For Louisiana storm victims

Residents help rebuild home — family

Two Northeast Nebraska residents are grateful for being given an opportunity to help a Louisiana ouple rebuild their home - and family.

Kaye McAfee of Allen and My-ron Olson of Wakefield returned home last week from LaPlace, La., where they spent three days helping and Deborah Prine and their two young daughters, one-year-old Karen and four-year-old Heather. The Prines were living in a trailer and in the process of remod-eling a house when a tornado spawned by Hurricane Andrew destroyed them both.

The young couple had no insurance and were ineligible for government rebuilding funds because the property is owned by Mrs. Prine's father, who also doesn't qualify because he doesn't live there.

"THE TORNADO destroyed everything they owned," says My-ron, adding that Robert left his wife and two young daughters after witnessing the devastation.

"He just couldn't take it," ex-thing around you destroyed.

But, in some respects, the wreckage which resulted from the tornado was even more difficult for Robert to cope with. It's hard to accept the fact that your house is gone and your neighbor's house is only missing a few shingles."

Myron is especially pleased of the fact that he and Kaye, along with the Nebraska group they trav-eled with to Louisiana, were able to witness the family's reunion.

"Robert came back," says Myron, "and he and Deborah worked right alongside and just as hard as

"Robert said he never knew there was that much love in the world."

MYRON AND Kaye's trip to Louisiana was organized by the Rev. Robert Johnson, pastor of the Evangelical Covenant Church in Stromsburg.

They learned of the trip through their local pastor, the Rev. Chuck Wahlstrom of the Evangelical Covenant Church in Wakefield:

They were among a group of 15 persons in three vehicles who drove 23 hours nonstop to LaPlace, located about 25 west of New Orleans. The Nebraska residents left

In Louisiana, their contact person was the Rev. Gary Martinez, a developer pastor of a young church with no affiliation as yet with any denomination.

"What's really neat about this," says Myron, "is that there were Covenants and Lutherans working side-by-side with members of a church with no denomination, helping a family with no church affiliation."

Kaye says Pastor Martinez learned about the Prine family through a woman named Jane Brown, who by herself went and fed victims of the tornado.

"In doing so," explains Kaye, "Jane noticed Deborah and her children sitting outside — two days in a row — with nothing at all."

It was Jane Brown who contacted

Pastor Martinez and asked if anything could be done to assist the

"WE KNEW what we were going to do even before we left for Louisiana," says Myron, adding that Pastor Martinez had already made arrangements with an insurance company to tear down another

PROPERTY valuations, which the taxpayers were notified of in April averaged nine percent up for all types of property. That means the county total valuation jumped by $38 million this year, to total of $328.5 million.

The effect of all this on the individual taxpayer might best be indicated by the results of the unofficial levy set by Wayne Public School District, the largest taxing entity in the county.

levy from $1.33 per $100 of valuation last year to $1.25 this year. However, because of the valuation increase, if you are an average property owner, your $50,000 property last year is now assessed at $54,500.

THAT MEANS the school taxes you paid last year on your $50,000 house were $665. This year the tax bite should be about

Mrs. Finn and County Assessor the figures are preliminary averages and may not hold true for every in-dividual taxpayer.

Some property values rose by as much as 22 percent on certain classes, said Mrs. Reeg. She said she was visited last spring by nearly every property owner in the county who received notices of val-uation increases. She said the increases were mandated by the state and not by her. "My hands were tied," she emphasized.

A full tabulation of the county property tax bills from all the agencies will be available in next week's Wayne Herald.

Rural residents may see cable TV service made available to them if enough interest is shown.

The Wayne County Public

"This is something that is being designed exclusively for rural residents," said Sam Schroeder, manager of the Wayne County Public Power District, adding that he believes that many rural residents would opt for cable TV service if rates were comparable to those in

Schroeder emphasized that the service is not in competition with current cable customers and is geared toward people who would otherwise probably not have an onpropagily not have an opportunity to receive cable TV service.

SCHROEDER said the accessibility to cable TV service in rural areas has been an area of intense focus in recent months by the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association (NRECA), a national coalition of over 1,000 rural electric systems; including Wayne County

Food scouting planned

WAYNE — Wayne Cub Scout Pack 174 will be conducting its annual "Scouting for Food" project. It will take place on Saturday, Sept. 26 from 9 a.m. to noon.

All of the food collected will be kept in Wayne and given to the Wayne Food Pantry. The food pantry is in need of the following items: canned goods, paper products and cereal. Cub Scouts, parents and leaders will pick up the items you wish to donate. Please leave your donation on your front steps or the main entrance of your apartment building, in a sack or box marked Cub Scouts.

If you wish to drop off your donation, we will be on the north side of the St. Paul's Lutheran Church. The scouts have set a goal of over 500 items.

Nationally recognized speaker delivering motivational message

Chamber of Commerce Education Council are excited about the opportunity for residents of Wayne and surrounding communities to hear one of the nation's outstanding motivational speakers when Jim Savage, the senior vice-president and publisher for the Zig Ziglar Corporation speaks here Oct. 6.
"If you have a family to encourage; if you report for a job each day; if you are looking for a job; if you have people reporting to you each day, you need to hear Jim's message," said Randy Pedersen, a member of the education council.

Savage is a nationally recognized speaker, said Pedersen, and it is fortunate, he said that residents do not have to drive to Sioux Falls or Omaha to hear him.

His appearance in Wayne is co-sponsored by the WSC Student Activities Board. Tickets may be purchased for $10 at the following locations, Farmer's and Merchant's State Bank, State National Bank, First National Bank, M and H
Apco, Pac 'N' Save, Sav-Mor Pharmacy and Medicap Pharmacy. His talk will be held from 6:30

Wayne, has been recognized by the Nebraska State Patrol for his sponsorship of anti-drug legislation. Colonel Ron Tussing and Major Don Niemann presented Conway with a replica set of the Nebraska Drug Tax stamps in appreciation of work to help combat illegal drugs and drug abuse.

Conway moved the Nebraska Drug Tax Act through the Unicameral in 1990, "I introduced the drug tax as a means to take the profitability out of the dealing of drugs and provide an additional tool for law enforcement officials in their attempt to eliminate this very serious problem. I am pleased it is working to those ends," Conway

The State Patrol and other law enforcement officials use the proceeds from the Nebraska Drug Tax Act to fund enforcement and drug educational activities. The Act permits the Department of Revenue to place a lien against property and assets to satisfy a tax assessed on drugs seized in Nebraska. The State Patrol and the counties where the seizure of property took place each receive an equal share of the tax collected on property and assets in

With the significant cost to society caused by drugs, I felt it was high time for those who have prospered from this illegal activity to start picking up the tab," Conway explained. By the end of 1991, the Department of Revenue had already made a total of 154 individual tax assessments. These assessments amounted to $3.8 million. Less than a fifth of the assessments were made in Douglas and Lancaster

"Part of the crew went to where the house was being torn down, while the others began work at the

"All I know," laughs Kaye, "is that we women pulled nails from the time we got there until we quit in the afternoon. And it was hot.

"I've worked in hot weather, but that was the hottest place I've ever been," echoes Myron, adding that there was no shade where they were working and a tarp provided the only relief from the sun.

Their work days began around 6:30 a.m. and continued until about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Gatherings were held each night to feed the hungry lot.

"The house was framed up and the roof was beginning to be shin-gled when we left," says Myron, adding that volunteers from Louisiana continue to finish the new home.

'We came home but they kept going," smiles Myron, who said he called back to Louisiana just this past Saturday and learned that wiring had been completed and the siding was on.

WHILE IN Louisiana, the Nebraska residents were the focus of much publicity.

In addition to reporters from the Stromsburg newspaper and Channel 10 in Lincoln, who traveled to Louisiana, stories focusing on the Nebraskans appeared over Associated Press, on local Louisiana television stations and CNN.

We did this for the glory of the Lord and not for the publicity," points out Myron, although he admits that the publicity did serve as a catalyst in getting others involved

"A New Orleans film crew did a short spot on us," says Kaye, "and the next day, just as we were leaving, a pickup truck from Texas arrived and a man asked if we were the group from Stromsburg that he had seen on television.

"He was alone and told us that he had driven four hours, one way, and had to be back to work the next morning. In the meantime, he had a strong back and wanted to help."

"We met some wonderful Christian people," points out Myron, "and those people took time out from their jobs to help us."

"WE REALLY don't deserve the publicity," says Myron. "The good Lord put this together a lot better than we could."

In addition to the used lumber and $2,000 which the Prines received from the insurance company, Pastor Johnson was instrumental in helping to raise $7,000 from the Stromsburg community for the rebuilding effort.

The Prines also received $2,000 from Deborah's father, and an oil company in Louisiana donated $5,000. The wiring was also completed free of charge.

BOTH MYRON and Kaye agree that the entire trip was worth the effort because of the gratitude expressed by the Prines and others involved in the project.

"I felt the Lord wanted me to do something like this," says Kaye. "I knew, I just knew it was something I had to do."

Kaye drives school bus and is the mother of four children, ages four through 12. "I have four kids and a terrific husband," smiles Kave, adding that during her absence, husband Stan was a substitute bus driver, cook and launderer.

Myron, 69, says it was easier for him to get away because he is retired. "I decided this was something I could do for the glory of the Lord," smiles Myron.

"The Lord's blessed Myron with a good healthy body," adds his wife

"IT WAS too much fun to say it was work," smiles Kaye. "The blessings were overwhelming and the people were incredible."

Although the Nebraskans had brought along camping gear, Kaye said she was especially impressed with an offer by the Martinez family to have the entire group stay in their air conditioned home.

"Can you imagine," says Kaye, "they had 17 strangers in their home for three days."

Kaye also feels blessed to have been able to help Jane Brown, the woman who found Deborah and her children. "We got to go with Jane on Sunday to help deliver meals and clothing to families in need. Everyone was so grateful."

ew fire truck arrives

By LaVon Anderson News Editor

The Wayne Volunteer Fire Department is home to a new 1991 International rural fire truck.

The new pumper/tanker was accepted last Tuesday night during a special meeting of rural fire board members.

"We're replacing old equipment and improving our fire fighting capabilities," said Fire Chief Ken (Dutch) Sitzman, adding that the new truck replaces a 1968 model.

Sitzman said 20 years is the longevity record of fire apparatus in a Class 1 city, according to the insurance company, and rural fire board members started a sinking fund approximately 10 years ago in preparation for the truck replacement.

The fire chief added that the new pumper cost approximately $147,000 and was paid for entirely by residents of Rural Fire District

Following the sale of the 1968 truck, Sitzman said the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department will have four trucks owned by the rural fire district.

THE NEW four-wheel drive truck was equipped by Central States Fire Apparatus in Lyons, S.D. and carries 1,000 gallons of water, with a 1,000 gallon per minute pumper.

The old truck pumped 500 gallons of water per minute and carried 750 gallons.

All total," said Sitzman, "we can carry 3,200 gallons of water when we respond to a fire.

In addition, Sitzman said the new truck is the first model designed with a diesel engine on a cross mount pump and allows fire fighters to fight a fire and move at the same time - as sometimes the need when fighting a grass or hay

"That's something we couldn't do before," says Bill Kugler, a volunteer fireman for 45 years and member of the truck committee. "Before, we had to pull up to a spot, put the truck in gear, and

THE LATE Paul Rogge was instrumental in forming the rural fire district in 1950. The area covers 144 square miles, including approximately nine miles south of Wayne, six miles west, eight miles north and five miles east.

The Wayne Volunteer Fire Department belongs to two mutual aid districts - the Northeast Mutual Aid Association, including Thurston, Dixon, Dakota and part of Wayne County, and the Elkhorn Valley Association, which covers an area from Neligh to Wayne. "The advantage," said Sitzman,

"is that we know what each department has available and where to call in the event we need specialized equipment."

THERE ARE presently 40 volunteer members of the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department.

In addition to serving as fire chief, Sitzman is also a state fire instructor and conducts training throughout the state. He has served as a fire fighter for nearly 39 years and is a fourth generation volunteer fireman. His son, Jeff, is a fifth

RURAL AND city residents are invited to see the new truck and tour the Wayne Fire Department when volunteer fire fighters host an open house during Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 4-10.

The open house is scheduled Friday, Oct. 9 and will begin at 10 a.m. during the weekly Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce coffee.

Kick-off meeting at WSC

A grassroots effort to help northeast Nebraska and the state in general achieve the goals of the America 2000 project to improve education was launched Tuesday night in Wayne.

The kickoff meeting of the Northeast Nebraska Academy for Educational Leadership was held following a banquet at Wayne State College which featured words of encouragement from Gov. Ben

THE MEETING was attended by nearly 200 education and business leaders from throughout Northeast Nebraska.

"Education has to be the first in our list of priorities for the state," said Nelson, although he added the state must not ignore the funding obligation for other aspects of the state, such as a good economic base for business and jobs, a clean envi ronment and a safe society. He told the educators if the state does not address these other issues as well, all of Nebraska's well-educated students might move to Iowa or Cot-orado after graduation.

Nelson said everyone in the state, especially parents and the business sector of the state "must get involved" in making the six

"THE ACADEMY will create a regional community in Northeast Nebraska where education is alive and flourishing; where we are sharing our ideas and talents; where every school has access to the best methods for education; where every child has the opportunity to learn; where every community is proud of its educational accomplishments," said Harris.

He invited the entire population of Northeast Nebraska to share in the effort to achieve the America 2000 goals.

was to finance the scheduled construction work-with-short term bonding until the current budget problems are straightened out, within a couple of years.

Wayne State College President Dr. Donald Mash said he was pleased with the news, as were members of the state college Board of Trustees who were in Wayne for the education leadership meeting.

The governor further said proceeding with the scheduled building projects now will allow the state to take advantage of the current low interest rates and lower construction

The bond financing proposal, if approved by the legislature would allow other state construction projects to proceed on schedule as well, he said.

"It's a win, win situation," Nelson told the Herald.

THE WAYNE construction oject will be the only classroom building addition to the campus in 30 years and is crucial to help solve the overcrowding conditions brought on by four straight years of record enrollment growth, said Mash.

Nelson said he was pleased that a solution was found to keep the construction work on schedule because the building is important to the campus as well as the economic base of the entire region.

He explained that the major budget shortfall still remains and will be difficult to work through, but that it is heartening to see a solution for at least a small portion of the close to $200 million shortfall.

Public invited to try out Electronic Encyclopedia

Wavne Middle School library have each added the 1991 Grolier Electronic Encyclopedia on CD-Rom.

This means that through one compact disk on computer, the user has instant access to the same information as on all 21 paper volumes of the Academic American Encyclopedia.

The Electronic Encyclopedia's features include pictures, maps and sounds. It also allows note taking and printing of information.

LIBRARIAN Jolene Klein said anyone is welcome to try out the Electronic Encyclopedia at the public library. Klein said the newest multi-media encyclopedia joins the Compton's Encyclopedia on CD-Rom already in place at both libraries.

The Electronic Encyclopedia at West Elementary School in Wayne will be ready for use in the near fu-ture, and the Wayne-Carroll High School library is also preparing for upcoming CD-Rom technology.

HOURS AT the Wayne Public Library for persons wishing to use the Electronic Encyclopedia are 1 to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturdays, and 2 to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Solid waste statement deadline near

Some counties and municipalities are scurrying to meet an Oct. 1 deadline stating how they intend to handle and dispose of solid waste.

What we see right now is quite a bit of community dynamics tak-ing place," said Wayne Woldt, waste management specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln,

Oct. 1 is the deadline for communities and counties to file a statement of intent on how they intend to fulfill their responsibility for integrated solid waste manage ment. Statements must be filed with the Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ).

The statement of intent is part of the Integrated Solid Waste Management Act, LB 1257, passed by the Nebraska Legislature this past session. It, in turn, is based on federal environmental policy and regu-

Many communities are having to close their landfills because they can't meet new federal guidelines, Woldt said. Statements of intent should include an indication of the other communities and counties they intend to work with, and how, in managing their solid waste.

While the DEO will receive the statements, Woldt sees Cooperative Extension and UNL as important participants in delivering researchbased educational programs that help communities and counties develop their solid waste strategy.

Woldt is planning to meet with some extension agents to help develop an educational strategy for certain communities

The strategy, Woldt said, could cover the overall solid waste management picture: organizing a community coalition, obtaining funding, protection of natural resources, pollution prevention, composting, recycling, landfill design and siting, and the potential for economic growth.

The Oct. 1 deadline is just one in a series of overall federal and state deadlines incorporated into new regulations. Oct. 1, 1993 is the deadline for filing certification of capacity assurances for existing facilities. Oct. 9, 1993 is the deadline for communities and counties to either close or upgrade their landfills. Oct. 1, 1994 is the deadline for integrated solid waste management plans to be in place.

Some other states are ahead of ment, Woldt noted. For the past 20 years, the state operated under an exemption which allowed communities with populations under 5,000

Consequently, Woldt said, Nebraska may have more "catching up" to do than other states:

Plan preparation begun

Wayne County Commissioners have begun the process of preparing a plan for handling solid waste in the unincorporated areas of the county.

Facing new federally mandated guidelines requiring counties to specify how they will handle solid waste, the commissioners have assigned County Attorney Mike Pieper the task of studying the regulations and preparing a recommendation for action.

Counties must take responsibility for handling of garbage under the new rules. Previously, residents in unincorporated areas of the county were responsible for their own garbage individually. Ultimately, the county may have to provide a collection point or points and contract with a landfill company to accept garbage from the county,

Pieper reported to the commissioners at their Tuesday meeting. He said the new regulations pose several regulatory and logistical problems for the county. Among the most difficult issues will be how to enforce the requirement that residents bring refuse to collection points and that waste items be handled properly.

As an example, old refrigerators must have freon removed by an EPA licensed handler of the material before they may be disposed of. In addition, bulky items like appliances may have to be compacted before disposal.

Additionally, Pieper said the collection point may have to be manned and managed under the strict new guidelines of the Environmental Protection "Agency and the Nebraska Department of Environmental Control.

Bobby and Gretchen Brown At Wayne church

Public invited to revival campaign

Evangelist Bobby Brown and his wife, Gretchen, are coming to Wayne to conduct a revival campaign at the Independent Faith Baptist Church, located at 208 East

The church's pastor, Neil Heimes, said the campaign will run from Sunday, Sept. 20 through Friday, Sept. 25, with services starting each night at 7 p.m., and at 11 a.m. on Sunday.

THE BROWNS are graduates of Tennessee Temple University in Chattanooga.

Bobby has pastored for 12 of the 42 years he has been in the ministry. He organized the First Baptist Church of Alsip, just outside of Chicago, in 1966 and led the church in a building program and to support 41 missionaries before leaving to enter evangelism.

The evangelist has conducted services in over 1,700 churches and schools, speaking to thousands of teens annually.

Dollar General opening soon

By Les Mann Herald Publisher

Dollar General Stores is expanding rapidly into eastern Nebraska with announced plans to open 15 new stores in the state by Thanksgiving.

One of the first Nebraska stores for the large retail chain will be in Wayne. The store here will be open by the end of this month. Company crews were moving fixtures and inventory into their new Main Street Wayne location this week.

Nebraska represents a very exciting opportunity for Dollar General. We are a growth retailer and we believe Nebraska will be an ideal market for our small neighborhood stores. We intend to open an entire district of stores in this area as soon as possible," said Cal Turner Jr., corporation chairman and CEO.

Dollar General is a chain of more than 1,560 neighborhood stores operating in 23 states. Distribution centers are in Kentucky and Georgia and corporate headquar-

Forklift operators course at Northeast

Northeast Community College will sponsor a forklift operators course Tuesday, Sept. 29 in the Maclay Building, room 100B.

Maclay Building, room 100B.

Class time is 1-4 p.m., and the registration fee is $25.

this course will help experienced drivers sharpen their skills and help them become better and safer operators.

It will give less experienced operators a better understanding of the operation of industrial trucks, the problems often encountered, and information on how to minimize trouble for themselves and their company.

This course will not teach participants how to drive, but how to safely operate a forklift.

For more information, or registration procedures, contact Joe Ferguson, Northeast Community College, 644-0587, or 1-800-348-9033.

THANK YOU

A SPECIAL thank you to all who sent A SPECIAL thank you to all who sent cards and come to my open house for my 80th birthday. Also a thank you to my family. The Hartan Ruwe's, Gary Kay's, and Bill Swinney's, and my brother Hilbert and Verdeen for giving me the party. I really appreciate their thoughtfulness. Anna Swinney.

THE FAMILY of Elsie Ehlers would like to thank everyone for their acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and for their presence at her service. All of these eased the pain of the loss of a very special Mom, Grandmother and Great Grandmother. She will be truly missed but the memories will last forever. The Ehlers Family

IN MEMORY of Clarence Morris. The IN MEMORY of Clarence Morris. The love, kindness and sympathy of our dear relatives, neighbors and friends in our recent sorrow of our dear loved one will always remain with us as a precious memory. Thanks for all your many prayers; for the nice visits, for the many lovely cards, memorials, beautiful bouquets of flowers, the lovely plants and for all the food brought in. Thanks to the Carroll and Winside Rescue Units who responded so quickly, to the Drs. and responded so quickly, to the Drs. and Gary West and nurses at Providence Gary West and nurses at Providence Medical Center. Special thanks to Pastor Don Nunnally for his comforting words to Mary Claussen, the planist, Milton Owens, soloist for their lovely music. To the Schumacher Funeral Home for their love and caring ways. Many thanks to the ladies of the church who served dinner at the house. We are most greatful for these acts of kindness and to those who helped in any other way. May God bless all of you. Viola and Pat Morris. S18
