

Wayne plant expansion will add 90 more jobs

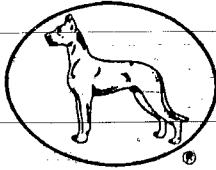

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

Just days after a delegation of Wayne leaders visited Great Dane Corporation headquarters in Savannah, Ga. to promote the community, the corporation has announced a major new plant expansion for Wayne.

The corporation plans to invest an additional $1.25 million to expand production capacity at its Wayne refrigerated truck trailer manufacturing plant. The move will add 90 new jobs, said Plant Manager Terry Hanson.

Mayor Bob Carhart had led a delegation of Wayne and Nebraska economic developers to Savannah last week to meet face to face with top Great Dane officials to sell them on the advantages of expansion in Wayne.

LITTLE DID THEY know, until they got there, that the corporate board meeting at which the decisions on plant expansion would be made was scheduled for Monday, said Carhart. "Our timing couldn't have been better," he said.

Notification of the plant expansion plans was delivered to the Mayor on Wednesday.

"This commitment of funds is certainly a strong expression of confidence from our top management and the owners of Great Dane," said

Hanson in notifying the city of the corporate decision.

He said the expansion effort, which will include addition of new foam component equipment, manufacturing space and other equipment, is scheduled to go on line in the first quarter of 1994.

GREAT DANE had said it needed to expand plant production since the firm has back orders for trailers late into 1994. In the past two years the Wayne plant has increased production from 40 trailers per week to the current rate of 70 per week and increased jobs from about 200 to over 400 workers. The new addition will peg the plant's employment right at 500 and boost trailer output to 90 per week.

Hanson said the trip by the Wayne delegation, including Chamberman-

Winside ready for fun

Just one week remains before the 92nd Wayne County Old Settlers Celebration gets underway in Winside.

The three-day event runs Friday through Sunday, June 25-27, and will be highlighted by a variety of events and contests for the young and the young at heart, including a

Theme for this year's parade, which begins at 4 p.m., is "Name That Tune."

Sunday's parade will be followed by the annual barbecue in the park from 5 to 8 p.m.

A kiddie parade is scheduled Saturday at 11 a.m., and youngsters are asked to register by 10:45 a.m. at the west end of the village park. The theme is "Fairy Tales and Nursery Rhymes."

A carnival with rides and food stand will be available all three days of the celebration.

City wants parade to 'quit horsing around'

Wayne city officials are raising a stink about the Chicken Show parade. It's not the chickens that has the city concerned, it's their barnyard buddies the horses.

In a letter to Chicken Show parade officials, Vern Schulz, Wayne public works director, said the city would not be cleaning up after horses in this year's parade and that horse owners should be informed that they should make provisions to clean up after themselves or they would not be permitted in the parade.

Members of the chicken show committee at their meeting Wednesday were confused by the edict and questioned why city crews would have time to keep watch and kick offending horses out of the parade, as threatened, when they didn't have time to provide clean-up details.

Getting ready

Seamstresses, cooks and crafts people are getting ready for the annual exhibits and ribbon chances at the Wayne County Fair in August. Mable Janssen is no different. She won the county best needlework award last year at the fair and placed very high at the state fair. Wayne County Fairbooks are due out this month which will feature all the exhibit categories plus features about the people involved in putting on Wayne's annual summer "agstravaganza."

WSC winning at Unicam game

When the Nebraska Legislative convened in January, Wayne State officials were preparing for a five-percent budget reduction for the 1993-94 academic year. But when the Legislature adjourned this week, the college's budget had been restored to its current level, additional dollars had been added and key legislators were praising the college's progress.

"Wayne State has done an outstanding job of selling its institution to its region and the state," says Nebraska State Senator, Scott Moore, chairman of the appropriations committee. "Wayne State has needs that were unmet for a number of years. Now, the legislature believes it's time to catch up with funding on the Wayne campus."

Moore says the legislature recognized that Wayne State "is growing by leaps and bounds" and he praised college president, Donald J. Mash, for providing strong leadership.

"Dr. Mash does a fine job of espousing the college's needs in an articulate manner," Moore says. "He doesn't lecture people when he presents the college's needs. He is a breath of fresh air."

Mash says that he is very pleased that key legislators recognized the college's needs in a difficult fiscal climate, particularly since the college has grown more than 30 percent during the past five years.

Besides having its budget restored, the most significant item added by the Legislature was a special appropriation of $250,000 which will be used to fund addi-

Veterinarian joins practice in Wayne

Dr. Philip S. Bentz has joined Drs. Kenneth Liska and David Swerczek at the Wayne Veterinary Clinic.

He began working at the clinic on June 1 and is residing on an acreage just north of the Wayne golf course.

Bentz, a native of Concordia, Kan., worked at the Wayne clinic for three weeks last summer as part of his externship while attending school at Kansas State University in Manhattan.

He grew on a farm just south of Concordia, where his family raises registered Herefords.

Following high school graduation in 1986, Bentz attended Kansas State University, where he received his bachelor of science degree in animal science in 1991, and his doctor of veterinary medicine (DVM) degree in 1993.

Although he enjoys working with all animals, the 25-year-old veterinarian said his main interests are horses and cow/calves.

Antique racers due through Wayne

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

The Great American Race will roll through Wayne, America this year.

Officials of the annual cross country antique car race have confirmed that Wayne is on the route and the 27 antique racers will be rolling through town the morning of Friday, July 2.

Sponsored by Interstate Batteries and other corporations, the race annually offers $250,000 in prize money to racers with antique vehicles. The precise 4,250-mile route is a closely kept secret since the drivers and navigators are timed over the route, but organizer Phil Cole confirmed to the Herald Friday that Wayne is on the route.

The racers are scheduled to arrive in Columbus at 8:40 a.m. that Friday morning and are due in Sioux City, Iowa for lunch.

Cole did not give a precise time they are due through Wayne nor whether it would be on Highway 15 or 35.

The vehicles in this year's 14-day race date back to 1910 and range from ancient dirt track Ford racers to Indy-type Packards. The newest vehicle in the field was built in 1941.

The racers leave Huntington Beach,

Calif on June 27 and are scheduled to arrive in Norfolk, Va. on July 10. The "race" is a controlled-speed journey of precision driving and endurance, said Cole. He said the competitors will be trying to match as many as 200 daily detailed and timed computer generated driving instructions using "seat of the pants" navigation.

Secret daily checkpoints clock each team's success. Each second off-schedule is a penalty point.

Cole said the group is excited to be coming through Northeast Nebraska and he hopes the public will enjoy seeing the old racers roll through.

New Waldbaum president pays visit to community

Bill Goucher, president of the Milton G. Waldbaum Co. in Wakefield, paid a visit to the community and facility last week.

He and other company officials attended a get-acquainted lunch with a number of Wakefield business people.

Earlier this year, it was announced by Michael Foods that Goucher had been hired as president of the Waldbaum Co., a position which had been held by David Gardner.

In making the announcement, the company said Gardner had expressed a desire to at some point in the future pursue his own personal business interests. In the interim, Gardner will stay with Waldbaum's as executive vice president to help Goucher with a smooth transition.

Goucher comes to Michael Foods from Armour Swift-Eckrich where spent over 20 years in operations, distribution and general management. He was most recently senior vice president/general manager at ASE Deli Co.

Goucher, along with his wife Sherri and son, are located in the Minneapolis area.

Also attending last week's luncheon was Doug Schult, who accepted the position of director of human resources at the Waldbaum Co. in January. He replaces Ted Helberg.

Schult, who makes his home in Sioux City with his family, was formerly employed by IBP, Inc. of Dakota City and has 14 years of extensive experience in human resource management with IBP.

AFTERNOON activities on Saturday include a horseshoe tournament at 1 p.m. near the tennis courts, and bathtub races on Winside's Main St. at 2:30 p.m.

The Theophilus Church and Museum will be open for tours on Saturday between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m., and the Winside Volunteer Fire Department will sponsor waterfights from 5 to 7 p.m.

There will be a teen dance on Saturday from 8 p.m. to midnight in the Winside auditorium, with music provided by Dancemaster, and entertainment at Lee and Rosie's from 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. will include Miller Kereoke, featuring Lynn Dvorak and the Miller girls.

Top golfers compete in NWAGA

By Kevin Peterson
Sports editor

The Nebraska Women's Amateur Golf Association's Eastern Regional Tournament was hosted by the Wayne Country Club on Monday and Tuesday with some of the finest female golfers in the state competing.

continued on Tuesday with an additional 18 holes which was flighted based on Monday's scores.

Scotsbluff native Molly Mullin cruised through the two-day tournament with a 153 after firing rounds of 77-76. Mullin is a sophomore on the University of Nebraska's Women's Golf Team.

Norfolk's Stephanie Hupp placed runner-up with a 156 followed by Omaha Suzy Duff with a 159. Duff is the reigning Omaha City Champion. Stanton's Joy Dubsky fired a 161 for fourth place honors in the championship flight.

"There were a lot of very good golfers playing our course during this tournament," NWAGA representative Ginny Hansen said. "The NWAGA has four tournament sites a year with the Eastern Regional, Western Regional, State Stroke Play and State Match Play."

The Eastern Regional was the first tour stop for the amateurs with the State Stroke Play to begin Monday at the Pines Country Club in Valley. "The Western Regional and State Match play will take place in July," Hansen said.

The sites of the tournament are different each year and Hansen said the NWAGA Committee asks NWAGA reps from perspective courses if they'd be interested in hosting one of the four stops.

"It's a lot of work hosting an event like this," Hansen said. "As a co-chairman with Tami Diediker, I was very impressed with the way she (Tami) took care of things. She was a major reason why things ran so smoothly."

Hansen said she began working on this tournament back in November. "There's just so many little things that have to be done for something like this," Hansen said. "Everything from letter writing to ordering of trophies."

Hansen did say that the help from people like Larry and Judy Berres along with Lisa and Lana Casey was instrumental in the tournament's success. "The support we got from all of the women of the country club who helped serve lunch, coffee, etc., was very much appreciated," Hansen said.

The theme of this year's Eastern Regional was "Gold Rush '93" and despite only playing golf since 1989, Hansen was Wayne's best chance of possibly qualifying to play in the championship flight.

"I didn't feel like I played real good golf," Hansen said. "I couldn't find consistency with my putter." Hansen came out strong in the opening nine holes, firing a 40 while playing with Jane Pohlman with a 3-8 handicap on the Omaha Country Club, Suzy Duff with a 2.0 handicap on the Omaha Country Club and Julie Riewer of Genoa with a 16 handicap. Hansen came in with a 11.3 handicap on 18 holes.

Hansen fired a 47 on the back nine which left her one stroke from qualifying in the championship round. She did come back on Tuesday with an 86 which gave her a runner-up finish in the first flight to Carrie Aman of Blair by three strokes.

Other area women golfers who fared well at the NWAGA-Eastern Regional included Carol Novak who won the fifth flight and Judy Sorensen, champion of the sixth flight. Tami Diediker placed third in the third flight.

Char Bohlin of Pender placed second in the second flight while Norma Benson and Mylet McGath of Pender placed third and fourth in the sixth and seventh flights.

Former Wayne High standout golfer Missy Jones, now Missy Hillmer, won the third flight. The following is a composite of each flight with names, scores and towns.

Wayne bowler places

Wayne bowler Cindy Sherman got some good news, recently from the Nebraska State Women's Bowling Association. Sherman placed eighth in the state tournament in the singles category.

Sherman competed at the annual state tournament on the first weekend of May in Grand Island. She participated in the "C" Division and bowled games of 189-169-192 for a 550 series—all of this with her 135 average she maintains in Wayne on the Wednesday Night Ladies League with Mert's Place.

Sherman said she also received a patch for bowling 125 pins over her average for a series. Women's state bowling is divided into divisions based on handicap and then everything is scratch.

Plan to meet this Sunday in church.
