

A lot of love

Elaine Menke of Wayne misses rocking her own grandchildren, since the youngest is eight, so she volunteers to help with the baby rocking duties at Rainbow World Day Care Center. Her efforts were much enjoyed by 4 week old Emily Nelson when they were photographed on Valentines Day. The day care center welcomes volunteers interested in helping spread a little love around with a variety of activities such as reading to youngsters, leading games or helping in other areas.

Citizen of the Year

Quiet promoter Berglund honored

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

Wayne's Citizen of the Year for 1993 was described as a quiet individual with a strong ability to get things done, but when his name was announced as the recipient of the coveted honor, Ken Berglund said later he was too quiet.

"I didn't know what to say," said the surprised community leader.

Berglund was honored at the annual Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce banquet Sunday evening at Riley's.

"Rarely does he raise his voice or announce his presence," said Jane O'Leary, winner of the 1991 Citizen of the Year Honor. She presented the award to Berglund. "He is a person with ideas as well as a person who pitches in and does the hard work as well."

The long-time telephone company executive for USWest said he was completely surprised by the honor.

"Everything I have done in the community has been with the help of someone else," Berglund told the audience of nearly 200 who attended the banquet. He especially thanked his wife, Ruth, for her support and assistance.

"I'm just lucky to be able to associate with you people and to be in a community like Wayne," he said.

The Berglunds have been in Wayne for 15 years, "long enough to start looking at the town as our hometown," he said. Prior to Wayne they made O'Neill home. There Ken advanced to service supervisor after starting his career in 1951 as a laborer on a line crew. In Wayne, Berglund was promoted to area manager before his retirement in 1990.

Two of Wayne's top citizens were on the stage at the Chamber of Commerce Annual Banquet Sunday evening. Ken Berglund was presented with the 1993 Citizen of the Year award by Jane O'Leary, 1991 winner.

Even after retiring, he has worked as a community liaison, providing Wayne with many benefits from USWest.

Community service work performed by Berglund has most recently included formation of a Northeast Nebraska Development Committee to expand economic development to a regional concept with neighboring communities.

He is the immediate past president of Wayne Industries and a past president of the Wayne Ambassadors. He is also past president of the Wayne Kiwanis Club.

"Our citizen of the year can be seen driving floats for the Wayne Ambassadors, parking cars for a circus, painting buildings at the country club, planting and weeding trees for Pheasants Forever projects, answering phones for Nebraska Public Television, organizing golf tournament and participating in policy-making meetings for any numbers of the various organization in which he is active," said Mrs. O'Leary.

Berglund has also been active in the American Legion and VFW and the Telephone Pioneers.

Berglund has kept up his community service work through a bout with cancer in recent years and is currently undergoing more testing and possible treatment for a potential recurrence of the disease.

He and Ruth are the parents of two daughters and three sons.

Chamber leadership changes

The mantle of leadership was officially passed at the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce annual banquet Sunday night.

Nancy Endicott, outgoing president of the organization passed the gavel to new president Chris King.

In addition, the resignation of executive vice president Curt Wilwerding was also recognized at the annual meeting. A search committee is currently conducting interviews for replacements for the Chamber post.

Incoming president Chris King recognized all the work put into making 1993 a "very successful year for the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce." He honored the leadership and committee heads and said there were many challenging opportunities ahead for this year.

In his farewell address, Wilwerding said his three years as executive vice-president has convinced him of the importance and worth of a Chamber of Commerce. He especially thanked his executive assistant, Nancy Schultz for her help during his tenure.

He will be remaining in Wayne, he said because he likes the community so much.

Wayne Guard unit survives cuts

The Wayne National Guard unit dodged a bullet last week when the Nebraska Army National Guard announced its plans for down-sizing the state's force reduction plans.

Units in 15 Nebraska communities are being deactivated in the next four years, but Wayne's combat arms unit is not one of them.

The changes, announced by Maj. Gen. Stanley Heng, Nebraska's Adjutant General, are part of the general cut-back of the defense budget in the post-Cold War era.

The announced cuts of 1,425 artillery unit soldiers over the next four years was partially offset by the creation of a new engineering battalion of 440 persons and combat support units which should total 410 new positions.

The locations for these new units has not yet been announced.

The net result of the changes will be 535 fewer soldiers in the state's authorized strength, according to Heng.

While the Wayne unit was left intact, in the latest planned changes, there are no guarantees that the unit might not change in the future, according to Lt. Col. Joe Johnson, with the Air Guard unit in Lincoln. Questions on local specifics concerning the announced guard changes were referred to Lincoln.

Some Armories may be closed as a result of the down-sizing, but Johnson stressed the current plans are much more palatable than what was being talked about in 1992 when cutbacks were first discussed. At that time the state's force was targeted to be reduced by a third, he said.

"We have not forgotten, nor will we forget the need for the Guard to be dispersed throughout the state, ready to respond to local emergencies," said Heng. "We are also mindful that the communities which will lose units have been very supportive of us for a very long time."

Towns whose units are targeted for deactivation include Nebraska City, Falls City, Auburn, Beatrice, Crete, Scottsbluff, Sidney, Gering, Ogallala, Alliance, North Platte, Broken Bow, Chadron, Hastings and some units in Lincoln.

Bowen Hall fire causes evacuation

Hundreds of students were evacuated from Bowen Hall on the Wayne State College Campus Monday afternoon when a minor fire sent smoke into some areas of the high rise.

Wayne State College officials reported the fire was caused by smoldering leaves and other debris in a building exhaust fan. The college reported fire investigators contention that the blaze may have been caused by an errant cigarette that made it's way into the exhaust fan.

The cause of the fire was not an incinerator backing up, nor was it an electrical problem, officials said.

Very little damage was reported and students were returned to their rooms after the Wayne fire units doused the pesky blaze and the light smoke was vented from the building.

Pageant is dedicated to the presentation of intelligence, talent and poise in Nebraska's young women," said Carhart.

The Golden Years

The trend to discharge hospital patients sooner than in the past means greater need for home care. But for one in four elderly patients such care is inadequate, say researchers at Washington University in St. Louis. Among the problems: some family members are unrealistic about their ability to provide the temporary care, especially if they have jobs or children to look after. The survey was conducted among hospital discharge planners, who advise family members about home-care needs of a patient being discharged and can suggest local services to help meet the needs.

Mary Harper, 78, a widow, lives in a Gwyned, Pennsylvania, retirement community which offers shuffleboard, weaving and the like. She prefers tennis and solo sailing. In summers she's off to Nova Scotia and her sailboat. Friends and family failed to dissuade her from trying to sail to Ireland as the oldest person to solo the Atlantic. — she's intensely independent — but she's no fool. Two days out she ran into a gale and turned back. Still, no one is betting she won't try again.

Look in the mirror

Dear Editor:
We're writing in response to the letter written to the West Point News by Tina Lutt, a Wayne High student, last week.
All of us attended the Wayne vs. West Point game on Friday the 28th.
After the game started we noticed that Wayne's student body was sitting in the West Point parents' section. It is clearly labeled where the visitors sit in our gym and we've never had a problem with other spectators following this rule. It is not up to Wayne's study body to change this rule.
While they were sitting in the West Point section, the Wayne students made many rude comments. The cheerleaders were offended by being called "fat cows," being told they didn't know how to cheer, made fun of while doing flips and also having Wayne students ruin their chants.
During the half time show, while the flag squad was trying to entertain both the West Point and Wayne spectators they were disturbed by more rude comments and excessive noise covering the sound of the music, coming from the Wayne section.

But the most uncalled-for action was when one of the Wayne students called a West Point pre-vocational student an "invalid" when he was accidentally tripped in front of the Wayne section.
We did not see the incident where a West Point parent forced a Wayne student to sit down, but we did witness plenty of reasons for one to do so. So, for any of you Wayne students who thought we were out of line, look in the mirror!!!

Capitol News —

Hopefuls line up for new post

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — Just when you think life at the Capitol is settling into a routine, something interesting happens.
Like the decision by long-time Secretary of State Allen Beermann to scrap a re-election bid.
The somewhat surprising announcement (nothing is ever a total surprise in the halls of state government) pushed candidate hopefuls into action.
It provided a bushel of grist for that active statehouse game:

"Candidate Speculation."
You folks at home, of course, can play along, but the real pros are in the offices at the Capitol, who can produce a list of rumored candidates faster than a copy of a bill.
The game produced a list of likely candidates, maybes and definitely not.
The maybes included former Douglas County Election Commissioner Steve Wiitala, a Democrat; the "nos" included Steve Exon (the son of U.S. Sen. J.J. Exon) who said he just didn't want to move to Lincoln.
The likely list is topped by two state senators, Scott Moore of Seward and DiAnna Schimek of Lincoln.

Moore, a rising star in the Republican Party and one of the smarter legislators in Lincoln, is getting weary of handing out the bad budget news as chairman of the Legislature's budget-writing Appropriations Committee. It's a tough job that wears on your soul, he said.
Plus, if Moore — as most folks expect — wants to run for governor someday, the statewide exposure and contacts built as secretary of state would be an asset.
Schimek, a Democrat, ran a respectable but losing race against

Frank Marsh for state treasurer in 1986, but has tremendous statewide contacts in her party, having served as national party committee woman.
That helps in a statewide race. What may hurt Schimek is that she supported repeal of the death penalty.
That issue is one of the main reasons Beermann likely decided against seeking to keep the job he's held for 24 years. Two years ago, he was the lone member of the State Pardons Board to vote to commute the death sentence of Harold Lamont Otey, who was convicted of the 1977 rape/murder of an Omaha woman.
The vote might have cost Beermann support in a state that still appears to support putting its worst criminals to death.
Expect an active campaign for his old seat, as Democrats try to bump off Moore now before he gets more popular and Republicans try to hold onto another statehouse post.
No matter who succeeds Beermann, it's a safe bet they won't be nearly as flamboyant as he was.
Beermann used to be a professional waffer skier and bungee jumped at the State Fair last fall as part of a promotional stunt.
This year, however, he decided against taking the leap — for re-election anyway.

Make Democracy work

Dear Editor:
I am a former teacher of your Wayne Community Schools, for 29 years, prior to retirement this year. This is my first ever letter to the editor contribution. This letter is to express my extreme disappointment at the removal of Ron Carnes as athletic director in our Wayne schools. Based upon my personal experiences and the information I have, both the decision and the process appear to be seriously deficient. Removal from a position should indicate real deficiencies for such action. Ron and I were employed by the Wayne schools in 1964. I know that he has performed his jobs in an exemplary manner, and is looked upon with high regard from the great majority of members in this community. He certainly deserves a better fate than this. We must let our administration and Board of Education know that we do not accept such undemocratic and unjust treatment of staff. To close, and reinforce this "Democracy in Action" statement. It is well known that I am highly in disagreement with this decision, and today while acting as a substitute teacher in your school system, I was informed that I would no longer be called to serve in such a role. After 29 1/2 years, I guess I don't know if I'm democrat or republican in this process and have lost all value to serve your children. Do you want to make Democracy work? Then get involved in the process, and the election of your local School Board members. You do deserve your say in how our local schools are run and operated.

I feel confident that the 72 letters of strong support for Ron Carnes, and 400 local petition signatures in just two days time, will support my position.

Former Teacher, Coach

Surprised by dismissal

Dear Editor:
I am writing this letter, as a former athlete and student, to express my disapproval concerning the removal of Ron Carnes as athletic director at Wayne High. During my time at Wayne High, I was a member of several athletic teams, as well as a president of the W-Club, and I was pleased to know Mr. Carnes as both a coach and teacher. I never heard any complaints by students or parents about the job Ron did as athletic director, and everything always ran smoothly while he was there. I also have no doubts as to his effort as athletic director and his loyalty to the programs and athletes at Wayne High, and, judging from the letters of support they sent, neither do the other athletic directors from schools around the area.
I was therefore surprised and stunned to learn that Ron Carnes had been dismissed as athletic director. The reasons behind this move are obscure at best, and I would have to say this was a hasty — perhaps emotional — decision made with little foresight. It seems to me to be just the last in a string of questionable actions taken by the new superintendent — who seems to have little regard for the proper procedure by which these things are done and even less regard for the wishes of the citizens of Wayne and the students of Wayne High.

In my opinion, this is a slap in the face to Ron Carnes — a man who has given years of his life to the school in an effort to improve the athletics and athletes there. I really don't understand why this was done, and I'm beginning to wonder why this new superintendent is causing so much trouble. Wayne High is there to educate youth and help them grow, not to serve as toy to be manipulated according to one person's moods and whims. I suggest careful reconsideration of this situation before the school is embarrassed further.

Consequences

The truth is: you screw up, you pay

Arguably the hardest thing we have to learn as individuals and as a society is that we always, without exception, pay the consequences of our actions.

If we as a society have a hard time learning the consequential lesson, what does that tell us about the kids this society is raising?

It tells us they are growing up in trouble.

•Folks in Omaha have been debating a parental responsibility law that would fine parents up to $1,000 if their kid does something stupid and illegal. Some want parents to experience more financial consequences for raising delinquent children. Proponents see it as a way to stem the rising tide of juvenile crime.

•Few in young drinking-age people in Wayne appear to have yet learned that one frequent consequence of limitless alcoholic consumption is death. We should have learned that last year when an alcohol-induced brawl resulted in the death of a reveler on Main Street. But we apparently need to be reminded since recent incidents of irresponsible drinking and brawling have recurred.

•Thousands, nay millions, of young people are facing lives of torment because they have not learned the consequences of drug and alcohol abuse.

•The debate over abortion threatens to tear the country apart because our society, and individual men and women within it, have not learned the consequences of "casual sex." Besides unwanted pregnancies, casual sex also carries with it the newer consequence of life ending venereal disease. The pro-choice movement wants to artificially remove one of those consequences by permitting abortion. Contraception is seen by many as a way to artificially remove one or more consequences of immoral activity, but it can't remove them all.

•We are a people fattening and clogging ourselves to death because we haven't accepted the consequences of overeating and scarfing the wrong foods.

•We are desensitized to pain and anguish suffered by others because we don't understand the consequences of mindlessly watching thousands of acts of violence on our television screens each week.

February is month to be heart healthy

Each day, more than 3,000 American children smoke their first cigarette. It is estimated that more than three million American children under the age of 18 consume 947 million packs of cigarettes and 26 million containers of smokeless tobacco yearly. These are shocking statistics. Combined with poor nutrition habits and lack of exercise, young people in this country are establishing lifestyles that may result in increased numbers of deaths related to heart disease in future decades.

Every year, the American Heart Association develops a nationwide campaign in February, American Heart Month, to help Americans learn more about reducing their risks of heart disease. This year's American Heart Month message —

My Turn Guest Column

"Kids Who Use Their Brains Use Their Bodies" — encourages young people to "Take care of your heart. Get lots of exercise, eat right and don't smoke."

During Heart Month the Wayne County Affiliate of the AHA and other groups will be involved in many activities. More information will be in the paper later.

Adoptive parenting workshop to be held in Norfolk on March 12

A workshop entitled "Meeting the Challenges of Adoptive Parenting in the 90's" will be presented on Saturday, March 12 at the First Presbyterian Church, 104 South 10th Street in Norfolk from 1 to 5 p.m.

The workshop is offered free of charge by Nebraska Children's Home Society (NCHS) and is open to all adoptive parents as well as to those who may be considering adoption as a means of building a family.

It was once thought that parenting an adopted child was no different than raising a child born to a family but growing research indicates that adopted children have additional developmental tasks to master as they grow, that during the years of middle childhood (ages 7-11) these children are grappling with important loss issues that they may be unable to put into words or may feel uncomfortable sharing these feelings openly with their adoptive parents.

Presenter Roberta Siebert, who is the Scottsbluff-based caseworker for NCHS, has over 20 years experience in adoption and has presented workshops throughout the state as well as in Des Moines, New Orleans and Chicago.

In addition to an exploration of the developmental tasks and loss issues, the workshop will also include a panel of adult adoptees and adoptive parents.

For more information contact Teri Wendel at the Norfolk office of Nebraska Children's Home, 379-3378.

Eunice Cornett had cataracts.

She had Cataract Surgery on both eyes.

"I had blurry vision and a little pain in my eye. I went to my local doctor and he referred me to Dr. Feidler. I was told by Dr. Feidler that I had cataracts. My vision wasn't clear and glasses didn't help. I worked in a hospital for 27 years, so the thought of eye surgery didn't bother me. I wanted my vision cleared up.

The surgery is very simple and didn't take very long at all. I arrived in the morning, had it done, and went home before noon. I could see real well right away. Everything was clear. Now I read, drive, bowl, golf, and play cards; everything is much easier now. I think it's wonderful, a miracle. If you can't see good, and you have the opportunity to see really good, you shouldn't hesitate to have it done. There's nothing to be afraid of, it just works. I would gladly recommend Dr. Feidler."

Seven wrestlers will represent the Winside Wildcats at the Nebraska State Wrestling Tournament which gets underway Thursday in Lincoln at the Bob Devaney Sports Complex.

Paul Sok's crew grappled their way to a runner-up finish in the D-1 District Wrestling Tournament in Howells, Saturday. Elgin Pope John breezed to the team championship with 196 points followed by the Wildcats with 133 points and Brainard East Butler with 107.

Newman Grove rounded out the top five teams with 99 points and Howells finished sixth with 93.5 while Louisville netted 76.5 points for seventh. Humboldt and Friend tied for eighth with 51 points and Elgin/Petersburg finished 10th with 49.

Scribner-Snyder placed 11th with 43 points while Adams placed 12th with 40. Osmond scored 38 followed by Dorchester with 32, Daykin-Meridian with 30 and Palmer/Wolbach with 13.

Coming into the tournament Sok felt his team would have five solid chances of qualifying grapplers for state and he was pleasantly surprised when seven Wildcats clawed their way to a top four finish and a state berth.

Winside crowned two champions on the day as Josh Jaeger owned the 125 pound category while Brady Frahm not only owned but dominated the 152 pound weight class. Jaeger pinned Jason Hansen of Louisville in 5:15 of the finals while Frahm hardly broke a sweat at the district tournament.

Winside's lone senior needed just 18 seconds in the semifinals to pin his opponent before he went to the finals against Pat Stuhr of Elgin Pope John. This was one of the most anticipated matches of the day as Stuhr entered the finals with a 31-1 record yet he was ranked behind Frahm who has suffered five losses on the year.

Frahm was still considered the top wrestler in his weight class because of the competition he faced all season from Class B & C opponents. Still, Pope John fans were dissatisfied with the fact their grappler was ranked behind Frahm.

In the finals they found out why as Frahm needed just 54 seconds to stick Stuhr. In what was considered an upset, Winside's defending state champ, Scott Jacobsen was beaten, 5-4 in the finals to Pope John's Jason Sturek—a week after Jacobsen had beaten him by a 5-0 margin at the Clearwater Invitational.

Jacobsen was called for stalling twice in the match which awarded Sturek a point—the difference in the match. Jason Wylie came with in an eye lash of being in the district finals and perhaps a district championship but he was defeated in overtime in the semifinals by Jamie Kocian of Brainard East Butler.

Wylie did come back to place third by decisioning Jeremy Ketteler of Elgin/Petersburg. Lucas Mohr will make his first trip to state after placing third at 130. Mohr won the third and fourth place match by injury default over Charlie Baker of Humboldt. Mohr, however, wrestled very well in his first three matches.

Winside had two grapplers place fourth in Shaun Magwire at 145 pounds and Lonnie Grothe at 160. Magwire was pinned by Newman Grove's Matt Schmitt in his final match but had a very solid tournament. Grothe got to re-acquaint himself with Osmond's Ben Aschoff in the final round of medal winners and lost a 7-3 decision.

It was the sixth time this season these two grapplers squared off and Aschoff owns a 5-1 record against the Winside junior.

JOSH JAEGER looks over to his coach Paul Sok just before pinning an opponent during the Class D-1 District Wrestling Tournament, Saturday in Howells.

LUCAS MOHR tries to earn some reversal points during semifinal action of Winside's district tournament. The Wildcats will compete in this week's state tournament in Lincoln after placing runner-up at districts.

Blue Devils season closes at districts

The Wayne wrestling team closed out their season in the B-2 District Wrestling Tournament held Friday and Saturday in Omaha at Gross High School.

The Blue Devils failed to qualify anyone for the state tournament for the second consecutive year but two grapplers came with in one match of qualifying for the annual three-day tournament in Lincoln.

Six of Wayne's 11 grapplers were knocked out of competition on Friday as Jared Anderson, Rick Endicott, Tyler Endicott and Jeremy Sturm went 0-2 while Brent Geiger and Ryan Brown each went 1-2.

In the first round on Saturday, Cory Erxleben fell to Rusty Stephens of Gretna which eliminated him from further competition and Terry Rutenbeck was defeated, 6-4 by Brian Mead of Omaha Gross. Jeff Hamer lost a 1-0 decision to Boys Town's Tyrice Ellebb which left Dusty Jensen at 160 and Jason Shultheis at 171.

Those two wrestled in the consolation semifinals with the winner advancing to wrestle for third and fourth and a trip to state while the loser's would end the season.

Jensen ended up losing 5-1 to Danko Pike of Ashland who went on to place third while Shultheis was trailing by just a 6-5 margin to Brian Schaefer of Omaha Gross in the second period before being pinned. Schaefer also went on to place third which means both wrestlers that defeated Jensen and Shultheis won their next matches as well.

Omaha Gross ran away with the team championship, scoring 221.5 points while qualifying 10 wrestlers for state. Tekamah-Herman placed runner-up with 134.5 and Gretna was third with 128. Boys Town was fourth with 99.5 and Elkhorn was fifth with 93.

Ashland-Greenwood followed in sixth with 87.5 and Springfield-Platteview was seventh with 80. Hooper Logan View finished eighth with 69 and Blair was ninth with 62. West Point rounded out the top 10 with 57.5 followed by North Bend with 35, Wahoo with 34, Omaha Flanagan with 32 and Wayne. Omaha Roncalli finished last with 17 points.

Wayne, however, was the only team in the 16-team district who failed to qualify anyone wrestler for state.

Wayne boys edge Madison while gals are beat by Crofton

Rocky Ruhl's Wayne boys basketball team put on an offensive show in the first half of Friday's game with Madison at Wayne High scoring 43 points, but it was the last second defensive heroics of senior Matt Blomenkamp that saved the Blue Devils from going down to defeat.

Both teams also tied in the turnover category with 16. Wayne was 14-18 from the foul line compared to 14 of 21 shooting for Madison.

This week's games with Pierce at home on Friday and at Albion on Saturday are the last of the regular season.

Madison drew a foul from Wayne with five seconds left on the clock and the Blue Devils leading 75-73. Following a time-out the Madison player hit the front end of the one-and-one but missed the second shot.

SATURDAY, THE WAYNE High girls team traveled to play number two rated Crofton in C-1 in a make-up contest from earlier in the season. Roger Reikofski's team fell, 67-49 leaving them with a 10-8 record heading into Tuesday's final home game with Albion.

Madison, however, got the offensive rebound and attempted a shot that would win the game for the visitors but Blomenkamp blocked it. The Madison player again got the rebound and attempted another shot but it was tied up by Blomenkamp and the buzzer sounded as a jump ball was being called.

"We got off to a terrible start," Reikofski said. "We trailed by 17 points after the first quarter and only lost the game by 18." Wayne was behind, 37-19 at the half and both teams scored 30, second half points.

Jenny Thompson led Wayne with 14 while Tami Schlus netted nine. Carrie Fink scored eight and Anne Wiseman tossed in seven. Wayne was out-rebounded, 35-23 with Wiseman leading the Blue Devils with nine rebounds.

The 75-74 victory for Wayne was not pretty according to Ruhl but the victory pretty much guaranteed a top seed for the Blue Devils at the district tournament which begins, Saturday, Feb. 26 in Norfolk.

In a sloppily played game, Wayne finished with 27 turnovers but the Blue Devils forced Crofton into 37. Wayne was 6-14 from the foul line compared to 12 of 20 shooting by the host team. "I really feel the biggest difference was we hit just 32 percent of our shots in 64 attempts while Crofton nailed 54 percent on 54 shots," Reikofski said.

It also means Wayne could see Madison in the semifinals if both teams win their first round games.

The first quarter of Friday's game looked as though Wayne would run away and hide from the visitors as they built an 11-point lead but the Dragons fired back and made it a nail biter to the end.

Wayne will close out the regular season schedule on Thursday when they travel to play number one rated Schuyler.

"We did have a real good first quarter," Ruhl said. "Then we didn't do a good job of reacting and communicating on defense. The Blue Devils had a well-balanced attack led by Blomenkamp with 20 points while Robert Bell poured in 18.

Wayne boys (75), Madison (74): Wayne—Matt Blomenkamp, 20; Robert Bell, 18; Ryan Pick, 17; Kirk Carmichael, 12; Joe Lutt, 5; Jason Carr, 3.

Ryan Pick tossed in 17 points including four, 3-pointers and Kirk Carmichael scored a dozen in his first ever start. Both teams notched 25 rebounds with Carmichael leading Wayne with eight caroms while Blomenkamp had seven and Bell, six.

Wayne girls (49), Crofton (67): Wayne—Jenny Thompson, 14; Tami Schlus, 9; Carrie Fink, 8; Anne Wiseman, 7; Katie Lutt, 5; Erica Stoltenberg, 2; Amy Post, 2; Audra Sievers, 2.

WSC surprised by S.W. State; men win by 19

The Wayne State women's basketball team suffered their fifth loss of the season, Saturday in Marshall, Minnesota as Southwest State handed Mike Barry's 'Cats a 74-70 setback in overtime.

IN THE MEN'S game WSC held the host team to just 19 points in the first half and enjoyed a 10-point cushion. Both teams caught fire in the second half but the 'Cats proved to be the hottest, out-scoring the Mustangs, 51-42 for the 19-point victory.

In the nightcap of Saturday's twinbill with the men's team, Mike Brewen's squad swept the season series with the Mustangs with an 80-61 victory.

The 7-15 Wildcats got an outstanding performance from Kyle White who led all scorers with a career high 33 points including seven, 3-pointers. White nailed all four of his free throw attempts in the game and grabbed four rebounds while dishing out four assists.

The Wildcats hit a shot with two seconds left in regulation to tie the game and force the overtime but were out-scored 14-10 in the extra period. The defeat offset a brilliant performance from senior Linda Heller who led the team in scoring with 21 points.

Billy Patterson scored a dozen points and recorded seven assists while Omar Clark tallied 11 and also dished out four assists while Deb Kostreba was close to the double digit mark in scoring with nine while Jodi Ojten tossed in eight. Freshman point guard Amy Brodersen scored six points but dished out nine assists.

The host team was ice cold from the field, hitting 18 of 62 attempts for 29 percent but they were red-hot from the foul line, hitting 17 of 19 attempts.

WSC edged Southwest State in the rebound category, 39-36. The 'Cats had 26 turnovers while the host team suffered 22. WSC out-shot Southwest State, connecting on 29 of 64 attempts for 45 percent while the Mustangs nailed 27 of 66 shots for 41 percent.

WSC was 12-16 from the foul line and Southwest State ended up hitting 19 of 26. The 18-5 Wildcat squad will aim for win number 19 on Wednesday when they host Briar Cliff in a 5:30 p.m. tip-off.

Allen girls defeat Indians in first round of districts

By Kevin Peterson
Sports editor

The Class C & D girls sub-district tournaments began Monday and four of the Wayne Herald coverage teams were in action. In the D1-4 subdistrict in Emerson, the Allen Eagles defeated Winnebago, 43-37 to advance to the championship on Tuesday in Emerson against Wynot—a 48-38 winner over Coleridge.

The Eagles trailed, 10-6 after the first quarter and were down by a 15-8 margin before going on a 14-0 run that spanned from the midway point of the period through the first couple minutes of the third quarter.

Allen led 28-22 after three and both teams notched 15, fourth quarter points. Jaime Mitchell paced the winners with 14 points while Tanya Plueger poured in 12. Steph Martinson added eight and Dawn Diediker tallied five. Holly Blair finished with four points before leaving the game in the fourth quarter after she was shoved from behind while attempting a lay-up, re-aggravating her back injury.

Allen out-rebounded Winnebago, 26-23 as Martinson led the way with 10 caroms while Plueger hauled down eight. The Eagles took good care of the basketball with just 11 turnovers while forcing 22.

IN THE C1-7 subdistrict tournament in Wakefield, the Laurel Bears had their season ended by top seeded Pender, 55-42. Rick Petri's team led 7-5 after the first quarter but trailed by four at the break, 27-23.

The Bears were out-scored by eight in the third quarter and trailed 43-31 and Laurel could never threaten. Unofficially, the Bears set a team record by committing 33 fouls and Pender was on the receiving end of 41 charity tosses and the Pendragons converted on 23.

"We only hit 23 percent of our shots from the field," Petri said. "You just can't win in basketball by doing that. We had plenty of good shots to take but we just didn't hit them."

Dawn Wickett led the Bears with 14 points while Samantha Felber notched eight. Cathy Mohr netted six and Leann Stewart tallied five while Amanda Hartung scored three.

Kari Kraemer and Natasha Kardell each scored two.

Schroeder hauled down a team high nine rebounds and Felber had eight. The Bears, incidentally, shot 10 free throws and hit seven. They end the year with a 7-12 record.

IN THE C2-5 subdistrict tournament in Howells, Winside was defeated by a 63-41 margin by top seeded Leigh, ending the Wildcats season at 4-13 and ending the coaching career at Winside of Angie Schroeder.

Leigh sprinted to an 18-5 lead after one quarter of play and held a commanding 36-11 lead at the intermission. Winside out-scored the favored team, 30-27 in the second half.

"Leigh had a very tall team," Schroeder said. "But what hurt us the most was their ability to hit from outside." Christi Mundil led the Wildcats with 14 points followed by Wendy Miller with nine and Catherine Bussey with eight. Chris Colwell netted six while Kari Pichler and Stacy Bowers tallied two each.

Mundil hauled down 10 rebounds for team honors and Miller grabbed seven boards despite Winside being out-rebounded, 36-29. The Wildcats suffered 22 turnovers compared to 12 for Leigh.

Schroeder said she plans on staying in northeast Nebraska, either as a full-time teacher and coach, as a substitute teacher or return to college.

The C2-6 subdistrict tournament in Lyons saw Gregg Cruickshank's Wakefield Trojans fall, 42-38 to Walthill. No individual results were available on this game at press time.

ALLEN'S HOLLY Blair hits the open jumper during first round action of subdistricts, Monday in Emerson. The Eagles will play Wynot on Tuesday.

Bears split games

The Laurel Lady Bears closed out the regular season weekend with a split as they defeated Neligh-Oakdale, 48-32 in Neligh on Friday before losing a heart-breaking, 48-46 decision to Wakefield at home, Saturday.

Rick Petri's squad led Neligh, 22-12 at the half and never looked back as they took a 35-18 lead into the fourth quarter. "We played well," Petri said. "We enjoyed a lot of success with our full court press and our half court trap and it led to a lot of easy baskets."

Samantha Felber led the Bears with 16 points while Becky Schroeder tossed in 11. Cathy Mohr netted nine but led the team with eight steals and nine rebounds.

Laurel out-rebounded Neligh, 36-26 and Mohr shared team honors with Schroeder with nine caroms. The Bears committed 23 turnovers but forced 25 from Neligh and Laurel was 10-19 from the foul line while the host team was 8-14.

On Saturday, Wakefield hit a shot with 12 seconds to go in regulation to put the Trojans up 48-46. "We had two good shots at the basket in the final seconds to tie the game but we just couldn't convert," Petri said. "We had our chances."

Wakefield led 23-20 at the half and 38-33 after three quarters of play before Laurel went on a 13-8 scoring run to knot the game at 46. Dawn Wickett paced the Bears with 12 points while Cathy Mohr netted eight and Becky Schroeder, seven.

Wakefield was led by Kali Baker and Maria Eaton with 15 points each while Jamie Oswald and Mary Torczon each netted six. The Trojans out-rebounded Laurel, 31-28 with Schroeder leading Laurel with eight boards while Mohr hauled down six.

Laurel suffered 17 turnovers compared to just 10 for Wakefield and the Bears were 9-16 from the foul line while the visitors were 12-26.

MIAH JOHNSON tries to shoot over the out-stretched arms of Jeremy Reinoehl during Saturday's game.

JEREMY REINOEHL attempts to score two of his game-high 22 points with Wes Blecke defending him.

Trojans lose to Laurel but wins rematch with Bulldogs

Two Wayne Herald coverage teams clashed in Laurel, Saturday night as Brad Hoskins' Wakefield Trojans attempted to knock off Clayton Steele's Laurel Bears in a make-up game but fell two points short, 58-56.

The Bears came out running and sprinted to a 20-12 lead after the first quarter. Wakefield, however, proved they were unshaken by the Bears quick start and trimmed that deficit to one point late in the second quarter before a couple late Laurel buckets made it a 34-29 score at the break.

The third quarter saw both teams cool down a little with each team scoring eight points so the Trojans still had a five-point deficit staring them in the face heading to the fourth quarter.

They made up that deficit and actually went ahead before Laurel went on another short scoring run. The Trojans made another rally attempt and scored five points in about a 40 second period to make it a two-point contest.

Wakefield got the ball back with 12 seconds remaining and attempted to go for the last shot but the Trojans suffered a turnover with two seconds to go. The Trojans fouled the front end of the ensuing one-and-one but Wakefield failed to get a shot off before the buzzer.

"We had our opportunity but we just didn't take care of the ball," Hoskins said. "We knew it was going to be a hard fought game but the difference was the first quarter."

The Bears shot 11 of their 25 free throws in the opening stanza as Wakefield was whistled for a number of fouls. In fact, the host team was in the bonus with just under half of the first quarter remaining.

Jeremy Reinoehl and twin brother Jared combined to score 38 of the Bears' 58 points with Jeremy scoring 22. The talented junior duo also combined to hit 16 of 18 free throw attempts.

Wakefield was led by Cory Brown with 15 points while Tory Nixon and Miah Johnson netted a dozen each. The Bears edged Wakefield on the boards, 22-21 and the visitors suffered 15 turnovers compared to 10 for Laurel.

Wakefield was also 9-12 from the foul line while Laurel was 20-25. The Bears improved to 13-4 and will close out their regular season on Friday when they host Leigh. Wakefield fell to 14-7 and will spend the final week of its regular season at home with games Thursday and Friday against Randolph and Homer.

THE WAKEFIELD boys came into Saturday's game at Laurel after playing Friday in Coleridge in a rematch of the Clark Division final a week earlier in Wakefield.

In the first contest between the two Wakefield came from a double digit deficit to win the game and in Friday's contest Wakefield led 32-19 at the half before Coleridge mounted a rally attempt.

In the end, however, Wakefield proved the come from behind win at home a week ago was no fluke with a 69-62 victory over the Bulldogs in their home gym.

"We had a good first half," Hoskins said. "We got four, 3-pointers from Tory Nixon midway through the first quarter through the second and another from Justin Dutcher which put us up by double digits at the half."

Nixon, a sophomore guard poured in 23 points to lead the winners in a career-high performance while Miah Johnson netted 13 and Cory Brown, 12.

Coleridge actually out-rebounded Wakefield, 37-33 with Wes Blecke leading the Trojans with nine caroms while Brown had eight and Johnson, seven. Wakefield was 18-27 from the foul line and the host team was 13-23.

Wakefield (56), Laurel (58): Wakefield—Cory Brown, 15; Tory Nixon, 12; Miah Johnson, 12; Ryan Ekberg, 8; Lucas Tappe, 4; Justin Dutcher, 3; Wes Blecke, 2. Laurel—Jeremy Reinoehl, 22; Jared Reinoehl, 16; Tyler Erwin, 8; Rich Rasmussen, 6; Cody Carstensen, 3; Shane Schuster, 3.

Wakefield (69), Coleridge (62): Wakefield—Tory Nixon, 23; Miah Johnson, 13; Cory Brown, 12; Wes Blecke, 9; Ryan Ekberg, 4; Justin Dutcher, 3; Mike Rischmueller, 3; Andy Muller, 2.

Allen girls end regular season

ALLEN-The Allen girls basketball team closed out the regular season with a 62-51 victory over Beemer, Friday in Beemer. Lori Koester and Gary Erwin watched as their team built an 18-10 lead after one quarter of play and never looked back en route to a 12-6 record.

Tanya Plueger poured in 22 points and hauled down 22 rebounds in an outstanding individual performance. Steph Martinson tossed in 15 while Holly Blair was in double figures with 10. Mindy Plueger and Debbie Plueger jumped into the scoring act trying to follow the foot steps of their sister with six and five points, respectively and Dawn Diediker rounded out the scoring with four.

Allen dominated the boards, 46-23 led by Plueger's 22 caroms and Martinson's eight. The Eagles committed 18 turnovers compared to 16 for Beemer and Allen was 16-26 from the foul line.

English in Siberia topic of lecture

Dr. Gretchen Ronnow, associate professor of literature at Wayne State College, will present the lecture "Teaching English in Siberia" as a Sunday Series program Feb. 20 at Wayne State College. The public is invited.

Ronnow

The program will begin at 4 p.m. in Ley Theatre, located on the second floor of Wayne State's Brandenburg Education Building.

The lecture comes from Ronnow's experience last summer teaching English in Barnaul, Siberia. Her presentation will raise pedagogical, philosophical, literary and anthropological issues. She will make comparisons between American and Siberian students and will comment on cultural stereotyping and prevailing media images of the Siberian people based on their observations.

Ronnow's fields of specialization include American Indian literature, contemporary Arabic literature, women's studies and film.

"Our goal is to achieve interaction between presenting scholars and our collegiate and geographic communities, and to provoke thought regarding the relevancy of issues in these disciplines to our everyday lives," says Dr. Beverly Soll, director of the Center for Cultural Outreach.

The Sunday Series, sponsored by the Center for Cultural Outreach at Wayne State, is a collection of afternoon lectures on historic and contemporary issues in art, music and the humanities. Major funding for the Sunday Series is provided by the Nebraska Humanities Council.

Energy options are open to gas users

For the first time, Peoples Natural Gas business and commercial customers will have new choices in buying natural gas supplies.

Energy Options, being introduced by Peoples this month, offers business and commercial customers the choice to buy natural gas directly from other suppliers. Energy Options customers could potentially realize a savings if the supplier they select can provide lower-cost gas.

"By expanding the choices for our customers, Peoples can tailor services to best meet their individual energy needs," said Jim Markham, customer service manager. "Large industrial customers have had similar gas buying choices the past few years, and now expanded options will be available to business and commercial customers. By offering new choices such as Energy Options, Peoples can serve customers better in the increasingly competitive marketplace of the future."

Although customers who choose Energy Options will buy gas directly from a supplier, Peoples will continue to deliver the gas and provide all other customer services. Customers who choose not to participate in Energy Options may continue to buy their gas supply through Peoples as usual.

Energy Options will be phased in throughout Peoples' Nebraska service area. Initially it will be available to business and commercial customers served from the Northern Natural Gas pipeline. Next fall, customers on other

College president is speaker for Allen

Donald Mash, president of Wayne State College, will address the Allen Community Club on Monday, Feb. 21 at 6:30 p.m. in the Village Inn in Allen.

Mash will talk about how rural communities can begin positioning themselves in the knowledge-driven economy of the future.

Since becoming president of Wayne State in 1988, Mash has been a leading spokesperson for rural development in Nebraska. He has continually pointed to several trends which suggest that rural Nebraskans should be optimistic about their future.

He says there is a movement of people from urban and suburban locations to rural settings; he says urban locations are losing their importance due to improved communication technology, and he says people are placing a greater importance on quality of life as they become dissatisfied with larger cities.

Before coming to Wayne State, Mash served as executive vice president at George Mason University; he also served as vice president for student affairs at George Mason, dean for student services at Ohio Dominican College; and he was an instructor of geography at the University of Pittsburgh-Bradford.

Regents candidate touts cooperation

Dr. Keith Vrbicky, Norfolk, candidate for the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska, said one of his priorities as a regent would be improving cooperation among the university and both public and private institutions of higher learning in the state.

"Since I am on the advisory board of the Creighton University School of Medicine and am working in the University of Nebraska Medical Center's program to encourage health professional students to practice in rural Nebraska," Vrbicky said, "I have seen how remarkably well the joint Nebraska-Creighton program in psychiatry is working. As a regent, I will work to develop more such cooperative programs between the university and state colleges, community colleges and private colleges and universities."

Vrbicky said that in the past few years the university has improved its relations with other educational institutions, "but much more can be done."

In which all should belong.

Love is forgiving
outgoing and free.
Love makes the world

Laurel man busy directing Navy air traffic

Imagine directing the flight of thousands of aircraft every day without ever seeing any of them. This is the job Navy Petty Officer Third Class David Keifer performs at the Fleet Area Control and Surveillance Facility, Virginia Capes, at the Oceana Naval Air Station in Virginia Beach, Va.

The son of Loren and Shirley Keifer of Laurel, is an air traffic controller for the Navy. And unlike his previous job as an air traffic controller when he handled aircraft on their take-offs and landings, he now works exclusively with radar, in a dark and cavern-like facility.

"I do everything on a screen, with each aircraft represented by a four-digit number. This job is completely different from my first duty station at Diego Garcia in the Indian Ocean," said the 22-year-old sailor. "I worked in the tower at Diego. I was always looking at the aircraft while they took off or landed."

A single tower is one thing but working at the fleet area control facility is another thing entirely, according to Keifer.

The facility, whose radio name is "Giant Killer," monitors thousands of military and civilian ships, aircraft and small craft use of parts of the Atlantic Ocean and its airspace every day. Their movements must be coordinated to prevent crashes, encounters with bad weather and accidents in military live-firing exercises.

By providing maximum safe use of training areas and airways and controlling air traffic for 94,000 square miles of warning areas, sailors and civilian men and women at the facility schedule and coordinate training evolutions for sub-surface, surface and airborne military units operating from New York, N.Y. to Cherry Point, S.C.

"As an air traffic controller here, I'm responsible for the safe movement of aircraft through our space and the hand-off or passing control of those aircraft to civilian FAA airports or military control towers.

When I receive an aircraft from a tower, I check them into our area, get their mission requirements and help them maintain a safe separation from the other aircraft in the area," said the 1989 graduate of Laurel-Concord Public High School.

With so many aircraft coming through his area, Keifer considers his job an important one. "It's very important because of the people's lives you're dealing with every day when you work."

The weight of his responsibility has given Keifer a new sense of maturity. "I feel the Navy has given me more responsibility as well as the knowledge of how to hold an authoritative or supervisory position."

Such responsibility can sometimes make a person rise to a challenge, as in one particular mission Keifer remembers well.

"I worked a fly-off (when multiple aircraft leave an aircraft carrier) without radar once. Ours was temporarily down," he said.

The air traffic controllers on watch had to use maps instead. "We would check the aircraft in, find out where they were at and then plot points and set altitudes to get them to their destination."

Controlling the flight of Navy aircraft without the benefit of radar was a challenging experience, according to Keifer. There are certain requirements military and civilian controllers must follow when it comes to aircraft separation.

"The separation requirements are different when you have radar and when you don't," Keifer said. "The amount of aircraft coming off the aircraft carrier made it harder."

"We had to make the aircraft separate more. It builds a little more safe time for movements just in case the aircraft aren't where they are supposed to be. You don't want accidents to happen."

Eventually, Keifer is planning to leave the Navy and become an air traffic controller for the Federal Aviation Administration. He doesn't see too much difference between his military job and the civilian one.

"The only real difference is working with aircraft full of people as opposed to military aircraft which don't usually have a lot of people on board."

Keifer has already begun to set his course for the future.

"I plan on attending Hampton University in Hampton, Va. and getting a degree in air traffic controlling," Keifer said. "After that, I want to get accepted into the FAA and work either at Norfolk, Va. international airport or in Washington, D.C."

Wal-Mart sponsors scholarships

Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. of Bentonville, Ark., has established a $20,000 four-year scholarship program at Wayne State College.

This year's recipients are Sara Granberg of Wayne and Megan Wade of Battle Creek. Each received

$2,500 for tuition, fees, books, room and board. The awards are renewable for three years provided they maintain a 3.0 grade point average and remain enrolled full-time in their declared majors.

Wayne State College is one of only 72 colleges and universities selected for the scholarships.

Granberg, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Granberg of Wayne, is majoring in speech communications/public relations at Wayne State. She is a 1993 graduate of Wayne High School where she was active in varsity band, choir, jazz choir, the flag squad, Student Council, spring musicals, National Honor Society and the Spanish Club.

Wade, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Wade of Battle Creek, is majoring in graphic design at Wayne State. She is a 1993 graduate of Battle Creek High School where she was active in cheerleading, drill team, band, mixed-chorus, swing choir, art competitions and the Principal's Honor Roll.

"The Wal-Mart Competitive Edge Scholarships was developed as a commitment to the growth and strength of technology-intensive industries that affect America's success in the global marketplace," says Jan Mauldin, education director of Wal-Mart Stores, Inc.

Wayne State College has received national attention for its curriculum and administrative programs in the fields of computer-aided design (CAD), information systems and computer network technology.

The scholarships were awarded for the 1993-94 academic year to students meeting certain criteria, including grade-point average, demonstration of community service and leadership and attending college in the states of their residence.

Kiwanis creates scholarship

Seniors named top teens

Two Northeast Nebraska seniors were named January teenagers of the month by the Northeast Nebraska Elks Association. Christopher Weber, a senior at Wisner-Pilger High School and son of Norman and Dorothy Weber of rural Wisner, was named boy teen of the month for January.

Rough winter has its bright moments

The weather has moderated and we didn't get the snow. I shudder at the news of storms on the East Coast, and I agree with Paul Harvey that the "God's Must Be Angry" at California. At the very least, Mother Nature is ticked.

We're already hooked on the Olympics. The opening ceremonies were cold and beautiful, full of pomp and pageantry. Times like that, I wish we had a big TV screen. Charles Kuralt commented at the very end that it had been refreshing to watch after all the distraction over two figure skaters.

Last night, Scotty Hamilton narrated the pair skating at Hamar, Norway. For two people who can barely stand upon ice skates, the maneuvers are incredible. We also saw a rerun of the gold medal downhill ski run by Tommy Moe; equally mind-boggling. I mentioned to the Big Farmer that President Clinton had called to congratulate Tom from his limo on the way to the golf course. Mike's response was that Bill's car phone must be a lot stronger than mine!

By Pat Meierhenry

Incidentally, it does seem to have been a good winter for skiing in the U.S. I talked to sister-in-law Linda on Friday night and their condo on Sugar Mountain in Boone, N.C. has been in demand.

I called Linda to notify her that grandchild #3 had arrived, and we finally have our granddaughter. Randa Marie Meierhenry presented herself at 4 p.m. on Feb. 11. I'm on call this week, so we still haven't seen her. But the word is: dark hair, blue eyes and long legs. I can't imagine where she got those! It's just such a relief when it's over and everything's okay. I don't remember being this anxious over our own...

Ann and Max were here for the weekend. Max played in a softball tournament (!) in Omaha. It's an annual event called the Snowball Softball Tourney. No snow, but plenty of gusty wind; and ice. They had sprinkled the base lines, so there was lots of sliding into base.

Ann and I finally made it to the Gretna outlet mall. What fun. Lots of end of season sales. Of course, lots of the stores are brands that I don't ordinarily buy anyway; there's no J.C. Penney, or Sears, out there.

The up and down Husker basketball team won a home game by staying in a motel the night before! Coaches really have to use psychology.

Whatever, hope your sweetheart was good to you, hope this weather continues and hope Nancy Kerrigan gets a medal!

SoyDiesel powers new Lincoln bus

The cooperative efforts of the Nebraska Soybean Checkoff Board, the National SoyDiesel Development Board and the city of Lincoln have resulted in the first demonstration in Nebraska of mass transit busses using a new alternative fuel made from soybean oil.

Two of Lincoln's STARTRAN busses, are now using a 25-75 percent blend of Soy Based Biodiesel and petroleum diesel. The demonstration, scheduled for one year, is part of a nationwide effort to illustrate the ability of Biodiesel to reduce pollution while at the same time causing no reduction in engine performance or mileage.

"These soy powered busses running in Lincoln will help bring awareness of Soy Diesel in Nebraska," said Managing Director of the Nebraska Soybean Checkoff Program Jim Weyer. "More importantly it will demonstrate how agriculture is playing an important role in improving our environment."

Soy Diesel improves air quality by sharply reducing the toxic emissions and particulate matter released when burning straight petroleum diesel. "Weyer adds that the elimination of black smoke and an improvement of smell will be welcomed by those who drive and ride the busses regularly."

Information gathered from demonstrations like the one in Lincoln, is expected to go a long way in illustrating the advantages of Biodiesel to large cities that are desperately in need of improving air quality in order to meet more stringent requirements set down by the Clean Air Act of 1990. According to Weyer, "Selling Soy Based Biodiesel to large mass transit systems in the large cities will be crucial in successfully marketing this new product."

These city bus systems have the ability to consume enough Biodiesel to make it a profitable venture for companies that want to manufacture it. And of course the more soybean oil processed to make Biodiesel, the more soybeans consumed, which means good news to Nebraska soybean producers."

In order for the Biodiesel demonstration to be a reality in Lincoln, funding was needed to set up a special fueling station to store the alternative fuel. That's where the Nebraska Soybean Development, Utilization and Marketing Board (NSDUMB) came in.

"We felt this demonstration would go a long way in the promotion and marketing of an important soybean product," said Board Member Jerry Haertel, a soybean farmer from Greenwood. "Projects like this one, illustrate how soybean checkoff funds can be used as a catalyst to create a larger market for soybean products."

As we successfully promote SoyDiesel into the diesel fuel market, we'll see more soybean oil consumed. That of course will lead to more profitability for soybean producers. Funds allocated by NSDUMB were used to purchase a 2,000 gallon tank, fuel pump, cement pad and security fencing.

Weyer was also instrumental in securing a grant from the National SoyDiesel Development Board. The grant money has been applied toward the purchase of the Biodiesel which is refined at Interchem Industries, Inc. in "Overland Park, Kan."

As part of the Lincoln demonstration project, one of the two busses being used has been brightly painted with a picture of several large soybeans and a message on the side that reads, Soybean Powered: This Bus Runs On Soybean Bio-Diesel. The rear of the bus has a different message: This Bus Gets 250 Miles Per Acre, illustrating the benefits consuming Biodiesel will have on soybean producers.

Haertel summed up the benefits of the project by stating, "This is a great demonstration of how agriculture is becoming part of the environmental movement. Not only does SoyDiesel provide for a means of improving air quality, but also provides for a method of extending our fuel supplies by using a renewable resource, that of course being soybeans."

Two buses, powered by SoyDiesel, are on Lincoln streets these days.

Farm Bureau hosts five 'farm bill forums'

Nebraska Farm Bureau is sponsoring five 1995 Farm Bill Forums, open to all farmers and ranchers and the general public, during late February and early March.

The Farm Bill Forums will give farmers and ranchers the opportunity to discuss important topics facing Congress as it debates the next Farm Bill, said Rob Robertson, Farm Bureau vice president/governmental relations. "The forums will allow farmers and ranchers to present their views on future farm policy — policy that will undoubtedly impact the economic viability of rural Nebraska," he said.

Topics of discussion will include farm income support programs, trade policies, crop insurance/disaster programs and other agriculture issues. Recommendations and ideas developed during the Farm Bill Forums will be compiled and conveyed to Nebraska's Congressional delegation, Robertson said.

All of the forums will be evening meetings, lasting from 7 to 10 p.m. Dates and locations are:

Feb. 21 — Norfolk, Northeast Community College.

Feb. 22 — Beatrice, Southeast Community College, Adams Lecture Hall.

Feb. 23 — Grand Island, Central Community College, 3134 W. Hwy. 34.

Feb. 28 — North Platte, UNL West Central Research and Extension Center, So. Hwy. 83.

March 1 — Alliance, Western Corral Restaurant, 1203 W. 3rd.

There is no fee for the meetings and reservations are not required.

Each meeting will open with introductory remarks and then proceed into several working group discussions focusing on a particular topic, Robertson said. "Each working group will be given the charge to discuss the topic and reach a consensus on policies or recommendations to address problems within that topic area," he said. Time will be reserved at the end of each meeting for an open forum about the overall direction and future of farm programs, he added.

Workshops to help farmers control expense

The second of two workshops on making farm profits happen will be held Feb. 22 in Randolph and Feb. 28 in Madison. "Controlling Farm Expenses" will build on the farm goal-setting and profit planning begun at the first workshops in January.

The workshops, sponsored by the Center for Rural Affairs, are designed for beginning farmers just starting their operations as well as for established farmers interested in profitable, resource-conserving farming methods. Couples are invited to attend together.

The workshops will run from 7-9 p.m. and feature Wyatt Fraas and Martin Kleinschmit of the Center for Rural Affairs' Beginning Farmer Sustainable Agriculture Project in Hartington. Fraas heads the project and has worked with farmers and ranchers throughout the west and midwest. Kleinschmit owns a grain, forage and livestock farm near Hartington.

"Farmers can plan how much profit they want to make, because they control where their money gets spent," said Fraas. "Spending it on items that will actually make more money is the key to reaching that profit goal. And planning to spend money and time to reach quality-of-life goals can put the fun back into farm life."

The workshops will be held at the Randolph High School Vo-Ag Building and the Madison Knights of Columbus Hall. These workshops are part of the New Routes to Farming series cosponsored by the Center for Rural Affairs, the Randolph FFA Alumni, St. John's Lutheran Church of rural Madison and the Nebraska Sustainable Agriculture Society.

Additional workshops in the series will include soil tith, alternative crops and other topics in sustainable agriculture. Workshops are free and open to the public.

Livestock environmental issues guide is available

A guide to the environmental regulation of livestock facilities has been co-published by the Center for Rural Affairs and the Nebraska Pork Producers Association. The guide, entitled "A Farmer's Handbook to Livestock Regulation in Nebraska" covers topics such as state and federal water quality restrictions on the operation of livestock facilities, county zoning ordinances that impact the location of feedlots, nuisance lawsuits and Nebraska's "Right to Farm" statute, and 1-300, the constitutional restriction on corporate farming.

"This handbook should help answer many of the questions we receive from farmers who are concerned about what they should be doing on their own livestock operation to protect the environment, and questions from farmers who are concerned about another facility going in next door," said Nancy Thompson, attorney with the Center for Rural Affairs.

Terry Schrick, Executive Secretary with the Nebraska Pork Producers Association, said "Environmental issues are becoming increasingly important to all livestock producers and we feel this new publication will help them better understand their responsibilities under the law."

The Handbook was written by Dave Aiken, a water and agricultural law expert with the University of Nebraska, and Annette Higby, a private attorney.

For a copy of the handbook write the Center for Rural Affairs, Box 406, Walthill, Neb. 68067. The cost is $6.
