Getting nowhere fast!

Traffic was halted on Highway 35 near Winside for a time during the height of Thursday's spring ('er winter) storm as motorists and highway personnel worked to clear stuck trucks and cars in the ditches. The treacherous road conditions lasted only a few hours before the snow stopped and the slush melted. But in that few hours hundreds of Northeast Nebraska motorists found what life was like in the ditch, according to Nebraska State Patrol officials.

Old man winter says 'Remember Me'

Winter tried to lay one final roundhouse knockout punch on the area Thursday with a short-lived but intense snowstorm that left roads nearly impassable for several hours.

The intense afternoon storm left over 5 inches of snow and caused schools to be called off at 2 p.m. at the height of the blizzard like conditions. However, by 3:30 the snowfall had all but stopped and roadways warmed by recent hot weather days and plowed quickly by highway crews were bare of snow and ice by 5 p.m.

FOR THE COUPLE of hours that the streets and highways were snow-covered there were a large number of minor accidents reported in the area. Highway 35 near Winside was blocked for a time as trucks had trouble climbing the hill south. The Nebraska Highway Patrol office said a truck also jackknifed near Hoskins and forced several other vehicles into the ditches but the traffic snarl was cleared by the Fairchild reported only one minor time an officer arrived on the scene.

"We had numerous calls of vehicles in the ditches," said the patrol spokesman. He said the problems were typical of the storms that come early or late in the winter storm season. He added the dangerous conditions lasted only about two

The storm brought a halt to most outside activities, forcing cancellation of spring sports events and farm field work.

The National Weather service in Norfolk which had issued a winter storm warning for Thursday afternoon, is predicting slightly milder weather for the next few days. Highs are expected to be in the 50s with a

Fire chief says hours 'too much'

By Les Mann Of the Herald

Racking up hundreds of hours of unpaid volunteer time is getting harder and harder for members of the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department and especially for its chief, according to Dutch Sitzman who asked Wayne City Council for a stipend for the fire chief at the meeting Tuesday.

Sitzman's request marked the second year he has asked for a stipend to help pay for some of the time he loses from his business in upholding his fire department responsibilities. Increased regulatory requirements, paperwork and required in-spections are a part of the reason for the time drain, he said. He cited one typical week in which he kept a log last year that he spent over 45 hours doing fire dena

"We've got to make a living too," Sitzman told the council. He said the degree of training and certification required of firemen these days means that the members of his department are "unpaid professionals.

He asked for $3,000 last year and said he would repeat that request this year.

"I don't think anyone else spends this kind of time working on a volunteer basis," he said citing what he called large wages and wage increases for other city department heads and for the city administrator.

In his report to the council, Sitzman said there were 36 fire and rescue calls last year involving over 1,000 man hours of volunteer time. Nearly triple that amount of time was spent in training and about 500 other hours were spent maintaining equipment and teaching the Junior Fire Patrol classes.

"A lot of other fire departments around the state look to us for adsaid Sitzman

Party season here warn principals

The prom and spring party season is open and school administrators are joining law enforcement groups and community leaders in efforts to encourage young people to celebrate

Zeiss listed several specific guidelines for parents and teens who might wish to host spring time parties to celebrate the important occasions of prom and graduation.

Plan in advance. Check party plans with your teenager and know the guest list. If you agree with who is invited, you can curb the "open party" situation.

Set a time limit. Set a definite start and ending; not too long. Consider daytime parties as an alternative to evening ones or plan activity such as swimming, skating or renting movies.

Agree to rules ahead of time. These should include no drugs including alcohol, no smoking, no leaving the party and then returning, no gate crashers allowed, lights should be left on and some rooms in your house are off limits.

Know your responsibilities. The responsible adult at a teenager's

Wayne teen credited with heroic action

Wayne senior Audra Sievers became a local heroine recently, when she used her first aid skills and common sense to save a Columbus Lakeview track athlete from possibly going into shock after an accident with the discus.

The Blue Devils were competing in the Wisner Lions Club Invitational and the discus event was completed. Sievers was sitting on the Wayne bus doing some homework when Brian Fernau drew her attention to the discus area where it appeared someone was either injured or just screwing around.

"At first, we thought a bunch of kids were just having some fun," Sievers said. "Then, after looking out the window a little more, it ap peared the fun was gone."

Sievers said there were a couple

Columbus Lakeview boys staring down at another Lakeview athlete and that's when she sprung into action. "I just rushed over there to see what was going on because by this time there were more and more people gathering around," Sievers

"When I got over there, the boy lying on the ground had his hands and head full of blood. I got down beside him and began giving him first aid by holding my hands over the cut in his head and I yelled for someone to call for a coach and an ambulance.

Audra said when she mentioned

Teachers and students across Nebraska, including a class from Wayne High School, became scientific researchers to help determine potentially dangerous radon gas levels in several counties.

Dr. John Paxton

London is meeting site

Dr. John Paxton, associate professor of business at Wayne State College, presented a paper at the 11th International Conference on Technology and Education held re-cently in London at the University of London's Institute of Education.
The paper was titled "Using Visual Programming to Enhance Classroom Education." The theme for the conference was "Deciding Our Future: Technological Imperatives for Education."

Paxton returned to Wayne State. in 1992 after teaching five years at Southwest Missouri State University. Paxton previously taught at Wayne State from 1978-87.

Paxton earned his bachelor's degree in education from Northeastern State College in Tahlequah, Okla., his master's degree in business ad-Oklahoma, and his Ph.D. from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

lowed EPA guidelines. Teachers acted as research directors.

The work was all part of the Nebraska Radon Project.

Robert Curtright, Lincoln Northeast High School teacher, was one of the project's directors. He said the Nebraska Radon Project was an effort to promote learning through a real-life experience, instead of the "recipe science," referring to the scientific process as described in textbooks.

"We're trying to get students in-terested in doing science. One of the things about science is there's this body of science you have to learn about and there's the process of science," Curtright said. "How many times does a kid in school do real research?

Curtright said the project involved a variety of educational disciplines including physics, chemistry, biology, geology, social issues and politics.

Radon test results are being analyzed now.

Curtright said preliminary results indicate that some areas of the state have higher levels of radon than others. For example, more than half the homes tested in Lincoln had levels over what's recommended by the EPA.

Merrick County including Central City didn't seem to have any problems, Curtright said.

"Generally, the eastern third of our state and the lower two tiers of those counties in our state and the regions are where you're going to find higher levels of radon in the indoor air," he said. Study results will be added to the data bank at the Nebraska Department of Health.

Those houses that tested higher than the EPA guideline will be provided with another type of radon detectors that will test the radon levels over an entire year.

Curtright said results of the long-term test will provide more accurate information because radon fluctuates during the day and from week to week. The short-term test is only four to seven days.

"If you take four to seven days in the winter it would vary different than other seasons and different weather conditions can affect the level. So over a year, you get a better sense of what the levels are about," Curtright said.

Radon is a colorless, odorless gas produced in the earth that can seep into homes through cracks in the basement and around pipes.

The EPA said radon is second to cigarette smoking as a cause of Changes in the construction of the home can lessen the risk, but no changes should be made based on one short-term test.

WILL RECEIVE SURVEY

Citizens of Wakefield, both city and rural, will be receiving a short survey in the near future. The survey is being conducted by the START Recreation Task Force. The survey will take less that five minutes to complete, according to the committee.

The START Task Force has, for some time, been considering a fund drive for a Wakefield community recreation center. The center would be located in town and would be open for membership to the Wakefield area. The center would be equipped for basketball (with one or more courts), volleyball, weight lifting, aerobics, walking and perhaps swimming.

Under strong consideration by the Task Force is the inclusion of indoor/outdoor pool in the wellness/recreation center. The pool would be heated and several of the walls of the pool facility could be opened with a deck for sunbathing. The pool would be open as many as 16 hours per day as many as seven days per week all year (with the exception of holidays).

The City Council has been approached with this idea. Although they can-not commit any expenditures of the city funding at this time, the Council has indicated that major repair work is necessary on the present outdoor pool facility in the city park. The repair work has been postponed, as possible, for several years given the good management team at the pool. The eventual replacement cost for the outdoor pool is estimated to be $400,000.

The council has also indicated that bonds would be issued for the expense of the outdoor pool. It is possible that the same $400,000 could be spent (through a bond issue) on the proposed indoor recreation/wellness center.

The outdoor pool is not heated. The outdoor pool is open for public use approximately 90 days per year. In the last several years, because of inclement weather, pool usage has been reduced to 75 days per year. In season, the pool is open from 1-5 pm and 5-9 pm with an additional hour for adult usage only. The pool is also open in season for a variety of Red Cross Swimming lessons and classes.

Contrast that with the idea of an indoor facility, open 14-16 hours per day, year round (with the exception of some holidays). The pool would be heated and in a well lit facility. With proper management of the recreation/wellness center, many aqua classes and clubs could be sponsored for children through seniors.

This survey is your chance to respond to the simple issue. Should there be an indoor pool or improvements to the outdoor pool? You will also be asked for your comments. If you have strong opinions one way or another please make them known in a survey response, encourages the START Task Force.

nual event that units Protestant, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and other Christian women in a common worship experience.

This year's ecumenical service, written by the Rev. Angelique Walker-Smith of Indianapolis, encourages us to "Go, See and Act in Community." The worship is designed to help us see our community, and the people who are a part of it, with new eyes, as if seeing our community for the first time. Discover the ministries offered in your community as well as the needs which are not yet being met; affirm both the served and the servants, and become aware that they are often one and the same. Covenant together to act as people who love persons beyond race, economic or religious diversities

We hope that you will join in this year's May Fellowship Day celebration. It is the mission of Church Women United to enhance the social and economic power of women and to facilitate the enactment of a comprehensive health care program in the U.S. The offerings given on May Fellowship Day remain in each local CWU Unit, to enable their work, to be shared with the state CWU Unit and to implement their facet of our national

Single-Again Group off to a good start

May Fellowship Day to be observed in Wayne

Pender and five surrounding communities attended the first meeting of the Single-Again group from 7-9 p.m. on Sunday, April 24 at the Pender Evangelical Covenant

Philip Rohler, pastor of the Covenant Church, began the meeting with two activities that helped the participants become acquainted in a fun and informal way. Kris Mason from West Point played piano and led the group in singing of fun and more serious praise songs. Rev. Rohler, using the Old Testament proverb, "Reliable communication permits progress," presented a study/discussion on the topic, "Effective Communication: Building Bridges to a New Life," which focused on the importance of both speaking and listening skills. The meeting concluded with refreshments and suggestions for future presentation/discussion topics. The single-again group exists to rovide non-denominational, Christian support for divorced or widowed men and women and is cosponsored by the Evangelical Covenant Church and St. Mark's Lutheran Church.

The next single-again meeting will be held at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, 302 S. Norris Avenue, Pender, from 7-9 p.m. on Sunday, May 22.

Any man or woman who is divorced or widowed is welcome to Single-Again. To find out more about the group contact Rev. Philip Rohler at 385-2738 or Joann Kramer from St. Mark's Lutheran

Water Week activities are May 1-7

Water, It's something most of us take for granted. Every time we turn on a faucet, we expect safe, clean water to flow out.

To call attention to this everyday occurrence, water systems through-out America will celebrate Water Week 94, May 1-7. The Logan East Rural Water System based in Oakland and operated by the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District is joining with the National Rural Water Association to promote Water Week-94

Water Week was established seven years ago as an opportunity for water system customers to learn more about water issues and water system operation.

Water Week gives the public a chance to recognize the commit-ment of water systems to meet standards established by the Safe Drinking Water Act amendments of 1986," said Tom Burdess, Logan East Rural Water System manager.

Burdess of Oakland has served as the system manager of the Logan East Rural Water System since its creation three years ago. He works from the field operations office located at 206 N. Oakland Ave. in Oakland. All Logan East water user accounts are recorded at the Lower Elkhorn NRD office in Norfolk.

Rural water systems are operated several NRDs across Nebraska. These systems supply high-quality drinking water to homes and farmers that otherwise would not have an adequate source. Currently, the Logan East system serves approximately 500 rural water customers in parts of Burt, Dodge and Washington counties.

The U.S. Rural Development Administration has recently awarded a grant and 40-year loan to help extend the Logan East Rural Water System to additional customers. The administration approved a grant $3.31 million to the Lower Elkhorn NRD in Norfolk and the Logan East Rural Water System in cland for phase IV development.

The number of families served by the Logan East system is expected to double to approximately 1,000 with the fourth and final phase of the expansion project. This phase will expand Logan East RWS to the communities of Fontanelle and Herman, and also will serve farms on the Missouri River bottom from Decatur to such as the prom, baccalaureate, and graduation. These occasions however, are not without worry or anxiety.

Prom, Baccalaureate, Graduation and All Other Activities! The school year is an exciting time for high school students with activities

The principals of Northeast Nebraska want you to know that we support the strict adherence to the laws on the use of alcohol and the sale and distribution of alcoholic beverages to minors. Our concern is that alcohol is available to minors at many home parties and parties at other facilities. We draw attention to Nebraska Revised Statutes Sections 53-180 et. seq. which state that a parent or other adult who furnishes alcohol to a minor is subject to a fine of up to $1,000.00 or one year in jail, or both.

We do not want these good times marred by unacceptable behavior, accidents or injuries. Please help us in this endeavor
