

Businesses say holiday season rings registers

By LaVon Anderson
News Editor

Wayne business leaders appear to be pleased with the amount of money being spent locally this holiday season.

"I would say that sales have been strong and I've seen people shopping earlier this year," said Will Davis, chairman of the retail committee of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce.

"There are a lot of two income families out there and they just don't have the time to sit and wait until the last minute like everyone used to do.

"There are also a lot of single parent families and that has to be especially difficult," added Davis. "Not only from a cash standpoint, but from a time standpoint as well."

DAVIS, WHO also owns Sav-Mor Pharmacy in Wayne, said he is hopeful that this year's Santa Cash promotion was a "shot in the arm" for local retailers.

"I really didn't expect a big response for a business such as ours," said Davis, "but I'm hoping that the promotion infused some business for those places that specialize in major purchases such as appliances and so forth."

Davis pointed out that he has traveled across the state and is unaware of any other Nebraska community that is offering zero percent loans during the Christmas season.

"I know of some banks that are offering six percent money, but I don't know of anywhere else where shoppers can borrow money at zero percent interest."

CURT Wilwerding, executive director of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce, said he feels there was some confusion involved in this first year of the Santa Cash promotion, during which Christmas shoppers could borrow up to $1,500 from any of Wayne's three banks with zero percent financing for 120 days.

"We'll evaluate what we did right and wrong this year," said Wilwerding, "and we'll try to make it a little bit better next year."

Despite the possible confusion regarding Santa Cash, Wilwerding said he has heard nothing but positive comments from Wayne business owners this holiday season.

"They feel sales are up from last year. I haven't talked to anybody whose been disappointed."

THE Chamber executive added that the country was in a recession last year and is now just beginning to come out of it. "The Midwest didn't suffer as much as the east and west coasts," pointed out Wilwerding, "so we may not see as big an

Schools getting together

By Les Mann
Herald Publisher

More than 20 education leaders from five different school districts have reached tentative agreement on the affiliation question for School District 57.

Following a meeting in Wayne Wednesday between representatives of the rural school district and representatives from Pender, Wisner, Wayne and Winside it is expected each district board will agree to the affiliation at January meetings. The affiliation deadline is Feb. 1, set by the state.

THE MOVE will likely mean that most tax levies for taxpayers in the rural districts will be going up. School tax levy for the portion of District 57 that will be affiliated with Wayne schools would move to $1.18 per $100 of valuation if their land were a part of the district this year.

Currently taxpayers in District 57 are assessed just over 19 cents per $100 of valuation for the operation of the 27-student school and 42.5 cents to pay for sending district students to neighboring high schools.

The 42.5 cent levy will be eliminated under the affiliation plan with rural taxpayers and city school taxpayers pooling the expenses of the high school and sharing valuation totals, then all being assessed an equal amount for funding the high school.

Under the plan, the District 57 K-8 school south of Wayne will remain open but after students move on to high school, some will go to Wayne and others will go to neighboring high schools depending on their location within the district.

RURAL PROPERTY owners will not be charged for sinking funds and depreciation in the city districts.

If Wayne were to build a new Middle School, rural district taxpayers would not have to share in that cost, but high school construction would be shared. Under the new arrangements, rural voters would also have a voting voice in bond issue decisions affecting High Schools they are affiliated with.

Wayne Superintendent Dr. Dennis Jensen said he was pleased with the results of the Wednesday meeting and an earlier meeting this week to discuss the affiliation question for District 15 and 51.

"There are some delicate issues," he added, but he said everyone associated with the questions is willing to work together to reach agreement.

Districts who have not filed affiliation petitions by Feb. 1 will have theirs filed by the county superintendent.

WHS not WCHS

What is the Wayne School district called?

Some have questioned that since the district merged with Carroll Schools, the official name should be Wayne-Carroll School district.

There are no records of any official name change from Wayne Community Schools to Wayne-Carroll, said Dr. Dennis Jensen. He said the district is recorded with the state as Wayne Public School District.

If there had been an official name change at the time of the merger with Carroll schools, the high school should have also changed its name to Wayne Carroll High School.

"But our basketball jerseys still say WHS not WCHS," Jensen said.

He said the issue came up because a woman from Grand Island had complained that the newspaper was referring to schools here as Wayne Community Schools when she thought it should be Wayne-Carroll Schools.

Warm wishes exchanged

First graders of West Elementary School in Wayne warmed the hearts of Wayne Care Centre residents when they presented a program of Christmas carols on Thursday afternoon. First grader Gayle Cook and Wayne Care Centre resident LaVerne Tietgen find a private moment of their own to exchange holiday blessings.

Apartment grant extension sought

Wayne City Council authorized the mayor to seek a request for an extension on a $149,000 federal grant to upgrade and rehabilitate the old hotel at the corner of Second and Pearl.

Originally granted in 1991, the funds were to have been used to help create new apartments in the historic structure. However, the building, which had housed Geno's Steakhouse, burned in the fall of 1991.

Owner Gene Clausen has since attempted to put together a project to utilize the grant funds to rehabilitate the burned building but has been unable to get the project put together.

The grant is set to expire Jan. 11 unless the city obtains its requested 6-month extension.

An extension would allow the city to continue to work with Clausen to get the project completed or to possibly direct the funds to a different project, said City Manager Joe Salitros.

"The money was earmarked for that site, but the Department of Economic Development in Lincoln has indicated there may be a possibility of using it for another project," said Salitros.

New readers welcome!

More than 1,000 area residents have responded to a circulation campaign being conducted by the Wayne Herald. The response has been so great, the staff has been unable to get all the new subscribers on the computer system, reports Publisher Les Mann.

"We're working hard to get all the changes made on the circulation list," he said. "If your new subscription hasn't started yet, it will be in time for the special Christmas Greetings issue."

The special subscription offer runs through this weekend, said Mann, who added he was pleased with the increase in circulation represented by the campaign.

Citing the numerous changes the newspaper has undergone in the last year, he said he is pleased the public is responding by joining the growing ranks of Wayne Herald readers.

The newspaper staff implemented changes after a Nebraska Business Development Survey conducted through Wayne State College indicated things local people wanted in their newspaper.

As part of the circulation campaign, the newspaper will be holding a drawing for free groceries from all those who entered the sweepstakes. The drawing will be held Monday, Dec. 21.

Live from Little Rock

Area man participates in summit

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) -- It seems everyone has an idea about how President-elect Bill Clinton should try to restructure the nation's tax package, including several Nebraskans who say some moves could backfire.

The co-founder of the Walthill Center for Rural Affairs was trying to get through to Clinton in Little Rock, Ark., Tuesday with a message of caution about using investment tax credits to boost the economy.

Speaking by telephone from the Arkansas capitol, Marty Strange told The Lincoln Star that broad-scale use of such credits can damage agriculture. Strange was the lone Nebraskan invited to Clinton's two-day economic conference.

Unless credits are carefully targeted to specific situations and industries, "they encourage investments that are not needed," Strange said. "Agriculture is a chronic surplus industry, and investment tax credits only drive prices lower and drive farmers out of business."

Strange was among about 330 people invited to Clinton's roundtable discussion. He said the invitation

"came as a surprise to me. I don't think it had anything to do with me being a Nebraskan. I think it has to do with the fact the center is well known for having an independent view of the problems associated with rural economies."

The Center for Rural Affairs has preserved its independence from the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation, the state's largest organization of farmers and ranchers. But state president Bryce Neidig said from a Chicago meeting Tuesday that "a caution flag" should be flying over the tax credit issue because of its history. Neidig said too many farmers "fell into that area of the new-paint syndrome, buying new equipment. The investment tax credit made it very attractive to do that."

The credits also have contributed to "a tremendous expansion" in the swine industry that pressured prices, Neidig said. A tax incentive may have looked good to producers at the time, "but ultimately that turned out to have a long tail."

Farmers say income, sales taxes are fairest

BEATRICE, Neb. (AP) -- Until Nebraska adopts a tax system based on income and sales taxes, farmers will be at a disadvantage, Beatrice-area farmers told state Sen. Dennis Byars and others on a panel of rural representatives Saturday.

The panel hopes to make recommendations to Gov. Ben Nelson before the Legislature convenes next month.

Steinhauer farmer Dennis Schuster said those recommendations need to include some relief for rural property tax. He said he attended one of the meetings of Nelson's "3-R Committee," a group of state senators attempting to come up with a tax plan for Nebraska.

"What I was hearing ... was that 85 to 90 percent of the people wanted some form of sales and income tax to relieve the property tax, and that's a consensus," Schuster said.

He said Nelson's subsequent tax plan "didn't address ... what the people of the state wanted and I think this is what's got to be stressed to him when this panel meets with him. This is not what the people wanted."

Byars said he supports a system based on sales and income taxes that would exempt all personal property from taxation. But he said Nelson would not support income and sales tax increases "because he knows where the votes are."

Byars said expanding the sales tax base to include things like services and food might stand a better chance of approval than simply raising sales and income taxes.

Byars also said it was probably a mistake on his part to support the compromise plan that placed farm personal property back on the tax rolls. He said he based his support on Revenue Department projections that have not proved accurate.

increase in sales as the rest of the country.

"Our valleys weren't as low as across the rest of the nation, so although sales are good, we won't experience the same peaks as those areas hardest hit by the recession."

Wilwerding said Wayne businesses started early in 1992 promoting the advantages of hometown shopping.

"I guess we'll have to wait until the end of the year to see if there was a marked increase over retail sales from last year. That's about the only way we can judge.

"I hope we'll discover that more money was spent in town."

"OVERALL, we've been doing great this Christmas season," said Randy Pedersen, owner of The Diamond Center.

"The economy is doing pretty well even though all of the crops aren't out. I think market prices have been good and the employment is good in the area.

"We've got a lot of people working because of local industries and I think that helps considerably."

Pedersen added that he especially pleased with the idea of Santa Cash.

"I think it's a heck of a promotion. It's a good way to promote the community and it provides a good incentive for people to shop at home."

"WE MUST be optimistic," said Davis, "and the Wayne business community must continue to do some very progressive and aggressive things to position itself for the future. We have to take risks."

"Some days I'm frustrated, but most days I'm hopeful."

"We have a lot of things going for ourselves in Wayne. We need to capitalize on them and run with it."

Summit

Strange wrote an open letter to Clinton a few weeks ago advising him to develop a rural-economic strategy and to recognize that the federal farm program has a big influence on it. The conference dialogue touched lightly on rural economic circumstances, he said.

He termed the recent appointment of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., to head the Treasury Department "not encouraging, in that respect," because Bentsen has favored broad-scale use of tax credits and related policies in the past.

Despite that, Strange said he was impressed by his host.

"Clinton has really demonstrated an amazing versatility, an amazing grasp of not only a wide range of facts, but also just a wide range of economic theories," Strange said.

Eagles down rated Newcastle; boys fall to 0-4

Allen girls win streak at five

The Allen girls and boys basketball teams spent Thursday in the friendly confines of the Eagles gym with the girls hosting a rated Newcastle team while the boys played Hartington in a make-up game from Tuesday.

The Lady Eagles notched another major victory with a 61-55 decision over the Lady Red Raiders as Gary Erwin and Lori Koester's squad won their fifth straight game after dropping the season opener. Jeff Schoning's boys, however, slipped to 0-4 with a 67-61 setback to the Wildcats.

In the girls contest Allen held a 14-9 lead before a 20-8 second quarter run gave them a comfortable 17-point halftime lead at 34-17. Newcastle kept chipping away at the lead but still trailed by 11 after three quarters at 49-38 and the Red Raiders eventually trimmed the lead to three in the fourth quarter before Allen regained the momentum.

The game was marred by 59 fouls and the two teams combined to shoot 68 free throws. There was also a combined total of 61 turnovers in a somewhat sloppy game but the Eagles played an aggressive style of basketball according to Koester and they often get whistled for aggressive fouls.

"Playing aggressive basketball on defense and offense is our game," Koester said. "We don't like getting whistled for all those fouls but when it does we feel comfortable in knowing that we can go nine-deep on our bench and not drop off in talent."

Heather Sachau led Allen with 23 points while Christy Philbrick scored 11. Holly Blair netted six points in her first varsity start and she played exceptional defense and was 3-3 from the field according to Koester.

Marcia Hanson scored six points and Sonya Plueger added three while Steph Martinson, Steph Chase and Jaime Mitchell netted two each. Allen was out-rebounded by a 44-33 margin despite the fact that Sachau and Sonya Plueger had 10 caroms each.

Allen suffered 29 turnovers but forced Newcastle into 32. The Eagles were whistled for 34 fouls to the Red Raiders 25. Allen was 16-28 from the foul line and Newcastle was 21-40. Allen will travel to play Homer on Tuesday before the Christmas break.

Boys remain winless

The Allen boys got valiant scoring efforts from Casey Schroeder and Tim Fertig as each poured in 18 points but it wasn't enough as Hartington used a 17-10 advantage in the third quarter to its advantage.

Hartington led Allen 17-16 after the first quarter and 36-34 at the intermission before heading into the fourth period with a nine point lead at 53-44.

"It was a close ball game," Schoning said. "We always seem to have a bad quarter and this one came in the third. In the fourth quarter we were forced to start fouling down the stretch and Hartington connected on 11 of 15 free throws."

Curtis Oswald was also in double figures with 13 points while Lane Anderson chipped in five and Jay Jackson, four. Davis Miner and Jeff Geiger rounded out the attack with two and one points respectively.

Both teams grabbed 39 rebounds as Anderson hauled down 11 for Allen while Oswald had eight and Jackson, seven. Allen was 13-22 from the foul line and Hartington was 16-30. Allen will host Newcastle on Friday night and travel to play Homer on Tuesday.

ALLEN SENIOR Sonya Plueger shoots over a pair of Newcastle defenders in action at Allen on Thursday night. The Eagles defeated the Red Raiders by two points and have won five straight games.

CURTIS OSWALD lays this shot off the glass for two of his 13 points during Allen's game with Hartington on Thursday in Allen. The Eagles fell to 0-4 with a 67-61 setback.

Wayne girls rely on defense in 43-29 win

Marlene Uhing's Wayne girls basketball team improved to 2-1 with a 43-29 victory over West Point in West Point, Thursday.

Wayne never trailed in the game and the defense held the Lady Cadets to single digits in all four quarters. The Blue Devils led 12-6 after the first quarter and 22-13 at the intermission.

Wayne led by 11 after the third period, 33-22 and out-scored the host team, 10-7 in the final eight minutes. "It was kind of an ugly game," Uhing said. "We had 12 of our 18 turnovers in the first half and we were being whistled for over-the-back calls on rebounds."

Uhing said West Point made a run at the Blue Devils in the fourth quarter and had the lead cut to six before Wayne scored a lay-up on an out-of-bounds play and added another lay-up on a steal to push the lead back to double figures.

"I felt our team did a nice job on the boards," Uhing said. "We had 37 for the game but we held West Point to 15. Before the game we talked about rebounding as a key to the game because West Point is a fundamentally sound team."

Erin Pick was the catalyst on the boards for Wayne with 12 caroms. She also led the team in scoring with 14 points while Liz Reeg poured in 12. Danielle Nelson tallied nine while Susie Ensz, Angie Thompson, Jenny Thompson and Jenny Thomsen scored two apiece.

Wayne had 18 turnovers and the host team had 17. The Blue Devils were 5-10 from the foul line while West Point was 6-8. "I thought Angie Thompson and Erin Pick had good all-around games," Uhing said.

Wayne's reserve team also won, 27-25 as Carrie Fink paced the winners with 10 points while Audra Sievers pulled down 14 rebounds. After traveling to play Wisner-Pilger on Friday the Lady Blue Devils will host Crofton on Tuesday.

CHRISTY PHILBRICK converts this lay-up after one of her nine steals against Newcastle. Philbrick and teammates combined to force 32 turnovers.

Strong second half nets Wayne big win

Wayne improved to 3-0 on the basketball season after defeating Schuyler, 62-42 in Schuyler, Tuesday. The 10th ranked Blue Devils were knotted with Schuyler at 14 after the first quarter and they trailed, 30-26 at the intermission, but Bob Uhing's crew turned up the defensive intensity in the second half and Wayne out-scored the host team, 36-12 over the final 16 minutes.

Wayne tallied 27 points in the first 10 minutes of the second half while holding Schuyler to five. "We just started playing a lot harder in the second half," Uhing said. "I've been disappointed after each one of our games so far that we've only managed to play one good half in each game."

Uhing said his team's mental intensity seems to be effective for just two quarters and that they will need a lot better effort if they wish to continue a successful season.

"I still believe the key to our team is going to be how much we improve from week-to-week," Uhing said. "We have to be able to recognize the areas in which we need to work hard on. We need to work on what it takes for mental endurance for more than a half."

Whatever it was Wayne did in the second half proved to be lethal for the home team Warriors as they managed just five field goals in the second half. "We did a real nice job of playing man-to-man defense and we really moved well on offense with out the ball in the second half," Uhing said. "That provided us with some back-door lay-ups and other easy shot attempts."

Brad Uhing led Wayne with 18 points including a stretch in the third quarter where he scored eight consecutive points. Bobby Barnes poured in 13 points and Matt Blomenkamp added 12 while Regg Carnes was in double figures with 10.

Robert Bell tallied four points and Ryan Pick added three while Jack Swinney rounded out the attack with two. Wayne dominated the boards, 40-25 as Uhing and Carnes led the way with seven caroms each.

Wayne had just 13 turnovers and Schuyler finished with 16. Wayne's Achilles heel proved to be at the charity stripe where they connected on just six of 18 free throw attempts while Schuyler was 6-10.

Wayne's reserve team lost a 51-39 decision to the Warriors in a contest preceding the varsity. Wayne will host O'Neill on Saturday in the final game before the Christmas break.

Schluns to spend holidays in London

Wayne junior Tami Schluns will be spending her Christmas break a little differently than anyone else in her class—with a cross country running expedition in London, England.

Schluns leaves for London on the 26th of December and will spend a week with the World Sports Exchange. The World Sports Exchange is coaches from all participating countries getting together to teach and share knowledge with athletes from all over the world.

Schluns will be one of 80 cross country participants from the United States and one of two female runners from the state of Nebraska making the trip. The other is from St. Paul.

While in London, Schluns will compete in two cross country races—one on hard surface and an old fashioned cross country race where runners rate on true British surfaces which include running through trees and brush.

Schluns will fly out of Omaha with Jack Hazen, the 1992 national collegiate cross country champion. She will make stops in St. Louis and Boston before flying on to London.

Tami Schluns

Like with any trip of this nature, costs can be steep and Schluns is out seeking sponsors in the Wayne community to help pay for the trip. She will be representing Wayne County and the United States in a foreign country.

Schluns said she's gotten great response from the business people she's dealt with so far and she's expressed her gratitude for those who have already sponsored her. She also hopes for continued success in finding other sponsors.

In the girls game the Wildcats could manage just 12 points after three quarters of play before scoring 20 in the final eight minutes. "Nobody was stepping up and taking the open shot," Schroeder said. "We were 12-57 from the field because we kept trying to force the ball inside where we were faced with double-teaming."

I believe in St. Nicholas

By Pastor Jeff Anderson
Grace Lutheran Church

It was once said, "Your religion is what you do when the sermon is over." That is a very true statement. It can be seen in various ways, as well in many people.

I remember walking out of church one day feeling filled with love and joy, only to have some person run into my car when I was leaving the parking lot. I'm afraid my initial reaction was not thoughts of love and peace.

These things happen to people everyday. There are little things that cause us to want to react in a hurtful manner — such as speaking hurtful words or engaging in acts of anger, jealousy or frustration. These reactions cause divisions, pain and suffering.

BUT THERE are some people who do not react to the bad things in life with bitterness, but with kindness. They are kind and comforting people. There are people with kindness.

Nicholas was one of those people. Nicholas and his parents lived in what is today Turkey during the third century. From the time Nicholas was born in about A.D. 280, they considered him a gift of God.

They taught their young son diligently to be devoted to God and to be very generous to the poor. Although Nicholas' parents both died when Nicholas was in his teens, their heritage of living for a giving God and giving to others followed Nicholas throughout his days.

Many accounts have been written about the life of Nicholas. It was said that he would spend all night studying God's Word to bring it to the people. He was known for helping the poor and standing steadfast in faith and in goodness in all his days.

ONE particular story of St. Nicholas' goodness is about three bags of gold he gave to a poor man so his three daughters could be married.

The man was so poor that his daughters had no dowries, and the man was so desperate that he was planning to sell his daughters into what we would call slavery.

To keep that from happening Nicholas threw a bag of gold pieces into the man's window in the night so no one would know who had done it. Nicholas wanted God to get the glory.

Because of this act, the eldest daughter had a dowry and could get married. She was no longer an out-cast.

Not long after that, Nicholas did the same thing for the second and the third daughters. Once again so this man would not have to sell his own daughters.

When Nicholas did it for the third daughter the father caught Nicholas. Nicholas requested that this story remain a secret as long as Nicholas lived.

THERE ARE many St. Nicholases today. Many will never be known by us. That is not important to them.

For they do these things not out of the desire to be recognized, but out of a desire to model themselves after a far more precious Gift-Giver. They model themselves after the Gift of Christ in Christmas.

The Gift-Giving Christ did not give silver and gold at Christmas, but hope, joy and peace. He did not give a dowry, but something much more grand — a return to Eden.

He did not buy it with money, but with His life.

I BELIEVE in St. Nicholas, as well as the many other unnamed Nicholases; not because of the presents under the tree.

Rather, I believe in the St. Nicholases because I have received their God's presents of salvation, forgiveness and an undying hope that comes with Christ in Christmas.

They are very real and very evident in everyone who has received the Christ in Christmas.
