116TH YEAR — NO. 93

Major Highway 35 work in state plan

By Les Mann
Herald Publisher

The Nebraska Department of Roads new six-year plan released today, still lists provisions for over $38 million worth of work on Highway 35 from Norfolk through Wakefield including improvements in Wayne.

The major Highway 35 improvement work has been listed in the state's six year plans for at least three years. The plans call for grading, new surface, drainage, culverts and bridges and surfaced shoulders over more than 33 miles of the route through Wayne.

One segment of the route, from near Wakefield to Emerson, is included in the planned construction for 1993. That seven-mile stretch is anticipated to cost $3.2 million.

DISTRICT ENGINEER Thomas McCarthy of Norfolk explained it is unlikely the entire remaining 26 miles of the route would be included in any one year's construction plan. "It would be too disruptive," he said.

The planned work on the route is divided into seven different projects. He said it is possible up to two segments might be included in a single year.

Resurfacing of the Highway through Wayne is one of the segments in the plan. That work might include widening of 7th Street into three lanes with a center turning lane, said McCarthy. He said a consultant is currently studying the Wayne portion of the project to make a recommendation on what would work best in town.

"WAYNE'S 7TH Street is always going to carry quite a bit of traffic," said McCarthy. He added the state will be working with the city to determine how best to upgrade the road through town.

Highway 35 is one of only three routes in the state that has been designated as a segment of the priority-commercial system with a potential to upgrade to expressway said McCarthy. He said the traffic counts on the route are being monitored to determine if it will eventually be included in the state's expressway system.

Being included in the six-year plan means that the work is anticipated to be scheduled before 1998.

When the same work was included in the plan issued in 1991, the anticipated scheduling was before 1996.

IN ANNOUNCING the fourth year of a 10-year "accelerated improvement program," State Engineer Allan Abbott issued a statement asking citizens for political support for continued funding of highway improvement plans. He called for "vigilance...to make certain that funds generated by their (citizen gas tax) contributions are not used for purposes other than those for which they were collected."

Abbott said a decline in anti-

Road name sought

Wayne City Council will be recommending a name for the County Road that runs by the county fairgrounds west of town.

As part of a system of naming or numbering roads to aid in dispatching emergency crews to specific addresses throughout the county, the county commissioners have asked city and village boards to recommend names for roads bordering towns.

In most cases the road names have already been identified and are in use. Centennial road is on the east, Country Club Road (to be renamed 21st Street in the new road plan) is on the north and Grainland Road is on the south.

That leaves Fairgrounds Road on the west, except emergency crews could be confused between Fairgrounds Road and Fairgrounds Ave. which is in the Southeast quadrant of town. Police Chief Vern Fairchild recommended that the road on the west have a separate and distinct name.

For want of a better name, Joe Salitros, city administrator, suggested Westline Road, to council during its meeting Tuesday night.

Councilwoman Jane O'Leary said that name was dull but she also objected, mildly, to the tongue-in-cheek suggestion that the road be named Chicken Show Road.

Retail chain looks at Wayne

By Les Mann

A large national retail outlet is seriously considering a location in Wayne.

Dollar General Stores, headquartered in Kentucky, confirmed this week that Wayne is in the running for a new retail outlet.

Cabot Pyle, director of corporate communications for the firm, told the herald in a phone interview that the company is in negotiations right now for leased space in Wayne and that after the lease is signed, the company will be open within 4 weeks.

Pyle said he anticipates being able to make an official announcement within two weeks.

He said he can't say too much until the site negotiations are complete, but he did confirm that the company is seeking applications from potential employees already through the placement office at Wayne State College.

Pyle said people from his firm were extremely impressed with Wayne and the friendliness of the people here. He said the response corporate officials received when they visited here was one of the reasons they moved ahead with efforts to expand into Wayne.

Dollar General is a no frills discount store that averages 6,000 to 7,000 square feet in its locations around the country, said Pyle. He added the store sells daily consumables, clothes and shoes.

Dollar General promotes even dollar pricing and everyday low prices rather than weekly sales, he said.

"We concentrate on getting the best dollar value for our customers," he said.

Good-bye summer, hello books

COOLER TEMPERATURES EARLIER this week may have helped many area students make the transition from summer play to school work as they headed back to classrooms. Jennifer Wattier, a fourth grader at West Elementary School in Wayne, certainly seems to be enjoying her first day of class. Jennifer is the daughter of Steve and Pat Wattier.

WSC students up; frosh not

Initial figures indicate another record enrollment year for Wayne State College as students returned to class Wednesday, however, there may be a leveling off of growth with incoming freshmen.

Twenty-six fewer freshmen were enrolled this week compared to the same period a year ago, according to Jeff Beckman, director of college relations.

Incoming freshmen last year totaled 701, while this year the figure is 675. Beckman said the total headcount of students is well ahead of last year's 4,000 figure however, because the college has done a better job of retention.

Earlier college officials had feared a large increase in incoming freshmen again this year based on the greater number of students who applied for admission, said Beckman.

However, he said the college didn't get the same percentage of enrollees to applicants that it usually does.

He said he thinks high school seniors are applying to more schools than they used to before settling on which one to actually attend.

"One of the healthiest signs of college life," said Beckman is the

Shopper moving

Beginning next week, the offices of the Morning Shopper in Wayne will be housed with the Wayne Herald in a move that was announced by Shopper Manager Bill Richardson and Herald Publisher Les Mann.

Besides sharing space, the two long-standing publications in Wayne, will provide new cooperative advertising opportunities and services for customers, Richardson and Mann announced.

Richardson will be the new general manager of the combined operations.

"The efficiency of shared personnel, space and equipment will allow us to improve news and advertising services to the community through both the Wayne Herald and the Morning Shopper," said Mann.

Customers may continue to call the Shopper at 375-3850 and the Herald at 375-2600.

Both businesses will retain existing staffs, said Richardson. While the street address will be 114 Main for both businesses, their mailing addresses will not change, (PO Box 343 for the Shopper and PO Box 70 for the Herald).

He said the newly configured operation will provide enhanced commercial printing services for the community as well.

Fire study continuing

An investigation continues into the cause of a fire at the Big Dipper in Wayne on Aug. 18, according to Curly McDonald of Wayne, an investigator for the State Fire Marshal's office.

Reggie Benson of Norfolk, an owner of the business at 1308 Main St., said clean up work has begun and plans call for the business to re-open by Sept. 7 if not earlier.

Benson said a small fire broke out in the back of the building on Aug. 18 and that damage, which was minor, was mostly caused by smoke.

He added that the business will include the addition of pizza ovens when it re-opens in September.

Student guarantees are nothing new

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln's recent announcement of its new Employer and Student Guarantee Program is nothing new at Northeast Community College, according to Northeast officials.

Northeast's Employer and Student Guarantee Program has been in place since 1990.

Programs at Northeast offering the guarantee are auto body, automotive technology, diesel, residential and commercial electrician, and secretarial science. Other programs will be implementing the guarantee program in the near future.

The guarantee program states that Northeast will retrain any certified graduate who is found to be lacking in technical job skills normally expected of a job-entry employee. Certified students must meet strict grade and attendance requirements.

"We've always felt that community colleges are closer to employers than other institutions," says Dr. Robert Cox, president of Northeast, "and this is another step towards strengthening these relationships."

DAV officer answers questions

Service van to be in area

Northeast Nebraska veterans and their families aren't alone if they're concerned about the effects of Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) benefit changes on their lives.

But they'll get straight answers - free of charge - when a national service officer of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) visits Norfolk and South Sioux City.

The DAV van will be parked from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Norfolk Inn, 721 East Norfolk in Norfolk on Sept. 10 and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the VFW, 1501 West 29th Street in South Sioux City on Sept. 11.

The DAV veterans' benefits expert on board is fully qualified to help veterans and their families file new and reopened claims for the full range of veterans' benefits. Veterans need not be DAV members to take advantage of these free services.

"For several years," said DAV National Service Director Arthur H. Wilson, "veterans have heard many news reports on changes in veterans' programs and services; cutbacks in veterans' health care, and proposals to slash disability compensation payments. Also causing concern are changes in Social Security disability programs."

"The DAV can explain what all these changes mean to disabled veterans in the Norfolk and South Sioux City area," said Wilson. "We can explain the impact on veterans' families, if veterans are worried about their rights, they should be. That's why the DAV is coming to Northeast Nebraska. We're here to serve you."

Veterans or family members visiting the DAV van should bring the veterans' VA claim number, if known, and Social Security number. These are needed in filing and reopening claims.

Bush's ethanol position criticized

Nebraska Director of Agriculture Larry E. Sitzman says he is disappointed that the Bush administration has not moved to advance the ethanol industry.

Ag officials were hopeful the President would announce a tax incentive plan for ethanol when he addressed fairgoers at the Illinois State Fair on Sunday. However, Bush made no reference to ethanol.

"The lack of an announcement from the White House regarding the future utilization of ethanol is disappointing, especially at a time when the administration is heralding the recent agreement on NAFTA and seems hell bent on negotiating a GATT agreement professing free trade, but not necessarily fair trade.

This could have a profound effect on reducing internal farm supports," said Sitzman. "Any reduction of farm supports at a time when this country is facing a record corn harvest will have a devastating effect on our rural economy. Agriculture cannot be expected to totally export its way out of it."

Sitzman added that increased ethanol production would provide another market for the anticipated record feed grain harvest this year. New and industrial uses of grain such as ethanol will have an immediate upward impact on investment, jobs, farm income, and rural revitalization.

"I sat at the same table with George Bush in 1989 when he visited Nebraska and promised ethanol development would be among his top priorities," Sitzman said. "Three years later, I am still waiting for him to come through for Nebraska producers and for the environment."

According to Sitzman, it seems the President is "dragging his feet" so as not to offend the oil and gas lobby during this election year. "Unfortunately, it appears as if the President is willing to sacrifice ethanol's long-term role in cleaning up the environment for short-term campaign contributions and increased dependence on imported methanol."

Judging contest will be Sept. 17

The Nebraska Area VI Range Judging Contest will be held Thursday, Sept. 17 at Battle Creek in Madison County.

Participation in the Area VI Range Judging Contest is open to 4-H and FFA members, and to adults and professional range managers.

"Today, there are many concerns about environmental issues and the increased demands on the environment," says Dennis Smith, Madison County District Conservationist and Area Range Judging chairman. "The leaders of tomorrow need to understand how to better maintain and manage our range land."

The registration fee for the contest is $4 per person and is due by Sept. 9. After this date, registrants will pay an additional $1 late fee.

Contest check-in will begin at 9 a.m. at the Battle Creek City Park the day of the contest.

Madison County Extension, Madison County Soil Conservation Service and the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District are serving as sponsors of the area contest.

For more information on registration for the contest, contact Dennis Smith, Madison County SCS District Conservationist at (402) 675-9955 or Chris Carlson, Madison County Extension Agriculture Agent at (402) 675-2785.

Care centre earns good report from state health

The Wayne Care Centre received a good report from the State health Department after a survey conducted there in May.

The Surveyors found no deficiencies affecting Resident Rights, Quality of Life, Nursing Services, Dietary Services, Physician Services, Facility Practices, Special Rehabilitative Services, Pharmacy Services, Infection Control, Physical Environment or Administration, according to Pat Lichty, administrator.

The Care Centre was visited by three registered nurses from the Health Facilities Standards, Bureau of the Nebraska Department of Health. Inspections are required by law to insure quality care for residents of health care facilities.

Alan McVay, Director of the Western Region Division of the Bureau of Health Facilities Standards said, he was impressed at the cooperation of the Administrator, Lichty and the Care Centre staff, along with residents and their families during the survey.

Corn plant announcement good news for entire state

This week's announcement by Cargill Inc. to build a new corn-processing plant near Blair is good news for Nebraska farmers and the rural economy, according to Don Hutchens, executive director of the Nebraska Corn Board.

"Nebraska has emerged as a dominate force in producing high quality corn, now we are starting to emerge as a viable location for processing agricultural commodities," said Hutchens. "This announcement is good news for Nebraska's corn farmers as they prepare to harvest what could be a record one-billion bushel corn crop."

Location of the Cargill plant near Blair could increase the price of corn five to 10 cents a bushel within 50 to 100 miles, according to industry estimates.

While the plant's product mix will depend on market demand, the new corn wet milling facility could produce corn starch products, corn sweeteners, corn oil and livestock feed ingredients. The facility also could produce ethanol, which is made from corn.

"Nebraska leads the nation in market penetration of ethanol-blended fuel sales, with nearly one in every two gallons of gasoline sold in the state containing ethanol," said Rod Heinrichs of Carleton, chairman of the Nebraska Corn Board's market development committee. "Since 1978 the Nebraska Corn Board and the Nebraska Corn Growers Association have been at the forefront of ethanol promotion. Our efforts are starting to pay off."

Heinrichs noted that two new corn wet milling plants are soon scheduled to start operating at Columbus and Sutherland. Those plants could produce a combined total of 55 million gallons of ethanol. Expansion plans also have been announced at Nebraska's only commercial-scale ethanol plant at Hastings. The facility now produces about 14 million gallons of ethanol a year.

It is estimated that every gallon of ethanol production capacity requires $3 in capital investments. In addition, each additional 100 million bushels of grain used to produce ethanol creates an estimated 2,250 new rural job opportunities.

"The fact that Nebraska will soon become a major player in ethanol production points out the urgency of our struggle with the Environmental Protection Agency to include ethanol in the new reformulated gasoline market. We call upon President Bush to seek an immediate resolution of this issue based on ethanol's proven clean-burning characteristics," said Heinrichs.

Since one of the products that could be produced at the new Cargill plant is starch, Nebraska could become a leader in the starch industry, according to Hutchens.

"One of the goals of the Corn Board is to position Nebraska as a leader in the research and development of starch-related products. We have funded a number of research projects at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln designed to increase the uses of starch not only in Nebraska but around the world," he said.

Starch is one of the main components of corn and can be used to make biodegradable plastics and a host of other new industrial products.

Hutchens added, "It takes an active export market, a healthy livestock industry and an expanding domestic processing industry to keep pace with farmers' ability to produce vast amounts of corn."

The Nebraska Corn Board collects and disburses the funds generated by the one-fourth of a cent per bushel corn checkoff. The money is invested in programs of market development, research, promotion and education.

New water hazard?

IT MAY HAVE looked like the Wayne Country Club built a new water hazard on the back nine between holes 11, 12, 13 and 14, but in actuality, it was a hazard brought by the heavy rains last Sunday and Monday. The course, however, did open for business on Wednesday around noon. Course superintendent Larry Berres said the course has been closed more this summer than any other during his seven year tenure combined.

Probe contemporary, sophisticated

The all-new 1993 Ford Probe offers a contemporary design and a higher level of technical sophistication, according to Bill D. Reeg of Arnies Ford-Mercury, Inc. in Wayne.

"The design has been changed by increasing the overall length and width, along with the wheelbase and tread," Reeg said. "The front overhand has been shortened by moving the cab closer to the front of the car. This gives the windshield a greater slope, thus increasing the interior space."

The sporty coupe is available in two models -- Probe and Probe GT -- each with its own multi-valve engine and individual styling cues. Driver-side air bag supplemental restraint system is standard on both.

Probe GT has a new twin-cam 24-valve V-6 with a cast aluminum block and cylinder heads. It generates 164 horsepower at 6000 rpm and 156 foot-pounds of torque at 4000 rpm. A five-speed manual transaxle is standard, and an electronically controlled four-speed automatic transaxle is optional.

The standard Probe has a new 2.0-liter four-cylinder engine with twin overhead camshafts, four valves per cylinder and an aluminum head. It produces 115 horsepower at 5500 rpm and 124 foot-pounds of torque at 3500 rpm. It can be teamed with a five-speed manual transaxle or an optional four-speed automatic.

The 1993 Probe has a more aggressive stance than the previous model, a result of increasing the tire tread width more than two inches and lengthening the wheelbase almost four inches. Lowering the cowl (base of windshield) heights nearly three inches and pulling it forward almost four inches has produced the sleekly assertive "cab-forward" look.

The interior has been designed to complement the exterior. Its all-new instrument panel is integrated with the door panels for a sweeping wraparound effect. A new center console/armrest with storage area and cup holder is standard on the GT, optional on the standard model.

Drive characteristics of both versions of the 1993 Probe have been improved through new suspension geometry. The front suspension consists of modified MacPherson struts. The rear suspension is independent strut-sprung with quadra-link and upper strut-mounted coil springs.

The Probe GT suspension is further refined to provide the handling, maneuverability and cornering capabilities of a true driver's car. The GT has revised spring rates, additional shock strut bounce and rebound control, and front and rear stabilizer bars. Four-wheel disc brakes are standard, and anti-lock brakes (ABS) are optional on both models.

The Probe comes with P195/65R14 tires on 14-inch steel wheels as standard. P205/55R15 tires on 15-inch aluminum alloy wheels are optional. On the GT, P225/50VR16 tires mounted on 16-inch aluminum alloy wheels are standard.

The list of upgraded Probe GT standard features includes a leather-wrapped steering wheel, adjustable power lumbar and seat-back side bolster front seats, fog lamps and a cargo net.

Among the new options are a remote-control keyless entry system, an anti-theft system, power sliding sunroof, and a state-of-the-art audio system with an integrated compact disc player, electronic AM/FM radio with premium sound and a separate optional graphic equalizer.

Softball team defeats Black Knight in finals

Varsity wins Men's 'B' softball crown

By Kevin Peterson
Sports Editor

The Men's Championship game of the "B" Division softball tournament, took place Monday at the City Softball Complex in Wayne between the Varsity and Black Knight.

During the regular season the Varsity won just four games but they came into championship play as the only undefeated team during the tournament which meant Black Knight would have to defeat them twice to claim the crown.

The first championship game was held last Friday with Black Knight coming out on top of a 6-5 decision. That set up the final game on Monday.

Black Knight got out on top first with a run in the bottom of the first inning when Brian Keck's sacrifice fly ball scored Rocky Ruhl from third base to give Black Knight a 1-0 lead after the first inning.

Varsity came back to tie the game in the top of the second inning when Mike Nelson blasted a solo home run over the center field fence.

In the bottom of the third inning, with a 1-1 score, Black Knight exploded for four runs and appeared to have things going in its direction. Alan Hart led things off with a single followed by a single from Bob Lowe. Rocky Ruhl then hit a long fly ball to center field where the Varsity outfielder misjudged it which scored a run. Marty Slaughter then hit a ball to left field where an error allowed two more runs to score. Dennis Murray's single later scored another run to give Black Knight a 5-1 lead.

The Varsity got another rally in the top of the fourth inning when they scored three runs. Shannon Dorcey led off with a double and advanced to third on Rick Krause's single. Brent Schumacher hit a sacrifice fly ball to score Dorcey before Mike Nelson singled.

Mike Wieneke then hit a ball to center field which scored a run for the Varsity but smart base running and a Black Knight throwing error led to the third run of the inning being scored which tightened the gap to 5-4.

With the score still 5-4 in Black Knight's favor, Varsity scored four runs in the top of the sixth inning for a lead they would never relinquish. Shannon Dorcey led off with a single but was picked off at second when Rick Krause hit into a fielder's choice.

Brent Schumacher then singled to put runners on first and second before Mike Nelson blasted his second home run of the game—this time a 3-run shot to put the Varsity on top. Mike Wieneke then singled before James Ebaugh reached base on an error. Following a single by Brandon East, Varsity scored its fourth run of the inning on a sacrifice fly from pitcher Jim Simeon.

Black Knight managed to score one run in the bottom of the sixth on an rbi single by Brian Keck but heading to the top of the seventh inning, Varsity maintained an 8-7 advantage.

Varsity added some insurance in the seventh inning when they scored seven runs on seven hits. Shannon Dorcey, Brent Schumacher, James Ebaugh, Brandon East, Jim Simeon and Jim Chapman all singled in the inning while Mike Wieneke tripled.

Black Knight attempted a rally in the bottom of the seventh inning by scoring five runs but Varsity held on for a 15-12 victory. Jeff Martin, Bob Lowe and Rocky Ruhl each singled while Marty Slaughter belted a triple in Black Knight's final at-bat.

Trophy racers

Dan Heikes, left and Rick Haase are partners in a car which brought home the hardware as first place finisher in its class in their first competition last weekend at Scribner. The Wayne-based car won the pro trophy class of competition, which is the fastest of the trophy cars entered. The two have worked on the car for several months. Heikes drove to victory last week but in the next competition Haase gets to drive.

Joan Scherbring replaces Dan Pollard

WSC hires coach

Joan Scherbring has been named head softball coach at Wayne State College, according to athletic director Pete Chapman.

Scherbring replaces Dan Pollard, who resigned after three years of service.

The 26-year-old Diersville, Iowa native coached the Kuemper Catholic High School squad the past two seasons. Scherbring led Kuemper to a school-record 26 wins in 1990, and finished with a 43-31 (.581) career record.

She also taught algebra and geometry at the school, as well as serving as strength coach and assistant basketball coach.

Scherbring earned her bachelor's degree in math education and a coaching certificate from Dana College in 1990. She also has a degree in computer programming from Waldorf College in Forest City, Iowa. She was a first-team all-district and all-conference pitcher at Dana.

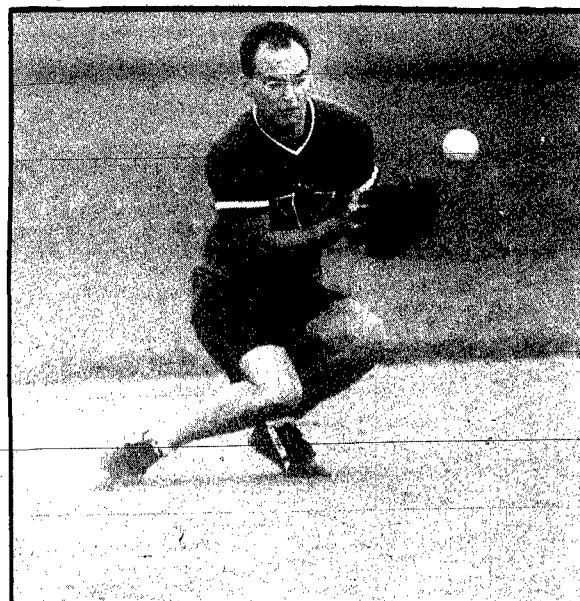

While at Waldorf and Dana, Scherbring worked with the athletic training staff, and will serve as an assistant athletic trainer at WSC.

"I'm excited about being a part of a program that has a winning tradition," Scherbring said. "I anticipate a strong team, since we lose only one graduating senior."

Scherbring expects to continue the WSC softball tradition of aggressive play. "I like to run and use the bunt to keep the game exciting," Scherbring said. "If you can bunt, you open up a lot of offensive opportunities."

"Joan comes from a strong high school program, and has the pitching background which is essential for success at the college level," Chapman said. "It's been a long, difficult process in filling our coaching vacancy, and we're looking forward to Joan joining our staff and continuing Wayne State's tradition of success."

BRANDON EAST attempts to field a ground ball from his third base position.

Hall of Fame to induct three

Wayne State College Athletic Director Pete Chapman recently announced the 1992 inductees for the Wayne State College Athletic Hall of Fame.

Rich Draper, Gordy Godfrey and Pat Holston will be inducted into the Hall during halftime ceremonies of the October 3, football game against the University of Nebraska-Kearney.

Draper, a 1972 WSC graduate, was an all-district and all-conference swimmer at WSC. The Elgin, Nebraska native also captained the WSC swim team. He is presently the swim coach for the University of Iowa.

Godfrey, a 1973 WSC graduate, was a standout defensive back for Del Stollenberg's football teams. Godfrey was recently appointed Supreme Court Justice for Grays Harbor Court in Washington State. He is a native of Aberdeen, Washington.

Holston, a 1975 WSC graduate, was also a defensive back during his collegiate playing days. The Elizabeth, New Jersey native has earned the Alice Buffet Outstanding Teachers Award, and was also named Secondary Teacher of the Year in Nebraska. He has taught in the Omaha Public Schools for 14 years, and also coaches at Benson High School.

The Wayne State College Athletic Hall of Fame is sponsored by the Wayne State Catbacker booster club. The Hall of Fame was initiated in 1978, and is designated to recognize those who have made significant contributions to Wildcat athletics.

Since the Hall was organized, 57 outstanding individuals have been inducted. Those contributors have met specific criteria and include coaches, administrators, athletes, or supporters of WSC athletics.

Individuals are eligible after being nominated by friends or alumni of Wayne State. A selection committee is composed by Wayne State staff, Catbacker board members, and community members.

A branch of the Hall of Fame is the Hall of Contributions. Inductees into this Hall represent those individuals whose contributions and support of Wildcat athletics have made a significant impact on Wayne State College.

At Nebraska State Fair

4-H youth to participate in new activities

There will be some new activities when dozens of Wayne County 4-H youth and their scores of exhibits arrive next week for the Nebraska State Fair in Lincoln, Sept. 4-13.

Karen Melang, administrative assistant, 4-H youth development at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, said a few new twists will be thrown in with the traditional clothing, livestock and speaking events.

Presentations will be given by 4-H members for the first time at the University Building at State Fair Park, Melang said. Five 4-H'ers from Cuming County will present demonstrations of various skills from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. Sept. 6.

Mary Vander Poole of West Point, Cuming County 4-H assistant, said the youths will be presenting 10- to 12-minute segments on decorating clothing, favorite foods, wildlife conservation and small animals. Some of the demonstrations also will be presented in competition. One member will be the emcee.

Presenters hope to demonstrate that 4-H is more than animals and sewing, Vander Poole said. These presentations will be held apart from the 4-H exhibits and are meant to attract people who do not normally tour the exhibits.

Another first for 4-H'ers will occur in the public speaking event. The State 4-H Public Speaking Contest will be held during State Fair for the first time. It will take place in the demonstration room at the Youth Complex on Sept. 4, from 1 p.m. to 4:15 p.m. This year's new corporate sponsor is KRVN, a radio station at Lexington.

Nebraska's only quasiquinten-ennial birthday will be honored by exhibits in three 4-H State Fair areas, Melang said. To celebrate 125 years of gardening in the state, horticulture will have three special classes for heirloom vegetables -- potatoes, dry beans and tomatoes.

The agronomy section also will offer a special exhibit/display opportunity. Participants will be asked to describe how crop production methods and conditions have changed in Nebraska from past to present with posters or written reports.

Photography exhibitors were asked to give special consideration to the quasiquintennial when selecting pictures for theme displays.

Four-H alumni are slated to participate in the annual Nebraska 4-H Development Foundation's alumni reception on Sept. 7 from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the Demonstration Room area near the Youth Complex, Melang said. Alumni are encouraged to bring 4-H memorabilia and photos to the reception.

The 4-H youth development program is carried out by Cooperative Extension in the UNL Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources in cooperation with the counties and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Grant opens microscopic window at UNL

By Becky Thomas, IANR News Writer

A $326,500 Department of Energy Grant will help to open a microscopic window in the Department of Biochemistry at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

That open window may shed some light on how toxic wastes, especially carbon monoxide, are digested by bacteria to create useful products and energy, according to Stephen Ragsdale, a biochemical researcher at UNL's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

The grant, one of only 25 nationwide, will enable the department to purchase an Electron Paramagnetic Resonance Spectrometer and other equipment that show researchers how unpaired electrons participate in key chemical and biological processes.

Nearly $100,000 in additional funding will be provided by the Agricultural Research Division, the Biotechnology Center, the UNL Chancellor's Office and the department.

The EPR spectrometer is similar to the Magnetic Resonance Imaging equipment used as a medical diagnostic tool, but is 1,000 times more sensitive, Ragsdale said. The MRI measures energy shifts in the nucleus of molecules while the EPR spectrometer records the changing spin of much tinier electrons.

Ragsdale, who works almost exclusively with anaerobic or oxygen-deprived processes, compared the detoxification of wastes to human digestion. "We use sugar and fats to obtain energy, whereas anaerobic bacteria use carbon monoxide," he said.

How anaerobic bacteria break down carbon monoxide still baffles scientists. When the microbes attack carbon monoxide, a metal-containing enzyme assists in the reaction. Unlike other chemical reactions where changes in color allow for easy identification, metal-centered reactions with carbon monoxide are absolutely colorless. In addition, the carbon monoxide changes as it interacts with the metal-containing enzyme during its breakdown.

This intermediate phase of the reaction, the catalysis, has been very difficult to chart. Since electron spin changes significantly during catalysis, it can be used to identify the pathway of the reaction, Ragsdale said. "It really is a window on the catalysis that is not provided by any other method," he said. "You can always distinguish one type of (electron) spin from another."

The new equipment, which will arrive from Germany in late December, will be shared among three UNL departments, biochemistry, chemistry and biological sciences, according to Marion O'Leary, head of the biochemistry department. "It will make it possible for a handful of us to do a lot of experiments that weren't previously possible," he said.

The EPR spectrometer supplements a much smaller one currently in the biochemistry department. The increased sensitivity of the new spectrometer allows for very specific electron mapping. "Most methods look at a wide array of atoms," O'Leary said. "EPR focuses very locally on the small subset where the reaction is happening." The new equipment also allows researchers to freeze the reaction so they can follow the progression of activity, a millisecond at a time.

It is this freeze-frame window that helps researchers identify the exact chemical pathway of a reaction and to enhance nature's ability to process environmental toxins, O'Leary said.

BIBLE STUDY

United Methodist Bible Study was held Aug. 19, at the Bessie Sherman home with six attending. The study of Leviticus was begun. Next meeting will be in the Phyllis Herfel home, Sept. 2, continuing with Leviticus 6.

HOSTED PICNIC

St. Anne's Catholic Church hosted the Annual Methodist-Catholic picnic, Aug. 19, in the Bishop Milone Parish Hall. About 30 attended.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE

Improvements took place around Dixon this past week. The United Methodist Church received a new coat of paint Aug. 19-20. Old paint was removed and white paint, highlighted with black trim, was applied.

Work was also done on the front of the fire hall. Many of the bricks and mortar holding them were loose, so the top few layers were torn down and replaced.

Aug. 18, Mr. and Mrs. Garold Jewell of Dixon and Mr. and Mrs. Vern Hubbard of Allen joined ten other Texas Winter visitors at Theos cafe near Lawton, Iowa, for dinner and an afternoon of reminiscing. Visitors came from Otho, Sioux City and Jefferson, Iowa, Ruthton and Hutchinson, Minn. and Allen and Dixon, NE.

Sandy Zimmet, a Legislative Aid from Washington, D.C. was a guest in the Harold George home. They took her to visit many of the places of interest in our local and neighboring communities. She and the Georges visited Logan Ltd. Feed Lot northeast of Dixon, Husker Pride Chicken Farm northwest of Wakefield and they met with several of the local neighbors for a time of visiting. On Aug. 15, all attended the parade and program at the celebration in Dixon. Sunday she and the Georges met Tim Peterson and Darrell Curry at the Sportsman for dinner and boating on the Missouri River. In the afternoon they saw the Cathedral at Bow Valley near Hartington. On Monday they visited the Roeder Honey Farm in Dixon before returning to Lincoln and a tour of the State Capital. There in Lincoln, Sandy met the 11 other Legislative Aids who had come to Nebraska to visit in other rural communities across Nebraska. The event was sponsored by the Nebraska Farm Bureau to acquaint them with our State.

...but you win or lose according to where you spend your dollars

Spend them at home and today's merchandising brings you the same or comparable goods at about the same prices you would pay in some larger city, while you save time, gas and exposure to highway hazards. And part of the home stores' profit on all that you buy is used to help you pay your local community upkeep.
