National plea is sent up to seek healing

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

"America, America, God shed his grace on thee," was the title of Bill Dickey's speech during Thursday's National Day of Prayer celebration held at the Black Knight.

Wayne Mayor Bob Carhart welcomed a nice crowd of nearly 75 people for the 7 a.m. ceremony. He spoke about Governor Nelson's proclamation on the Day of Prayer in Lincoln which was attended by Wayne's Virgil Kardell and Cal Kroeker.

Carhart's introduction was followed by the singing of "God Bless America," from Eric Smith. Dickey, the main speaker then addressed the audience for approximately 15 minutes.

The theme for the day was "Heal Our Land" and Dickey touched on the heritage of our country and the deep faith that our fore-father's had in God.

"Our country was founded on biblical principles," Dickey said. "We have seen many changes in our country over the past 30 years or so and they are not all good."

Dickey said things have seemingly gotten out of balance. "Domestically, our economy is becoming a roller coaster," Dickey said. "Economists no longer predict the direction, let alone trying to stabilize it."

"Children's Math and English aptitudes are dropping," Dickey added. "College entrance scores are now two years behind the averages of the previous decade."

Dickey also said technology has created new problems to deal with and many Americans are seeking psychiatric help to find answers

The performer...the audience

Sometimes during school performances it is as interesting to watch the parents reactions as it is to watch the antics of the kids on stage. Kindergartener Kyle Kwapnioski was energetically portraying a roaring tiger at the zoo during the performance of the St. Mary's School Spring Fling Thursday night. His parents Ken and Karen Kwapnioski were intently watching the performance. The Theme of the program was "Hats off to Moms". The Wayne Elementary School spring musical program is Monday evening at the high school gym.

WHS graduation set

Graduation ceremonies for 75 Wayne seniors will take place Sunday, May 22, at the Willow Bowl on the Wayne State College campus. If there is bad weather, the event will be in the Rice Auditorium.

Speaker at the 1994 commencement exercises will be Jan Stoncy, former Executive Vice President of U.S. West.

In addition to the featured address will be the announcement of the valedictorian and salutatorian award.

Special music will be provided by the Wayne High School choir. The Wayne High varsity band will play the processional and the recessional.

The diplomas will be presented by Carter Peterson, member of the Wayne Board of Education.

The class of 1994 lists their class flower as a white rose tipped in purple, and class colors are black, white and purple. The class motto is "Give us a firm place to stand and we shall move the world."

Last fall 39 Wayne State freshmen received an additional set of "parents" through a program sponsored by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce.

This program matched freshmen who lived more than 250 miles from Wayne with families in the Wayne area. The purpose of the program was for the freshman to have someone close by who they could call or visit when it was not possible to go home.

As the school year draws to a close, several of the students and parents were asked their feelings on the success of the program.

Gary and Carla VanMeter adopted Tammy Bartels from Bruning, Neb. "We have had a great experience. We invited Tammy over to make homemade ice cream, have gone out for pizza and even have had her parents stay overnight when they came to visit Tammy," said Carla.

"I feel this is a very worthwhile experience and would do it again. We have developed a friendship not only with Tammy but with her parents also," she said.

SCOTT MAVIN, a freshman from Scottsbluff said he enjoyed being in the program. "My 'parents' invited my girlfriend and me over to their house for supper the first Friday we were here. We watched videos together and had a good time. We went to their house almost every Friday night," he said.

"We did a lot of other things together. We went to volleyball games, a Wayne High basketball game and even went to church together. I think this is a good program. My 'parents' were very nice. They even let me bring Jennifer, my girlfriend over right from the beginning. I really liked having a home cooked meal once a week," he said.

Unsung heroine volunteers with kids

By Clara Osten
For the Herald

Last summer Becca Dorcey spent more than 300 hours at the Wayne County Fairgrounds. She was doing something she loves to do — working with horses. However she was not getting paid to do the things she did — she was a volunteer for the Rainbow Riders program.

These hours and a list of other activities keep 14 year old Becca busy and have led her to be nominated this month's Unsung Heroine.

"Becca is wonderful. I wish we had 10 more of her," said Nancy Lunzer, vice-president of Rainbow Riders.

"This is the third year of this program and Becca has been with us from the beginning. The first year we used volunteer horses and Becca would always bring her horse for us to use. She would always have the horse groomed and ready to go when it was time to start the class, said Nancy.

"Last year we had enough money to buy our own horses which are kept at the Wayne County Fairgrounds. Becca would go there every day, seven days a week, to water and feed the horses. Becca has had a lot of experience with horses and it is good to have someone like her taking care of our horses," said Nancy.

with Rainbow Riders and watching the children and adults who ride. "It is neat to watch them. When they first get on a horse they are usually very scared. But after they get going, they get more confidence," said Becca.

At present there are 36 handicapped riders signed up for the program and 15 non-handicapped riders who have lessons and then become volunteers for the program. "Becca works with all of these people. She is here for all of the classes, three times a week. A lot of the kids get to the point they only want to work with her. She is very good with kids as well," said Nancy.

The Rainbow Riders meet on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights. Becca usually starts getting her horse ready about 3 p.m. and then goes to the fairgrounds and gets the horses there ready. There are three groups of classes each night, one 45 minute class and two classes that last an hour each. By the time the horses and equipment are put away and Becca goes home, it is 9 p.m.

"BECCA WORKS as a backrider with the younger children. This means she rides behind the smaller children and supports them until they gain control. As the child gains more control and confidence, the backrider supports the child in different areas of his or her body."

"With some of the older riders Becca serves as a side walker. This means she walks beside the rider as the horse walks around the arena. At other times Becca leads the horses as they conduct the classes. She is a natural rider and capable of doing all these things well," said Nancy.

While working with the Rainbow Riders Program takes up a lot of Becca's time, she is involved in several other activities also. During the summer she plays softball and during the school year she plays volleyball, basketball and participates in track. She is also involved in 4-H, Swing Choir and works on the school yearbook.

AS A MEMBER of St. Mary's Church in Wayne, she also

Is "NEW" AgriPro Soybean Seed Better Than Home-Grown?

Planting bin-run soybeans is one risk growers should not have to take to reduce input costs. The outcome is too much of a risk. The reduced yields at harvest time will not off-set the savings from planting grain from a bin. Take a look at the advantages of planting new seed from AgriPro.

Multiple year data conducted by the Illinois Crop Improvement Association, the Universities of Ohio, Illinois, Georgia and Wisconsin, plus "on farm" AgriPro comparisons demonstrate an average yield advantage of over 3 bushels per acre for professionally grown seed. The chart below adds up the hidden cost of bin-run soybeans and figures the yield advantage needed to make up for the added expense of purchasing professionally grown and conditioned AgriPro seed. For example, if purchasing new seed when the grain price is $6.00 and new AgriPro seed is $14.00 per bag, only a 1-bushel advantage is needed to break even. With a 3-bushel advantage shown by universities and crop improvement associations for professionally grown seed, that means a $12.00 net advantage per acre. If you grow 200 acres of soybeans, that's a total profit of $2,400.00.

I'm for the Wayne Public Library/Senior Center Project.

"Libraries are a beautiful addition to our society. They add a real place of quiet in our hectic lives to study, think, and read. Libraries seem to be my second home. I would find it very easy to spend most of my time in one or another. A library has the ability to transport us to a different world, time, or place. I use the library as often as I can (assuming I haven't lost my card somewhere; I've even lost it at the library), and therefore support the library with my numerous fines. I love the ability to be able to read books that aren't mine, and I would never survive school reports without it!"

Erin Mann

"I wish to affirm my support for a new Library and Senior Citizen facility. I urge the people of the Wayne area to give what they can over the next three years to support the funding of this building. As a former member of the Wayne Library Board, I am aware of the great amount of good done by the Library on a very small mill levy allotted to it."

Scott's "parents" are Dan and Kyle Rose. Kyle feels the program benefits the parents as well as the students. "Scott has taken an interest in our family. In fact, on at least one occasion, he called our house to find out how our daughter was doing with school and volleyball," she said.

"We have enjoyed the program. When we started our goal was to try to make our 'son' feel at home. We tried to get together once a week. Scott is a good student and I am sure we will stay in contact, even if we adopt another student next year."

I have talked to other people in the community and explained what we were doing and they were very interested. I hope the program continues and even expands to include students from other states," she said.

JENNIFER REITZ, a freshman from Gering, Neb. also enjoyed her new "sisters". "I am a Pre-Med student and would like to be a pediatrician. My new family has three small girls and being around them was good for me. I have a 13 year old brother but have not had a lot of experience with small kids. I even got to 'use' my kids for an assignment I had on child development," she said.

Jennifer, who grew up on a ranch, was glad to get a family that lived in the country. "We were able to go out to my new family's farm and play with cats and dogs and feed cattle and sheep. It really helped me feel like I was home," she said.

"We also tried to get together once a week. I would pick up my sisters and take them to the library. We would get books and I would read to them. It was a lot of fun," she said.

Local student wins honor

Claire Rasmussen, the daughter of Charlene and Russell Rasmussen, and a graduating senior at Wayne High School, has been named one of 500 finalists in the 1994 Presidential Scholars Program.

Being chosen a Presidential Scholar is the highest federal honor bestowed upon graduating high school seniors.

Scholars are selected on the basis of superior academic achievements, leadership qualities, personal character and involvement in community and school activities.

Final selection of the 141 scholars will be made by the White House Commission on Presidential Scholars, a group of some 30 eminent citizens appointed by the President. Traditionally, scholars are invited to Washington in June to receive a medallion and to participate in various activities in their honor.

"While we tend to lavish praise on athletes and actors, we often fail to applaud the diligence and discipline of good scholarship and creative accomplishment," said U.S. Education Secretary Richard W. Riley. "Now in its 30th year, the scholars program remains one of the few opportunities for national

Wilbur named president

Chris Stevens Wilbur has been named President of the Nebraska Independent College Foundation, according to Dr. Myrvin Christopherson, NICF chairperson and president of Dana College. She will begin June 1.

A native of Hartington, Ms. Wilbur comes to NICF from Wayne State College, where she has been director of development and alumni relations. She has been a member of an administrative team at WSC that is successfully concluding a $13.5 million national fund raising campaign.

"We were impressed with Ms. Wilbur's experience in development and alumni affairs," Dr. Christopherson said. "She has been part of a very successful development team at Wayne State College, and her experience there has been excellent."

Chris Wilbur

Ms. Wilbur began working in development and alumni relations at WSC in 1987. Her more recent duties included annual and major gift fund raising from individuals and corporations.

In her position at NICF, Ms. Wilbur will work with Nebraska businesses and corporations to gain annual fund support for 10 Nebraska independent colleges. The funds raised by NICF primarily support scholarships at the institutions.

NICF represents Bellevue College (Omaha), College of Saint Mary (Omaha), Concordia College (Seward), Dana College (Blair), Doane College (Crete), Hastings College (Hastings), Midland Lutheran College (Fremont), Nebraska Wesleyan University (Lincoln), Union College (Lincoln) and York College (York).

they are searching for.

The First National Bank's vice president said Americans are having to cope with new stresses now and that family units are suffering more as proven by the increase of child abuse, drug use and pornography. "It's a basic deterioration of our standards," Dickey said.

He added that troublesome times are here but by turning our hearts to God, will save us from his chastening rod. "We should seek the pilgrims trod," Dickey said. "I think in order to find the answer to what happened to the American Dream, we need to look back into our history books."

"We must recover the original vision of that of our founding fathers and the pilgrims who came to this country," Dickey added. "We must also put into practice God's formula for healing and restoration. If we truly want God to Heal Our Land, we must take the following steps which I've taken from Chronicles 7:14:

"If my people who are called by my name (that is we as believers, not all of society, but we as Christians) will humble themselves (before we get humbled) and will pray and seek my face (which is more than just going to church on Sundays) and will turn from their wicked ways (yours and mine), Then God promises—I will hear from Heaven, I will forgive their sin, and I will heal their land."

Dickey said changes are not going to happen through political power and no one man is going to turn this nation around. "Healing and restoration will never come out of Washington, D.C." Dickey said. "It can't. It comes from the bottom up because we are suppose to be living proof that ordinary simple people can govern ourselves according to God's word."

Dickey said, "We have come here this morning to take that step and join Christians all over the United States to pray for the healing of our land and that He she his grace on this country of ours."

Cal Kroeker then broke up the group and led a concert of prayer which concluded the prayer breakfast. Some of the prayer target groups that those attending could choose to take part in were: business, county and city government, education, farm and agricultural business, federal and state government, health needs of the community, public-service needs of the community, social needs and spiritual needs.

It is hoped by Dickey and many others that National Day of Prayer becomes an annual event.

Moving day at the Wayne Care Centre into their new location took the help of many volunteers. Here, several Wayne Rotarians help load furniture and other items. Coming together in the end

We hope Wayne County Clerk Deb Finn is correct when she predicts a large turnout for the election on Tuesday.

There are too many crucial issues facing area communities and the nation for voters not to want to be in the thick of the decision-making process.

An inordinate amount of controversy seems to be surrounding the election this year and while some see that as negative because of the long-term divisiveness that may result. Many in the community are worried that the personnel controversy at the school and the decision on the sales tax, whichever way it goes, will do irreparable damage to the community.

We think that is a pretty short sighted view. That view says that those involved in the disputes, those who win and those who lose will never forgive each other, that they will never be able to work together on any future issue, that they will never find any common grounds on which to renew old friendships and sense of respect.

Northeast Nebraskans are better people than that. They forgive, if not forget. They respect one another, even those whose opinions they disagree with and sooner to later they discover that the guy they disagreed with on the last "hot issue" turns out to be an ally on the next one.

Whatever the outcome of the election Tuesday and in November, all of us need to be ready to say "Okay, we lost, let's work together with the opposition to help the community" or "Okay, we won, let's work together with the opposition to help the community."

Northeast Nebraskans are too inherently good to allow long standing grudges and feuds ruin the future.

Discussion starters

Many voters don't like endorsements.

They resent political action committees trying to tell them how to vote. They often dislike even their own professional associations and church leaders trying to tell them what position they should take on a political campaign or issue. They sometimes despise pompous newspaper editors for trying to tell them how to vote in newspaper endorsements.

We have never looked at endorsements as a means of trying to induce voters to cast ballots one way or the other. We see newspaper endorsements the same way we see them from other sources, the same way we see political discussions over the coffee table, the same way we see letters to the editor.

All are healthy and necessary parts of the election process. The more open discussion and debate there is on the issues, the better prepared voters will be when they enter the booth.

Endorsements are nothing more than a "here's what we think on this issue" and not an effort to coerce votes to one side or the other. We hope they are seen as great openings for healthy political discussions.

With that said, there are several issues facing voters on Tuesday that deserve more comment and discussion.

Here's what we think on a couple of these campaigns.

First the school board race. We have attended most of the school board meetings in the last two years and we haven't observed any occasions where the current incumbents have done anything so wrong that they should be turned out of office. In fact, they have set the school district on a new course and progressive policy that will benefit the youngsters in our community for many years to come.

They have worked long hard hours for no pay and very little thanks and have tried their level best to do the right thing.

We know one or more of the board members who would have stepped aside this year to let some of the other very able and willing candidates who have shown an interest in serving take their turn. But they didn't want it to look like they were being forced out by the ongoing personnel controversy, so they are hanging in there. We believe the voters should endorse the policy and direction of the schools and the plans for advancement that have been made by reelecting the incumbents.

On the city sales tax issue, here's what we think: Voters should be aware that they will be asked to go to the ballot box again in the fall to decide on what might be as much as a $9 million bond issue to build a new wing on the high school that would house the Middle School and add some facilities that the high school also needs.

We are not saying that voters should chose the school measure over the sales tax for the library and senior citizen center. Indeed the community needs and can afford both. But we don't want to be accused of ignoring the very real likelihood of another major capital project vote for the community in the fall to try to get the sales tax vote passed. WE think the school project is a higher priority for the community but the library/senior center is not far down on the very short list.

We hope voters will be far sighted enough to vote for both.

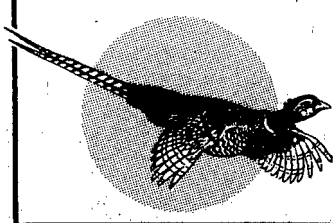

On the County commissioners races, we think the incumbents Merlin Beiermann and Jerry Pospishil have shown through their conservative fiscal policy over the years that they are deserving of our vote for another term.

In the only State Senate race in our area, Stan Schellpeper of Stanton deserves our continued support. We also believe Jerry Conway would make an excellent Public Service Commissioner because of his understanding and legislative experience in many of the dynamic issues being faced by that important board.

We like Ralph Knobel for the GOP nomination for governor but it will be tough if not impossible to endorse (oops, make that recommend) him over Ben Nelson in the fall.

Well, we hope we've given you some discussion starters.

Dewayne Sez:

There is no mistake so great as that of being always right.

State Senate Candidates share views on issues

The Wayne Herald sent special questionnaires to all the candidates seeking election in the May 10 primary to gather information contained in today's special Voter's Guide section.

Below is the information returned from state senate incumbent candidates Stan Schellpeper of Stanton and Pat Engel of South Sioux City.

Engel is unopposed and we received no information back from Schellpeper's opponent Gail Axen.

Stan Schellpeper
P.O. Box 287
Stanton

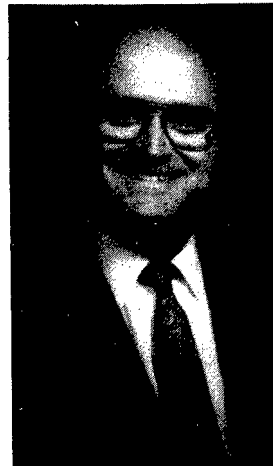

"I believe elected officials should be accessible and accountable to their constituents." Stan has accomplished these goals by weekly newsletter, surveys coffees throughout the district, and attending meetings when invited.

Stan is chairman of the Legislatures' General Affairs Committee, and plans to introduce legislation giving local authorities more control over their local liquor licenses. Some of the major issues Stan will work toward this coming year, are, welfare reform and tougher solutions to our crime problems.

Stan Schellpeper

He has enjoyed serving District 18 as your senator for the past eight years, and has helped many individuals with their problems and concerns. Plus he has stated, "I have been instrumental in passing legislation to bring more accessible health care to rural Nebraska."

Pat Engel

Leo Patrick Engel
401 East 31st street
South Sioux City

Leo was born in South Sioux City and has lived there all his life. Except for college and the Air Force. He is married to Dee Engel, has five children, plus many grandchildren.

After graduating from the University of Nebraska in 1954 with a degree in Business Administration, served four years in the Air Force as an Intelligence Officer. Also, Leo has operated his own State Farm agency for the past 35 years.

He has served on South Sioux City Volunteer Fire Department, and is a life-long member of the Parent-Teacher Association. Plus, he has served on St. Michaels School Board, South Sioux City School Board, and the Dakota County Board of Commissioners.

Three main issues that Leo addressed are: to get tough on Adult Crime, to overhaul the Welfare system, and excessive property taxes that fund various projects which seems to be the source of frustration for everyone.

"Anyone accepting or running for office should be doing it for only one reason and that is to serve the people in your district and the state. Leo believes that service is a way to give something back to the people in the community and the state.

Letters

How can so many professionals be wrong?

Dear Editor:

Information has passed my desk concerning the Wayne School District and its relationship with Dr. Dennis Jensen, formerly the superintendent at Elk Point Public School system. This letter may indeed shed some light on the nature of Dr. Jensen and the service he historically provides for certain influential board members. The community should not be so quick to single out Dr. Jensen for the state of affairs. Dr. Jensen would not be so foolish as to create controversy without the support of certain board personalities. The community must simply identify those members who have used their public position to carry out personal vendettas. I sincerely believe there are superintendents who exist that embrace the role of an educational "grim reaper." They carry forth sentences with a total disregard to personalities, policy or privacy.

If in fact an athletic director has been "legally" dismissed from those duties, I can speculate of only two reasons why: 1) Certain board members perceive an insubordinate issue, 2) It would allow the superintendent more influence over the present coaching staff. The public community must change the chemistry of its board to uproot deceptive practices. Note: Once Elk Point's president stepped down and change was eminent within the board, did the superintendent "informally" resign. In addition, "executive session" will become sinister, secretive and suspicious if accountability remains nonexistent. Remember, the superintendent will move on, as in Elk Point, with a good recommendation. However, the Wayne School District will resemble an educational Gettysburg.

Here is what you can expect if apathy exist with respect to the climate at Wayne Public:

- A demoralized teaching staff
- An impotent coaching staff
- A voluntary reduction within the coaching staff
- An uninformed yet divided community
- A district which will become the laughing stock of the state

In conclusion, to believe, for even one moments time, that the students within the district will remain unaffected is absurd: When a student/athlete observes a lack of loyalty and compassion from the superintendent/school board towards the teachers and coaches they believe in, it fosters insecurity and inconsistency. I observed in Elk Point many upset and saddened students and athletes who felt powerless to do anything about the many injustices which existed. The high turnover resulted in transfers, non-participation and athletic apathy among the student body. Restoration in Elk Point will take years to complete. I have seen lives ruined among new educators, established educators and promising athletes at Elk Point. A "Christian" superintendent would deal in compassion, instruction and truth. The only application of Biblical verse that could be attributed to Dr. Jensen practices may be found in Eph. 6:12. As editor, you must ask yourself, can so many professionals, parents and administrators be wrong?

Endorsing gubernatorial hopeful

Dear Editor:

I am writing to endorse Alan Jacobsen for governor of Nebraska. My husband and I have known Alan Jacobsen personally for nearly 11 years. His wife Lori was maid of honor at our wedding.

During the years we have known him, we have found Alan Jacobsen to be a sensible, down-to-earth man of integrity. Alan Jacobsen is a Christian who lives his faith daily. Alan Jacobsen is unashamedly 100 percent pro-life and takes a strong stand on other controversial issues.

Alan Jacobsen was the ONLY candidate to attend the Traditional Values Coalition "Day of the Family" on the Capitol steps — which was a rally to oppose LB 395 — the homosexual special rights legislation. These things demonstrate Alan Jacobsen's courage to stand up for his beliefs and his integrity in his campaign.

Alan Jacobsen feels that government has outgrown the affordability limits of Nebraska's taxpayers. Alan Jacobsen believes control of education needs to remain at the local level with increased involvement by parents. Alan Jacobsen believes criminals should serve the full term of their sentences, and that a 40 hour/week work ethic should be implemented in the prisons.

Alan Jacobsen believes we should professionalize the Department of Economic Development, and have an economic plan that represents all of Nebraska. Alan Jacobsen has had experience at the national and international level, and understands Nebraska government and how to make it work.

Too many times in the past we have gone to the polls to pick the "lesser of two evils." On May 10 we have someone worth voting for. The people of Nebraska are ready for true representation and leadership with a backbone. Let's go to the polls and wholeheartedly support Alan Jacobsen for governor, knowing he represents a bold new generation of leadership in Nebraska.

Decrying vulgarity

Dear Editor:

Thanks for speaking about language in movies. Many people bemoan the way a well written book degenerates when it appears on the screen. The movie makers' idea that this vulgarity is necessary to appeal to the audience is disgraceful. Probably it more accurately means that those producers have not mastered the English language well enough to convey the real feelings in well chosen words and body language.

It is ridiculous that there should be such a hue and cry about theatre popcorn being dangerously saturated with fat, when no official government voices are raised to protest the poisoning of the viewers' minds and souls by the garbage that too often is seen on the screen. (Theater popcorn is a special taste treat not duplicated at home.)

It is not many years ago that vulgarity and profanity were unacceptable in conversation. Today even respected national leaders can be heard using profanity in their public pronouncements. Yet respect for others is demonstrated by use of respectable language.

Presidential Scholars include one young man and one young woman from each state, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and from families of U.S. citizens living abroad, as well as up to 20 students selected from the arts and 15 students chosen at large.

The 500 finalists were selected from approximately 2,600 high school semifinalists, most of whom were chosen based on their exceptional performance on either the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) of the College Board or the ACT

Assessment of the American College Testing Program. For the arts component of the program, the Commission selected semifinalists from among students recommended by the National Foundation for the Advancement of the Arts, which annually conducts a competitive, national talent search. The 2,600 semifinalists were chosen from approximately 2.5 million graduating seniors.

Finalists were selected by a panel of distinguished educators after a review of essays, self-assessments, descriptions of activities, school recommendations and transcripts submitted by the semifinalists.

Brett Salisbury

Gus Zambrano

Six WSC gridders heading to the pros

The total success of the 1993 Wildcat football team can now be entered into the record books. Wayne State quarterback Brett Salisbury agreed to play professional football in Helsinki, Finland, making him the fifth member of the 1993 team to be offered a deal with a professional franchise.

After turning down a no-guarantee offer from the Houston-Oilers to attend camp this summer, Salisbury agreed to a deal which has made him the starting quarterback for the Helsinki National Football Team. Salisbury and his family will be in Europe for four months, returning to the United States in September.

Terms of the deal include a base salary, an endorsement contract with NO FEAR Clothing, a fully furnished apartment, a car and all meals. "Although my goal is still to play in the NFL, I think this is a tremendous opportunity for Stacey and myself to gain experience and see Europe at the same time," Salisbury said. "Each European team is allowed to have one american player, and now in Helsinki, it's me."

If Brett has a successful season in Europe, he may have some more opportunities when he returns in September. He will have to leave quite soon as his first scheduled game is in two weeks in London against England.

Defensive lineman Brad Ottis was the first Wildcat player to go, being selected by the Los Angeles Rams in the second round of the NFL draft. Shortly after the draft it was time for the remaining players around the country to test the free-agency market. The Wildcat success stories in this venue were wide receiver Damon Thomas who agreed to a deal with the Buffalo Bills and defensive back Wilson Hookfin who agreed to a deal with the New Orleans Saints.

The fifth Wildcat to head for the pros, yet the first to actually sign a contract was offensive lineman Gus Zambrano who will be playing guard/tackle for the Milwaukee Mustangs of the Arena Football League.

This season the AFL runs from May 21 through Aug. 13. On July 22 the Mustangs will play host to the Cleveland Thunderbolts, the team that also recently signed former Wildcat wide receiver Marlon Goolsby bringing this year's total to six Wildcat players in the pros.

AK-SAR-BEN AWARDS

Congratulations goes out to Bill Snyder and JoAnn Rahn on having been selected to receive the 50th annual Ak-Sar-Ben Award sponsored by the Omaha World Herald. The program in its 50th year recognizes the neighborly acts and deeds of individuals and groups performed unselfishly with out personal gain during 1993. Nominations were made by friends and neighbors thru Ak-Sar-Ben Ambassadors.

The 1994 Good Neighbor Award Recipients from the area are Bill Snyder and JoAnn Rahn from Allen, Dave and Cindy Krusemark from Waterbury and William and Bonnie Stecker from Emerson.

Both Bill and JoAnn have made a difference in our community. When a job needs to be done they both pitch in and get it done! Both are EMT's and very active in the Allen Rescue Squad. They both have been mainstream in helping with fund raisers for the Allen Community...with helping out the Church or raising money for a new ambulance.

Bill is very active with the United Methodist Church in Allen and has served on numerous boards and committees. He also serves on the Eastview Cemetary Association Board. Bill has worked at the Security National Bank in Allen for over 30 years.

JoAnn is a member of St. Annes Church in Dixon. She is also a member of the American Legion Auxiliary. She is active in 4-H and County Extension Clubs much of the time serving as an Officer. A lot of her time is spent with Senior Citizens in helping with their problems.

Bill Snyder and JoAnn Rahn have contributed much time and talent to the Community and have done all of this without any consideration of person gain. Both Bill and JoAnn are very deserving of the Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Award for they are both truly good neighbors!

Covenant Players to perform at United Presbyterian Church

One of the church's most important — and toughest — jobs is to challenge its members ... to keep them alive, thinking, growing, ill-at-ease with complacency ... to make Christian commitment an exciting, total way of life, not just an hour a week in Sunday worship. The unfortunate truth is, of course, that most of us don't like being challenged very much ... having our toes stepped on ... so we find lots of ways to avoid paying attention.

Having something to say and getting people to listen and respond to it are two different things. Covenant Players was created with just this in mind ... the need for a medium that can communicate the vibrant challenges of Christian commitment ... in a way to engrossing to ignore, too much fun to get uptight about ... and too potent and personal to be rationalized away.

Covenant Players, an international repertory theatre, utilizes a unique kind of drama. With a repertoire of over 2,000 plays by founder and director Charles M. Tanner, there is a flexibility to be able to communicate a wide variety of themes, issues and subject matter. Using everything from light comedy to heavy drama, plus science fiction, Biblical characterizations and more, the Players present the messages of the Gospel.

One of their 131 touring units will be performing Wednesday, May 18 at 7:30 p.m. It will be held at the United Presbyterian Church in Wayne and the public is invited.

This performance is designed to support the united ministry and higher education through donations only. The drama is to share the good news of the coming of Christ.

Wayne church undergoes many changes recently

The Assembly of God Church in Wayne has undergone many changes in the last nine years, but the primary purpose for its existence has not.

"The church exists," says Rev. Mark Steinbach, "to carry on the work that Jesus began both to do and teach by strengthening believers, and by sharing the Good News of Jesus Christ with those in need."

Approximately nine years ago the church doors were closed for a period of time, but were re-opened six years ago with the name Wayne World Outreach Center. It has recently been decided, however, that the name be changed to Praise Assembly of God. "It's a mission hasn't changed, nor has the mandate from God," Rev. Steinbach says, "but, effective May 1, the name has changed."

"Praise Assembly of God offers a wide variety of ministries for people of all ages, and it is our desire to be available to anyone searching for a church home, and a closer relationship with Jesus Christ," Rev. Steinbach states.

Praise Assembly of God is located at 901 Circle Drive in Wayne, 375-3430. Check the church listings for service/ministry information.

SECTION B

Candidates face tough issues in Wayne School Board race

In the coming four-year term, candidates who are elected to the Wayne School Board will be facing a variety of tough issues, among them will be continued restructuring and curriculum changes brought about by federal and state mandates, a major building project which has been proposed to replace the Middle School as well as an on-going personnel dispute.

Eight candidates are vying for the three positions which are up for election on the six-member board. All three incumbents have filed for reelection and five challengers have filed. The field will be reduced to six in the vote on Tuesday with the top six vote getters moving on to the general election in November.

The profiles of the candidates are presented in alphabetical order.

Jean L. Blomenkamp
622 Westwood Road
Wayne

Mrs. Blomenkamp is a graduate of Wayne High School and Wayne State College. She also has a master's degree and an administration endorsement from Wayne State and has been working toward her doctorate in administration, curriculum and instruction from UNL.

She is an assistant professor at Wayne State and is currently director of field experiences. She has been with the college for eight years. Prior to that she was an elementary principal in Stanton for 13 years and a Millard school teacher for four years.

She is married to Duane Blomenkamp, who is a teacher and coach at Wayne High School. They have two sons, Matt and Paul, both students in the Wayne Community Schools system.

Mrs. Blomenkamp said she has previously held no elected office but has served various leadership posts in professional organizations. She is an active member of Grace Lutheran Church, presently serving as a Sunday School teacher.

Her leisure interests include reading, walking, antiques and spectator sports.

"I feel that elected government service is the foundation of our Democracy. I feel that elected government officials must be representative of the people they serve. Elected officials speak for the people, therefore it is imperative that these officials stay close to the people and truly listen to the people," she said. "I feel that citizens should give back to the community some part of what the community has given to them. Because of my background and experience, where better to contribute than as a member of the board of education?"

Mrs. Blomenkamp said she believes the community needs school board members who "are responsive to and representative of the people in this school district." She said she believes she has the leadership skills, experience and ability to relate to the citizenry and represent them.

"We are moving into difficult times for education. I feel there is a pressing need for a common sense approach for dealing with issues. We need to maximize the return on our tax dollars."

Roger E. Brandt
Rural Route 1, Box 54
Carroll

This Wayne County farmer said he decided to run for the school board "because the office holders at present look out for their own interests first. They have the attitude of 'we'll hear what you have to say but we've already made up our minds.' That's not the right way."

Brandt graduated from Wayne High School in 1971. He owns land and farms near Carroll. He has three children in the Wayne-Carroll school system. Previously he has worked at Roman Packing Co. for 12 years in the plant and on the road in addition to maintaining his farm interests.

He said he has never held elected office before but his philosophy is "to serve the people that elect you."

A crucial issue facing the school system according to Brandt is the building situation.

"We need good, stable buildings, but we do not need the top of the line. We all have to control ourselves when it comes to the taxpayers' money. We can only afford so much. We need to run our schools and government like we run a business."

Brandt said the bond issue question for a new middle school in Wayne needs more study before he will be prepared to take a position.

"We need to serve the people by having quality education at a price that we can afford without taxing the people to death," he said. He added he also will try to do what the people want.

John Carrollo
1027 Poplar
Wayne

An employee for Terra International for the past ten years, John Carrollo is also a graduate of Wayne State College with a bachelor of science degree in business.

Active in his church, First United Methodist Church in Wayne, Carrollo is a Sunday School teacher, the director of the senior high youth group and he serves on the finance committee. He also has been a scout leader for three years.

He said he thinks the key to elected government service is "to remember that you are working for the people who put you there." Carrollo was a candidate for the school board two years ago as well.

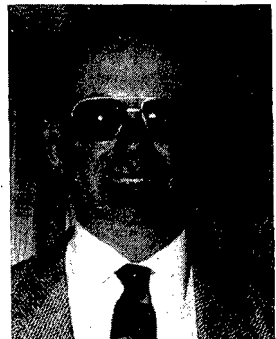

He said he is running again for the

One of the key issues facing the district is the need to update facilities to provide a better learning environment for the students and to provide more support for the instructors.

He added he is in support of a bond issue to fund a new middle school or high school in Wayne.

Willis C. Davis, incumbent
729 Walnut Drive
Wayne

Wayne pharmacist and business owner Will Davis is seeking a second term on the Wayne School Board. He said he decided to seek a second term because he thinks everyone should be obligated to serve two consecutive terms in public office.

"When I was a youth, I rode bulls in the rodeo. Once in a while a bull would head for the fence to attempt to scrape the rider off his back. The rider had to make a decision whether he thought the ride was high enough in the point standings to risk running into the fence. One could either bail off, or hang on for the ride. I think this ride is worth hanging on!"

Davis and his wife, Sue, are active in the United Methodist Church in Wayne, serving several leadership roles as well as working with the Marriage Encounter program for Methodists. He has also been active in Jaycees and Chamber of Commerce both in Stromsburg and Wayne. He began his pharmacy career in Stromsburg in 1970 and moved to Wayne in 1982.

He is a graduate of Holdrege High School and the University of Nebraska. He also served on the board of education in Stromsburg. He has been active in professional associations including service on the board of directors for the Nebraska Pharmacist's Association.

"I think the issues that face the candidates face all patrons of the district. We have seen the ugly face of controversy. It is neither constructive nor visionary. I believe the communities need to come together and move forward to provide the best education possible for our chil-

Instructions to Voters

- Persons desiring to vote must procure their ballots from a judge of the election board.
- Voters must then, without leaving the polling place, proceed to a compartment and prepare their ballots.
- Prepare your ballots as follows:
 - Make a cross or other clear intelligible mark in the square to the left of the name of the candidate for whom you wish to vote.
 - If two or more candidates are to be voted for, for the same office, make such a cross or other clear intelligible mark in the square to the left of the name of each candidate for whom you wish to vote. However, do not vote for more candidates for an office than the ballot indicates are required to fill that office.
 - When voting on proposals for constitutional amendments, proposals submitted by initiative or referendum, bond issues, or other proposition, indicate your vote by making a cross or other clear intelligible mark in the square to the left indicating your affirmative or negative vote, Yes or No vote, or For or Against vote, as the case may be.
 - In each division of the ballot at a general election there shall be no write in space for President and Vice President, directors of public power districts, members of the board of educational service units, or directors of natural resources districts. Below the names of all candidates for an office placed on the ballot by nomination or petition, a blank space shall be provided in which electors may write the name of any person for whom they wish to vote and whose name is not printed on the ballot, except that for officers named in this subdivision there shall be no write-in space provided.
 - If you spoil a ballot, return it to a judge of the election board and obtain from him or her a new ballot, but you cannot get more than a total of four in all.
 - After having marked your ballots, fold them separately so as to conceal the front of the ballot and expose only the written names of the election officials on the back.
 - Hand your ballots to a judge of election who, in your presence, will deposit the ballots in the ballot box, after which you should immediately leave the polling place.
 - Do not take any ballot from the polling place. If you do so you thereby forfeit the right to vote.

dren. I firmly believe that all our children will need to enter adult life much better prepared than any of their predecessors. We must unite to achieve that goal. Failure to do so will most assuredly bring hard times for our children, and for those of us who depend on their productivity to maintain the standard of living we enjoy in America.

"I believe we must rejuvenate our physical plant. It is unfortunate that something was not done years ago when costs were not as high as they are today. We must move ahead, however, and measure those costs against the costs of inaction, procrastination and turmoil. The costs of being oppositional and regressive at this point will be catastrophic. If the voters want to work together and cohesively seek the best for all our children, all the patrons of the district, and our sisters and brothers across the nation and the world, I would humbly accept their vote. If the voters want to nurture controversy and turmoil, I ask them to cast their vote for someone else. I'm willing to hang on for the ride if we all agree that we can make it a good one."

Davis said he was strongly opposed to a city sales tax proposal to fund capital projects in the community. He said if projects are needed, our neighbors in outlying communities ought not to be asked to pay for them. He also said he was in favor of a bond issue to fund a new middle school in Wayne.

still facing many tough decisions and I feel that I can supply sound judgement to these decision making processes."

He said when he ran for the board two years ago he felt the school system was a good one but also one that was going to be facing many tough decisions in upcoming years. He said his background in finance and management along with an interest in education should be an asset to the Wayne School System.

"Just like a business or a church, a school must continue to strive to improve what it has to offer or eventually become stagnant. Organizations normally do not stay the same, they either move forward or fall behind. Our students are this country's future and we must do everything we can to ensure that they are prepared."

Dyer moved to Wayne in 1987 to join the corporate staff of Timpte, Inc. He has been involved in many community projects including service as the president of the United Way fund raising campaign in 1993. He served on the school restructuring committee, the Blue Devil Booster club as treasurer and the school's Vocational Advisory Council.

He is a member of the Wayne Kiwanis Club and serves as a lay moderator, Sunday School teacher, worship leader and chairman of the pastoral search committee for First Baptist Church of Wayne.

He enjoys hunting, fishing, reading and playing various sports. He has a bachelor of science degree in business from UNL and was employed for 13 years with Stormoor, Inc. as an accountant in Fremont.

His wife Janet is administrator of the M.G. Waldbaum Day Care Center in Wakefield. They have four sons, Craig, Casey, Clint and Chris. The later two boys are still students in the Wayne system. The older two are seniors at UNL.

"Individuals elected to government service should be servants to the constituents to the best of their ability. The goal should be for the taxpayers to get the best representation possible to ensure that their children have a quality education and that their tax dollars are being spent wisely."

"We are facing a problem with the school facilities due to growing pains and government regulations. The facilities committee has provided a possible solution that is a good beginning for this process. But, until I have access to that information in detail plus other possible studies, I feel that I am not in a position to make a sound decision at this time."

"Community members must feel that their concerns and suggestions are being heard and taken seriously. Open methods of communication need to be in place in order for our education system to move forward."

Dennis Lipp
712 Walnut Drive
Wayne

A graduate of Wayne State College with a bachelor's degree in business, Dennis Lipp said he chose to run for the school board in Wayne because he has been interested in the school system for a long time.

"I have enjoyed working with the teachers for the last 10 years. Now that my children are older, I feel I have more time. Now I would like to work with the administration to make our school system even better."

He has been a resident of Wayne for 21 years. He and his wife, Gerelda, have three children, Natasha in high school, Nathanael, in Middle School and Nicholas in the elementary school.

He is the cashier at State National Bank and Trust Company in Wayne. He is also a graduate of the Graduate School of Banking.

The Lipp's are members of United Methodist Church in Wayne where he has served on the finance commission and is financial recording secretary. He is a member of the board of directors of Haven House and has been on the board of Haven House and has been treasurer for 13 years. He is also treasurer of West Elementary Boosters and is a member of Wayne Area Youth Boosters. He serves on the board of Rainbow World day care center.

He volunteers with the Siouland Blood Bank and is a member of Rotary, the last four years he has been serving as treasurer.

"In my spare time I enjoy spending time with my family."

He said elected officials should be open to the opinions of the people they represent but they should also stay true to their own ideals.

He explained the biggest issue facing the schools is a new middle school building. "We need to build a Middle School that will meet the needs of our youth today and in the future, that will also be accepted by the taxpayers of this community."

He said he was for the bond issue to fund the new middle school.

Kenneth R. Liska
1508 Claycomb Road
Wayne

Dr. Ken Liska has been a practicing veterinarian in Wayne for 25 years and has served on the school board since 1988.

He has previously served the community as a member of the volunteer fire department, the planning commission and the zoning board of adjustment. He has been a Boy Scout Counselor, president of the Nebraska Veterinary Medical Association and Interstate Veterinary Medical Association.

He is currently an elder in the First Presbyterian Church and is a director of Farmers and Merchants State Bank. He is a member of the American Association of Swine Practitioners, American Association of Bovine Practitioners, American Angus Association, and Academy of Veterinary Consultants. He also is a member of the Wayne Chamber Ag Council and the Masonic Lodge in Wayne.

He has been married 28 years to his wife, Jan. They have three children, all attending UNL. His hobbies include photography and raising cattle.

"Be objective, listen carefully to options or viewpoints, restrain personal emotions and remember, we ultimately represent the taxpayer," said Liska of his philosophy on elected service.

He said he is running again for the board because he has a personal dedication to education and its importance to our youth.

"As a home owner, business owner and landowner, I feel I represent the property taxpayer well. Our three children are alumni of Wayne High School." He said now that they are at the university, he is keenly aware of what educational exposures Wayne youth should have before they continue their education.

"I am in strong support of our administration's philosophies and educational changes that have been made," he said.

He said major issues facing the system includes the effort to make the schools in Wayne the envy of all Northeast Nebraska while still living within the budget and remembering the property tax burden. "Unfortunately, education is expensive."

He also said he thinks it is important to provide adequate space in a pleasant environment for our students. "In so doing, we must comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act. This is the biggest hurdle our district has faced in nearly 30 years. I intend to objectively listen to as many viewpoints as possible and make the best decision for our students."

"The professionals we have in our system have our students' best interests at heart and deserve our support," said Liska. "The Board of Education is no place for personal grudges to be voiced. This only hinders progress," he concluded.

Carter (Cap) Peterson
502 Douglas Street
Wayne

As a former teacher at both the high school and college level, Cap Peterson said he is able to offer a hands on view of teaching and the instructional process. He said his business background and management insight helps in the running of one of the large businesses in the area.

He said he wanted to run for re-election to continue the strong educational programs we now have and strive to develop programs to challenge the children of tomorrow.

Peterson is president of Northeast Nebraska Insurance Agency and is a past board member of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce. He has been a board member and chairman of the Wayne United Way. He also serves on leadership committees with the Nebraska Department of Education and the school boards association.

He is also a member of First United Methodist Church and is a past master of the Wayne Masonic Lodge.

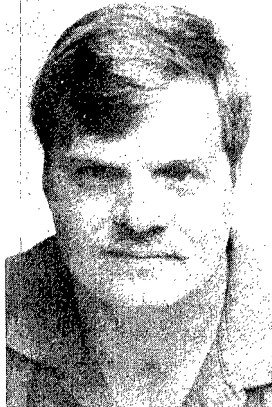

He has served on the school board since 1982. He and his wife Nana have four children, three in college and one in the second grade at Wayne Elementary School.

Peterson said the major issues which will be facing the candidates for election to the board will be building renovation and replacement, property taxes and alternative means of funding education, voucher systems and curriculum. Other issues will include the need to convince the public that it is dollar wiser to spend tax dollars on youth in schools rather than in prisons.

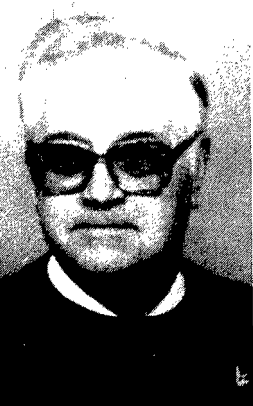

"We lead the world in the percentage of our population behind bars. One prisoner takes away the money for six children in a head start program," Peterson said. He added he was supportive of the plan to seek a bond issue vote on the middle school project.

County Commission posts to be settled in May vote

The races for two positions on the Wayne County board of Commissioners will be decided in the primary election on Tuesday since all the candidates seeking the posts are in the same party.

Indeed, there are no Democrat candidates running for any county office in the primary.

Three Republicans are vying for the position in District One, which is generally south and east of Wayne and two candidates are seeking the position in District Three, which is generally south and west.

Both incumbents are asking voters for another 4 years in office. In District One, incumbent Merlin Beiermann faces challenges from Dean R. Boeckenhauer and Kelvin Wurdeman. In District Three, incumbent Jerry Pospishil has one opponent, Dennis Dangberg.

Profiles of the commission candidates follow:

DISTRICT ONE

Merlin Beiermann
Rural Route 2, Box 236
Wayne

Beiermann has served the county 20 years as commissioner and has said this would be his last term before retirement.

"I believe that based on my experience and knowledge of county government, I would be the most effective candidate to try and keep property taxes down. In addition, I believe we need to communicate with our state legislators to let them know that the counties cannot afford to pick up any cuts the state or federal government makes in welfare and health care systems. Property taxes are already overburdened by unfunded state and federal mandates like Americans with Disabilities Act requirements and solid waste disposal requirements."

Dean R. Boeckenhauer
Rural Route 1, Box 109
Wakefield

A lifelong resident of Wayne County, Dean Boeckenhauer says it is time for a change on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

"As County Commissioner my decisions will be made on a day by day basis to create a safer, healthier, less stressful environment in which to live and work, keeping in mind the best possible utilization of the tax dollar spent by the residents of Wayne County," he said.

Boeckenhauer has a background in agriculture, is a Vietnam War veteran and life member of the Wakefield American Legion Post. He is also a member of the Salem Lutheran Church and Masonic organizations.

Kelvin Wurdeman
Rural Route 2, Box 211
Wayne

Currently employed in the county

A farmer and 25-year salesman for Behlen Steel, Beiermann is a lifetime member of Grace Lutheran Church. He and his wife Patricia have three sons, Mike, Mark and Todd as well as seven grandchildren.

His leisure interests are hunting and construction of small farm implements.

Prior to service on the county board, he was a county rural school board president for 23 years. He is currently serving the county on the Enhanced 911 advisory board, the Region IV Office of Mental Retardation boards, the community business, industry, government and schools (BIGS) committee and on the regional Resource Conservation and Development Council.

"I believe anything worth doing is worth doing well and I have always aimed to practice this philosophy. Our county governments are basically strong and we need to retain local control, especially in this time of unrest. Constituents form the structure of my decisions."

Bridges and the budget were cited by Wurdeman as the key issues facing the county. There are roughly 240 inspected bridges (those over 20 feet long) and of those 150 are too narrow or won't carry today's modern loads. In addition to inspected bridges, there are more than that number of short bridges that have not been inspected since they were built, he said.

The county budget is always going to be a major issue facing smaller communities. "We are going to have to find more conservative ways to make our dollar go farther," he said. "One way I feel we can save money in the future is if we start grading more roads. Our road expenses will just keep increasing if all you do is maintain and push snow. But if you put down a grade to eliminate snow, your expense in the winter months will go down from pushing less snow and gravel off of the roads."

Voters have choice in Village races

Several candidates involved in the Village Board of Trustees races in Wayne County responded to a request for information for the Wayne Herald.

In Winside, a field of eight candidates will be vying for three open positions. The field will be narrowed to six for the general election. Only one candidate for the three posts on the Hoskins Village Board submitted information.

Those candidates responding to the Wayne Herald request for information included:

David Bloomfield
PO Box 91
Winside

"When an individual clearly differs with the way things are being done in government, that individual has not only the right, but an obligation to attempt to make a difference," said Bloomfield.

He said he has witnessed "heavy handed" methods used by the current members of the Winside board in attempting to control and regulate use of private property.

He said if elected, he would be knocking on doors to seek input in making decisions. He said he would like to see available activities for young people, improved water quality and less meddling from the village board in trying to regulate homes and businesses.

Marvin R. Cherry
PO Box 38
Winside

An incumbent on the Winside Village Board, Marvin Cherry moved to the community in 1978 to operate Winside Alfalfa Dehy, Inc.

He is a graduate of Wayne State College and taught and coached for 10 years.

He has been chairman of the Winside Board since 1981. He has also served in several other leadership capacities in his professional organizations, in the church and in the community. He and his wife, Mary, have three children.

Lori Hansen
Box 67
Winside

"An elected official needs to listen to the people that put him/her in office. They need to make people feel comfortable enough to approach him/her with concerns," said the village board hopeful.

She said she enjoyed working with people on Old Settler and would like to continue working with the citizens of the community.

A speech-language pathologist, she works with developmentally disabled adults in the region. She was chairman of the Old Settlers Celebration for 2 years. She and her husband Dean have two children.

Scott Jackson
PO Box 128
Winside

A graduate of Winside High and lifelong resident of Winside, Scott Jackson said he wants to serve on the village board because of his interest in the community.

"I am dissatisfied with the present village board's performance and behavior. I feel the board is uncooperative and Winside is suffering because of it."

"Individuals elected to public office should be honest and up front about exactly what decisions they are making."

Donald Skokan
Winside

"I am interested in presenting new ideas for the community," said Donald Skokan who is seeking election to the Winside Village Board.

He has a bachelor's degree in industrial education and has worked for Great Dane Trailers for eight and a half years. He is a training officer for the Winside Fire and Rescue Department.

"Elected officials should seek the needs of the community and find ways to meet these needs," he said.

Hoskins Village Board
Colby Gillespie
PO Box 33
Hoskins

His interest in the village and past experience convinced Colby Gillespie to run again for a position on the village board. He has been a board member for two years.

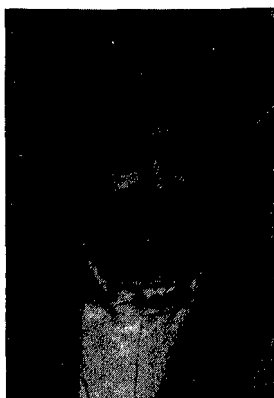

He said elected officials should listen to all sides of any issue and voice those before the board meetings. They should also make decisions with objectivity in long an short term viability.

He is active in State and Local education associations, serves on the Hoskins Volunteer fire and rescue squads and is active in his church. He and his wife have two children.

He wants to see continued work on street and community improvement in Hoskins with special attention given to Main Street and fire hall expansion. Summer activities and locations for young people and a park for family activities are also needed he said.

County races uncontested

Other than in the races for county commissioner, there are no contested elections being held next week for Wayne County officials. Not only with the seven elected county officials have no opposition in the Republican primary, barring any writing campaigns, they will face a clean slate of opposition in the general election as well.

There are no Democrats seeking any elected Wayne County office this year.

The uncontested candidates who responded to the Wayne Herald's request for information have their profiles listed below.

Lorraine J. Johnson
713 West 1st Street
Wayne

The only non-incumbent in the state of county candidates is Lorraine Johnson, who has filed to fill the post being vacated by the retirement of County Treasurer Leon Meyer.

She has been a county courthouse employee since 1958 and has worked in the treasurer's office full time for over 25 years. She was named deputy treasurer in 1971.

"We are here to serve the public in an efficient and friendly way," she said. She added she enjoys working with the public and enjoys the work in the treasurer's office.

She and her husband Larry own Johnson Frozen Foods in Wayne. They have two daughters and four grandsons. She has served the community and her church in numerous volunteer capacities.

Debra Finn
115 West 9th Street

Incumbent County Clerk Deb Finn was first elected to the post in 1991 but prior to that she had served as Wayne County bookkeeper from 1978 until her election as clerk.

She has a degree in accounting from Wayne State College and a management development certificate from the University of Nebraska. She and her husband Alan, who is employed at Logan Valley Implement, have two sons. They are active members of St. Mary's Church in Wayne.

Last year she was honored with receipt of the President's award from the Nebraska Association of County Officials for her distinguished leadership to county government.

"I enjoy the daily contact with the residents of Wayne County. My 15 years of experience have given me a very complete understanding of county government. I have a great deal of pride in Wayne County and want to participate in its future growth and development."

Michael Pieper
213 West 7th Street
Wayne

County Attorney Mike Pieper received both his bachelor's and law degrees from Creighton University. He moved to Wayne to become a partner in the law firm of Olds, Pieper and Connolly.

He became Wayne County Attorney in 1991 after serving two years as the deputy county attorney. Prior to that he had served as Cheyenne County Attorney.

Mike and his wife Diane have three children. They are members of St. Mary's Church.

"To serve the citizens of Wayne County to the best of your ability" he said is his personal philosophy about elected government service.

Joann Ostrander
Rural Route 1, Box 30
Wayne

The incumbent clerk of district court is a native of Wayne County, having been born and raised on a farm 10 miles northwest of Wayne. She attended District 61 and graduated from Wayne High in 1951.

She attended Wayne State College for two years before entering the work force, spending 10 years with Mutual of Omaha, as well as working for Wayne State as a secretary and KTCH which it went on the air in 1968. She has held her current position since 1971.

"We are elected to serve the people, so we should always put our best foot forward, no matter what their needs might be," she said. "I enjoy working with the residents of Wayne County. I am pleased to have been able to do so these past years."
