Despite the chilly temperatures Tuesday morning, Wayne State College student Christine Halmes of Plattsmouth tries to work up a sweat by jogging the fitness trail near the tennis courts. According to Wayne's official weather observer, Pat Gross, the temperature dipped to 46 degrees early Tuesday morning.

Schools have focus on the future

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

Wayne School Superintendent Dennis Jensen pointed to several accomplishments at the schools in the last year during his opening address to teachers and administrators as the new year begins.

Chief among the accomplishments will be a focused approach to the mission statement prepared for the schools by faculty, parents and school board. A copy of the mission will be posted in each building and calls for moving toward results-based curriculum.

"Every step we make toward the future will follow the plan" as outlined in the mission statement, said Jensen. He said that includes all purchases for the district, curriculum choices, and buildings and grounds decisions.

"WE WILL constantly have in mind what we are trying to accomplish here—we will constantly be reviewing our direction to make sure we are on target," he added.

He said he is excited about the accomplishments and the direction of the schools because it is "exactly what it should be for our children."

Acknowledging the disagreements over some of the changes that have been implemented he still had words of praise for the uniform effort and sense of togetherness and focus that the faculty and administrators are bringing to the new school year.

"We may have fought along the way on different issues—and there may be disagreements in the future—but, believe it or not, we have focused on what we are doing here and it is good for the kids," he said. He warned that complacency in education is more dangerous than the disagreements and self inspection that

New Wayne family has global focus

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

The importance of a global education is not lost on the Okubanjo family of Lagos, Nigeria. Chile Olye and Edith Okubanjo recently purchased a house in Wayne and are making plans to educate their children through high school and college in what has become their favorite spot in the United States—Wayne, America.

Edith, herself a graduate of Wayne State College, has already seen her two oldest daughters graduate from here and return to successful banking careers in Nigeria. Now the family is making plans for their remaining five children to be educated in Wayne.

The purchase of a house in the community seemed a logical step in the process, according to Okubanjo, who is a successful Nigerian industrialist and entrepreneur. He said the family will be spending considerable time in Wayne in coming years and it seemed practical to have a base here.

INTERNATIONAL travel and trade is nothing new to Okubanjo. The family owns a house in England too, in addition to "home" in Nigeria.

"People ask me, 'Why Nebraska,'" said Mrs. Okubanjo, "I say, 'I love it here.'" She said her love of the Wayne area has a lot to do with the people she has met here. She said she visited Nebraska when her brother was going to college in Lincoln and had the opportunity to visit Wayne, and that's where she decided she wanted to get her degree.

She runs an importing business of her own in Lagos.

It was in the early eighties that Mrs. Okubanjo was a student at Wayne State. She graduated in just over three years while also having a baby and caring for her other children here. Her husband was not always excited about the idea of his family members getting their education so far from home.

HE SAID HE made 17 trips to Wayne while his wife was taking college courses here. On one of those early trips he vowed he was going to take her home for good but he changed his mind after meeting and talking to then college president Lyle Seymour and one of his wife's professors, Vaughn Benson.

"I feel comfortable here," said Mrs. Okubanjo who said she wants her children to enjoy the same experiences. Small town Wayne is a welcome contrast from the bustle and problems of Lagos, with its population of 10 million.

The Okubanjios admonished Americans for not appreciating the advantages they have. As a Rotarian and Chamber of Commerce Leader in Lagos, the Chief, said he sees clearly the advantages people in America have and that they don't

Family tells of Sunday bout with tornado

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

Mother Nature supplied North-east Nebraska with an impressive lightning display Sunday night before losing her temper. Between 9:15 and 9:30 p.m. Clarence and Donna Boeckenhauer were at home on their farm, five miles east and five miles north of Wayne, when they heard a loud whooshing sound.

"I jumped up off the couch and asked my wife if she knew what in the world that sound was," Clarence said. "I ran to look out the kitchen window and all I saw was a big shower of sparks."

Boeckenhauer said his first thought was that lightning had struck the house but then he noticed that his garage was no longer there. "The shower of sparks I saw was coming from live wires which were knocked over when our garage was destroyed," he said. "They were lying on the ground and over our clothesline."

Boeckenhauer said he called the Emerson Public Power District to come and cut down the power lines. The violent storm that hit the Boeckenhauer farm of 29 years was the tail end of a tornado and despite the damage, the Boeckenhauer's feel lucky.

"We're very relieved that it wasn't a lot worse," Clarence said. "We know that it was only the tail end of a tornado because of the way it skipped around. If it had been on the ground the whole time it went through our place nothing would have been left."

The twister also took out a big cottonwood tree and heavily damaged a grain auger, tipping it over. It also took off about a third of a steel bin. Boeckenhauer, a hog farmer as well, said none of his animals were harmed by the storm.

"It's about 300 feet from the grain bin that was damaged and the garage which was destroyed," Boeckenhauer said. "In between, however, there was no damage. The tornado was gone in a matter of seconds but in the short time it was there, it scared the very dickens out of us."

THERE WAS no other damage in the area that quite matched what the Boeckenhauer's experienced but there were reports of heavy rains, damage to trees and even some flooding in the area.

Wisner reported nearly four inches but some reports had up to six inches in the same area. Pender reported 3.75 inches and Pilger had 3.50. Laurel reported 2.76 inches of rain and highway 20 just outside of Belden was temporarily closed due to flooding.

Carroll had 2.40 inches of moisture and Winside had 1.42 inches. Wayne's official weather official reported 1.20 inches. There were no reports of damage in the city of Wayne according to Wayne police chief Vern Fairchild and Duane Schroeder of the Wayne County Public Power District.

"There was nothing reported in our office which is always good news," Schroeder said. There was, however, reports of a tree damaged in the storm on Windom Street.

Escape is thwarted

The staff of the Juvenile Detention Center in Wayne thwarted an apparent escape attempt Monday night and police are seeking a suspected accomplice.

The incident happened while seven inmates were in the exercise yard and a female friend of one of the inmates approached the center from the outside and tried to cut through the fence with bolt cutters, said administrator Gregg Eakles.

The incident occurred at approximately 7 p.m. "in broad daylight," said Eakles.

One of the staff members supervising the exercise yard as well as neighbors witnessed the brazen effort and immediately contacted the police and secured the inmates in their cells, said Eakles.

He said the girl sped off in a blue Buick with 43 county plates before police arrived.

An investigation is continuing but Eakles praised the efforts of center staff, neighbors and the police in ensuring that the incident did not result in an actual escape.

The GOLDEN YEARS

The 10 members of a San Antonio, Texas, volleyball team all have something in common, aside from playing in senior games. Each has had a heart attack, bypass surgery or other form of cardiac problem. Eight of the players are in their 60s, one is 55 and one 72. Volleyball is one of the exercise choices in the third phase of a gradual cardiac rehabilitation program conducted by a medical center. Participants are closely monitored and counseled. The goal is to increase fitness so they can enjoy a better quality of life.

Actress Ruth Warwick, 76, is best known to many TV viewers for her longtime role in the "All My Children" soap opera. But she's familiar to older fans for her stage and movie triumphs that began with "Citizen Kane" in 1941. She's been following actor-director Orson Welles' advice ever since: "Find the work that you enjoy... If you do the things you enjoy, you'll live longer and happier."

By The State National Bank And Trust Company

With the United States participating in the World War, those left at home were anxious to help the men in service and to meet emergencies that might arise.

As a consequence, the Red Cross chapter was organized in Wayne May 8, 1917. Members here made supplies for service men, helped in the influenza epidemic of 1918 which hit the Wayne area very hard, contributed aid during major disasters and assisted needy families during depressions.

Only an Earache?

Many years ago when you had an earache, you could stop in the pharmacy and purchase some ear drops to relieve the pain. The Food and Drug Administration has since removed those non-prescription ear drop pain relievers from the market, and with good reason. Earaches are caused by a variety of disorders, including infection, and careful examination by a physician is necessary to determine the cause of the pain. By using a pain killer without knowing the cause of the pain, you only cover up the problem, and the cause of the earache is left untreated. Always consult your physician or pharmacist before using any non-prescription medication for an earache.

Procedure should change

Legislative District 17 has a new senator, Pat Engel, appointed last week by Gov. Ben Nelson.

Initially folks in the western extremes of the district, that is the Wayne area, who backed the candidacy of Main Street business-woman and city council member Sheryl Lindau believed the message from the governor was, in effect, that Wayne wasn't important enough to warrant an appointment from here.

When the apparent front-runner from Dakota County withdrew from consideration for the governor's appointment, many believed Wayne's Sheryl Lindau would get the nod. She was the only other public nominee for the appointment to fill the unexpired term of Kurt Hohenstein, who resigned while being convicted for theft.

But instead, the governor said he wanted to keep the senate seat in Dakota County because he was fearful of the message that he would send to the political community there if he appointed someone from outside their politically tumultuous environs.

The governor was quick to try to soothe hurt feelings in the Wayne area following his appointment. To be sure, the governor has been a dear friend to the Wayne area and Wayne State College and has promised to maintain that relationship as well as keeping Mrs. Lindau on the list for consideration for further appointments.

The newly appointed senator also promises to be a friend of Wayne and Wayne State College. We are confident he will be a good senator and he definitely deserves and needs the support of Wayne Counties as he enters the difficult period of preparation to replace Hohenstein.

While the result of the process inevitably will be positive for the district, we believe a minor revision in the procedure may have eliminated the potential for parochial hard feelings between communities within the district. Publicly identifying all the candidates under consideration for the appointment should be a must.

State law makes provision for public information of candidates considered for appointments to fill vacancies on lowly, unpaid school boards, why shouldn't the public have a right to know who is being considered to be their representative in the state house.

The current procedure where some candidates are named and others are kept secret is a disservice to the constituents of the district and to the constitutional idea of public involvement in all aspects of the government decision process.

Enjoy the applause

The cast and crew of the Wayne Community Theater group should receive accolades for their fine performances this past weekend. Anyone who did not attend the production of Mame, missed an entertaining and delightful experience.

Having people within our community who dedicate their time, talent and resources to stage an excellent performance such as this contributes directly to the quality of life of the area. The residents of the Wayne area are blessed to have a group such as the Wayne Community Theatre whose members share their talents and abilities with their friends and neighbors.

The dedication of moms and dads who encouraged and helped their children through the production guarantee the continuing tradition of fine family entertainment.

To all the volunteers, behind the scenes people, cast, crew, directors, orchestra members and patrons take a second curtain call, enjoy the applause and know that your efforts are appreciated.

Letters

Cure for the 'rash'

Dear Editor:

I am writing in regard to the letter to the editor published in the Wayne Herald on Aug. 24 under the heading "long wait." I think the lady who wrote the letter has a right to be concerned that her aunt had to wait so long for an ambulance, however after investigation it has been found that her facts regarding the hospital and ambulance service are incorrect.

I have no idea who her aunt or her other relatives were dealing with when they called for an ambulance, but documentation in our facility shows that the call from the ambulance was received at 3:50 p.m. from the clinic, and the patient arrived at the hospital at approximately 4:00 p.m. at which time she was promptly attended to.

I debated about writing this letter because I do not feel that our hospital in Wayne needs a defense.

We do provide high quality care and have a very dedicated staff who are well trained. Of course, we do not claim to be perfect and yes, unfortunately, situations do occur that we would like to prevent and I like to think we can admit our mistakes along with our successes. I hope we can put an end now to this recent rash of letters in the paper about Providence Medical Center.

If anyone has a concern, please do not hesitate to call our Administrator, Marci Thomas, or in her absence, myself and we will do all in our power to help rectify the situation.

We can take criticism if it is properly directed and promise to do all we can in the future to continue our commitment to quality health care for our patients.

Another senseless summer in Nebraska?

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — A 23-year-old in northeast Nebraska is charged with slaying a 10-year-old boy who was fishing at a local park and an Omaha teen-ager is on trial for killing his mother. Just another summer in Nebraska filled with senseless violence involving young people.

So, what's the answer? Lock them all up and throw away the key. That will sure solve the problem.

Forget about it. The sooner people stop looking for quick fixes, the sooner we can get down to doing the work needed to start really addressing the problem.

The nation's top copy, U.S. Attorney General Janet Reno, sauntered into Nebraska last week to put the issue in perspective.

Don't coddle criminals, she said, whether they be teen-agers or some gangster who has crime as his greatest lifetime accomplishment.

Ms. Reno, speaking at the governor's conference on youth and violence, said if some young punk sticks a gun up to somebody's temple and demands his wallet, let the thug know he is looking at serious jail time when authorities catch up to him.

Although it is similar to treating only the symptom of a disease, it must be done. Nebraskans and other Americans demand that their streets be kept safe.

This is important, but it usually is where the election-year political rhetoric stops.

"Elect me ... (fill in the blank with governor, attorney general, senator, sheriff, mayor or dog catcher) and I will throw the criminals in jail forever and make the streets safe for families to walk again," politicians say time after time when seeking votes.

If you want to reduce crimes involving young people, the state has to start doing something to help young offenders get their lives straightened out once they are caught. It also has to do a heck of a lot more to make sure youngsters don't stray from the straight and narrow in the first place.

Too many teen-age sex offenders in Nebraska are not getting treatment they need to begin dealing with their severe problems.

The state's facilities for young offenders have grown so full that little is done except making the kids cool their heels for awhile. How about providing them counseling and other assistance so the kids don't commit additional crimes once they are released? There just isn't the time before the youngster has to be let loose to make room for a new one.

These are examples of two areas that should share some of the public spotlight and resources devoted to getting tough on crime.

Ms. Reno made another key point: raise a child right in the first place and you will avoid so many of the other problems.

A child develops a sense of reward, punishment and conscience between the age of zero and three, she said.

If this important step falls short, she said, what good is building more prisons and filling them up with people who don't understand the meaning of punishment or totally lack remorse after committing a crime?

The residents of Pierce, NE, have had their feelings of peace and safety shattered as they try to cope with the stabbing death of 10-year-old Mitch Ziemer.

How many more Mitch Ziemers have to be hurt before we decide more should be done to prevent these kinds of tragedies instead of cope with them after they happen?

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Homer sez: 'turn the telly off!'

"Homer? Gotta second?"
"Yes, dear, but I'm awful busy."
"Whatcha doin'?"
"Recuperatin'"
"Recuperatin'! Ya ain't been up long 'nuff to need recuperatin'"
"Now, Dorie, ya don't know the power of TV. I brung my last cup of coffee in 'ere in the front room so's I could watch a little telly."
"And so...?"
"And I jist been switchin' here an' there for a minute at a time, an' ya know what?"
"Can I 'ave ten guesses?"
"I thinks I've seen somethin' that may not be unusual."
"S'pouse yer were lookin' fer somethin' unusual as usual?"
"I wuz lookin' fer somethin' to entertain me a bit."
"Let me give ya the bad news. The telly is the least likely place to look for somethin' entertainin'. Ya know that doncha?"
"Oh, I s'pouse. I know telly ain't no Sunday School class, but they sure use a lot of the same words. Strange. So many folks who never open the Good Book sure know God's name an' use it ever other word!"
"Ya must be watchin' the movie channel."

Noodlehead Acres

aka Merlin Wright

"No...Bout ever channel has somebody sayin' 'O God!'. Course, I s'pouse if'n I wuz as lackin' of smarts as script writers, I'd be askin' fer His help too."
"Don't think they's askin' fer His help, Homer. Them hollywood writers is convinced us-'mericans are cursin' fools. Cursin' is so usual, so whatcha see'n that's unusual?"
"JIST FINISHED watchin' the breakin' of the ten commandments."
"In a movie or are ya watchin' C-Span agin, heh, heh!"
"C-Span an' a couple others. "Thou shalt have no other gods before me", the first commandment, done got broke on ever channel, as folk's seem to be willin' to do anything fer money."

"That movie we wuz watchin' las' night musta broke 'Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain' 'bout a hun'erd times! Story wuz good but the cussin' wuz real bad."
"Dorie, 'ave ya noticed mos' news is all 'bout break'n commandments? Those two nincompoops who sez they killed their mom 'an dad 'cause they wuz mistreated! They musta fergot 'Honour thy father and thy mother."
"Wunder if'n they ever heard 'Thou shalt not kill.'?"
"Kill'n is 'bout the only story line telly has. Them script writers is cocksure us tellywatchers gits high on shootin' an' killin'. If'n they ain't murder'n, then the folks go jump'n into bed fer some 'lectionate gymnastics. Guess they's tryin' to teach kids that 'Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife' is ol' fashion."
"Yer right. 'Thou shalt not commit adultery' is a commandment that would jist 'bout put the telly an' movies outta bizness if'n writers observed it."

"Ain't there a commandment like 'Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor'?"
"Oh yes, dear, sure 'nuff. But if'n ya thinks lyin' an' cheatin' is a gonna go outta style on the screen then I've got some ol' blown out tires I'll sell ya!"
"WELL, DORIE, I've done flicked back to C-Span now. Them congress folk deserves academy awards! They's real careful to put on a good show fer the public, but when the public ain't lookin', watch out!"
"Whatcha mean?"
"Lyin', stealin' an' cheatin' mus' be marks of statesmanship in Washington."
"Ya referin' to the house post office scandal?"
"An' the promises politicians make but never plan on keepin'."
"Guess what used to be unusual has done become the usual, huh?"
"TELLY WUZ quite an invention."

Love of travel

No sooner leave than you'd love to get home

The annual summer paradox engulfed me recently along with the fumes from a smoking motor home's exhaust as we both waited for a red light to change.

Everyone, myself included, thinks he wants to be a carefree traveler until he's actually doing it.

The travel urge hits on those routine days as we bustle about our work and look up to notice a motor home full of seemingly happy tourists waiting for the same red light to change.

Or the urge can hit as we watch a touring biker glide by in a semi-reclined position on his chopped up motorcycle with long beard and unkempt appearance as though he has a defiant and obscene finger raised at the world.

Why can't these travelers and tourists work like everyone else? They pass in and out of our daily routines in an instant and usually without one word being exchanged. There are words uttered, however, by the worker witnessing the seemingly happy traveler and wishing roles could be reversed. But those words aren't suitable for a family newspaper.

Our envy of these travelers insures that sometimes before the summer warmth wanes, we will accept their challenge and create more envy for workers in other towns who watch us drive by on our vacations.

Mann Overboard
By Les Mann

Vacationers propagate vicariously. Each seemingly happy traveler insures 10 will follow.
We Americans are so driven to travel, we cannot see a tourist without wishing we were headed where he has been (unless he's from California, of course).
What, then, is so paradoxical about this urge to travel. No sooner than we leave town on our vacation, we realize the paradox. It's more fun to dream about it than actually do it.
That road noise headache begins pounding at about the same time the eyes water from driving strain. No amount of rest-stops seem to be able to rid us of the tiring car seat imprint where car seat imprints are want to be.
Each vacation day barely begins before you wish you were already at the day's pre-assigned destination, resting up for the drive back home.
It is about that time we remember we were envious of the tourists in the motor home next to us at the red light. Now in each town we pass we envy the workers going about their daily routines. We long to be off the road back home in our own comfortable routines. We utter words which can't be printed in a family newspaper.
What is the solution to this love-hate relationship which has been foisted on us by a too-convenient highway system and mostly comfortable cars? It's obvious.
See the sights we never see as a tourist...
The ones closest to home.
Then return each night to familiar, comfortable surroundings and relax. Such would be a tourist to be truly envied.

As an example of the shrinking globe, the Okubanjios proudly display a picture of them with Fr. Tom McDermott, a Nigerian missionary from Wayne who is in the process of building a massive new church in Lagos. The Okubanjios, though Baptists, have contributed to the construction of Fr. Tom's Catholic church in the name of Wayne. A plaque commemorating Wayne will be mounted on one of the pillars of the new church.

While in Wayne, the Okubanjios attend the Baptist Church though they are frequent visitors to the Methodist Church too. That's where Dennis and Gerelda Lipp and Ralph and Bev Etter their closest friends in Wayne attend.

In fact, the Lippis will be serving as second parents to the Okubanjo kids while they are schooling in Wayne.

THEIR CHILDREN are Yomi and Eni, who are bankers in Lagos; Segun who will be a freshman at Wayne State; Jimi, a junior in high school and Bukky, a sophomore.

The two youngest children, Femi, 11, and Seun, 6 will be returning to Nigeria with their parents this week.

"I am a strong believer in the American way of life, especially as practiced in the Midwest," said Okubanjo. He said people here are still agrarian and near to nature. "It goes through the culture and the character of the people," he said of the agrarian instincts.

He said he is much impressed with the development and growth in Wayne since he first visited here in the early eighties.

Labor Day travel information given for Lincoln bound folks

Labor Day weekend is fast approaching. With it comes the Nebraska State Fair, the season's first University of Nebraska home football game and many busy Nebraska highways.

Considerable highway construction work is in progress throughout the state and motorists should plan their trips accordingly, allowing ample travel time to reach their destination safely.

Following are brief updates of travel related information for those motoring to Lincoln next weekend.

Lincoln Area — Interstate 80 through the North 27th Street Interchange area will be reopened to four lanes. The interstate has been reduced to two-lane traffic during construction of a new interchange. The I-80/North 27th Street Interchange into Lincoln will open to traffic Friday, Sept. 3. This interchange and the newly widened North 27th Street will provide a direct route to the State Fairgrounds and improve access to the UNL east and city campuses. I-180 between I-80 and downtown Lincoln is being resurfaced. Work is being done during evening hours only. An asphalt overlay project is in progress on US 34 in Northeast Lincoln, however traffic is maintained and work will not be done on weekends.

Omaha Area — US 6 Ashland to Gretna — two bridges washed out in the March flood are being replaced. The road should be open to traffic before Labor Day, weather permitting. I-80/N-370 Interchange will remain one lane in each direction through about Oct. 4. N-50 Platte River Bridge is being redecked. Traffic will be restricted to two lanes until late November.

Grand Island Area — Highway 2 between Mason City and Litchfield and east of Ravenna is closed. There is a marked detour. Highway 40 traffic east of Amherst has also been detoured.

Northeast Nebraska — Motorists will find signed detours on the following highways: Highway 13 between Creighton and Center; Highway 14 between Petersburg and Albion; Highway 22 just north of Genoa. Travelers may wish to select alternate routes or follow the marked detours.

College presidents to be in Wayne area

Two Nebraska independent college presidents are scheduled to be in Norfolk, South Sioux City, West Point, Wayne, Madison and surrounding communities on Tuesday, Sept. 14, visiting with local business leaders regarding Nebraska's independent colleges.

The presidents, Dr. John W. White Jr., President of Nebraska Wesleyan University in Lincoln, and Dr. Orville C. Walz, President of Concordia College in Seward, are scheduled to address the Norfolk Rotary Club and other groups and individuals. They will be in the area representing the Nebraska Independent College Foundation (NICF).

NICF is an Omaha-based foundation that seeks charitable contributions from Nebraska businesses and corporations on behalf of the state's independent, North Central accredited colleges. Nebraska's independent colleges receive no direct state tax support, while educating over 10,000 students yearly, and are estimated to have a $300 million spending impact upon the state's economy. NICF's mission is to help the independent colleges lower their annual operating costs and to assist in lowering tuition rates by attracting financial support for the colleges.

The Foundation, founded in 1953 and endowed by the Peter Kiewit Foundation, raised in excess of $758,000 in 1992 from nearly 500 businesses across the state for its member colleges.

Member colleges include Bellevue College, Bellevue; College of Saint Mary, Omaha; Concordia College, Seward; Dana College, Blair; Doane College, Crete; Hastings College, Hastings; Midland Lutheran College, Fremont; Nebraska Wesleyan University, Lincoln; Union College, Lincoln; and York College, York.

Also traveling with the college presidents will be Thomas R. Horgan, President of the Nebraska Independent College Foundation, Omaha; Steve Rasmussen, Vice President for Institutional Advancement of Doane College, Crete; Russell D. Rupiper, Vice President of the Bellevue College Foundation; and Ralph G. Schmidt, Director of Church Relations of Concordia College, Seward.

Interviews with the college presidents can be arranged through the NICF office in Omaha.

Public input sought

The Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality is seeking public input on the proposed installation of a natural gas fired incinerator at Great Dane Trailers to dispose of paint booth filters and proposed installation of a 70 x 70 foot paint booth and paint kitchen for mixing paints.

The proposed additions to the plant are part of the expansion effort announced earlier this summer which will add as many as 90 new jobs to the plant which already employs over 400.

No significant impact on air quality is expected from the proposed incinerator, according to the DEQ which issued a statement recommending approval of the proposed expansion projects at the plant.

Both the incinerator and new paint booth will be located at the plant on Centennial Road. The incinerator would be restricted to burning no more than 800 pounds of materials per day according to the permit proposed by DEQ.

The plant will be required to install a sophisticated air filtering system on the paint booth and carefully monitor air quality of emissions from the facility and will be limited to the amount of potential pollutants which can be emitted.

The public has 30 days to respond either in writing to Joseph Francis, Department of Environmental Quality, PO Box 98922, Lincoln, NE 68509 or by phone at 471-2189.

Schools

comes with necessary change.

SEVERAL BUILDING changes have been implemented in the last year including new roofing on the elementary school to correct a chronic leaking problem, cement work and new bus entrance at the elementary. New windows were installed in the Carroll Elementary building and repairs were implemented to the gym.

Middle School administration and faculty is excited about new science curriculum that is focused on hands-on activities and reinforced with interactive technologies, he said.

"More than ever before in science, students are going to be able to see and feel science. They will be able to see theory in practice and then, hopefully, retain what they have learned longer and be able to apply it better," he said.

EXTERIOR improvements at the Middle School Building are also being conducted and the industrial technology room will continue to receive face lift work and new equipment to match the new direction for the schools, he said.

parochial school students this year contributes to the growth there.

"We are moving toward a stronger commitment to the Middle School concept," he said.

In the high school, the most dramatic changes have included the move to an eight period day and the addition of the popular applied math curriculum. The school's crisis team is active and helpful in giving assistance to schools in neighboring communities.

SEVERAL improvement projects suggested by the staff and the board were conducted while staying within the 5 percent spending lid, he said. Most noticeable among these was the addition of a state of the art computer lab and a new weight room facility.

Loans are eligible for 86 counties in Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) -- Only seven of Nebraska's 93 counties are not eligible for Farmers Home Administration disaster loans, Gov. Ben Nelson said.

The federal agency has added 23 more counties to the list of those with farms hit by severe wind, rainfall, hail, tornadoes and flash flooding.

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Mike Espy told the governor's office of the disaster designation late Thursday.

"Added to those already declared this year, this designation makes 86 of Nebraska's 93 counties eligible for low-interest emergency loan assistance," Nelson said. The loans can be used by farmers for physical and production losses.

The seven counties that are not eligible at this time, are: Arthur, Brown, Hooker, Keith, McPherson, Scotts Bluff and Sioux, Nelson said.

"However, a national disaster has been declared by President Clinton and an aid package approved by Congress," Nelson said.

"This means a farmer with severe weather-related crop damage need not be in a declared disaster county to be eligible for direct disaster payments through the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service," Nelson said.

Blood Thinner May Prevent Strokes

Atrial fibrillation is a heart problem in which the smaller chambers beat so rapidly that they do not effectively pump blood. The larger heart chambers pump blood to the body. Physicians sometimes prescribe warfarin, an anticoagulant or "blood thinner," to reduce the possibility of blood clots forming in the small chambers where blood flow is very slow. A clot that forms in a heart chamber can cause a stroke if it reaches the brain.

Researchers with the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs evaluated the effectiveness of warfarin to prevent strokes. As reported in The New England Journal of Medicine, they looked at the safety of warfarin (sold by the trade name Coumadin). It was determined in the 260 men studied that warfarin reduced the risk of stroke without producing an excess risk of serious hemorrhage (bleeding that could result in death). Patients studied had no previous history of stroke and did not have rheumatic heart disease.

Party honors Gardner

NORFOLK, Neb. (AP) — The chief executive officer of a major egg company was honored Saturday as he retires from that position to act as a consultant to the business.

Daniel Gardner joined M.G. Waldbaum Co. in 1952 from New York City.

At that time Waldbaum, based in Wakefield, about 30 miles north-east of Norfolk, employed fewer than 50 people and gross annual sales were less than $1 million. Now, Waldbaum has gross annual sales of $200 million and it employs more than 1,200 people.

Waldbaum's products include frozen and dried egg products.

Activities scheduled Saturday included a buffet dinner and dance that was open to the public. On Friday, Waldbaum's wife, Jeanne, threw a surprise black-tie dinner at the Sioux City Convention Center.

The company was established in

Daniel Gardner

1946 by Milton G. Waldbaum, who later became a doctor and lived in Omaha. Waldbaum, who died earlier this year, owned half the company and played an active role in it for many years.

But Gardner ran the company on a day-to-day basis.

People who watched the hard-driven Gardner build Waldbaum often gave him credit for the company's prosperity. Gardner credited the company's workers.

"I did surround myself with a lot of good people," Gardner said.

Gardner said he will continue working as a company consultant. He also plans to work closely with his wife in the office of the Gardner Foundation, which the couple established in 1990 when Gardner sold Waldbaum's to Michael Foods, a Minneapolis company.

Mrs. Gardner said the foundation gives away up to $800,000 annually in interest income to institutions and organizations.

The Gardners also recently donated $1.5 million to Wayne State College. On Wednesday morning, the college plans to officially name a new business building in their honor.

The couple, who have nine grandchildren, also plan to do a lot of traveling.

Orchestra needs area members

Northeast Community College and the city of Norfolk are seeking new members for the college/community orchestra.

The orchestra meets on Tuesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Northeast Community College activities Center, room 105. Rehearsals are to begin today (Tuesday).

The purpose of the orchestra is to give musicians who play orchestral stringed instruments (violin, viola, cello and string bass) an opportunity to continue performing beyond the high school orchestra experience.

New members are needed so that the orchestra may play public performances in the future.

Persons may register for college credit at Northeast. High school students must obtain written permission from their school principal with prior acceptance of the orchestra director and music department.

For more information about joining the orchestra, contact Sharon Mulcahy, Northeast Community College, 644-0505, or at 529-6401.

Remember When...

Summers were hot and the youngsters wanted to stay at the pool long after school started. This picture from the Wayne Herald historic files shows then five year old Robert Johnson, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Lowell Johnson of Wayne performing a cool flip at the municipal pool on a hot August day in 1969.

Things happen in bunches

When you have four children in eight years, things happen in bunches: four small ones, four teenagers, lots of graduations and three weddings in five years.

Ann and Max had their first date on his sixteenth birthday, six years ago. There have been many dates since; and proms, football games, wrestling tournaments, holidays, volleyball tournaments, studying together, fights. I always liked his style because he often sent flowers to make up.

—We used to think he was quiet and shy. Of course, now we know that's no so. They discovered that his middle name, Christian, was the same as her grandfather's; and his birthday, Sept. 4, was that of Mike's father, also.

When the two older children got married, their weddings were in Lincoln. And we lived at Hoskins.

Now that we live near Lincoln; this wedding, of course, would be in Winside. They had tried college in Lincoln and transferred to Wayne State.

They were members of the same church in Winside, and they wanted the reception in the Winside auditorium.

When they picked a date in August, I reminded them how hot it could be then, and that neither the church or the auditorium is air conditioned. When she picked a long-sleeved dress, I reminded her again. Sure enough, it was a very warm, humid day; not once did I hear her complain about the heat.

Now, it's a week later, and they are back from a honeymoon at Okoboji. The gifts have been opened and admired, the last of the potato salad has been eaten. Only the memories remain. And the pictures.

It takes so many hard-working folks to do a wedding and I appreciate them all. Our minister, who did the pre-marital counseling and helped them plan the ceremony. The organist, who practiced long hours, sat in the warmest seat in the place and then ran downstairs to the piano for the last song.

Joyce and Herb Nicemann, who had two weddings that day, and all their help was involved. In fact, we found it to be a very popular wedding date. I could just visit and not worry about feeding all those people.

People who hauled tables and set them up, then took them down and hauled them back. The gals who decorated the auditorium, Myla, who did hair all day, and repaired Ann's, even in the receiving line. Rebecca, who flew from Tucson just to light candles. Monte, who helped paint their house on another very hot day. Jan and Kristi and David, and Brad and Joani, who loaded and unloaded presents. Big brother Mace, who wrote a poem for the best man's toast.

And a photographer who arrived two hours early, rode along when they stole the bride, and did not leave until almost midnight.

We've recuperated. The Big Farmer says he isn't giving away any more daughters. And I'm still basking in the after-glow.

Ak countess from Wayne

Heidi Jo Reeg of Wayne will share in the pageantry of an Ak-Sar-Ben Coronation Ball Oct. 16 when she serves as a countess to the court of the mythical kingdom of Quivera.

The 97th annual pageant tradition honors approximately 200 individuals and families who, through their volunteer efforts, have contributed to the quality of life in Nebraska and western Iowa. The pageant and coronation ball which follows is one of the most successful benefit fundraising events in the Midwest. Attendance tops 5,000 annually.

As a countess, Miss Reeg, will participate in the pageant "This Magic Moment" to be produced by the Emmy Gifford Theater.

Miss Reeg, the daughter of Bob and Joyce Reeg of Wayne, is a junior elementary education major at

Heidi Jo Reeg

Wayne State College. She is a member of Wayne State Education Association, Save Our Surroundings (SOS) and previously served as activities coordinator for Richard Hall at WSC.

Her father is president of First National Bank in Wayne and her mother is Wayne County Assessor. Both are active in civic clubs.

One of the benefits of the Ak-Sar-Ben Pageant is the $1,000 annually renewable scholarships to students attending area colleges and universities. The coronation, which is the climax of the evening's pageantry, annually crowns the king and queen of Ak-Sar-Ben and honors four individuals who, for extraordinary achievement, will be inducted into the Court of Honor.

Tickets to the evening's activities are available at the AKSARben ticket office at 444-1888.

Attend Youth Conference

Area students involved

Eighteen youth and seven adults from the Laurel-Concord area attended the Dawson McAllister Student Conference on Aug 20-21 at the Ramkota Inn in Sioux Falls.

Dawson McAllister is one of America's outstanding youth communicators. His academic training, practical experience and spiritual insight give him rapport with youth and make him much in demand at weekend seminars, conferences and camps. Dawson speaks to tens of thousands of teenagers across America each year, as well as on radio and through videos, while maintaining an intensive writing ministry. He lives in Spring Hill, Tennessee where he enjoys horses and country life with his wife, Ruth Hill, and their two sons, Fulton and Eugene.

The theme for this year's conference was "Pack Your Bags - Jesus is Coming!" The teaching focused on some rather intense issues and God's answer to them. There seems to be something going on in our world. Something stirring. Something bothersome. Things just don't seem to hold together like they once did.

How much do you know about Jesus Christ's return? We need to watch, be alert, get ready and change our lives accordingly.

As well as Biblical teaching, the conference included worship, laughter and excitement. Todd Proctor and concert artist Al Holley lead times of praise and worship throughout the conference as well as a concert on Saturday evening. Comedian, illusionist and creative speaker Mark Matlock thrilled the audience while illustrating important Biblical truth in a creative style.

The Sioux Falls conference included 1351 students and sponsors from 116 churches throughout Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, North and South Dakota. Students attending from this area were Amber and Katie Martindale, Quin Bohlen, Trisha and Alissa Kric, Joan Clarkson, Elly Harder, Tracie Ankeny, Becky Fogsberg, Deb Carlson, Tasha Kardell, Sharon Carlson, Bret Harder, Philip, Jon and Jeremy Marburger, Jim Dickey and Layton Boysen. Adult sponsors included Ron and Marilyn Harder, Mary Ankeny, Judy Carlson, Lori Hansen, and Pastor Duane and Bonnie Marburger.

Next years dates have already been set for Aug 19-21, 1994 returning to the Ramkota Inn in Sioux Falls.

Dawson McAllister also ministers through "Dawson McAllister Live" a two hour, call-in Christian radio talk show for the American teenager. It airs live every Sunday night from 7-9 pm and features a 1-800 number so teenagers can call Dawson and get solid, easy to understand, Biblical counsel. It is one of only three christian radio shows that talk to teenagers. Dawson McAllister Live is also the only Christian radio show that counsels needy teenagers live on the air about the deep issues in their lives.

They call every Sunday night at 1-800-578-0123. The radio ministry also offers students another toll-free number they can call and talk privately to a trained counselor about any problem or question they might have. Thousands of youth call THE HOPELINE every month at 1-800-394 HOPE. In Northeast Nebraska, "Dawson McAllister Live" may be heard over the following stations:

Columbus KJSK, 900 AM, 7-9 pm, Sunday; North Platte KJLT, 94.9 FM, 7-9 pm, Sunday; Norfolk KPNO, 90.9 FM, 7-9 pm, Sunday; Sioux City, Ia, KTFK, 103.3 FM, 12-2 am; Sioux Falls, SD KNWC, 96.5v Fm, 7-9 pm, Sunday.

Another event, the youth leaned of at the conference was See You at the Pole, which began in 1989 as a vision of a few students to pray for their friends, school and country. Their vision has exploded into a powerful movement of prayer that has swept from coast to coast and worldwide, uniting students from almost every city, denomination and ethnic group. Last year it is estimated that more than one million students participated in "See You At the Pole." (SYATP) The Suggested time for this year's SYATP event is 7 am on Wednesday, Sept 15. To participate, all that is needed is simply for students to gather at the flagpole on their school campuses and pray. Adults may also participate by meeting at court house flagpoles, churches, or other locations where they can support youth in prayer. Students from the laurel Concord School district may contact Philip marburger, 584-2467 for more information.

See You at the Pole has also been endorsed by a number of denominations and organizations representing millions of American families, including the following: Focus on the Family (Dr. James Dobson), Southern Baptist Convention, Youth for Christ/USA, Paul Harvey, Assemblies of God, Eternity Magazine, Decision Magazine, American Center for Law and Justice, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Evangelical Free Church of America, Campus Crusade for Christ, Moody Broadcasting Network, Christian and Missionary Alliance, Christianity Today Magazine, Christian Broadcasting Network (CBN).

Young farmers helped

According to Stanley E. Foster, FmHA State Director, the new Beginning Farmer Program is in keeping with Secretary Espy's "farmer friendly" policy. Training and other preparations for the new program have already begun to take place in Nebraska. Implementation of the program will begin when the regulations are received, approximately Oct. 1.

Mark Moser, county supervisor, located in Wayne, said the new program is designed to help beginning farmers and ranchers obtain fi-ancing to purchase land, livestock, machinery and provide operating capital.

There are two programs being developed: one is a Down Payment Loan Program for the purchase of farm land and the second is a Special Operating Loan Program for the purchase of personal farm assets and to provide operating capital.

Moser said anyone interested in these programs should contact the Wayne FmHA County Office for additional information at 375-2360 or by writing PO Box 200, Wayne, NE 68787.

Cattle numbers show trend

Placements of cattle into feedlots during July totaled 330,000 head. This was down 8 percent from last year but was up 3 percent from two years ago.

Cattlefeeders meet

The Midwest Cattlefeeders meeting will be held Friday, Sept. 3 at 7:30 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Center in Laurel. There will be a special report from the mission field.

A breakfast will be held at the Corner Cafe at 7 a.m. the Saturday.

Other disappearance during July totaled 20,000 head compared with 40,000 head during both July 1992 and July 1991.

Cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market in the 7 States preparing monthly estimates totaled 7.65 million head on Aug. 1, up 9 percent from a year ago and 4 percent above Aug. 1, 1991. This is the largest Aug. 1 inventory since 1978.

Marketings of fed cattle during July totaled 1.67 million, down 1 percent from last year and 3 percent below two years ago. These are the lowest July marketings since 1985.

Placements of cattle and calves on feed in the 7 States during July totaled 1.48 million, up 4 percent from last year and 12 percent above 1991. Net placements of 1.40 million for July were up 4 percent from last year and 14 percent above 1991.

Farm recycling touted

A new University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension publication is designed to help agricultural producers participate in a statewide recycling program.

Every year about 1 million plastic agricultural pesticide containers are used in Nebraska. A coalition of eight organizations and three state departments sponsors a program that gives producers the chance to recycle these plastic containers, according to Larry Schulze, pesticide coordinator and co-author of the publication.

The NebGuide "Rinsing Pesticide Containers" supports the Nebraska Pesticide Container Recycling program which is partially funded through a grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

The program started last year and offered two collection sites for pesticide containers, Schulze said. This year, producers may turn in empty, rinsed plastic agricultural pesticide containers at 11 sites throughout the state.

Six collection points in the state will continue to accept pesticide containers until October. They are at the following landfills: David City, Kearney, Lexington, North Platte, and Scottsbluff/Gering and at Antelope County Recyclers in Neligh.

Before the containers can be accepted, however, they will be inspected to determine if they have been properly rinsed. Producers may either triple-rinse or pressure-rinse the containers.

"The NebGuide provides guidelines for that process," said Schulze who is a member of the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources. Proper rinsing is easy to do, saves money and helps protect people and the environment, he added.

Once the containers have been inspected and collected, they are recycled into new ones, a process that saves raw materials and energy. A national coalition of agricultural manufacturers is supporting the cost of grinding and transporting the containers and reusing the plastic.

Prices generally are lower

Strictly choice fed steers were $71 to $72.60. Good and choice steers were $70 to $71. Medium and good steers were $69 to $70. Standard steers were $62 to $69. Strictly choice fed heifers were $71 to $72.60. Good and choice heifers were $70 to $71. Medium and good heifers were $69 to $70. Standard heifers were $62 to $69. Beef cows were $51 to $56. Utility cows were $45 to $52. Bologna bulls were $62 to $68.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Department of Environmental Quality Air and Waste Management Division
 Notice is given to the public according to Chapter 6 of the Nebraska Air Pollution Control Rules and Regulations (NDEC Title 129) of the application of Great Dane Trailers Inc. for the installation of a new paint booth and paint kitchen to mix paints for the paint booth. The proposed facilities are to be built at the existing Great Dane Trailers plant site located in Wayne, NE. The proposed facilities are to be used to apply paint coatings to refrigerated trailers.
 Potential emission sources include the new 70' x 70' paint booth, the paint kitchen, and a gas fired make-up air unit. The Department considered potential emission sources for nitrogen oxides (NOx), particulates (TSP and PM10), volatile organic compounds (VOC) and toxic air pollutants during its review of the proposal. The proposed addition will increase the use of VOCs and toxics. VOC emissions originating from the new paint booth and paint kitchen are estimated to increase by approximately 13,500 TPY. Total emissions of toxic air pollutants are estimated to be increased by approximately 8,800 lbs/year. The emissions of individual toxic air pollutants are anticipated to increase as follows: Xylenes (1,500 lbs/yr), Toluene (4,900 lbs/yr), Acetone (1,200 lbs/yr), Isopropyl Alcohol (800 lbs/yr), and Methyl Isobutyl Ketone (400 lbs/yr). Controlled emissions estimates from the new facilities for NOx are listed below.

Pollutant	Emissions	Source
NOx	40.6 lbs/24 hrs	Makeup Air Unit

Approval of the proposed project is recommended. The Department is proposing issuing a construction permit containing the following conditions:
 1) Emissions of all VOCs and toxic air pollutants originating from the new paint booth are limited as set forth below. Record keeping and reporting requirements for these pollutants are also required.
 Volatile Organic Compounds (VOC) 27,000 lbs/year
 Xylenes 1,500 lbs/year
 Toluene 4,900 lbs/year
 Isopropyl Alcohol 800 lbs/year
 Methyl Isobutyl Ketone 400 lbs/year
 Acetone 1,200 lbs/year
 2) The new 750 sq. ft., 99% efficient filter system by Custom Paint Booth Corp. with dual intake pyramid filters must be properly operated and maintained for the capture of particulate from the proposed new facilities.
 3) Any additional air pollution control equipment that may be necessary for compliance with the NDEC Title 129 must be installed within 180 days after notification by the Department of noncompliance.
 The proposed permit, the application and supporting materials are available for inspection at the office of the Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality, Suite 400, 1200 "N" Street, Lincoln, Nebraska 68508. Within 30 days after the initial publication of this notice, persons may request or petition the Director for public hearing, or submit comments relative to the issuance of the proposed permit. Comments received during the 30 day public notice period will be considered prior to the final decision to issue the proposed permit. THE LORD HAS once again blessed us with the surrounding of many relatives and friends during my illness. A big thank you goes out to the following: Harlan Ruwe, Melvin Utech and Kelly Heithold for taking over the care of the livestock; Mark and Kelly Heithold and Bryan and Ann Ruwe for arranging for trailers with other gracious neighbors such as Jack Beeson, Roger Lutt, Dick Nolte, Larry Echtenkamp and also to Brian Heithold for standing by if needed; thank you also to Andrew Rise for caring for our yard. Thank you also for the many visits, cards, food, but most of all for the spiritual support we have received from Pastor Anderson and Pastor Mahnken and many more who have spoken to the Lord on our behalf. Laughter and prayer, and mainly prayer heals. Please keep up the prayers. God bless you all. Marlyn and Bonnadell Koch. Au31
