

Wayne plant adds 117 new employees

By Les Mann
Herald Publisher

A year ago Great Dane trailer plant in Wayne was cutting back. Orders were lagging and production was slashed to keep in line with weakening demand.

1990 and 1991 were not good years, admits Terry Hansen, plant manager. But he adds that 1992 is turning out pretty well indeed.

WHEN THE layoffs came, there were negative headlines about the down turn in the local economy, he said, but since then the trailer manufacturing—at least Great Dane's portion of it—has turned around.

In the last few months the largest employer in Wayne has gone about quietly adding some 117 new jobs and doubling production and still the orders are pouring in.

Right now the firm has back orders through February of 1993, is planning to add a new 8,400 square foot warehouse addition, and has increased production to nearly double what the factory has traditionally produced.

"Typically the plant produced about 40 trailers a week," said Hansen. He said on July 1 of this year the firm was turning out 60 per week. That jumped to 65 per week on Sept. 1 and plans are to add another five per week on Oct. 1. That rate of production will be near maximum under current plant design, said Hansen.

GREAT DANE is the largest trailer manufacturer in the nation and national trading analyst John Levin of Connecticut said its current growth trend is not being experienced by some of its competitors.

Hansen has a simple explanation for that. "Quality."

He said the Wayne plant workers and others within the corporation understand the importance of turning out a quality product to the customer. That is why Great Dane was recently cited as the overwhelming favorite trailer of truckers survey by a national trucking magazine, he said. Road King Magazine named the Great Dane refrigerated truck—which is manufactured in Wayne—the number one unit of its kind for the third straight year.

QUALITY AND design were cited as the strong suits.

Hansen said the poor economy in '90 and '91 forced some companies and independents to hold off reordering new equipment. Now they are being forced to replace the older stuff as the economy experiences a natural rebound. He added a couple of competitor plants have closed in the interim, which also improves the chances for the growth trend to continue for the Wayne operation at least through 1993.

Nurse of the Year 'Greatest asset' honored

By LaVon Anderson

Wayne Care Centre's director of nursing said she feels "very honored and very surprised" to be named 1992 Nurse of the Year for the Northeast District.

Carrol Baier received the award for her outstanding nursing services from the Nebraska Health Care Association during its annual convention on Sept. 18 in Omaha.

She was nominated for the honor by Pat Lichy, administrator at Wayne Care Centre, where Carrol has served as director of nursing for the past eight years.

"They told me that Pat was getting honored as Rookie of the Year," laughs Carrol, adding that while she was calling people to get them to the convention for Pat, others were running behind her and covering her tracks.

"Everybody knew what was going on the entire time — except me!"

IN NOMINATING Carrol for the honor, Lichy said she works 40-plus hours a week at Wayne Care Centre and also works three days a week at Pender Community Hospital to keep her acute care nursing skills honed.

"She is without a doubt the greatest asset the facility has," said Lichy, adding that Carrol is not one to take credit for all she does for the facility, staff and residents.

"In the eyes of the facility staff," said Lichy, "this award would mean a heartfelt 'thank you' for all Carrol does on a daily basis."

Lichy pointed out that the Northeast District from which Carrol received the award covers 22 counties.

CARROL has been employed as director of nursing at Wayne Care Centre since Feb. 13, 1984.

She and her husband, Dennis, are the parents of two sons, Trever and Todd.

Small towns still maintain good values

By Les Mann
Herald Publisher

Leaders in all walks of life would do well to return to the small town rural value system that is still maintained in places like Wayne, America according to Jim Savage, the senior vice-president and publisher for the Zig Zigar Corporation.

Savage, who will be in Wayne Oct. 6 for a public appearance and to meet with students and teachers in the community, discussed the small town value system and the importance of staying motivated during a phone interview with KTCH and the Wayne Herald.

Savage said he was excited to have the opportunity to come to Wayne and talk about how to stay motivated.

MANY PEOPLE go to motivational talks and get inspired. "But they find that inspiration is a

Hurricane deals blow to lumber

By LaVon Anderson
News Editor

Although the devastating winds of Hurricane Andrew did not reach the Midwest, the storm has brought about a big blast in the price of lumber — especially plywood and wafer board.

"Our plywood and wafer board prices have gone up about 75 percent," says Tim Koll, manager of Carhart Lumber in Wayne.

"It's the old supply and demand theory. That's what the lumber mills are telling the buyers."

Koll said prices jumped nearly 25 percent just hours after Hurricane Andrew struck southern Florida. "As soon as it hit, we felt the aftermath."

Since the initial peak, Koll said prices have tapered off and he foresees them going down within the next 30 to 45 days.

"We're telling our customers that if they don't need it right now, don't buy it."

ALTHOUGH the price of shingles has not risen, Koll said the time factor in receiving them has gone from one week to about three weeks.

He added, however, that lumber orders which took five to six weeks to receive immediately after the hurricane, are now arriving in two to three weeks. "Things are leveling off a little bit."

"Unfortunately," said Koll, "we have to pass along the temporary increase in lumber prices to our customers."

"But, when the prices go down and we have the high price material left, it'll come out of our pocket-book too."

BOB JOHN, executive vice president of the Mid-America Lumbermen Association, said accusations of price gouging have been a major concern of dealers.

"Our members have a reputation of good service and fair prices," said John. "Unfortunately, when the national market shoots up like this, local retailers are the ones who look like the bad guys since they are the ones at the end of the pipeline."

"Retailers in the Midwest have been doing everything they can to hold prices to a minimum."

John said the market should stabilize in the next few weeks and prices should start coming back down in the near future at the manufacturing, wholesale and retail levels.

Everyone wants school changes

By Les Mann
Herald Publisher

School improvement efforts which, if all implemented at once, would cost tens of millions of dollars, were discussed in Wayne Thursday night during an open house.

Members of the community, teachers, administrators and especially parents, were asked to attend the open house and offer suggestions and ideas about goals and changes for the system.

More than 250 accepted the invitation and participated in a lively discussion, a response which

Superintendent Dennis Jensen termed "just fantastic."

Most of the suggestions from the crowd that packed the lecture room at the High School centered around improvements in buildings and equipment and the addition of academic and counseling programs.

JENSEN SAID THE response the schools received and the obvious interest in the future of the schools from a broad base of the community, indicates that more meetings and public discussion will be called in the future.

"I didn't expect this," said Jensen as he scanned the list of discussion topics which were brought up at the meeting. "I personally am really scared about what is happening to education-in-America, and I think this indicates that there are many other in our community who are also scared."

Concern about improvement or possible replacement of the Middle School building, busing issues, adding more course offerings and additional emphasis on academic excellence were all items added to the list by members of the public Thursday.

Jensen said he had originally called the meeting hoping to develop a core committee of community members to help write a mission statement for the district.

HE ASKED FOR five volunteers from the meeting who would be willing to meet with the faculty/administration/school board members to write the statement of purpose for the district.

What he got before the public left Thursday were 13 volunteers and about that many more who withdrew their names when they found out he had more committee members than they needed.

lot like perspiration, in that it will evaporate if they don't find some specific ways to maintain that motivational edge."

Savage said he will provide some specific guides to help people in all walks of life stay motivated to do the very best they can at everything they undertake.

"We are going to give them some specific detailed information that they can put into practice in the real world, not a lot of hype," said Savage of his planned talks in Wayne. He said there will be some fun involved in the presentations as well.

A former professional football coach and teacher, Savage has been a motivational speaker for over 11 years.

HE SAID one of the specific guides to motivation is to be a reader.

"You know the person who won't read is no better off than the person who can't read," he told his Wayne interviewers. "If we would spend only 15 minutes a day in evaluating materials and in reading specific materials we could read over 100 books in a year's time." Making the best use of time can help in the us get more accomplished and reading is an excellent use of time, he said.

"Unfortunately many people in our society are de incentivized or encouraged not to do as well as they can." Societal pressures and distractions lead us away from our own personal goals to achieve, he said. The goal of his talk will be to provide individual encouragement and self-motivation over the long haul.

"We want to help people so that they can achieve what they need to and want to achieve and work together as a team to do all they are capable of doing. When we work together to accomplish there is no limit to what we can get done."

SAVAGE SAID he was excited about the opportunity come to small town Nebraska and get re-inspired.

"The real heart of our country is in the small communities. These are communities that have maintained a certain value that are not necessarily spread to the major cities." He said cities like Wayne have maintained values that should be emulated by the rest of the country.

Tickets for the Savage talk are available for $10 in Wayne at the Chamber office, State National Bank, First National Bank, Farmers and Merchant's State Bank, Pac 'N' Save and M&H Apco.

"Last year in fact was one of the worst years ever, and our industry as a whole is still recovering," he said. The expansion to two full shifts plus a handful of workers on a third shift, not only has resulted in 117 new jobs, but has provided the opportunity for advancement for much of the Wayne work force, Hansen said.

"This is the aspect of improved business that really pleases us the most. We have an excellent work force that has always taken great pride in their craftsmanship," he added.

CURRENTLY THE plant is employing 373 and Hansen said the support of the employees and the community in general is reflected in the company's current growth. "This proves everybody's in it together," he said.

Construction should be complete on the new warehouse facility by the end of November, he said.

Family tradition remains intact; Cramer publishes

The Auburn, Nebraska Newspapers will have a new publisher. Mark Cramer, son of Al and Diana Cramer of Wayne, has purchased the interests of his father and John Sanders of Auburn.

Cramer will start his duties immediately, and Sanders will stay with the papers during a transitional period. Cramer comes to Auburn from Estes Park, Colo. where he worked for three and a half years as advertising representative for the Trail-Gazette newspapers.

Cramer's wife, Tess, owns and operates a beauty salon in Estes Park and will move to Auburn at the end of October. The couple have been married five years.

Before moving to Estes Park, the couple lived in Lincoln for a year and a half while Cramer attended the University of Nebraska. At UNL he earned a bachelor's degree in journalism and advertising in 1988. Cramer also holds a degree in music and English from St. Olaf's College in Northfield Minn.

Cramer, 35, was born in Wayne where his parents still reside. He is a 1975 graduate of Wayne-Carroll High School.

He will be a third-generation newspaper publisher. His grandfather, the late Mark E. Cramer and his father, Al, both published the Wayne Herald until 1987 when they sold it.

Al Cramer is still involved with newspapers in Nebraska, Colorado and California. "We are excited about our move to Auburn," Mark said in a story printed in the Nemaha County Herald. "We can't wait to get out and meet the people of our fine community."

Conway gets post on board

State Sen. Jerry Conway, Wayne, recently was elected to a seat on the Executive Board of the National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL).

In that capacity, Conway will represent 12 midwestern states including Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota. The executive board is the governing body of NCSL which is an organization that serves the legislators of all 50 states and territories.

NCSL provides research, technical assistance and the opportunity for policymakers to change ideas on the most pressing issues facing the states. The organization is also an effective and respected representative for the interests of state governments before Congress and federal agencies.

"I view this as a real opportunity for Nebraska as well as our neighbors across the river to help set the agenda," Conway commented. "We in Siouland have learned that positive cooperation on issues that we commonly face, whether it be crime, economic development or the environment, is more effective and less costly."

Sen. Conway has represented the 17th Legislative District in Northeast Nebraska for the past eight years.

teachers, school board and administration does, should eventually point directly to the goals and objectives contained in the new mission statement.

He said it may take several weeks to prepare the statement for Wayne.

He said the new statement may reflect some of the goals of the America 2000 program or it may provide more stringent goals.

FOR INSTANCE, under the America 2000 program the goal calls for 90 percent graduation rate for high school students. Wayne is currently graduating better than 97 percent of the students who enter high school.

Our purpose should be to write a plan and goals that will best serve our young people, said Jensen. He said simply adopting the America 2000 goals for Wayne students might not be challenging enough.

Wayne students currently compare very favorably with national averages on academic testing. Currently, high school students here score better than 67 percent of the other students in the nation.

"THERE ARE definitely still areas of improvement needed," he added. One suggestion from the teachers was to change to an 8 period day to provide more classroom time in academic core curriculum.

That suggestion was included on a list of comments received from a survey of graduates of the high school as well, said Jensen.

Other suggestions included

- * adding programs for academically talented students.

- * implementing AIDS education for all grades k-12.

- * providing year-round school and/or summer enhancement programs.

- * implementing integrated education programs with students at all levels working in the community to experience the practical side of what they have learned.

- * implementing a breakfast program at the schools.

- * adding courses in sign language, elementary and middle school foreign languages, computer hardware repair and college level classes especially at night.

The addition of elementary counselors, a school nurse and teachers' aides to work especially with talented and gifted students was also suggested.

WAYNE SCHOOL Board President Sid Hillier said he was surprised and pleased by the excellent turnout. "I had expected about 25 people," he laughed.

Other school board members said it is heart-warming to see the level of importance members of the community place on education.

Jensen said the future of education in Wayne is in the capable hands of a concerned public here.

"We need to write the vision statement that will set the direction of (Wayne's) sail into the 21st Century," said Jensen.

Blue Devils defeat Norfolk High

WAYNE'S LIZ REEG digs a spike attempt from Norfolk High during Wayne's straight games victory, Tuesday.

Wayne hosted Class A Norfolk in volleyball action Tuesday night and the Blue Devils made short work of the Panthers in straight games, 15-11, 15-13. Wayne improved to 6-2 with the win.

"Anytime you defeat a Class A team it's good for your program," Wayne coach Marlene Uhing said. "We've been putting our key emphasis all season on serving and passing the ball but against Norfolk we felt our emphasis should be on defense and it was our best defensive game of the year."

Wayne ended the match with 17 blocks and over 20 digs as they made things difficult for the visitors from the west. Liz Reeg led the Blue Devils with nine points and two serve aces while Kristine Swanson had seven points and four aces. Danielle Nelson also finished with seven points.

Nelson was Wayne's leading server with 23 assists and Reeg led a very balanced hitting attack with six kill spikes. Erin Pick, Swanson and Jenny Thompson each finished with five ace spikes.

Pick had seven blocks to pace Wayne while Reeg had four. Thompson dug up eight Norfolk spike attempts. "Jenny was like a vacuum cleaner out there," Uhing said. "She scooped up everything Norfolk dished at her."

Wayne found themselves up 12-2 in the second game but could not close out the Panthers for quite some time. "I think what happened in that situation was that we began pressing to get the match over with," Uhing said. "We didn't let up but Norfolk began playing better and we were just putting more pressure on ourselves."

Wayne's "B" team lost 7-15, 7-15 and the "C" team won, 10-15, 18-16, 15-12. Mandi Higbee led the "C" team with 10 points while Corinne Langenfeld, led the "B" team with three points.

Wayne will travel to compete in the Wisner Invitational on Saturday. The Blue Devils face Pierce at 10:15 a.m. with the winner playing again at 12:45 with the loser playing at 11:30 a.m. The championship match is scheduled for 3:15 p.m. with the third place match being played at 2 p.m.

Wisner-Pilger and Madison are the other teams comprising the four-team tournament field.

Incidentally, in last weekend's North Bend Invitational, three Wayne girls made the all-tournament team. Liz Reeg, Erin Pick and Danielle Nelson were recognized for their play in Wayne's runner-up finish to Columbus Scotus.

"We really didn't play all that well," Kuester said. "We played well enough to win but we didn't serve and receive serve very consistently. We did have good net play and good hitting which carried us."

SCHOOL BOARD

The Wakefield School Board met Sept. 14. The board was informed that Winnebago has been accepted into the Lewis and Clark Conference effective for the 1993-94 school year. Winnebago will be associated with the Lewis Division and Newcastle will move into the Clark Division, which is where Wakefield competes.

Supt. Derwin Hartman reported to the board that an ala-carte lunch program has been initiated for students in grades 4-12.

Hartman also told the board that valuation figures show that School District 60R value has increased from $76.5 million to $81.75 million. The total tax levy, according to Hartman, has increased from $1.23 per hundred dollars valuation to $1.27.

Principal Joe Coble reported to the board on the Junior-Senior Prom, the gifts program, and the future of W-Club.

The school district received a new diesel bus on Aug. 20 and Mr. Hartman said it is being used for school activity trips. The board discussed the possibility of purchasing a good used pickup.

Sandy Otte, chair-person of the transportation committee; Mike Benson, transportation director, and Hartman were asked to pursue the possibility.

Superintendents for 20 area schools will be visiting several schools in Minnesota on Oct. 5-6, according to Hartman, to observe what is new in education.

Kris Herrmann, Wayne State College student, was a visitor at the meeting as a requirement for one of her college classes. During the meeting the board approved Herrmann as a volleyball coach's aide.

As the last item of business, the board discussed teacher negotiations which have not been completed for the current year.

CARE CENTER MEETING

Over 60 persons listened to the various reports on the Wakefield Health Care Center during the annual meeting on Sept. 10. Betty Schwarten, Brad Schwarten and Eldon Nixon were elected to fill the expiring terms of Robert Mavis, Lori Utecht and Butch Utemark.

The auditor's report stated that the center operated at 99.2 percent capacity for the year ending June 30, 1992. It also showed that revenue received from daily services and other operating revenues surpassed the one million mark with a total received of $1,045,438.

The report stated that while revenues increased by 15 percent, expenses increased by approximately 16 percent. Total operating expenses for the year were $1,047,354. The audience was also told that cost to patients at Wakefield is one of the lowest in the area.

Administrator Lauren Weisser reported on the improvements at WHCC, which included refurbishing the west lobby and modernizing the kitchen facilities. She also discussed some of the goals and aims of the staff in caring for the residents.

A TOUCH OF BRASS CONCERT

Tues., October 6

8:00 p.m.

Ley Theatre, WSC

A representative of Excel Management Corporation, the organization which manages WHCC, discussed the proposed Providers Tax which he said the Nebraska Legislature would most likely be considering next year.

Also discussed was the possibilities of forming a hospital tax district for Wakefield. Wakefield City Attorney Lee Miner discussed requirements for such a district and the audience was given the opportunity to ask questions on the matter.

The City of Wakefield owns the Care Center and former hospital property. Currently the City is subsidizing the operation of the Wakefield Medical Clinic located in the former hospital building. Officials have been exploring the possibility of converting the used portion of the hospital building into independent living apartment. City administrator Lowell Johnson said that Wakefield was just a few points shy of receiving a grant to make this project a realization. He continued saying the City plans to re-apply for a grant this year.

General consensus of those present was that they were in favor of a hospital district and that officials should continue to explore the possibilities.

Living a life without knowing Jesus is like being lost in the woods. Or wandering in the desert.
It's a hard life; that's all there is to it.
With Jesus there's more to life. And with him, there is a cascade of living water.

"Some wandered in the trackless desert and could not find their way."
