Monitored prisoners stay home

By Merlin Wright
Herald Staff Writer

Wearing an electronic ankle "bracelet" is permitting hundreds of Nebraska's convicted felons and misdemeanants, also juveniles, to live outside prison walls. The device is easing a crowded prison population while saving the state money, according to Richard Brown, chief probation officer, who lives in Wayne.

The supervisory program functions with the aid of computers and is known as the Intensive Supervision Program, or ISP. Its use is gaining rapid popularity with states such as Nebraska having problems with overcrowded prisons.

ISP requires a probationer to wear the ankle transmitter 24-hours a day. The bracelet is part of a computerized monitoring system placed in the home and sends data by telephone line. Offenders are required to pay up to $9 per day to help pay equipment costs.

BROWN, WHO supervises 10 probation officers in 17 northeast Nebraska counties, said Monday there are currently seven adults and juveniles in his district wearing the computerized bands. Without the ISP program, the seven would be serving incarcerated time, he said. The bracelet is locked onto an ankle and carries a personal identification code. If the bracelet is removed, it immediately transmits that information to the probation officer who in turn issues a pick-up order on the individual alleging a violation of probation.

Theresa Vobril of Norfolk is the ISP regional coordinator. Her duties include supervising the current

New senator will target budget; crime

By Les Mann
Herald Publisher

State Sen. Kurt Hohenstein of Homer told Wayne residents Wednesday he is ready to go to work for them and has established his number one priority—to solve the approximately $1 million budget deficit without increasing taxes.

Over 40 Waynians gathered for a luncheon get acquainted session with the new senator who will be opening his office in the statehouse next week.

Hohenstein, who is completing his tenure as Dakota County Attorney, has already been to Lincoln for orientation and planning sessions and has his staff, if not his new office space in place.

He won't be assigned office space in the Capitol until after this weekend.

Hohenstein has hired Lyn Heaton of Creighton as legislative aide and Arlene Schumacher as administrative assistant. Both are veteran legislative staff members. Hohenstein's Lincoln office number will be the same as former Sen. Jerry Conway's—471-2716.

Besides the budget issues, which are likely to dominate the entire session, Hohenstein said he has identified several priorities for legislative efforts he plans to introduce.

One of those is a bill to change the process of legislative redistricting.

He told the Wayne group his goal would be "to take the politics out of the process." Hohenstein's predecessor was embroiled in controversy as chairman of the legislative redistricting committee last year.

Hohenstein said he is also considering legislation to make it easier for enforcement of the out of state license plates law. He said many motorists in border counties in Nebraska license their cars in neighboring states to avoid taxes. Police must actually catch them driving their cars now before they can enforce the law banning the practice.

Hohenstein said he is considering a proposal to change how the law can be enforced.

He said he also has been asked to co-sponsor the Crime Bill of 1993, put forth by the state attorney general.

Fourteen of the 49 senators are new this year, and Hohenstein said it will be a very diverse and interesting group coming in.

He said he realizes it will be a long-shot, but he is going to try for a position on the Appropriations Committee. It is generally difficult for a freshman senator to gain appointment to what is thought to be the most powerful committee.

If he doesn't win a seat on Appropriations, he said he will seek committee assignments in business and labor, agriculture and judiciary.

Fire recovery continues

It will be several months before Mark and Robin Steinbach and their four children will be able to return to their home in Wayne.

The Steinbachs were the victims of a Christmas week fire which destroyed much of the interior of their home at 904 Windom. Since the fire, the outpouring of community support has been "overwhelming," said Bill Dickey of First National Bank, who is helping with efforts to get the family's home reestablished.

'Unsung Heros' are all around us

By LaVon Anderson
News Editor

He was born 70 years ago on the farm his granddad settled northeast of Wayne in 1909. "I was born here and I hope to die here — but not too soon."

He believes agriculture is the backbone of Wayne County and he's gained national recognition for his own contributions to the Polled Hereford industry.

He's committed to helping prepare today's youth for the challenges they will face in agriculture during the next decade.

He says Wayne County 4-H kids are the greatest and he invites anybody who doesn't believe him to visit the Wayne County Fair next summer and take a look for themselves.

HE'S LELAND Herman and its for these attributes and more that he has been selected by The Wayne Herald as the newspaper's first "Unsung Hero of the Month" for 1993.

"I don't know if I deserve that title," smiles Leland, who since 1946 has served as a member of the Wayne County Agricultural Society — the organization responsible for planning each year's Wayne County Fair.

According to Ag Society records, Leland appears to hold the distinction of serving as a member of the organization for the longest number of years.

He was named to the Wayne County Agricultural Society following the death of his father, Walter, in July of 1946.

"I started out as livestock superintendent, which was what my dad was," Leland also served as president of the Agricultural Society for 27 years and is currently in his third year of serving as secretary of the organization.

"LELAND'S just a good 'ole country gentleman," says Mick Topp, current president of the Wayne County Agricultural Society. "I've known him all my life and now that I'm on the fair board, I can't tell you how much I rely on his advice and leadership. You probably couldn't ask for a better friend in terms of leadership and what it takes to make the community a better place to live."

Mick adds that he personally is especially pleased that Leland has been chosen to receive the newspaper's first "Unsung Hero of the Month" honor.

"Leland has never wanted any award or recognition for himself," stresses Mick. "He always wants somebody else to get the credit. He's always felt that there was somebody more important than himself."

TO PROVE that point, Leland was responsible for establishing the Kilroy Award four years ago, which is presented each year during the Wayne County Fair to recognize groups or individuals for their community service.

Recipients during that time have included Harvey Brasch of Wayne,

Leland was also instrumental in establishing the Little Theatre Off Hog Barn Avenue, an idea he says stems from the Sunday nights he spent as a youth listening to the Little Theatre Off Time Square radio program.

This past summer, Leland helped plan and promote a variety of events designed to celebrate the 125th anniversary of Nebraska's statehood in conjunction with the 70th anniversary of the Wayne County Fair.

He was also responsible for the new look of this year's fair book, which in addition to listing 1992 fair events and prizes, featured a variety of articles relating to the fair — past and present.

"Leland was in our office nearly every day for weeks prior to fair time with a new idea designed to promote the annual county-wide event," says Wayne Herald Publisher Les Mann. "He bugged us to death — but in a very nice sort of way."

"It's like an addiction," laughs Leland. "Once you get started digging into the old records, it's hard to stop."

LELAND SAYS he views the Wayne County Fair as a show place for agriculture.

"I've never been married and, although I don't have children of my own, I firmly believe that today's kids are the future of agriculture and they are the ones who are going to have to straighten out some of this mess in the coming century. And I'm sure they can do it."

Leland, in typical fashion, doesn't like to take credit for the untold hours he spends each year preparing for the county fair.

"All I do is try to instigate some new ideas," says Leland, adding that if they're not too wild, they might

Let us hear about your 'Unsung Hero'

Today's Wayne Herald kicks off a new feature planned during 1993 — "Unsung Hero of the Month."

Each month, the newspaper will feature a story about an individual who has touched the lives of others — someone who unselfishly gives of his or her time and/or talents — someone who may not otherwise receive recognition.

Maybe it's your next door neighbor who never misses a week visiting residents of a nursing home, or your child's teacher who goes above and beyond.

The newspaper staff is asking for your help and encourages residents to submit "Unsung Hero of the Month" nominees from throughout The Wayne Herald coverage area.

Residents can call or stop in at The Wayne Herald with their suggestions.

Each month, the newspaper will select an "Unsung Hero of the Month" from the list of nominees submitted.

monitored cases and other ISP probationers in the area. Aiding her and other officers is a "drive-by" electronic data box in the officer's car. Using it, the officer is able to drive by the offender's home, work site or AA meeting and determine whether or not the probationer is present.

Electronic surveillance was activated by the state probation system in 1990 as an aid in reducing prison population in both adult prisons and juvenile facilities while also cutting costs. Participating offenders are confined to their residence except when ordered to attend AA meetings, drug rehabilitation, counseling and other court-ordered programs.

A PROBATIONER is also permitted to leave home to work or to look for a job. Data concerning every activity of the offender is entered into the computer database including a mandatory curfew. Should the probationer fail to maintain any part of the schedule as logged, the computer immediately notifies the monitoring officer that a violation has occurred. The probationer is then returned to the court facing revocation of probation.

Chief Brown explains the person, an adult male or female, placed on the program must live with the device at least 90 days, and in certain cases the entire probation term. The supervising ISP officer maintains six face-to-face contacts a month and collateral weekly contacts. Record checks are made monthly to determine if the individual has been arrested anywhere. Chemical testing to determine possible substance abuse is conducted weekly. Probationers are also ordered to pay for drug testing.

According to statistics provided by the State Probation Administration in Lincoln, during the year ending June 30, 1992, 40,664 persons were supervised statewide. Of that number, 305 were on the ISP program. Had each of the 305 been imprisoned a year, taxpayers would have footed the $5,490,000 cost. Other savings are involved, according to Brown, in that the ISP offender must work, support his family, pay taxes and also make restitution to the victims of his crime.

State administration planners decided to use electronic surveillance, according to Brown, because of the approximate annual $18,000 cost of imprisoning an offender. Convicted offenders must meet certain qualifications before a judge considers the ISP alternative to incarceration, Brown explained. Once the offender has demonstrated compliance to the court's probation terms for a specified time, a probationer may be transferred to traditional maximum supervision thereby freeing up space for another ISP probationer.

THERE ARE 197 state probation officers. Twenty work as adult ISP officers and five as intensive supervisory officers for juveniles.

Nebraska has, according to Brown, 42 probation offices in 20 districts. The District Two offices are located in Dakota City, Norfolk, O'Neill and Ainsworth, with oversight coming from the headquarters office in Wayne.

Offenders placed on probation have orders originating in district, county and juvenile courts. Records show 35 percent of probationers are serving sentences related to drunken driving. Seventy-seven percent are white males. Crimes of those currently on traditional probation include stolen property, burglary, drugs, larceny, fraud, assault, forgery and juvenile code violations.

Brown said records show caseloads of individual probation officers have grown by 35 percent during the last six years compared to a nine percent increase in supervisory staff.

Nebraska probation officers are required to have a bachelors degree in criminology or human services. The current starting wage is $18,677.

Faithful employees

Great Dane honors workers

On Dec. 17, the Great Dane plant distributed nearly $70,000 in year-end bonuses to plant employees. Production employees were eligible to receive up to six days worth of pay based on their attendance over the last year.

In addition to bonus checks, a number of employees received special awards and recognition. The following employees were recognized for perfect attendance for all of last year: Richard Arduser, Gerald Bargstadt, Lester Deck, David Doescher, Douglas Friedrichsen, Daral Grim, James Hansen, Jim Hilkemann, Greg Jareske, Jerome Kauth, David Lunz, Val Pentico, Leon Remm, Russ Schultz, Richard Stevens, Steve Thies, Dennis Baier, Gerald Britzell, Melvin Claussen, Steve Deck, Robert Foote, Leonard Gradert, David Haney, Brad Harder, Scott Huribert, David Kackmeister, Todd Keenan, Dean Milander, Mitch Osten, Roy Petersen and Garry Ruzicka.

Four employees were recognized for perfect attendance this last year and every year since the program began in 1987. They include Curtis Calder, Mike Wurdeman, Roger Niemann and William Sporleder.

A number of employees received recognition, jackets and cash awards for their suggestions over the past year. The suggestions are part of the plants WINGS program (Wayne Improvement and Growth Suggestions). Over the last year, these employee suggestions have resulted

just get the approval of the fair board.

"The fair isn't a one-man job," points out Leland. "It's a 15-man job (referring to the 15 members of the Wayne County Agricultural Society), and most people don't even realize how much time their spouses donate and the important roles they play in making the fair a success."

LELAND makes a point of staying in the background and refuses to take personal credit for the projects he has instigated.

"They're all Ag Society projects — not Leland Herman projects — and I hope they will continue long after I'm gone."

"When I went on the fair board in 1946, I was advised that the county fair was dying and wouldn't last very long. Not because of my work, but because of the work of everyone, it has continually grown."

"That's because we try to make it a family event designed to appeal to the very youngest as well as the young-at-heart.

"We continue to have good people who are interested in promoting agriculture — and I don't mean just the directors, I mean the entire community."

"We're particularly fortunate in the quality of young people we have in Northeast Nebraska. Most or all of our directors are former 4-H boys of 4-H parents."

Leland, a former 4-H member himself (Beat 'em All 4-H Club), is especially proud of the fact that Wayne County has shown more champion steers at the annual AK-Sar-Ben 4-H Show than any other state in the midwest.

Partners in policy

The Arc of Nebraska will be conducting a Partners in Policy-making course for persons with developmental disabilities and their families from the 22 counties in Developmental Disabilities Region IV. Funding for the "Partners" course is being provided by the Governor's Planning Council on Developmental Disabilities.

Twenty-five individuals will be selected to participate in a series of five one and one-half day sessions beginning Friday and ending late Saturday afternoon. Four of the sessions will be held in Norfolk and one will be held in Lincoln.

The Arc of Nebraska is currently seeking applications from interested persons. People from ethnically diverse backgrounds are strongly encouraged to apply.

The course will help individuals to identify personal values, recognize what values influence various systems, learn that things can be changed and how changes affect other people.

The goal of "Partners" is to enable participants to develop positive partnerships with individuals who make public policy that affect their lives or the lives of their family members.

Each session will be devoted to specific topics such as legislative issues, supported employment and inclusion in education. Each participant will have the opportunity to work on communication, negotiation, decision-making and group facilitation skills.

Participants will be reimbursed for travel and respite care. Meals and lodging will be provided by the project.

Additional information about "Partners" and application forms may be obtained by contacting The Arc of Nebraska, 521 South 14th Street, Suite 211, Lincoln, NE 68508 (800) 666-7907.

IN ADDITION to serving on the Wayne County Agricultural Society, Leland is a member of the American Polled Hereford Association, serving as a director for four years, and was elected to the association's Hall of Fame for his contributions to the breed.

He is also a member of the Wayne County Farm Bureau, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, Wayne Masonic Lodge, Abu-Bekr Shrine, and Wayne Eagles Club.

In addition, he is a member of Salem Lutheran Church in Wakefield and serves on the church council.

"I attended the children's Christmas program recently at Salem and was impressed by all of the talent we have out there. You know, we've got a great future in our kids."

Leland has no immediate plans to retire from the Wayne County Agricultural Society and says he'll remain for as long as they'll put up with him.

"Like punning water, I'll keep moving and hopefully won't become stagnant."

New administration brings unknowns

By Cheryl Stubbendieck
Nebraska Farm Bureau

A new presidential administration always brings with it unknowns. Campaign promises must be taken with a grain of salt, and the fine-sounding plans of a president-elect must not be counted on too soon — certainly not before idealism has met the political reality of Washington, D.C. But this year, more than following some recent presidential elections, there seems to be a mood of "Let's give the new guy a chance."

Thus it is with good will on one hand and a vague unease on the other that farmers and ranchers wonder how safe the current $600,000 estate tax exemption will be during the next four or eight years.

During the campaign, Clinton said he opposed reducing the estate tax exemption from its current $600,000 level to $200,000. Ag producers are ardently hoping he can defend that viewpoint successfully. Last year, lowering the estate tax was proposed as a source of revenue for the Democrats' long-term health care bill. However, public enthusiasm for the idea was, shall we say, lacking, and the proposal was dropped.

On the surface, dropping the exemption from six hundred grand to two hundred grand looks like one of those popular "tax the rich" plans, though it is not necessarily so. Fear for the future of the $600,000 exemption has some basis in President-Elect Clinton's statement that he favors higher taxes for individuals with incomes above $200,000. Fears of a reduction are also fueled because some legislators and economic think-tanks keep looking to raising new federal bucks.

Tax-the-rich always sounds good until an individual realizes that might include him — now or in a few years. American Farm Bureau President Dean Kleckner articulates agriculture's concern about the estate tax exemption, but he points out that other folks should be concerned as well. "Middle class homeowners are beginning to realize that inflation has driven the value of their homes and life-long possessions to levels they did not realize," Kleckner says.

Talk of lowering the estate tax exemption worries agriculture because a reduction would overlook the lifetime investments farm families have made in their land and capital assets, as have other owners of small businesses. Farmers and ranchers and their organizations have fought for years to raise the exemption level to ensure the timely, orderly transfer of family farms from one generation to the next.

If the exemption were lowered to $200,000, surviving sons and daughters of farmers and ranchers could again be forced to sell all or part of their inherited land to satisfy the inheritance tax. The $600,000 exemption is fairly recent — that level was reached in 1987, after the 1981 revision of the tax code began a five-year phase-in period, starting with $225,000 in 1982.

The amount of taxation for estates above $600,000 is fairly hefty it starts at 37 percent and reaches 55 percent on higher estate amounts. Imposing taxes of that kind on lesser amounts would be a severe blow for agriculture. Fortunately, many of the original supporters of the $600,000 estate tax exemption are still members of the Senate Finance Committee.

A fund has been set up at each of the three banks in Wayne. The family lost many of its personal belongings in the fire. New to Wayne as the pastor of World Outreach Center, Steinbach did not carry renter's insurance. The house is the paragon for his church.

Dickey encouraged area residents to continue to support the young family. He said they have found temporary housing in Wakefield while work is being done on the house to make it livable again.

Wayne Senior Center offers 'Checklist' for staying healthy

"This season of holiday overindulgence and New Year's resolutions is a perfect time for people to focus on staying healthy," says Georgia Janssen, coordinator of the Wayne Senior Center.

"Sometimes it's easy for us to forget that we have an active role in maintaining our good health," says Janssen.

"Some of the simplest steps we can take are to eat right, exercise, use medications safely, reduce our alcohol consumption, get proper vaccinations, quit smoking, and visit our doctors regularly."

HOWEVER, the Office of Disease Prevention and Health Promotion and the American Cancer Society have found that many people, especially older adults, are reluctant to visit the doctor unless something is wrong.

Resolutions should be realistic

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP) -- So you're gonna lose 50 pounds, or jog every morning, or maybe give up sweets. Who ya foolin'?

When making that list of New Year's resolutions, keep in mind the promises that were quickly forgotten last year. And, according to Ball State University psychologist Roger Hall, take a different approach this time.

"We make these resolutions that we brake just a few days later," Ball said. "We feel guilty when we promise to cut out the chocolate and then eat sweets a week later."

Instead of making almost impossible demands or vague goals -- such as losing 50 pounds or being a nicer person -- people should be as realistic as possible, Ball said.

"Too many resolutions are reactive instead of proactive," he said. "We go out during the holidays, eating and drinking too much. Then we promise never to do that again."

Hall believes resolutions can be productive, if they're planned properly.

"Individuals should set a direction for their lives. Then they should set smaller goals that they can achieve on their way."

Hall suggests the following course: -- Choose one specific area that needs changing instead of a dozen or

"Preventive health care visits are an integral part in staying healthy," says Janssen. "That's why the Nebraska Department on Aging has made available a 'Checklist for Staying Healthy' which includes a listing of vaccinations and tests that people should take regularly.

"It's perfect for tacking on the refrigerator or for keeping by the telephone as a reminder throughout the coming year."

PERSONS who would like to receive a copy of the "Checklist" are asked to contact the Wayne Senior Center at 306 Pearl St., or telephone 375-1460.

The "Checklist" can also be made available in an alternative format, for persons with disabilities, upon request from the Department on Aging. Requests will be filled within 15 working days.

Wayne teams capture first place

By Kevin Peterson
Sports editor

The Great Northeast Nebraska Shootout basketball tournament culminated Wednesday in Rice Auditorium on the campus of Wayne State College.

The championship games in both the girls and boys divisions had Wayne playing Madison and in both contests the Blue Devils prevailed with Marlene Uhing's team winning by a 60-39 margin while Bob Uhing's boys stretched their winning streak to eight to begin the year with a 65-54 victory over Fred Lethby's team.

Wayne never trailed in the girls game as they led 14-7 after the first period and enjoyed a double-digit lead at the intermission of 25-13. Madison would never see a single-digit deficit in the second half as Wayne out-scored the Lady Dragons by an 18-10 margin in the third quarter for a 43-23 lead.

"Our team had been struggling the last few games," Uhing said. "We didn't give up though, and I give a lot of credit to the girls for that. Our defense has been real consistent for us and it was once more against Madison."

Liz Reeg etched her name into the Wayne record books following a 37-point performance, surpassing former Wayne great Dana Nelson. "Liz did a great job of moving with out the basketball," Uhing said. Reeg scored eight points in the opening quarter, added seven in the second before scoring 12 in the third and 10 in the fourth. She was 11-14 from the foul line in the game and was 29-35 from the free throw line for the three-game tournament.

Jenny Thompson came off the bench and poured in 13 points and Erin Pick finished with eight while Jenny Thomsen and Carrie Fink netted one point each.

Wayne out-rebounded Madison by a 25-21 margin as Reeg led the way with 10 caroms while Angie Thompson had five. Both teams suffered 15 turnovers. Wayne was 17-27 from the foul line and Madison was a perfect 10-10. Uhing also credited Danielle Nelson for getting Wayne into its offense. "Danielle is doing a good job of running the offense with one hand," Uhing said. The 6-2 Blue Devils will travel to play Randolph on Tuesday.

THE WAYNE BOYS never trailed in its championship game either after sprinting to a 19-3 lead after the first quarter. Madison did out-score Wayne in the next three quarters but only by a combined total of five points.

The Dragons did draw to within six points early in the third quarter but Wayne turned it up another notch and scored six straight points to push the lead back to a dozen.

"We had a very good first quarter," Uhing said. "Fatigue set in on us in the second half but I was proud of the way our team did what they had to do to keep a good lead."

Bobby Barnes led Wayne's scoring attack with 20 points while Regg Carnes poured in 19-18 of which came in the first half. Brad Uhing was in double figures with 10 and Matt Blomenkamp added six. Robert Bell and Mike Fluent netted four points each and Arnold Schwartz finished with two.

Wayne dominated the boards, 39-25 with Blomenkamp hauling down 12 to lead the way. Wayne had just 10 turnovers while Madison had 15. The Blue Devils were 12-20 from the foul line and Madison was 6-12.

IN OTHER GAMES on the final day of the tournament it was Norfolk Catholic's boys getting past Pender, 58-42 for third place honors. The Knights led 26-23 at the half but used an 18-9 scoring advantage in the third quarter to put the game out of reach for Pender.

Jim Brungardt led the winners with 21 points while Joel Jansen added 12. Chad Westerland led Pender with 15 points.

In the girls consolation third place game it was Pender edging Wakefield on a last second shot by Jennifer Hazard, 52-51. Hazard connected on a driving lay-up with seven seconds left in regulation to bring Pender back from a nine point deficit after the third quarter.

Stacey Preston led Wakefield in scoring with 14 points while Kathy Otte tossed in 10. Angi Peterson netted seven while Maria Eaton, Kali Baker and Heidi Mueller scored six each. Jaime Oswald rounded out the scoring with two points.

Wakefield's Achilles heel was free throw shooting where they were just 1-9 while Pender was 15-24. In the fourth quarter Pender was 6-9 from the foul line and Wakefield was 0-3—all front ends of one-and-ones. Toni Thompson and Laura Hazard scored eight points each to aid Pender.

IN THE CONTESTS for fifth place it was Winnebago defeating the Stanton girls, 54-48. Stanton led 20-13 after the first quarter but Winnebago fought back and trailed by just two at the half and they led by one after three quarters at 39-38 before out-scoring the Fillies, 15-10 in the final eight minutes.

Michelle Sheridan paced the winners with 28 points while Toni Earth poured in 12. Bobbi Peterson led Stanton with 16 points while Tina Lehman and Renee Belz added 13 and 11 respectively.

In the other fifth place game it was Winnebago's boys edging Wakefield on a last second shot by the identical score that the Trojan girls lost, 52-51.

Wakefield led 22-15 after the first quarter but the Indians came back to tie the game at 30 at the break. Brad Hoskin's crew out-scored Winnebago 17-9 in the third quarter for an eight-point cushion but the Trojans only managed four, fourth quarter points while the Indians scored 13.

Cory Brown led Wakefield with 18 points while Ben Dutton netted nine and T.J. Preston, eight. Miah Johnson and Larry Johnson scored six each and Todd Mattson added four. Winnebago was led by Brandon Stout with 22 points. Wakefield was 0-8 in the fourth quarter from the foul line.

WEDNESDAY'S FINAL action of the Great Northeast Nebraska Shootout was paired from action on Tuesday and for Wayne's Brad Uhing it was a memorable day as he led the Blue Devils past Norfolk Catholic for a championship berth.

Uhing scored 30 points in Wayne's 73-59 victory over the Knights including a school-record nine, 3-pointers breaking the mark of seven set by Bobby Barnes.

Wayne trailed Norfolk Catholic, 18-16 after the first quarter but went on a 26-17 scoring run in the second quarter for a 42-35 halftime lead. Wayne was never threatened in the second half as they extended its lead to nine after the third quarter at 56-47 before out-scoring the Knights 17-12 in the final eight minutes.

"I thought our kids did a nice job of attacking Norfolk Catholic's zone," Uhing said. "Catholic played extremely well and our team responded to that challenge."

Barnes added 16 while Carnes and Bell added 11 each as four Wayne players reached double figures. Fluent and Blomenkamp rounded out the scoring with three and two points respectively.

Wayne maintained a 27-20 advantage on the boards as Uhing had team honors with 11 caroms. Wayne had 17 turnovers compared to 12 for Catholic and Wayne was 14-20 from the foul line while Catholic was 6-14.

In the girls contest for the right to go into the championship round, Marlene Uhing's Blue Devils defeated Wakefield by 11, 47-36. Wayne led by one point at the half, 19-18 but grabbed a seven point cushion after the third quarter with a 16-10 scoring run.

Reeg led Wayne with 13 points and Jenny Thomsen poured in 12—a career high, while Erin Pick and Angie Thompson netted eight points each. Danielle Nelson scored four points and Carrie Fink rounded out the attack with two.

Wakefield was led by Maria Eaton with 11 points while Kali Baker was in double figures with 10. Angi Peterson and Heidi Mueller scored six each and Kathy Ote added two. Jaime Oswald finished with one point.

Wayne held a 23-15 advantage on the boards led by Thomsen and Pick with eight caroms each. The Blue Devils had 19 turnovers and Wakefield had 18. Wayne was 7-9 from the foul line and the Trojans were 3-5.

LIZ REEG shoots for two of her career high and school record 37 points against Madison.

JENNY THOMPSON puts up a shot during second half action of Wayne's 21-point victory over Madison, Wednesday night. Wayne improved to 6-2.

MATT BLOMENKAMP drives past Madison's Paul Preister during the championship game. Wayne kept its undefeated record in tact with a 65-54 victory.

BRAD UHING leans in for two points against Stanton in game one of the holiday tourney. Uhing broke a school record against Norfolk Catholic with nine, 3-pointers.

Laurel girls, boys finish runner-up to Battle Creek

The Laurel girls and boys basketball teams hosted a holiday tournament on Monday and Tuesday with the Bears playing Plainview in the first round in both games while Battle Creek and Randolph squared off in the other first round contests.

Clayton Steele's boys team had played Plainview a week earlier and came away with a nine-point victory in a rough contest. This time, however, the Bears breezed to a 25-point win, 69-44.

Laurel led 10-5 after the first quarter and 33-18 at the half and were never threatened in the second half. "We never trailed in the contest," Steele said. "Our kids just played good half court defense and we did a good job of stopping them from getting the ball inside."

Steele said his team's defense led directly to several easy baskets on offense. Jeremy Reinoehl led Laurel with 19 points while Jared Rejnoehl and Travis Monson netted nine each.

Cody Carstensen scored eight while Shane Schuster and Andy Smith tallied six each. Kris Krie scored four points and Tyler Erwin, Derek Ehlers, P.J. Penne and Ben Dahl netted two each.

Laurel out-rebounded Plainview, 26-17 as both Reinoehls shared team honors with six caroms each. The Bears had 14 turnovers and Plainview had 15.

"Everybody got to play quite a bit," Steele said. "We were able to substitute quite freely and everyone played well. We shot over 50 percent from the field."

In the championship game on Tuesday the Bears lost for just the second time this season in seven outings as Class C-1's top rated team in Battle Creek defeated the Bears, 68-56.

Laurel trailed by two points after the first quarter at 17-15 but the Braves out-scored the Bears, 22-14 in the second period for a 10-point halftime advantage, 39-29.

"In the second quarter things kind of turned on us," Steele said. "We got in a hurry to get into our offense and just pressed ourselves too much. Battle Creek also switched defenses on us and we didn't adjust very well right away."

Andy Smith enjoyed his finest game of the season despite the setback as the senior poured in 20 points and hauled down a game-high 10 rebounds. Cody Carstensen poured in 13 points and Jared Reinoehl was in double figures with 10 while Jeremy Reinoehl netted nine and Travis Monson, four.

Laurel had the advantage on the boards, 27-20. The Bears had 16 turnovers while Battle Creek had 12. The 5-2 Bears will travel to play Pierce on Friday, Jan. 8.

Mike Zimmerman's girls team at Laurel advanced to the championship round after they defeated Plainview by a 60-51 margin in the first round on Monday before losing to Battle Creek, 61-52 in the championship round on Tuesday.

The Lady Bears led Plainview 16-10 after the first quarter and 31-22 at the half. "We were in control pretty much the whole game," Zimmerman said. "We would get up by eight to 10 points and Plainview would come back and cut it back down to three or four and that happened throughout the whole game."

Amy Peters led the winners with 20 points while Betsy Adkins finished in double figures with 10. Tara Erwin netted nine points and Leann Stewart scored seven while Samantha Felber scored six. Dawn Wickett netted four points and Mandy Hartung scored three while Brandi Mathiason rounded out the scoring with one point.

No results were turned in on the championship game with Battle Creek. The Lady Bears will next be in action on Jan. 7 when they travel to play Wayne.

'One of those days' made easier by community, church

By Pastor Mark Steinbach
Wayne World Outreach Center

"Silent Night," "We Wish You a Merry-Christmas," "Jingle Bells," "Your House is on Fire!"

Something is wrong with this list...or is it? As I stood watching the volunteers extinguish the fire, many thoughts raced through my mind, but there was one thought that has yet to leave — "Man is born to trouble, as the sparks fly upward" (Job 5:7).

Trouble, as it is used here, signifies sorrow, toil, labor, grief, pain, misery, exhaustion. Literally, one could say, "Man is born to labor or toil to the point of exhaustion, as surely as the sparks fly upward."

No doubt we all have "one of those days," but there are times when it seems like life is filled with hardships, troubles, pressures and pains, and that we weren't "dealt a fair hand."

It is during hard times when we need someone to reach out and help us.

FOR NEARLY four months I have called Wayne "home," and I appreciate the fact that Wayne is filled with real people who live and give of their time, talents, efforts, support and prayers to make this a better place to live.

When trouble comes, volunteers put out fires, offer needed items, give money, lend a helping hand, and whisper a prayer to God.

So, while we may be "born to trouble," we are certainly thankful for family, friends, and anonymous supporters for their help when trouble arises.

TROUBLE began in the Garden of Eden when Adam disobeyed God. The Lord assured Adam and Eve that because they had sinned, life would be full of toil, labor and many sorrows.

For thousands of years man has struggled with troubled lives, sorrowful hearts, and anxious thoughts. But the Lord has promised to be our "refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble" (Psalm 46:1).

God loved the world so much that He sent His only Son, in order that we might find true life, hope, joy and peace, and ultimately eternal life with Him.

As people we are able to offer many things to remedy trouble, but only the Lord can restore a life exhausted of peace and hope.

TO THOSE who have been a "help in trouble" — THANK YOU! What a privilege to have a community, church and family that cares enough to give their best to help!

To the Lord, who has been our "refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble" — THANK YOU! What a blessing to know that you sent your very best to help us find "life — abundant life!"

Pender church showing 'Eye of the Storm' film

The Pender Evangelical Covenant Church will show the new 70-minute movie, "Eye of the Storm," on Sunday, Jan. 3, beginning at 7 p.m. A coffee and tea fellowship will follow.

"Eye of the Storm" stars Connie Sellecca, Jeff Conaway and Deborah Tucker, and portrays the professional and personal life of an award-winning TV journalist who has returned from covering the Persian Gulf War.

The Rev. Philip Rohler said children and adults alike will be captivated by this contemporary story of what many families face as careers are juggled with personal relationships.

The public is invited to this premiere showing of "Eye of the Storm," a World Wide Pictures production. Persons wishing additional information are asked to contact the church office at 385-2738.

Pork producers meeting to feature several significant activities

The Interstate Holiday Inn (I-80 and Hwy. 281) in Grand Island will be the site for the annual meetings of the Nebraska Pork Producers Association (NPPA) and the Nebraska Pork Council Women (NPCW), Jan. 14-16.

Exciting changes and new challenges are sweeping the pork industry. The annual meeting of the Nebraska Pork Producers Association is an excellent time for producers to hear about the opportunities which are developing throughout their industry and discuss what these challenges will mean to Nebraska's pork producers. Understanding the benefits of their commitments and investments is essential to maintain the positive results the national pork checkoff has seen thus far.

Several significant activities will be taking place at this year's NPPA annual meeting, including election of 1993 state officers, state committee meetings and reports, election of delegates to the 1994 National Pork Forum, approval of the 1993 NPPA budget and discussion of pending resolutions. Producers will also be updated on state and national programs. Karl Johnson, National Pork Producers Council President-elect, will be on hand to address challenging industry issues which will affect all pork producers in the 90's. Johnson is a pork producer from Mankato, Minn. Larry Hall will wrap up the convention at the closing luncheon with his humorous and inspirational thoughts. Hall is a 20-year veteran of radio and news journalism. He served as president of the Nebraska Farmers Union for four years in addition to his radio and television career.

The Nebraska Pork Council Women continues its commitment to promotion and educational programs across the state. NPCW members will continue to face the challenges of their ever-changing industry when they meet for their annual meeting. Items of business include approval of the 1993 budget, committee reports, installation of 1993 officers and a presentation by Doris Akerson of Aurora on using Nebraska flowers and plants in floral arrangements. The NPCW meeting is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. on Jan. 15 and conclude on Jan. 16 with the noon luncheon.

Honoring and recognizing outstanding producer leaders is an integral part of the NPPA/NPCW Convention. The NPCW recognition will include the Nebraska Pork Council Woman of the Year, NPCW Outstanding Service Award, Top County/Area Group awards and Pork Excellence awards.

Nebraska's 1992 Pork All-American, Outstanding Young Pork Producer, Commercial, Seedstock and Feeder Pig Awards, along with the Pork Industry Service Award will be presented by the NPPA at the NPPA/NPCW annual awards banquet on Jan. 15. The 1993-94 Nebraska Pork Industry Youth Ambassador will also be announced at this banquet.

Six exceptional youth will be competing for the title of 1993-94 Nebraska Pork Industry Youth Ambassador. The selection is being held in conjunction with the NPPA and NPCW Convention. The candidates will participate in several activities which include interviews and oral presentations on a selected pork industry topic before a panel of judges. The six candidates are Christine Renner of Howells, Tammy Potter of Weston, Craig Burnside of Maxwell, Dustin Paxton of Stapleton, Kirk Holtmeier of Plymouth and Matthew Kamrath of Shelby.

For more information about the convention and registration, contact the Nebraska Pork Producers office in Lincoln at 472-2563.

1993 Husker Feed Grains and Soybean

Ag directors to address conference

Two former farmers who now serve their home states as directors of the respective agriculture departments will address the 1993 Husker Feed Grains and Soybean conference to be held Jan. 21 and 22 in Grand Island. Larry Sitzman, Director of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture; and Sam Brownback, Kansas Secretary of Agriculture, will be featured on the program.

Sitzman will officially open the conference at Fonner Park on Thursday, Jan. 21. Sitzman was named director of the Nebraska Ag Department in February, 1991. Prior to joining the department, he farmed near Culbertson, raising corn, soybeans, wheat, sorghum and alfalfa. He served as national chairman of the Ag Council of America (ACA) and chairman of ACA's FoodWatch program. An active member of the Nebraska Corn Board, Sitzman served as treasurer, vice chairman and chairman during his two terms. He is a graduate of the Nebraska LEAD Program and attended the University of Nebraska. He and his wife, Sally, have three sons.

Brownback will speak following Sitzman and will address the topic of commercializing industrial ag products for the future. Brownback has been Secretary of Ag in the state of Kansas since 1986. Born and raised on a farm near Parker, Kan., Brownback has been involved in various aspects of agriculture all his life. He was a state and national FFA officer, a farm broadcaster and taught agricultural law at Kansas State University. He attended both Kansas State and the University of Kansas. He has co-authored two books, served as a White House Fellow, working the office of the U.S. Trade Representative, and was instrumental in the current movement to create new industrial uses for farm commodities. He and his wife, Mary, have three children, all under the age of six.

The theme for the 1993 conference is "Nebraska Agriculture: Racing into the 21st Century." Activities include a panel discussion on trade with Mexico, the annual awards banquet, a panel on property tax and rural representation in the state's Legislature and a keynote address by motivational speaker Jolene Brown. An additional highlight will be the annual market analysis delivered by Richard Brock just before the grand opening of the trade show on Thursday. The conference will run through Friday afternoon.
