City to study development sewer plans

Wayne City Council approved further study into a possible sewer outfall project that developers say could open up a vast new area for housing development near Wayne.

The approval came Tuesday night after concerns were raised by landowners in the area northeast of the city limits as to the cost of the sewer line compared to building a lift station which would serve only the newly proposed Vintage Hill Addition.

The gravity flow sewer line looping east of the city was an idea that came out of a city staff meeting, explained City Administrator Joe Salitros. He, and subdivision engineer Mark Westergard, said the gravity sewer line would be a cost effective alternative to building a sewage lift station as part of the new 110-lot project.

THE DEVELOPERS agreed to contribute the cost of building the lift station as per city specifications, toward the construction of the outfall loop.

City officials, and the engineer told council the gravity flow line would be less expensive to maintain in the long run, even though the project might cost as much as four times the cost of building the lift station.

Rick Lutt voiced opposition to the looping sewer line which he said would cross the Ivan Frese farm. He said the sewer line would be more expensive and the city could not be sure of future development in the area to justify the additional cost. It was also pointed out that some areas of the gravity-flow line would have to be buried 25-28 feet deep to achieve property alignment.

VIRGIL KARDELL also voiced concern about what the sewer line would cost him personally. He owns farm land bordering the new Vintage Hill addition. He said the sewer line would clearly be more beneficial to future development for the city than the lift station, but he said he would not be in favor of being forced to pay for it or to pay higher taxes because the line might border his undeveloped property.

In the end, council asked the engineer to study the cost benefits of the sewer line and lift station further and report back in two weeks. Subdivision developers have asked for a quick decision on the matter since it bears heavily on the plans for their project.

COUNCIL APPROVED the preliminary plat for Vintage Hill Phases II and III. The subdivision plan calls for 50-lots including a 7-acre retirement housing development with 44 apartment units. Construction is

Holy Week services are many in Wayne

The Wayne Ministerial Association invites everyone to take part in a community Good Friday service on April 9. This year's host church is the First United Methodist Church.

A procession with the cross will begin at 12:05 p.m. at the Henry Victor Park, located on the south end of Main St. The procession will stop twice along the way for prayer and reading of the Good Friday story.

The procession will end at the Methodist Church, 516 Main St., for the final reading and conclusion of the service.

The Rev. Don Nunnally said persons unable to join the procession can meet at the Methodist Church at noon and share in the same liturgy as the procession. The service will continue together when the procession arrives.

For Wayne State College students, as well as the general public, the United Ministries of Higher Education has scheduled a Last Supper drama (a reenactment of the Last Supper) at 9 p.m. on Wednesday, April 7 in the Nebraska room of the Student Center.

SEVERAL Wayne churches have announced their schedule of services during Holy Week, the week preceding Easter Sunday during which the last events in the life of Christ are commemorated.

In Wayne, the list of churches and their schedule of Holy Week services includes: Evangelical Free

Governor to attend dedication

Nebraska Gov. Ben Nelson will be in Wayne on Tuesday, April 6 to help formally dedicate the new Riley's Convention Center/Ballroom — the newest ballroom of its size built in Nebraska in 43 years.

Festivities will begin with a ribbon-cutting ceremony at 4 p.m. A reception for the Governor and local dignitaries will be immediately following.

Riley's Convention Center opened on Feb. 18 after six months of construction. The Convention Center is part of a large complex which also includes Riley's Cafe and Riley's Pub.

According to Rod Tompkins, owner of Riley's, the 8,000 square foot Convention Center can "seat up to 440 people for banquets and handle up to 700 people for concerts and with its large dance floor is perfect for wedding receptions or any other special occasions."

Public dances and community events will also be taking advantage of these new facilities. Two-time Grammy winning band, Asleep at the Wheel, from Austin, Texas, will be performing at Riley's on April 23. Also coming soon will be the annual Wayne Community Dinner Theatre, May 13, 14 and 16.

Developer seeks help in parking

Wayne developer John Vakoc appealed to City Council Tuesday for a ruling that he said would help in the effort to develop affordable housing in Wayne.

Vakoc asked council to change "current interpretations" of the city zoning regulations which require only off-street parking in new subdivisions.

Vakoc showed plans for a new 12-unit apartment complex planned near Sunny View Addition and asked council to permit the project to be developed with terrace parking.

He said the zoning office had said he would have to construct an off street parking lot as part of the project and that would raise the development costs by several thousand dollars. Those costs would be passed directly to the future renters of the apartments, creating a "negative effect on affordable housing."

Council took Vakoc's plea under advisement and plans to look at similar projects he has developed in other Northeast Nebraska communities

Attorney blasts city memo

"Very disturbed," was the term used by Wayne Attorney Duane Schroeder to describe his reaction to a memo City Administrator Joe Salitros sent to Planning Commission members following last week's meeting.

Schroeder angrily denounced the city administrator's memo as "full of half truths and misstatements." The attorney countered the points made in the memo during a 15-minute "soliloquy" before city council Tuesday night.

In part he said he resented Salitros' contention that he was "play acting" during Planning Commission meeting when he argued successfully to have the commission informally rule that the old Ellingson Motors Company building at First and Pearl would be suitable for use as a school bus maintenance and storage facility.

Calling it a "rhubarb over the bus barn," Schroeder said parts of the city administrator's letter were "absolutely untrue."

The city zoning officer Don Siefken had ruled that requested building permits to improve the property would have to be obtained only after a public hearing and granting of a conditional use permit because the bus company's use of the facility did not mesh with uses defined for the business zone.

Schroeder said he had a verbal commitment from Siefken a month earlier that his client, the Bus Company, would be permitted to use the facility without problem.

"He may not remember it but I clearly remember it. It happened," said Schroeder.

There was no response from Salitros or any member of the council to the attorney's complaints since the matter was not on the council agenda.

Program seen as small town 'life vest'

By Al Kosse
Herald Correspondent

Small-town USA is offering a life preserver to anyone wishing to escape materialistic fast track lives in exchange for the simpler values of home.

The regional office of the Bureau for Community and Economic Development, located on the Wayne State College campus, has been coordinating "Northeast Nebraska Operation Back Home Again" since the fall of 1990.

It is a program offering benefits which not only rejuvenate the region's labor pool but also aid the "back to the basics" revolution.

"People are looking for quality of life," said Connie Keck, director of the Wayne Bureau for Community and Economic Development. "They want a lower living expense, they want to feel safe, they want cultural, educational and recreational opportunities — and we can provide all of these things in Northeast Nebraska."

THE GOAL of the operation is to enhance community pride, encourage graduates and retirees to return home, and establish links for networking, community news and tourism.

Keck describes "Operation Back Home" as a recruitment effort to lure families back, not necessarily to the specific towns where they graduated from high school, but to the general Northeast Nebraska region if similar jobs and benefits would be available to them here.

Seven cities are currently taking part in the project, including Neligh, Schuyler, South Sioux City, Wakefield, Wayne, Emerson and Genoa.

Lt. Governor Maxine Moul, who heads the state's Rural Development Commission, is "trying to develop the project state-wide. That concept is still in the works, but it has gone to the governor for recommendation," Keck said.

Gene Ihrke, a resident of Blair and president of HBA Companies, actually helped initiate the area program.

"Gene pitched the idea to us at a Northeast Nebraska Rural Development meeting and asked if we'd be interested in doing anything," Keck said. "We said 'yes' and it's housed here at Wayne State because my office has the computer capabilities and staff time that can lend itself to this program."

"PEOPLE write to me" saying

they would like to come back because they have small children and would like to raise them in a small town atmosphere," said Keck.

"Of course we realize that we are not a Chicago, New York or California, but we have some very good recreational facilities not only at the college here, but in Norfolk and South Sioux City.

"We have water around us with the Missouri River to the east and Lewis and Clark Lake to the north, in addition to the many, many golf courses in the region. These all are big pluses for people coming back to an area."

Keck listed cultural activities like various theater groups, the symphonies in Sioux City, South Sioux City and Norfolk, and the educational institutions such as Wayne State, Western Iowa Technical College and Norfolk Community College, plus those in Sioux City, as appealing aspects to prospects.

"When communities around us want to recruit a doctor or physician, I can supply them with a packet of information about both the college here and tourist places such as the Ashfall Fossil Beds near Orchard," Keck said.

TO BEGIN the NEN-OBHA program, Keck said the economic development office needed to acquire the rights to the license and software sold by Ihrke. The license allows use of the NEN-OBHA name and logo and the software to input the file information.

The first step to the program is to send out an initial explanatory letter to area high school graduates since 1954. Similar letters are also sent to members of business and

START meeting in Wakefield

The START Educational Opportunities Committee met at the Wakefield High School Library last Wednesday to discuss the progress they have made so far and to define new action plans.

A big hurdle was cleared in March when the Wakefield City Council granted the committee approval to apply for grants for the After School Adventure Program through the city.

However, Chairman Lynda

Cruickshank reported that before any grants are applied for, the group will explore the feasibility of taking on a broader project of year-round pre-school and school age care in conjunction with the Day Care currently operated by the Milton G. Waldbaum Company. This may delay the committee's original goal of starting the After-School program this coming August.

Offering college courses for credit locally was discussed. Northeast Community College has offered to work with a planning committee to recruit the minimum of eight students required to offer a class. Local adults and students wishing to gain some college credit hours need to contact Connie Utech or Diana Tappe.

Progress has been terrific with the TAP (Teachers and Parents) group. The organization was to meet March 30 for a program and officer elections. The Quicken class teaching computer accounting offered through the community education program have been so popular that a third session will be offered.

Minor injuries

Despite the serious look of this truck accident West of Wayne, Thursday afternoon, very minor injuries were reported. A pickup driven by Gerald Krueger of Wayne was following a pickup driven by Penny Anderson of Wayne east bound. Another vehicle from the City of Norfolk, was driving west bound when the accident occurred and it was struck by tools from the back of the Krueger vehicle, knocking out a window, cracking the windshield and breaking a tail light. No one was taken to the hospital by ambulance, but Krueger suffered a cut over his eye.

Former WSC president resigns post

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP) -- Saying that his effectiveness as a leader had hit a peak, Central Missouri State University president Ed Elliott says he wants the school's board of regents to accept his resignation.

Elliott is a former Wayne State College president.

CMSU has felt heightened racial tensions since last April, when demonstrations related to the verdict in the Rodney King trial in Los Angeles disrupted the campus, officials said.

BUT IN A press release Wednesday announcing his desire to step down, Elliott did not refer directly to that tension or recent incidents reportedly related to it. And a spokesman denied that Elliott's move had anything to do with the struggle over race relations at CMSU.

Elliott has been the school's president since 1985. He served as WSC president for three years before his appointment at CMSU.

Elliott feels that "there are a number of issues that will inhibit his ability to continue in a positive manner," the release said.

"You can draw your own inferences from that," said John English, director of public relations for the university. "He feels that his effectiveness is as good as it's going to get, and he's just going out on top."

SEVERAL RACIAL incidents have been reported on the campus in the last two weeks, said Barbara McGhee, president of the campus' Association of Black Collegiates.

Among the alleged incidents

Dr. Ed Elliott

McGhee cited:
--A drive-by pellet gun shooting of a black male student;
--A verbal and spitting assault on a black female student by three white males;
--Vandalizing of cars belonging to two black student leaders;
--The appearance of three males with stocking masks at the window of a black female student.
A PAMPHLET alleged to be racist also was anonymously distributed outside campus libraries and in residence halls, and a threatening and racially derogatory flier was left on the dormitory doors of four black students, McGhee said.

English said the school had not had any race-related trouble since the aftermath of the King trial, when a group of students, mostly black, was dispersed outside Elliott's home. The group then marched on downtown Warrensburg, breaking windows, overturning cars and setting fires.

Elliott has "worked long and hard this past year to enhance the educational environment for all students, specifically minority students, as a result of the disturbance last spring," English said.

BLACKS MAKE up about 7 percent of the 11,600 students at the school.

The board of regents will consider the resignation at a meeting April 14. The timing of Elliott's resignation and the start of a replacement search will be discussed at the meeting, English said.

Lifter needs funds

The City Council, Monday night waived a motion to help out the fund-raising efforts of Wayne's Levi Webb, who's trying to raise money to fund a trip to Sweden and Finland in a couple weeks. Webb would be representing Team USA in powerlifting competitions against both countries. The Council felt if they went ahead and helped Webb's fund-raising efforts then they would be setting a precedent for many other similar situations in the future. Although disappointed by the Council's decision, Webb says he's still not giving up. "We still need to come up with $1000 in the next few days," Webb said. "They've extended my deadline to April 6 which doesn't give us much time but we're still burning the candles to see what we can come up with." Webb said that he is in the process of selling Godfather's pizzas in the community with proceeds going towards his trip. "I really hope this becomes a reality," Webb said. "I am still training hard for the trip and after deciding that I would open up the squat competition with 800 pounds, I was told that this amount of weight in the submasters division is unheard of which would give me a pretty good leg up on the rest of the competition." In the event that Webb does not raise the needed funds, he will take what has come in which has exceeded $2200 dollars, and forward the money to help Team USA.

Parking

(continued from page 1) which permit terrace parking. A couple of council members voiced opposition to the idea of relaxing the prohibition on terrace parking in new developments even though Vakoc argued that the rule has been identified as a definite impediment to affordable housing in the community. He said the project he plans to develop will meet city codes in every other way. It will be development of one to three bedroom units for families below the median income. He said it is being developed under the strict guidance of Farmers Home Administration. The apartments would rent for $250 to $300 per month he said. Vakoc said he has developed the same kind of projects in Wisner, Plainview and Wakefield without city hassles about terrace parking. He said Wayne council members had a "clear cut opportunity to make this housing more affordable" by joining him and other communities in taking a different interpretation of minimum parking requirements.

(continued from page 1) industry. To date, over 7,000 alumni from neighboring communities have received mailings. Organizers estimate that 10,000 names and addresses will eventually be entered into the data base. There have been more than 250 responses. Those indicating an interest receive a survey which targets their reasons for wanting to come back, job information, and desired living quarters. All information is kept confidential with the economic development group. Interested persons also receive on-going community newsletters to keep them in touch with their home. There are currently 52 job titles available through the federal government labor department that could be researched for employees. EACH community taking part or businesses wanting lists of potential employees must pay a $25 fee. Each community is responsible for the printing and cost of mailing. There is not a specific point where the development group can call Operation Back Home a success, but rather it is an on-going project to spark new interest in the region.

Area children invited to Home Alone Safety Fair

St. Luke's Regional Medical Center in Sioux City will sponsor a Home Alone Safety Fair — a chance for area children to learn about many aspects of safety in and around the home — on Saturday, April 3 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at MarketPlace Shopping Center.

The free fair is for youngsters from kindergarten through middle school age, and visitors can check out several booths, including "Bike and Rollerblade Safety," "How to Dial 911," "Learn Not to Burn," "Learn First Aid," "Water Safety," "Mr. Yuk" and "Babysitting Safety."

Fair goers can also take part in a health walk at 11:30 a.m.; a jump rope contest at 1 p.m.; watch magic shows at 12:30 and 2 p.m.; make snacks from noon to 2 p.m. with Al Joens and Tom Humphrey of KTIV-TV and the assistance of a St. Luke's dietician; watch a Mighty Mites demonstration at 1:30 p.m.; and decorate bags with Easter sponge paints.

IN ADDITION, participants can register to win Mickey and Minnie Mouse stuffed collector dolls, donated by Premiere Video. Prizes will also be donated by Shopko, Boulevard Foods, I Can't Believe It's Yogurt and American Pop Corn Co.

"At the safety fair, we'll give children some basic knowledge of safety and self-care skills through fun, educational activities," said Dwight Birkley, registered nurse with St. Luke's emergency department.

"Safety is often a matter of common sense, and the fair will reinforce many of the safety rules and guidelines kids have already learned from parents, teachers and others."

The Home Alone Safety Fair is funded by St. Luke's Children's Miracle Network Telethon. Donations will be requested for face painting and the magic show. All other events are free.

Team Four captures B League crown

The Men's B League Championship basketball game was held Tuesday in the City Auditorium with team Four edging team Two by a 48-46 margin. With seven seconds to go in the game Jere Morris sank both ends of a one-and-one to put team Four up 48-44 before Ray Nelson hit a bucket at the buzzer.

Team Four never trailed in the game as they opened up the game with an 8-0 run on a Larry Wetterberg bucket and a pair of 3-pointers by Breck Giese.

David Braun scored for team Two and then hit a free throw to make it an 8-3 game before Dale Alexander cut the lead to two on a 3-pointer. Team Four scored the next four points on buckets from Wetterberg and Bob Keating before team Two rallied to tie the game at 12 with hoops from Mark Moser, Braun and Jerry Echtenkamp.

That proved to be as close as team Two would get as team Four closed out the final eight minutes of the first half with a 16-7 scoring run to make it a 28-19 halftime lead.

Team Four held a seemingly comfortable lead for most of the second half with a 13-point cushion coming at the midway point of the second stanza. Team Two did not lay down and die, however, as they fought their way back in the closing minutes.

In fact, with 39 seconds to go Braun drove to the hoop and made the basket and drew the foul from team Four. He sank the free throw to close the gap to two points at 46-44 before Morris put the icing on the cake with his two free throws with seven seconds remaining.

Breck Giese and Jerry Caraway shared team honors for team Four with 13 points apiece while Bob Keating and Larry Wetterberg tallied eight each. Jere Morris scored four and Larry Post rounded out the attack with two. Terry Gilliland was held scoreless.

Team Two was led by David Braun with 15 points and Jerry Echtenkamp with 13. Mark Moser, Dale Alexander and Ray Nelson each scored six points to close out the scoring.

Team One was crowned regular season champions with team members Tim Koll, Al Walton, Dallas Hansen, Eldon Hutchison, Kevin Patterson, Rick Lutt and Randy Dunklau.

SCHOLARSHIP CONFUSION

A large number of Winside area residents seem to be confused regarding student scholarships coming from the Winside Education Association and the Winside Scholarship Foundation.

The Winside Education Association scholarships are funded by Winside teachers. They give an annual scholarship of $150 to assist and encourage Winside graduates who are entering the field of education. To be eligible the applicant must: 1) be a junior or senior in college; 2) be entering a field of education; 3) be in good academic standing; 4) indicate a desire to be considered; and 5) submit verification of college standing. Deadline for this application is April 15 and the recipient will be notified May 1. All applications should be made to the Winside High School Guidance Counselor office.

The Winside Scholarship Foundation's membership is comprised of area residents, as well as current and past Winside students who organized in 1990 with the purpose of raising funds to provide scholarships for continuing the education of any Winside High School graduate beyond their high school years. Applications for these scholarships are made through the Winside High School guidance counselors office, then turned over to a WSF Selection Committee who will decide the recipients. The number and amounts of the applications depend on the amount of principal earning interest by the Foundation. The first year one scholarship was awarded for $250. Last year two scholarships were awarded. Deadline for this year's application is May 1. Scholarship awards will be announced during the Winside graduation exercise in May.

EASTER HUNT

There will be an Easter Egg hunt for Winside children age three through the third grade on Saturday, April 10 at 2 p.m. in the Village park. The Easter Bunny will also be making an appearance. The event is being sponsored by the Scattered Neighbors Club.

PRE-CONTEST CONCERT

The general public is invited to attend a pre-contest concert of the Winside vocal and instrumental students. The event will be held Tuesday, April 6 in the multi-purpose room.

At 6:30 p.m., a supper of taverns, chips, bars and beverages will be served by the Fine Arts Boosters. There will be a very small charge of $1 for taverns, 10¢ for bars and 25¢ per beverage. Anyone who needs a ride to the supper and concert should call LeNell Quinn, vocal instructor at 286-4465, days, or 286-4561 evenings. Instrumental instructor is LaChelle Krause.

Twenty-four combinations of vocal and instrumental Winside student groups will be competing. There is no charge on April 6 and this will be your chance to see their performances prior to the District Music Contest on April 23, which Winside will be hosting.
