

Grounding breaking set Way is paved for construction of child care facility

By LaVon Anderson
News Editor

As with the young children they will be caring for, the Wayne Child Care Board continues to move step-by-step toward final completion of a new community child care facility in Wayne.

Earlier this month, the board awarded bids for construction of the building to Otte Construction Co. of Wayne, with the major sub-contractors being Wood Plumbing & Heating and Mitchell Electric, also of Wayne.

"I think it's wonderful and we're very thankful that the Wayne contractors were able to come in as the low bidders," said Mary Kranz, president of the Wayne Child Care Board.

Kranz added that 10 general contractors picked up building plans for the child care facility, with six actually bidding on the project. She said the bids were opened in February and reviewed by the architectural firm of Krhounek-Povondra in Omaha, who recommended to the Wayne Child Care Board that they accept the bid of Otte Construction Co.

THE BUILDING will be located on a one and a half acre site of land located on East 14th Street across the road from the new ESU J Tower School, purchased in January from Dave Gardner in his new Vintage Hill subdivision.

Appropriately, ground breaking for the new Wayne Child Care building, which will do business as Rainbow World, is scheduled during Week of the Young Child on Friday, April 16 at 9:30 a.m.

"We want everyone to mark their calendars," said Kranz, adding that the weekly Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce coffee will follow at 10 a.m. in the Benthack Building at Wayne State College and will be hosted by the college's Child Development Center.

KRANZ SAID the projected cost for the new building and landscaping is between $235,000 and $240,000, depending on whether or not the facility is declared exempt from state taxes which could make a difference of as much as $7,000.

Partial funding comes from a Community Development Block Grant totaling $159,000 and used for a portion of the land purchase, along with building construction costs.

Kranz said the Child Care Board will still need to take out a loan anywhere from $85,000 to $100,000 to complete the facility and that it will not be federally funded once it is up and running.

The facility will be furnished by applying for other grants, along with fund raisers and donated items.

IN CONJUNCTION with the ground breaking ceremony in April, Kranz said the Wayne Child Care Board will begin a major capital fund raising campaign to help raise $25,000 to cover start-up costs.

"We'll be facing a variety of start-up costs, including basic inside furnishings and insurance," said Kranz, "and we need to be able to plant our feet firmly in hopes of becoming a more viable business."

Stage is set for Laurel centennial celebration

By Nancy Wiese
Herald Correspondent

Some of the local residents in Laurel have been looking pretty scruffy this spring.

The current local trend in facial hair isn't due to a lack of razor blades or shaving cream — these men are just caught up in a turn-of-the-century spirit.

This spirit has also moved some women of Laurel to begin their bonnet selection and designing.

On June 10, 11, 12 and 13, Laurel residents will be celebrating their Centennial and these women and men will be ready.

The Centennial chairpersons of Laurel, L.J. Mallatt, Harriet Munter and Elizabeth Norvell, have planned three full days of fun for the shorn and unshorn, bonneted and bar-headed, alike.

Activities begin at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 10 with a bank robbery and hanging on Main Street, and conclude with closing ceremonies at 9:30 p.m. on Sunday, June 13 in the city park.

A FEW OF the activities scheduled between these times include the centennial parade, kiddie parade, a centennial pageant, the crowning of royalty, alumni banquet, bicycle marathon, horseshoe tournament, craft show, petting zoo, quilt show, antique display, golf tournament, carnival, comedy show, air show, a special postal cancellation, a fun run, community worship service, ranch rodeo, free barbecue, ice cream social, a trail ride, a main street dance, square dance and a beard and bonnet contest.

A unique event at the Laurel Centennial will be the arrival of the torch bearer.

The town of Laurel was originally named Claramont and was located one and a half miles from present day Laurel. In 1893, this township was moved to the railroad crossing and was named "Laurel."

The torch will be lit at the location where Claramont once existed, and will be carried the one and a half miles to the Laurel City Park.

The lighting of the centennial flame will kick off the activities on Friday, June 11 at 9 a.m.

ON FRIDAY, April 2, the Laurel centennial kick-off will be held at the Wagon Wheel Steakhouse.

Events include dinner, a Sweet Adeline contest, barbershop quartet contest, slave auction, a Vegas night (special Laurel currency will be provided with each paid ticket) and an auction of prizes.

Centennial dressing is encouraged and prizes will be awarded. Tickets are being sold in advance.

If anyone would like to volunteer to help with any centennial event, they can contact any of the centennial chairpersons. Volunteers are always welcome.

The centennial chairpersons expect a huge turnout for the celebrations and report that local Laurel motels are completely booked for that weekend, along with other motels in the area.

Memo sent addressing city zoning

Wayne City Administrator Joe Salitros is not taking last week's rebuke from the city Planning Commission lying down.

In a lengthy memo to the commissioners, dated last Wednesday, Salitros chastised the body for its lack of support for the city administration's ruling on a zoning matter involving the Nebraska Bus Company's purchase of the old Ellingson Motors Building for use as a bus maintenance and storage facility.

City zoning officer Don Seifken had ruled that the bus company's use of the building was not permitted under the zoning rules because bus depots with service garages are not permitted in the B-2 zone.

WHEN ATTORNEY Duane Schroeder, representing the bus company, brought the matter to the planning commission last week arguing that the new use of the building would be similar in scope to the old car dealership and was nothing like a "bus depot", the planning commission agreed and members criticized the city officials for being too restrictive and "nit picky" in their interpretation.

Schroeder said he had been told verbally by city officials a month ago that the building would meet zoning codes as a bus service facility.

In his memo, Salitros countered Schroeder's claim, saying the city's only communication on the use of the facility for a bus service center was a letter to the bus company owner notifying him that the zoning ordinance did not allow this use of the property.

THE COMMISSION should have supported its zoning officer's interpretation of the ordinance rather than "putting their staff liaison on the proverbial rack and then publicly whipping him, too," said Salitros in his memo.

He suggested that the building could be better used as a car dealership and said he had been working with a dealer who was trying to locate in the building when the bus company bought it.

Salitros did take a share of the blame in what he described as a "zoning fiasco," when he said he was wrong in initially agreeing at last Monday's planning commission meeting that the bus business was similar to a car dealership in that it allowed maintenance and outside storage of motor vehicles.

"I DO BELIEVE we acted incorrectly Monday night, and suggest we all make an effort to follow the Code we have fashioned for our City," said Salitros.

It is expected the matter will be discussed during tonight's city council meeting during the public forum portion of the agenda.

LIFE SUPPORT — A CRISIS IN THE MAKING?

There's an extraordinary eight-hour series starting on PBS on April 5. It's called "Medicine at the Crossroads," and is narrated by George Page. It offers a rarely shown insight into the world of medicine, and into the way medicine is practiced around the world. For example, in the second episode, "Code of Silence," we learn that in Japan, the patient lets the doctor make most of the decisions and rarely asks questions or voices concerns about the doctor's abilities. In the United States, the patient is encouraged to become part of the process. However, some doctors say this contributes to their loss of "supremacy" or "stature," which then diminishes their power to heal.

This factor is often the source of problems between elderly patients and doctors who have little experience in geriatric medicine. I get lots of letters from patients and patients' relatives who complain that doctors too often treat seniors like children, and discourage or disparage their questioning.

The third episode, "Life Support," which airs April 12, is especially relevant to the growing debate in this country concerning the number of dependent elderly persons whose need for medical services will grow enormously. It's estimated that by the year 2050, modern medical techniques will have lengthened the life span of some one million Americans to 100. That's the plus side of the ledger; the minus side is that some 50 percent of those persons may have Alzheimer's disease.

"Life Support" also examines issues that question the ethics of using artificial means of sustaining life in those persons who are terminally ill and suffering great pain, or who may be experiencing the painful indignities of their treatment or condition.

On the human side, much can be argued either way; whether it's more humane to terminate life support at a certain point, or whether it's unethical to do so. Needless to say, I've stressed the importance of having a Living Will so that your decision can become a matter of record. It removes the painful necessity of having someone who loves you from having to choose. On the strictly economic level, the largest proportion of our medical expenditures in the United States is devoted to the last few months of life. The question the program presents is, should some of this money be diverted elsewhere?

Road construction soon

Spring has arrived, according to the calendar. If the weather ever improves, highway improvement projects will begin across the state. We join the Nebraska Department of Roads in reminding motorists to be alert while driving near road or bridge construction during this construction season.

When driving through areas of construction, lanes may narrow, barriers may line the road and sharp curves may make the going unusual. Reduced speeds are posted through many locations for the safety of motorists as well as workers who may be in the area. These speed limits will be strictly enforced.

For ensured safety, follow all guide and warning signs, watch for equipment and workers around construction sites and heed posted speed limits.

Nice idea, but not new

Dear Editor:
I read a recent article (after it was brought to my attention) about plans for a new retirement facility in Wayne. What a wonderful advantage to bring your community of senior citizens! Being the director of a similar facility in Northeast Nebraska, I do disagree with Mr. Peterson's statement, "there is nothing like it in Northeast Nebraska."

Nebraska. The Meadows of Norfolk was built in 1989 and has exactly the same services and facilities as what is being proposed in Wayne with 50 independent living apartments and 41 residential care suites rented on a monthly basis also.

Anyone in your community is more than welcome to come tour our facility. May you be as successful in your venture as we have been in Norfolk.

Remember Pearl Harbor?

Dear Editor:
Remember Pearl Harbor!
When the Japanese knew they could safely attack us, they bombed Pearl Harbor.
At least one Moslem is responsible for bombing the World Trade Center.
Prophecies are made to be broken. We must not allow the yellow race or the Moslems to take control. Persecution of Christians would return. Protect our descendants from such a life.
Don't let the yellow race get control in 55 years or less by buying us. They can do it unless we prevent them. Let's require a fair exchange with Japan of our products. In sight of the nation's capital is a huge store operated by Japanese businessmen and selling products made in Japan. They own banks in California and hotels and much of the businesses in Los Angeles.

We must require any foreign businessmen to pay U.S. income taxes just as American businessmen.
If Japan ever gets us under their heel again, they'll do it without dropping bombs!

Information age

Next generation sees no need to read

Mankind is building a future where survival will depend on the individual's ability to gather and interpret information quickly and clearly.

In all likelihood, we have entered that future age already. The information age we call it. Increasing numbers of careers are thought-process based. Gathering, interpreting, disseminating information are the key abilities employers are now, and will be, looking for.

The number of "no-brains" jobs are on a drastic decline.

Even (what used to be) a lowly janitor now has to know the chemical make-up and safety procedures for the cleaning solvents he uses. Among other things, he has to be able to analyze a maintenance manual and keep records on that complex computer-controlled heating system. He has to read and follow the precise operator's guide on that new automated floor cleaning machine. If he can't do these things ... he's history.

In three words, readin', writin' and 'rithmetic.
At the same time we are building a future where economic survival depends on reading abilities we are also raising up a generation that scores poorly on reading. It's a generation that hates to read. It's a generation that thinks reading is unnecessary. "We don't need to wade through the boring owner's manual. We'll wait for the video to come out."
Writing is a thing of the past, replaced by the telephone. And ditto for arithmetic, replaced by calculators and computers.

Language skills test scores are on the decline for students entering college. Educators and other leaders in society are trying to figure out how to reverse the trend.

It would be easy to blame the educational system in America for the decline. That it should share in the blame is obvious, but its share should be ranked somewhere in the small fractions.

The education system has fought an, at times losing literacy battle against the disintegrating family structure, the two-minute attention spans of children raised on fast acting television fakery and the society which pays more homage to sports and recreation than it does to academics and substance.

Witness the recent election. Surveys indicated that most voters based their decision on what may have been said by the candidates in a 30-second televi-

Basic level has no basic appeal

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent.
The Nebraska Press Association

Pop singer Bruce Springsteen, who I consider one of the important philosophers of our time, recently wrote a song about cable TV called "57 Channels and There's Nothing On."

Well, I don't know about that. There's always something on the home shopping network, that is, if you're into cheap gold jewelry.

Bruce definitely wouldn't find much worth watching on the new cut-rate cable TV packages that lots of cable companies across the state are all of the sudden creating.

In towns all across the state, companies are creating a new "basic" level of service. They usually include just the same over-the-air stations you can get with a good antenna, a superstation or two, and maybe a home shopping network thrown in for good measure.

ALL THE STATIONS that have much appeal, ESPN ("ESPN, ESPN, You're the reason I'm single again," go the words to one new country song I heard), MTV, Nickelodeon (love that Donna Reed), TNT, CNN, The Family Channel, Discovery and other popular networks are all put on a higher level of service for which subscribers only would have to pay a few bucks more.

What they've created is a very basic level of service that basically has no appeal to anyone, which is probably the idea, basically.

City officials suspect the real purpose of the new tier of service is not to offer anything new to customers, but to avoid local regulation under the federal cable act that is supposed to take effect this week.

Call me crazy, but the timing of the recent changes certainly makes that seem likely.

THE FEDERAL CABLE act, probably one of the most significant pieces of legislation passed by Congress in recent years (Heck, what else have they passed? It's true, sad, but true.), allows cities to regulate the price charged for the lowest level of cable service a company offers.

So if the company offers a lowest level of cable service with nothing on it, then the cities get to regulate nothing. Pretty simple. Tricky, but simple.

The companies say there's nothing tricky about it. They say they are simply giving customers something they have always wanted: a cheaper, scaled down version of cable.

Which I could believe if they weren't offering it for just a few bucks less than the regular service. As businessmen, they know what they're offering is not anything people would pay for. One company is even charging a $75 fee to switch to the cheaper service. What a deal.

THE UPPER TIERS of service where all the popular channels are located will still be regulated, but by the federal government. If a city or person had a complaint about how they were being treated by a cable company, they would literally have to make a federal case of it.

The cities are now hoping the feds step in and do something about it and give them more to regulate. That may be a false hope. It appears the problem was the federal legislation passed by Congress.

I guess we'll just have to stay tuned. Better yet, read a book.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Wayne State sluggers win two of three over weekend

John Manganaro's Wayne State baseball team won two of three games over the weekend to improve their season record to 3-9.

On Saturday the 'Cats defeated Jamestown College of North Dakota, 9-3 in Yankton, S.D. Steve Paxson earned his first win of the season from the mound after pitching seven innings.

Paxson gave up three runs on six hits while striking out three and walking three. Bill Guenther came in and earned the save with two innings of relief, allowing one hit and striking out two.

WSC finished with nine runs on nine hits and one error while Jamestown had three runs on seven hits and one error. The Wildcats trailed 2-0 heading to the bottom of the seventh inning when they exploded for eight runs led by Tim McDermott's three-run home run.

Jeff Schneider blasted a three-run double for the 'Cats and both McDermott and Schneider also singled in the game. Travis Nedved hit a pair of singles and Mike Stauffer doubled while Russ Hamer and Chris Loofe rounded out the attack with base hits.

On Sunday the Wildcats traveled to Omaha where they played South Dakota State in a double-header. WSC lost the opener 4-3 but rebounded to win the nightcap, 3-2 over the 14th rated NCAA-II Jackrabbits.

Jeff Gohr took the loss in the first game which went extra innings. Gohr pitched a complete game, giving up four runs on four hits while striking out four and walking three.

WSC finished with three runs on four hits and two errors. The 'Cats led 3-1 heading to the seventh inning when SDSU hit a two-run double with two outs in the inning to tie the game.

"In the eighth inning SDSU led off with a double and they later scored on a physical error by our team," Manganaro said. "Jeff really pitched a great game for us and it was a tough game for us to lose."

Tim McDermott was the offensive catalyst for the 'Cats with a pair of singles and three rbi. Dave Shields also belted a double for WSC.

"We were emotionally drained after that first game," Manganaro said. "I thought our guys did a great job of coming back to win the second contest. It wasn't one of our better games swinging the bat but we got the job done."

WSC took a 1-0 lead after the first inning but trailed 2-1 after the third inning. The 'Cats tied the score in the fifth before winning it in the seventh. Anthony Brown led off the seventh inning with a free ride to first base after being hit by an SDSU pitch.

Brown moved to third base on a Russ Hamer single with one out and he later scored on a ground ball to first base from Cory Reeder. Reeder hit the ball on the ground to the first baseman and instead of firing the ball home he stepped on the bag at first for the force out and then tried to relay the ball home for the tag out but Anthony had already crossed home plate," Manganaro said.

Jeff Lutt picked up his initial win of the season from the mound after pitching a complete game, giving up two runs on five hits while striking out four and walking six.

Hamer was WSC's leading hitter with three singles in four plate appearances along with an rbi. Tim McDermott notched the other hit with a double.

"Despite our record of 3-9 we have a good baseball team," Manganaro said. "We have a good group of kids who really work hard, but we've faced some really quality teams to this point in the season."

"Our team's personality won't let us just lay down and die when we get behind," Manganaro added. "We've been in every game we've played with the exception of our second game against Cal-Poly Pomona. We're getting good senior leadership right now from the likes of Jeff Gohr, Mike Stauffer and Tim McDermott."

The Wildcats will travel to play NCAA-1 rated Creighton on Tuesday in a double-header in Omaha before traveling to play Morning-side on Friday. As of now, the 'Cats are scheduled to host UNO and Kearney on Saturday and Sunday in double-header action both days, at 1 p.m. at Hank Overin Field in Wayne.

Wayne Rec teams host Wakefield

WAYNE-The Wayne Recreation girls seventh and eighth grade basketball teams hosted Wakefield, Monday at the City Auditorium with both Wayne teams earning victories.

In seventh grade action it was Wayne winning by a 23-19 score as Lindsay Baack led the way with seven points. Mindy McLean followed with four points and Jenni Beiermann scored three while Molly Linster, Carla Kemp, Rebecca Dorcy and Alycia Jorgensen scored two each. Marci Post rounded out the scoring with one point.

The eighth grade won by a 56-45 margin as Katie Lutt led the way with 16 points. Kari Wetterberg tossed in 11 and Melissa Weber scored eight followed by Katy Wilson with seven. Anne Wiseman and Lucy Bebee scored five apiece while Kellie Lubberstedt netted four.

Softball captains meeting April 8

WAYNE-There will be a Wayne men's softball association team captains meeting on Thursday, April 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the Wayne Herald. All teams interested in playing in the Wayne league this summer have to have at least one person at this meeting.

Officers for the new year will be elected and numerous changes for the coming season will be discussed.

WSC gridders sign two more

WAYNE-Hartington Cedar Catholic's all-state kicker Jason Merkel and Sioux City East High's all-state lineman Garret Hoffman will continue their academic and football careers at Wayne State, according to fourth-year WSC head coach Dennis Wagner.

Merkel, a 6-0, 195-pound punter/place-kicker, was a three-time all-state and all-conference selection at Cedar Catholic High School. He tied the state record with four field goals in one game, and ranks second in state history for the longest field goal, (49 yards).

"Anytime you get a three-time all-state punter/kicker you've landed yourself a good one," Wagner said. "Nebraska and Wyoming have tried to convince Jason to go there, but he chose Wayne State. Jason's such a good athlete, he could work into a position at WSC. He's kicked several 40-yard field goals throughout his career, which gives us another offensive weapon."

Hoffman, a 6-5, 215-pound offensive lineman, earned all-conference all-city, and all-northwest Iowa honors at Sioux City East High School. "Garret is a big person who has a lot of natural ability," Wagner said. "He needs to spend some time in the weight room, and will red-shirt his first year at WSC. We were very impressed with his accomplishments his senior year, and in his testing during his visit. "He's going to be a big fellow some day, and should have a bright future at WSC."

What is 'Normal' Body Temperature?
Many individuals reach for aspirin or acetaminophen when they feel feverish or when their body temperature rises above normal. Since the 19th century, this 'normal' body temperature has been assumed by many persons to be 98.6° F when taken by mouth. New research indicates that normal temperatures vary among healthy individuals and even throughout the day. A recent article in Journal of the American Medical Association reviews a study of 148 healthy men and women ages 18 to 40 years. Their oral temperatures were measured four times a day for three days. The average (mean) temperature was found to be 98.2° F - slightly lower than the value which has been accepted as normal. The maximum normal early morning temperature was 98.9° F. The highest normal temperature was 99.9° F. The authors concluded that overall oral temperatures greater than 99.9° F should be regarded as abnormal.

From the Superintendent — Dr. Dennis Jensen

Since the beginning of the decade of the 80's with the release of a very critical document of our American schools entitled "America at Risk," school reform has been a topic of concern of state and national legislators, educational leaders, and educational research.

- 1. All children in America will start school ready to learn.
2. The high school graduation rate will increase to at least 90 percent.
3. American students will leave grades four, eight and twelve having demonstrated competency in challenging subject matter including English, mathematics, science, history and geography.

Since the release of these goals, individual states began working on their own plans for restructuring education and Nebraska's deputy commissioner, Dr. Doug Christensen, was influential in developing the High Performance Model which has been adopted by the state department of education.

The first step in the process of restructuring is to organize a committee comprised of a representation of the local communities. The task of the committee is to give the district a better focus by developing a mission or vision statement that will serve to be the foundation of every curriculum decision made in the future.

We are just beginning this process and it is an exciting time! It is also a time when the district and community will be dealing with change. Change is difficult to deal with due to all the uncertainties during the process; it is a time of confusion caused by questioning methods and strategies used in the past and not knowing what the future may bring.

From the Principal — David Lutt

Achievement testing will be held during the week of April 13-16. Wayne Public School uses the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills (CTBS).

The purpose of tests is to gain a better understanding of the individual student. Tests are best used to help teachers design appropriate educational programs for a students because they uncover areas of strength and weakness. Tests also provide the student with an opportunity to apply what he/she knows about problems in a new situation.

Tests can provide information about areas in which the child may need extra support or praise from parents. Looking at the results of a child's test over a period of time can provide parents with some notion of their child's ability and achievement.

It must be emphasized again that test scores are only indicators. They are not infallible measures of intelligence, ability or performance. That is why we must be careful to use them only for designated purposes.

If you have any concerns over the CTBS tests, please feel free to call me. I will be happy to discuss any items with you.

Wayne High Vocal Department

Kathryn Ley
On April 2 and 3, the Wayne High vocal department, under the direction of Kathryn Ley, will be performing "The Wizard of Oz."

On March 30, the Wayne Middle School swing choir and the Wayne High Jazz Choir performed at the Northeast Community College Jazz Festival.

On April 23, the Wayne High Vocal Department will be taking large groups, small groups and solos to the District Music Contest at Northeast Community College.

On April 22 and 25, the choir will travel to Kansas City to perform at the World's of Fun Choral Festival.

April 27 is the date scheduled for the Wayne High Music Awards Banquet. Members of choir and band will be receiving honors at the dinner meeting.

Special Education Bob Uhing, Director

Effective staff development is key to the provision of appropriate educational services for students with disabilities. Each year Wayne Public Schools provides special educators with on-going, change-producing staff development.

Special education staff attended both local and national conferences this year, including conferences in Kansas City, San Francisco, Centennial, Nebraska and Wayne. Most of these conferences were paid for through a trust fund established by Dorothy Ley allowing inservice to help staff work with learning disabled students.

When staff returns from these conferences, materials they received are shared with appropriate staff members. A written report which describes innovations and the educational changes that are being emphasized is also given to Dr. Jensen. Staff development allows our teachers, administrators and paraprofessionals the opportunity to keep current on new educational trends. It also enables us to provide the best education possible for our "special" students.

NEWS FROM SCHOOL WAYNE SCHOOLS NEWSLETTER

Kindergarten

March came "In Like a Lamb" for the Wayne-Carroll kindergartners. We found March to be a month full of activity.

Our science and social studies units filled the month with special activities and speakers on recycling, Our Healthy Heart, Eye Care and Spring!

The letters and sounds (R, S, T, U, V) were taught in language arts, rhyming and blending sounds have been introduced. The children have begun to write in their own journals. It's so exciting!

The art activities included in our units were making lions and lambs, dioramas, stenciling, shamrocks, creative shape pictures, spring robins and painting clouds.

Math activities have been the reviewing of basic shapes, learning about money, counting by 5's and 10's and discussing the concepts of more/less and the same.

Middle School Band Mr. Kopperud

Seventh and eighth grade band will participate in the Norfolk Junior High Band Clinic on Saturday, April 3. Solos and small ensembles play in the morning and the band plays in the afternoon. The exact times of the performances are not yet known. Please make a special effort to attend. Parents are always welcome.

Seventh and eighth grade band members who are accepted will participate in the Bloomfield Honor Band on Saturday, April 17 at Bloomfield.

A monthly feature brought to you by The Wayne City Schools with space donated by The Wayne Herald and Morning Shopper.

Music Mrs. Kopperud

It has been some time since I last wrote about my classes. The students have learned many new terms, such as phrases, fermata, Rondo form, ties, D.C. al Fine, Fine, AB form and the third grade has been dancing a lot. The students have sung about trains, barges, seasons of the year, cotton and whales. It is fun and exciting.

The elementary spring music program will be on Monday, May 10th at 7:30. Some of the songs you will be hearing are "Woolly Bully," "Bubble Gum in my Hair," "I Lost my Homework" and "How Much is That Doggie In The Window?" It should be a fun-filled evening. I invite you all to attend and share in the fun.

Attention Sixth Grade Parents

The sixth grade has been introduced to a new and friendly face since their return from Christmas break. Trooper Randy Morehead, a Nebraska State Patrol officer comes to the sixth grade classrooms every Monday morning to instruct the students about D.A.R.E. (Drug and Alcohol Resistance Education). Officer Morehead helps the students understand the high risks and consequences which follow when an individual chooses to participate in the taking of drugs and alcohol.

April 6, at 7:30 parents please come to the Wayne Middle School library to meet Trooper Morehead and allow him to share his enthusiasm and profound need for such a program in our school systems. Mark your calendars because Trooper Morehead looks forward to meeting you.

First Grade

Hats off to all the First Grade students for reading all the required books for Book-It. We thank all the parents for taking time to listen to their child read. Our pizza party will be next month. We will continue to have challenges so Happy Reading!

We have discussed how to keep our teeth healthy and visited the dental clinic. We know that with healthy eating, proper brushing and regular visits to the dentist we can have our teeth for keeps. Mrs. Ellingson visited our room and discussed the effects of drugs, caffeine, nicotine and alcohol on our bodies. We listened to hearts with a stethoscope and tried to find our pulse on parts of our body. With good food, exercise and no smoking our hearts will be healthy too.

It was fun studying about our solar system and will be going to the college to the Planetarium to "Gaze at the Stars" and watch the sun come up.

Families are the main topic of discussion in Social Studies. Many families have come for "Family Day." Each one is so proud to show off their family to tell us all about them.

In math we have counted money using pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters. It's fun to play with our play money. We have also learned to tell time by the hour and half hour. Now we know when it's time for recess and when to go home in the afternoon. Of course, we haven't forgotten to study the number combinations. Adding and subtracting tens and ones was easy and fun.

On March 11 we had an assembly. A young man from the Bahamas treated us with Caribbean music. It was very enjoyable.

German Wayne High School Edith Zahniser

Congratulations to Sarah Blaser, German II, for being chosen first runner-up in the selection of prizewinners for a four-week trip to Germany. After placing third in Nebraska in the written part of the nation-wide test, she submitted an essay and competed in an oral interview, mostly in German. Sarah was competing with students from levels II and III, and very much held her own. The winner was a level IV student from Millard. Sarah will have another chance next year.

Students in German I are reviewing the material learned this quarter: how to prepare for a trip to Germany, make a phone call, read plane and train schedules, ask for information, visit a German family, go shopping, figure out metric weights and kilometers, find their way around Munich.

German II students are learning about housing in Germany, where a majority of people live in apartments in large cities-but-dream-of houses of their own.

German III students participated in German Visitation Day at Nebraska Wesleyan University. They heard a sample history lecture, in German, by Professor Patrick Hayden-Roy. According to Prof. Hayden-Roy, more than seven million Germans came to this country during the 19th century. The students, Dan Janke, Claire Rasmussen and Jennifer Schmitz, also joined a conversation group with German-speaking students and faculty.

In April, German Club members have the chance to see Wagner's opera "The Flying Dutchman" in a performance by Opera/Omaha. The opera will be sung in German, with subtitles in English.

Delta Epsilon Phi members Claire Rasmussen and Jennifer Schmitz began a new enrichment project. With the help of Mrs. Susan Siefken at the Wayne Care Centre, the students and their sponsor, Mrs. Zahniser, were introduced to Mrs. Paula Stark, a German-speaking resident at the Care Centre, who was born in Berlin in 1904 and came to Nebraska in 1924. Jennifer and Claire plan to visit with Mrs. Stark on Sundays.

Fourth Grade

We are racing into our last quarter of school. It doesn't seem like only nine weeks are left in the year. We have had many activities and studies going on this month...

Our studies have included using fractions in math, studying Indians of Nebraska, poetry writing in reading and speeding up spring with various science units correlating with the season. We thought this would be a good idea as many of us can hardly wait to go without coats and boots and don shorts and t-shirts.

Our activities have included a visit from the nurse on March 10 for "save your vision week." She told us about the importance of our eyes. We also went to our kindergarten pals to write Leprechaun stories. We enjoyed watching and listening to an assembly on March 11 about Caribe music. The young man was originally from Jamaica. His music told much about his homeland.

We are looking forward to the spring carnival given by the WEB group and the college play given in April.

Happy Easter to all and think spring!

Middle School Science Fair

April 29 from 7:30-8:30 p.m. is the date for the Middle School Science Fair. We are anticipating some unique and interesting demonstrations and experiments to be on display. Please encourage your child to participate in this event to enhance their understanding and knowledge of the world around them through "hands on" experiences.

Middle School Play

This year's all-school play, Freedom, will be performed on April 19 and 20 at 7:30 in the high school lecture hall. Tickets will be sold April 15 and 16; cost is $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Special activities planned for the week of April 5 will serve as enrichment of our history and our freedom. Students will have the opportunity to choose activities of interest to them. Some activities have a material fee: for example, students will be able to decorate a Freedom T-shirt — the $6 fee will include the T-shirt and paint to decorate it. Unless your child has a particular character to portray, the T-shirt may be worn in the play.

Physical Education

What a great year we have had in physical education. The new 40 minute periods have been the most exciting thing to happen in a long time. We can now spend 20 minutes on fitness and 20 minutes on new skills.

A big thank you to the parents of the fourth graders for letting our young men and women to the Achy Breaky-line dance at the basketball game. It was a great success.

Some other physical events coming up are Rope Jump for Heart, March 20 and the bike rodeo on April 22. Parents should feel free to attend any of these events.

WEB MEETING April 5 — 7 p.m. Elementary School Library Plans will be finalized for the carnival on April 24. Everyone helping with the carnival is asked to attend. Contact Mary Jarvi at 375-4310 or Leah Agler at 375-4973 to volunteer or if you have questions.

Or were you looking for a CPU with an upgradable socket, IDE controller with a graphics accelerator?"

"Maybe", Homer said. "We're sorta lookin' for a thinkin' doodad with red blinkin' lights and a couple of thingamajigs that has a place

My wife here wants it to have a doohickey on the side where she can feed all her papers in and they'll automatically be put in a filin' box inside. After the fool thing has read the bills...."

"You mean your wife, sir?"
"No! I mean that fancy box you're tryin' to sell me. After it's read the bills, we want it to be able to shell out a check to pay each bill. Have yer got anything like that for say around $32,00?"

"Our HyperWarp Model IV will do it for you Mr. Morefun. That runs $10,500."

"That's 'nuff to start a bank! They say 'Buy American!' I didn't wanta buy the whole dangd country! Come on Dora, let's go."

"At least my closet records won't get chip wrecked. An' hon, we still got cash other!"

Committee recommending no new taxes

By Sen. Kurt Hohenstein
District No. 17

We have now passed the halfway date of the legislative session. This week we move to full days on floor debate. While most committees have stopped meeting, the Appropriations Committee meets now from 6 to 10 p.m. after adjournment each day to discuss the state's budget crisis and prepare the upcoming biennium budget.

The Appropriations Committee is going to recommend a budget to the full legislative body that does not require a tax increase. Obviously this budget, because of the nature of the problem, will require some substantial cuts in state government services. Our job now is to try to ensure that those cuts are made most efficiently and do not adversely damage any institution. We are still looking at ideas which would consolidate, coordinate and improve the function of state government. There are some ideas out there which we may implement.

There is an awful lot of talk right now about tax increases, including expanding the sales tax on services, putting the sales tax back on food, income tax increases and fee increases. Whatever you call them, they are all tax increases and before we do any of these we must be very careful that the revenue is absolutely necessary to the essential functions of state government. Frankly this is not the time to raise additional taxes because we can expect a double hit when our tax bills from the federal government begin to come. If the federal government is serious about dealing with the federal deficit and the federal debt, then they are obviously going to have to raise revenues which means increased taxes. If we increase taxes at the federal and state level, we are asking the taxpayers to pay for even more than perhaps they can afford.

Several bills are coming up for debate which will take the better part of this week. LB 627, which is the Crime Control Act, has had some initial difficulties but there's a good chance that will be moved to select file and then various amendments will be added. LB 564, which is a bill introduced by Senator Connie Day and myself, deals with juveniles consuming alcohol. This was essential to impose administrative vice and revocations on minors who consume alcohol and operate motor vehicles. LB 110 is a bill introduced by Senator Lindsay changing the informed consent provisions relating to abortion. LB 137 is a bill which will eliminate the statute of repose. Statute of repose is a provision which prohibits any person injured as a result of a product defect from suing the company that manufactured the product, if the injury occurs more than 10 years after the product was originally placed in the stream of commerce. Nebraska is one of the few states that still has this law and there is some concern that it is unfair to Nebraskans who are injured by defective products. This law applies to all manufacturers whether they be Nebraska manufacturers or non-Nebraska manufacturers. Small businessmen and small manufacturers in Nebraska are concerned that this will increase the costs of their operation. I would very much appreciate your input regarding this matter.

Last week we considered LB 579 which was the phone records issue the Legislature continues to have with the state auditor. LB 579 would require an audit of the phone records either by the state auditor or by a licensed certified public accountant and the information derived from that audit would be made public. There is some thought that information would not be made public and would not be available, but that is not correct. I support LB 579 because I believe that it will require us to disclose all information relative to our phone records and without LB 579, such disclosure may not occur. Incidentally, whether the auditor is hired to audit the legislators phone records or not, it is not material to me because I have, as I indicated during the campaign, released and will continue to release all of my phone records to the state auditor for his review. My bill for long distance calls for the month of January was $211.60.

Please continue to contact me or my staff regarding any issues that affect you or Northeast Nebraska by contacting me at State Capitol, Lincoln, NE 68509; or calling me at 471-2716.

Two issues top list of district concerns

By Sen. Stan Schellpeper
District No. 18

I have received mail and telephone calls on many issues. Lately, two issues have been of particular interest to many of you in the district. One of them is the issue of worker's compensation and it has troubled lawmakers for some time now. To illustrate, the years between 1983 to 1992 saw a cost increase of approximately 106 percent.

Many factors have contributed to the increases: overcharges by physicians, friction costs such as paperwork and legal costs and worker's abuse. I believe a worker who is injured on the job should be compensated fairly, however, unreasonable cost increases such as this suggest some change is needed.

A task force has studied the issue and reached a solution that both business and labor groups can agree upon. Changes included in the bill would help reduce the occurrence of litigation in the system and would also introduce managed health care organizations. In addition, individuals would be allowed to choose their own physician if they do so before any injury. I believe the bill represents a good compromise that I think should help keep costs down from rising.

Another issue we have been discussing is LB 627. It has been called the "Crime Bill" because it addresses many criminal sentencing issues, defense procedures and correctional provisions. Included in the bill were provisions to lengthen prison sentences and institute mandatory minimum sentences, many of which targeted specific offenses such as those involving drug offenses.

Much of the concern over these provisions was focussed on the increase in prison populations they would bring. The state prisons are currently 150 percent over capacity and will remain 130 percent over capacity even with a new medium security facility in Lincoln. Many of the sentencing provisions have been taken out of the bill for the moment.

One feature of the bill that still remains is the "boot camp" provision. This would require the Director of Correctional Services to develop a program for first time or young offenders who could be sentenced for 90 days or less in the boot camp and be engaged in strenuous labor, attend educational, chemical dependency and mental health programs and undergo evaluations.

The camp would have an estimated cost of $4.6 million to build and $1.8 million per year to operate. I support the camp but, because of its cost and the objection some senators have that hard labor can be exploitative, I do not believe it will be implemented this year.

Local students top Citizen Bee

WAYNE - Wayne High School students Claire Rasmussen and Robert Bell received first and second place awards in the Nebraska Citizen Bee, a civic education program and national competition of the Close-Up Foundation based on American political and cultural history, government, geography, economics, and current events.

The first award was a $300 savings bond, and second was a $200 bond. Claire and Robert both advance to the state final in Lincoln on Saturday, April 24.

According to Wayne High School Principal Donald Zeiss, the Citizen Bee is designed to stimulate greater understanding of American heritage and the issues facing the country. It is also an opportunity to recognize academic achievement of young people.

Seminar addressing eye surgery

AREA - Persons who are near-sighted, who have astigmatism or who are interested in surgical correction of either condition are invited to a free seminar on Tuesday, April 13 at 5:30 p.m. in meeting room 1 at St. Luke's Regional Medical Center in Sioux City.

Radial keratotomy — the surgical correction of nearsightedness and astigmatism, has given millions of people the ability to see clearly without glasses or contact lenses.

At the seminar, "Alternatives to Glasses and Contact Lenses," internationally known refractive eye surgeon Dr. Vance Thompson of Ophthalmology, Ltd., in Sioux Falls will discuss the medical procedure and answer questions from the audience. While his practice is based in Sioux Falls, Thompson routinely sees clients at the Sioux City office of Dr. Timothy Moran and performs eye surgery in Sioux City.

To register for the free event, call The Professionals at St. Luke's at 279-3333, or toll free 1-800-252-8652.

Young poets have work published

By LaVon Anderson
News Editor

Four students from Wayne Middle School will see their names in print later this summer or early fall when their original poems are published in the 1993 edition of "Anthology of Poetry by Young Americans."

Eighth graders Ann Swerczek and Tony Polt, along with seventh grader David Boehle and sixth grader Brian Hochstein, were notified this month that their poems were selected by the American Academy of Poetry to appear in the publication.

The poetry writing program was conducted throughout schools nationally and is designed to foster creative expression among young people.

Parents of the young Wayne poets are Dave and Kay Swerczek, Roger and Lois Polt, Pam and Gary Boehle, and Dale and Laura Hochstein.

THIS IS the first time any of the students have had their poetry published.

Although Ann, David and Brian all agree that this was their first serious attempt at writing poetry, Tony said he has always enjoyed writing, especially poetry.

"I've gotten more into writing poetry within the last year," smiles Brian, adding that the title of his poem was "Abuse" and he got the idea from a book his class was reading, entitled "Summer of My German Soldier."

David's poem, entitled "Who is a Friend," focuses on his feelings following the move of a close friend. "I'll probably write more poetry if more of my friends move away," he smiles.

Ann said poetry allows her to write whatever she feels like writing. "There aren't any boundaries."

THE POETRY writing program conducted by the American Academy of Poetry was open to any student wishing to submit an original poem, according to Mary Ann Lutt, language arts and English instructor at Wayne Middle School.

"I'm thrilled that these students have been selected to be published," said Lutt. "I think the recognition will be a good incentive for them to continue to write."

"The purpose of writing is to be read," pointed out Lutt, adding that Wayne Middle School students are spending more time this year with the writing process and that an anthology containing works by all of her students, along with those of Mrs. Joyce Mitchell, will be published at the end of the school year.

FOLLOWING are the poems written by Ann, Tony and David for publication in "Anthology of Poetry by Young Americans." Brian was unable to locate a copy of his poem.

NO CHANCE FOR LIFE
He was too tiny and fragile
To fight the powerful knife;
A perfect baby boy
A perfect little life.

He'll never touch his mother's hand
Or kiss her on the cheek;
No one will see his little smile
So innocent, loving and meek.

No pockets will ever hold
The treasures of his day;
No grubby little hands
Will fold at night to pray.

No one will know this little boy
Or the wonders he might have done;
Just because of a terrible war
He never could have won.

AMERICA
With more and more pollution,
Death may be our only solution.
Violence and crime,
Yet the killers do no time.
With the terror of drugs,
We will be crushed like bugs.

Hatred and discrimination,
Thrive on this nation,
Death and disease,
Linger in the breeze.
A gang on a shooting spree,
Kills, in America...

Land of the Free.

WHO IS A FRIEND

Who is a friend:

A friend is someone who is there for you whether it's a boy or a girl, a guy or a gal.

A friend is one to whom you express things to
Such as dreams, everyday life or your problems, the one you like, and the one who likes you.

You and your friend or friends should have fun and should be fun to be around.

A good friend is one who is always there for you through it all, good times and bad.

The words compassionate and caring are the two most valued words that should make and should be involved in every and any good relationship.

A friend will stick by our side through everything and anything.

A friend will help you through bad grades and through good times and bad.

But what happens if they pick up and move away?

Mine did, so you should keep in touch,

But you my friend have to pick up your pieces and move on yourself.

FmHA applications for committee due

Mark Moser, County Supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) Dakota, Dixon, Thurston and Wayne County office announced that farmers interested in election to the FmHA county committee have until 7 to get nominating petitions signed and turned in.

Nominating petitions, instructions and other information can be obtained at the FmHA County Office, PO Box 200, 709 Providence Road, Wayne, Neb. 68787.

Moser said that one person will be elected for a three year term to the three-person committee. He said anyone who has an interest in a farm in Dakota, Dixon, Thurston or Wayne County as owner, tenant or sharecropper is eligible to run for the committee seat and to vote in the June 23 election. A spouse of an eligible farmer is also considered to be a farmer for the purpose of this election.

Moser said the Farmers Home Administration is an equal opportunity lender and the county committees perform a variety of duties, including making decisions on applicant's eligibility for FmHA farm loans. Two committee members are elected by county farmer. A third member is appointed by the FmHA.

The GOLDEN YEARS by Pat Lichty

At the time today's older workers were born, the ideal job outlook was to work until 65 and retire to live on Social Security and pension payments. Around 1950, nine out of 10 men between 55 and 64 were in the work force. Now, the Bureau of Labor Statistics says only two out of the three men in that age group hold or are seeking jobs. Some dropped out to take advantage of early-retirement offers. Others lost out because of layoffs and plant closings. As part of the changing picture, one out of 10 men age 55 to 64 holds a part-time job, double the 1981 rate.

Singer Peggy Lee at 72 has difficulty walking and has other health-related problems, according to a New York newspaper review of the cabaret scene. Having said that, the article then critiqued her 18-song, 55-minute performance, seven nights a week for five weeks at a popular cafe. She treats her difficulties as minor inconveniences and exudes "smoldering-eharisma" that withstands the years, the review concluded.

Remember When? July 18, 1957 — Jerry Lee Lewis made his first TV appearance, on the Steve Allen show, pounding the piano and shouting out the song, "A Whole Lot of Shaking Going On."

MOLD ON BREAD

If you find a spot of mold on a slice of bread, is it safe to break off that moldy spot and eat the rest of the piece? Sounds sensible; but by removing the visible mold does not mean you have removed all of the spores. You're better off to throw the bread away. However, you can safely remove moldy spots from hard cheese, salami and certain fruits and vegetables. Remove at least an inch around the moldy spot.

State treasurer urges Nebraska families to file for Income Credit

State Treasurer Dawn Rockey reminded working Nebraska families to file for the Federal Earned Income Credit. The credit is available to working families whose adjusted gross income in 1992 was $22,370 or less.

"As for the deadline for filing 1992 Federal and State income tax returns draws near," Rockey said, "eligible families who have at least one child living with them for at least half of 1992, should file to receive this credit." She added that both single parents and married couples may be eligible for this credit.

Rockey noted that the credit can be used to reduce the amount owed to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). "While the credit can be used to reduce the amount of tax owed, it can also be paid to families who owe to income tax," Rockey said.

The IRS requires that families file either form 1040 or 1040A, Federal Tax Return plus a form titled "Schedule EIC" in order to receive the Earned Income Tax Credit.

Rockey urged those having questions concerning filling out the forms or questions concerning the credit to call the toll free IRS taxpayer assistance phone number, (800) 829-1040, or to contact an IRS office in-person.

"I want to make sure that working families in Nebraska are aware of the Earned Income Tax Credit. However, eligible families must file the proper IRS forms to receive this credit — it is not automatic," Rockey concluded.

Fletcher re-elected to board of Family Child Care Association

Irene Fletcher of Wayne was re-elected to a two-year term on the board of directors of the Nebraska Family Child Care Association (NFCCA) during the annual Provider's Day Out conference held March 26-27 in Kearney.

The event was co-sponsored by the Nebraska Family Child Care Association and Family Service of Lincoln.

Fletcher has been providing licensed child care in Wayne for over 10 years. In 1986, she helped form the Wayne Area Child Care Providers, the first support group for child care providers in the area, and continues to participate in the organization.

She is currently working in the community as a volunteer coordinator for the Wayne Child Care Resource Center and serves on the planning committee for the Children's Fun Fair, a community celebration for Week of the Young Child.

Fletcher has been a member of the NFCCA since its beginning in 1988 and continues to promote the group as a professional organization for family child care providers.

For the past two years, she has edited the association newsletter, Providers Press.

DAVE GLENN was keynote speaker for the conference and gave a talk entitled "50 Ways to Be a Better Lover (of Life)."

The UNKids Children's Dramatic Arts Studio presented a collage of skits and monologues written, directed and performed by children for children and adults. The performances expressed the idea that young people are more than "kids."

Twenty workshops and numerous exhibits were available during the conference. Each workshop was approved for one hour of inservice credit by the Nebraska Department of Social Services.

THE NEBRASKA Family Child Care Association (formerly the Nebraska Family Day Care Association) was formed in 1988 by child care providers who saw a need to support one another in the family child care profession.

The association strives to promote quality child care, increase communication among providers, increase public awareness of the importance of family child care, and assist local, state and federal policy makers in understanding the needs of child care providers, parents and children.

Benefits provided by NFCCA to its members include the training opportunity provided by the annual Provider's Day Out conference. The association also offers a communications networking system through Providers Press, a bi-monthly newsletter, group rates for liability insurance, discounts on family child care products, and a toll free telephone WARMLINE.

Family child care providers interested in learning more about the organization can write the NFCCA at P.O. Box 83356, Lincoln, Neb., 68501, or telephone 1-800-642-6481.

A shotgun for father

When Randy Sherry of Wayne won the special shotgun drawing at the annual Pheasants Forever banquet in Wayne Friday night, he knew exactly what he was going to do with the valuable collector's piece. "Give it to my father," said the beaming young Sherry. Resisting cash offers in the hundreds of dollars for the gun, Sherry said his father, Don Sherry of Wayne, gave him his first shotgun and he would be very excited to get the Pheasants Forever commemorative in return.

Providence Medical Center alerts public to burn hazards, precautions

Mary Hamer of Providence Medical Center in Wayne said serious burn victims continue to enter the hospital's emergency room and she offers the following information to assist residents in helping reduce the number of burn injuries.

"After witnessing an accident in a restaurant recently, I felt that it was important to make this information available to the public," said Hamer, adding that she also feels it is important that every restaurant or cafeteria have posted appropriate first aid responses to burns for all employees to review, including

1) Stop the burning process. Remove the source of heat...if clothing catches fire, "Stop, Drop and Roll" to smother out the flames;

2) Remove all burned clothing. Clothing may retain heat and cause a deeper injury. If clothing adheres to the skin, cut or tear around the adherent area to preserve good skin tissue);

3) Pour cool water over the burned area. Keep pouring the cool water for at least 3-5 minutes (30-40 minutes for chemical injury). Do not pack the burned areas in ice! This may increase the extent of injury and cause hypothermia;

4) Remove all jewelry, belts, tight clothing, etc. from over the burned areas and from around the victim's neck — swelling of burned areas occurs immediately;

5) Do not apply ointments, or butter, to wounds. These may cause infection due to their oil base and convert wounds to deeper injury;

6) Cover burns with a soft, clean, dry dressing, bandage or sheet;

7) Keep victim warm;

8) Seek medical attention as soon as possible.

HAMER ADDED that information received from The Shriner's Burn Institutes points out that 70 percent of all infant burns from scalding could have been prevented.

The number one way to avoid burns as the result of scalding is to turn down the thermostat on the hot water heater to 120 degrees F.

The most likely areas of the house for burn injuries to a small child to take place are the kitchen, bathroom and bedroom.

Prevention strategies in the kitchen include turning pot handles inward so children cannot pull them down; never leaving hot liquids or food unattended or at the edge of a table or counter; not allowing youngsters to pour or handle hot liquids/food; keeping children at a safe distance while pouring or drinking hot liquids; placing children in a crib or playpen while preparing hot foods; seating children at the dining table only after all the food has been served and placed far from the child's reach; never leaving young children unattended in an area where food is being prepared; being certain that foods and liquids are sufficiently cooled (inside and out) before giving them to a young child; and keeping all hot appliances away from a young child's reach.

In the bathroom, prevention strategies include dialing down the hot water temperature to 120 degrees F or less, with the recommended temperature for the young child's bath water at 90 to 120 degrees F; not using the bath time as a play time or the bath area as a play area; providing continuous and adequate supervision of young children in the bathroom, including running cold water into the tub first, then adding the hot water to the desired temperature; testing the bath water by moving the hand rapidly through the water for several seconds before placing the child in the tub; facing the child away from the faucet in the tub to reduce the chance of them turning on the hot water; turning the valve to the cold setting after filling the tub; and not using electrical grooming appliances in the bathroom, or never leaving the devices plugged in unattended if children are present.

To prevent serious injury of young children in the bedroom, parents should keep lamps away from baby's crib where the child might be able to pull it down, causing a fire; use cool-mist vaporizers and keep the appliance at a safe distance from the child; never leave an infant (old enough to roll) on an adult bed mattress close to radiators or space heaters; and never place a space heater in the bathroom or make-up area, instead place the heater outside the door aiming in towards the area to be heated.

HAMER SAID another major area of concern involves the appropriate use of flammable/combustible substances, especially gasoline, which is becoming the number one cause of burn injuries and death for adults.

"Gasoline was made for one function — to fuel an engine," stresses Hamer, adding that a potential hazard exists when gasoline is used for starting barbecue grills or brush/trash fires, to clean automotive parts, and especially when used around power equipment such as lawn mowers, power saws, minibikes, snowmobiles, etc.

Particularly dangerous is the use of gasoline to prime automobile carburetors, added Hamer. "A spark can ignite the flammable vapor and cause a major fire and burn injury."

"Most people don't realize how easily flammable liquids can burn. The heavier-than-air vapors can flow invisibly along the ground and can be ignited by a flame or a spark from a considerable distance."

Guest faculty violinist John Brawand, interim director of the Northeast Nebraska Sinfonia, will perform with pianist Beverly Soll, director of Wayne State's Center for Cultural Outreach, and Denise Whipple, adjunct brass faculty member at Wayne State in the Horn Trio of Johannes Brahms.

Brawand and Soll will be joined by cellist Jed O'Leary, a Wayne State senior and member of the Sioux City Symphony, for the Beethoven Trio, Op. 70, No. 1, better known as the "Ghost" Trio.

Brawand will also perform a suite by J.S. Bach for violins alone.

WSC grad accepted to med school in August

Chad Stoltz, a 1988 graduate of South Sioux City High School, has been accepted into medical school at the University of Nebraska Medical Center. He will begin in August.

Stoltz, who will graduate from Wayne State College in May, is the son of Monnie Stoltz. He is majoring in chemistry at Wayne State with minors in mathematics and biology.

At Wayne State, Stoltz is active in Kappa Mu Epsilon, the Biology Club and Lambda Delta Lambda. He is the current homecoming king, and has served as a tutor for chemistry and mathematics classes and as a resident assistant.

Secretary says beef export picture rosy; ethanol is not

HASTINGS, Neb. (AP) — State Agriculture Director Larry Sitzman says Nebraska's livestock producers will benefit from his recent trade missions, but the state's ethanol producers may not find the picture as bright under the Clinton administration's energy tax plan.

Sitzman, speaking at the annual meeting of the Nebraska AgRelations Council, offered few specifics on how much revenue will be generated by new livestock exports resulting from his trips to the Far East and Middle East.

Citing confidentiality with importers and commodity officials, Sitzman declined to put a price figure on the new exports.

"They keep the deals confidential because of the competition," he said. "We actually don't find out the figures ourselves."

Nebraska's agricultural exports amount to $2.5 billion now, Sitzman said.

"If I can help move the product out of Nebraska, I hope I put profitability into Nebraska farmers' pockets," he said. "We think we're making a real difference."

Sitzman mentioned successful trade missions in the last two years to Japan and Taiwan.

By one estimate, Japan's imports of Nebraska beef have increased 300 percent in the last year, he said.

A Japanese grocery chain now advertises "Nebraska beef: The premier beef in the world" in its store windows, Sitzman said. "They sell nothing but the best and we have them believing that Nebraska beef is the best product."

Sitzman said the president of the restaurant association in the capital city of Taipei in Taiwan is beginning to sell Nebraska beef in his restaurants.

"Since he is the restaurant president of Taipei, he is trying to get all the other restaurants to order their food products from Nebraska," Sitzman said.

Trade missions also succeeded in Israel, Singapore and Egypt, he said.

Sitzman said he will sign a trade agreement in May that provides for the export of Nebraska beef to Israel. The deal is potentially lucrative because the government is the sole importer in Israel. "We're happy with our success there," he said.

After one trade mission, Nebraska beef and pork are being exported to Singapore.

He also said the Egyptian minister of supplies is planning a trip this year to Nebraska to discuss beef imports.

Sitzman said the Agriculture Department also is researching the possibility of identifying Nebraska corn exports in other countries. In the past it was difficult to show which corn was from Nebraska and which was from other states, he said.

"We can ensure shipments of identity-preserved corn to Mexico," Sitzman said. "This project has had so much promise the Nebraska Wheat Board is looking into it."

He said Mexicans equate Nebraska corn with quality.

While the export picture is rosy for beef and corn, he's not optimistic that ethanol will be exempted from President Clinton's proposed energy tax on the heat content of fuels.

Sitzman said Gov. Ben Nelson in a conference call last week with Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen proposed exempting ethanol and non-highway fuel from the tax.

"Both of those requests were met very negatively," Sitzman said. "I do not think we'll see a waiver on the BTU tax. It's an uphill fight."

Ethanol officials have said the federal government will make two crucial decisions on the corn-based fuel in the next 90 days. One is whether ethanol should be exempted from the BTU tax. The other is whether the Environmental Protection Agency will decide if ethanol meets Clean Air guidelines for the nation's smoggiest cities.

Ethanol could ring up an estimated 510 million additional gallons of sales each year as a result of EPA approval as a Clean Air fuel, Nebraska officials said.

Wakefield site of two workshops

Thirty-three local and area businesses attended two customer services workshops in the Wakefield fire hall during March. The events were sponsored by Wayne State College and coordinated by the college's Bureau for Community and Economic Development.

The Wakefield workshops were a pilot program for the college's new Management Development Program, according to Bureau director, Connie Keck.

Keck says the Wakefield pilot program was very successful and she looked forward to organizing more Management Development Programs in Northeast Nebraska.

Wayne State College business professor, Dr. Kenneth Hallgren, led the customer service workshops. Hallgren said he was pleased with the turnout and "impressed with the involvement and interest" from the Wakefield business community.

"The program was beneficial," said Terry Nicholson of Wakefield Ready Mix. "It was an excellent refresher on everyday customer service that people take for granted."

4-H News

CARROLLINERS

Vice President Maribeth Junck called to order a recent meeting of the Carrolliners 4-H Club. Roll call was an idea for the club tour and 14 members responded.

The song contest was discussed as old business. For new business, members were reminded that if they plan to give a speech they should have it prepared for the upcoming meeting.

Reminders were also given for the scholarship applications, Norfolk News articles and Bake and Take Days.

Members wishing to display fair projects at the A-Z pancake feed need to take them to someone who will have them delivered to Wayne by 4:30 p.m. on Thursday, April 1.

The meeting was adjourned by Jolene Jager and Melissa Puntney, and lunch was served by the Puntney family.

The next meeting will be April 5 at 7:30 p.m. at the Carroll school. Members need to have signs for the bake sale, and roll call will be an April Fools' joke.

Many members of the Wakefield business community attended a customer service workshop presented by Dr. Kenneth Hallgren of Wayne State College. The workshop was a pilot program of the WSC Management Development Program.

AAL awards grant to Laurel churches

Lutheran Laurel Ministerial Association of Laurel has been awarded a $500 grant from Aid Associations for Lutherans (AAL).

The funds will be used to purchase a videocamera to tape worship services.

The grant was awarded by the John Hanson Agency of AAL, Norfolk, through an AAL program that allows general agencies from across the country to award grants to nonprofit Lutheran organizations and fulfill one of AAL's fraternal goals — to provide assistance to Lutheran congregations and their institutions, according to Barbara Kuxhaus, AAL grant program manager.

The program was initiated as an experiment in 1991 with 20 participating general agencies. The program was so successful it was expanded to include 40 general agencies in 1992. This year it moved from the experimental stage to become an on-going program, Kuxhaus said.

"The program gives general agencies the opportunity to award grants to local Lutheran organizations which are not the usual recipients of AAL's existing fraternal grant programs," she said.

For 90 years, AAL has provided fraternal benefits to Lutherans and their families. Based in Appleton, Wis., AAL offers life and disability income insurance and retirement products to its 1.6 million members nationwide. In addition, members are offered volunteer opportunities to help others in their own communities. There are 59,000 AAL members in Nebraska.

Extension council sponsoring tour

If you're tired of spring cleaning or just need a break from the mud, you might try joining the Wayne County Home Extension Council on a tour to Sioux Falls scheduled for Wednesday, April 28.

The day trip includes a busy morning: Motor Coach bus to Sioux Falls and return; a drive through tour of Historic District, Cathedral Area, Japanese Gardens, Statue of Moses, Statue of David and the Falls; lunch (on your own) at Minervas and shopping in the downtown area.

In the afternoon there will be a visit to the Delbridge Museum and Zoo, tour of Augustana College and Center for Western Studies, and a tour of the Pettigrew Home which is a Queen Ann style home of South Dakota's first senator.

The Old Town Theater Dinner Theater in Worthing, S.D. will provide the evening entertainment. The tour group will see the opening night of "Love, Sex and the IRS." The theater manager promises that the production is humorous and actually shows no sex or other objectionable behavior.

Registrations must be received in the Wayne County Extension office by April 20. However, please register early to reserve a seat. The cost of the tour for Home Extension Club members is $40 and non-member cost is $42. You may obtain a registration form by writing to the Wayne County Home Extension Council, 510 Pearl, Wayne, NE 68787 or by calling 375-3310.

Travel series about to conclude

The film "Germany After the Wall" concludes Northeast Community College's 1992-93 Travel Series on Sunday, April 4.

Two showings of the film are scheduled at 3:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., in Northeast's Activities Center Theatre. The Travel Series is a presentation of films that transports viewers to exotic locations around the world where they are exposed to various cultural, historic and scenic aspects of the land they are visiting.

With the fall of the Berlin Wall, Germany is more exciting than ever. Through this film, viewers can travel from the North Sea fishing port to Germany's highest Alpine peak.

Cruise the Rhine and visit its wine festivals, celebrate Oktoberfest in Munich, and see Berlin after the Wall and reunification. The pride of German quality is displayed in everything from its violins to the Bavarian sausages and to the beers of the Lowenbrau Brewery. The tour also steps back in time with a waling tour of 15th century Rothenburg, Germany's most perfectly preserved Medieval city.

Single admission tickets, $4 for adults and $2 for children, are available prior to the show. For additional information concerning the Travel Series, contact Deb Simpson, Northeast Community College, 644-0434.

Out-of-town people coming to celebrate with Laurel residents will need to check with area family and friends for housing if they haven't already reserved accommodations.

However, limited camping facilities will be available in Laurel. Area residents may also wish to consider setting up a Bed and Breakfast to accommodate out-of-town guests.

Child

Kranz added that the Wayne Child Care Board is extremely appreciative of the donations they have received thus far from Wayne individuals and organizations, and they hope to be able to return the favor once the facility is up and running.

Persons wishing to make a monetary donation to the project, or tangible items such as toys, books, puzzles, games and other articles relating to the care and entertainment of young children, are asked to contact Kranz.

ACTUAL construction of the child care facility is expected to be completed on or before Aug. 15, weather permitting, with doors hopefully opening before the start of the new school year.

When completed, the facility will be able to care for up to 60 children and at capacity would require 10 to 12 full-time employees, in addition to several part-time positions.

"It's very exciting to see this project moving again after years of planning and working through challenges brought on by government regulations, zoning, land acquisition and financing," said Kranz.

"A lot of people have worked very hard on this project and are finally starting to see the results."

Although they are still in the midst of setting up the new child care facility, Kranz said the next project of the Wayne Child Care Board will be work on an after school program for Wayne youngsters.

Paintbrush Brigade volunteers win trip to see Oak Ridge Boys

Four Wayne residents were able to express their appreciativeness and have fun at the same time during a recent trip to Branson, Mo.

Bob and Marj Porter and Kirk and Ardie Sommerfeld were among 30 Paintbrush Brigade volunteers from throughout Nebraska who won the weekend trip to Branson on March 20-21 to attend a concert by the Oak Ridge Boys and to visit with them in person.

The 1992 Paintbrush Brigade was a national beautification project sponsored by Country America magazine, with the support of the Oak Ridge Boys, and co-sponsored in Nebraska by KZ-100 FM in Central City.

The goal of the radio station was to paint 12 houses in 12 different communities throughout Nebraska. Among the houses painted was that of Wayne residents Art and Erma Barker.

"It was a rekindling of the barn raising philosophy of neighbors helping neighbors," according to John Anderson, KZ-100 program director.

THE BARKER home was painted last July while Barker, a Wayne fireman, was a patient at Marian Health Center in Sioux City recuperating from an accident which occurred while he was on a fire call.

72 donate blood during monthly drive at PMC

Seventy-two individuals volunteered to donate and 70 pints of blood were collected during a drive conducted by the Siouxland Blood Bank on March 25 at Providence Medical Center in Wayne.

Suzie Johnson became a seven gallon donor, Mark Kai and Allen Shufelt became three gallon donors, Alan Hart became a two gallon donor, and Sheryl Emanuel and Sherrie Hampl became one gallon donors.

First-time donors were Stacey Colfack, Jan Magnuson, Tasha Shearer, Mike Fluent, Garry Roerber and Lyla Swanson.

OTHER blood donors were Debbie Bargholz, Mylet Bargholz, Lorie Bebe, Donald Beckenhauer, Gene Casey, Rodney Cook, David Curley, Larry G. Echtenkamp, Eoren Ellis, Robert Ensz, Bonnie Fluent, Myla Foote, Terrie Girlinghouse, Lavern Greunke, Connie Guenther, Several local service organizations joined KZ-100 in the painting project, including the Knights of Columbus and Cornhusker Shrine Club, along with volunteers from the Wayne Fire Department, Wayne Eagles Club, Wayne Rotary Club and First United Methodist Church.

All of the KZ-100 volunteers in Nebraska were winners of a Paintbrush Brigade contest sponsored by Country America magazine, with all of their names entered in a drawing and 30 of them picked for the trip to Branson.

Bob and Marj Porter were among those selected, along with another couple who were unable to attend and were replaced by Kirk and Ardie.

"IT WAS great," said Ardie, daughter of Art and Erma Barker. "The bus ride was 10 hours down and 10 hours back, but it was worth every second."

Ardie added that the Nebraska delegation spent approximately 15 minutes visiting with the Oak Ridge Boys before it was time for them to go on stage.

"I explained the project and showed them pictures of dad, and they really seemed interested," says a somewhat surprised Ardie. "You never think anyone that popular and famous would take the time, but they did take the time to listen, and they were interested.

"The Paintbrush Brigade project meant a lot to my family and the support of the Oak Ridge Boys has in large part contributed to the project's success."

Tandy recognizes local scholars

WAYNE - Wayne High School seniors Kimberly Imdieke and Scott Day have been awarded certificates as part of the Tandy Technology Scholars program, designed to recognize academic excellence especially in the areas of mathematics, science and computer science.

Imdieke was among the top two percent academic nominees, and Day was the outstanding math/science/computer science student school nominee.

Car computers too bossy!

The sun has been struggling to burn through the clouds, with only moderate success. The weatherman is scratching his head again. I have heard a lot of bird songs lately. (I even swept the front porch. Guess what? Those darned barn swallows preceded me here!)

Since I no longer need front-wheel drive to get around, I've parked the Chrysler. I've washed and serviced the Olds and sure enough, another radiator hose left me on the interstate. But I'm getting smart in my old age: I carry a phone book, a cellular phone and AAA membership.

The Chrysler accomplished something besides getting me around on ice. It programmed me to remove the keys. It did this with a computer voice that I call "The Nag." If you shut off the engine and open the door, it says "Don't forget your keys." It's also helpful because it says, "Your lights are on" and I did not run down a battery on these foggy days.

By Pat Meierhenry

The rest of the messages I could do without, like "your fuel is low." He repeats this every time you start the car and he will interrupt a radio program to announce it. Also, "a door is ajar," and "your washer fluid is low." This can become quite an aggravation.

And, of course, there is "please fasten your seat belts." He does say "thank you" when you fasten the belt, turn off the lights or take out the keys. But I came to call him "the nag" and once in awhile, resorting to "oh, shut up," or "I know, I know."

It's a relief to get back to the Olds, which doesn't say anything. The indicator light didn't even come on when the engine was hot the other day.

I can keep an eye on the gas gauge by myself, I always fasten my seat belt and I probably will leave my lights on some day. Computers have become just too bossy! And they don't argue back. I fixed ours; I've locked him in the garage.

Local, area students chosen Regents, David Scholars announced at University

The Office of Scholarships and Financial Aid at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln has announced the Regents and David Scholars for 1993-94.

Cattlemen evaluate Clinton's budget

Like most Americans, cattle producers are concerned about the nation's ballooning federal debt and are pleased that the President has made deficit reduction his top priority, said Nebraska Cattlemen President Byron Eatinger.

Having evaluated President Clinton's proposed budget, Nebraska Cattlemen are urging Congress and the President to work to reduce the federal debt through significant, across-the-board spending cuts. "If higher taxes are deemed necessary for long-term debt reduction, they should be matched dollar-for-dollar with spending cuts," Eatinger said.

The Cattlemen also urge Congress and the administration to pass a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution and to provide the President line-item veto authority, he said.

Increased energy, environmental and grass taxes contained in the budget package outlined by the President will directly increase the cost of cattle production and processing. This is of special concern to cattlemen and to the state's economy for which cattle feeding alone accounts for one of every seven private-sector jobs, Eatinger said.

The bottom line to the proposed tax package is that it would cost the beef cattle industry approximately $7.42 per-beef cow ($12.98 million in Nebraska) or $9.89 per head of fed cattle ($9.45 million Nebraska). That's a cost of $62.43 million per year to Nebraska ranchers and feeders.

These numbers were derived from the following analysis that does not take into account any potential benefits that may be derived from reducing the deficit or spurring economic growth. The plan will affect all sectors of the beef industry, but the cow-calf operators will feel the pinch most in the form of higher production costs or lower bids for calves. The increased taxes also stand a good chance of being passed along to consumers in the form of higher retail beef prices.

Here's how the plan will affect the average cattlemen:

Energy Tax

Agriculture uses more than 1.5 trillion BTUs of energy each year. A BTU tax of 40 cents/million BTUs is equivalent to a 5 cent/gallon gas tax. According to the Fertilizer Institute, each five cent increase in the federal gas tax cost farmers $600 million.

Assume that fuel use for cattle production is comparable to fuel use by other agriculture commodities (cattle production may be less fuel intensive than some crop farming but higher livestock transportation costs and long distances from urban services offset the difference.)

Current proposals are for a 7 cent/gallon increase in the gasoline tax, a 7 cent/gallon increase for on-road diesel usage and a 4 cent/gallon tax increase for off-road diesel usage. There is no proposed exemption for fuel use for business uses. A 7 cent increase in fuel tax would cost the beef industry $187 million per year. Dividing by 34 million beef cows gives a cost of $5.52/beef cow. In Nebraska that $5.52 times 1.75 million cows equates to a cost of $9.66 million.

Environmental Taxes

Proposed environmental taxes on farmers would increase the cost of corn and other feed grains for cattle feeders. Specific proposals include a fertilizer tax of $28-$52/ton of anhydrous ammonia with a total cost to agriculture of about $500 million. A pesticide tax of 46 cents/pound of active ingredient would also cost the industry $500 million, according to the Fertilizer Institute. A $2.26/pound tax on pollutants would add another $250 million to the cost of producing fertilizer. In turn, environmental taxes imposed on all farmers would total $1.25 billion.

Corn and other feed grains account for $17 billion of $84 billion in total crop receipts — about 20.2 percent. Feed grains' share of the environmental tax could cost $252 million (20.2 percent x $1.25 billion). Livestock consume about 56 percent of all feed grain production. Beef cattle account for 28 percent of all feed grains consumed by livestock. Thus, 15.7 percent of the total feed grain production is consumed by beef cattle.

Assuming that feed grain production utilizes fertilizer and pesticides at the same rate as other crops and that equal amounts of waste pollution are generated, the cost to the beef industry for these three environmental taxes is $39.6 million/year ($252.5 million x 15.7 percent). Dividing by 25.5 million fed cattle slaughter, yields a cost of $1.55/head of fed cattle. In Nebraska this amounts to $7.75 million.

Grass Tax

The proposed increase in grazing fees is effectively a tax on ranchers using federal lands. Mr. Clinton plans to raise $78 million over five years through higher fees. That's $15.6 million in additional grazing fee revenues each year.

Fees paid by cattlemen to graze public lands in 1991 were estimated at $29 million. To raise $15.6 million additional each year would require a 53.8 percent increase in revenues. Increasing the current grazing fee of $1.92/AUM (animal unit month) by 53.8 percent would yield a grazing fee of $2.95/AUM. There are approximately 350,000 acres of federal land grazed in Nebraska — the proposed grazing fee increase would cost Nebraska ranchers an additional $128,400.

Inspection Fees

The Clinton economic plan proposes eliminating government funding for second shifts in packing plants. This change will cost the packing/processing sector $100 million/year in increased inspection fees. Sources close to the packing industry indicate that inspection costs in larger packing and processing plants will increase by more than $1 million/plant. The beef packing/processing sector share of these costs will total upwards of $20-$33 million/year, or approximately $1/head of fed cattle. In Nebraska, this would be an additional cost of $5 million.

Nebraska Cattlemen supports a strong, science-based meat inspection system administered through the U.S. Department of Agriculture. However, we believe that programs mandated for public benefit should be paid for with public funds.

Capital Gains Taxes

President Clinton proposes a 50 percent capital gains tax exclusion for stock in small businesses and start-up businesses. Nebraska Cattlemen supports a capital gains tax cut on land transactions and for breeding livestock.

Investment Tax Credit

President Clinton proposes a temporary, incremental tax credit for large businesses and a targeted permanent tax credit for companies with receipts of less than $5 million. Nebraska Cattlemen believes investment tax credits should apply to income-producing assets, should be permanent, not incremental and should be available only to people already actively involved in a particular business.

Corporate Tax Rates

The President proposes raising corporate tax rates to 36 percent. Again, the Nebraska Cattlemen supports a focus on spending cuts, not tax increases.

The Nebraska Cattlemen association conducts producer education and legislative monitoring services, is funded by membership fees and represents nearly 5,000 cattle breeders, producers and feeders, as well as 54 county and local cattlemen's associations.

Water quality biggest concern

A national poll conducted by The Gallup Organization reveals that farmers in Nebraska and other midwestern states see water quality as the top farm-related environmental problem and "safer" pesticides as part of the solution.

According to the results of the 1993 Sandoz National Agricultural Poll, three out of five farmers say they are more concerned about farm-related environmental problems today than five years ago.

"It's clear that farmers everywhere share the public's concern for the environment," said Dale Miller, CEO of Sandoz Agro, the agricultural company that commissioned the study. "This is especially true in midwestern states like Nebraska, where the three major concerns of farmers are water quality, soil contamination and soil erosion."

Miller also said the poll indicates U.S. farmers are embracing positive changes in their farming practices.

Among the findings:

•The majority of U.S. farmers say they already have made some changes in their farming practices as a result of public opinion about the environment, mostly in the areas of pesticide use and conservation tillage. Midwest farmers are slightly more likely to be practicing more conservation tillage because of public opinion than farmers in other parts of the country.

•Ninety-two percent of U.S. farmers say they are very or somewhat likely to use safer pesticides in the future. According to the poll, Midwest farmers are even more likely to use safer pesticides in the future than other farmers nationwide.

Robert Husmann of Champan, Neb., exemplified the findings of the poll. Last year in his search for "greener alternatives, he agreed to participate in government-sanctioned tests of an experimental herbicide called Frontier, which received EPA registration earlier this month.

"I'm constantly looking for safer pesticides," Husmann said. "I want to use products that are safe for me to handle and safe for the environment."

Other findings of the study:

•Sixty-six percent of U.S. farmers favor tougher enforcement of penalties for misapplication of pesticides. Forty-one percent favor mandatory education and certification for those who apply pesticides. However, less than half of all farmers say that pesticides are knowingly misapplied.

•Thirty-nine percent of U.S. farmers believe they should have primary responsibility for fixing environmental problems associated with agriculture. This is almost three times the percentage of farmers placing responsibility with government and almost five times the percentage placing responsibility with agricultural manufacturers.

•While most U.S. farmers think they are viewed as responsible stewards by their urban neighbors, 43 percent think their image has slipped. In the Midwest, only 39 percent say the image of the farmer has gotten worse. In fact, 28 percent believe their image is improving due to positive media coverage and better informed consumers.

"The majority of farmers believe consumers are more concerned about environmental issues because they are more aware of environmental issues, not because the problems are getting worse," said Dr. Max Larsen, executive vice president with The Gallup Organization. "Four of five farmers believe current safeguards are sufficient to protect people and the environment, but almost as many think the public doesn't understand these safeguards."

Overwhelmingly, farmers believe the key to reducing public concerns about farm-related environmental issues is education. Most feel they share responsibility for that education with government, teachers, manufacturers and others. More than one-third of U.S. farmers say they have personally participated in efforts to educate the non-farm public.

The 1993 Sandoz National Agricultural Poll was fielded following the presidential election and included a cross-section of grain, cotton and vegetable growers. The study has a margin of error of plus or minus 2.8 percent.

The company is a wholly owned subsidiary of Sandoz Corporation (New York), the U.S. subsidiary of Swiss-based Sandoz Ltd., a multinational producer of pharmaceutical, chemical, nutrition, seed and agricultural products.

Head Start director is chosen to participate in management program

Marian Holstein, director, Winnebago Native American Head Start, is one of 43 directors nationwide selected to participate in an advanced management training program at the third annual Head Start - Johnson & Johnson Management Fellows Program this summer.

The program, to be held at the John E. Anderson Graduate School of Management at the University of California at Los Angeles, will take place from June 20 to July 2, and is funded by a three-year, $1.2 million grant from Johnson & Johnson.

Head Start is one of the most successful federal programs for economically disadvantaged preschoolers. Most Head Start directors are trained in education or social services, and often lack the ability to optimally manage their increasing funds.

The 43 selected participants, each a Head Start director for at least five years, represent a cross-section of directors nationwide; three have high school degrees, one has a two year-degree, 14 have baccalaureates and 25 have advanced degrees.

"This class of directors has tremendous potential — I look forward to productive relationships with each of them," said Dr. Alfred E. Osborne, Jr., faculty director of the program. "Business education is a tremendous asset to Head Start directors, as they are faced with business decisions every day that are outside their traditional expertise."

The Head Start - Johnson & Johnson program was created in response to the results of an independent study which indicated that local

Head Start directors would benefit from management training as they seek to expand their operations and maintain quality services.

"It is our hope that the management education program will lead the way to providing additional services to a greater number of Head Start children and families," said Curtis G. Weeden, vice president, corporation contributions, Johnson & Johnson.

This year's participants, like those in 1992, will sharpen their skills in strategic planning and managing human and financial resources. As part of their training — and in keeping with the program's goal of concrete changes — the participants will undertake Management Improvement Projects next year based on what they learned in the program.

Created in 1965, Head Start has served more than 12 million low-income children and their families. The program now provides education, health and other services to more than 600,000 preschool children and their families. Head Start has more than 105,000 paid staff members, 952,000 volunteers, most of who are parents, and 31,300 classrooms.

The John E. Anderson Graduate School of management at UCLA was selected as the site for the Head Start - Johnson & Johnson Management Fellows Program because of its highly regarded entrepreneurial management program.

Johnson & Johnson is the world's largest and most comprehensive manufacturer of health care products serving the consumer, pharmaceutical and professional markets. The company has its worldwide headquarters in New Brunswick, N.J., where the business was founded over a century ago.
