Area judiciary gets top marks

Judges who serve Wayne County scored very well in the biennial Judicial Performance Evaluation released this week by the Nebraska Bar Association.

Lawyers are surveyed every two years by the Bar Association and asked to rate the performance of judges as a potential guide for voters when they go to the polls to vote to retain judges or not.

County Court Judge Stephen Finn of Neligh is the only judge serving Wayne County that is up for retention vote this year and lawyers who have faced his bench give him high marks.

Over 80 percent of the attorneys who responded said Judge Finn should be retained in office.

The four other judges who serve here either were not rated or do not stand for retention vote this fall.

District Judge Paul Ensz, because he has served less than one year on the bench, was not rated in the attorney survey.

District Judge Richard Garden of Norfolk was rated at 71.4 percent support for retention

County Judge Richard Krepela of Madison scored a 93.8 percent rating from the attorneys and fellow county judge Phillip Riley, also of Madison, scored a 95.5 percent approval rating.

The bar association polled all 4,100 lawyers in the state and received responses back from over 40 percent of the attorneys.

HANK AND GLENDA Overin were honored by the City of Wayne for their contributions for the past three decades to the youth of Wayne with a July Fourth Appreciation Day.

Wayne salutes retiring legend with a big bang!

By Kevin Peterson

The City of Wayne showed up to say thanks to one of Wayne's biggest contributors to the youth in the past 30-plus years on Hank Overin Appreciation Day, held the Fourth of July at Hank Overin Field in Wayne.

The day began with the Wayne Midgets defeating Wakefield, 4-2. Around 5 p.m. master of ceremonies speaker Mark Ahmann gave the welcome and introductions to an hour and a half program honoring Hank and Glenda Overin.

Hank was escorted to the platform on the pitchers mound by a cushman driven by Gary Pick while Glenda was driven to the platform via a golf cart.

Nineteen speakers took their respective turns at the microphone recalling memories of five different decades that Hank coached in. Norris Weible talked about Hank's arrival in Wayne and he was followed by the featured speaker, Don Meyer, head coach of the men's basketball team at David Lipscomb University in Tennessee.

Meyer, one of the most success ful NAIA coaches in the history of basketball, gave credit to Hank for his coaching philosophies. Meyer flew in for the ceremonies before flying back Saturday night to attend one of his many sponsored basket ball camps.

Speeches were then made by Dean Weible, Gordon Jorgensen, Mike Ginn, Jeff Lutt, Linda Gamble, Mike Meyer, Bobby Nelson, Steve Hix, Laura Gamble and Mike Creighton.

A City of Wayne Proclamation was presented by Mayor Bob Carhart before John Melena, Sr. gave an American Legion Award. Wayne Wessel then stepped to the platform and offered a special thanks to Glenda for her assistance to the program the past 29 years.

Long-time Wakefield baseball coach Paul Eaton presented Hank with a Wakefield American Legion jacket and spoke briefly about the amount of respect that he and his program have for Hank and the Wayne program.

Jere Morris presented Hank with a special award and Jeff Zeiss officially retired Hank's number nine jersey. Upon the completion of the Wayne County Commissioners were upbeat about the future of the Juvenile Detention Center when they met Tuesday with the new administrator of the facility.

"The atmosphere is better over there already," Commissioner Jerry Pospishil told Gregory Eckel during his first day on the job. Pospishil said he sensed a whole different mood-both among the employees and the inmates.

The commissioners tabled action on the lease agreement between the county and the new Northeast NE Juvenile Services, Inc. for the jail facility until minor changes could be made in the draft of the Letters also will be going out this week informing the employees of the center that as of July 31 they will no longer be employees of the county. The same employees will be getting letters with their paychecks telling them they have temporary jobs with Northeast NE Juvenile Services for 60 days and during that time must begin the application process for permanent employment.

The county also will be sending letters to other counties informing them of the new funding structure for the JDC.

Counties participating in the inter-local agreement to establish the new Juvenile Services corporation to run the oftencontroversial detention center will be assessed a 30-cent per capita fee plus pay $40 a day for each inmate housed in the facility. Counties who do not participate in the inter-local agreement will be charged $85 a day for each inmate.

July is month to salute soybean farmers

July is national soybean month, and U.S. soybean farmers are taking the opportunity to call attention to achievements during the past year. They also acknowledge that they still face many challenges.

With funding from the national soybean checkoff, farmers in 15 states pooled funds to open an office in Moscow last November. The office now coordinates promotional and educational activities designed to increase awareness and the sale of soybeans and products to republics of the former Soviet Union.

Checkoff-funded projects and U.S. export credit guarantees have resulted in year-to-date soybean exports three times greater than last vear's level and meal exports 40 percent higher than a year ago.

The Wayne Chicken Show committee has just jumped from the frying pan into the fire.

For county employees

Insurance costs rising, benefits may decrease

Health insurance costs are going of county employees and the erage, Steve Muir, agent for Travelers Insurance, told the commissionup for county employees and the benefit levels are likely to be going down, Wayne County Commissioners were informed Tuesday.

Unless coverage changes, the county will be hit with a 10 percent premium increase on the approximately $18,000 monthly premium for employee health insurance cov-

Two options were listed to reduce the cost increase, the first being to drop first dollar benefits on accidents. This benefit reduction would mean premium costs would only go up 2.3 percent.

Eliminating the first dollar benefit and increasing deductibles would mean the county could reduce premiums by 9.2 percent.

The commissioners took the proposals under advisement. Approval was given for Kenneth

Family fun focus of Allen celebration

The Allen community celebrated Independence Day with a variety of family fun events on Saturday, planned by the Allen Community Development Club with Kathy Boswell as chairman.

Day-long activities kicked off on Saturday morning with a pancake breakfast served to over 200 persons. Proceeds are designated for the new Allen Day Care Center which is expected to open this summer.

A drawing for an Allen centennial cookbook was held during the breakfast, with Pauline Karlberg as the winner.

SEVENTY-SIX participants took part in a family fun run/walk at Overall male winner in the mile fun run was Tod Knudsen of Moville, Iowa, while Beth Meyer of Wayne was the top female miler.

First place male winners in each division of the mile include Ron Bay, Sioux City, 11 and under, Greg Rastede, Allen, 12-14; Kelly Boswell, Allen, 15-19; Kevin Werner, Grand Island, 20-29; Tod-Knudsen, 30-39; Randy Hansen, South Sioux City, 40-49; and Ronald Christopherson, Hornick, Iowa, 50 and over.

Female division winners include Erica Linafelter, Faribault, Minn., 11 and under; Beth Meyer, 12-14; Jamie Mitchell, Allen, 15-19; Kolleen Werner, Grand Island, 20-29; Susan Werner, Omaha, 30-39; and Marilyn Finn, Carroll, 50 and over.

In the 5K race, the overall male trophy was won by Terry Meyer of Wayne, while Paige Hansen of South Sioux City won the female trophy.

Area residents are invited to look back through the years during an American classic picnic sponsored by the Norfolk Christian Women's Club and After 5 Club.

The potluck picnic, which also includes a display of cars by the Norfolk Antique Auto Club, will be held on Saturday, July 11 at 7 p.m. at the southwest pavilion of Ta-Ha-Zouka Park in Norfolk.

The antique cars will be on display the entire evening, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Wally Sonnenschein will also be on the program to talk about the cars.

Persons attending the picnic are asked to bring a meat dish and one side dish. Table service and drinks will be provided.

A MEN'S quartet from Norfolk will sing several "classics," along with a taped selection of oldies music.

Featured speaker for the evening is Ed Felgate of Norfolk, a humorous bicycle and jögging enthusiast who will share his "travel tips for life."

All area men, women and teens are invited to attend the picnic and car show. Those attending for the first time will be given a special gift, and several other prizes will be presented.

This is a non-denominational event and there is no charge. Reservations should be made by calling Lynne, 371-4048, or Bonnie Moomaw, 375-1791.

In the event of bad weather, postponement will be aired on local radio stations and rescheduled for July 18 at the same location and time.

Wayne recreation tennis classes hold Awards Day

nis program culminated with an awards ceremony recently, under the direction of Tom Roberts. The awards day activities took place at the college tennis courts where all the rec lessons were given.

The rec classes began in early June and participants were involved with 16 sessions—usually an hour each Monday through Thursday.

Those taking part in the program were once again awarded certificates and badges depending on the programs they completed and started. The certificates and badges were given by the United States Tennis Association.

Roberts said the USTA format for the participants is set up to their "If a student can only advantage. make it half way through a program during the summer then they can come back the following summer and pick up right where they left off instead of having to start over," Roberts said.

Roberts noted that individuals just beginning the program, could jump as many as two or three levels in one summer, based on hard work

Certificates were awarded to those who began a level of the skills and drills program and badges were awarded to those who completed a program awards, Roberts again donated dozens of prizes which he set up on the court at random. Students, de pending on the amount of credits built during the four-week session based on attendence, hit for prizes with back hands and fore hands.

"The reason I go out of my way to purchase prizes for the students to try and win is because I want to encourage tennis," Roberts said. "This town does not offer high school or college tennis and I just want to leave the kids with a little incentive to keep playing a great sport. It's also my way of applauding their efforts."

The prizes Roberts had on the court ranged from a sony boom box to 12-packs of pop, sweat bands, firecrackers, hats, visors, seat cushions, sweat shirts and sport

Roberts was assisted this summer by Dave Sorensen. Only two individuals sported a perfect attendance record as Casey Daehnke and Chad Stalling reported to each of the 16 sessions

Roberts also instructed an adult class this summer but they were not on the skills and drills program. There were 69 awards given at the ceremony this year and the

"I would like to extend my sincere thanks to the people on the committee," Keating said. "Gaylen Wiser, Cliff Ginn, Gary Pick, Vicki Pick, Wayne Wessel, Paul Otte, John Melena, Mike Grosz and Kevin Peterson all did a super job and I hope Hank will remember this for the rest of his life."

Program chairman Wayne Wessel was also pleased with the events that transpired during the Fourth of July celebration. "I feel we now have another reason to be proud, as a result of the response of our community," Wessel said.

"They responded to a call for a day to honor Hank and Glenda. The speakers in the program reflected Hank's desire for excellence, his desire for all to know the meaning of the team, a desire to share his knowledge and love for athletics. and his willingness to sacrifice so that others might have a better life."

Wessel said it was truly a community effort. "It is impossible to properly thank everyone who contributed to the program," Wessel said. "The Wayne Herald, KTCH, service groups and hundreds of individuals all contributed."

The spirit of cooperation extended to our neighbors in Wake-field," Wessel said. "They switched the midget baseball game to our park, cancelled their fireworks, and Paul Eaton gave a great response from their baseball team. They did all this to help us with our day.

Perhaps all of the above will be fresh in our minds when we again given the opportunity to help someone," Wessel added.

Hank celebration on Fourth of July is classy

The Fourth of July is that sum-mer holiday that usually marks the halfway point of summer vacations You know, six or seven weeks since school has been out and six or seven more weeks before it starts

This Fourth of July, however, was like none other I've experienced. I went to Overin Field cover the Hank Overin Appreciation Day and to be quite honest, this holiday will be one that is quite difficult to forget.

Unless, you were at this celebration, words can never describe the emotions, thoughtfulness and appreciation directed toward a erous man and his wife of whom generous man and ms this community has come to take r granted for three decades.

Hank and Glenda Overin have spent a lifetime of giving and what better day to have the City of Wayne say thank you than on the Fourth of July. Planning for this event began over a year ago with committee members Jim Keating, Gaylen Wiser, Cliff Ginn, Gary and Vicki Pick, Wayne Wessel, Paul Otte and John Melena.

The hard work these people put out did not go unnoticed. Whether anyone stopped and said thanks to them, I do not know, but I am taking time to make a public thank you because you all deserve it

Baseball is a sport that will come and go each summer but around Wayne it will always be known as the game Hank built. Listening to all the anecdotes and highlights of years past from some of the speakers on Saturday, brought back a few memories.

I had a coach whom I always considered a special coach because not only did he teach us the game of basketball, but at the same time he was teaching us about life.

By Kevin Peterson

Sometimes the lessons were hard to accept and little did I know at the ime, eventually these lessons would re-enter my life in different fashions, such as learning responsibility and being patient.

From the time I graduated high school until the day I moved to Wayne was a span of five years and it was then that I found out that my high school basketball coach played baseball with Hank Overin for the town team in Wayne while he was going to college at Wayne State.

The man I am referring to is Chuck Moore, a 25-year basketball coach at Fairbury High School. It iust goes to show that what people pick up from Hank has a way of getting around. Girls heading to state

The Wayne girls fast pitch teams will be traveling to Grand Island a week from Friday to play in the state tournament. Wayne's 16 and under team will play a 5 p.m. game with Klones Sporting Goods of Kearney while the 18 and under team plays at 6:30 p.m. against 37 Cattle Company of either Grand Island or Kearney.

The 18 and under team currently sports a 12-5 record while the 16 and under team is 8-1. The Wayne Herald wishes each of these teams the best of luck.

Quit for the right reason The ink is barely dry on the petitions calling for a vote to increase cigarette taxes by 25 cents a pack to pay for environmental projects including tree planting, recycling programs and wildlife enhancement, before smokers groups are crying foul.

A smoker's rights group has formed and begun already to campaign against the measure which will be on the November ballot.

By last count, the smokers will have an uphill battle. There an fewer and fewer of them each year. Laws against smoking in public and publicity about the dangers of passive smoke have created more pressure in recent years to convince smokers to give up the habit.

Since smokers are in a minority, it is unlikely they are going to be able to mount the political force necessary to stop the measure from being passed.

The non-smoking majority is likely to see it as another way to get back at the guy who blows smoke in their face at the sporting event or in the workplace.

Let them pay more for their habit and use the funds for something worthwhile, non-smokers will say.

There is some logic in helping pressure smokers into quitting, but we are not sure the means of applying that pressure should be increased taxes levied by a well-intentioned majority on a beleaguered

Approving the measure would set an unwelcome precedent.

We should continue to work for a healthier society by stressing the need to quit smoking. But taxing smokers to death just because we have the ability to do so, is not a good idea.

Good reason to change Sen. Gerald Conway is probably wishing he had remained as a teacher instead of giving up that career for his senatorial post.

The Wayne senator is in the eye of the storm surrounding the redistricting court case and the mess now created by the declaration of his committee's plan unconstitutional.

The supreme court declared the plan unconstitutional because it split up Madison County into two districts. Other counties got split too but Madison County is special because it has the exact number needed to make a district all by itself.

Since Conway chaired the redistricting committee, a role which has probably doomed any hope of his ever advancing in politics in Nebraska, he has been at the center of controversy.

He readily admits that the procedure was politically motivated rather than there being any consideration for what might have been best for the voters. Most of the senators went along with the plan which was designed to help most of them stay in office

That was the process but for the future it must be changed. The idea of long term senators carving up the state to insure their support base remains strongest seems to us to be the vilest form of self-serving politics. Yes, we were wrong when we earlier supported the redistricting plan editorially. The system must be changed now, and changed by the voters, not the self-serving elected officials.

And the first step in the change process must be a vote for the two term limit amendment which should be on the ballot in November.

Dear Editor:

I would like to comment on the article in the June 25 edition of The Wayne Herald which described the Chest Pain Emergency Center at Lutheran hospital in Norfolk. The article accurately described the symptoms of heart attack and the importance of prompt diagnosis and treatment of these symptoms.

I believe your readers should be aware that all of the services described in the article are available at Providence Medical Center. For many years the Wayne hospital has made every effort to provide up to date diagnosis and treatment of heart disease, including physicians and nurses trained in Advanced Cardiac Life Support, immediate ECG and enzyme diagnosis of heart attack and coronary care monitoring including cardiac rhythm, continuous blood pressure and pulse oximetry moni-

For several years we have had available and have successfully administered the clot dissolving medications which can abort a heart attack in progress. We have established emergency consultative arrangements with cardiologists in Sioux City, and offer cardiology clinics monthly.

My concern is that your readers may have drawn the conclusion from your article that care for heart attacks can only be provided at Lutheran hospital in Norfolk, Valuable time would be lost and a needless risk would be incurred if a person with chest pain tried to drive to Norfolk instead of coming immediate to Providence Medical Center.

I found it ironic that your article appeared between the editorial page, in which you encouraged readers to frequent local businesses, and a paid advertisement telling us that "Shopping in Wayne just makes cents." The physicians, nurses and staff of Providence Medical Center take pride in providing up to date care for cardiac and other problems. Your readers should feel confident that comprehensive, quality care can be obtained at our hospital. Persons with chest pain should go to the closest facility available, because rapid diagnosis and treatment may be life saving.

Court tumbles the house of cards

By Melvin Paul Statehouse Correspondent Nebraska Press Association

A bunch of state senators once performed a skit at a party where they depicted their version of the Nebraska Supreme court at work.

In a room filled with cigar smoke, the judges sat back and struck deals over how they should rule on cases so they could best help

One of the jurists complained that his taxes were too high, so the court decided to strike down the personal property tax exemptions for farm machinery and livestock.

"Unconstitutional!" the judges all exclaimed with glee

The skit kind of reflected the attitude many senators have toward the Supreme Court, which has struck down numerous acts of the Legislature in recent years, including payment to Commonwealth de-positors and numerous tax laws.

They even made Senator Gerald Conway of Wayne quit his job as a state college teacher. But the high court keeps right at it. They dropped their latest bomb shell last week when they struck down the redistricting plan that had been adopted by the Legislature in 1991.

 It had Conway, who drafted the redistricting plan and who is now 0for-3 in cases before the Supreme Court, suggesting it was time to require mandatory drug testing for Supreme court judges.

Several Norfolk area residents had challenged the plan because of how it split their county between two districts, even though it had enough people to pretty much stand as a district all to itself.

Our constitution says district plans should follow district boundaries whenever "practicable."-And probably whenever practical, too. Now things in Lincoln are pretty nuts. A primary election has already been held nominating candidates in the legislative districts as they were changed by the Legislature.

The court's decision only struck down the constitutionality of the two districts that Madison County was part of. But it's all a big house of-cards. Once you knock out two districts, adjusting those would cause a lot of the other current dis-tricts to come tumbling down.

At worst, a special session was going to have to be held to redraft all the legislative districts, and a new special election would have to be held to nominate candidates. The whole legislative primary we went through in May would pretty much become moot.

Now, I'm not one to defend the districts that were drafted by the egislature. Senators gerrymandered like crazy in some places to make sure no two seated senators would be put in the same district by the new boundaries.

Redistricting is a political process, and that's how it was done.

But it's also kind of crazy to give special protection to a county just because it has the right amount of people. Other counties got sliced up, and they don't have any protec-

Governor Nelson and other state officials were looking for the "least disruptive" solution to the whole mess. The state may have to draw up an all new redistricting plan, or it may be able to just redistrict the northeast part of the state and hold special elections where necessary.

But any decision officials make may invite other lawsuits. How would you like to have been nominated for the Legislature in the May 12 primary, only to be told, sorry, that didn't count, and we're going to do it again and oh, by the way, have a nice day.

The whole thing should provide a lot of work for a lot of lawyers.

Maybe it won't be such a dull summer after all.

Parents' nightmare-

Missing kids; many have been there

Few parents have completed the job of raising their children without at least once experiencing the gut wrenching fear of having lost one of

"I thought she was with you." "No, I left her with right here with you.

In the midst of a bustling crowd in the big city it is often easy to become separated. Add the excitement of fireworks and a summer thunderstorm, and most parents understand how it can happen that you misplace a

LAST WEEKEND in Omaha it happened to a family who attended the fireworks show. The storm came up, everybody in the seven-member family dashed for the family van but the four-year-old went another

As they drove home, the couple apparently thought a rolled up pile of blankets in the back seat of their van was their 4-year-old asleep. When they got home dad thought mom took the youngster to bed, and mom thought dad did.

It was 16 hours later that they discovered their own version of the parental horror film, "Home Alone.

MEANWHILE, back at the fireworks, the youngster had crawled into another family's vehicle. When no one came back to claim him, that family turned him over to police and the police waited for a missing child report that never came until the next day. By then they had placed the youngster in a foster home and were sure his folks were child abusers instead of normal parents who got distracted and let their guards down.

Imagine if you will what that couple must have gone through about midday Sunday when they asked one another why their young son had not come down for breakfast

It's not like losing your car keys, but their thought process must have been the same as they began to ask themselves where they last had seen

"No I didn't put him to bed, I thought you did."

"Didn't you take him out of the van last night?"

"No, I thought you did." "He wouldn't still be sleeping out there in the van would he?

"That must be where he is. It was awfully late after the fireworks "Oh, Dear Lord he's not here!

"Let's see, where did we last have that kid," the absent minded parents must have said.

IT'S SAD REALLY, and it has to be terribly embarrassing for the parents not to mention traumatic for the child. Even more so now because the parents have been cited by police and are being investigated for child neglect. Their names have been spread in news stories all over the region as absent-minded parents.

"What happened to us could have happened to anybody," said the mother who has four other oungsters. Hey, I believe her.

I'm reminded of the time out in western Nebraska when a family vacationing in two vehicles stopped at an interstate rest area. When the group got back on the highway they didn't know they had left one of the young ones behind. It was the same old "You-had-her,"-"No,-YOU,-had-her" story.

Protecting Your Child

Recent reports of attempted child abductions in nearby lowa communities are an alarming reality for all parents and child care providers. Here are some cautious reminders to protect your children during their active summer vacations.

Warn your child of the methods used by possible respond in these situations.

At the earliest age possible, have your child memorize your telephone number, area code, and full address. Also, instruct him or her on how to use the phone to call home, a law enforcement officer, operator in an eme or dial "911" or "0" for 911" or "0" for operator in an emergency.

◆ Keep an up-to-date file on your child, including a recent photograph and a physical description.

• Make a mental note of the clothes your child wears every day. Avoid placing your child's name on clothes or books. Children may respond to a stranger who calls them by name.

 Be sure your child knows what to do in case you become separated. If separated while shopping, your child should not look for you, but go immediately to the nearest clerk and ask for help.

Have a set of your child's footprints or fingerprints taken by local law enforcement or qualified professionals.

• Encourage neighbors to establish "safe homes" where children can go for help.

• When school resumes in the fall, advise your child's principal to notify you immediately if your child is absent. Inform school officials and day care providers, who is authorized to pick your child up. Try to have the same person every day.

Study your child's route to and from school and other frequented places. Call attention to any dangerous spots, such as vacant lots, alleyways, etc. Discuss with them what to do if a stranger follows or approaches.

Just because you live in a small town or rural area, doesn't mean you're immune from child abductions. They can happen to anyone, at anytime. For more information on how to protect your child, contact your local law enforcement official or the Nebraska Attorney General's Office. Consumer Principles Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Division, 2115 State Capitol Building, Lincoln, NE, 68509, or phone (402) 471-2682. miles down the interstate before patrol officers flagged them down to inform them that their load was a brick shy.

Pat Arneson tells the story about the family outing to Omaha when she was a child. Her brother had been picking on her and when the family got back into the car to head home, she didn't bother to tell her folks her pesky brother was still in

SHE KEPT quiet clear to West oint. It was about there that her folks discovered the missing sibling and raced back to the big city to

It happens, it can be an honest mistake. But it also can be taken as a warning to parents to make sure they keep a wary eye out, inform their youngsters about exactly what to do and who to talk to if these problems arise and above all, count oses at every turn.

Unless there is more to the story than just the parents forgetting to count noses when they headed home from the fireworks show, we hope the authorities don't proceed with neglect charges against the Omaha couple. The parents are probably kicking themselves enough already.

In defense of them we are reminded that some of the best parents in history have misplaced their children.

Take Joseph and Mary for instance. When their son was just a child they were traveling with relatives and he became separated from them. The folks thought he was with other relatives and when they discovered he wasn't it took them three days to find him. He was back at the big city making a fireworks show of his own in the temple. While the situation is embarrassing and frightening for the Omaha couple, no doubt just as it was for Jesus' folks, they need to understand that most parents understand and feel for them.

THOSE OF US who have had even a hint of the same potentially tragic circumstances which these parents are enduring can smile knowingly, offer up a little prayer that everything will work out and thank the Lord that "there but for the Grace of God go we."

Recruiting foster families

Kathryn Berry, Wayne, has joined the Nebraska Department of Social Services as a VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America) olunteer to assist in recruiting fos ter families.

Berry is a 1977 graduate of Wakefield High School, received a bachelor of arts degree in 1984 and a masters of science in education in 1991 from Wayne State College.

She has two sons, John, 15, and Logan, 5. She has been a resident of Wayne for 14 years. She is the daughter of Richard and Patricia erry of Wakefield.

Berry has worked as a family support worker for the Department of Social Services and has been a foster parent since 1989. She has lso worked as dispatcher for the Wayne Police Department; a manager for Region IV children's residence in Wayne; and a part-time so-

The VISTA project will provide a special emphasis to develop more foster homes with better trained foster parents for children who are placed in the custody of the Department of Social Services, she said.

This would enable the department to more readily pursue the goal of placing children in the most family like setting and as close to their home community and family as possible, thus increasing the chances of reunification when appropriate.

The VISTA volunteers will help motivate and educate the community on-the-need for foster parents and VISTA is a full-time volunteer program for men and women who rve in projects which assist low income people.

"Government agencies cannot alone address today's problems," said Social Services Director Mary Dean Harvey. "We must join with communities to identify needs and work towards solutions and we view the VISTA program as a significant step in that direction for us.

Changes announced at paper

Les Mann, editor and publisher of the Wayne Herald announced a reorganization of the management structure of the newspaper this week following the resignation of Mark Crist, managing editor.

Mann will assume the duties of the managing editor while others within the 116-year-old newspaper company have been promoted to fulfill some of the responsibilities the publisher previously held.

Linda Granfield, long-time bookkeeper at the twice-weekly newspaper has been named office manager with added supervisory responsibilities.

Mrs. Granfield has been with the Wayne Herald since 1977 Her husband Monte farms near Carroll.

LaVon Anderson has been promoted to news editor. She previously held the position of Assistant Editor. An employee of the Wayne Herald since 1971, Mrs. Anderson has won several awards for writing excellence. Her husband, Tom, is the owner of Anderson Lumber Co. of Wakefield.

The previously announced addition of Rick Kerkman as advertising and promotions director also fits into the new structure doubling the customer service aspect of the advertising sales staff. Kerkman joins advertising manager Jan Bartholomaus additional responsibilities in the development and promotion of the newspaper.

Crist, who has yet to announce his future plans, had been at the paper for two and a half years during which time the news department won several awards for news

Mann said he hoped the changes in the overall-organizational structure of the paper would lead to better service for the reader and advertiser and he vowed to redouble efforts to address reader requests for

Father's day gift is sorely missed

The Big Farmer spent Father's Day at his son's home, had lots of good food and received a traditional which he needed. It's paisley and very fashionable.

We haven't always done that well with Dad's Day. He's hard to buy gifts for, because what would really surprise him or what he really needs would usually cost too much. I'm thinking of a new pickup, for

Last year, we all contributed to the school scholarship fund in his honor because it was something he really believed in. Sometimes, I've brought home trees, which are always special to him.

A long time ago, we gave him a black lab puppy. He didn't act especially thrilled. Farms are dangerous places for puppies and this one, especially, seemed to enjoy living dangerously.

We named him Ernie and he was usually being scolded for jumping on little kids, barking in the middle of the night or picking on smaller animals.

I've written about him before. He's the one who thought he was a hood ornament, jumping on the hood of the pickup whenever it left the place. He also thought he had to accompany me when I took a walk, whether I wanted him to or not.

Lately, he's been spending more time under the porch and hasn't been able to jump into the pickup. He seemed to have lost his hearing. We wondered what to do with him. We didn't feel we should move him. And we probably couldn't leave him for the tenants. We were going to have to have Doc put him to sleep. Sad to think about.

On the Fourth of July, there was an accident and the decision was taken from our hands. I've chuckled at co-workers as they described their sadness at the loss of a dog. I've marvelled at how dogs seem to become important parts of families. I didn't realize how much Ernie was part of ours until he was gone.

You all know what I'm talking about. I've read all the articles about "man's best friend" and been amazed at the feats of Lassie and Rin Tin Tin and dogs of all descriptions.

But I wasn't expecting the sense of loss I'm feeling. This was just an ordinary dog, one I complained about frequently and scolded often. He was one Father's Day gift we all loved. Ernie will be missed, by all

Digging help welcome

Persons interested in participating in the Army Corps of Engineers annual archaeological project are invited to contact the corps' Omaha District Planning Division.

Project Manager Ed Brodnicki says the archaeological dig will take place at two sites near Chamberlain, S.D., Aug. 8-16. Anyone 10 or older can take part, but those ages 10-18 must be accompanied by their parents

The two sites are major earth lodge villages occupied from 1000 to 1600 A.D. and contain cultural deposits from the Middle Missouri and Coalescent traditions, says

Brodnicki.

There is no fee to participate in the dig. Persons wishing more information or an application form can contact Ed Brodnicki, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Planning Division, 215 N. 17th St., Omaha, NE 68102-4978; or call (402) 221-4888.

PREVENTION OF LYME DISEASE

caused by a spirochete which is transmitted to humans by the deer tick. If untreated, definite problems will arise and may last for days, months or even years. Prevention of Lyme disease begins by: 1. using an insect repellent containing 30% DEET (diefhytolumide). However, this repellent is not recommended to be used on children under the age of 2 or pregnant women in the first trimester. 2. Even if an insect repellent is used it is important to inspect our children and ourselves for any ticks. The deer tick must be on its human victim for nearly 24 hours before the spirochete is transmitted. If you suspect you have been bitten and have any doubt in your mind how long that tick had been attached...check with your doctor immediately.

All new brides should notify Social Security if they are changing their name, according to Thomas O'Connor, District Manager. Failure to report a name change to Social Security is one of the most frequent causes of errors in earnings records. Generally earnings are not posted to worker's Social Security record when the number and name do not "match." And it's the earnings posted to those records that determine if a person can get Social Se curity, and how much he or she will receive in monthly benefits, O'Connor said.

Notifying Social Security of a name change is equally important for women who divorce and resume their maiden name.

To change the surname on a Soial Security record and to receive a Social Security card showing the new name, women should call the Social Security toll-free number: 1-800-772-1213, any business day between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. They name change, such as a marriage or divorce certificate. The entire process can be handled by mail.

New Medicine Provides Shorter Treatment

A recently approved antibiotic medicine has several advantages when given to indi-viduals for certain mild to moderate infections. The new antibiotic is azithromycin. Dr. Thomas Andriole, a physician at Yale University School of Medicine, comments in a recent issue of the medical teature of the content medical journal, Geriatrics, about this new infectionfighter. According to Dr. Andriole, azithromycin offers three desirable features to the patient: the antibiotic is tolerated by most individuals: it has been shown to be effective in patients with mild to moderate infections mild to moderate infections that do not require hospitalization; and the dosing schedule is very convenient. According to information provided to physicians and pharmacists by Pfizer, the manufacturer of azithromy-tia (Zithmana). cin (Zithromax), the accepta-ble length of treatment for this new antibiotic is five days. Dr. Andriole indicates that results after five days of therapy with this medicine compare favorably with 10 to 14 days of therapy with many other oral antiblotics Pfizer, in their product litera-ture, recommends azithrom-ycin for mild upper respiratory tract infections such as chronic bronchitis, urethri-tis, and uncomplicated skin infections. Azithromycin shluld not be used for severe infections or infections which require admission of the patient to a hospital.

The GOLDEN YEARS Potolity

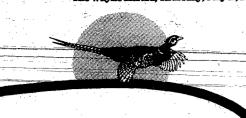

For many people, age 70 brings two changes that affect their fi-nancial status. First, people who work past their 70th birthday no longer have to contend with an earnings "cap" that can reduce the amount of their Social Security benefits. At age 70, they are entitled to full benefits regardless of how much they earn. Second, upon turning age 70-1/2, they must start taking taxable withdrawals from IRA, Keogh, 401K and other retirement accounts — even if they continue to work. The amount of "minimum required withdrawals" is determined by Internal Revenue Service for-mulas, Most banks and other administrators of retirement accounts make the computations, once they are notified that the account holder is approaching age 70-1/2.

Variety of events at Chicken Show

If you're not familiar with the Wayne Chicken Show, there are some events which have been popular ever since the first annual event in 1981 and there are some which have grown in popularity.

Events like the National Cluck-Off, the Chicken Show Parade and the Egg Drop/Catch have always been favorites of the eggstravaganza. Some events, like the Great Chicken Shoe Chucking Contest, the Chicken Flying Meet and the Olympecks have given participants something to crow about.

The following synopses offers some insight into Wayne's most impeckable annual egg-citing show. Most events are at Bressler Park unless otherwise noted.

National Cluck-Off

The National Cluck-Off pits human cluckers against human cluckers in both rooster and hen categories (although gender isn't-important). Each contestant must register for either the rooster or hen categories before the start of the event. There is a rooster and hen competition in both the 13 and over age group and the under 12 age group. Contestants are allowed to enter either as a rooster or as a hen.

Obviously, contestants will be judged on his/her ability to imitate their favorite chicken. The judging scores will be on a 0 to 10 scale-with a 0-being a rotten egg which should be thrown-out-of the coopitition and a 10 being egg-stra special, grade AA.

Contestants are also judged on four criteria: Authentic - do you really sound like a chicken; Vocal Projection - can you be heard across the barnyard; Animation - do you act like a chicken; and Duration - can you do this for at least 15 seconds and can you stop before 60 seconds.

The individual scratched with the highest total score will strut off as the National Cluck-Off Champion. Cash prizes are awarded for the competition.

Parades have always been a favorite thing of the Wayne community and the Chicken Show parade is no egg-ception.

Participants in the parade commonly dress up their floats and give the audience something to crow about while some have been known to be only good for a cluckle. This year, according to local organizers, the Chicken Show parade has more entries than in years past and it promises to be scratched down as one of the biggest on record.

The parade starts at First and Main Streets and finishes at Bressler Park. Entries in the parade are judged on chickenness with the 1992 theme "Chickens in Song."

Egg Drop/Catch

One of the day's final events is the Egg Drop/Catch contest. During this contest, participants vie for top honor and risk egg on the face by attempting to catch a raw egg barehanded dropped from the City of Wayne's cherry picker. In this event, many eggs have perished over time but the enthusiasm for the event gets egged on every year.

The record drop, set in 1988 at a distance of 52 feet, 4 inches, has been something participants have only been able to peck at in recent years. For those infortunate many who have to drop out because they dropped their egg or got scrambled by one, a bucket of water and paper towels are available for personal clean-up.

Chicken Shoe Chucking Contest

While the idea behind the Chicken Shoe Chucking Contest is not new, the chicken shoe is relatively new (except to prehistoric farmers who used to shoe their birds for hygene reasons, it is believed, and that's where the Abominable Chicken, who resides just north of Wayne, comes from).

The chicken shoe debuted at the Wayne Chicken Show only last year. In previous years, horseshoes were used in a pitching contest but in 1991 some creatively-minded people at Heritage Homes invented the chicken shoe to replace the horseshoes used in previous years.

Although the purpose of the chicken shoe chucking contest is the same as the horseshoe chuck, the third toe on the chicken shoe makes the task a little more difficult.

Prizes in the contest are courtesy of Heritage Homes.

Chicken Flying Meet

This is an event that not all chickenswere meant for.

The Chicken Flying Meet, sanctioned by the International Chicken Flying Association of Ohio, requires that all entrants must be of the genus and species of the Gallus Domestica. Only entrants in the beak of health will be accepted. No foul fowl will be accepted.

In this event, the chicken is placed inside a mailbox-roost prior to taking to flight. If the chicken does not take to flight of its own volition after 30 seconds, it will be declared a chicken chicken. The chicken that then flies the longest distance (last year's winner is still believed to be airborne) will be declared the winner.

Olympecks ___

This is an event where kids get to struttheir stuff. Youngsters peck their way into competing in a variety of roost (team) and individual events.

When the young roosters and hens compete, they receive prizes but not many come away with a fowl taste in their months.

This event has been scratched as one of the most fun events of the day for the kids as they receive ribbons and prizes.

'Pullet Surprise' added

One of the most recent additions of the Chicken Show in Wayne is the awarding of the "Pullet Surprise."

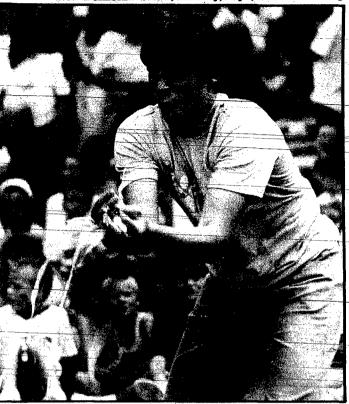

Inaugurated in 1991 to honor Wayne native Marjie Lundstrom, a journalist with the Sacramento Bee who won the Pulitzer Prize for journalism, the Wayne version of the similarly named award is to honor individuals who have "brought significant recognition to the coop."

Members of the Chicken Show Committee decided to present the prize every

To keep the honor a true surprise, the recipient of this year's award will not be announced before the 10 a.m. Saturday ceremony on Main Street. Following the award ceremony, the recipient will ride in a place of honor in the parade.

In keeping with the journalistic tradition of the Pulitzer Prize and now the Pullet Surprise, the Wayne Herald has agreed to sponsor the annual award.

The thrill of victory or the agony of defeat are the only two alternatives in the zaney egg drop contest.

All about the Wayne Chicken Show

Since its inception 12 years ago, the Wayne Chicken Show has grown to attract national and international attention.

Each year, thousands of visitors from throughout the state and nation make tracks to Northeast Nebraska to take part inthe annual event.

The Wayne Chicken Show was conceived in the Spring of 1981 by the Wayne Regional Arts Council, a non-profit corporation of the State of Nebraska, with the intention of sponsoring an art show that would involve craftsmen and artists from throughout the region.

It was also decided in 1981 that a common theme should be chosen to demonstrate that art can be appreciated by everyone — hence the chicken theme was hatched

THE CHICKEN Show is funded largely by the sale of Chicken T-shirts, with local artist Pearl Hansen designing shirts the first three years. For the past nine years, the shirts have been designed by Marla McCue, another Wayne artist.

In addition to shirts and souvenirs, funding for the Chicken Show comes from donations provided by corporations and a local promotional grant.

Most of the souvenirs are made by local residents who simply bring them in as a donation to the show, or by Chicken Show-committee members and their friends.

A new membership drive, Chickens Indefinite, also helps support the show and is dedicated to the possible preservation of chicken habitat and the reasonable control of "road kill."

Membership to Chickens Indefinite is $3, or $4.50 with a button, with apologies extended to Ducks Unlimited and Pheasants Forever.

THE CHICKEN Show has been featured in nearly all of the larger newspapers in Nebraska and Iowa, on radio interviews heard in every state, all provinces of Canada, and from the BBC originating from Dublin.

In addition, the show has been seen on television news segments each year on Lincoln, Omaha and Sioux City stations, and has been featured on major national networks, including The Tonight Show, Good Morning America, the Mickey Mouse Club, Best of the Worst, and a syndicated quiz show.

The event has also been the focus of articles in Home and Away, USA Today, Wall Street Journal, Stars and Stripes, regional magazines, and national newspaper syndications.

In addition, English, Japanese, and Saudi Arabian-newspaper clippings have been sent to Wayne by friends in those countries.

ABOUT one dozen "good eggs" make up the Chicken Show committee, who plan the show each year as their form of entertainment.

Plans for each year's event begin one week after each Chicken Show, with meetings held once a month for about nine months, and then every week or two.

As the date of the show nears, more and more Wayne residents begin to commit their time and talents.

The Chicken Show is manned by individuals and other volunteers from service organizations and businesses throughout the community. All in all, it is estimated that about 500 people volunteer their time in one way or another to the logistics of the event.

Last year, an estimated 80 chickens and 10,000 people attended the Wayne Chicken Show Stange characters in the Triple A, Large-size delight parade watchers during the annual "egg-citing" Chicken Show Parade on Main Street. The parade starts at 11 a.m.

Many 'egg'citing events scheduled

The community of Wayne will again strut its stuff on July 10-11 when the Chicken Show comes to town.

For the past 12 years, the annual event has continued to grow and attract thousands of tourists who come to this small Northeast Nebraska community to let their feathers down.

From the Chicken Show Parade to the National Cluck-off, Beautiful Beak Contest and Pickin' and Pluckin' Bluegrass Festival, this year's schedule of events promises to be even more egg-citing than previous years.

Following is the list of activities on tapfor the 1992 Wayne Chicken Show.

Friday evening, July 10

Many stores open until 8 p.m.

Pickin' and Pluckin' Bluegrass Festival, Second and Main Sts., featuring the Legacy and Moonlight Express bands, as well as Fiddler Jason Clark and others who can join in the music.

—Bad Brothers Music? Comedy Act, featuring one of the worst performances in the history of music, presented by Lyle and Alan George.

-Chicken Chip Throwing Contest.

—Potato bake sponsored by Cycle Paths Bicycle Club, with other refreshments by St. Mary's School Booster Club.

—Watch for Flashing Chicken to indicate specials in many Wayne stores.

—Face painting clowns and balloon sculpture by Dave Headley and friends. Magic show featuring Jason Clark.
 Food concessions.

Saturday, July 11 (all day)

—Display and fly-in at Wayne Municipal Airport. Shuttle will run to the airport. Free coffee and rolls from 7 to 9 a.m. Two S &J's, fly-over by National Guard, Norfalcons (radio controlled planes), Marian Air Care on display in afternoon. National Guard display and others.

—Arts and Crafts Fair in Wayne State College Willow Bowl, featuring the wares of vendors throughout the region. Shuttle will be available to Willow Bowl.

—Legends Car Club Auto Show in Rice Auditorium parking lot on Wayne State College campus, with judging to begin at 1 p.m. and an awards presentation at 4 p.m. Shuttle available.

Saturday, July 11 (scheduled events)

6:45 a.m. — Tour De Poultry Bike Ride (10, 25, 70-mile rides), sponsored by Wayne Cycle Paths Bicycle Club and beginning at Rice Auditorium on the Wayne State College campus. For information call Gary West, (402) 375-1167. Preregistration encouraged and helmets required.

8:30 to 10:30 a.m. — Free Omelet Feed in Bressler Park, with eggs furnished by the Milton G. Waldbaum Co., cookers and utensils provided by Waldbaum's and the Nebraska-Poultry Industries, and help from the Wayne Kiwanis Club. Ingredients for the omelets are provided through the sale of Chicken Shirts, along with generous contributions from local grocers and other businesses.

9 a.m. — Rooster Crowing Contest in Bressler Park. One rooster per entrant. Each rooster entered must be represented by a judge who will count the crows of another rooster chosen at random. Entrants may have someone of their choosing monitor the judge of his own rooster.

9 a.m. (all day) - Souvenirs, pop, information at the "Coop" in Bressler Park. Stop at the coop to purchase Chicken Shirts, souvenirs and pop. The Chicken Show is under the auspices of the Wayne Regional Arts Council which is a nonprofit corporation. The primary funding of the Wayne Chicken Show is the sale of Chicken shirts and other souvenirs. This year's shirt was designed by local artist Marla McCue. The theme, "Chickens in Song," is carried out by the depiction of a Wagner opera character who shatters the spotlights with her wondrous singing. A variety of souvenirs also are available, many of which are made by local craftsmen who donate their work to the Chicken Show

9 a.m. (all day) - Chicken Arts and-

Crafts Fair in Bressler Park, featuring chicken related objects and art.
