Fair fun is bustin' out all over

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

The Wayne County Fair opened to muddy conditions Thursday following a 2.5 inch rainstorm that drenched the agriculture park the night before, but the wet conditions did little to hamper the fair activities and enthusiasm.

"We had to do some extra grading work and spread more gravel Thursday, but we got through it without delaying the schedule too much," said Leland Herman, longtime fair board member.

He said Thursday night's crowd for opening activities was "up considerably" over previous year's first night attendance at the fair.

PLEASANT WEATHER, the presentation of the Kilroy Awards to area Fire Department and Rescue units, a celebrity cooking contest, the first ugly pickup contest and a rousing stage show featuring "We Three" helped draw the crowds to the fairgrounds Thursday night, he said.

"We're really busting out," said Herman.

The Kilroy Award, named after the military inspector of lore who signed his work with "Kilroy Was Here" annually pays tribute to the folks who do considerable work behind the scenes and you know they are always there; but you might not always see them.

Special Kilroy plaques were presented to all the fire and rescue units in the area and the units displayed some of their equipment when they arrived to receive the honors.

The first ugly pickup parade attracted (if you can call it that) 14 old beaters that had combined mileage that would equal a trip to the moon and back.

JUDGES GARY Roerber and Art Gronc crowned Jeremy Beckenhauer's 1958 Chevy as the ugliest pickup in the county. They cited him especially for his fender held on with baling wire and great patterns of dents and rust. Besides the title, Jeremy took home $25 in prize money, which is 20 percent of what he spent to buy the truck in the first place.

The 15-year-old Wayne student will use the pickup this fall to drive to school.

Other winners were Marty Mark, Wayne with his 74 Chevy; Bryon Gronc, Wayne with his 77 Chevy and Wally Bull, Wayne with a '66 Ford.

NEBRASKA STATE Patrolman Dave Hedley of Wayne was on hand to present special "citations" to the participants, after which he said he was sure the ugly pickup owners would not be in favor of reimpementing the state vehicle inspection law.

Pin a ribbon on volunteer heroes

By LaVon Anderson
News Editor

With the Wayne County Fair underway and the Dixon County Fair just around the corner, The Wayne Herald this month salutes all of the "Unsung Heroes" who work untold hours to make each year's fair bigger and better.

In Wayne County, the tradition of the county fair goes back 71 years when the Wayne County Fair and Agriculture Association was formed to "promote agriculture and to work for the betterment of the community."

While the fair was a yearly event during which residents could showcase their many talents, it was first and foremost designed to "show off" the county's greatest asset — it's youth.

Today, thanks to a committed group of individuals, that commitment to youth continues to be evident to all who take the time to browse the 4-H building and livestock barns.

The open-class, commercial and farm exhibits are evidence that the community at large is still as enthusiastic and supportive as they were 71 years ago when it comes to promoting the county's basic industry — agriculture.

WHILE FOR most residents the county fair is a four-day event during which families can spend time together viewing 4-H and commercial exhibits, enjoying a variety of entertainment, sampling a free barbecue, nibbling cotton candy and riding the ferris wheel, for others the fair culminates months of planning and preparation.

Just days prior to the fair, dozens of volunteers of all ages converge upon the fairgrounds to mow, paint, repair, remodel and do whatever other work is necessary in anticipation of the event.

In the weeks and days preceding, mothers and fathers of 4-Hers are offering subtle (or not so subtle) encouragement as their youngsters scurry to complete their projects.

Superintendents and their assistants are busy seeing to it that all systems are go, and as fair day arrives, 4-Hers are pacing as the results of their learning and hard work are judged.

No sooner is one fair over, then members of the Agricultural Society begin booking entertainment and formulating plans for the next.

"THERE'S JUST no way on earth there would be a Wayne County Fair if not for the volunteers," says Mindy Lutt, 4-H extension assistant.

"It's not just the names you see in the fair book," points out Mindy. "There are many, many other "unsung heroes" who work behind-the-scenes for whatever reasons."

Issues institute has Wayne on the map

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

Wayne is on the map because of an activity other than the county fair and college commencement activities this weekend.

A special Public Policy Institute being held at Wayne State College is one of only 14 being held in across the country to help train individuals interested in serving as moderators for town hall style forums on key issues facing the nation.

The institute here has attracted over 60 participants from throughout the Midwest, which is a larger attendance than most of the regional institutes attract, according to local organizers Jan Dinsmore and Pat Arneson.

THE PARTICIPANTS began meeting today and will study through noon Sunday.

The public has an opportunity to participate in a National Issues forum Saturday from 7 to 9 p.m. on the health care crisis. The forums are designed to help foster discussion and build grassroots participation in solving the nations problems.

The Public Policy Institute and the forums which are an outgrowth of the institute are supported by the Kettering Foundation. Several Wayne State College and Wayne community people have previously attended training institutes in Ohio Can't get any wetter?

Local weather observer Pat Gross said he was surprised to look back and find that more rain fell in Wayne last July (6.82") than during July 1993 (6.14"). The greatest daily rainfall for the month came on July 8 and totaled 1.50 inches.

"Although we were very wet, three things come to mind," said Gross. "The frequency of our rains (all but 14 days during the month), lack of drying conditions (an exceptional number of cloudy days), and dominating news coverage of areas that truly had exceptionally excessive moisture."

Gross pointed out that with continued good corn weather and an extended summer with a late fall, Northeast Nebraska should have another good chance at an exceptional crop year.

GROSS SAID the 10-year average precipitation for July is 3.41 inches.

Longtime editor will switch jobs

Longtime Wayne Herald news staff member LaVon Anderson has resigned to take a new job as special education aide with the Wakefield Schools.

Mrs. Anderson has been with the newspaper since 1971 when she began working as receptionist after graduating from Wayne High School. Her 22 years with the newspaper included promotions to social editor and news editor, a post she now holds.

Her last day at the paper will be Friday, July 13. Mrs. Anderson and her husband, Tom, live in Wakefield where he farms and is the owner of Anderson Lumber Co. They have two children at home, Ashley, 6 and Alex, 4.

Mrs. Anderson said she will miss the newspaper work but that the move make things easier for her family since she will be on the same schedule as her children as they attend Wakefield schools.

"It will be extremely difficult to replace LaVon," said Herald Publisher Les Mann, who said the staff and management of the newspaper is sorry to see her go.

"We're not going to let her leave entirely," he added, explaining that

Mrs. Anderson will continue to write feature articles for the Wayne Herald. "She's won numerous press association awards for her writing and she is an exceptional community journalist and we want to maintain our association with her."

Mrs. Anderson is the daughter of Helen and the late Russell Beckman of Wayne.

Kids will suffer

Dear Editor:
We have had intercity busing for the last 12 or more years so why now are there suddenly these so called "Safety Issues?" If these problems do exist why haven't the parents been informed? We were never given a chance to resolve these problems, and, here again, the children who haven't been causing any problems have to take the punishment for those who have.

As a safety issue, is sending 50 or more kids walking and riding their bikes to school safer? I know of two incidents that occurred this past year which involved one child riding her bike to school and another child walking to school, within one block of school which could have cost the lives of both children.

Is the school board knowledgeable of these two incidents? There are probably more than 95 percent of both parents working our community today, and what about the single parents who depend on this busing? Have the school board members ever tried to find car pools, especially those who can't reciprocate when their job won't allow it? What in the world are our taxes going for? Do rural families pay more taxes so their kids can be bused? Does it make sense when the rural buses are coming in half empty? What was the reason for the purchase of the double capacity buses if they weren't going to fill them? Why not help the community some?

I guess a raise for our superintendent before his first year was up was more important than getting our kids to school. I feel that there have been many issues overlooked on the busing issue and we, the community, weren't properly informed that problems existed.

Work together

Dear Editor:
I'm writing in regard to the ban placed on in-town busing. There are many differences of opinion over how the issue should be resolved. It's vital that these concerns, ideas and possible options be relayed to the Wayne School Board. Wayne is made up of many intelligent, creative individuals who are good problem solvers. School and community need to work together concerning this issue and focus on what's best for the students involved. Please attend the Wayne School Board meeting, Tuesday, Aug. 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the high school.

Communicate

Dear Editor:
Let's open the lines of communication and work together.

After attending last Monday's meeting with Dr. Jensen and parents concerned over the "busing ban," it seems to me that the real problem is not safety or fairness, but rather communication between board members and the community. The school board needs to know what we think and want so that they can represent us, preferably before controversial decisions are made.

Prior communication and input from the community could have made this issue less heated. People who have a concern or interest in this or any other school board policy need to talk to their board members and attend school board meetings. However, the issue of busing is resolved, let's open the lines of communication open and work together.

Caution needed

Dear Editor:

Just moments ago, I just watched somebody narrowly miss getting killed at the intersection of Highway 15 and Industrial Way, East of Wayne between Logan Valley Implement and Restful Knights. There was an east bound vehicle pulling a trailer. An east bound semi pulled into the left lane and started to pass the vehicle with the trailer. A car turned right from Industrial Way and directly into the path of the semi. Everybody swerved all over and miraculously nobody was killed, this time.

Granted the car should never have been pulled in front of the truck. However, I have witnessed the same incorrect behavior on the part of several west turning cars from Industrial Way. There is some engineering defect in the intersection that makes it easy for this to happen.

I think something should be done. Perhaps for now with a minimal investment in yellow reflective paint and a couple of signs, a no passing zone could be created all the way out to the airport. If the highway is widened in the future it should be 4 or 5 laned and shouldered at least past the airport. I have seen too many close calls at this intersection. It is very dangerous. Something should be done before we wish something had been done.

Index released

Dear Editor:

I want to call your attention to an important publication recently released by The Heritage Foundation, the "Index of Leading Cultural Indicators." Written by William Bennett, the "Index" is a comprehensive statistical portrait of behavioral trends over the last 30 years.

It shows, for example, that while population has increased 41 percent since 1960, violent crime has increased 560 percent; illegitimate births have increased more than 400 percent; divorce rates have quadrupled; the percentage of children living in single-parent homes has tripled and the teenage suicide rate has increased more than 200 percent.

"As a member of The Heritage Foundation, I am eager to see the facts in this document given wide publicity. Only if we admit we are in a crisis of values can we begin to reverse our cultural decline.

You may already have received a copy of the "Index." If so, I urge you to keep it on hand and use it as a resource. If you haven't yet seen it, you can obtain a copy by calling The Heritage Foundation's Publication Office at 202-546-4400.

Pupil concerned

Dear Editor:

Kids that walk to school do not always pay attention. Drivers don't always pay attention either. When the number of walkers and drivers increase, the chances of an accident go up, as well. When 15 to 25 cars have to be driven, instead of kids taking a bus that is already going that way, the damage to our environment goes up. The school board decision to end busings for 50 kids does not make sense to me. Thank you.

Reasons studied

Dear Editor:

Fact: The Wayne City School

Board voted to ban in-town busing of students for the coming year. I was told that this decision was made based only on the (1) fairness and (2) safety issues and that (3) money was not a factor.

1: What is fair? The discontinuance of a service which has been in existence for over 12 years (not counting the fact that an Armory stop was in existence over 20 years ago)? The fact is, most people bought homes in this area believing in the availability of the bus service. If it had not been here, this area would not have been so attractive to young family home buyers. Without it, the future development of Sunnyview or the Vintage Hills area, will be far less attractive to anyone with children of school age.

2: Safety? Is it safer for a 6, 7 or 8 year old to walk or ride a bike 1.8 miles to school along one and across two busy highways without adult supervision, or to wait at a bus stop with adult supervision, which was the case in Sunnyview. What if all these students to get rides? The added traffic at the schools will surely cause more congestion to an already chaotic scene. It can not add to safety, especially for the students who do live close enough to the school to walk.

3: Money? This must surely not have been a factor since now my same tax dollars will pay for 50 less students to ride the bus to school! The cost of busing to the school district will remain the same, because the same number of buses will still be in use. The only difference is that the buses will be arriving at the schools half empty. To fill all the buses, by picking up students who live on the outer edges of our city, (north, south, east or west) should be considered, we'd actually be getting more for our money if we did that!

I would congratulate the school board for reconsidering this issue to make it more reasonable, fair and safety conscious.

Don't fix it

Dear Editor:

"If it ain't broke, don't fix it." — terrible grammar, but good advice. If the school bus (rather, the bus contracted by the school to transport students) stops in Sunnyview to pick up kindergarten students, and if there is room on that same bus for the other students living in that area of town, why not transport those students to school? If the issue is one of economy, isn't it more economical to transport 50+ students by one bus than it is to transport 10 to 15 by bus and the remainder by private autos? Or are first, second, third and fourth graders expected to walk the 1.8 miles from Sunnyview to our elementary school?

If the issue is one of fairness, maybe the buses should stop transporting ALL students who live less than 2 miles from the school in ALL directions — west as well as east. It seems discriminatory to deny busing to students because they live within the city limits when the school is located in the southwestern part of town and the town continues to expand to the northeast.

Maybe a more fair approach is that taken by my childhood hometown (BeHe Fourche, S.D., — population: 4,700): build, maintain and staff three grade schools, one in the southwestern area of town, one on the north edge of town and one near the town's center. Since they have only one middle school, they do bus some of those students. But if the issue is one of economy, three grade schools does not seem like a workable solution.

If the issue is one of safety, maybe we should consider the increased volume of private auto traffic that will be traveling in the elementary school area twice daily. Maybe we could use some safety patrol/school crossing guards to help insure the safety of the grade-school students who live near the schools and walk to and from classes each day. Maybe an expanded drop-off area would help, especially considering the potential increase of privately-transported students as the Vintage Hills area is developed. Or maybe not, maybe families with children too young to drive simply won't build in that area.

Decisions made by our school board and superintendent will impact many aspects of our community. The results of their decisions should be interesting to observe as our community develops.

Only choice?

Dear Editor:

Did the Wayne City School Board make the only choice available when it voted to ban in-town busing of students to school? Did the school board members research other alternatives and contact various Wayne residents for their opinions and suggestions? Policies such as these that are set without any insight should be changed.

Several years ago the policy was not bent because the Sunnyview addition was outside the city limits. So why after several years of serving the northeast section of town (which by the way is approximately 1 1/2 miles or more from the school area) has come to an abrupt halt? The school board lists their reason as safety being their primary concern. If safety is the school board's primary concern, have they thought about the additional 50 or more students who will either be walking, riding their bikes or the additional cars causing more congestion at the school parking lots?

Or is safety just an excuse to cover up the real issue — fairness. Last fall, the Wayne-Carroll School system hired a bus leasing company to save money. One suggestion from Wayne residents is to have one bus service just the in-town students with bus stops at various places in town to cover all areas. After all, they should have an extra bus that was used last year to pick up all the 50 or more in-town students. Wayne residents pay taxes just like the rural community, so why can't there be a bus for all the in-town students?

Missionary returns to U.S.

By Les Mann
Of The Herald

There are times when Wayne native Tom Love can't decide whether he wants to be known as a missionary or an agricultural development specialist.

Where he works in Laos missionaries are often looked on as political arms of western governments and are not as welcome as humanitarian aid workers. When that happens, his degree in agriculture from the University of Missouri comes in handy. Love, has made his life's work helping the people of Laos and the Golden Triangle region in South East Asia, build better lives. Usually that means both physical and spiritual improvement, said the ordained minister.

Love is back in the United States for a three month "home leave" to visit with churches and individuals that support his important work. He is a director of Food for the Hungry, a humanitarian aid organization based in Scottsdale, Ariz. The organization is heavily supported by the Independent Christian Churches. Love, who was born in Wayne and attended school here through the 8th grade, graduated from Norfolk High School. He still has relatives in Wayne, who he was visiting this week when he agreed to talk about his experiences with the Wayne Herald.

His basic philosophy in trying to both spread the gospel and improve the lives of people in need is to deal with both the physical and spiritual conditions.

A major problem in the region he works is opium cultivation and trade. Governments have spent millions trying to assist the people to grow crops other than opium. He said they generally take the government aid and still continue to grow the profitable drug plant.

What Love does is work with the people to help them improve their living conditions, life-style and get at the base causes of poverty and while that work is going on he has the opportunity to evangelize as well. People have to be committed to the understanding that growing the illicit drug is morally wrong, or they will never stop, he said.

"People need internal controls," he explained, adding that each time he returns to the United States he sees a lessening of the traditional internal control and value systems. That is why we need so many more laws written, he said, but the legislatures don't understand that you can't instill personal convictions through laws. He said that has to be done spiritually.

Christianity is no longer a persecuted religion in communist Laos, he said, but it is far from being condoned by the government either. He said the workers with Food for the Hungry are welcomed for the work they do with no strings attached. But he is pleased by the fact that while the humanitarian work has been going on several new churches have been established in the country.

Love's route to the rewarding work he enjoys was directed by Providence, he readily admits. Without any Christian background when he entered the service, the minister said a buddy brought him to faith in the Army.

After he left the service he decided to go to a Bible college in Texas, not because he thought he wanted to be a minister, but just because he wanted to learn more about his new-found faith.

After a period there he felt a call to bring that faith to others and that call led him to Asia. While there he became more interested in the physical needs of the people he was trying to minister to. He learned of their efforts to eke out subsistence incomes from the opium trade and decided he wanted to do something additional to help them.

That is when he returned to the United States and earned a degree in agriculture from Mizzou.

Ironically, he met his wife, Kathy, who is from Lynch, Neb. in Tiawan. She was teaching English there. They have four children, Trevor, 14; Kristen, 12; Karyss, 9, and Theo, 7. The family calls Vientian, Laos their home. That's where they have lived for 16 years. Tom spends a good deal of time in the hill-countries working directly with the poor people however.

Not always the safest of jobs, Tom related experiences being caught in a firefight between feuding drug groups and tending their wounded as well as dealing with corrupt and tediously bureaucratic government officials.

But the rewards of the job outweigh the difficulties he said. Working with people who need help and are willing to work hard to improve themselves is rewarding because get to see the dramatic progress they make, he explained.

Love didn't leave Wayne this week without giving a plug and a plea for help for his Food For the Hungry organization. Those interested may contact the organization at 1-800-2HUNGER.

Celebrating Humanae Vitae O'Donnell at conference

More than 1,500 people from 29 countries and six continents recently celebrated the 25th anniversary of Humanae Vitae, the encyclical document on life and human sexuality issued by Pope Paul VI. Allen O'Donnell of Wayne attended the conference. The International Humanae Vitae Conference was held July 25-30 in Omaha, and was sponsored by the Pope Paul VI Institute for the Study of Human Reproduction and the Creighton University School of Medicine.
The conference opened on July 25, the exact anniversary of the encyclical, with a videotaped message from Mother Teresa of Calcutta, India. She could not attend the conference because of illness. Her message supported the encyclical, saying it "clearly expresses the mind and will of God about marriage."

She said the encyclical reminds people of the beauty of married love as an expression of total self-giving and helps people to accept the child as a fruit of that love. And, she continued, contraception cannot be an expression of total self-giving because it destroys the power to conceive a child and turns attention away from God to oneself.

Father John Powell, S.J., a professor of theology at Loyola University and a best-selling Christian author, also made an address in support of the document at the opening ceremony. He acknowledges the controversy and dissent generated by the encyclical, but said the church must stand for what is right, not what is popular. He urged the audience to "proclaim the truth of unconditional love for the whole world."

Public invited to join in celebration

Dixon St. Anne's observing 100 years of church heritage

Father Rod Kneifl and the congregation of St. Anne's Church of Dixon invite the public to join them in celebrating their church centennial on Sunday, Aug. 15.

Festivities will begin with a 10 a.m. Mass, followed with a parish sponsored meal at 11:45 a.m.

The celebration will continue with a downtown parade at 1:30 p.m., and an open house at St. Anne's Church from 3 to 4:30 p.m.

MANY OF the first families of St. Anne's Church were made up of children of Irish potato famine emigrants, coming from Irish settlements along the Mississippi River.

The early pioneers were able to attend Mass occasionally when a visiting priest would celebrate Mass in one of the homes.

Bishop Scannell purchased land on May 18, 1893 for $100 to build the first Catholic church in Dixon. The church building was constructed around 1893 and was soon enlarged as the Catholic population grew.

Around 1899, a house was purchased and moved to the grounds west of the church to serve as a rectory. During the years when priests were serving the church from Wayne, they would drive up on Saturday night in their buggies and stay the night in the parish house.

Also in 1899, ground was purchased for a cemetery one-half mile east of Dixon. The ground was surveyed and it was decided to sell lots to families of the parish for $15 each.

JOHN AND Margaret Mills deeded the present church land to St. Anne's Church on May 26, 1908.

A school was built in 1909, and in 1910 a new rectory was constructed and a well was dug. A windmill and gas engine pumped water until the Dixon water system was installed.

In 1912, the church was moved by horses to its present site, and a sacristy, choir loft and stained glass windows were added to the church.

The school opened in 1909 and was in operation until 1927 when it closed for lack of pupils. It was only used for summer catechism classes and for a brief time by the public schools in 1931. Around 1940, it was sold for lumber and torn down. The confraternity of Christian Mothers was canonically erected in St. Anne's parish on April 28, 1904, with 49 members. The Altar Society and Cemetery Association, as well as the Holy Name Society for men and CYO were some of the church organizations.

To finance the needs of the church during the 1930's and early 1940's, The God's Acre plan was put into place. Each farmer was to give crop or cash from one acre of land, and the town folks were to match it with cash or something equivalent.

until 1991 for a catechism and social hall.

VOCATIONS from St. Anne's have been Michael V. O'Flaherty, S.J., Sister Helen F. O'Flaherty of the Franciscan order, Sister Bridgettine Mills of the Maryknoll order, Brother Pascal O'Pream (Connolly) of the Norbertines, Sister Mary Hugh (Rosemary) McGowan, and Sister Brigit (Sally) Stanley. Leroy Creamer became deacon, serving Dixon and Laurel parishes.

Due to the declining population, St. Anne's lost its resident priest in 1978 and became a mission of Laurel. As a result, the rectory was sold and money put on interest for about 15 years.

From this money, along with contributions from parishioners and benefits held by the Altar Society, St. Anne's new parish hall became a reality in 1991.

It was named Bishop Milone Hall after Father Milone, who had become a bishop after leaving Dixon.

PRIESTS WHO have served the parish over the years are Father McGrath, 1884-96; Father Fitzgerald, 1896-1901; Father Haley, 1901-03; Father Ferdinand Peitz, 1903-04; Father John Devane, 1904-11; Father Thomas Fehily, 1911-16; Father C. Collins, 1916-21; Father Thomas Carmody, 1922-27; Father John Brock, 1927-30; Father Thomas Fortune, 1931-39; Father Joseph Vitko, 1940-51; Father John Conneally, 1951-53; Father Clement Bracht, 1953-58; Father Peter Dunne, 1958-59; Father Norman Parr, 1959-62; Father Thomas Hitch, 1962-66; Father John Rizzo, 1966-68; Father Anthony Milone, 1968-73; Father Thomas Adams, 1973-78; Father Jerome Spenner, 1978-82; Father Kenneth Carl, 1982-83; Father Allen Martin, 1983-85; Father Norman Hunke, 1985-90; and Father Michael Grewe, 1990-91.

Father Rodney Kneifl is the current priest at St. Anne's Church and resides in Laurel.

The School Sisters of St. Francis and the Ursuline Nuns from Kentucky taught at St. Anne's school, and since that time, the Benedictine sisters from Norfolk have taught summer catechism classes for many years.

This, along with bingo games on Sunday evenings at the rectory and food stands at the Dixon County Fair, helped finance the remodeling of the church and the purchase of new pews in the early 1940's.

When St. Anne's began, Laurel was a mission of Dixon. In 1942, Waterbury became a mission of Dixon. This continued until 1978.

While Father Milone was pastor, he was assigned to help with Mass and the Newman Club at Wayne State College. During that time, Wayne St. Mary's donated a building to the parish which was used

Rural Beemer church celebrating 125th year

The public is invited to join Immanuel Lutheran Church LCMS, rural Beemer, when it celebrates its 125th anniversary on Sunday, Aug. 15.

The observance will begin at 8:30 a.m. at the original site which is located just west of the cemetery. A procession of horses, buggies and wagons to the present site will follow at 9:30 a.m. Coffee and rolls will be served.

Dr. Oswald Hoffman will be guest speaker at the 10:30 a.m. worship service at the church. A noon luncheon will be served with a free will offering, and at 1:30 p.m. there will be a confirmation reunion with entertainment.

In the event of rain, the services and luncheon will be held in the Beemer High School gym.

IMMANUEL Lutheran Church was the first Missouri Synod Lutheran congregation in Nebraska, and established the first Christian day school in the state in 1869.

In the beginning, services were held in the homes of members and then in a nearby public school.

The first parsonage was built in 1869, and in 1871 a 20 x 26 ft. church was constructed near the church cemetery. By 1887, a larger building was needed and the present church was built about one and a half miles south of the original location for the sum of $2,153.

THE FIRST pastor was A.W. Frese, who also helped establish many other congregations in Northeast Nebraska while serving Immanuel.

Presently, Immanuel has a membership of 130, with many in the congregation descendants of the church's founding fathers.

Some of the first pioneers to send the call that brought Pastor Frese to the area were August Lambrecht, Karl Schlueter, William Loewe, Friedrich Kuester, Friedrich Werbelow, David Hasenkamp, Heinrich Brockmann and Christian Neumann.

Local send off planned

Wayne youth attending international gathering

An estimated 200 thousand to a half million people from across the United States and from every other country in the world are expected to converge on Denver, Colo. on Aug. 11-15 for World Youth Day.

Among those attending will be approximately 2,200 high school and college youth representing the Archdiocese of Omaha, including 11 students and young adults from St. Mary's Church in Wayne.

Youth representing Wayne St. Mary's will be Mike Emanuel, son of Art and Kathi Emanuel of Dodge; Wendy Morse, daughter of Jay and Marilyn Morse of Winside; Carl Samuelson, son of Lyle and Theresa Samuelson of Wayne; Steve Webber and Susan Webber, children of Fred and Connie Webber of Wayne; Molly Melena, daughter of John and Margaret Melena of Wayne; Tanya Prokop, daughter of Ken and Shirley Prokop of Wayne; and Alicia Dorcy, daughter of Jerry and Linda Dorcy of Wayne.

Accompanying them will be young adults Laura Hochstein, Don Hypse and Terri Hypse, all of Wayne.

They will join a caravan of 33 busses from eastern Nebraska.

THE LOCAL "pilgrims" will leave from Norfolk and meet up with the other busses in Ogallala. They will be staying at Cherry Creek High School from Wednesday to Saturday.

A prayer service and send-off for the youth and their families will be held Monday, Aug. 9. Persons who would like a picture of the group are welcome to come to Fred and Connie Webber's, 1030 Grainland Rd., at 6:30 p.m. on Monday.

Donations from the Knights of Columbus, St. Mary's VIA, St. Mary's Boosters and St. Mary's Parish Council, as well as several fund raising projects, helped fund the trip to Denver.

PREPARATIONS began six months ago with a series of meetings of youth and adults. St. Mary's CYM study sessions have helped to prepare the youth to take part in the dialogue concerning their faith life and values.

Pope John Paul II will join the youth for four days. He will arrive on Aug. 12 and take part in the discussions with youth through three days.

On Saturday, Aug. 14, the entire group will hike into Cherry Creek Park outside of Denver where they will hold an all night vigil, camping out-of-doors.

On Sunday, Aug. 15, the Holy Father will offer Mass for the group as the final act of the conference. A half million persons are expected to attend the Mass.

WORLD Youth Day has been held every two years since 1985 when the first one was held in Rome.

Since then, the event has taken place in South America, Spain and Poland.

"For others it may be because they love horses, or because they simply love kids and they want them to experience the same thrill as they did when they were exhibiting at the county fair.

"Sometimes I really wonder why so many people volunteer so many hours," laughs Mindy. "Maybe it's just the excitement that always seems to surround fair time.

"For whatever reason, they all deserve a hearty pat on the back."

SO, TO all the mothers and fathers who encourage their 4-H youngsters throughout the year, months, days and nights preceding the fair, to the 4-Hers themselves, the directors of the Wayne County Fair and Agricultural Association, the superintendents and their assistants, and all the other unnamed, unsung heroes — The Wayne Herald tips its hat.

Thanks to you, the county fair is alive and well.

AIDS cases on the rise

The number of AIDS cases in the first six months of this year is over twice the number reported in all of 1992, according to the Nebraska Department of Health. So far, 132 cases have been reported, compared to 60 cases last year.

An expansion of the AIDS case definition is responsible for the increase, according to Virginia Wilkinson, administrator of the state HIV/AIDS program.

The federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention added four new criteria to the definition of the disease, allowing some HIV-infected individuals to be diagnosed with AIDS that would not have been added under the previous definition.

Over one-third of all cases were reported in persons in their twenties. They probably became infected with HIV in their teenage years, Wilkinson said, indicating a need for preventive education for preteens and teenagers.

The number of cases reported since 1983 when the first case was reported is 443.
