The Great American Smokeout is Thursday, Nov. 18. The Smokeout is sponsored by the American Cancer Society to encourage smokers to refrain from smoking for at least 24 hours.

Quitting smoking for life has health benefits for men and women of all ages, even those who have smoked for years and who already suffer from smoking-related diseases, said Director of Health Dr. Mark Horton.

"Quitting is the single, most important thing that smokers can do to live longer and healthier lives," Dr. Horton said.

Less than a quarter of Nebraska adults currently smoke, and about half of Nebraskans who have ever smoked have quit, according to information from the Nebraska Department of Health.

A U.S. Surgeon General's report on smoking cessation indicates that people who quit smoking live longer than those who continue to smoke. After 15 years off cigarettes, the risk of death for ex-smokers is nearly the same as for

'Not guilty' is verdict in manslaughter trial

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

Jurors deliberated for nearly 7-1/2 hours before reaching a verdict last Friday in the manslaughter trial of Robert Sterba. The jurors were let go to deliberate at approximately 12:30 p.m. and at 8:10 p.m. the verdict was read to the court. (Some of that time elapsed involved lunch and dinner breaks).

On the left side of the courtroom and towards the back sat Brad and Carol Jones—brother and sister of the victim, Robert Jones who died on May 12th from injuries sustained after a fight outside the Max Lounge in Wayne with Robert Sterba.

Terry Jeffrey sat on the right side of Brad and Melanie Downie sat on the left side of Carol. Just two rows in front of them on one end of the row sat Sterba's mother and boyfriend and at the other end of the row was Sterba's father and step-mother.

In the front row on the right side of the courtroom sat Jerry Kleidosty, Cory Reeder, Henry Rehberg, Jon Janssen, Tom Mahnske and Tim McDermott. To their immediate right was Kleidosty's father and Sterba's childhood friend, Tim McCaw.

As the clerk Jo Ostrander read the unanimous verdict of "Not Guilty," Brad Jones shook his head in a no direction and Jeffrey just lowered his head. Then the four sitting together got up and immediately left.

McCaw and Kleidosty's father broke down crying with relief and the defendant, Sterba wiped tears from his eyes before hugging his lawyers, David Copple and David Ptak. Following the verdict the jury was dismissed and that's when Sterba and best friend Jerry Kleidosty came together and embraced.

In the hall outside the courtroom Sterba waited for each juror to come through the door and he thanked each one. "I'm very happy and relieved," Sterba said in a soft voice. "My thoughts and prayers have been with the Jones family ever since this happened but I was advised not to talk to them until the trial was over."

Sterba said he will now have a little deeper appreciation for life and will no longer take the little things for granted.

Sterba's attorney Copple was confident from the start that the verdict would be in his client's favor. "We thought we had a good case from the first moment we met Bob Sterba," Copple said. "From the onset, we believed Bob was not guilty of the charges brought

'Ditch diving' practice held

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

Northeast Nebraska drivers should have gotten plenty of "ditch diving" practice on area roads Sunday and Monday as a late fall storm delivered icy road conditions and a couple inches of wet snow.

"Lots of them went in the ditch," said Harold Murray, Nebraska Roads Department official in Wayne. "It's a typical situation for the first slick weather of the year," he added. He said road crews stopped counting the number of tracks they saw heading to the road ditches and then back out.

No serious accidents were reported although the highway corner near Hoskins was the site of a couple of bumper crunchers and minor injuries were sustained in a two vehicle collision at the intersection of Highways 35 and 9 north of Wakefield Monday morning.

Bridges and viaducts are especially dangerous early in the year because they can freeze over while the roadway might be warm enough not to be slick, explained Murray.

Wayne city police reported no fender benders in the city because of the storm.

Statewide, up to 7 inches of snow were reported as a result of the storm. Monday morning's accident near Wakefield sent Charlene K. Rasmussen of Wayne to the hospital with a possible broken nose when the northbound car she was driving collided with a southbound vehicle driven by Lvis Sikyang, Laurel.

According to the Dixon County Sheriff's office, the Sikyang vehicle lost control on the ice and crossed the center line into the path of northbound car. The accident was reported at 6:45 a.m.

Murray reported that the Roads Department has salt and sand supplies sufficient for the winter and is prepared for nearly all contingencies, but he urged drivers to drive more cautiously on slick roads.

Wildcats: The best non-playoff team!

Despite finishing with a sensational 9-1 record the Wayne State football team did not qualify for the NCAA-II football playoffs which was announced Sunday afternoon.

Pierce murder trial is Dec. 8

HARTINGTON, Neb. (AP)—The sexual assault trial of a Plainview man who is also accused of stabbing to death a Pierce boy has been delayed in Cedar County District Court.

The trial for Richard C. Barnes was to begin today in Hartington. But Cedar County Attorney Mark Behm granted a defense request for more time to prepare.

A new trial date has not been set. Barnes is accused of sexually assaulting a 12-year-old girl in Laurel last June. He walked free on July 12 without posting bond.

Six weeks later, Barnes was arrested and charged in the brutal stabbing death of 10-year-old Mitch Ziemer at a Pierce city park.

Barnes has pleaded innocent to the first-degree murder charge. His trial in the child's death is set for Dec. 8 in Pierce County Court in Pierce.

Mishap fatal

RANDOLPH, Neb. (AP)—A 47-year-old Randolph woman died Thursday in a farm accident as she baled, Cedar County sheriff's officials said Friday.

A statement from Sheriff Elliot Arnes said Florene Milander died of massive head injuries. Milander apparently was hauling bales when she fell off the tractor she was driving and was run over, he said.

The accident, 4 miles north of town, happened about 3:20 p.m., Arnes said.

cided on Missouri Southern, North Dakota, Mankato State and Pittsburg State but the vote was not unanimous according to WSC athletic director Pete Chapman.

"The committee members were unanimous on Missouri Southern, North Dakota and Mankato but it was not a unanimous pick for Pittsburg State," Chapman said. "I did not vote for them so we had to forward our picks as they were to the national committee and they chose Pittsburg State."

The NCAA-II assistant director of championships, Harley Lewis, said Wayne State's 9-1 record was outstanding but the loss suffered against Minnesota-Duluth forced the committee to examine other criteria which left the Wildcats out in the cold.

"The criteria we consider is the win-loss record firstly and most importantly," Lewis said. "Then, if there is closeness in that we look at strength of schedule and the win-loss records of the opponents and when we did that, it appeared that Wayne State's schedule was softer than Pittsburg State."

Lewis said the conference affiliation that WSC lacks is important because with a conference you have a set schedule and a consistent schedule and as an independent you don't.

"We had a tremendous season," Chapman said. "To actually say what it means to the athletic program at our institution, northeast Nebraska and the alumni of Wayne State is immeasurable. It's just a major boost for us."

Chapman said the accomplishments of this year's team can never be taken away despite not earning a berth in the playoffs. "This just takes us to another level," Chapman said. "It raises our expectations and I think our athletic teams will be looked on a little differently in the future."

One of the things that concerned locals all season was being the so-called new kid on the block in the region and how that would affect decision makers.

"No matter what people have said about our football team, good or bad they have done both."

Scott Otte

Wayne youth to receive Eagle honor

Scott Otte, son of Dennis and Kerry Otte, will be receiving his Eagle Scout Award at a ceremony on Monday evening, Nov. 29, in the basement of St. Paul's Church at 7 p.m. This is the highest award for Scouting.

Scott Otte started his scouting career in the fourth grade with Cub Scout Pack 221. He joined the Boy Scout Troop 174 in 1986. He has held the offices of Patrol Leader, Assistant Patrol Leader and Senior Patrol Leader.

During his scouting years, Scott has participated in the following troop trips: 1986, Grove Lake; 1987, Dead Timber State Park; 1987, Itasca State Park, Minn.; 1988, Grove Lake; 1988, Ben Delatour Scout Ranch, Colo.; 1989, Liska's Farm Campout; 1989, Ben Delatour Scout Ranch, Colo.; 1990, Charles L. Sommers Wilderness Canoe Base, Boundary Waters; 1990, Niobrara Canoe Trip; 1991, Packard High Adventure Camp, Colo.; and 1992, Philmont Scout Camp, New Mexico.

For his Eagle Scout Project, Scott organized and assisted his troop in helping with roadside cleanup along two miles of Highway 16. A special thank you to Harold Murray, county road superintendent, and Bonnie Otte.

Scott is a freshman at Wayne State College and a member of Redeemer Lutheran Church. High school activities he has participated in include varsity band, pep band, jazz band, boys golf, track manager and National Honor Society. He has also held the office of band president. He has been employed at the K-D Inn Motel.

Scott said he would like to thank present Scout Master Chuck Rutenbeck, past Scout Master Brent Pedersen, leaders, teachers, fellow scouts, friends and relatives who have helped and encouraged him on his path to becoming an Eagle Scout.

As no invitations will be sent, he is extending an open invitation to anyone and everyone who has touched his life.

We must do our share

U.S. Sen. Bob Kerrey led a bipartisan lawmakers group to propose a federal budget cutting plan last week that would pare $109 billion in spending over the next five years.

Following the criticism from Nebraskans (most of it deserved) he took over his support of the Clinton budget package we have been a little surprised at the response some of our fellow Husker conservatives have taken to the senator's new budget cutting ideas. "Whoa! We can't have this, it will cut federal spending on some of our favorite public trough benefits!" This was how many in the state responded to the lawmakers' cuts proposed for entitlement, discretionary and management costs.

Reorganizing federal agencies which might mean loss of agricultural program offices in some communities in the state; raising premiums for Medicare recipients making over $50,000 a year; proposed cuts in military and other agencies with locations in Nebraska, all are among the items on the Kerrey list for cuts that Nebraskans have howled about since he announced the proposal.

Some of the same people crying now were the ones who were rallying the opposition forces when Kerrey voted for a federal budget that concentrated too heavily on taxes and not enough on cutting in an effort to move toward deficit reduction.

"Many of these decisions were tough and many of the cuts they make ask sacrifice from recipients of federal programs," Kerrey said. He said the sacrifices should be shared by all, including Congress, which is targeted for $675 million of the $109 billion in total cuts.

The situation points to the difficulty we know lawmakers have in affecting any substantial move toward balancing the federal budget. Everybody wants it, but they want to see everyone else get a smaller piece of the pie while ours stays the same size or gets bigger.

It can't work until we are all willing to gulp and agree to the sacrifices that must be made in every sector and region of our nation to reduce the deficit.

Ditch diving practice

Mother Nature and state highway and safety officials teamed up to send Nebraska motorists a reminder about winter driving conditions Sunday and Monday of this week.

The slick conditions left by a late fall storm meant many drivers, lulled by a long summer of good driving conditions, were forced to practice their ditch diving techniques. The situation provided an opportunity for highway officials and safety officers to remind motorists that it is time to think winter when you get behind the wheel.

That means slowing down and being prepared for road emergencies.

It always seems to take one batch of bad weather (and a lot of ditch diving) to remind drivers about the need for caution on the roads, said Harold Murray with the State Highway Department.

Luckily, the reminder delivered by Mother Nature this week was not accompanied by any serious injuries in this area as a result of the numerous trips to the ditch.

Capitol News — Regents conduct a fair horse race

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — I'm not much of a horse racing fan but I know a fair race when I see one.

Those are the kind where all the horses leave the chute at the same time and get an equal chance to reach the finish line.

Plenty of folks were yelling "foul" when the University of Nebraska Board of Regents inserted Martin Massengale during the stretch drive of the race to pick a president of the NU system in 1990.

One senator called the Regents the "Hooterville City Council" for this.

After all, Massengale, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln chancellor at the time, wasn't among the announced candidates for the job.

When his surprise candidacy was made public, the other candidates, sniffing some home-cooking, dropped out.

Hmmm, what kind of horse race was that?

Well, four years later it appears that the Regents have run a fair contest to pick a new NU president.

L. Dennis Smith, a University of California at Irvine vice chancellor with roots in Indiana, was selected recently from among four finalists.

Smith was picked after an interview process with few surprises and no last-minute mystery candidates.

"I'm so pleased the process went so smoothly," said Gov. Nelson after the announcement was announced.

The governor was speaking for a lot of Nebraskans.

Universities, after all, are basically known for their reputation and standards. NU's image nationally wasn't helped by the tarnished selection of Massengale.

And the president's post in Nebraska has not presented a picture of stability lately.

People still speculate on the reasons Ronald Roskens was removed in 1989 — reasons the Regents never fully explained to the public.

Massengale announced his resignation early this year after it appeared a majority of Regents would not vote to renew his contract. There was more haze than sunshine on that decision, too.

The University and Regents, however, appear to have made a comeback in picking Smith for the $165,000-a-year job.

The selection was all above board. No surprises. No unexpected late entries.

And Smith pledged to work to quell rifts between the NU campuses in Lincoln, Omaha and Kearney.

The University systems has had its share of turf battles between the campuses and the central administration that Smith will preside over. "I believe in a team concept and I've already talked to the chancellors about working as a group," Smith told the Omaha World-Herald.

"They're as excited about that concept as I am," Smith said.

As far as I'm concerned, I was just as excited to see an NU president selected in a fair-and-square process.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Dear Editor:

Wayne citizens should read the fine print of all fundraising appeals before making a donation! As president of the American Heart Association, Wayne County Division, I am concerned that people are confusing Heart Support of America with the American Heart Association.

There is no connection. The American Heart Association has provided over $1 billion dollars for research since 1924 and has an audited financial statement. According to Heart Support of America's own literature: the group was founded in 1991, has no audited financial statement and spends 60 percent of its contributions on fundraising.

By comparison, the American Heart Association spends 14 percent on fundraising. Please make sure your donation goes to the intended agency.

'Memories'

Unlimited storehouse can be tapped

Noodlehead Acres

By

One of life's pleasures is the mind's recording studio. Since infancy your mind has been storing "memories". A healthy mind can then replay the data, for moments of pleasure.

Memories are sorted by sight, smell, taste, touch, sound, and feeling. An activity today may easily trigger a memory from yesteryear. But one can't buy a new set of old memories. They aren't for sale. Each person's memories are private. Even when individuals share the same event, each has differing perceptions. Perception is reality.

Here are a few memory lane starters.

SOUNDS: Wind chasing autumn cornstalks; the baby's first cry; bluejays quarreling in the trees; a train whistling in the distance; the first time your spouse said "I love you!"; children giggling; an owl hooting at the silence; rain on the window; and your favorite song on the radio.

SIGHTS: Moonbeams sparkling on midnight snow; a double rainbow in the shadow of a shower; watching a mother hen gather her brood under her wing; the golden glow of a lighted window; watching raindrops pirouette in a puddle; fireplace flames flickering on the wall; nature taking care of her own; newborn happiness on the face of a newborn; your child discovering joy; the flash of fire from a favorite diamond; the first time you met and your eyes chatted in code.

SMELLS: Perking coffee; the aroma of a ham and egg breakfast; an exotic perfume she wore just for you; newly cut hay; baking bread; the fragrance of flowers from friends.

TASTE: Buttered popcorn; country fried chicken; grilling steak on the patio; hot apple pie; butter garnishing fresh sweet corn; a tinkling glass of iced tea; Thanksgiving turkey and dressing; a mom-made sixteenth birthday cake; shared bites of your wedding cake; a glass of cold water.

TOUCH: Embracing loved ones at the airport; holding hands; a baby's soft skin; holding a purring kitten; shaking the hand of an interesting stranger; the shock of cold water in a shower; petting the new pup; feeling the fabric of new clothes.

FEELINGS: Spending your first paycheck; driving home in your new car; first date jitters; a telephone call from your best friend; watching a sunset; losing anything; being alone and feeling the Presence of God.

Lean back. Turn on the memory machine. Enjoy!

Call of the child

Parents know what each wail means

Bird watchers pride themselves on being able to discern the differences in bird calls. They know the subtle nuances of nuthatch's warning call and thrush's mating song.

Hunters have made a science out of reading the signals of turkey gobblers and being able to reproduce duck squawks accurately enough to bring greenheads flocking in rom miles around.

You may think these feats of signal identification are amazing, but I'm here to tell you they pale in comparison to the ability of the average parent to identify the exact cause and nature of emergency when their child wails.

One scream can speak volumes.

There's a big difference between the two year old's "They done me wrong" cry and the four year old's "I scrapped my knee but I want you to think I'm dying" cry.

Astute parents not only can tell which one of their children it is that is crying without seeing them, but they know, with clarity, the precise nature of the complaint.

They know the difference between the "these pants are wet but please don't make me sit on that potty," weep and the "I'm tired and my sister just looked at me funny" sob.

Mann Overboard

By Les Mann

But, what is really amazing is when you watching a gathering of parents who have turned their kids out to play together.

There may be three hundred kids and when one screams, the parents know immediately whether it was their youngin' or not.

Non-parents (even grandparents who have lost their touch) in the group will get distressed at the slightest angry wail from a group of three-year-olds, none of which they are intimately familiar with.

"Are you sure little Johnny isn't hurt? They may ask thinking the parents are vile misfits for not jumping immediately to administer emergency medical attention.

"No," the mother will say matter-of-factly without bothering to look.

"Someone just took something that he wanted," she explains tiredly.

As if on cue, Little Johnny bursts into the room with a "they done me wrong," howl and announces that Suzy has his ball and won't give it back.

"How did you know?" someone will ask the mother later. She'll fix them with a sagely gaze and explain that her ear-gets tuned after hearing and interpreting the different signals hundreds of times a day.

All it takes is practice.

That's why sometimes you see parents act so nonchalant when their child bellows from the next room. And other times you'll see them jump and run with the wide-eyed panic of a parent on a walk-through-walls rescue mission.

Believe me, you can tell a "stitches and broken bones" squall from a "sticker in my bare toe" bawl.

Bird watchers have nothing on parents.

Linn-Parsons united in double ring ceremony

Jeaneane Linn, Lincoln, and David Parsons, Pine Bluffs, Wyo. were married Sept. 11 in an afternoon double ring ceremony at Berean Church in Lincoln.

The bride is the daughter of Edward and Ardyce Linn, Laurel. The groom is the son of J. William and Doris Parsons, Pine Bluff, Wyo.

The Rev. Dr. Warren Wiersbe, Lincoln, officiated. Vocalists were Steve Linn, Ames, Iowa; Alan Jackson, Lincoln and Chris Thomas, Lincoln. They were accompanied by organist Ruth Alms and pianist Joy Jacobs, both of Lincoln.

Musical numbers were "He Has Chosen You for Me", "Household of Faith", "Thy Will Be Done", and "O Magnify the Lord."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown with fitted bodice of embroidered Schiffli lace adorned with shimmering pearls and sequins. The lace formed a high wedding band collar and sculptured around an open keyhole illusion. Her satin sleeves were leg-o-mutton style and were enhanced with lace cutouts beaded with pearls and sequins. A satin bow with dangling pearls accented the sleeves. Her back bodice featured double open keyholes with dangling pearls.

The dress had a dropped Basque waistline and gathered skirt decorated with beaded embroidered Schiffli lace motifs. An extended cathedral length train was decorated with cascading scallops, tiny bows and lace.

She also wore crown decorated with bows and pearls and a waist length veil. The bride's bouquet was pink-roses with baby's breath.

Mr. and Mrs. David Parsons

Maid of honor was Ramona Kruse, Lincoln. Bridesmaid was Karen Willingham, Denver. They wore taffeta, tea length, fuchsia dresses.

Flower girl was Elisa Willingham, Denver. Candelighters were Doug Willingham, Denver and Solomon Adams, Springview, Neb. Mark Willingham was ring bearer.

Best man was Dan Parsons, Denver and groomsman was Brent Linn, Sioux City. The men wore black with fuchsia bow ties and cummerbunds and the groom was dressed in all white with tails.

A reception was held after the ceremony. It was hosted by Dale and Jeannice Erwin, Sioux City and was attended by 250.

After a wedding trip to Yellowstone, the couple is at home in Pine Bluffs where the groom is employed at Rural Electric Company as a purchasing agent.

Just a Sore Throat?

Sore throats are painful at worst and inconvenient at best. Often they are just a symptom of the common cold, but perhaps they are the indication of a more serious problem. Treating the sore throat itself is usually limited to using an anesthetic spray or lozenge to help relieve the discomfort. If the sore throat persists for more than seven days, check with your physician. Sore throats in children should be evaluated by a physician as soon as possible.

Harold Hargens had cataracts.

He had "No-Stitch" Cataract Surgery.

"I couldn't see out of one eye as good as the other. I didn't know what it was. As the days went by it kept getting worse. My doctor told me I had a cataract and sent me over to Dr. Feidler's office. My left eye was worse than my right eye. It got so bad that I couldn't see much out of it. So Dr. Feidler operated on it. He put an intraocular lens in there so I could see better, and now I have 20/20 vision (in that eye). That was about 3 years ago. Last year he operated on the right eye. Now I have 20/20 vision in both eyes.

One thing about it, there is virtually no pain at all. There is nothing to be afraid of when you go for your operation. Just a matter of a few minutes and it's over with. I went home about 2 hours after the operation. Now I can read the license plate numbers on cars from quite a distance. I couldn't do that before. Now I can."

Heavenly season ends with Hail Mary

By Kevin Peterson
Sports editor

The dream of an undefeated foot-

WAYNE STATE coaches Dennis Wagner, kneeling and Mark Gritton, standing along with two other unidentified coaches watch as WSC attempts to finish the season unbeaten at the Metrodome in Minneapolis.

DOUG ROSE bowled a perfect game, recently at Melodee Lanes. It was Rose's third 300 of his career and the first at Melodee Lanes since 1988. Those witnessing the event on the Wayne Herald team were Dave Claussen, Les Keenan, Lonnie Mathes and Kevin Peterson. The team that Rose rolled 300 against was Stadium Sports with Gaylen Woodward, Rick Gathje, John Johnson, Dave Nicholson and Mick Kemp.

ball season and a berth in the NCAA-II post season playoffs died in Minneapolis, Saturday night as the Wayne State Wildcats lost a heart breaking 29-28 decision to Minnesota-Duluth on the wings of a hail mary pass that went for a touchdown with 27 seconds left in regulation.

The game was played in the Metrodome, home of the Minnesota Vikings and was part of the Metrodome Classic, the 10th Annual Metrodome Classic. Minnesota-Duluth has played in all 10 of these classics and have never lost in the dome.

Saturday, however, should have been their first defeat. WSC was dealt several obstacles and they still nearly overcame them all to win the game. The Wildcats suffered eight turnovers, 13 penalties for 115 yards and had one of their best offensive linemen ejected from the game on the third play in the first quarter for protecting himself from being slugged by a Bulldog defensive lineman.

Still, the game came down to the final seconds as Minnesota-Duluth faced a fourth down and 12 on the Wildcats 35-yard line with just 37 seconds left in the game.

The Bulldogs quarterback rolled to his right and couldn't find anyone open. He kept scrambling while the Wildcats pressure remained fierce. Finally, he just launched the ball toward the endzone and hit his receiver in the far corner opposite of where he threw the ball.

"The receiver made a great catch," WSC offensive coordinator Keith Simons said. "Maurice Arrington was on the coverage and there is no way he could have been covered any better."

The 'Cats got the ball back on the ensuing kickoff and proceeded to move the ball down field but time expired on the 'Cats hopes of a last second win, thus ending their season at 9-1.

"We feel if we would have had another 20 seconds we would have won the game," Simons said. "There is no doubts in the players and coaches minds about that."

Wayne State took a 14-3 lead over the Bulldogs after one quarter of play despite falling behind early. Lamont Rainey sprinted into the endzone on an 11-yard touchdown run and Ossie Santos caught a 40-yard pass from Brett Salisbury for the second score.

The 'Cats were shut out in the second quarter on the scoreboard and Minnesota-Duluth cut the gap to four at the intermission at 14-10. WSC was hurting themselves with turnovers and penalties which proved costly.

Of the eight turnovers, two came on special teams including a fumbled punt and a fumbled kickoff. Three came via interceptions and all three were tipped balls. The other three were fumbled on running plays.

Rainey scored his second touchdown of the game at the 6:14 mark of the third quarter on a 28-yard run which allowed WSC to regain the lead at 20-19. The 'Cats went for the two-point conversion but failed. Duluth came right back and kicked a field goal for a 22-20 lead before Salisbury connected with Jerry Garrett on a 13-yard touchdown pass for the lead with just 2:29 left on the clock.

This time the two-point was successful as Salisbury and Chamberlain hooked up again forcing Duluth to win the game by scoring a touchdown and converting the point after.

The final drive for the Bulldogs consumed 71 yards in just over two minutes. They converted two, fourth down plays in the drive, the first a fourth and six from the 'Cats 44-yard line that went for nine yards and the second a fourth and 13 from the 'Cats 35-yard line with 37 seconds left which went for a touchdown.

"The outcome was a major disappointment," Simons said. "We had our chances and Minnesota-Duluth is a team we should have beat."

Simons said he felt the offense played a little tight during the game. "I think our kids started realizing that we had to win this game to get into the playoffs," Simons said. "Duluth did exactly what we thought they would on defense but when you have eight turnovers, it's very hard to win."

Simons said the team is hurting right now but as time goes by, they will realize just how great this season was for Wayne State. "Our players and coaches can hold their heads high for what we accomplished this year," Simons said. "We had a great season."

Salisbury was 36-51 in passing with three interceptions and 385 yards and two touchdowns. Chamberlain was the leading receiver with 10 catches for 82 yards while Damon Thomas had nine for 79. Jerry Garrett caught eight balls for 102 yards.

Rainey was the leading ground gainer with 88 yards on 14 carries and Jason Williams rushed for 68 yards on eight attempts.

Defensively, WSC was led by Jon Adkisson with 17 tackles and a blocked punt while Brad Ottis closed out his collegiate career with 12. Robert McConico was in double figures in tackles with 10 and Bernie Muller had eight and an interception.

Bill Federson had eight with an interception and Adonice Nunn finished with eight tackles while Sean Francisco had seven. Mike Wilson, Jeff Leo and Jason McIntyre each had six tackles and Maurice Arrington had five.

LOOKING AT the season from a statistical viewpoint, Rainey rushed for 1034 yards while Jason BRAD OTTIS finished the season as the leading sacker for the WSC defense with 14. He was also the second leading tackler on the team with 84 tackles.

Williams gained 743. In receiving, Damon Thomas and Byron Chamberlain were both over 1000 yards with Thomas gaining 1162 and Chamberlain, 1015. Jerry Garrett had 813 receiving yards but finished first in all purpose yards with 1389.

All purpose yards include punt returns, kickoff returns, rushing and pass receiving. Garrett finished the year as the nation's top punt returned with a 19.2 yard per return average.

Thomas finished with 1331 all purpose yards and Chamberlain had 1173 while Rainey was the fourth individual over 1000 all purpose yards with 1171.

Salisbury finished a phenomenal season from his quarterback position. He finished with 3732 total yards with 29 touchdown passes and three rushing touchdowns.

Defensively, Jon Adkisson paced the 'Cats with 104 tackles in 10 games while Brad Ottis had 84 including 14 quarterback sacks and 27 total tackles for losses. Bill Federson had six quarterback sacks. Jason McIntyre finished with 66 tackles and Sean Francisco had 57.

First 300 at Melodee Lanes since 1988

Doug Rose bowls perfect game

By Kevin Peterson
Sports editor

Wayne bowler Doug Rose rolled a perfect game at Melodee Lanes, recently—the first perfect game at the establishment of Val and Adeline Kienast since February of 1988, when Rose did the honors on that night as well.

Rose, co-owner of Tom's Body Shop in Wayne with his brother

Dan and father Tom, said it was his third perfect game and second sanctioned 300. "I had a 300 in intramurals while in college at Wayne State, but it was not sanctioned," Rose said.

Rose was bowling in the City League on Tuesday night when he accomplished the feat with the Wayne Herald Bowling Team. He rolled it on the third game of the three-game set after sub-par performances in the first two games.

"In the first two games I struggled some," Rose said. "In fact, I had told one of the members of my team towards the middle of the second game that I thought I needed a week off from bowling because I felt I had lost some consistency and rhythm."

There didn't appear to be a lack of consistency or rhythm, however, in the third game as the first 11 balls thrown by Rose were dead solid perfect in the pocket and buried.

Then came the 12th and final throw. "I really didn't get nervous until the last ball," Rose said.

"That was probably a mixture of being this close to a 300 and the fact I was the only one bowling in the whole place because everyone else was either done or had quit to come watch."

As Rose stepped up to the approach line, there were approximately 50 people who had gathered around to witness what nearly everyone felt would be a perfect game.

"The only thing I was thinking on the approach was to hit my mark and if I missed my mark to miss it wide so it would give the ball a chance to break back for more pin action," Rose said. "Well, I missed my mark and I did miss it wide."

When Rose threw the ball he slumped over as if he had missed because he felt he had thrown it too wide, but the ball did break back and hit the pocket light, allowing for the pin action he anticipated. The last pin to fall was the seven pin. Rose was throwing a burgandy Hammer which was less than a year old. He will receive a stadium ring from the American Bowling Congress for his feat as well as an engraved plaque.

Winside volleyball team falls to state champions once again

CHRIS COLWELL attempts to spike the ball during first round action of the Nebraska State Volleyball Tournament last Friday in Lincoln. Winside lost to Johnson-Brock in the first round. It was the third time in four years that the Wildcats fell to the eventual state champs in round one.

By Kevin Peterson
Sports editor

The Winside volleyball team closed out their season in the first round of the Nebraska State Volleyball Tournament, last Friday with an exciting, yet disappointing setback to the eventual state champions in Class C-2, Johnson-Brock, 7-15, 15-13, 14-16.

Second-year coach Angie Schroeder watched as her team struggled some in the first game as Johnson-Brock built a 10-3 lead and never looked back. The Wildcats cut the gap to 13-7 but could not draw any closer.

"We just came out slow in that first game," Schroeder said. "We missed some serves and didn't pass real well. There was some lack of communication but I thought we rebounded very well in the second game."

The lead went back and forth the whole second game and Winside actually trailed 12-9 and 13-11 before rallying to score the next four points to win the game.

The most disappointing game for Winside and Schroeder was game three where the Wildcats all but had the game won, before Johnson-Brock stole the thunder with a 16-14 win.

Winside led 8-3 but fell victim to nine unanswered points from Johnson-Brock to trail 8-12. The Wildcats, however, didn't fold and scored the game's next six points and was serving at match point with a 14-12 lead.

Johnson-Brock didn't fold either as they ended scoring the game's final four points for the match and the advancement into the semifinals where they defeated Deshler. In the championship they defeated Indiana-Republican Valley who had defeated number one Callaway in the semifinals and in the process snapped a 69-match win streak by the Lady Bears that spanned three years.

"Johnson-Brock had a big team," Schroeder said. "I think we were a little intimidated by that. They hit the ball hard but I was proud of our girls for getting a lot of blocks on them."

Christi Mundil had 15 total blocks with six aces and Stacy Bowers had 10 blocks with three aces. Sophomore Wendy Miller was the leading scorer for the Wildcats with 12 while Catherine Bussey had eight and Chris Colwell, seven.

Mundil finished with four and Kari Pichler netted three while Bowers scored two. Bussey was 20-20 in serving with six aces and Miller was 15-17 with six aces while Mundil was 10-10. Bowers was 7-10 with two aces and Colwell was 8-10 with one ace while Pichler was 7-9 with one ace.

Pichler was 37-39 in setting with 15 aces and Bowers was 41-47 with a dozen assists. Miller was 19-24 in hitting with 12 kill spikes and Bussey was 22-23 with seven kills while Mundil was 14-16 with three ace hits.

Mundil led the team in digs with 17 while Bussey and Miller had 15 apiece. Pichler finished with 12 digs and Bowers had 11 while Colwell finished with 10.

Winside ended the year with a 19-5 record and the number six rating in the Omaha World-Herald. Wakefield—the team Winside beat in the district championship, finished eighth in the rankings.

Despite the fact Winside has lost in the first round of all four state tournament appearances, the consolation lies in the fact three of the four losses were to the eventual state champions.

WINSIDE HEAD coach Angie Schroeder gives instructions to her team during a timeout. The Wildcats finished the season with a 19-5 record and a number six rating.

All-Conference selections announced

WAYNE—Several Wayne Herald area athletes were bestowed the honor of making their respective All-Conference teams, recently. Wayne had seven named to the first team in the Northern Activities Conference (NAC) including Matt Blomenkamp, Josh Starzl, Jeff Hamer and Jason Carr on offense and Matt Robins, Jason Wehrer and Dusty Jensen on defense. Mike Williams, Kelly Meyer, Andy Metz and Jason Starzl all earned honorable mention status.

In eight-man football, Winside's Jeff Bruggeman and Brady Frahm were first-team selections in the Clark Division of the Lewis & Clark Conference while Benji Wittler and Jaimey Holdorf were honorable mention picks.

In the Lewis Division, Allen's Casey Schroeder and Steve Sullivan were named to the first team while Curtis Oswald and Jay Jackson were selected as honorable mention.

In the 11-man division of the Lewis & Clark Conference, Wakefield's Ryan Ekberg, Dave Jensen, Cory Brown and Craig Anderson were first team picks while Cody Skinner, Matt Kucera and Miah Johnson were honorable mention.

Turning to the NENAC Conference picks, Laurel's Cody Carstensen, Jeff Watier, Jarod Reinoehl and Jeremy Reinoehl were first team selections while honorable mention status was earned by Todd Arens, Dustin Ankeny, Tyler Erwin and Randy Quist.

In volleyball, Wayne's Jenny Thompson was named to the first team of the NAC while Carrie Fink was named honorable mention. Winside's Kari Pichler and Catherine Bussey were named to the first team of the Clark Division while Christi Mundil and Stacy Bowers were listed as honorable mention. Wakefield's Kathy Otte, Maria Eaton, Mary Torczon and Kali Baker were all first-team picks in the Clark Division.

In the Lewis Division it was Allen's Steph Martinson and Steph Chase earning first team status while Dawn Diediker was named honorable mention. In the NENAC, Samantha Felber was a first-team selection while Kris Stark and Kari Kraemer were listed as second team selections.

Chapman said, "our name is still getting out and people are beginning to recognize us."

Chapman said his only concern with the selection committee in the Region was only one of the members even got to see WSC play and that was NDSU's Robert Entz in the Metrodome game. "How we can be judged for what kind of team we have despite not ever getting to see us play is really beyond me," Chapman said.

EPA prepares to exclude ethanol

The expansion of Nebraska's ethanol market could be jeopardized unless President Clinton allows ethanol to be sold in high smog cities affected by the reformulated gasoline (RFG) program of the Clean Air Act.

According to the president of the Nebraska Corn Growers Association (NeCGA), it appears that the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is preparing to exclude ethanol from competing in the new reformulated gasoline market, despite President Clinton's commitment to ethanol during the presidential campaign.

"Nebraska farmers and other ethanol supporters in Nebraska need to be aware of how this important issue is shaping up in Washington," said NeCGA President Andy Jensen of Aurora. "Petroleum interests continue to lobby against ethanol and the EPA continues to reject all science that demonstrates ethanol's environmental benefits. It's time for the President to personally resolve this issue and make good on his campaign commitment to ethanol."

Jensen said NeCGA petitions bearing the signatures of over 3,000 Nebraskans who support a role for ethanol in the RFG program are being mailed this week to the White House. NeCGA members distributed the petitions at agribusinesses throughout Nebraska and at Husker Harvest Days in Grand Island. NeCGA has also called on its membership to personally write to President Clinton asking him to help resolve the issue.

Jensen is urging other ethanol supporters in Nebraska to contact the President with a similar message in support of ethanol. "President Clinton must hear from Nebraskans so that he knows we consider this one of the most important issues in rural America today. All of the calls and letters in the past on behalf of ethanol have definitely paid off. Now we need one more push from Nebraskans to finalize ethanol's role in the RFG program."

LaMoine Smith of Minden, chairman of the Nebraska Corn Board, joins Jensen in urging Nebraskans to contact the President in support of the unrestricted use of ethanol in the Clean Air Act.

"It's estimated that the total amount of gasoline affected by the RFG program could reach 50-70 billion gallons. If ethanol is unfairly locked out of this program, the oil industry's MTBE will enjoy a virtual monopoly in the oxygenated gasoline market," Smith said.

According to Smith, studies show the demand for corn to make ethanol could more than double. With ethanol involved in the RFG program, the added demand could boost prices an additional 15-25 cents.

Smith said Nebraskans wishing to voice their support for ethanol should call President Clinton immediately since the administration is currently reviewing the rules that EPA is proposing. The White House switch board is 202-456-1111.

The Nebraska Corn Growers Association has over 3,000 members throughout Nebraska. NeCGA is one of 23 state affiliates of the National Corn Growers Association.

The Nebraska Corn Board administers the one-fourth of a cent per bushel checkoff on corn. The money is invested in programs of market development.

New cookbook funded by Wayne County cattle producers

"Skinny Beef," a cookbook for the 90's cook, is liberally sprinkled with nutrition information, cooking and food safety tips and other helpful hints. Funded with beef checkoff dollars invested by cattle producers in Wayne County and from throughout the nation, "Skinny Beef" features more than 100 beef recipes that demonstrate how today's leaner beef fits into a healthy lifestyle.

"The majority of beef recipes found in the cookbook are quick, easy and perfect for everyday family meals," says Mardy Carlson, Coordinator, Consumer Relations of the Nebraska Beef Council. "Also included are a number of fabulous recipes ideal for entertaining."

The cookbook teaches consumers to make nutritious one-dish meals that combine beef with grains such as rice and pasta, as well as with vegetables and fruit. Whenever possible, recipes also include time-saving, high-quality prepared foods. "The beef industry realizes how important convenience is to today's consumer," notes Carlson. "For this reason, more than 75 of the recipes in 'Skinny Beef' can be prepared and served in 30 minutes or less."

The authors of the cookbook, Marlys Bielunski, C.H.E.; Susan Lamb Parenti, C.H.E.; and Irene Yeh, R.D., share over 50 years of combined experience and have developed thousands of recipes during their careers. In addition, they encounter the same everyday dinner-time dilemmas faced by many consumers, as all three work full-time and have families.

A main selection of the Better Homes and Gardens Book Club, "Skinny Beef" can be purchased from major bookstores nationwide or by phone from the publisher (Surrey Books) at 1-800-326-4430. "Cattle producers in Wayne County and from throughout the nation are committed to providing consumers with new recipe ideas; the latest nutrition information, safe food handling advice and easy ways to prepare quick and delicious beef meals," said Carlson. "The cookbook provides a contemporary approach to food preparation and presents wonderful new ways to prepare beef, which is truly an American favorite."

Each time cattle are sold, producers contribute to the checkoff, a $1-per-head investment used to fund development of promotion, education and research programs designed to build demand for beef. "Skinny Beef" results from the beef industry's food communicators program, which focuses on providing consumers with new beef recipes specially developed to compliment today's fast-paced and healthy lifestyles.

Responsible sustainable agriculture balances nature

LINCOLN — John Ikerd likens sustainable agriculture to a four-legged table full of food and the quality of life. The legs represent environmental soundness, resource conservation, productivity and profitability.

All four legs must be raised at the same time or the table will tip and the food and quality of life will slide off, Ikerd said.

Ikerd is the assistant director of the federal Sustainable Agriculture Research and Extension (SARE) program, as well as an agricultural economics professor at the University of Missouri in Columbia. He was a guest lecturer at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Nov. 3-4.

Agriculture by its intrinsic nature interferes with nature by tipping the ecological balance, Ikerd said. Any one thing that humans do has repercussions.

Humans have the philosophical right to tip the balance in their favor, Ikerd said. Humans also have a responsibility to prevent that tipping from occurring far too fast.

Conventional farming may be an example of that happening. It has been criticized for its focus on increasing production and continuous cropping. Repeated use of fertilizers and pesticides can decrease soil productivity, increase erosion, and cause chemicals to leach into the groundwater.

Sustainable agriculture practices help balance the table, Ikerd said. It's a system capable of maintaining its productivity and usefulness to society indefinitely.

Therein lies the paradox. "It would take forever to complete the experiment," Ikerd said.

Sustainable agriculture encompasses practices such as crop rotation, fewer and more timely chemical applications, and certain tillage and pest control methods. However, each practice isn't interchangeable on every farm, Ikerd noted. Individual farmers know their land best.

Some say it takes five years to learn HOW to farm; Ikerd's claim is it takes five years to learn THE farm.

Sustainable practices don't necessarily mean reduced yields. Ikerd cites a study from Iowa, where there is a groundwater protection law.

From 1985-1992 Iowa farmers reduced nitrogen fertilizer use nearly 19 percent, from 145 pounds per acre to 118 pounds per acre. Throughout this time, yields were maintained, and in 1992 yields were 145 bushel per acre — an all-time record.

"It was done by better nutrient management," Ikerd said, adding that he believes the corn is getting as much nitrogen as before — less is being wasted.

In addition, he said Iowa farmers saved an estimated $80-89 million during 1989-90 through better fertilizer management.

Contrary to popular opinion, Ikerd said that changes in farm productivity have little impact on consumers because less than 10 percent of the amount consumers spend on food is affected by productivity of farmers. This means that a 10 percent increase or decrease in farm productivity means a 1 percent change in food costs to consumers.

Sustainable agriculture is just one part of global environmental consciousness, Ikerd noted, adding that industry has been environmentally regulated for years. Yet, he said regulation and conflict between farmers and the public are undesirable in reaching a goal — especially for the 2 percent of the nation's farming population who need time to make changes.

Ikerd's visit was sponsored by the UNL Center for Sustainable Agricultural Systems and the Department of Forestry, Fisheries and Wildlife in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Videotapes of Ikerd's discussions will be available from the Center for Sustainable Agriculture Systems, 221 Keim Hall, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, NE, 68583-0949; phone 402/472-2056.

Kent Feeds holds school

Brian Frevert of Wayne Agri Center, Wayne, recently attended a feeding and management school at the headquarters of Kent Feeds Inc. in Muscatine, Iowa.

The school was for employees of businesses that sell Kent feeds and animal care products and was designed to help them better serve their livestock producer customers.

Nearly 200 people attended sessions taught by members of the Kent nutrition, training, advertising, marketing, animal care and production departments. A wide variety of subjects were covered at the school, ranging from basic nutrition to methods of merchandising and grind-and-mix practices. There were also tours of the company's 650-acre research farm located near Muscatine, the training and advertising departments at Kent Feeds' headquarters, and Grain Processing Corporation, a sister company of Kent Feeds, Inc.

4-H News

SPRINGBRANCH 4-H CLUB

Springbranch 4-H Club members met on Nov. 7 beginning at 2 p.m. in the Trinity Fellowship Hall basement. There were 30 members present.

The meeting was held for presentation of 4-H awards to members and election of officers. The officers returned record books to the members and members were recognized for awards achieved in 4-H the past year.

Discussion was held on community service work through the "Adopt A Highway" program and "Toys For Tots." Stocking stuffers will be bought and donated for the "Toys For Tots" program and Becky Appel will obtain more information on the highway project.

New officers elected were Becky Appel, president; Nichole Deck, vice president; Rachel Deck, secretary; Belinda Appel, treasurer; and Emily Deck, news reporter.

Demonstrations were given by Nichole, Amanda and Samantha Deck and Shawn and Adam Wade.

Refreshments were served by Cromwells, Nathans and Passaykas.

The next meeting is scheduled for Jan. 9, 1994 beginning at 2 p.m. at Trinity's Fellowship Hall. Emily Deck, news reporter.

NEW HOLIDAY LOOK

The Community Club and the City of Wakefield have ordered new Christmas decorations for the main intersection. Facing traffic coming up Third Street from the highway will be a 40-foot gold garland "Peace" greeting and two Bethlehem angels. Across the other intersections will be complimenting lighted garland.

The decoration committee is also working on construction of an old-fashioned street lantern for the intersection. Estimated cost of the project is $4,500.

Both the Community Club and the city have committed funds for the project and are also seeking donations to help pay for the decorations. Anyone who would like to contribute to the project may leave their donation at the Wakefield National Bank or at the City Clerk's office with administrator Lowell

Johnson. Don Kuhl is Community Club president and both men are members of the planning committee.

BLOOD BANK

James Nicholson became a nine-gallon blood donor with his contribution on Nov. 3 at the Wakefield Legion Hall for the Siouland Blood Bank. There were 48 individuals who volunteered, with 47 pints collected.

With her contribution, Jean Fischer became a three-gallon donor. First time donors included Peggy Gustafson, Joyce Hattig of Wayne, Mary Lueth, Larry Hangman, Don Lemley and Jennie Lunz.

Wakefield donors included Norma Addink, Teresa Albrecht, Michael Anderson, Willard Bartels, Dawn Bell, Lois Berns, James Bierbower, Donna Boeckenhauer, Donna Frevert, Harley Greve, Mary Henderson, Terry Henderson, Bonnie Hoffman, George Holm, Mardell Holm, David Jensen, Jeremiah Johnson, Bonnie Kai, Marian Keagle, Connie Krueger, Ron-Krusemark, Norman Mimola, Gerald Muller, Terry Nicholson, Sanford Otte, Paul Park, Darrel Piper, Michael Salmon, Merlin Schulz, Weldon Schwarten, Greg Simpson, Kathy Skinner, Larry Soderberg, Eugene Swanson, Ken Thomsen, Darlene Viken, Ronald Wenstrand and Connie Witt.

Others contributing were Gary Bennett of Ponca, Helen Lundin of Allen and Sarah Wakefield of Underwood, Iowa.

SEEKING DONATIONS

The Wakefield Lions Club is now accepting donations for its 10th annual Christmas project. The project provides food, clothing and toys for the less fortunate at Christmas.

The items are delivered a day or two before Christmas. In 1992, 15 families received grocery boxes and 50 children were presented with new toys.

This year the club is particularly in need of cash donations. They should sent to Legion's treasurer Larry Clay. Donations of used clothing and toys should be left at 407 Main Street, next to the city clerk's office. The articles should be clean and in good condition.

Anyone with questions about the project may contact any Lions Club member. Also being collected are used eyeglasses. They may be left with Berneal Gustafson, the Republican or Lefty Olson.

ADULT BASKETBALL

Again this year the Wakefield school gym will be open for adult basketball. Participation is limited to residents of the school district and Wakefield high school alumni.

Sessions will be on Wednesday evenings and Sunday afternoons. Cost will be $15 for a season or a dollar a session. The season will run from Nov. 24 through mid-March.

Anyone with questions about the program should contact A.J. Johnson.

HOSTS SUPPER

American Legion Auxiliary Post 81 hosted a supper for 22 veterans from the Norfolk Veteran's Home at the Legion Hall on Oct. 26. Sharon Salmon, president, welcomed the group.

Duane Tappe, vice-commander of the Legion, was also in attendance. Prayer was offered by Famy Johnson, chaplain.

Following the meal, bingo was played.

WSC TUTOR

Chris Woods of Wakefield is currently serving at a peer tutor with the Wayne State College Learning Center.

Woods, a graduate of Wakefield High School, is majoring in management, marketing and economics at WSC. She is active in cheerleading, W-Club and the Cardinal Key honor society. She is also a presidential scholar athlete and a member of the Dean's list. She is the daughter of Rosalind Woods.

persons who have never smoked.

Studies have shown that quitting smoking decreases the risk of lung cancer and other cancers, heart disease, stroke, chronic lung diseases and respiratory illnesses.

against him by the State and we continued that belief throughout the duration."

Assistant State Attorney General James Spears, who was called on to assist Wayne County Attorney Michael Pieper said he was disappointed in the outcome. "The jury must have felt Sterba was justified in the amount of force he used and as the prosecution, we felt he was not justified using that amount of force," Spears said.

Spears said he feels very sorry for the Jones family who have lost both their parents in the past few years and now a brother. Pieper echoed Spears remarks on the amount of force Sterba used in attempting to protect his friend Jerry Kleidosty.

"My only comment is, I obviously don't agree with the jury's verdict but I respect their decision," Pieper said.

Sterba will resume his substitute teaching duties and coaching in Omaha immediately.

who try to abstain as part of the Great Smokeout:

- Get rid of all cigarettes, ashtrays, matches and lighters.

- Chew on carrots, celery sticks or sugarless gum.

- Keep your hands busy by writing a letter, doing a crossword puzzle, sewing, anything active.

- Keep your mind busy by planning your entire day. Changing your routine can help you avoid the habit of smoking.

- Drink lots of water, juice and caffeine-free soft drinks.

- Go for a brisk walk.

- Hold a pencil in your hand when talking on the phone.

- Find a friend who will support you in your effort to quit. Surveys have shown that the support of family members and co-workers is very important.

- Reward yourself for abstaining from smoking. Go out to dinner, a movie, shopping or whatever it is that makes you feel good.

A national poll indicates that almost two-thirds of smokers say they would like to quit. Each year about 1.3 million smokers quit successfully.

Smokers who have tried to quit and failed should try again, Dr. Horton said, because smokers often try more than once before they succeed.

For information about smoking cessation, contact Judy Ashley in the Division of Health Promotion and Education at the Department of Health, 471-2101.
