A young participant in the National Cluck-Off during the Wayne Chicken Show stands up in front of an audience of thousands and cackles like a chicken.

Thousands view zaniness of Chicken Show #13

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

It was a record setting year for the Wayne Chicken Show. A bigger parade than ever, new records in rooster crowing and egg catching, near perfect weather, bigger crowds at the various events and the first show at which no chickens were lost all contributed to the "best ever" Show.

More than 85 entries in the parade were watched by an estimated 7,500 people who lined the streets Saturday morning. Those who attended other events in Wayne and did not attend the parade accounted for the balance of the 10,000 estimate.

Henowen, the Friday night activities downtown were termed a big success by both the sponsoring Chamber of Commerce and members of the Chicken Show Committee. Chamber officials said they are already discussing plans to boost the Friday night activities even more next year.

A NEW national Cluck-Off champion was crowned Saturday afternoon after Ed Howard of Manhattan and Joel Vavra of Lincoln both were unable to attend this year's contest. The two have won the title in each of the last seven years.

Keith Langan is the new cluck-off titlist. He has never attended a chicken show before, but said he used his memory from his days growing up on a farm to strut and cluck like a chicken to win the title.

He said he definitely will be back to defend the championship.

Langan, 35, a pest control technician from Norfolk, held off the winners of the three other divisions in the contest to win the overall award after finishing first in the 13 and over Hen category. Other finalists were Mike Swerzcek, Wayne, in the 12 and under Hen; Brendon Ehlers, Lyman, Wyo., in the 12 and under Rooster, and Troy Volwiler, Wayne in the 13 and over Rooster.

A ROOSTER showed by Andrew Jensen of Winside set the all-time record in the rooster crowing contest when it crowed 91 times in a half an hour. The previous best was less than 70 crows. Andrew's rooster bested two other competitors also entered by his family. Mary Jensen's entry crowed 24 times and Norm Jensen's crowed 21 times.

Ed Brogie set an all-time record in the egg drop/catch competition. He caught an egg which was dropped from 55 feet and kept it from breaking to set the record.

Other special events this year included a special postal station established at the Chicken Show in Bressler park to cancel stamps with a special Chicken Show stamp. Postmaster Dave Kirkpatrick cancelled a total of 256 stamped envelopes at the park and received 118 requests

Just how many were here?

Just how many people attended the Chicken Show activities over the weekend?

That's a difficult question to answer and if you ask a variety of estimators you're likely to get a wide variety of guesses, according to Wayne Police Chief Vern Fairchild.

Estimating crowd numbers isn't an exacting science and error factors can range 50 percent in either direction.

But when you consider all the activities associated with the Wayne Chicken Show, an estimate of 10,000 people is certainly within reason, said Fairchild. Fairchild said he had always thought 10,000 was on the high side for a Chicken Show.

But he said he knows there are a goodly number of people who go to the parade and not to the park afterward and vice versa. He said counting in the participants in the bike ride, fun run, car show and airport fly-in, plus the activities on Friday night downtown it is conceivable that the attendance this year topped the 10,000 mark.

He said he doubted that 10,000 people were ever in one place at one time, such as at Bressler Park. "That's a lot of people," he said.

In an informal count, a parade participant with the Wayne Herald randomly picked several blocks in the parade route and counted heads

WSC improves sports complex

The Wayne State Foundation will provide $165,000 and the Gardner Foundation of Wakefield will provide $24,000 this summer for Phase I of a major renovation project that will significantly improve the outdoor recreation-sports complex at Wayne State College.

The funds will be used for field improvements at Memorial Stadium; the development of new practice and intramural fields just east of Highway 15 in the northwest part of campus, and installation of an irrigation system for both areas.

This year's construction, which is underway, is the first phase of a multi-phased project, estimated to cost in excess of $1 million when completed.

When fully completed, the project improvements will include a new women's intercollegiate softball field, a re-developed intercollegiate baseball field, three intramural flag football fields and two intramural softball fields. Sidewalks, vehicular access, restrooms and concession stands will also be strategically placed near the soft-

'Lucky little boy'

A 10-year-old rural Carroll youth returned home today (Tuesday) following a farm accident early Sunday evening which resulted in him being life flighted to Marian Health Care Center in Sioux City.

Nicholas Brandt, son of Roger and Sandra Brandt, spoke to The Wayne Herald Tuesday morning from his hospital room as he was preparing to return home with his parents.

Nicholas said he was helping sort sows Sunday evening on his parents' farm when the tractor he was driving slipped into reverse and pinned him between the steering wheel of his tractor and a bean bar on another tractor located behind him.

In addition to breaking his lower gum, which was wired, Nicholas received several scrapes and abrasions on his chest, back and hand.

The Winside Rescue Squad was called to the scene and Nicholas was life flighted to Marian.

"His dad told him he was a pretty lucky little boy," said Nicholas' mother, adding that her son is doing just fine and will continue to recuperate at home.

Crop reporting deadline

AREA — The ASCS office reminds area farmers that Thursday, July 15 is the last day to report corn and other spring seeded crops to the ASCS office. There is a late reporting fee for those who miss the deadline.

Persons wishing to set up an appointment are asked to call 375-2453.

Pick up yearbooks

WAYNE — Wayne High School 1992 yearbooks may be picked up any day this week, through Friday, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. at 815 Lincoln St.

The location to pick up the yearbooks has been changed because the high school is in the process of waxing hallways.

Attending picnic

MARTINSBURG — Lt. Governor Maxine Moul will attend the Dixon County Democratic Picnic on Sunday, July 18 at 6 p.m. in Martinsburg. Everyone is invited to attend the potluck event and meet Moul, who together with her husband, Francis, has run a successful publishing and bookstore business in Nebraska for more than 30 years. Sunday's event is being chaired by Dick Hanson of Concord. Drinks will be provided.

Pre-fair meeting slated

WAYNE — The Wayne County Fair is just weeks away and last minute details and assignments for the 4-H program will be discussed during a pre-fair meeting scheduled Monday, July 19 at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be held in the 4-H Exhibit Hall at the Wayne County Fairgrounds.

The 4-H Council will meet at 6:30 p.m. for a brief meeting and painting. 4-H Teen Supremes are encouraged to attend both meetings to assist with the planning and painting.

Flooding benefits some?

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Agriculture losses will be severe in flooded parts of southeastern Nebraska, but economists say some farmers might benefit from the problems of farmers with flooded fields elsewhere.

In Nemaha and Richardson counties, flood damage to crops is estimated at $2.4 million, said Norman Hall, a price support specialist with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service in Lincoln.

Laura Thares of National Crop Insurance Services said about 42 percent of Nebraska's 18.8 million acres of cropland are insured. However, most farmers who make crop insurance claims receive payment for a percentage of their potential production, she said.

The insurance is intended to cover out-of-pocket production expenses but not the replacement value of their crop income.

Two University of Nebraska farm economists said crops are doing reasonably well in most parts of the state.

Many farmers stand to benefit from rising commodity prices, economists Bruce Johnson and Roy Frederick said.

"The bulk of Nebraska farmers did get their crops in despite a real rough planting season," Johnson said.

Crop yields will depend on the weather the rest of the summer but the state's farm economy might end up as good or a little better than last year, Johnson said.

"In general, I would expect farm income to be up a little," Frederick said. "At this stage, we're not looking at a calamity. But if you live along a river, it's pretty tough to hear that other people are benefitting at your expense."

Richard Gady, chief economist for Omaha-based food giant ConAgra Inc., said that as much as 5 percent of the upper Midwest's cropland -- 2 million to 3 million acres -- will remain unplanted because of unrelenting wet weather. But crops look good in most parts of Nebraska as well as in the eastern Corn Belt, he said.

After making an aerial tour of flood-stricken southeastern Nebraska last week, Gov. Ben Nelson said there was widespread and severe damage to cropland.

Strong wind storms that struck the state Thursday entered Nebraska from the southwest corner of the state and exited near Omaha after traveling more than 350 miles, noted Agriculture Department Director Larry Sitzman.

shambles, toppling irrigation pivot systems, barns, grain bins, livestock facilities and gated pipes," he said Saturday. "But hardest to absorb is the millions of dollars of damage to Nebraska's crops."

Thousands of acres of corn have losses of 30 percent to 80 percent because of snapped off plants, he said. Thousands more acres of wheat, soybeans and corn are twisted and flattened, he said. At least a third of Nebraska's 93 counties were hit hard, he said.

State officials are working with federal Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service offices to assess damage, Sitzman said. A dollar estimate will take days to put together, state officials said.

"Many times we talk of a million-dollar rain; unfortunately, this appears to be a multi-million dollar wind loss," Sitzman said.

Meanwhile, the wheat harvest was off to a slow start in parts of southern Nebraska because of rain. James Ledbetter, manager of the Farmers Elevator Co. at Chappell in southwest Nebraska, said about 20 loads of wheat had been received there.

The quality looked good, and the test weight was 61 pounds per bushel. The industry standard is 60 or above. Ledbetter said he believes full harvest is a week away.

"I think we could have some good wheat if the storms let us alone," Ledbetter said. "We haven't had a normal harvest the last two to four years."

Roger Elmore, agronomist at the NU South Central Research Station at Clay Center, said the wheat is maturing later than usual.

"It's not ready yet. It's going to be tough to get it out without a dry spell," Elmore said.

NU agricultural economist Les Sheffield said any rain delays during wheat harvest could reduce the quality, appearance and test weight.

"The longer the delays, the lower the test weight and the more potential for field losses," he said.

Anything can happen in election game

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — Gov. Nelson says he's not ready to say whether he's running for re-election next year.

But he has held almost a dozen fund-raiser events in Nebraska this year, including some $1,000-a-couple affairs. And his aides have privately been shopping around for someone to head a campaign. Call me crazy, but I'd say the guy's running.

And why not. Obviously, you'd have to think right now that Nelson would be pretty hard to beat.

He's the incumbent. I'll bet you most of the people in the state know who he is.

He'll have money. Nelson won the governorship in 1990 by basically funding his own campaign, spending over half a million dollars of his own money. Don't think he'll have to dig into his pocket this year.

There is hardly an interest in the state that wouldn't gladly fork over. The money can be self-perpetuating. Big business likes to put its money behind the horse they think is going to win. And in this race, Nelson is way out in front.

And he seems pretty popular. Nelson hasn't done anything to really get people hacked off at him.

Some farmers are still mad about the personal property situation, but it seems most don't put the blame on him for that.

He says people are favorable because he has delivered on his promises. He got a state lottery going. He did pass a bill lowering income taxes for low- and middle-income people — kind of a token bill, but a bill nonetheless. And he has taken a pretty hard line on the budget.

With all that, you can see why the Republicans aren't exactly lining up to take a shot at Nelson.

Gene Spence, a member of the OPPD board in Omaha, has jumped in and is working hard by all appearances. He will need to. Even in Omaha, he's not all that well-known.

Most of the "name" Republicans are backing off.

Doug Bereuter made noise, but he's way too comfortable in Congress.

State Sen. Scott Moore of Seward hasn't said no, but all indications are he'll seek re-election to the Legislature. He'd be a strong candidate, but with Nelson soaking up the resources, privately he's questioned whether there would be enough money to run a major campaign.

Other senators and former senators like Howard Lamb and Doug Kristensen also have apparently decided they have better things to do next year.

Kermit Brashear of Omaha, an attorney who ran in 1986, apparently has decided not to try again. Lincoln's Duane Acklie, a trucking magnate, hasn't ruled it out. He has some money and is well-liked, but like Spence, has a long way to go on name recognition. Ditto for Alan Jacobsen, the Lancaster County GOP chairman who apparently will jump in if no one else does.

Republicans can take heart on a couple counts.

There are still more Republicans than Democrats in Nebraska. Nebraskans don't necessarily vote that way, but they register that way.

And hey, anything really can happen between now and November 1994. George Bush, remember him? If his 90 percent approval ratings a year before the election had meant anything, Hillary and Bill would still be hanging out in Little Rock.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Homer and Dora are 'in pursuit'

"Dora, where can I read 'bout the rite to pursue happiness?"
"O' man, I think ya got yer rites an' rights mixed up, don'tcha? Are ya think'n 'bout that fellar that wuz writin' on life, liberty an' the suit of happiness?"
"Now who's mixed up! That's 'pursuit', not suit."
"Well, it seems lawyers find happiness in pursuin' suits. An' sev'ral of 'em Hollywood starlets will tell ya after bein' married 'bout six months they hate their mate an' file a pursuit for two million. Looks to me like suits an' pursuits are closely related."
"I see whatcha mean, but we mericans 'ave a rite to pursue happiness."

"That's true, in fact I tried pursuin' happiness once or twice."
"Didja now! What rites did ya exercise in pursuin'?"
"Weddin' rites! After I saw ya that first time, yer smile wouldn't leav' my mind alone, so I decided right then on a rite that would git us hitched. How'd ya like them to-maters!"
"Doric, if'n ya don't have a tongue! Jist as I wuz doin' some youthful dame-dreamin' you wuz pursuin' day dreamin'! There we wuz jist a pursuin' an' pursuin'an' we done pursued the other right to the rite of exchangein' Wows!"

"Ya mean vows, hon."
"Guess we exchanged both!"

only thing I ever exercise anymore is caution, so I don't chase exercise much. But there's lotsa folk out there chasin' joggin', bicyclin', gollin', swimmin', an' window shoppin'!"
"Window shoppin'! Ya got somethin' there, o' man! I s'ppose its at an all-time peek. Shop 'til yer drop! Years ago ya went shoppin' when ya needed somethin'. No more. Shop when ya don't need nothin' an' ya can chase all kinds of imaginary wants. Surprisin' how many things a person discovers they has to have!"
"That's why our government is three trillion in debt! Today's Tilted Tabloid has an interview with sev'ral of Washington's jawsome talkers in the Spentagon. They always wants more money so's they can chase their snitchin' posts or git some other job."
"That's true, an' them senators seem so me-deep hatchin' out the budget that they done laid an egg this time. When it comes to tax reductions, never have so many waited so long for so little!"

"EVER'BODY'S chasin' somethin', Homer. Might be jist a rainbow, but they's out there chasin'. There's lotsa things to chase, such as childhood mem'ries. The mind can stay reel busy with yesterday's re-runs! Then there's lotsa folk chasin' each other up the social ladder."
"An' up the corporate ladder too! More'n one man has been infected with reciprocal sickiatrytus."
"What in the world is that?"
"You know, they gits so all fired fidgety 'bout their job they drinks too much, an' first thing ya know their brain-gits stupid an' they starts chasin' a sickiatrist!"
"Even outstandin' folks gits bored chasin', I guess. If'n they ain't careful their whole bizness is warped 'roun' their whole bizness. Didja ever think 'bout chasin' success, hon?"
"Fiddle dee-dee, Dora, now yer chas'n yer imagination! What do ya mean success? I figures if'n I can git outta bed in the mornin' an' look at the weather outside, that's success. If'n ya can make-toast an' fry the bacon 'n eggs without burnin' 'em, thats success, ain't it?"
"Probly. As for me, I hear them birds urg'n mornin' to git up, so I do too. Then I git in the kitchen an' hear the faucet doin' its drip tease which makes me glad for the blessin' of hearin'. Little successes keeps a person on the chase fer bigger ones, right?"
"Nothin' wrong workin' up a sweat chas'n somethin'! Too hot this mornin' though to even wear an expression! Course, 'bout the "TALK 'BOUT chasin' things! Last night I chased all over the TV channels tryin' to find somethin' I'd want to chase further. I saw men chasin' women, wimen chasin' men, police chasin' gangsters, reporters chasin' a story, forecasters chasin' the weather, talkers chasin' the sensational, an' talk-show hosts chasin' the heck outta wacky weirdoes."

"Like today, Doprah's show wuz talkin' 'bout a girl's biggest problem wuz fightin' her way thru husbands who want to be bachelors to find the bachelor who wants to be a husband."
"Yeah, she always knows a good thing when she sez it. Well, hon, time fer me to pursue my rite to happiness."
"Whacha gonna chase?"
"Gonna go find me a parkin' meter with time left on it."
"Always the big spender when chasin' fun!"
"Jist member, Dorie, chasin' fun is like life insurance: the older ya git, the more its gonna cost ya!"
"Here's a penny for yer thots!"
"An' that's what I call chasin' cheap!"

Credit to Wayne

Chicken Show is really something to crow about

It amazes me, as a relative newcomer to Wayne, that there are still a few people in the community who don't seem to fully appreciate the magic that is the Chicken Show.

The premier summer celebration in Northeast Nebraska says a lot about the personality of the community and most of the people who live here.

It is a community with a sense of humor and a people who don't always take themselves too seriously.

That's what attracts so many outsiders to town on the second Saturday in July. That's what a goodly numbers of newcomers find attractive about the town too. Yet there are a few local soreheads try to always make sure they are out of town that weekend. They should wake up and smell the omelets cooking.

A town with a sense of humor is one that has Wayne, America on its water tower and one that sees its mayor and city councilman picking up horse droppings on Main Street during the Chicken Show parade.

It's a town with humility, that says, "we're not too good to pay tribute to our rural heritage and history of folk-style fun."

The Chicken Show means a great deal to the Wayne economy. Those 10,000 people who come here to take part in one or more of the activities seldom leave town without investing something in the fun-loving local economy.

But, even if there was never a dime spent by visitors to the community during the Chicken Show, it would still be a valuable event for the community.

Over 800 man hours of volunteer work go into putting on the Chicken Show each summer. The hundreds of local volunteers get together, build a fun network and put on a party for thousands of guests. And everyone goes home happy, satisfied and with a feeling of accomplishment.

If there are still people in Wayne who don't fully appreciate the significance of the Chicken Show, there certainly don't seem to be many outside the community. Stories about the Show again were carried on the Associ-

Mann Overboard

By Les Mann

ed Press Wire and electronic networks.

When singer-songwriter Susan Wright, a native of Wayne returned to perform at the Henoween event Friday night, she said she always tells folks she came from a town with a sense of humor. And the Chicken Show proves it.

Incidentally, I hope folks bought copies of her CD album or tape during her performance Friday night. Whatever she sold would have been her only pay for what was a great performance. She has a great voice and has a couple of really funny songs on the album.

If you didn't get a copy and want one, contact Gizmo Productions, 1015 S. Gaylord Street, Suite 195, Denver, Colorado 80209 (303)784-4712.

Plaudits should go to the Wayne City Crews who had the town looking like nothing happened just hours after our thousands of visitors left. Bressler Park looked great Sunday. The job of trash hauling alone is monumental. The city also had the Christmas Lights on downtown during Henoween activities, and that added a festive touch.

Nearly every organization in the area provides volunteers and assistance for the Chicken Show and they all should be commended for making the event such a success.

USWest executive Carla Ewert was instrumental in awarding major corporate funding for the Chicken Show when it first started and attended the fledgling event a dozen or so years ago when there were just a few hundred participants and a parade a half block long. She was back this year and said she was flabbergasted to see how the Show and associated activities have grown.

She helped judge the National Chuck-Off.

I just have one sour note to report on the whole event. It was an unkind shot some "friend" hurled at me from the crowd watching the parade. In newspaper parlance I was "getting the scoop" on the horse droppings controversy. The paper's parade entry touted the fact that the Wayne Herald has been getting the "scoop" for 116 years as we assisted Mayor Carhart and Councilman Fuelberth in cleaning up after the horses.

In mid scoop "my friend" hollered out, "Heck, he's experienced at that. He shovels it out every day at his typewriter."
Well, now, that was uncalled for...true...but uncalled for.

The meeting closed with singing "Praise and Thanksgiving" and the Lord's Prayer. A cooperative lunch was served by Darlene Frevert, Erna Greenwald and Clara Heinemann.

The August meeting date will be changed due to the Wayne County Fair.

Wayne Grace Lutheran setting for Sandahl-Allred ceremony

Marta Jean Sandahl and Scott Wayne Allred, both of Lincoln, were united in marriage at 3 p.m. on June 26 at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne.

Parents of the couple are Neil and Bonnie Sandahl of Wakefield, and Ken and Kitty Allred of Omaha.

The Rev. Jeff Anderson of Wayne officiated at the service. Decorations included altar bouquets of coral gerbera, mini carnations and alstroemeria, a brass candelabra with greenery, and coral and ivory pew bows.

Guests were registered by Tamra Bengtson of Lincoln and Tammy Von Kampen of Omaha, and ushers were Val Collins of Omaha, Kerry Keys of Elsmere, and Bary Ostmann of Waverly.

MAID OF HONOR was Margo Sandahl of Wayne, twin sister of the bride. Bridesmaids included the bride's sisters, Karen Collins of Omaha and Anita Keys of Elsmere, and the bridegroom's sister, Donna Bart of Omaha.

Personal attendant was Karmyn Koenig of Omaha, and flower girl was Stacey Keys of Elsmere.

Todd Madison of Valentine served as best man. Groomsmen were Rob Bengtson of Lincoln, Brad Allred of Omaha, brother of the bridegroom, and Dale Bart of Omaha. Timothy Peterson of Hordville was ring bearer.

Serving as wedding coordinators were Lowell and Karen Schardt of Wayne. Lanora Sorensen of Wayne pinned flowers, and Krisa Peterson and Sarah Peterson of Hordville arranged gifts.

Eric Peterson of Hordville and Erik Rogers of Wayne were videographers.

Bethany Keidel of Shawnee Mission, Kan. provided piano selections before and after the ceremony. Also providing music were Merle Ring, organist, and Eric Runestad, trumpeter, both of Wayne.

Vocalist Chalena Sandahl of Lincoln and pianist Alisa Sandahl of Hastings performed "In This Very Room," "He Has Chosen You For Me" and "And On This Day."

ON HER wedding day, the bride was escorted down the aisle by her father and appeared in an ivory brocade gown that featured long leg-of-mutton sleeves, a sweetheart neckline and a sweep train.

The dropped V waist in front and back was highlighted by a large bow at the back, with covered buttons down the back of the bodice.

Her headpiece was a halo of ivory flowers, pearls and ribbon which held a fingertip, wavy-edged double veil and back pouf with pearls.

The bride carried an arm bouquet of calla lilies, candida roses and baby's breath accented with coral alstroemeria. The stems were wrapped with satin ribbon and a bow. Worked into her bouquet was a gold watch belonging to her late maternal grandmother.

THE BRIDE'S attendants wore tea-length, dropped V-waist dresses of coral shantung. The fitted bodices were accented with pearls on the front and featured sweetheart necklines and pouf sleeves complete with a bow. A large bow at the waist back completed the dresses.

Each carried an arm bouquet of calla lilies, baby's breath and fern with ribbon-wrapped stems.

The bridegroom and his attendants wore black tuxedos with black pleated ties and cummerbunds. Coral shantung pocket squares completed their attire. The bridegroom wore a candida rose and baby's breath boutonniere.

The bride's mother wore a navy floral jacket over a mauve dress, and the bridegroom's mother chose a two-piece navy suit. Each wore a corsage of ivory roses.

FOLLOWING the ceremony, Laura Peterson of Hordville and Tamara Schardt of Wayne distributed birdseed bags to the guests. Cynthia Delzell of Lincoln served punch.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Allred

Norm and Bev Brown of Englewood, Colo. and Dean and Della Sandahl of Lincoln were hosts for a reception which followed in the church basement.

Cutting and serving cake were Anne Bierling of Granada Hills, Calif. and Lori Sorensen of Lakeview, Calif. Pouring coffee were Kelly Fleming of Lincoln and Tonya Exleben of Wayne.

Servers included Elaine Downey, Kara Fintel, Erika Knechans, Tanya Vojtech and Ellen Hopkins, all of Lincoln, Amy Malchow of Pender, Janice Nelson of Genoa, and Karen Peterson of Gothenburg.

THE BRIDE graduated from Wayne High School in 1989 and from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in May 1993 with an interior design degree.

The bridegroom, a 1988 graduate of Wayne High School, also graduated from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in May 1993 with a computer science degree from the College of Engineering.

Following a wedding trip to Colorado, the newlyweds are making their home in St. Louis, Mo., where the bridegroom will be a computer consultant for Price Waterhouse.

Reception held

Austins wed 50 years

The 50th wedding anniversary of Warren and Leora Austin of Wayne was celebrated with an open house reception on June 27 at Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne.

Justin Sjovald was seated at the guest book, with approximately 160 friends and relatives attending. Decorations were in gold and white and included a display of family pictures.

Among those present were Freda Austin of Norfolk and Melvin Johnson of Wayne, attendants at the couple's wedding ceremony.

Lunch was served by the Concerned Bible Study Group, with Phyllis Nolte and Betty Echtenkamp of Wayne cutting the cake. Edna Meyer of Wayne poured, and Jeremy Sjovald and Brenda Ludwigs served punch.

Warren Austin and Leora Johnson were married on July 2, 1943 at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Wakefield, and have resided in the Wayne area all their lives.

Their children are Carol and James Sjovald of Sioux City, Kenneth and Marla Austin of Wayne, and Jane and Rob Wimmer of Kansas City, Mo. There are eight grandchildren.

All of the couple's children and grandchildren were present for the celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Preston

Ohio couple observe 50th

Lee Preston, brother of Quentin and Merlin Preston of Wayne, with his wife, Frances celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with a dinner and dance on Saturday evening, June 12, at the UAW Hall in Troy, Ohio. Preceding the anniversary festivity, they attended the 50th reunion of Mr. Preston's graduating class from the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston have five children, twelve grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. The couple resides in Tipp City, Ohio.

Auxiliary installs new officers

Irwin L. Sears American Legion Auxiliary #43 met July 5 in the Wayne Vet's Club room.

President Helen Siefken opened the meeting, followed with prayer by Chaplain Fauneil Hoffman, the flag salute, and singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Eight members repeated the preamble to the constitution of the American Legion Auxiliary, and Leona Lessman was a guest.

Eveline Thompson gave the treasurer's report and also read the yearly report. Ethel Johnson, Americanism chairman, read "All American Fourth of July."

Membership chairman Eveline Thompson announced that memberships are due for 1994 and reported that 22 members have paid their dues. Winifred Craft gave the reading on driving safely.

Her fiancé, son of Richard and Vera Longe of Carroll, graduated from Wayne High School and Southeast Community College in Milford. He is employed by Tim Knight, Inc., in Lincoln.

Reunions held

Patefield reunion

The annual Patefield reunion was held July 10 at Blackhawk Lake near Lake View, Iowa. Attending from this area were Mr. and Mrs. Milo Patefield and Mr. and Mrs. Garold Jewell.

Other relatives came from Marshfield, Hancock and Whitewater, Wis.; and Denison, Audubon, Carroll and Exira, Iowa.

The 1994 reunion will be held in South Beloit, Ill. on the second Saturday in July.

Wylie reunion

The third annual reunion of the David A. Wylie family was held July 4 at Ponca State Park with 56 present.

Attending from the furthest distance were Mr. and Mrs. John Oltmann of Wichita, Kan. The oldest was Don Wylie, 67, of Norfolk, and the youngest was Melissa Beyer, 18-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Beyer of Moundridge, Kan. There were two births, one marriage and two deaths.

The 1994 reunion will be held the first Sunday in July at Ponca State Park.

County fair seeking barbecue boosters

The Wayne County Fair and Agriculture Society is once again seeking area support for the annual free barbecue which will be served during the Wayne County Fair on Friday, Aug. 6 at 6 p.m.

This year's fair is scheduled to run Thursday through Sunday, Aug. 5, 6, 7 and 8.

A spokesman for the Agriculture Society said the barbecue is one activity that brings the entire Wayne County community together for an enjoyable evening and is made possible by donations from many individuals and businesses throughout the county.

The spokesman added that all food items for the barbecue will be purchased and prepared in Wayne County this year.

Businesses and individuals wishing to contribute to this year's barbecue are asked to mail their donations to the Wayne County Fair and Agriculture Society, Evan Bennett, 1007 Douglas St., Wayne, Neb., 68787, or leave them with Beverly Etter at the State National Bank and Trust Co.

Donors will have the privilege of serving the barbecue to fair goers and will also have their names listed in The Wayne Herald.

In addition, barbecue supporters will receive one coupon for each $20 they donate for free admittance to fair events and will be invited to attend a breakfast at the fairgrounds on Friday, Aug. 6 from 7 to 9 a.m.

Ceremony in Wayne State Willow Bowl unites Cheri McDonald-Stan Polenske

The marriage of Cheri McDonald and Stan Polenske, both of Wayne, was solemnized in 6 o'clock rites on June 26 in the Willow Bowl on the Wayne State College campus.

The bride, daughter of LaVerle and Karen McDonald of Wayne, graduated from Wayne High School in 1990 and from Northeast Community College, Norfolk, in 1992. She is employed as a computer operator at Wayne State College.

The bridegroom is the son of Darrell and Arlene Polenske of Randolph. He graduated from Randolph High School in 1988 and from Universal Technical Institute of Omaha in 1989, and is employed in farm and cattle operations for Rick Lutt of Wayne.

The newlyweds traveled to St. Louis, Mo. and are making their home in Wayne.

OFFICIATING at the couple's double-ring service was the Rev. Jack Williams of Wayne. Decorations included a brass arch with large ferns and burgundy and mauve bows. The aisle was lined with burgundy geraniums and mauve impatiens.

Guests were registered by Angie Hammer of Wayne, and ushered to their seats by Mike Polenske of Pender, Delbert Polenske of Randolph, Doug and David Baker of Norfolk, and Kelly Hammer of Wayne.

Touch of Brass provided music for the processional and recessional, and Rebecca Jamison of Norfolk sang "Everything I Do I Do For You," "Here and Now" and "Go There With You."

Maid of honor was Cristy McDonald of Wayne, and bridesmaids were Holly Hurlbert of Wayne, Susie Polenske of Wisner, and Tess Blake of Wayne.

Serving as best man was Tim Polenske of Wisner. Groomsmen were Trevor Hurlbert of Wayne, Steve Bach of Randolph and Dan Spahr of Laurel.

Alex Larsen of Randolph was ring bearer, and the bride's personal attendant was Tami Polenske of Randolph.

THE BRIDE was given in marriage by her father and wore a mermaid style gown of white satin. The gathered skirt attached just above the knees and flowed into a chapel-length train. Embroidered organza appliques and trim edged the hem and design of the train.

Heavily beaded appliques adorned the front and back of the dress. A portrait collar of satin, lace and beads was worn off the shoulders with long sleeves forming a bridal point at the wrist. A satin bow was attached in back.

The bride's headpiece was a crown of satin pearls and crystal beads, with a four layer pouf, scattered with crystal beads, and a two layer veil attached in back.

She carried a cascade of white bridal roses, mauve lilies, pink alstromeria, baby's breath, stephanotis, ivy and assorted greens, accented with pearls and white bridal ribbon.

THE BRIDE'S attendants wore polished cotton gowns of mauve and green floral print on a white background. The floral skirts featured high/low hemlines, and the fitted bodices dropped to the hip with a straight waistline.

The portrait collars were worn off the shoulder, trimmed in venise lace and accented with a bow at the center front. Each carried mauve lilies, pink alstromeria and baby's breath in antiqued pewter holders.

Mr. and Mrs. Stan Polenske

The men in the wedding party were attired in charcoal black full dress tuxedos with white shirts. The bridegroom wore a black paisley vest with a black satin tie.

The bride's mother chose a two-piece dress and jacket in mauve, white and sage, and the bridegroom's mother selected a floral print dress in blue and pink.

A RECEPTION for 190 guests followed in the Wayne National Guard Armory, with Randy and Lori Baker of Norfolk, Roger and Lynette Hammer of Wayne, and Lonnie and Pat McDonald of North Platte serving as hosts.

Cutting and serving the cake were Marilyn Wilson of Wayne and Shelia Bose of Laurel, and pouring were Sandy Nichols and Mary Nichols, both of Wayne.

Waitresses and punch servers were Ranece Polenske of Ericson and Chelle Green of Bartlett.

Genealogical Society elects officers, plans next meeting in July

The newly formed Genealogical Society of Wayne County has scheduled its next meeting for Thursday, July 15 at 7 p.m. at the Wayne County Museum in Wayne. All interested persons are invited.

Ten members attended a meeting in June at the museum and elected officers for 1993-94, including Steve Gross, president; Marlys Rice, vice president; Imogene Brasch, secretary; Lois Shelton, treasurer; Lee Larson, correspondence secretary; Pearla Benjamin, newsletter; and Elaine Francis, historian.

Other positions will be filled by the president as the need arises.

THE PURPOSE of the Genealogical Society is to promote and further the interest in Wayne County genealogy and to enhance personal research efforts.

The society voted to have its year run from June to June, with yearly dues set at $6 for a single membership and $9 for a family membership.

Meetings will be held the third Thursday of each month at 7 p.m. at the museum during the summer months and possibly the city hall during the winter months. All mail to the society is to be addressed to the president for the time being.

A thank you will be sent to Merlin Beiermann for mowing the Altona Cemetery on June 15 when the Wayne County Genealogical Society hosted the Madison County Genealogical Society for a tour of the cemetery and of the museum.

OTHER ITEMS discussed were putting the meeting date on the KTCH newsgram and in the Wayne Herald community calendar. The group will check on filing for non-profit status.

Some fund raisers were also discussed, including reproducing the Wayne County Atlas. Compiling a Wayne County cemetery book was also discussed and will be considered for the future. Marlys Rice has all of Wayne County completed except for Greenwood Cemetery in Wayne.

Also brought up was sponsoring a table at the Wayne County Fair and Chicken Show.

The society is asking the public for funeral memorial cards which will be indexed and put in the society's library. The library will be housed at Wayne Monument Works for the present time, with donations of books and material appreciated. The library will be open during regular business hours and upon request whenever possible.

Ambulances okayed for licensure requirements

Dennis Svoboda of the Nebraska Department of Health's Division of Emergency Medical Services inspected the ambulance of the Winside Rescue and Providence Medical Center in Wayne recently and found that both meet requirements for state licensure. Items inspected included ambulance equipment, record keeping, maintenance, cleanliness and sanitary procedures and personnel training. VerNeal Marotz of Winside accompanied Svoboda and was provided a copy of the inspection report.

Ambulance inspections are required by a law passed by the Legislature in 1975 to assure that ambulance services and rescue squads in Nebraska have the capability to provide quality emergency medical care for victims of accident or sudden illness. Ambulances are required to be inspected every three years or before being put into service.

The GOLDEN YEARS

by Pat Lichty

Reverse mortgages are a fairly new option for older homeowners who need income. The home owner receives a monthly check from the bank, and the amount regularly is charged to the owner's account. When the owner moves out or dies, the account is settled by selling the house, the bank collecting its share according to the status of the account. But, financial advisors warn, reverse mortgages are not for everyone. Initial fees for processing the reverse mortgage, monthly service charges and interest rates tend to be rather high. If you are considering applying for a reverse mortgage, first discuss the pros and cons with an independent advisor.

The risk of breast cancer increases with age. If it is detected early enough, 90 percent of the women can be treated successfully, the National Cancer Institute says. A mammogram, which is a special x-ray picture of the breast, is designed to find signs of cancer in the earliest stages. Eleven major health organizations recommend a mammogram every one or two years beginning at age 40, and every year upon reaching 50.

Petri claims another title

The Wayne July Men's Golf Open was held Sunday at the Country Club with 187 participants—up eight from the June Amateur Open.

According to club professional Larry Berres, Laurel's Rick Petri became the first back-to-back champion in recent history. Petri won the June tournament with a three-under par 105 on 27 holes.

Petri backed that up in Sunday's event with the same three-under par 105 score. The Laurel girls basketball coach and athletic director fired rounds of 35-36-34 to claim his second championship in 30 days.

It looked as though Sunday's tournament would have the same kind of finish as June's did with Petri and Doug Rose going head-to-head down the stretch—this time with Petri and Lincoln's Scott Howerter.

The two had the same one-under par 71 score after the first 18 holes but Petri gained a five-stroke advantage over the final nine holes. Lincoln and former Oakland native Jason Peterson garnered runner-up honors with a 108 while Howerter settled for third at 110.

Bill Fry of Lincoln finished fourth with a 111 and Wayne's Randy Slaybaugh placed fifth with a 111. Matt Bauer of O'Neill was sixth with a 112, edging Wayne's Dave Nicholson and Eric Runestad who also carded 112's.

Omaha's Terry McCawley was ninth with a 113 and Chuck Fisher of Westminster, Colorado rounded out the top 10 with a 113. There were 72 entered in the championship flight.

Steve Meyer was Wayne's only flight champion with an 84 to claim the ninth flight crown. Cornell Runestad placed runner-up in that same flight with an 89 while Lee Stegemann placed second in the seventh flight with an 84.

Bill McQuistan and Pat Gross finished third and fourth respectively, in the sixth flight with 84's while Scott Kudrna and Chris King went three and four in the eighth flight with scores of 90 and 97.

Kory Leseberg and Jerry Denton placed third and fourth in the 10th flight with 94's and Les Keenan and David Stuthman placed third and fourth in the 11th and final flight with scores of 99 and 101. Grant Ellingson was the final Wayne Country Club member to place in the July Open with a fourth place score of 91 in the fifth flight.

The following are the flight placers with scores:

First flight: Joseph Prue, 74; Mark Harrison, 76; Brad Penlerick, 78; Mick Reifort.

Second flight: Louie Campschneiock, 75; Thomas Kreike-meier, 77; Larry Smeal, 79; Tim Kurlmel, 79.

Third flight: Steve Casey, 74; Glen Schuetze, 80; Doug Thompson, 80; Brook Darnell, 83.

Fourth flight: Larry Wagner, 75; Larry Wingett, 80; Ty Larson, 80; Scott Vrba, 83.

Fifth flight: Roger Nelson, 85; Jeff Meyer, 88; Curt Munson, 89; Grant Ellingson, 91.

Seventh flight: Wesley Smeal, 82; Lee Stegemann, 84; Randy Simonsen, 84; Scott Baker, 90.

Eighth flight: Bill Theisen, 87;

Bruce Shively, 88; Scott Kudrna, 90; Chris King, 97.

Ninth flight: Steve Meyer, 84; Cornell Runestad, 89; Todd Hart, 90; Mike Jacobsen, 91.

Tenth flight: Larry Rosso, 85; Mike Roeber, 91; Kory Leseberg, 94; Jerry Denton, 94.

Eleventh flight: Cecil Brummond, 95; David Green, 99; Les Keenan, 99; David Stuthman, 101.

LAST FRIDAY the Wayne Chicken Show 2 Person Scramble was held at the Country Club with 23 teams taking part in three flights.

Lee Stegemann and Ray Nelson teamed up to win the first flight while Mike Barry and Rick Petri finished second. Rick Straight and Bob Nelson placed third.

Steve Muir and Dave Nicholson topped the second flight followed by Paterson and Metzler. Bill McQuistan and Duane Blumenkamp placed third.

Les Keenan and David Stuthman won the third flight while Caraway and Caraway placed runner-up. Lutt and Hammond placed third.

LAUREL'S RICK PETRI won the July Open Golf Tournament Sunday in Wayne with a three-under par 105 score on 27 holes. Petri also won the June Open after firing the same score.

Chicken Show run draws 79

The Wayne Chicken Fun Run/Walk drew 79 runners this year including three relay teams consisting of five runners each. Wayne's Todd Fuelberth and Tami Schluns were crowned top male and female runners. Fuelberth crossed the line in 1:00.08—a new record for the 19-under age bracket while Schluns also broke a record for the 19-under category with a 1:15.54 clocking.

The runner-up overall winners were a husband and wife combination of Roger and Ann Wacker of Houston, Texas. Roger is a graduate of Wayne High School and competed in the 30-39 age group.

The breakdown of each age group and placers are as follows: 19-under—Dan Nielsen, Central City, 1:03.29; Josh Kollars, Norfolk, 1:06.27; Matt Wiltse, Lyons, 1:06.16.

40-49—Bill Engert, South Sioux, 1:08.11; Rob Morris, Laurel, 1:11.23; Terry Meyer, Wayne, 1:14.57.

50-59—Don Zirbel, Sioux City, 1:15.55; Ron Christopherson, Hornick, Iowa, 1:17.04; Jim Kropatsch, Columbus, 1:19.11.

60-over—Glen Zirbel, Ankeny, Iowa, 1:28.22; Pat Finn, Carroll, 1:35.21; Bill Bridge, Norfolk, 1:35.21.

19-under women—Angie Zimmerman, Norfolk, 1:33.51; Julie Zimmerman, Norfolk, 1:35.56.

20-29 women—Jason Barclman, Wayne, 1:29.15; Sara Pederman, Wayne, 1:34.45.

30-39 women—Ann Wacker, Houston, Texas, 1:17.23; Joan Giese, Pullman, Washington, 1:42.09.

40-over women—Ardel Bengston, South Sioux, 1:20.22; Barb Goulet, Columbus, 1:25.38.

The top relay team was the Wayne Varsity with a record time of 1:01.43 time. Team members included Nate Stednitz, Spencer Stednitz, Chris Headley, Robert Bell and Clint Dyer.

The York Folk of Wakefield was second in 1:04.28 with Mark Johnson, Alan Johnson, Matt Peterson, Sheldon Koeppel and Todd Kratke. The fearsome fivesome placed third in a time of 1:04.51 with Todd Fuelberth, Mark Meyer, Chris Dyer, Dave Ensz and Matt Meyer.

TAMI SCHLUNS and Sioux City's Don Zirbel sprint to the finish line of the 10.25 mile Chicken Run which ended in Bressler Park.

Midgets improve to 18-7 with shut-out

Ryder Hoffman tossed a one-hit shut-out against Laurel, Monday in Wayne which lifted the Midgets to an 8-0 victory and an 18-7 record. Hoffman struck out five in the process.

Wayne finished with six hits with Jeremy Sturm leading the way with two singles while Dusty Jensen doubled. Jason Starzl, B.J. Woehler and Joe Lutt each had one base hit. Hoffman didn't get any hits in the game but scored three runs after reaching base via walks. Wayne batters were issued 11 free passes on walks from Laurel pitchers.

The Juniors played a double-header with Laurel and earned a split, losing the opener, 4-0 but winning the nightcap, 5-2.

In the first game Wayne was limited to three hits by Laurel pitcher Andy Smith. Robert Longe had a pair of singles and Tim Reinhardt laced a base hit to round out the offense.

Todd Fredrickson was tagged with the loss despite only giving up five hits. The game was scoreless until the final inning.

In the second contest Robert Longe struck out eight Laurel batters and picked up the pitching victory as Wayne improved to 12-12. The locals only managed three hits but received six walks.

Kelly Meyer doubled to lead Wayne while Jim Fernau and Tim Reinhardt each singled. Laurel finished with six hits. Wayne led 3-2 after the first inning and added one in the second and one in the fifth. Wayne will travel to play South Sioux on Thursday.

14-under softballers win three of four

The Wayne 14-under team went 3-1 last week, splitting with Laurel last Tuesday while sweeping Homer at home on Thursday. In Laurel, Wayne won the opener, 13-0 before dropping the nightcap, 12-11.

Stacey Langemeier picked up the pitching victory in the first game, tossing a four-hit shut-out. Wayne had eight hits including a pair of singles by Melissa Weber.

Marci Post hit a double while Alycia Jorgensen, Langemeier, Nicole McLagan and Katy Wilson each singled. In the second game Wayne took a 11-7 lead into the bottom of the final inning before giving up five runs.

Marci Post was the losing pitcher and Katy Lutt also saw action from the mound. Laurel only had three hits compared to five for Wayne. Lutt led Wayne with a triple and double while April Beckenhauer, Sarah Metzler and Rebecca Dorcey each had a single.

On Thursday against Homer, Wayne won the first game by a 15-3 margin before winning the nightcap, 10-9. Kari Wetterberg got the first game victory, allowing just two hits. Wayne had four hits led by Katie Lutt's two singles. Alycia Jorgensen and Megan Meyer each had a single.

Wayne sent 15 batters to the plate in the first inning and drew 10 walks and scored 11 times. The locals had to work a little harder in the second game, earning the win in the final at-bat.

Katie Lutt earned the victory in relief of Marci Post. Homer led Wayne 8-0 after two innings of play but Wayne stormed back to tie the game at eight in the fifth inning.

Homer scored once in the top of the seventh and Wayne ended the game in the bottom of the seventh by scoring two runs with two outs. Kari Wetterberg singled, stole second, third and home while Lutt earned a walk and stole second and third.

Jenni Beiermann then hit a ball to the third baseman who decided to throw it home on a fielder's choice instead of going for the force out at first base, the throw was not in time and Lutt scored. Wayne had 10 runs on 12 hits while Homer had nine runs on just three hits.

Megan Meyer led the way with three singles while Wetterberg and Lutt had two base hits each. Sarah Metzler, Kelly Lubberstedt, Brandy Frevert, Katy Wilson and Beiermann each had one base hit.

Wayne baseball teams garner one win at O'Neill Tournament

The Wayne Juniors and Midget Legion baseball teams played in the O'Neill Tournament on Saturday and Sunday and the locals could manage just one win between them in four games.

The Midgets opened up play with a 12-1 win over Winner, S.D., as Craig Wetterberg tossed a no-hitter. Wayne had nine hits led by Dusty Jensen's double and single.

Jason Starzl, Adam Bebee and Joe Lutt each belted doubles while Jeremy Sturm, Ryder Hoffman, B.J. Woehler and Jaimey Holdorf each had one base hit.

The Midgets suffered an error-plagued game against O'Neill, losing an 18-4 decision in their second contest. Jeremy Sturm was tagged with the loss. Wayne's offense could muster just four hits with Jason Starzl notching two singles while Joe Lutt and Adam Bebee each had one hit.

The Juniors fell to Battle Creek, 10-4 in their first game before being shut out 13-0 by O'Neill in the second game. Against Battle Creek, Dane Jensen was given the loss from the mound.

Wayne managed just two hits—singles by Robert Longe and Jensen. Battle Creek scored 10 times on six hits.

Against O'Neill, Wayne was allowed just one hit—a Robert Longe single and O'Neill pounded out a dozen hits in scoring 13 runs. Longe was the losing pitcher for Wayne as they fell to 11-11 on the season.

LAST FRIDAY in Hartington the Wayne teams split a doubleheader, with the Midgets winning, 8-4 and the Juniors losing by the same 8-4 margin.

Nick Vanhorn pitched the Midgets to victory with relief help from Ryder Hoffmann. The Wayne pitchers combined to toss a 2-hitter while Wayne notched seven hits.

Joe Lutt laced a pair of singles to lead the winners while Jason Starzl doubled. Jeremy Sturm, B.J. Woehler, Hoffman and Adam Bebee each had one base hit.

In the Juniors game, Wayne's Todd Fredrickson was handed the pitching loss. Wayne finished with four runs on seven hits while the host team had eight runs on nine hits.

Robert Longe and Jim Fernau each had a double and single while Fredrickson, Tim Reinhardt and Scott Day each had one base hit.

This marks the final week of the regular season for both the Midgets and Juniors. On Tuesday, Wayne hosts Wakefield before travelling to play South Sioux on Thursday.

On Sunday the two teams will each play two games. The Midgets host Ponca at 1 p.m. and host Wisner at 6 p.m. while the Juniors play at 3 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Wayne Pee-Wees place in Wakefield

WAYNE-The Wayne Pee-Wees baseball team won their division of the Wakefield Mid-Summer Classic but lost in the semis of the World Series. Wayne defeated Homer, 20-9 to win the division.

Daniel Roeber and Jason Beiermann led the way, with two doubles and a single each while Mike Varley ripped a double and two singles. Adam Jorgensen had two doubles and Craig Olson had a double and single while Jordan Widner rounded out the offense with a single.

In the semis of the World Series, Wayne fell 9-7 to Wausa. David Murray and John Pickinpaugh each had a double and single while Adam Jorgensen and Daniel Roeber laced two-singles each. Ben Meyer doubled while Mike Varley, Jason Beiermann, Jordan Widner and Jason Rethwisch each singled.

Wayne girls softball teams headed to state

WAYNE-The Wayne girls softball teams will be heading to Grand Island on Friday for the annual state tournament. The 16-under team will play at 8 p.m. on Friday against Elkhorn while the 18-under team plays their first game at 9:30 a.m. on Saturday against the winner of the Bullets and York. The state tourney is a double-elimination format.

GRADUATES

Diane Thompson of Wakefield is a recent graduate from the South Dakota School of Massage Therapy in Sioux Falls. Graduation ceremonies were held on June 20. Ms. Thompson has been a respiratory therapist for the past 20 years and associated with the Pender Community Hospital the last 10 years as department head.

Ms. Thompson says that massage therapy is gaining acceptance. Massage is one of the easiest ways of attaining and maintaining good health something we all do naturally. Thompson says. It is a healing instinct in all of us to rub an aching shoulder or stroke a furrowed brow.

Headaches, aches and pains, insomnia, tension and stress can be alleviated, according to Ms. Thompson. She is currently willing to visit with any individuals, clubs or groups who would like to become better acquainted with massage therapy.

RECEIVES ACCREDITATION

The Wakefield Community School has been rated continued accreditation by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools. The Wakefield School was first admitted to membership in September 1935, and has been continuously accredited since that time.

"Accreditation by the NCA means that the school has met the standards set for membership", according to Principal Joe Coble. "These standards signify that the school has the resources, personnel and leadership necessary for effective education."

Accreditation must be renewed each year.

COMPLETES COURSE

Army National Guard Pvt. Kristen R. Muller of Wakefield this spring completed the mobile subscriber equipment transmission systems operator course at Fort Gordon in Augusta, GA.

Students are taught to install, operate, troubleshoot and perform maintenance on radio access units and other electronic devices. They were also taught to install and operate power generation equipment used for tele-communications.

The soldier is the daughter of Eileen M. Teit of Wakefield and Richard E. Muller of Arlington. She is a 1992 graduate of Wakefield Public School.

NAMED TO HONOR ROLL

Reduce the Risk of Skin Cancer

One in six Americans will have skin cancer in his or her lifetime, according to the American Academy of Dermatology. Scientists are predicting that, as the ozone layer around the earth is further depleted, heavily populated cities in the northern part of the United States will experience a special risk for melanoma, the most serious of the skin cancers. The good news, according to Dr. Perry Robins, president of the Skin Cancer Foundation, is that skin cancer treated in its earliest stages is almost one-hundred percent treatable. However, many skin cancers are not detected until it is too late. Protection from the sun is more important than ever. The Skin Cancer Foundation suggests (1) wearing sunscreen products with a SP Factor of at least 15 when going outdoors, (2) wearing protective clothes such as a broad brim hat and a long sleeve shirt when outside, and (3) self-examination of one's body every three months with a professional full-body exam once a year.

HENOWEEN TURNED into a night of pranks as the Chickendales kidnapped the chicken by the the Wayne Herald and took it out to the Welcome to Wayne sign which was changed to Intergalactic Spaceport and Convention Center for the night.

THE WAYNE WORLD Outreach Center float won first prize in the Chicken Show Parade with their Kingdom Kids theme.

SEVERAL YOUNGSTERS attending the fair were treated to balloons from this clown. The parade had over 80 entries and lasted over an hour.

on one side of the street. The average was 289. Assuming that figure could be doubled for both sides of the street on each block, then multiplied by 13 which was the number of blocks on the parade route, that would mean 7,514 people watched the parade.

That method is about as accurate as the most scientific methods of crowd estimating, said Fairchild. In Washington D.C. functions, members of the parks service take a picture of a small portion of the crowd in a given area, count heads in that space and then multiply for the entire area. Different groups using this method can be off by many thousands, said Fairchild.

Whatever the number, chicken show committee members said this year's crowd was larger than last year, especially when the Henoween participation was counted in the total.

THE PROJECT represented $322 in revenue to the Postal Service.

Nearly 1,500 barbecued chicken dinners were served in the park by the Chamber of Commerce and 1,200 omelets were served that morning. The omelet numbers were down considerably because there was a $1 charge for them this year. They have been free in previous years. The M.G. Waldbaum Co. annually contributes the egg mix and cheese for the omelet feed and Quality Food Center, Pac 'N' Save and Johnson Frozen Foods all contribute to the omelet feed but there still was a cost of over $1,000 to the Chicken Show for other ingredients and expenses, said Jane O'Leary. The committee decided to begin charging a nominal fee to help cover those costs, she said.

OVER 800 volunteer man hours go into making the Chicken Show a success each year, she said. Organizations like The Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis, Rotary, Jaycees, Toastmasters, Cycle Paths, Eagles Auxiliary, USWest and the ones she already mentioned as well as others all contribute mightily to the successful show, she said.

For the first time ever, Mrs. O'Leary said no chickens at the show got away, as has happened in previous years. But there were a few lost and found items turned in, including a full sized chicken costume.

From an economic perspective the Show was a rollicking success, said Curt Wilwerding, chamber executive: All the motels were full and retail and service merchants reported great business over the weekend.

Wilwerding added that the show is invaluable to the image of the community since people outside of Wayne see us as a town that is organized, gets things done and likes to have fun. He said many towns have trouble generating the number of volunteers it takes to put on a major celebration like the Chicken Show. In Wayne that is not a problem, he said.

 Groner says the Wayne State Foundation would also like to thank the Gardner Foundation for its contribution.
 "The Gardner family has supported the athletics programs and the college for many years," he said. "This is just one more example of their generosity."
 Groner says the Gardner Foundation gift is in addition to the $1.5 million "Building Bright Futures" commitment Dan and Jeanne Gardner have made.

Corn growth is slow

Nebraska corn growth and development continues to lag behind normal due to the cool, wet and cloudy weather during the month of June, according to two University of Nebraska-Lincoln climatologists.

Steve Meyer and Ken Hubbard noted that June temperatures were generally 3 to 6 degrees below normal statewide. That means corn planted late, due to wet weather in May, is still behind schedule.

The accompanying table details a projected analysis for corn on three different planting dates. It shows the accumulated growing degree days (GDD) as of July 2; the projected maturity dates assuming the rest of the growing season as "normal;" and the probability of freeze before maturity.

Based on nearly a century of data, the table also shows that this year the GDDs are behind nearly all other years.

For example, as of July 2, corn planted on May 10, May 20 and May 30 at Concord, Neb., has accumulated 734, 623 and 518 GDDs, respectively. Maximum and minimum temperature limits of 86 and 50 degrees F were used in the calculations.

If short- (2400 GDDs), medium- (2500 GDDs), and long- season (2750 GDDs) corn hybrids were planted at Concord on May 10, and the crop has accumulated 734 GDDs, these hybrids would mature on Sept. 8, Sept. 13 and Oct. 7, respectively. The probability of a freeze before maturity is 0 percent, 1 percent and 56 percent, respectively.

If planting was May 20, and the crop has accumulated 623 GDDs, crop maturity would occur on Sept.

14, Sept. 22 and Oct. 27. The freeze probability before maturity for these hybrids would be 1 percent, 13 percent and 95 percent.

If planting was May 30 and the crop has accumulated only 518 GDDs, the 2400 GDD and 2500 GDD hybrids would mature Sept. 23 and Oct. 3. The freeze probability before maturity would be 14 percent and 44 percent, respectively. The 2750 GDD hybrid would fail to mature before frost.

As the growing season currently stands, a 2750 GDD corn hybrid grown in northern and extreme southwestern Nebraska and in Iowa has less than a 50 percent chance of reaching maturity, no matter when it was planted. A similar outlook pertains to a 2500 GDD corn hybrid planted in late May.

Hubbard and Meyer said this points to the fact that producers in the northern half of both Nebraska and Iowa probably need to be concerned over the cool start to the growing season. These projections can help farmers in their planning, they said.

These weather conditions should be of lesser concern to producers in southern Kansas because there's little chance of an early freeze, even where a 2900 GDD hybrid was planted, said the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialists.

Weather blamed

June's cool, wet weather has extended into July causing the accumulated growing degree days for the entire state to be behind normal, according to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln climatologist.

Calendar day equivalents of accumulated growing degree days since April 15 range from three to six days behind normal in the Panhandle and eastern Nebraska and six to eight days behind normal throughout the rest of the state, Al Weiss reported.

Weiss made the comments during a videoconference briefing Tuesday with other Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialists and Cooperative Extension staff around the state.

Lenis Nelson, UNL crop specialist, said the state has surpassed the optimum planting date for all crops, thus reducing yields of all crops. Since thunderstorms and hail damage have left some fields without crops, he suggested that farmers consider replanting with seed and forage crops.

He said farmers planting seed crops such as soybean, sunflower or proso millet are gambling on a warm summer and long autumn to obtain top crop yields. He said planting a forage crop for livestock feed is a lower risk than other crops for achieving yield.

Gary Hergert, soil specialist at NU's West Central Research and Extension Center in North Platte, said many soybeans planted in high pH soils are yellowing.

He said chlorosis, or yellowing, occurs in soybeans when the pH of alkaline soils is 7.5 or higher. Hergert said a 1 percent iron sulfate spray could be applied to beans that are just starting to turn yellow.

Hunt list compiled

The Nebraska Department of Agriculture is compiling a list of all lease hunting operations across the state. These operations can be as simple as an agreement between a rural landowner and a hunter which allows hunting for a small fee.

Lease hunting can also consist of very elaborate multi-farm operations and include amenities such as hunting lodges or bed and breakfast accommodations along with hunting rights.

The Department wants to help promote this alternative use of farmland for a number of reasons. It is an additional source of farm income; it enhances environmental efforts of producers by encouraging them to improve wildlife habitat on

Study on farm and ranch families done

While some Nebraska farm and ranch families manage well financially, others go out of business, said Larry Bitney, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln agricultural economist.

He said a group of farmers and ranchers identified the following factors as major causes of variation in financial performance: level of debt, size of business, cost containment, marketing, income tax management and making timely changes.

Debt was identified as a cause of low profits. While debt is usually associated with financial difficulties, Bitney said determining whether debt is good or bad for an operation depends on how a manager uses it. Operations without debt could be more profitable than those with debt, but often they were not.

Bitney said participants in a study of 100 farms in the Nebraska Farm Business Association from 1982 through 1988, showed that the 10 most profitable farms had higher debt levels than the average of the group.

The association started in 1976 and is operated by UNL Cooperative Extension. Families pay to participate in different areas such as tax management, detailed enterprise analysis and whole farm business analysis.

Bitney states that families without debt can either have higher net income or use this margin to cover inefficiencies in their operations. Money that would have been spent on interest may be spent on higher operating expenses or depreciation, he said.

"Top managers manage their debt. They incur debt for productive purposes, and pay it off," he said. "Managers of unprofitable operations often accumulate debt using it as a substitute for cash flows generated by the business."

Bitney said a profitable farm or

Meeting is set

The Nebraska Beef Council directors will hold a two-day meeting on Wednesday, July 14 at 10 a.m. and on Thursday, July 15 at 8:30 a.m. at the Nebraska Beef Council office in Kearney.

Potential budget figures for the 1993-94 fiscal year will be discussed, and additional funding requests will be considered. The directors will also be analyzing beef council programs, and evaluating reports of organizations with whom the beef council is associated.

The public is invited to attend the meeting. For more information, please contact the Nebraska Beef Council office at (308) 236-7551.

their farms and ranches; and it stimulates rural development.

The Department's promotional efforts will begin with finding out how many of these operations exist and where they are located. Lease hunting profile forms were sent to the operations known to the Department to compile a base of information. Once operations are identified, a brochure listing each operation will be developed and distributed to rest stops, hotels and county extension agents.

Lease hunting operators who have not received a lease hunting profile form should contact the Ag Promotion and Development Division of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture at 800-422-6692.

ranch doesn't need to be large, but it must generate an adequate gross income to provide a family's livelihood. Families may need at least $35,000 of pre-tax income, if spending $28,000 per year on living expenses.

A 10-year study of farms in the association's analysis program revealed that net farm income averaged 17 percent of gross farm income. Applying that 17 percent figure, Bitney said an annual gross farm/ranch income of over $200,000 would be needed to generate $35,000 of net income. He added that more than $200,000 would be needed to accommodate for inflation.

Given the amount of pre-tax income that a farm or ranch must generate and the absence of tax provisions such as investment credit, Bitney said families are paying more income taxes in the '90s. Families will need to take advantage of available provisions in the tax code to achieve more income for productive uses, he said.

Managers have the opportunity to exercise cost containment practices. They have considerable control over "other operating expenses", which are expenses other than interest and depreciation, he said. Families in the study maintained "other operating expenses" at approximately 55 percent of gross revenue during the 10-year span.

Bitney said this figure varied among farms, but top managers either increased production while containing costs or decreased costs while maintaining production.

Managers can control the amount of gross revenue used for depreciation expense, he said. Managers might do this by changing their machinery maintenance and replacement strategies. In addition, they can explore alternatives of acquiring the use of assets and practices that affect the productivity of fixed assets.

Bitney said some farm and ranch managers adapt better than others to changes that occur rapidly in areas such as production and information technology, marketing and financial management.

Today's top managers need to continue using marketing tools to manage their risk and provide an extra margin of profit for today's living and operating expenses, the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist said.

"A successful manager may not handle all of the areas perfectly," he said, "but doing one extremely well may cover for a less than perfect job in another."

Bitney stressed, however, that the '90s will allow for less margin for error and profitable farm and ranch managers will have to become proficient in all areas.

NORTHERN NEBRASKA'S CATARACT SPECIALIST

"The last 2 or 3 months, I've been seeing double."

Shirley Wagner had cataracts. She had "No-Stitch" Cataract Surgery.

"I had a cataract on my right eye for a long time. The doctor that I went to in Wayne made me aware of it. It never gave me any big problems, but just since I moved here, my left eye started clouding up. The last 2 or 3 months I've been seeing double. I like to crochet, but my vision problem made it difficult. I had to rest my eyes a lot. I also enjoy reading the newspaper, but I couldn't do that anymore either. I just couldn't see. I had no-stitch surgery for cataracts. I like the way Dr. Feidler did things. He explained everything to me. I understood the procedure completely. When you can't see the things you want to see, you want to have the surgery. I would recommend it to anyone with cataracts."
