Health Care plan discussed widely here, everywhere

By Les Mann Of the Herald

Pres. Clinton's health care proposals are good in concept agree most local observers in and out of the health care field, but the true impact won't be known until after Congress has adapted the proposals to its liking.

What impact the finished program will have on local health care ser-vices is too early to tell, said Wayne's Providence Medical Center Administrator Marci Thomas.

"It's hard to tell what will come out," she said. The idea of guaranteeing health care services to everyone will never be a new concept in

THAT PHILOSOPHY has been in force at the hospital here for many years, said Ms. Thomas. Hospital services are never denied to patients at Providence, where residents have the opportunity to apply for fee waivers based on financial ability to pay for services, she said.

The President's proposal sounds familiar to the outcome of discussion at the National Issues Forum on the Health Care Crisis held in Wayne in August.

The solutions are going to be difficult," said Jan Dinsmore, Wayne State College professor who helped organize the health issues forum. The basic concepts of the president's plan mirror the consensus points brought out during the forum in Wayne, she said.

THAT IS, Americans should have access to basic health care services and the existing system needs to change.

"I was impressed with the process," Mrs. Dinsmore said of the

Lawmakers seek change

Nebraska's congressional delegation supported President Clinton as he called on Congress to look beyond the arguments against his healthcare reform plan and see the need for change.

But they had questions.

Doug Bereuter, R-Neb., said one of his key concerns is that the proposed system of managed competition may not work well in a thinly populated state like Nebraska

"It's not a model that is inherently adapted to serving rural areas," Bereuter said. "We do not have the forces of competition to play off for the advantage of the consumer. In sparsely settled parts of our state, the opposite is true."

It will be important to make

"He realizes that every part of the program won't work to everyone's benefit," she said, "But perhaps it will work for a lot of people.

She said the indication that came out of the Wayne forum was that the system would be very difficult to

The new law requires cable companies to sign agreements with local commercial television stations for the retransmission of their signals on the cable networks and negotia-tions between Jones Intercable and two of the three network affiliate stations in Sioux City have not resulted in agreements yet.

The ABC affiliate, KCAU, has signed an agreement with Jones, according to Russ Gifford the cable firm manager, but the other two stations are both demanding pay-ments from the cable company for the rights to pick up the over the air signal and send it to subscriber homes

"THE LAW CREATES a win, win, win situation for the television stations," said Gifford. Not only do the television stations have the right to prevent their signals from being retransmitted unless paid, they also

The "Santa Cash" effort promotion effort will be repeated this holiday season which means shoppers can borrow up to $1,500 from their local bank and be given "Santa Cash which will be accepted in most Wayne area businesses for holiday purchases.

The loans will be free for 120 days. That gives many people the opportunity to shop for Christmas on their tax refund and avoid the high cost of credit card interest, said Curt Wilwerding, Wayne Chamber director.

Santa Cash loans will become available on Oct. 15.

He said over $40,000 worth of loans were given by the three banks in Wayne last year

Health

Bill Barrett, R-Neb., also questioned the managed-competition format. He said the general concept isn't bad, and elements of the approach were even promoted by the Bush administration. However, Barrett said the Clinton administration's plan abandons pure market-oriented reforms for employer mandates.

"It incorporates too much government control and lacks, at this time, any realistic method to pay for it,"

Barrett said the plan would estab-lish several new levels of government bureaucracy, the most dubious being a seven-member national health board. He said the board would have broad power to define the standard health benefits package, issue regulations and set spending caps on health care.
"It's a terribly incredible powerful board accountable only to the president," he said. "It's of great concern to me."

Rep. Peter Hoagland, D-Neb., was concerned about financing.

"I don't think the plan for financ ing the proposal (which includes huge savings in projected Medicare and Medicaid spending) is politically realistic," he said.

The result could be a new entitlement, substantially unpaid for, which adds to the national debt.

'Not only is that a risk, but it's probably going to happen because Congress in its anxiousness to enact such an attractive reform is going to turn a blind eye to the costs," Hoagland said.

Nebraska Sen. Bob Kerrey, a Democrat, also said he is doubtful about the projected savings and financing aspects of the plan.

"We really need to be honest about the economics. The money has to come from someplace," said Kerrey, who challenged Clinton for the 1992 presidential nomination and made health-care reform the centerpiece of his campaign.

Kerrey said he still has a problem with the idea of employer-mandated health-care coverage. "I think the responsibility should fall on indi-

'The card doesn't generate wealth and income," said Kerrey, referring to "health security card" every American would receive if Clinton's plan is enacted. Clinton held up a prototype of the card in his speech to Congress, with an inscription guaranteeing benefits that can never be taken away. "Wealth and income have to be produced in the workplace," Kerrey said.

Kerrev said he is willing to look at Clinton's proposal to impose new taxes on tobacco to finance the plan, but he's doubtful that a cigarette tax is all that's needed to pick up the difference.

Hoagland thought a tobacco tax was a good idea, since many health problems are caused by cigarette

"My mother (Naomi) died of lung cancer a year ago because she started smoking at age 16 and wasn't able to stop," Hoagland said. She was 76. If she had stopped she likely would have lived another five years or more, Hoagland said.

Sen. Jim Exon, D-Neb., who smokes a pipe, agreed that taxes on tobacco and liquor to help finance the plan are a good idea. Exon, who smoked his pipe during an interview from Washington, added jokingly, 'I'll be glad to pay my tax on my tobacco, as unfair as it is.

Exon said he will working on some type of arrangement to allow insur-ance companies to sell some kind of insurance over and above what would be covered in the plan. He also noted that Clinton didn't spell out what he had in mind for longterm health care

Exon said Clinton's proposal was well-received by Democrats and Republicans alike, and predicts that Congress will pass a health-care plan will sometime next year.

The final product will not be exactly what the president wants, but not far from it," he said.

Construction is started

Construction is underway for a major addition to Carol Joy Holling Camp and Retreat Center located near Ashland, Neb. Ground was broken recently for a two-story 11,200 square-foot recreation building to serve as part of the camp's western town, Angels Gulch

The new facility was made possible by a gift of $254,000 from the Gardner Foundation of Wake field.

"It's just a super addition to Carol Joy Holling Camp and Re-treat Center. Stednitz who was out with the flu.
"The results of the meet may look as if we had a let down," coach Rocky Ruhl said. "I can't say that is true. The field was very tough. We ran with out Nate in the boy's division and in the girl's division Jessica Ford and Melodee Lage ran with injuries.'

Ruhl said looking at the results of the boys race the Blue Devils probably would have scored 30 and 25 points better with a healthy Jessica and Melodee in the girls race. "The team competed hard and re

points better had Nate not been sick

alized that they have work to do if they want to be considered two of the better teams in the state," Ruhl said. "Lyons and Gretna have very good boys teams and Wahoo Neumann is traditionally very good. I thought Richelle Woockman had a very good meet and continues to improve with each meet," Ruhl added. "Chris Headley, Ryan Martin, Clint Dyer and Tammy Teach also had very-good days.'

The Blue Devils will be back in action on Thursday when they travel to take part in the David City Aquinas Invitational.

The Wayne Blue Devils football team remained winless on the season in four outings after a 56-15 setback to Class C-1's second rated Norfolk Catholic, Thursday night in Norfolk.

Lonnie Ehrhardt's squad trailed the Knights by a 36-0 margin at the intermission. The only scoring in the first quarter came on a 33-yard pass for the Knights but in the second quarter the host team exploded

Norfolk Catholic scored on passing plays of eight and 35 yards before scoring on a one-yard plunge after a Wayne fumbled punt at the six-yard line. On the Knights next session they were forced to punt with under a half-minute to go before the half. Wayne was called for touching the ball before it rolled into the endzone and Norfolk Catholic recovered for a touchdown and a 36-0 advantage at the break.

Catholic scored first in the third quarter on a 30-yard interception return for a touchdown to lead 43-0 before Wayne mounted an 87-yard scoring drive that culminated in a two-yard run by Josh Starzl. Jason Shultheis ran for the two-point conversion. Norfolk Catholic came right back and scored on a 57-yard run for a 50-8 lead after three quar-

Early in the fourth quarter Wayne scored on a five-yard pass from Matt Blomenkamp to Jason Zulkosky. The Knights final scoring came on a 44-yard run in the middle of the fourth period.

"You take away three of their touchdowns on fumbled punts and interceptions and the game is much closer than the score indicates. Ehrhardt said. "We're still playing a lot of young guys. Our effort was remarkably good, especially when you consider we were down by 36 points at the half."

team struggled through their sixth straight match, Tuesday in the home confines of Rice Auditorium, falling to South Dakota State University, three games to one.

Sharon Vanis saw her squad get down 11-2 in the first game before falling, 15-12 and in the second game the 'Cats trailed 10-1 before their rally attempt fell short, 15-11.

WSC came back to win the third game, 15-10 but the visiting Jackrabbits ended the match in game four with a 15-11 win. The 'Cats fell to 3-6 on the season and will travel to play UNO on Saturday in a 1 p.m. contest.

"Right now, it looks as though we're going to have to fight hard for every win we get," Vanis said. "I thought we came back very well in games one and two, but we just got down so far "

Following the trip to Omaha, the Wildcats will travel to play Morningside on Wednesday before playing at Dordt next Friday. The next home game is slated for Monday, Oct. 4 against Peru State

The Library Card

This column is written occasionally to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public

Let's title this column "Things You Never Knew About Your Library and Were Too Polite to Ask." Year-ending reports can produce some interesting statistics. This, then, is a short year-end account of library business.

But first, we introduce your library staff: Mrs. Jo-lene Klein, director; Mrs. Dorothy Stevenson, as-sistant director; Sara Granberg, Mrs. Kathleen Johs and Mrs, Rita McLean, library aids, Roy and Mabel Sommerfeld, custodians. Dawn Garrett directed the Summer Reading Program. Margo Sandahl worked on the computer this summer, entering materials in the data base and at the circulation desk. Board members are Pat Gross, President; Charlene Rasmussen, secretary; and Jean Griess, Marilyn Lohrberg and Bill Sharpe.

There are many behind-the-scenes workers and volunteers who often go unrecognized for their contributions to the smooth running of the library. Volunteers who entered data into the new circulation computer (without whom we would not be nearing completion of the job): Roger Paxton, Ea-gle Scout Project; and Martha Svoboda, Jean Griess, Margaret Lundstrom and Claire Rasmussen. Merlin Wright, John Paxton, Nancy Braden (city treasurer) have given us computer support as have other local consultants. Jacque Kinnett, Connie Endicott, Lambda Phi Omega, Lisa Nelson and Santa Claus assisted with story hours. Manjit Johar, Cherry Managbanag and Mary O'Boyle were special guests during Summer Reading Program and told about different customs and foods of India, Philippines and Ireland, respectively.

Donations and memorials given to the library are always welcome. We are grateful to the Eagles Auxiliary whose yearly donation allows us to purchase Large Print materials. Acme Club and Minerva Club among other clubs and individuals and the Wayne Community Theater have all added gifts or memorials to the library. The Chautauqua Committee awarded funds for programming. Local businesses have also contributed in various ways: the local cable network has run library hours on the bulleting board; Dairy Queen donated free cones, Hardee's free friends and Pamida free candy for our Summer Reading Program. Also, Pac 'N' Save gave ice cream and toppings for the Summer Reading Program ice cream social. We thank KTCH for spot announcements First National Bank bulletin board and The Wayne Herald staff for announcements.

There is always the danger when compiling lists of names to leave someone out. We apologize if

Your city of Wayne per-capita taxes support the library. Residents who live outside the city limits are charged $15 per year — Jan. 1 to Jan. 1 — for a library card. This equals the amount Wayne residents are taxed per capita for the service.

The total number of library materials circulated during the 1992-93 fiscal year was 28,814. The total number of materials added during the fiscal year was 1,051. Total materials withdrawn (discarded) was 1.153. The library's limited space makes it mandatory to "weed" materials each year and we try to keep things in balance. We received 72 Inter-Library Loan requests of which 56 were

The library is open 48 hours per week during summer months and 51 hours per week during winter months. Staff hours vary. The director avwith tholars yeary hours vary in director 20 hours; library aides average 1-14 hours per week and the custodians 5 hours per week. The library budget for 1992-93 was $66,525. $60,251.86 or 90.5 percent was expended. $12,566 was spent for new materials.

During the year the library sponsored a range of programs to involve both children and adults in various activities. The annual Summer Reading Program ran 6 weeks during June and July and included pre-school children through sixth graders. We held Winter and Christmas Story Hours for the young. Through a grant from the Nebraska Humanities Council we brought a program about the Underground Railroad to the Middle School-and a program entitled "Kiowa Tales." Adults participated in a National Issues Forum on the Health Care Crisis. Two living history programs for adults brought through grants from the Nebraska Humanities Council gave us Katherine Garrett Butler (wife of an officer under General George Custer) and an evening with Mark Twain.

Another function of the library is to serve rural schools and provide training in library skills. Last year Districts 15, 51 and 57 took advantage of the service. Over the school year the library arranges tours for first graders, day care children and other

And last, but not least, the Wayne Public Library has received accreditation from the Nebraska Library Commission for 1993. Public libraries must be accredited to receive State Aid. The Wayne Library received $1,080 this year. Your library director is certified as a Public Librarian, and the assistant director is completing hours in basic
