and national newshounds alike.

Parting shot:

We have two pieces of advice for Californians who are feeling the effects of Earth tremors this week.

1: When you feel a tremor stand under a doorway.

2: Make sure the doorway is in Nebraska.

junior legion baseball season and eventual state championship. I sincerely appreciated Hank and Ralph giving a banjo-hitting Wayne Prester a chance at second base when Prep's 10 month school year never really allowed me to play Midget or Legion ball until that year.

Thank you Hank for 1963 and all the years you have devoted to the kids of Wayne. You were and remain a wonderful influence on everyone you meet.

Club recognition

Dear Editor,

Women of Today, America's volunteers, are being officially recognized on July 1, 1992 for Founders Day. They are dedicated to leadership training and personal enrichment opportunities through community service.

The Wayne County Women of Today have been active in the community of Wayne with such programs as Goldenrod Hills, Wayne County Fair, Chicken Olympecks, Hospital Tray Favors, PALS, Spring and Holiday Craft Festivals. In addition, the Wayne County Women of Today have donated money to United Way, Park Recreation, City Beautification, Wayne County Fair, Kinship, Wayne State Women's Athletic Scholarships and Toys for Tots.

On behalf of the 24 members of the Wayne County Women of Today, we would like to thank the citizens and merchants of Wayne for their continued support and help during the past seven years.

To learn more how you can become involved in the Wayne County Women of Today chapter, contact Debbie Bargholz at 375-4239 or Laura Hochstein at 375-4740.

Research official retires

Russell Moomaw won't have to worry about controlling weeds anywhere except in his own backyard from now on. As of Tuesday, June 30 and after more than 26 years in extension, Moomaw has decided it's time to cater to his own lawn and garden.

Moomaw worked as the Associate County Agent in York County, Nebraska, until his appointment at the Northeast Center, in Concord, in September, 1968.

Russell Moomaw

Moomaw says he has enjoyed his research appointment of his position most but says the extension appointment was really important to area producers.

"I think my mature and skills are better suited to research, but research has to be applied to be of any use. That's where extension come in," Moomaw says. "The satisfaction of doing field research and providing producers with information so they can compete better and be more productive farmers is what I like best."

Moomaw sees environmental issues affecting the future producers more than anything else. "Recently, there has been a change toward no-till practices among producers," Moomaw says. "Erosion is becoming more of a concern than it was in the past, and with the introduction of new and better herbicides, I see no-till planting as a big impact on future farming. I'm glad to have been a part in initiating some of those changes."

The retiring specialist says environmentalists need to work hand-in-hand with government entities and sion Center at Concord. The center encompasses 320 acres and leases 160 acres for its research projects. Many projects are also performed off-center at various plots throughout the 12 county district.

He has written several articles on tillage varieties, herbicides, corn and grain sorghum varieties which have seen the inside pages of several agricultural publications.

He says his plans for retirement are 'not set in stone', but he and his wife Bonnie plan to travel and he enjoys gardening and woodworking.

A retirement dinner was held in Moomaw's honor on Friday, June 26, at the Wagon Wheel Steak House in Laurel. Over 110 people attended the event to wish farewell to Moomaw and his dedicated work at the center.

The couple are the parents of two daughters, Mrs. John (Leah) Agler of Wayne and Mrs. Bill (Sandi) Thurmond of St. Cloud, Minn. Moomaw says he will also spend as much time as possible with his eight grandchildren.

Moomaw and his wife Bonnie will remain in the Wayne area after his retirement.

both should not treat each other as enemies. "There is a great concern among environmentalist groups over pollution," says Moomaw. "But the government has some well-established regulations that help protect the environment. However, there's always going to be those, on both sides of the fence, who will abuse it."

Moomaw says he is glad to have been a factor in developing the weed research and field crop programs at the Northeast Research and Exten-

Family picnic starts reunions

A long time ago, my Mom and her two sisters decided they needed an annual picnic. I suppose that's how family reunions get started. We gradually decided on the last Sunday in June; and we tried various parks that would have middle distance for Kearney, Grand Island, Omaha, Lincoln, and Norfolk. We went to Columbus and Schuyler a lot. We tried Pioneer's Park one year and Platte River another.

I'm the oldest cousin, so I actually remember all these other folks who show up. And it's been fun to see them bring friends, marry, and start bringing the third generation.

Lately, we've been going to York. After all, York County was where it all began. These three women learned to swim in the Blue River there. Now they watch their grand-children swim.

This year, someone thought we should try the newest state park, Mahoney. Galen volunteered to camp there and save a shelter. You need a shelter, because the trees are all so small yet.

We had been to the wedding in December in the lodge, but had not really explored the rest of the park. We drove by the golf course and a miniature course; John Wayne stables; and a theater under construction.

There are all kinds of cabins and a nice pool with a giant slide. I think there are paddle boats, but I didn't spot them.

The prices get a little discouraging, especially if one took an average sized family. The entry fee of $2 isn't bad, but $2.50 for kids in the pool, $8 for trail rides, and another fee for the golf could add up. The flush toilets are certainly nice!

Aunt June and Uncle Edgar drove up in a huge R.V. Another couple got out and we all wondered who our guests were. Turned out it was my Grandma's other daughter from Kenewick, Washington.

When our church started a parochial school in Waco in the 40's, the minister taught the first year: eight grades, all subjects plus memory and catechism, Bible history, and hymn singing. I'm not sure when he prepared his sermons.

The second year, Isabelle Weiser came to us from Vernon, Texas. Just graduated from high school, she had attended a summer session at Concordia College at Seward.

Then she took over what a pastor had been doing! And, as far as I know, did it well. Oh yes, she also prepared a Christmas Eve program and we were often the choir for funerals.

She boarded with my grandparents and our family adopted her for that year. She was maid of honor for my aunt and uncle. She has taught all these years and is now retired. She and her husband have just purchased a beautiful new R.V.

They were driving it back from the factory in Iowa, so it was a wonderful surprise.

Isabelle was tough - I suppose she had to be. She had a habit of grading me on what she thought I should have been accomplishing, not necessarily on what I actually did. And, she didn't give any extra points because she lived with my grandparents.

The other thing I remember her for is that she taught me Malotte's Lord's Prayer, the most beautiful arrangement of that prayer. I sang it at a talent contest at Concordia, and I've been singing it ever since. It never dawned on me that it was kind of a tough song for a fourth grader.

In short, as I look back, Isabelle really challenged me. I'm sure I needed it. And, I am grateful!

Hefner receives Legion award; chosen as marshal for parade

State Senator Elroy Hefner of Coleridge was presented an award by Nebraska American Legion Department Commander Eugene Schmitz at the 74th Annual Convention held June 26-28 in Grand Island. Inscribed on the plaque was "In Recognition and Appreciation for Outstanding Service and Assistance to Veterans". Hefner responded and said, "I am very appreciative and honored to receive this award and enjoyed working with the American Legion for the past 16 years in the Legislature regarding Veterans issues."

Senator Hefner was also honored by being chosen as parade marshal of the annual convention parade which was held Saturday afternoon. Hefner was a delegate to the convention representing Carl Korth American Legion Post 114. Mrs. Hefner was a delegate to the American Legion Auxiliary Convention.

Winside woman continues training

By Dianne Jaeger
Winside Correspondent

Information for the following article was obtained from an interview with Teri Koll and from various other sources.

Winside resident Teresa Koll is completing the second phase of mediation training as part of a newly implemented Nebraska Dispute Resolution Act.

The new program in Nebraska became law on June 5, 1991 with the signature of the governor on LB 90 Dispute/Resolution Act. The program's kick off date was July 1, 1992.

Special presentations are being planned in Lincoln on July 8 with the Supreme Court Justice.

THE MEDIATION law was passed to help individuals settle disputes without having court litigation. Disputes may be between any individuals, such as landlords and tenants, business and purchaser, divorcing parties, organizations and communities, schools and patrons, farmer and farmer, etc.

A trained third person (mediator) is called into the dispute by one of the designated mediation centers throughout the state.

Persons may choose to use the process because it is private, confidential, quicker than the court system and less expensive.

Fees for the service are based on a sliding scale, and even those unable to pay will receive services according to law.

TERI FIRST became interested in mediation after reading a book on family mediation during a time of personal conflict.

"I saw how litigation was not bringing parties any closer together, but how mediation was a possible avenue of communication."

The Winside woman said she was having lunch with a friend who said she was going to take a class on mediation at Northeast Community College. "Since I was already interested in it, I called the Nebraska Justice Center at Walthill to find out more about the class and if I could take it."

Teri said she was enrolled in the 30-hour training course after sending her resume and receiving approval from the Nebraska Justice Center in Walthill.

She pointed out that there is a charge for the program and that the 22 students taking the course included pastors, attorneys, farmers, housewives and teachers.

NEBRASKA IS divided into six areas, including the Nebraska Justice Center which covers 24 counties in Northeastern Nebraska, the Omaha Mediation Center, Lincoln/Lancaster Mediation Center, Southeast Nebraska Mediation Center, Panhandle Mediation Center, and South Central Mediation Center.

The program is currently operating with all volunteer mediators, and persons needing a mediator or wishing to become a mediator can call the Walthill office.

Deb Brownyard is the program coordinator for the Nebraska Justice Center, with Cathy Smith as the intake person at the center.

TERI SAID mediators do not give counseling advice, but do ask lots of questions and listen very closely.

They guide parties through a five-step process to assist in solving the problem. Each party in mediation has an opportunity to tell their side of the story. The mediator assists the parties in expressing their feelings to each other, which is sometimes the majority of conflict.

Both parties must agree to the mediation, whereas in litigation, one party has no choice in the matter. People volunteering to involve a mediator retain some control over the situation instead of the judge retaining total control.

Teri also pointed out that mediators do not dictate the terms of the agreement, but assist the parties in general options.

At the end of mediation, if the parties do come up with an agreed solution, it is then written up by the mediator into an agreement and signed by both parties.

Under state statute, that agreement can be enforced.

SOMETIMES people already in litigation who have attorneys can get together in mediation and present their proposed agreement to the attorneys, thereby avoiding an appearance before a judge.

Every dispute will not be settled through mediation, however it is another alternative. Mediation has been proven effective in settling family disputes in other states.

Teri is currently taking another four-day training course in Fremont on family mediation. Following the course, she will apprentice three times with an experienced mediator before going out on her own.

The first certificate she received states she completed 30 hours of training in theory and practice on conflict resolution techniques, including the mediation process, neutrality, agreement writing and ethics.

"I PLAN to continue becoming more knowledgeable in mediation," said Teri.

"Since the entire program is new, we don't know how well it will be accepted by the general public, courts, judges and legal system."

Teri added that she has committed with the Justice Center to do 12 voluntary mediations within the next year.

"Whether that will lead to a paid position later with the center I don't know, but I do feel that the knowledge and experience will benefit me somewhere in my future."

MORE mediator training sessions are planned, and interested persons are asked to call the Walthill Justice Center, (402) 846-5576, for more information. The mailing address is 312 Main St., P.O. Box 475, Walthill, Neb., 68067.

Interested persons may also contact Kathleen Severens, Director Trainer, Office of Dispute Resolution, P.O. Box 98910, Lincoln, Neb., 68509, or telephone (402) 471-3730.

Sweet Land of Liberty

Freedom demands responsibility. God demands responsibility and discipline from favored nations.

Obedying God's commandments is healthy for our country. It makes us better; it lifts us, like Liberty's torch.

Our responsible actions can insure freedom for the yet unborn.

Guidelines out for homes seeking reduced price meals

The Nebraska Department of Education Child Nutrition Office has announced the Income Eligibility Guidelines for free and reduced price meals for persons unable to pay the full price of meals served under the National School Lunch, breakfast, special milk and child and adult care food programs.

Participating schools and the office of the superintendent of schools and participating child and adult care centers have a copy of the policy, which may be reviewed by any interested party.

Participating agencies in the Wayne Herald area include: Allen Consolidated Schools, Laurel Public Schools, Wakefield Community Schools, School District 57 South of Wayne, St. Mary's School of Wayne, Wayne Public Schools, Goldenrod Hills Community Action Agency of Wisner and Winslow Public Schools.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents, guardians or adult participants. To apply for free or reduced price meals, households should fill out the application and return it to the school or agency. Additional copies are available from the school principal or agency administrator. The information provided on the application will be used to determine eligibility and may be verified at any time during the year by school or other program officials.

For the school or agency officials to determine eligibility, the household must provide the following information on the application: names of all household members, social security numbers of an adult household member or a statement that the household members does not have one, total household income by source and frequency, and the signature of an adult household member certifying that the information provided is correct.

Households are required to report increases in household income of more than 450 per month or $600 per year and decreases in household size or a loss of benefits from food stamps, AFDC, SSI or Medicaid.

Applications for the program may be submitted at any time during the course of the year.

ANNUAL INCOME ELIGIBILITY GUIDELINES

Effective from July 1, 1992 - June 30, 1993

WAYNE AREA 4-H'ERS WORK on painting one of the buildings at the Wayne County Fairgrounds. 4-H'ers include (from near) Craig Rahn, Tracy Nolte, Karla Rahn and Greg Schardt.

Workshops held

4-H'ers learn variety

"Learning By Doing" is the 4-H goal, and Dixon County 4-H'ers did just that with a variety of activities held June 8 and 9 at the Northeast Research and Extension Center, near Concord.

A sewing workshop was offered to beginner sewers to learn basic techniques. Ten 4-H'ers either made shorts or a duffel bag.

Karen Wermers, extension agent, provided the workshop with parents and grandparents giving direct support.

The group took an hour break from sewing to participate in a modeling workshop taught by Pam Schram of Ponca, a former Mrs. Nebraska International.

A modeling video tape and Mrs. Schram's hands-on practice provided the advancement of poise, confidence and walking finesse.

THE afternoon included the Dixon County Home Economics Judging Contest.

Four-H'ers judged nutrition, clothing, money management, advertising, home environment and child development classes, and presented oral reasons to justify why they felt one choice was superior to another.

The judging contest helps develop decision making and communication skills.

Participating in the contest were Kristin and Susan Brudigam, Brooke Kahl, Jennifer Simpson, Tiffany McAfee, Jennifer Roeber and Sara Mattes of Wakefield, Renee and Tanya Plueger and Kate Harder of Concord, and Denise Diediker of Dixon.

The top two judges in each of the novice, junior and senior divisions will be announced at the Public Fashion Revue, scheduled Aug. 12 at the county fair. The Concord Cafe sponsors the awards.

Registration for fall classes at Northeast Community College is continuing through the summer, according to College officials.

The Student Services Office is open for admissions counseling and registration information Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Thursday evenings until 8 p.m., and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

For more information, contact Northeast at 371-2020, or 1-800-348-9033.

AN OFFICIAL FROM THE COLUMBUS area teaches 4-H'ers a lesson on early Nebraska history from the 1840s to the 1860s during the 4-H day camp near Ponca.

4-H'ers attend camp

Nearly 200 area youth took part in the 4-H Ponca Day Camp which was held June 23 and 24. The theme for this year's camp was "Frontier Days." At the camp, the youth participated in sessions on fishing, Nebraska history, crafts and Project Learning Tree.

A highlight at the year's camp was "Mountain Man" Les Vilda. Mr. Vilda gave a very exciting demonstration on his interest in scouting on the western trails during the 1800's. During his session, he showed the children the different equipment that the scouts needed while on the trails. He had an authentic tent set up along with a cooking area. Using only a magnifying glass, he showed the children how to start a fire. He also fired off an old pistol that dates back to the 1800's.

Another interesting session was the craft. This year the children made baskets out of bamboo. This type of basket was made by the Indian women to carry food and other necessities. Although the weaving of these baskets takes a lot of patience and time to complete, the children did very well.

Attending the camp from Dixon County were:

Allen: Jessica Bock, Alaina Bupp, Jeff Hoferer, Jessie Knudsen, Lyle Rahn, Kenneth Rahn, Jennifer Smith, Justin Warner

Concord: Amber Hansen
Dixon: C. Ryan Hintz, Julie Abts

Laurel: Brice Volker
Wakefield: Brooke Kahl, Todd Kahl, Jennifer Roerber, Kyle Roerber, Kristin Brudigan, Kyle Keagle, Jeff Keagle, Brittany Peters, Kurt Thompson, Amber Thomsen, Eric Thomsen

Attending from Wayne County were:

Carroll: Aaron Bethune, Devin Bethune, Maureen Gubbels, James Gubbels, Lynn Junck, Beth Loberg,

The Ponca Day Camp is an annual event that takes place in the third week of June. Children, ages eight to 13, are encouraged to attend this camp.

Program airs Local company holding session

Brad Pflueger, the Wayne representative for the financial-services firm Edward D. Jones & Co., will host a satellite seminar for retirees Tuesday, July 7, featuring Iowa Sen. Charles Grassley. The program will be broadcast live to more than 1,900 Jones offices nationwide.

Grassley, a member of the Senate Special Committee on Aging, will discuss the latest news from Capitol Hill on Social Security, taxes, insurance, health care and more. Because the program will be broadcast live from the firm's St. Louis, Mo., headquarters, viewers in the local Jones office will have an opportunity to call in questions for Grassley to answer on the air.

"As the number of retired citizens increases with the aging of the baby boom generation, legislative issues concerning older Americans will demand the attention of the nation's lawmakers," Pflueger said. "We're proud to offer this program to clients and friends who are interested in legislative proposals that may affect their taxes, retirement insurance and health care, and we're pleased to have a senator with Charles Grassley's experience and commitment to join us."

Grassley's political career began in 1958, when he won a seat in the Iowa House of Representatives. After 16 years in the state legislature, he was elected to the U.S. Senate and was re-elected in 1986 with the biggest victory margin ever achieved in an Iowa Senate race. Today he is a member of the Senate Special Committee on Aging as well as the Finance, Budget, Agriculture and Judiciary Committees.

The Town Hall Meeting will be immediately preceded by a quarterly economic and investment update from the Edward D. Jones & Co. Investment Policy Committee titled "Viewpoint."

This is the second in a three-part series of seminars hosted by Edward D. Jones & Co. specifically for retirees. The first program, April 28, featured baseball Hall of Famer Stan Musial. The final broadcast in the series, scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 25, will feature investment strategies for retirees. The firm also offers live satellite programs and videotapes for business owners and tax professionals.

Edward D. Jones & Co. traces its roots to 1871, and today it has more than 1,900 offices in 47 states and the District of Columbia, making it the largest financial-services firm in the nation in terms of number of offices. Its representatives serve individual investors and specialize in the needs of retirees and pre-retirees.

For more information on the July 7 seminar, contact Pflueger at (402) 375-4172 or stop by the office at 300 Main Street.

Transformer causes problems; claims filed

A faulty transformer affecting one city block in downtown Wayne has two merchants trying to collect for damages from the city.

Wayne City Administrator Joe Salitros informed the council that at least two businesses had sustained damage to electric systems, electronic systems and telephone equipment following a transformer going down in May. The transformer affected businesses in between Second and Third Streets and Main and Pearl Streets.

Salitros told the council that insurers have said the city is not liable for the damages. Electric companies which studied the damaged transformer said the mishap could have been caused any number of ways.

With little more discussed on the matter, the council opted to wait on a decision at the request of City Attorney Michael Pieper. No action was taken on the matter Tuesday night.

4-H'ers give up on recycling project

The Dixon County 4-H Teen Leaders, who began a recycling project in April of providing a recycling pick-up site at the Dixon County Fairgrounds, are no longer able to provide the service because of the closing of Northeast Recycling Center, which had been providing transportation.

Teen Leaders said there was good response to the project and residents are still encouraged to recycle, although they will need to take items to other possible sites in the area.

IN WAYNE, recycling sites include Pamida (plastic bags) and Region IV (aluminum cans).

In Wakefield, Can-Can Recycling, located at 212 Main St., accepts aluminum cans and auto batteries, and the Fair Store, 312 Main St., accepts plastic bags.

Recycling sites in South Sioux

City include Wal-Mart (newspapers and plastic containers), Region IV (aluminum cans), and Hy-Vee and Sunshine (plastic).

In Sioux City, newspaper and corrugated cardboard may be taken to Siouxland Recovery, located at 1107 Morgan St. Aluminum and tin cans and glass may be taken to MT Can Co., located at 1704 11th St.

Newspapers may also be taken to Parco, Inc., located in Norfolk on East Highway 24.

KAREN Wermers, area extension agent, said residents who have collected items for the Teen Leader recycling project and cannot get them to an outlet, or persons wishing to receive more information on recycling and the Nebraska Recycling Directory, are asked to call her at the Dixon County Extension Office, 584-2234.

4-H News

CITY SLICKERS, COUNTRY MIXERS

The June meeting of the City Slickers and Country Mixers 4-H Club was held in the home of Craig and Carla Rahn. Roll call was taken and reports by officers were given.

The business meeting included club banner decisions, contest day, and plans to attend the fair.

The next meeting of the club will be July 18 at 2 p.m. in the Columbus Federal meeting room. Nicole Trevett, news reporter.

PINS AND PANS

The Pins and Pans 4-H Club met June 22 at the Northeast Research and Extension Center, near Concord. President Brandy Hintz called the meeting to order, followed with the flag pledges.

It was announced that 4-H'ers over the age of 13 can sign up for a two-week exchange program next summer in Arizona. Participants will stay with 4-H families.

A report was given on bleachers to be made for the baseball park in Dixon.

Following the meeting, Caroline Peterson spoke to the group on skin care. Demonstrations were given by Christy Johnson, Cori Clarkson and Amber Martindale. The group watched a video on modeling and practiced modeling. Hosts were the Huetigs and Lee Johnsons.

The next meeting will be a mother's tea on Tuesday, July 21 at 7:30 p.m. Music groups will perform, the girls will model, and finished projects will be brought for mothers to view.

Program assists youth

The traditional, negative approach to dealing with young problems often produces children who are hostile, angry and alienated. This approach is not only expensive, it does not address root issues and basic needs, and sets in place a downward spiral of progressively serious misbehavior.

In order to deal with this issue, the Voices for Children in Nebraska will present one of three community council series programs "Beyond Blame: Effective Community Responses to Youth at Risk" Tuesday, July 21 at Wayne State College from noon to 2:30 p.m. The session will be held in the North Dining Room of the student center.

Many communities are taking steps to assure their young persons have the best chance for successful adulthood by creating and actively supporting positive, innovative, effective youth programs. "Beyond Blame" will provide parents, educators, youth workers and others with substantive and useful information to better assist youth, including: the status of children in Nebraska, judicial concerns, racism in the juvenile justice system, why traditional youth services fail, the role of juvenile detention, effective youth programs in Nebraska and nationwide, federal laws protecting children in the justice system, an action plan for youth services in Nebraska.

The audience will be invited to share information about youth programs in the community and to participate in a question and answer period regarding youth issues presented during the council. Free registration includes lunch.

For more information about the program, contact Voices for Children in Nebraska at 334-1194.

Reading July 12 features work of John G. Neihardt

The daughter and grandson of Nebraska Poet Laureate John G. Neihardt will present selections of his works at a free public program Sunday, July 12 at 2 p.m. at the Neihardt Center in Bancroft.

Hilda Neihardt will recite favorite writings with her son Robin's musical accompaniment in a "unique blending of poetry and classical guitar." The program is one of a series of monthly "Sunday Afternoon at the Museum" educational lectures presented by the John G. Neihardt Center.

Robin Neihardt, who has performed professionally in concerts in the United States and Europe, was featured in June at the Joslyn Art Museum's Bagels and Bach concert series. Hilda Neihardt shared the stage with her son at that time in a program format that is becoming a trademark of the Neihardt duo.

Hilda Neihardt is president of the John G. Neihardt Foundation and is a frequent speaker on Neihardt's works and life. In 1931, at the age of 13, Hilda and her sister Enid accompanied their father when he visited the camp of Oglala Lakota Holy Man Black Elk. The vision that Black Elk shared during that eventful visit resulted in Neihardt's book "Black Elk Speaks." Black Elk gave Hilda the name Daybreak Star, which also is the inspiration for the name of her home near Tekamah on the Missouri River.

Popularity of pull continues

Results of the Carroll Tractor Pull have been provided to the Wayne Herald. Tractor pullers competed Saturday, June 27.

Categories included 9,500 lbs. super stock, 7,000 lbs. open class, 6,200 lbs. two wheel drive, 5,800 lbs. modified, 7,200 lbs. modified, 5,500 lbs. super stock, 7,500 lbs. super stock and pro stock.

Taking first place in the 9,500 lbs. super stock category was Richard Cool of Henderson, Iowa. He pulled the load a full pull, surpassing Dave Rood of Wahoo, who pulled his load 297.3 feet for second place. Third place went to John Burt of Grafton, Neb., whose pull was 285.10. Fourth place was won by Dave Vainrib of Pocahontas, Iowa, whose pull was 285.3 feet. Fifth place went to Rod Simonsen of Red Cloud, Neb. whose pull was 54.8 feet.

In the 7,000 open class, first place went to Dave Vainrib of Pocahontas, Iowa with a pull of 283.6 feet. Craig Weaver of Garner, Iowa placed second with a 270.1 foot pull and Charlie Tedrow of Fairfield, Iowa placed third with a pull of 254 feet.

Craig Weaver of Garner, Iowa was the only entry in the 6,200 lbs. two wheel drive competition but that's not to say he didn't have an unbeatable pull. Weaver's 90 Dodge pulled the load for the full distance.

Charlie Tedrow of Fairfield, Iowa won the 5,800 modified pull with a distance of 275.7. Mark Ulmer of Menno, S.D. placed second with a pull of 236.2 feet and Dave Geiger of Allen placed third with a pull of 225.7 feet.

In the 7,200 modified pull, Curt Ulmer of Menna, S.D. took top honors with a pull of 282.2 feet. Jim Ebel of Scribner placed second, pulling his load 261 feet. Charlie Tedrow of Fairfield, Iowa pull of 258.5 feet was good enough for third and Dave Geiger's pull of 256.9 feet gave him fourth place.

Competition was close in the 5,500 lbs. super stock category with competitors placing first through third place were separated by only 18 feet. First place went to Arlo Driesen of Alton, Iowa in a pull of 293.2 feet. Larry Lundry of Maynard, Iowa placed second in the competition with a pull of 288.60 feet and Larry Wilson of Sedilia, Mo. pulled his load 275.5 feet for third place. Fourth place went to Rod Psota of Ravenna, Iowa in a pull of 267.5 feet and fifth place went to Tom Peiffer of Harper, Iowa in a pull of 112.6 feet.

If the 5,500 lbs. super stock category wasn't enough to get drag fans pumped up, the 7,500 lbs. super stock competition surely must have. In the 7,500 lbs. super stock, Richard Cool of Henderson, Iowa; Larry Wilson of Sedalia, Mo. and Lyle Nelson of Boelus, Neb. each went the full distance and tied for first.

Dave Rood of Wahoo won the pro stock competition with a full pull. Second place went to John Burt of Grafton with a pull of 293.4 feet. Charles Hyde of Peterson, Iowa placed third in a pull of 269.7 feet and Rod Simonsen of Red Cloud pulled his load 76.1 feet, which was good enough for fourth.

SALEM WOMEN

The Women of ELCA of the Salem Lutheran Church met last Thursday. They held their regular meeting with a special program for the children. Mae Greve, president, welcomed all and read a poem, "Don't Give Up Your Dreams," before turning the meeting over to Sherri Tyler, who presented the program.

It began with a reading and discussion of the Ten Commandments as they are written in "The Adventure Bible," a Bible for kids. This was followed by a Dr. Seuss story and puppet plays to relate the Commandments to real life. The children presented some of the songs they had learned at Bible school and the program ended with group singing of favorite songs, including "Jesus Loves Me."

A short business meeting followed. It was reported that Kermit and Ruth Johnson took a number of things to Omaha for the Martin Luther Home collection. Twelve ladies from Salem attended a guest day at St. Paul's in Wayne and talked about quilts. There will be rides available for the Aug. 1 trip to the Camp Carol Joy Holling quilt auction. An invitation was read from St. Paul's Lutheran at Homer for a guest day on June 30. It was announced that the Spring Gathering will be in Wayne next year.

THANK YOU

SHE IS our beautiful daughter, though we couldn't keep her here - And there may be times of sorrow when we need to shed a tear. We know she knows the glory of God and Heaven above - And we know she's taken care of by those we remember and love. The heart ache and the pain will always be here we can't pretend - But we know to look to the future when we'll be together in the end. Thank you to everyone for your thoughtfulness and touch. Please know that you have helped us and are needed very much. She is our beautiful daughter and we'll always love her so. We know she's in a better place and we must let her go. Thank you, Duane, Kelly, Spencer Witt and their families. Ju2

Antibiotics for Urinary Tract Infections

The urinary tract is the name of the system that rids the body of waste materials by way of the urine. The urinary tract is made up of the kidneys, urinary bladder, ureters (tubes connecting kidneys and bladder), and urethra (tube connecting the bladder and outside the body). Since the urinary tract is open to outside the body, bacteria and other organisms can enter the urinary tract and cause infections. Bacteria associated with these infections include E. coli, Proteus, Klebsiella, Pseudomonas, and Staphylococcus. Symptoms of urinary tract infections include frequent urination and a burning/painful sensation when urinating. Infections of the bladder (cystitis), urethra (urethritis), and kidneys (pyelonephritis) are reported to occur in about 10 percent of the population. One report indicates that 20 percent of all antibiotic prescriptions written are for urinary tract infections. Prescription medicines which are particularly effective in treating urinary infections include nitrofurantoin, trimethoprim, and the quinolone antibiotics. The quinolones include cinoxacin, ciprofloxacin, ofloxacin, and norfloxacin.
