Voter turnout may be higher due to issues

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

Some 60 of Wayne County's 5,400 registered voters have already cast their ballots in the Primary election and all is in readiness for the rest of the voters to go to the polls next Tuesday according to County Clerk Deb Finn.

By today 60 absentee ballots had already been turned in at the clerk's office, which is about average with previous primary elections Mrs. Finn said. She added that the voter turnout may be up in many areas of the county because of the issues and number of candidates in the running.

She ordered extra ballots for the Wayne and Wakefield School Board races because of the number of candidates and public interest in the races, she said. In Wayne eight candidates currently on the ballot will be narrowed to six for the November election. Three posts will be filled. In Wakefield seventeen candidates are vying for three openings on the school board.

THE SALES TAX vote in Wayne will also have a tendency to boost voter turnout, she said. Voters will decide on a one cent limited term sales tax to raise revenues to build a new library and senior center, refurbish the city auditorium and replace a downtown storm sewer.

The last time voters in Wayne were asked to approve a sales tax was in May of 1987. At that time the electorate was asked to approve a 1.5 cent sales tax with options for use of the funds for property tax relief and economic development. There was no time limit placed on the tax at that time. Voters rejected the measure then 387 in favor to 704 against.

MRS. FINN SAID other indications of an above average voter turnout next week might be the amount of interest in registering and changing party affiliations. She said her office was busy right up until the deadline last night getting registrations in.

While the total number of registered voters appears to be down at 5,400, she said the clerk's office has purged many deceased and relocated voters from the lists in recent months. Only one polling place change will affect any county voters. With the closure of District 77 school, the Garfield Precinct voters will cast their ballots with Hoskins voters at the Hoskins Fire Hall according to Mrs. Finn. She said all other polling places remain the same as in previous years.

The polls will open at 8 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

National Day of Prayer to be recognized

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

Wayne Mayor Bob Carhart will be leading the town in prayer Thursday, which is the 43rd annual National Day of Prayer. The day will kick off in Wayne with the Mayor's Prayer Breakfast at 7 a.m. at the Black Knight.

National, state and local leaders are encouraging Americans to set aside time for concentrated prayer at work, school, church and home in recognition of this year's theme "Heal our Land."

Several churches in Wayne will be ringing their bells at noon on Thursday to remind people to pray on the national recognition day.

THE NATIONAL DAY of Prayer is similar to Thanksgiving or the Fourth of July said Carhart, since it is a day recognized to exercise the national privilege to pause and ask God to heal our land.

The National Day of Prayer Task Force organizes and promotes the annual day. It is a nonsectarian group without political affiliation which encourages the privilege and responsibility of citizens to pray for America, its leaders, churches, businesses, schools and families.

Morning Prayer

*Our Father, thank thee for this day and for Thy forgiveness we do pray.
Guide each footstep as we walk and govern our tongue when we talk.
Guide the thoughts of our mind
May each be pure, tolerant and kind.
Guide the hearing of our ear
Oh, be Thou Lord, ever near.
Guide the seeing of our eye
That we may meet with Thee on high.
Again, Father,
In all that we do and think
Say, hear and see
Be done in a manner
Pleasing to Thee.*

Amen

Rain totals are opposite

The moisture situation was reversed last year at this time with above average rainfall totals then, but at the end of April weather figures showed the area more than two inches below normal in rainfall.

Don't sound the drought alarm yet, says Wayne Weather observer Pat Gross. There's still a lot of spring left for the moisture levels to catch up and local farmers might be looking forward to the opportunity to have dry enough field conditions to get their planting done on schedule.

In the two years previous planting was delayed until late in the season because of near constant rains.

One oddity about the April weather was the temperature record for the month. The high was 91 degrees on the 19th and the low was 12 degrees on April 6. April's 5.5 inches of snowfall brought to 39 inches the total for the winter-to-date.

Gross issued a cautious "fairly safe" prediction that the winter is "pretty well" behind us.

Honor students are encouraged to 'soar'

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

The 31st Annual Scholastic Achievement Banquet, sponsored by the Wayne Kiwanis Club was held in the Student Union of Wayne State College, Sunday night.

The banquet honored the top 10 students in grades 7-12 for their classroom excellence. KTCH general manager Mark Ahmann was Master of Ceremonies while Rev. Craig Holstedt gave the invocation.

Kiwanis president Rusty Parker gave a greetings address to those in attendance and congratulated each of the award winners on their academic achievements. "I wish each of you continued success as you drive for excellence," Parker said.

The guest speaker was Steve Siemens, founder of Siemens People Builders around the Des Moines, Iowa area. Siemens, a Kiwanian, devotes his time going around to schools and businesses and giving motivational speeches to make audiences feel good about themselves.

"Basically, people have two options in living their lives," Siemens said. "You can scratch like chickens or soar like eagles. There are basement people who will drag you down and there are balcony people which is the type of person you should become, who rise above," Siemens added.

The guest speaker shared many anecdotes in passing his message. His secret to success consists of four steps: don't sink, don't wink, blink and think. The message being not to let the low points of your life drag you so far down that you can't get back up and not to take life so seriously that you miss out on a lot of good times. "Don't die until you're dead," Siemens said. "Take a second look—blink. Finally, think positive thoughts."

Following the speaker's address the presentation of honor students was announced by Middle School principal, Richard Mettcer and high school principal, Don Zeiss.

Kiwanis pledges to "study, devise and suggest methods and means to assist boys and girls to adjust themselves to their environment and become adapted to the social, economic, and moral demands which they may encounter."

'Thank you Ron'

Dear Editor:

I have read with some interest the various letters and activities supporting Ron Carnes and Superintendent Jensen. I think that it goes without saying that anyone who has been in the education field for as long as Dr. Jensen and Ron Carnes would have their critics and their supporters. I don't see where publishing more letters of support or critical letters will change the situation. It seems that Dr. Jensen has acted within his authority and has been supported by the Board of Education. Ron Carnes the Athletic Director is no more.

But what about Ron Carnes the man. The man who has given approximately 30 years of his life to the young people and community of Wayne. I am probably biased because I was one of the original people who wrote letters of recommendation for Ron. I unfortunately have only briefly met Dr. Jensen. I had worked with Ron and when he decided to seek the position of Wayne High Athletic Director I believed he would do his best. He was enthusiastic about the position and it's potential for helping our young people. I served on a Sports Advisory Council/Committee and we worked with Ron on several projects. If my memory serves me correctly the Girls Golf Team at WCHS was started at that time. The following are some of the projects Ron initiated or helped get started while serving:

1. Promoted the organization of the Athletic Boosters Club.
2. Helped organize the NAC Activities Conference and served as its president for two terms.
3. Introduced and updated a Coaches Handbook.
4. Introduced an evaluation process for head coaches.

5. Introduced and updated training rules format.

6. Introduced the awards night presentations: Sports Kickoff, Fall Awards and Winter Awards Night.

7. Introduced a student athletic handbook.

8. Organized the Athletic Training Cooperative Program with Wayne State College to supply an apprentice athletic trainer from the college for our athletes.

9. Promotes the organization of the spring athletic banquet through the support of the Athletic Boosters to recognize all student athletes.

10. Established the need for and helped find a physical space for the following: athletic training room, coaches dressing room, athletic director's office, weight training room and visitors dressing room.

I am certain there were many other professional activities that Ron participated in as Athletic Director. He served Wayne Carroll High School in that capacity for nine years.

For those activities and for his taking an active part in the Wayne community activities, I think we owe Ron Carnes, the man, a note of thanks for caring and at least a handshake. Please seek him out. He would appreciate your good thoughts.

It is my understanding that he was not asked to tell his story to the Board of Education. I can see supporting your superintendent but how about the common courtesy of listening. Listening to a man who wanted to do well and a man who did serve our youth and community.

I am asking the members of our community, would you have listened to him? I would have. Thank you Ron!

Publish both sides

Dear Editor:

This letter is in response to the editorial and two letters that appeared in the Feb. 18 edition of The Herald. This letter has been modified since the editor refused to print my first letter.

The editorial to which I refer was entitled "Bushwhacking in Wayne." The editorial referred to a time when the West was young and bushwhackers, a cowardly lot, shot their opponents in the back from safely anonymous hidden positions, and then ran like yellow dogs. You said that the tradition and tactic was alive in Wayne, and being employed by those who were supporters of Wayne High Athletic Director Ron Carnes.

For your information (and edification) there was another concept that received wide play in the early West, namely that of speaking the truth. Those old Westerners place great store upon contracts settled with a handshake, and the notion that a man's "word was his bond."

Let us apply these concepts to your editorial. You say that the friends of Carnes committed despicable acts by hiring private investigators to dig up dirt on Dennis Jensen, and that the investigator's report contains a "misleading pile of unsubstantiated claims" which attempts to smear the personal character of Mr. Jensen. At this time, I am responding to this statement because I have affidavits proving the report to be true. I will show these to anyone at anytime. The Feb. 18 edition of the Herald did not cite what I consider to be the most damaging evidence that was found in that report, and Mr. Jensen no longer denies the accuracy of this affidavit. He effectively admitted the truthfulness of it to me in a recent face-to-face conversation.

The statement in your editorial, therefore, that these accusations amounted to "a misleading pile of unsubstantiated claims" is untrue. Your statement is false. The claims are substantiated, out of the mouth of the accused. You would do well to apply my rule of the Old West, which is that when someone is shown the truth, he admits his mistakes.

An editor must display fairness and publish both sides of an issue.

Where is our editor in the relentless pursuit of truth? Which leads me to the second point that I want to make, a point that received considerable play in two articles contained in your Feb. 18 edition. The publicity that you have given this matter never has paid any attention to the fact that Ron Carnes has faithfully served Wayne High and the patrons of the Wayne School District for many years.

Our School Board does have the opportunity to rectify wrongs. I think they must do so in the best interest of our kids and our community. Isn't it too bad that this ever happened to the Wayne school system and the Wayne community. The education of our children is so important to us all, and it is obviously something in which we must all become actively involved. I think there are a lot of people in this community who agree with me.

If you want to have a voice in how your school is run, get involved in the upcoming school board elections. Select your candidates wisely. Be certain that you know how they stand on the issues. Also, it is important to know how they feel about and treat their fellow man.

Seven senators have no opponents

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — Next Tuesday, we'll all be going to the polls to cast our ballots in the 1994 spring primary.

When it comes to voting for Nebraska legislators, you might be surprised at how few choices you'll have this year.

Only 57 candidates filed for the 26 seats up for election.

Seven state senators have no opponents at all.

The scant number of office seekers is a modern-day low, according to political observers.

There are plenty of reasons why. One biggie is the high cost of running for the Legislature.

In 1992 — the last legislative election — it cost an average of $30,340 to run a primary and general election campaign. The overall cost of the legislative election was four times higher in 1992 than it was only 14 years earlier.

Five candidates in 1992 shelled out more than $70,000. Sen. Spence Morrissey of Tecumseh shelled out $79,020 in his unsuccessful re-election bid.

Remember, this is all for a job that pays $12,000-a-year plus expenses.

Now grandma used to tell me that farmers were the biggest gamblers in the world. They'd roll the dice each spring, plant their crops and buy their livestock, and hope Mother Nature wasn't tossing snake eyes that year.

Well grandma, I'd say these politicians are pretty righteous risk-takers, too.

We all have this romantic notion that a person with some good ideas, a strong will and an ability to motivate people can sweep themselves into office.

Wrong-o, yard-sign breath.

It takes cash for mailings, for newspaper advertising, for leaflets and brochures, for consultants and mailing lists, for billboards and yard signs.

And that cash is much more easily raised by an incumbent who knows the lobbyists and special interest groups that provide a majority of the funds for campaigns.

A challenger better have some big-time cash of their own or plenty of friends willing to come up with the $30,000-plus needed to beat a sitting officeholder.

Faced with that challenge, many prospective candidates just forget it. Case in point: this year.

Sure, there are plenty of other reasons why people don't run. The biggest may be time. When senators resign or retire from the Legislature, they almost always mention the massive time commitment made to be a state senator.

P.J. Morgan, who packed in his bags as Omaha mayor recently (and left the State Republican Party gasping for a prospective U.S. Senate candidate in 1996), cited the hours he had to spend at the office and at meetings, away from his family, when he announced his resignation.

When you weigh all that time, the low pay afforded to state senators, and the distasteful job of asking special interests for campaign contributions, (no one, even politicians, like to ask people for money), it's a job few people want or can afford to keep.

What that leaves us is two kinds of people in the Unicameral: older folks who have already climbed to the top of their professions and have some time and money to dabble in politics, and the young political climbers who use the time in Lincoln to make a name for themselves and move on to higher office.

The normal guy or gal? Well, it's tough.

It's all something worth pondering when you step into the polling booths next Tuesday. With so few candidates, there won't be much else to think about.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Purple sun? Affidavit doesn't prove it is the truth

I believe the sun is purple.

I am so strong in my belief that the sun is purple that I have signed a notarized affidavit that says I believe it is so.

Of course, my affidavit doesn't make it true. I'm sure I could get affidavits from others that say the sun is yellow and maybe even a few that say it is other colors as well.

The point is, an affidavit doesn't prove the truth as Mike Mallette claims in his letter elsewhere on this page. If the affidavit of one person on an issue were all that was needed to prove the truth then we wouldn't need judges, courts and juries to listen to all sides before trying to decide what is the truth.

Mr. Mallette is now circulating two affidavits which he says prove the truth of all the claims in a private investigator's report which was circulated last winter.

The investigator's report was calculated to smear the character of Wayne School Superintendent Dr. Dennis Jensen, claiming, among other things that he was a pervert. The apparent purpose of the smear campaign was to either get Jensen to reverse a decision to reassign the high school athletic director to other duties or to discredit the superintendent enough so he would either leave or be fired.

We went to the source of the some of the information contained in the obviously slanted investigator's report and found there was a great deal of information that was not included as well as many points that were in it which could be easily refuted. On this page we called the investigator's report a cowardly smear campaign containing a "misleading pile of unsubstantiated claims." And I'll say it again.

If that investigator's report was such a fine and truthful thing, why won't anybody, including Mr. Mallette, stand behind it and take credit for having it produced. Mr. Mallette admits now to having shown the report to people but he said he doesn't know who mailed it to him, who produced it or who paid for the investigators.

In reality, the report stinks so much nobody wants to get too close for fear the smell will rub off. Those responsible still don't want to admit it, sworn affidavits or not.

For the record, I talked to Dr. Jensen about the claims in Mr. Mallette's letter today and he said he did not admit anything to Mr. Mallette in a face to face conversation and the "claims are not substantiated out of the mouth of the accused," as Mallette claims. I rejected an earlier version of the same letter because of its libelous content.

The way I see it, this is not how our system should work. Attempts to discredit a person you don't agree with by secretly circulating damaging information about their character is and always will be despicable. It negatively affects not only the individual targeted but his family and the community as a whole.

If Mike Mallette believes a wrong was done, and I will never dispute his right to do that, there is a system to correct the wrong or get satisfaction. That system should not involve the hiring and use of a private investigator's report to smear a man's good name.

Mann Overboard

By Les Mann

In the ongoing personnel dispute at the school there are many mechanisms in place to protect the rights of an individual and his friends who feel wronged.

The elected representatives on the school board, the local teacher's union, the state teacher's union, the judicial system and the election process are all in place to be used in these cases. The school board previously issued its position supporting Jensen's personnel decision. The teacher's unions have taken no outward action. The judicial system has not been used and though there was talk of a recall election effort, nothing has materialized. Indeed, even the candidates for the school board election next week have carefully avoided public comment on the matter.

For me, the decision on who to believe and which side to accept in this dispute comes down to my personal conviction about what is right and wrong.

I believe it is wrong for someone to have first hired the private investigators to invade the privacy of an individual and then circulate falsehoods as fact from a safely anonymous position in an effort to win their way. They are using any means to achieve an end and that is wrong.

I believe Ron Carnes and his friends should have denounced the tactic and distanced themselves from it if they didn't personally condone it.

I don't believe I want people who would condone a privacy-invading, malicious smear campaign teaching my children. I certainly don't want people who either condone it or don't denounce it representing my interests on the school board.

Teaching gift

Dear Editor:
Teaching is a gift for a lifetime. It grows in value and pays dividends far beyond the classroom. Our children are recipients of that gift as they experience the skillful guidance of our teachers. On Tuesday, May 3, we can all offer our appreciation for the gift of teaching — it's National Teacher Day.

Remember your favorite teacher? It may have been the third grade instructor who said nice things about your writing. It may have been the seventh grade teacher who took extra time to help you work out those tough math problems. It also may have been the senior high teacher who made the study of literature come alive.

We all remember teachers who made a difference in our lives, so to the teachers of yesterday and today, we say thank you for sharing your gifts with us. We appreciate what you've done.

'Is it good for the kids?'

Dear Editor:
Please allow me to express my concerns about a situation in your community involving the superintendent of schools and the past athletic director. I wish to express my concerns in seeing the outright lies, attempts to discredit and breaking down of a friend-and-his family. In my community of Elk Point we are aware of articles and the hiring of a private investigator in order to do damage to Dr. Jensen and his family. All of these acts were non-productive for the people involved in the witch-hunt. They only cause lasting scars for the community they live in.

I served for six years on the Elk Point school board while Dr. Jensen was employed here. In all those years, two things impressed

Credit to the media

Dear Editor:
We recently celebrated volunteer week. As a member of one of the local volunteer organizations (the Wayne County Jaycees) I'd like to let your readers know that while we're recognizing the volunteers of the community we may be forgetting perhaps the most important volunteer work being done. The work I'm referring to is that of the media.

Community projects and fund raisers are going on in almost daily throughout the year. These events are carried out successfully by people ranging from the youngest scout to the oldest Rotarian, but without the media who would know they are going on at all? They promote the volunteers projects to insure their success and follow up the projects by printing photographs and writing stories to make sure everyone gets their credits.

Now I think it's their turn to get some credit. Thanks to The Wayne Herald, KTCH and Jones Intercable, for all you do for us throughout the year.

For those of you that agree, take the time to tell them thanks as well.

Unjust, untrue accusations

Dear Editor:
I am writing this letter concerning some unjust and untrue accusations that have been made about the background of Mr. Dennis Jensen. I served on the School Board during the time Dennis was Superintendent at Elk Point. I, myself, have taught school for seven years and am presently in my 20th year of farming. I have never seen a more sincere, hard working man than Dennis Jensen. He gave professional and moral integrity to his job.

Dennis brought into our district youth and enthusiasm with many fresh ideas. Dennis up-dated our computer systems and our Industrial Technology program, improved our curriculum, created a strong financial base for our school, initiated an evaluation program that created better teachers, brought awareness of our schools happenings to the public, up-dated our policies, made us set goals for the future and on and on. Being a superintendent or referee are two jobs where it is hard to please every one. It is easy to sit back and make bleacher comments and take other views of a situation even though you're not as close to the call. You know, the overall goal is the education of our youth. Again, I don't know a more sincere educator than Dennis Jensen. He also showed interest in our community as a leader and as a participant.

Some things in life are hard to do and I thank God for people like Dennis and Monica Jensen for being willing to stand up for what they believe in — the education of our youth. It is time for others in the Wayne community to be responsible for their actions that may be causing this turmoil.

I cannot believe that Dennis Jensen would have done anything that would have hindered the education of your children.

Dick Fennel

me most about Dr. Jensen. One was his honesty; the other was a sign he had made out of poster board that hung behind his chair. The sign read, "Is it good for kids?" Most of his decisions were based on these two important beliefs in his life.

I pray that the people involved in trying to discredit Dr. Jensen will end their campaigns of destruction, and let healing begin.

The school board is responsible for handling these kinds of conflicts. They are elected by the people to represent the community in the decision-making process of their local school. The community needs to recognize this.

Keep debate rational

Dear Editor:
Your recent editorial "Strident debate needed" disappointed me in several ways. First, has all civility left public discourse? Just because of our national congress insists on replacing reasoned debate with insults, innuendos and short sound bites designed to denigrate and arouse hot emotions, doesn't mean we have to fall to the same low level. My dictionary defines strident as "loud and harsh." What we need is calm and reasoned discussion of the issues.

Second, have we become so mistrustful and cynical that no project can enjoy community-wide support? Here we have a project that was organized by local people, responding to local needs and proposed financing is a good mix of public and private sources. The editorial could have easily commended the town for recognizing a need and acting to solve it in a way that brought community-wide support.

Do people really have to be stridently opposed?

I agree debate is healthy and there are a number of important issues that are indirectly related to these projects. You quite rightly brought up the problem of how county and city residents can equitably use and pay for services that are physically located in the City of Wayne but of value to the greater community. There are other issues that cut to what we want our government to be involved with. A conservative, of whom Wayne has many, might ask why government should even fund and run a Senior Center, a Library or an Auditorium. Perhaps private enterprise can run it better? A liberal might ask if a sales tax is the most progressive way to fund the project.

So call for debate, but focus on the issues and let us keep the discussion rational.

Charles A. Shapiro

Citizens should speak out against injustice

Dear Editor:
As upstanding members of this community, it is our responsibility to speak out when we see injustice in our midst. People we have known and respected for years in our school system are not receiving the respect they have earned through their years of dedication and personal sacrifice. They have been rewarded for their efforts not with words of thanks for a job well done, but with threats of elimination of programs, change of assignment with no explanation, threats of job loss and job loss with little or no explanation.

Where is justice? How long can we stand by in silence and watch our community divided? As responsible citizens who believe in our community and our schools, we must speak out now! Through our silence we exhibit total agreement with that which we silently so strongly oppose. We cannot expect others to speak for us. Stand up for yourself, the community and most importantly our kids. The pendulum must begin to swing back.

Three strikes and you're out!

When it comes to drunk drivers, is it one strike and you're out?

You're driving to your grandparent's with your wife and new baby. You three have five minutes to live. A drunk driver three miles ahead is going to suddenly swerve and hit your car head on.

You glance at your wife. Recall the days when you first met? And the flirtations which led to dating? Then you proposed and were engaged. At your wedding relatives rejoiced. They'll gather again in three days. This time to cry. That oncoming plastered numskull will increase the morticians business by three bodies.

The baby snuggles in your wife's arms. It is hard to believe that a scumbag drunk, now a mile away, is going to murder you, your wife, and child. Scheming lawyers will, of course, represent him in

Great effort for Wayne

Dear Editor:
Over 40 eager workers came to help with the community cleanup recently.

The Wayne County Jaycees got assistance from the Lambda Phi Omega Sorority and the Save Our Surroundings Club, both from Wayne State College, and from the Brownie Troop 192.

We canvassed the community and hauled away 30-40 loads of debris. We also walked the ditches around town emphasizing on those that aren't covered by the adopt-a-highway projects and cleaned alleys on either side of Main Street.

The Jaycees would like to thank those groups that assisted in the cleanup as well as the following businesses for the donations.

Thanks to Pac 'N' Save and Pamida for donating garbage bags and to Godfather's Pizza, Pizza Hut, Presto and Gary's General Store for the pizzas we enjoyed after the cleanup.

Should a child be transferred?

QUESTION: Do you ever favor removing a child from one school to transfer him to another?

DR. DOBSON: Yes, there are times when a change of schools -- or even a change of teachers within a school -- can be in the child's best interest.

Educators are reluctant to approve these transfers, for obvious reasons, although the possibility should be considered when the situation warrants.

For example, there are occasions when a young student runs into social problems that can be resolved best by giving him a "clean start" someplace else. Furthermore, schools vary tremendously in their difficulty; some are located in higher socioeconomic areas where a majority of the children are much more intelligent than would ordinarily be expected. The mean IQ in schools of this nature may fall between 115 and 120.

What happens, then, to a child with average ability in such a setting? Although he might have competed successfully in an ordinary school, he is in the lower 15 percent at Einstein Elementary.

My point is this: success is not absolute, it is relative. A child does not ask, "How am I doing?" but rather, "How am I doing compared to everyone else?" Little Johnny may grow up thinking he is a dummy when he would have been an intellectual leader in a less competitive setting.

Thus, if a child is floundering in one academic environment for whatever reason, the solution might involve a transfer to a more suitable classroom.

QUESTION: I am an adult who is not coping so well with the problems of self-doubt. I feel ugly and unrespectful and unworthy. What encouragement can you offer?

DR. DOBSON: Isn't it about time you made friends with yourself? Aren't there enough headaches in life without beating your skull against the old brick wall of inadequacy, year after year?

adults like you with low self-esteem, I would depict a bowed, weary traveler. Over his shoulder, I would place the end of a mile-long chain to which is attached tons of scrap iron, old tires and garbage of all kinds.

Each piece of junk is inscribed with the details of some humiliation: a failure, an embarrassment, a rejection from the past. He could let go of the chain and free himself from that heavy load which immobilizes and exhausts him, but he is somehow convinced that it must be dragged throughout life. So he plods onward, digging a furrow in the good earth as he goes.

You can free yourself from the weight of the chain if you will but turn it loose. Your inferiority is based on a distortion of reality seen through a child's eyes. The standards by which you have assessed yourself are themselves changing and fickle.

Dr. Maxwell Maltz, the plastic surgeon who authored Psycho-Cybernetics, said women came to him in the 1920s requesting that their breasts be reduced in size.

In King Solomon's biblical love song, he asks his bride to overlook his dark skin that had occurred from exposure to the sun. In his day, right meant white. But now bronzed Solomon would be the pride of the beach. False values!

Modern women are ashamed to admit that they carry 10 extra pounds of weight, yet Rembrandt would have loved to paint their plump bodies.

Don't you see that your personal worth is not really dependent on the opinions of others and the temporal, fluctuating values they represent? The sooner you can come to accept the transcending worth of your humanness, the sooner you can come to terms with yourself.

I must agree with the writer who said, "While in the race to save our face, why not conquer inner space?" It's not a bad idea.

Where Is Your Medicine Chest?

In most households, the medicine chest is in the bathroom. While this is convenient, it is actually harmful to most medications. Most drugs deteriorate faster in warm, moist places such as the bathroom, and in places with high humidity and heat such as the kitchen. The best place to store medications is a cool, dark place such as a bedroom or hall closet, out of the reach of children. Should you move your medicine chest?

The Golden Years

By: Connie Dishrow

Hugo Vihlen, 61 of Homestead, Florida, is a retired airline pilot who thinks small. For 25 years he held the record for crossing the Atlantic in the smallest boat — only six feet long. Then someone did it in a smaller boat. So Vihlen got into a sailboat 5 feet 4 inches long and set out from St. Johns, Newfoundland. After 104 days he landed at Falmouth, England as the record-holder again. He celebrated by flying home first class.

Many people with individual retirement accounts (IRAs), disappointed by low interest rates paid by banks, are looking for tax-deferred alternatives. One possibility is a variable annuity, an insurance package that invests your money in mutual funds. Unlike conventional IRAs, annuities do not limit the amount you can contribute. But variable annuities are not federally insured and the income rate is not guaranteed. Also, various fees may add up to as much as 2 percent a year and there are penalties for canceling within the first few years.

Heal Our Land

Together we can spread the word in our community to recognize the National Day of Prayer. May 5, 1994, marks the 43rd consecutive observance of the Annual National Day of Prayer. Only through the prayer and repentance of Americans everywhere can our nation hope to be restored to the land envisioned by our forefathers. The National Day of Prayer is similar to Thanksgiving or the Fourth of July. It's a national day and a privilege to pause and ask God to Heal Our Land.

The President shall set aside and proclaim the first Thursday in May in each year as a National Day of Prayer, on which the people of the United States may turn to God in prayer and meditation at churches, in groups, and as individuals.

(As amended May 5, 1988, P.L. 100-307, 102 Stat. 456.)

Attend the Mayor's Prayer Breakfast in Wayne, Thursday, May 5 at The Black Knight.

Join with Americans throughout our nation in celebrating our fundamental religious freedom to pray. For information or materials contact: National Day of Prayer Task Force, P.O. Box 15616, Colorado Springs, CO 80935-5616, or call (719) 531-3379.

HOW GOOD IS CARE CHOICES HMO?

"The Best Thing About Care Choices Is It's Hassle-Free." — Joyce Brumbyer, Brian Cliff College, Sioux City

"As an employer, I think the biggest thing going for this plan is that it's hassle-free. People don't have to hassle with claim forms. And we in administration have had no problems either."

"Care Choices has the flexibility of the local service here in Siouxland with lots of choices in coverage. The doctor's list is quite extensive, and their rate increases have been well below those of our other carrier."

"As a group, we're very satisfied with Care Choices." How good is Care Choices HMO? Just ask anybody throughout Siouxland.

Softball team loses four

The Wayne State softball team went 0-4 at the Morningside Tournament over the weekend, leaving Joan Scherbring's squad with a 10-32 record heading into Sunday's season finale, a double-header at the University of Nebraska-Kearney.

WSC lost to UNO in the first game of the tournament, 5-3 last Friday night. Maryellen Livingston was tagged with the pitching loss. The 'Cats had six hits and committed two errors while the Mavericks had eight hits and one error.

Livingston and Michele Reinhardt each had two singles to pace the offense while Alex Ross doubled and Jenny Nieland singled.

On Saturday, WSC lost a 5-4 decision to South Dakota State despite out-hitting them by a 10-6 margin. The Jackrabbits broke a two-all tie in the bottom of the sixth inning with three runs and WSC's rally attempt fell just short as they scored two runs and stranded the tying run on third base in the top of the seventh.

The 'Cats pitfall was committing five errors while SDSU had just one. Jenny Nieland and Alex

Ross each doubled and singled while Jeni Umbach had a pair of base hits. Michele Reinhardt doubled and both Meg Neuberger and Kim Stigge singled to round out the hitting. Maryellen Livingston took the loss from the mound.

In the third contest the 'Cats were blanked, 7-0 by Augustana. Alex Ross was given the loss from the mound and WSC's offense was limited to three hits and they committed four errors. Augustana, the eventual tournament champions, had six hits and no errors. Lori Foster, Ross and Michele Reinhardt each had singles for WSC.

The final contest ended in an 8-0 defeat for the 'Cats as St. Cloud State notched the victory. Maryellen Livingston was the losing pitcher. WSC had the same number of hits as St. Cloud with seven but the 'Cats had four errors compared to none for the winners.

Jeni Umbach and Michele Reinhardt each had two singles while Lori Foster and Jenny Nieland each doubled. Alex Ross closed out the hitting with a base hit.

MICHELE REINHARDT led the Wildcats in hitting at Morningside's tourney.

ALEX ROSS was second to Reinhardt in hitting at the Morningside Invitational.

Head coach Rick Moorman said the weight throwers had an outstanding meet in Madison. "Both Todd Mohler and Brad Otis had personal best performances in the discus," Moorman said. "Jason McDermott threw surprisingly well in the javelin, showing potential for the decathlon in the future."

Garlic Tablets Lower Cholesterol

High cholesterol levels have been linked with heart disease. Physicians often recommend that patients with high cholesterol levels reduce consumption of saturated fat, a cholesterol building block. Eating oatmeal and fiber-containing foods also can reduce cholesterol, as can adding psyllium (an ingredient in Metamucil and other products) to the diet. According to a report in American Journal of Medicine, three-times-a-day use of tablets containing 300 mg of standardized garlic powder also may lower cholesterol levels. Twenty men and women were given the garlic tablets, and 42 were given tablets that contained no garlic (placebo). After 12 weeks, the cholesterol levels in the garlic-group had fallen by 6%. However, there was only a 1% decrease in the placebo-group. Only one of the 20 patients in the garlic group complained of odor, taste, or belching.

Blues performer headlines in Wayne

Saturday, May 7 will see a big name in blues circles making his first appearance in Wayne. Magic Slim, a 25 year veteran of the blues scene, and his band the Teardrops will be playing their own brand of hard-drivin' blues at Riley's Ballroom.

A Mississippi native now making his home in the clubs of Chicago, Magic Slim has made a name for himself — not only in Chicago, but across the country and in Europe. With a ferocious, larger-than-life sound to match his 6'6" frame, Magic Slim's music has not only drawn a large following of devoted fans, but has also garnered several Handy Awards (the blues equivalent of the Grammy).

The group is no stranger to Nebraska, as the Zoo Bar in Lincoln is one of their favorite haunts. As a matter of fact, their 1980 album Magic Slim - Live 'n Blue was recorded at a performance at the Zoo Bar.

According to Riley's owner, Rod Tompkins who is himself a blues fan, "Bringing a blues act of Magic Slim's caliber to Wayne is a major accomplishment for Riley's. Most people in this area would have to drive at least two hours to Lincoln to see a good blues act."

While there is no doubt that there will be a small group of blues devotees on hand for the concert, Tompkins wants to attract a large, diverse crowd — especially people who may not have experienced the blues sound before.

"Even if you consider yourself a fan of country music or rock music, blues has a lot to offer. Many songs that you hear on the radio today, whether they be country or rock, have a lot of blues influence in them. And everyone can relate to the hard luck feelings that are the backbone of the blues," he said.

Tickets for the show will be $8. Call Riley's at 375-3795 for more information.

in public relations, and William McQuistan, bachelor's degree in business administration (summa cum laude), and from Randolph, John Walz, bachelor's degree in geography.

There ceremonies will be held at 10 a.m. in the Health and Sports Center for the 637 graduates, 555 of whom will receive undergraduate degrees and 82 will receive graduate degrees.

Women must take leadership roles says DED director

WAYNE, Neb. (AP) -- Women must be encouraged to take leadership roles in business and their communities, former Lt. Gov. Maxine Moul told a group at a women's leadership conference here.

Mrs. Moul, the director of the state Department of Economic Development, said there are 89 percent more women in the Nebraska workforce today than 1980. By the end of the decade, nearly half the state's labor force will be women, she said. "We must encourage women to take leadership roles, not only in our businesses, but also in our communities," she said Thursday.

But only 10 percent of business managers in the state are women, she said. "That's why professional business women's organizations are so important," she said. "We must encourage more women to get involved."

wanted to become a nurse as she grew up in Oakland.

"It never occurred to me that I could become a doctor -- because I never saw a woman doctor," she told the conference at Wayne State College. "Today, we have a woman physician in my hometown of Syracuse and in Oakland."

Mrs. Moul said she often works with businesses that have fewer than 10 employees -- firms that make up the majority of Nebraska's companies.

"It doesn't take long in Nebraska to see that most large businesses began as small businesses," she said.

She pointed to Behlen Manufacturing in Columbus, which began in a garage in the 1930s, Mutual of Omaha's beginnings in Palisade and ConAgra's start as a tiny mill.

"By nurturing them (small businesses), they will not only succeed, but the state will succeed, too," Mrs. Moul said.

SECTION B

Democrat convention set; county chair steps down

The Wayne County Democrats will meet in convention at 6 p.m. Thursday, June 2 in the meeting room on the lower level of the County Courthouse.

The purpose of the county convention is to elect new officers for the coming two years and to elect delegates to the state convention.

In addition, any resolutions that delegates wish to bring before the convention will be presented to the delegation.

Allen O'Donnell will be stepping down from his position as County Chair of the local Democrats—a position he has held for 12 of the past 22 years.

"It is time for the young to take the reins of politics. It is a challenge, and it is never boring. I wish the best to whomever the delegates select to lead the local party," he said. O'Donnell went on to say that "Things look good for the Democrats of Nebraska at this point. Kerrey looks like a winner, so does Nelson. In fact, the only Democrat who looks as if he is in deep trouble is Peter Hoagland of Omaha."

As for the Republicans in this year's elections O'Donnell said "Bereuter looks as tough as ever and so does Barrett in the Third District." He added the Republicans do have a shot at Dawn Rockey's position as state treasurer.

However, O'Donnell warned that voters are fickle.

"Remember, what they promise in the spring they often fail to deliver in the fall."

Clean-up volunteers

Among the dozens of volunteers who participated in the Wayne Jaycees clean-up and curbside rubbish pickup day last Friday were Grady Blase, Deb Reinhardt and Benjamin Poutre. They were pictured unloading brush and downed limbs at the city brush pile.

First Friday program features Brahms

A birthday tribute to Johannes Brahms will conclude the First Fridays program series for area senior citizens on May 6 at Wayne State.

The program, sponsored by Wayne State's Center for Cultural Outreach, will begin at 9 a.m. in the North Dining Room of Wayne State's Student Center. A complimentary continental breakfast will also be served.

Performing the music of Brahms will be Dr. Beverly Soll, director of the Center for Cultural Outreach, Andrew Solt, vice president for administration and finance at Wayne State, Ann Dorr, voice instructor at Wayne State and Kathryn Ley, director of choral activities at Wayne

High School.

Tours of campus galleries and museums, and nature walks may also be offered after the program.

First Fridays will be co-hosted by Chris Wilbur, director of alumni affairs at Wayne State College.

During each program, a special senior citizen guest of honor will be recognized.

Defensive Driving

The Safety Council of Nebraska will be conducting a defensive driving course on May 7 at the Norfolk Police Department, 202 N. 7th Street from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This class is approved to grant a 2-point credit on the driver's license of persons in danger of losing their driving privilege.

Interested persons should contact Richard Holter at 644-8700. The Safety Council is a non-governmental organization promoting safety and health.

Center plans presented

Public information meetings are planned for Friday, May 6 at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. at The Black Knight, 304 Main Street, to acquaint the residents of the Wayne area about The Oaks retirement living center.

Russ Peterson and Jan Thayer, principals of EXCEL Management and Development Services, will present a program about The Oaks, its concept and services for older adults.

According to Donna Liska, marketing director for The Oaks, a number of inquiries have been made about the one or two bedroom apartments that will feature fully-equipped kitchens, private patios, walk-in closets and many other desirable features. Garages will be located on-site and will be an optional choice.

Anyone wishing more information about the project may call Liska at 375-2928.

The Oaks will be a full-service retirement community consisting of independent apartments and assisted living suites. The Oaks will be located at 1500 Vintage Hill Drive in the Vintage Hill addition of Wayne.

Getting so tired of wind

May Day — Instead of walking this weekend, the Big Farmer and I have been picking up sticks, and branches and more sticks. I get so tired of wind.

I have already put the flannel sheets away, but have hunt on to the flannel pajamas. Temperatures in the 90s to the 30s tend to confuse us.

The mother-daughter picnic in Winside last Monday had to be delayed for weather, lots of it. Mom and I were at Ann's when it started. I called Lorraine Prince to say I was early for a change, and she commented, "No wonder it stormed!" Anyway, once the power came back on, and everyone could get there, we had a wonderful time.

It's only the beginning of a very busy month. We attended the first graduation ceremony on Saturday and have half a dozen to go.

This one was in Kansas City, and was the tenth, and last, of Mike's parent's grandchildren to graduate from college. In fact, when our nephew Jim gets his MBA later this month, there are a total of 11 post-high school degrees in that family alone. I think his sister has done quite a job. Her parents would be astonished, and very proud.

By Pat Meierhenry

The festivities in K.C. took place at a Baptist Church; and the speaker was a famous Baptist preacher, W.A. Criswell. What a delight! He's only 85 years old, and the author of 54 books.

His advice to the graduates was to be enthusiastic, and he gave an example of enthusiasm: the 87 year old who married for a second time and immediately began looking for a larger house near an elementary school!

This first week in May has many special days to mark; the first, the national day of prayer. If ever our country's leaders needed prayer, they do now. More so, the world's leaders.

Friday marks the beginning of nurse's week. Nurses in Nebraska are having hard times right now. Tell the ones you know you appreciate them.

Then, of course, Wayne State's graduation and Mother's Day are this weekend. And that starts nursing home week.

I've been in several nursing homes this past month, and met lots of dedicated people. My hat goes off to all of them. They are over regulated and underpaid, and expected to keep smiling anyway. God bless them all.

The Citizen Bee, a social studies competition that includes written and oral components in a broad range of disciplines such as history, government, economics and current events, is a program of the Nebraska State Council for the Social Studies and is sponsored by Peoples Natural Gas.

Field crop scout training to be held

The Northeast Research and Extension Center and the University of Nebraska-Lincoln are sponsoring the 1994 Integrated Pest Management Field Scout Training in Concord on Thursday, May 19.

This day-long training is appropriate for individuals who will be working as field scouts for crop consultants or co-ops, or interested farmers who want to learn how to monitor field crops for pest problems. The session will provide basic training on procedures for field crop scouting, including identification of insects and mites, plant diseases, weeds, crop health and irrigation scheduling.

The training will include both lecture and laboratory sessions, but will not include actual field training.

The train session will take place at the Northeast Research and Extension Center in Concord, with registration starting at 8:30 a.m. A $5 registration fee includes lunch. Interested persons should contact Keith Jarvi at 584-2261.

Additional training materials are available for individual study by people wanting information related to crop pest identification and scouting procedures. These include two videotapes and a reference manual.

The videotapes cover pest and beneficial insect identification and scouting procedures. One deals with corn (26 minutes) and the other with soybeans and alfalfa (21 minutes). Each videotape (1/2 inch, VHS format) costs $29.95 plus sales tax; both videos may be ordered on one reel for $50, plus sales tax.

The Field Scout Manual covers all types of pests — insects and mites, weeds and diseases — commonly found in major Nebraska field crops. Text and color photos provide information on identification, biology and scouting techniques. The cost is $28, plus sales tax.

Orders with checks made payable to University of Nebraska may be sent to Communications and Computing Services, P.O. Box 830918, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Lincoln, NE 68583-0918.

Whose food's this?

A study recently released by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln indicates that Nebraska farmers lose millions of dollars each year to wildlife depredation. And while a pair of jays stealing some morsels out of a feed bunk may seem like a trifle, multiplying this scene millions of times over proves the need to establish more natural wildlife habitat.

'H' & 'N' in fertilizer talk

By Cheryl Stubbendieck
Nebraska Farm Bureau

Farmers who didn't buy their fertilizer last fall are raising a little "H" about the price of "N" this spring — N being nitrogen and H being, well, you know. In Nebraska anhydrous ammonia is the most frequently used form of nitrogen fertilizer; it's what's in those long nurse tanks you see being towed behind tractors this time of year.

Right now anhydrous is going for $40 to $60 more a ton this spring than it cost last fall. Anhydrous being a gas, farmers didn't actually take delivery of their fertilizer last fall; they just locked in a price: about $180 a ton last fall, compared with $220 to $240 now. In other parts of the Midwest, increases have reached $100 a ton over last fall's price.

What gives? Several factors have come together, according to American Farm Bureau Senior Economist Terry Francl. Low prices recently, deferred maintenance, two ships colliding in the Black Sea and fine and widespread weather for field preparation are all part of the story.

Nitrogen inventory levels were a little low coming into the spring planting season. N prices have been

MAX results show conservation tillage can be profitable

Growing crops in fields with high amounts of the previous year's stalks can both hold the soil in place and be profitable, according to economic records kept by Nebraska farmers last year.

Crops grown with ridge till and no-till had the highest profit per acre as well as the largest yield compared to mulch till and conventional till, according to some farmer records in 33 counties.

The records were kept as part of the MAX — Farming for Maximum Efficiency — program. The MAX program, sponsored by Successful Farming magazine, the Conservation Technology and Information Center and assisted by the Soil Conservation Service, encourages farmers to keep records on corn and soybean fields to analyze expenses of different tillage and crop production systems.

"The top 10 most profitable Nebraska corn producers used ridge till or no till," said Paul Smith, Nebraska's MAX program coordinator. "Eight of the top 10 soybean growers also used ridge till or no till."

More Nebraska farmers participated in the MAX this year than in the previous two years with 115 fields on 73 different farms taking part. Yield data was submitted on 85 of those fields. Only eight farms participated in 1992.

The MAX data showed that conservation tillage is profitable, Smith said. However, the weather contributed to lower overall average yields compared to 1992 with hail, heavy rains, floods and windstorms, he said.

"Crop residue management will save the soil and, most of the time, save money because you are going over the field less times," Smith said.

Average yields and profits per acre on 54 MAX corn fields and 31 soybean fields were:

Tillage Type	Corn Yield	Soybean Yield	Profit
ridge till	135.9 bu.	47.3 bu.	$92.81
no-till	116.7 bu.	44.2 bu.	$58.44
mulch till	106.7 bu.	40.3 bu.	$25.32
conventional till	104.1 bu.	38.5 bu.	$43.54

A few producers in their first year of farming with higher residue levels showed a net loss because they used more fertilizer and pesticides than might have been needed, Smith said.

"Some producers go into conservation tillage thinking they have to use more chemicals since they are not tilling as much, which is often not the case," Smith said.

The first year in conservation tillage is usually the most difficult, Smith said. "Producers may have more weed problems, but once they have conservation tillage in for a couple of years, they do a better job of managing it and weeds become less of a problem."

Currently the MAX only examines data for corn and soybeans, but wheat will be added to the 1994 program.

The deadline for producers to enter into the MAX program is June 1. For more information on entering the 1994 MAX, send your name, phone number and address to THE MAX, Successful Farming, 1716 Locust St., Des Moines, IA 50309-3023.

In no-till conservation, the soil is left undisturbed from harvest to planting and herbicides are used to control weeds. In ridge till, the crop is planted on ridges and weed control is accomplished by herbicides or cultivation. In mulch till, the soil is not disturbed until prior to planting and only with chisels, field cultivators, disks, sweeps or blades. In reduced or conservation tillage, less than 30 percent of the residue is left on the ground.
