Expert says Wayne gain is 'fantastic'

Of the Herald

Wayne is talked about all over the state as a community which should be emulated, according to Ray Clark, specialist with the UNO Center for Public Affairs

Clark was in Wayne Wednesday to lead a day-long meeting of the community's S.T.A.R.T. (Strategic Planning and Resource Targeting) organization. Begun three years ago, the reunion meeting Wednesday was called a "Jump Start" by leader Jennifer Phelps.

Wayne was one of the first communities in the state to implement strategic planning in 1989 in which spe-cific definable goals are identified and a concentrated effort is made to achieve them.

Clark told the group of 33 Wayne leaders who gathered Wednesday to review accomplishments since START and identify new goals, that the community was not in as great a need as many other communities in

Need for a community meeting place was one of those needs he said. "And look what has been done, " he said waving a hand around the group's meeting site at Riley's Convention Center.

Need for additional housing, identified three years ago was being worked on through revision of the community's restrictive zoning and subdivision regulations, he said.

Meeting the senators

Three state senators from Northeast Nebraska accepted the invitation of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce to participate in a Legislative Forum at Wayne State College Friday. The three, Kurt Hohenstein, Homer, Connie Day, Norfolk, (partially hidden) and Stan Schellpeper, Stanton, were lead in the discussion by Mark Ahmann.

Area senators field tough issue queries

By Les Mann Of the Herald

Handing out condoms in

Senators Connie Day of Nor-folk, Kurt Hohenstein of Homer and Stan Schellpeper of Stanton, took the stage and handled questions from nearly 200 constituents including a large number of high school and college students

SEN. DAY said she personally would support sex education and making condoms available in schools but she did not think the state should mandate how local

The other senators also stressed local autonomy on school issues, with Hohenstein saying he did not support a measure to provide state ties in the schools.

"If you are going to make a decision to limit extracurricular ac-tivities, do so at the local level," said Hohenstein.

Another local school issue addressed by Day involved the multicultural education bill. She said there was a large amount of misinformation being circulated about the bill. She said it allows local school districts to set their own plans. Additionally, she said there is nothing in the bill about teaching of eastern religions or alterna-tive lifestyles like homosexuality.

IN A PIECE of good news for Wayne School District taxpayers, Sen. Hohenstein said he was happy that LB 92 had been killed in committee. The bill would have forced local districts like Wayne to pay for the cost of special education nceds of young people in group homes within the district.

In Wayne's case under the bill, the district would have had to pay for special education for residents of the Juvenile Detention Center even though those students were from

The measure could have cost Wayne hundreds of thousands of

HE SAID THIS measure added $54,000 to the Wayne School district budget in mid-year and has a potential of adding up to $100,000 next year. He said a better system would be to have the school districts where the students come form help pay the costs for special A fear in Wayne is that the state might place foster care youngsters in the community because of the excellent special education services available here, thus forcing the local district to pay. Currently the schools pay $18,000 a year for each special education student

Sen. Schellpeper said one of his prime goals was to seek a change in the personal property tax system. He said it was unfair to tax inven tory and that he would "support almost anything to help get rid of the personal property tax

SALES TAX ON food was not one of the things he would support, however. He said the $125

Area land values up in survey

Nebraska's overall land value average has increased 4 percent over last year, according to preliminary findings of the 16th annual Univer sity of Nebraska-Lincoln Farm Real Estate Marker Survey.

However, the survey showed that not all areas of the state had gains, according to Bruce Johnson, UNL agricultural economist.

The 4 percent increase brings the all-land average to $531 per acre as of Feb. 1, 1993. That compares to an average of $510 per acre in 1991, and $492 in 1990,

"Last year's gains probably reflect a respectable income year for Ne-braska agriculture," Johnson said. "This follows-the general overall

THE CONSUMER Price Index was just under 3 percent in 1992, which indicates Nebraska farmland values generally stayed slightly ahead of the rate of inflation, Johnson said.

"So, the purchasing power of land asset value rose slightly," he said. However, pronounced differences in land value changes did occur across the state last year.

All-land average values were essentially unchanged during 1992 in the northwest, north and southwest areas of the state, Johnson said. Gains of 5 to 7 percent occurred in the eastern third and southern part of Nebrāska. The northeast area had the largest gain, of 7.2 percent; that, however, follows a loss of 1 percent for the previous year.

DRYLAND CROPLAND-made relatively strong gains in 1992 in the northeast and in the south, while declines occurred in southwest Nebraska, Johnson said. The survey also showedcenter pivot cropland in northwest Nebraska falling about 6 percent, while climbing nearly 10 per-cent in the southeast. Non-tillable grazing land was the only class which recorded value increases for the year in all areas of the state, he said.

Cash rents for cropland for 1993 are generally down in the northwest, north and southwest areas, while in other areas the 1993 rates are somewhat higher. Cash rent for irrigated land in eastern and southern Nebraska is averaging about $125 per acre for 1993, he said

PASTURE RENTAL rates for the current year on an animal-unit-month basis generally run from $19 to $22. In several parts of the state, the average 1993 animal-unit-month rates were up from those of a year ago, noted the Institute of Agriculture and

Local radio may not air Big Red football

By Kevin Peterson Sports editor

Wayne area residents-who anxiously await each fall-Saturday afternoon so they can turn to local Wayne radio station KTCH and listen to Big Red Football, may be in for a big surprise come September if flagship station KFAB sticks to its new stipulations for affiliate stations.

The Omaha based radio station agreed to pay the University of Ne-braska 825,000 dollars last year per. season to continue being the flag-ship station and that revenue is generated by affiliate stations across the state such as KTCH who pick up the signal from KFAB for a 'rights fee"

That fee depends on the advertising base in each radio station area ayne manager Mark Ahmann said KTCH spent approximately 3500 dollars last year to broadcast all of the Nebraska football games, and all of the men's basketball games that weren't in conflict with local broadcasts of high school sporting demands, then KTCH will not pick up the feed this fall and carry the Husker games and he says they won't be alone.

"There are 28 other affiliate stations across the state. Ahmann said. "After I received the letter stipulating KFAB's new outline for this fall, I got in contact with approximately 25 of these affiliate stations and only one has agreed to the demands of KFAB."

Under the old agreement KTCH would begin broadcasting an hour before each Big Red football game, followed by the broadcasting of the game and the post-game coaches comment show and one score board

Under the new guidelines set by KFAB, affiliate stations would go on the air four hours before the game with a three hour show called

The guidelines also stipulate a KFAB sports call-in show Mondays through Fridays throughout the year from 7-8 p.m, morning and afternoon sports reports throughout the year, road-condition reports all year long, and year-round public service

This cat was dug up during Carhart's rennovations, recently, and is thought to have mummified itself after it was trapped underneath some lumber. The age of the cat is not known but educated guesses have placed the feline in at least the early 1940's. The cat is figured to have laid down and died in some powdered lime which preserved its

Rural roundup scheduled

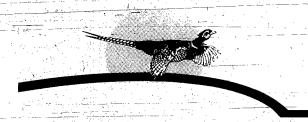

AREA — Kindergarten roundup for rural Wayne County schools will be held Tuesday, March 30, beginning at 9 a.m. in the Wayne County Courthouse.

Students will be screened by an ESU 1 audiologist and school nurse (vision). Health regulations and guidelines will be explained by the school nurse, Elaine Rump, RN, BSN. Parents are asked to bring their child's immunization record and certified birth certificate. School districts that participate in the roundup are #25 and #57.

Expert says Wayne gain is 'fantastic

Of the Herald

Wayne is talked about all over the state as a community which should be emulated, according to Ray Clark, specialist with the UNO Center for Public Affairs.

Clark was in Wayne Wednesday to lead a day-long meeting of the community's S.T.A.R.T. (Strategic Planning and Resource Targeting) organization. Begun three years ago, the reunion meeting Wednesday was called a "Jump Start" by leader Jennifer Phelps.

Wayne was one of the first communities in the state to implement strategic planning in 1989 in which spe-cific definable goals are identified and a concentrated effort is made to achieve them.

Clark told the group of 33 Wayne leaders who gathered Wednesday to review accomplishments since START and identify new goals, that the community was not in as great a need as many other communities in Nebraska.

CHIEF AMONG the START accomplishments would be the ground breaking April 16 for the new Day Care Center. He said other needs identified earlier had been or were being accomplished. Need for a community meeting place was one of those needs he said. "And look what has been done," he said waving a hand around the group's meeting site at Riley's Convention Center.

Need for additional housing, identified three years ago was being worked on through revision of the community's restrictive zoning and subdivision regulations, he said.

Clark said he was delighted that the original START organization in

Meeting the senators

Three state senators from Northeast Nebraska accepted the invitation of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce to participate in a Legislative Forum at Wayne State College Friday. The three, Kurt Hohenstein, Homer, Connie Day, Norfolk, (partially hidden) and Stan Schellpeper, Stanton, were lead in the discussion by Mark Ahmann.

Area senators field tough issue queries

Handing out condoms in schools; new sales tax on food; audits on senators' phone use; the influence of the NRA on the state legislature; potential cuts in Medicaid services--all these issues and more were discussed during the legislative forum held in Wayne Friday morning.

Northeast Nebraska's delegation to the Nebraska unicameral fielded a wide-ranging series of questions from constituents during the forum sponsored by the Wayne Area

Senators Connie Day of Nor-folk, Kurt Hohenstein of Homer and Stan Schellpeper of Stanton, took the stage and handled questions from nearly 200 constituents including a large number of high school and college students.

SEN. DAY said she personally would support sex education and making condoms available in schools but she did not think the state should mandate how local regulation on extracurricular activities in the schools.

"If you are going to make a decision to limit extracurricular activities, do so at the local level," said Hohenstein

Another local school issue addressed by Day involved the multi-cultural education bill. She said there was a large amount of misinformation being circulated about the bill. She said it allows local school districts to set their own plans. Additionally, she said there is nothing in the bill about teaching of eastern religions or alternative lifestyles like homosexuality.

IN A PIECE of good news for Wayne School District taxpayers, Sen. Hohenstein said he was happy that LB 92 had been killed in committee. The bill would have forced local districts like Wayne to pay for the cost of special education needs of young people in group homes within the district.

In Wayne's case under the bill, the district would have had to pay for special education for residents of the Juvenile Detention Center even though those students were from

Wayne hundreds of thousands of

In a related item, Hohenstein said he though LB 3 passed by the legislature last fall unfairly shifted education costs from the state to local districts for wards of the state,

HE SAID THIS measure added $54,000 to the Wayne School district budget in mid-year and has a potential of adding up to $100,000 next year. He said a better system would be to have the school districts where the students come form help pay the costs for special education.

A fear in Wayne is that the state might place foster care youngsters in the community because of the excellent special education services available here, thus forcing the local district to pay. Currently the schools pay $18,000 a year for each special education student.

Sen. Schellpeper said one of his prime goals was to seek a change in the personal property tax system. He said it was unfair to tax inventory and that he would "support almost anything to help get rid of the personal property tax

Area land values up in survey

Nebraska's overall land value average has increased 4 percent over last year, according to preliminary findings of the 16th annual University of Nebraska-Lincoln Farm Real Estate Market Survey.

However, the survey showed that not all areas of the state had gains, according to Bruce Johnson, UNL agricultural economist.

The 4 percent increase brings the all-land average to $531 per acre as of Feb. 1, 1993. That compares to an average of $510 per acre in 1991, and $492 in 1990.

"Last year's gains probably reflect a respectable income year for Ne-braska agriculture," Johnson said: "This follows the general overall economy.'

THE CONSUMER Price Index was just under 3 percent in 1992, which indicates Nebraska farmland values generally stayed slightly ahead of the rate of inflation, Johnson said.
"So, the purchasing power of land asset value rose slightly," he said. However, pronounced differences in land value changes did occur across the state last year.

All-land average values were essentially unchanged during 1992 in the northwest, north and southwest areas of the state, Johnson said. Gains of 5 to 7 percent occurred in the eastern third and southern part of Nebraska. The northeast area had the largest gain, of 7.2 percent; that, however, follows a loss of 1 percent for the previous year.

DRYLAND CROPLAND made relatively strong gains in 1992 in the northeast and in the south, while declines occurred in southwest Nebraska, Johnson said. The survey also showed center pivot cropland in northwest Nebraska falling about 6 percent, while climbing nearly 10 percent in the southeast. Non-tillable grazing land was the only class which recorded value increases for the year in all areas of the state, he said.

Cash rents for cropland for 1993 are generally down in the northwest, north and southwest areas, while in other areas the 1993 rates are somewhat higher. Cash rent for irrigated land in eastern and southern Nebraska is averaging about $125 per acre for 1993, he said.

PASTURE RENTAL rates for the current year on an animal-unit-month basis generally run from $19 to $22. In several parts of the state, the average 1993 animal-unit-month rates were up from those of a year ago, noted the Institute of Agriculture and stations.

Wayne area residents who anxiously await each fall Saturday afmoon so they can turn to local Wayne radio station KTCH and listen to Big Red Football, may be in for a big surprise come September if flagship station KFAB sticks to. its new stipulations for affiliate

The Omaha based radio station agreed to pay the University of Ne-braska 825,000 dollars last year per season to continue being the flagship station and that revenue is generated by affiliate stations across the state such as KTCH who pick up the signal from KFAB for a "rights fee".

That fee depends on the advertising base in each radio station area. Wayne manager Mark Ahmann said KTCH spent approximately 3500 dollars last year to broadcast all of the Nebraska football games, and all of the men's basketball games that weren't in conflict with local broadcasts of high school sporting demands, then KTCH will not pick up the feed this fall and carry the Husker games and he says they

There are 28 other affiliate stasaid. "After I received the letter stipulating KFAB's new outline for this fall, I got in contact with approximately 25 of these affiliate stations and only one has agreed to the demands of KFAB."

Under the old agreement KTCH would begin broadcasting an hour before each Big Red football game, followed by the broadcasting of the game and the post-game coaches comment show and one score board

Under the new guidelines set by KFAB, affiliate stations would go on the air four hours before the game with a three hour show called Husker Huddle,

The guidelines also stipulate a KFAB sports call-in show Mondays through Fridays throughout the year 7-8 p.m, morning and afternoon sports reports throughout the year, road-condition reports all year long, and year-round public service

Pumpkin Days scheduled

WAKEFIELD - The Wakefield Pumpkin Days Committee has designated the third weekend in September, Sept. 17-19, as the dates for the annual celebration.

The committee is presently in the process of reorganizing and looking for volunteers to assist with the event. The committee is also looking for suggestions on ways to improve the celebration or new events to replace less popular ones.

Persons wishing to assist with Pumpkin Days are asked to contact Fran Hallstrom, Linds Rischmueller, or any other members of the committee. The committee will be expanded and currently includes Norman Minola, Becky Keidel and Alice Hartman.

Wayne has stayed together and is still active more than three years later. He said Wayne's record is unique among he tow dozen or so communities he has implemented START programs in across Nebraska.

Wayne has always been one of our top communities," he said.

CLARK EXPLAINED that START is a self-help program because "if anything is going to happen in a community it is going to have to happen because of people in the community."

New areas of focus identified by the START groups Wednesday will be outlined in a future public meeting of the organization.

Among the key needs identified this time around includes:

·Development of a communitywide calendar

 Fostering inter-local cooperation between governments and schools with an eye toward shared curricula and services through interactive television and other technologies

. Development of affordable housing in terms of apartments and mobile home parks.

. Doing something about the old

tion and cooperation between area government entities, especially encouraging county government involvement.

"YOU'VE GOT something going here in Wayne that is going to pay off far into the future," said Clark. He told the group to keep working to achieve its goals and to also meet regularly to replan and revise plans.

He especially commended local START leader Mrs. Phelps for keeping the ball rolling and he urged the whole community to give her and the rest of the START group its support.

Tour is available

Participants are being sought to join a tour to Lincoln on April 16

Guidance counselors, adults exploring a career change, high school youth 14 years of age or older, and parents are encouraged to attend the two day seminar. The deadline for registrations is April 9, but space is limited to the first 70 people.

The tour will be a fun, low cost way to learn more about potential career areas provided by the University of Nebraska Lincoln, according to Lynda Cruickshank, extension agent for the Northeast Five Extension Unif.

The tour will divide into two tracks on Friday when they visit the campus health careers and agriculture/biotechnology.

Friday night will be a pizza party and students will spend the night in the dormitory. Hotel rooms have been reserved for the adults. Saturday there will be a special seminar on financial aid, college test scores and student registration.

The tour plans to travel by bus. The tentative schedule is for the group to leave from Wayne at 7 a.m. on Friday, April 16 and return by 5 p.m. on Saturday, April 17. However, the number and location of participants will determine the exact pick-up locations and times

The registration fee for the tour is $10 per youth and $40 per adult.

Registration forms may be picked up at your local University of Nebraska-Cooperative Extension Offices. Copies of the registration materials will also be sent to all area high school counselors.

By Kevin Peterson Sports editor

The Wayne Herald All-Area Boys Basketball Team was released today with 12 of the area's top players earning special recognition. Wayne heads the list with four players while Laurel and Wakefield each landed three on the squad. Winside and Allen rounded out the list with one player each on the annual squad.

The all-area team is selected by the Wayne Herald sports staff and is based solely on the performances of the athletes as seen by the newspa-Coaches and all-conference selections had no impact on the se-

Brad Uhing—A perfect example of hard work paying off is Wayne senior Brad Uhing. The 6-4 guard made tremendous strides during the past three seasons and finished his senior season as one of the finest players in all of Northeast

Nebraska and perhaps the state. Uhing led the 20-3 Blue Devils in scoring at nearly 15 per game and when you consider the potential scoring threats Wayne possessed with four players averaging in double figures, Uhing's accomplishments were quite astounding.

His best game of the year came in the Great Northeast Nebraska Shoot Out against Norfolk Catholic when he drained the nets for 30 points including nine, 3-pointers. Bobby Barnes—One of the areas most prolific scoring threats was Wayne senior Bobby Barnes. He quarterbacked the Blue Devils to their most wins in school history by averaging 13.5 points per game. He drained 58, 3-pointers on the

He led the Blue Devils in assists with 100 on the season and was the catalyst on defense, recording 70 steals. Barnes finished his career as a three-year starter.

Regg Carnes—One of the area's most dangerous one-on-one players was Wayne senior Regg Carnes. His ability to go to the hoop against anyone is a prime example why he spent the most time of any Wayne player on the free throw line with 99 more attempts than his closest teammate.

Carnes is another three-year starter for Bob Uhing's squad and he finished his final campaign averaging 13 points a game. He notched 41 steals and dished out 45 assists.

Matt Blomenkamp—Wayne junior Matt Blomenkamp was the fourth Blue Devil to average in double figures this season at 10.6 points per game. His contributions to Wayne's success was monumental in that he was a vital force on the boards as well as on the offensive end of the floor.

Blomenkamp led Wayne in rebounding with 164 caroms on the year for just over seven boards a game average. He blocked 21 shots, had 33 steals and dished out 61 as-

Travis Monson-Laurel senior Travis Monson will best be remembered for what he accomplished on the football field in leading the Bears to state, but he wasn't half bad on the basketball court either.

Monson was a consistent performer for second-year coach Clayton Steele and he provided the leadership the Bears needed this year with such a young overall team.

Jeremy Reinoehl—The name Reinoehl will be around for the next couple years as Jeremy and his twin brother Jared look to lead the Bears in their junior and senior campaigns.

Jeremy Reinochl finished his sophomore year as the Bears top scorer and was among the rebound leaders as well. Laurel's bid to resume to the elite in basketball will undoutedly pass through Reinochl's Cody Carstensen-Another quality sophomore that played for Laurel was Cody Carstensen. Carstensen was a major factor in the Bears first winning season in several years.

His ability to sink-the long range jumper as well as penetrate the lane and dish off to the open man made him a tough player to defend against and yet he's only a of playing with heart is Wakefield senior Ben Dutton. Dutton had to battle all season against much bigger opponent's but the sub-sixfooter refused to be out-done and he led the Trojans in scoring and rebounding at 11.7 points per game and 11.9 rebounds per outing including 100 offensive boards.

As a two-year starter Dutton hauled down over 500 total rebounds. He proved to be a smart player as well, taking only shots that he knew was within his range which led to his shooting nearly 60 percent from the field.

Larry Johnson-If you had to label an area player as the human bruise, the title would go to Wakefield senior Larry Johnson who drew a total of 17 offensive charges throughout the year.

Johnson rounded out his career with an 11 point average this season and nearly seven rebounds a game. During conference play he connected on 55 percent of his

Cory Brown-Our third sophomore.

Ben Dutton—A classic case

finished the year with an 11.6 point per game average while hauling down 8.3 rebounds a game from his guard position.

He was the Trojans top free throw shooter and led the team in assists with 80. Brown was a great compliment to Johnson and Dutton and really did some nice things for coach Brad Hoskins in his first year

In conference play Brown really rose to the occasion, averaging over 14 points a game and nailing 56 percent of his three-point field goal attempts.

Cory Miller-Onc of the most dominant players in the herald coverage area this year was Winside senior Cory Miller. Miller was by far the leading scorer and rebounder for Shannon Pospisil's team with a 19 point per game average and a 15 boards per game hitter.

Miller had the ability to sink the long range jumper and when he was grooved it didn't seem to matter if you had a hand in his face or not. He was also the Wildcats leading free throw shooter.

Lane Anderson-Although

the Allen basketball team struggled through another tough season se-nior Lane Anderson did not. He was Jeff Schoning's most consistent performer throughout the season. averaging 12 points a game while hauling down 10-plus rebounds per outing

Anderson had just one game this season where he wasn't in double figures and that was coming off an injury.

That takes care of the all-area selections but there a few players that did not make the squad that deserve honorable mention status including Wayne's Robert Bell.

Allen's Casey Schroeder, Lau-rel's Jared Reinochl and Winside's John Hancock also earn honorable

The Area Coach of the Year Award goes to Wayne's Bob Uhing for leading the Blue Devils to a 20 season in his final season as the Wayne mentor. The Area Player of the Year goes to the Blue Devils Brad Uhing who edges out teammate Bobby Barnes and Winside's Cory Miller.

Wildcats lose twin bill to Creighton

The Wayne State baseball team played a double-header against NCAA Division I rated Creighton, Tuesday and John Manganaro's crew lost both contests, 8-1 and 5-4.

The 1-8 Wildcats were limited to just three hits in the first game, singles by Jeff Schneider, Tim McDermou and Jeff Burger, WSC scored its lone run in the top of the third inning and led until the bot-tom of the fifth when the host team tied the game.

Creighton went on to add five more runs in the sixth and one each in the seventh and eighth innings. Jeff Lutt took the pitching loss after pitching the first six innings and giving up six runs on six hits while striking out six and walking

Matt Peterson came in for relief of Lutt in the seventh and pitched the final two innings, allowing two runs on two hits while striking out three and walking none.

The second game was close throughout as WSC jumped out to a 2-0 lead after the first inning, only to have Creighton score three in the bottom of the same inning.

The Cats tied the game in fifth inning and took a 4-3 lead in the top of the seventh, but Creighton tied the game in the bottom of the seventh and scored the go-ahead and what proved to be the winning run in the bottom of the eighth inning. Jeff Gohr took the pitching loss after a seven inning outing that allotted six hits and two runs along with two walks while striking out nine in a fine performance. Jon Janssen came in for relief in the final inning and gave up three runs on one hit along with three walks.

WSC finished with four runs on eight hits and three errors while the Bluejays had five runs on seven hits and two errors. Anthony Brown and Chad Cerveny led the 'Cats from the plate with two hits apiece in-cluding a single-and-double by Brown and pair of singles by Cer

Cory Reeder provided some power with his first home run of the season while Jeff Schneider belted a double. Mike Stauffer and Travis Nedved each singled to round out the hitting attack for WSC.

Wrestlers compete in Wisner

WAYNE-Several Wayne junior wrestlers took part in the recent Wisner-Pilger Junior Wrestling Meet last weekend. In the first and second grade division there were three Wayne champions in Aaron Jorgensen, Mike Sturm and Matt Roeber.

Jon Ehrhardt placed second while Lee Clarkson, Matt Webb and Jeff Paustian placed third. Jerrod Patterson, Jacob Kay, Jon Stevens, Luke Grone and Kris Roberts all placed fourth in their respective weight

In the third and fourth grade division, four earned championship status in Chris Woehler, Lynn Junck, Lucas Munter and Tanner Nie-mann. Brad Hansen, Danny Roeber and Adam Jorgensen each placed second while Josh Carr and Ben Meyer each placed fourth. Sean Addison, Jason Beiermann and Jon Pickinpaugh also participated: In the fifth and sixth grade category Ryan Hank placed first while Jesse Rethwisch and Joe Paustian each placed runner-up. Robbie Sturm, Craig Fredrickson and Chad Scardino placed third. Jeremy Marburger also took part. In the seventh and eighth grade division Tyler Endicott placed first ile Jeremiah Rethwis Marburger participated but did not place.

Baseball schedule changes

WAYNE-Due to poor field conditions the Wayne State baseball team has undergone some schedule changes. The double-header scheduled for Thursday in Sioux City against Briar Cliff has been postponed indefinitely.

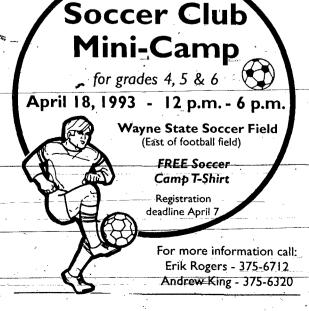

The Saturday home games with Jamestown, N.D. and Regis have been changed to an 11 a.m. game with Jamestown in Yankton, S.D. On Sunday, the 'Cats will travel to Omaha to play South Dakota State in a twinbill beginning at noon. Monday's home game with Southwest State of Minnesota has been cancelled.

SCIENCE FAIR

Many people enjoyed viewing the variety of science projects completed by students in grades six through nine at the Wakefield School on March 16. Students who made the projects were on hand to discuss their projects with judges and visitors.

Dr. Marvin Bichel, who was one of the volunteer judges, said he was very impressed with some of the youth projects and stated some compared to college level work.

Displays ranged from a working robot, to plants grown in a variety of conditions, to which popcorn pops the best. Housewives could learn which laundry detergents worked best, what happens if you leave out an ingredient when baking cookies and much more. Also displayed were some math projects, the chemistry class photographs and a number of bug collections.

Students were to receive the judges comment sheets later in the week, and also will be awarded ribbons for their efforts.

Leaders must first get their act in order and be ready for whatever challenge confronts them, according Bruce Laingen, former charge d'affairs at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran during the hostage crisis.

"Human beings are like tea bags," Laingen told 102 of America's top student leaders. "They don't know what they're made of until they get into hot water."

Laingen was the keynote speaker at the 18th Century III Leaders national conference in Colonial Williamsburg, Va. The 102 high school seniors — two from each state and the District of Columbia - debated key national issues, listened to business and government officials and competed for a $10,000 college scholarship.

Each had already won a $1,000 scholarship, having been selected as a state Century III Leader based on academic achievement, community and school service, knowledge of current events and quality of a Projection for Innovative Leadership in which the students identified a challenge facing America and posed solutions to it.

The program is funded by the Shell Oil Company and administered by the National Association of Secondary Schools Principals

These intelligent and committed young people are among our next generation of leaders," said Philip J. Carroll, executive vice president of administration, Shell Oil Company. "Having met these Century III student leaders, my faith in our country's future has been reinforced.

In addition to Laingen, the student leaders heard Carroll; Michael Novak, American Enterprise Institute; Harold L. Hodgkinson, director, Center for Demographic Policy; Douglas Becker, president, Sylvan Learning Systems; and Timothy J. Dyer, NASSP executive director.

"You are meeting in the birthplace of our nation, and as future leaders, you must keep the revolu-tion alive," Dyer charged the high school seniors. "This is an exciting time to be alive, and our future is
