118TH YEAR — NO. 72

Beautiful day, Centre touted with opening

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

"A beautiful day and a beautiful facility," was the universal description during the open house at the new Wayne Care Centre Sunday. More than 1,000 toured the new 104-bed facility and participated in dedication ceremonies.

"This is truly a great day," said Care Centre resident and president of the resident's council, Bernice Lindsay. She said she had never lived in a place as nice as the new Care Centre and praised the efforts of the staff and the community in making the move from the old center easy for the residents.

MRS. LINDSAY said her only problem with the new center is that she has trouble finding her way around the sprawling new facility.

"Right now I know how to get to the dining room and back to my room, I guess that's all that's important," she laughed. She said the residents are truly thankful for the new facility with its greater space and more features.

A couple of the highlights of the tours Sunday included the chapel complete with pews and antique altar, the lounge, dining and activities areas and the newly installed aviary, for which the residents are still raising funds and accepting donations.

Appreciate agriculture

Agricultural Appreciation Days have arrived in Wayne with the main activities scheduled Thursday at the Wayne County Fairgrounds.

A steer and heifer show will be held Thursday along with ice cream social, beer garden and a special performance of the music group, Branson City Limits, at the Waco Building at 8 p.m.

Another feature of the day will be displays and 4-H food booths.

Tickets for the concert are available at various Wayne sponsoring businesses or at the door for $1.

The band features a variety of musical styles and Branson-style comedy. It is made up of several heralded Branson area performers who have decided to join together and take their talent out on the fair and festival circuit in the Midwest.

OWNED BY THE Boyle Companies, the new Care Centre is only the first phase of a complex which will be expanded to include assisted living and independent living apartments according to Robert Conlon, president and CEO. He said the subsequent phases of the complex, which are already in the works, will promote more independence and choice for senior citizens.

He explained the trends in long term health care call for more independence and choice as well as rehabilitation, subacute care and respite care for families. He said the Boyle Companies are offering these services either now or in the near future.

CENTRE ADMINISTRATOR Connie Disbrow praised the efforts of the community in helping with the move and thanked the staff and residents for coping with the difficult period of transition. She said

Success is seen in garage sale effort

The Wayne Community Garage Sale even was a huge success according to participants in the regionally promoted event and judging by the flow of out of town cars which poured into town Saturday.

"We made enough money to pay for our family vacation," said Sheryl Polhamus, who said she thinks the event ought to be repeated every year on the first Saturday in June. "It was a really good idea," she said. "We had a steady flow of people all day."

Promoted by the Wayne Herald and Morning Shopper, the event was promoted as a means for garage sale participants in the community to generate more traffic and better sales.

"I have never seen so many people in Wayne. It was great!" said Maxine Kraemer. "I really cleaned house. I sold almost everything. The weather was ideal, which also helped." Kelly Baack and Linda Coulter said they were hesitant at first to have their joint sale the same day as the community sale. But they are glad they did.

"A huge success it was. We have never seen so many people before at one of our garage sales," said Mrs. Baack. "We saw cars from all over the region including Thurston, Dakota, Dixon, Cedar and Stanton counties."

"I hope the community can build on this and that it will become a yearly event," said Mrs. Baack.

At least 30 garage sales were held in the community. The newspaper company promoted the event by placing display ads in over 40 Northeast Nebraska newspapers to help attract people from surrounding communities.

Theatre group in new home, production

The Wayne Community Theatre group finally has a place to call home and the thespians are making good use of their new facility in preparing for the summer production of Annie, which will be staged in July.

The new theatre home in Mineshaft Mall is currently being renovated to be used as a permanent community theatre with seating for 125. The goal of the group is to have the facility finished this summer.

The project, the brain child of Ted Blenderman and Dave Headley, was brought before the community theatre board about a year ago.

Anxious to have a home base for rehearsals and set preparations, the board approved renting the south-east section of the building and work began to "gut out" the facility. Plans for the new theatre include a portable stage, moveable proscenium and platformed seating for the audience.

FUND RAISING for the project began last summer when Linda Young donated a hand-made quilt which was raffled. The board also solicited for patrons and is still in search of contributors who are anxious to enhance the community offerings in the dramatic arts.

Any donations for special items such as building materials, seating and supplies would be greatly appreciated. Benefactors would be rightfully acknowledged, said Corrine Morris.

Besides its use by the theatre group, board members said they would like to see the facility, once completed, be used by other community groups who might need a place to hold programs.

The Wayne Community Theatre was first organized in 1937 as The Biggest reunion on tap to attract crowd to Wayne

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

It is being billed as the largest class reunion to ever be held in Wayne. The first of its kind—1950's all-decade reunion for Wayne High School will be held June 16-18 and over 300 are expected to attend.

"This reunion is not just for those who graduated from Wayne High in the 50's but for anyone who attended the high school during that era," coordinator and toastmaster Tom Roberts said. "We have people coming from as far as the Middle East to attend."

Abu Dhabi Emirate, a 1957 graduate who now resides in the United Arab Emirates said he will return for this special reunion.

The special guest speaker for the reunion will be retired four star general Jim Burr Davis, a 1953 grad of Wayne High.

On Thursday, June 16 from 7-9 p.m. there will be a social gathering at the El Toro for early arrivals. Riley's Convention Center will host the majority of functions and programs on Friday and Saturday nights.

Registration for Friday's program will be from 3-5 p.m. with 5-7 p.m. being labeled as attitude adjustment hours. A buffet will be served from 7-9 p.m. and the program will begin at 9 p.m.

"The Friday program will consist of introductions of former faculty members which number around 20 with guests," Roberts said. "Then each class will be represented by a spokesman who will speak on the accomplishments of their respective classes for about five minutes each."

The following is a listing of the speaker for each class: 1950—Al Cramer; 1951—Virgil Rohlf; 1952—Nel Burnham; 1953—Lav-erne Gruenke; 1954—Larry Johnson; 1955—Paul Otte; 1956—Chuck Millor; 1957—Chuck Koeber; 1958—Phil Boockenhauer; 1959—Larry Brandstetter. There will be cash door prize drawings at 11 p.m.

"We have people coming to this reunion who have never attended any of their regular class reunions," Roberts said. "Bowen Hall on the campus of Wayne State College will house those attending the reunion who can not find motel rooms."

The Wayne County Museum will be open from 10 a.m. to noon on Saturday for those interested and from 1-3 p.m. tours will be given at the old high school as well as the current high school.

Saturday registration will take place again at Riley's from 3-5 p.m. with attitude adjustment slated from 5-7 p.m. A buffet will be served from 7-9 p.m. followed by the main program with General Jim Burr Davis. Saturday's program is expected to last about an hour with socializing to take place afterwards which will officially bring to a close the first ever reunion of its kind in Wayne.

There will be a Sunday breakfast buffet at Riley's from 8-11 a.m. for those wishing to eat before they take off back to their respective homes.

Chicken shirts are hot sales item again

A hot-selling item in Wayne again this year as they have been in the last 14 years are Chicken Show T-shirts. The new 1994 commemorative shirts feature the theme, "Poultry in Motion."

Chicken Show Chairmen Jane O'Leary said all the children's sizes of the shirts are sold out already and second order has been placed. The shirts are produced here in Wayne at Stadium Sports.

Chicken show activities are financed annually through the sale of hundreds of the commemorative t-shirts. Until July 1 they can be purchased in Wayne at a variety of locations for $10. After that the price increases to $12. The shirts can be purchased at Pac 'N' Save, Sav Mor, Word Works, Stadium Sports and Kids' Closet.

Two die from collision of vehicles near Pierce

PIERCE, Neb. (AP) -- Her sister-in-law was dead. Her 17-month-old niece, who later died, was in critical condition.

And Sandra Brummels tried Friday to figure out why a pickup truck veered into the path of her minivan. "I can't believe it happened," Mrs. Brummels, 34, of Osmond said. "It shouldn't have happened."

After colliding Thursday night with Mrs. Brummels' minivan, the pickup collided with another truck.

A woman sitting next to Mrs. Brummels in the minivan's front seat was killed. Seven other people were injured, two critically.

Killed was Mary Timmerman, 25, of Osmond.

Two others escaped unharmed from the accident on Nebraska Highway 13 about two miles south of Pierce.

Mrs. Brummels had been driving home about 6:30 p.m. Thursday with her sister-in-law and their daughters, Andrea Timmerman, 17 months old, and Emily Brummels, 13 months.

Andrea Timmerman was taken by helicopter from Norfolk to Children's Hospital in Omaha, where she died Saturday afternoon from head injuries.

Emily Brummels was treated for minor injuries and released from a Norfolk hospital Friday morning. Mrs. Brummels was treated and released from the same hospital Thursday night.

The pickup truck driver, Dean Frerichs, 22, of Norfolk, suffered a cut mouth and was treated at Lutheran Hospital in Norfolk. There was no telephone number listed for Frerichs in Norfolk.

Brandon Lubke, 16, one of three children in the pickup with Frerichs, was taken by helicopter to Clarkson Hospital in Omaha, where he was listed in critical condition after surgery Friday, a hospital spokeswoman said.

The other two children in Frerichs' truck -- Nathaniel Gnewuch, 3, Eric Gnewuch, 16 -- were treated for minor injuries and released Thursday night from Lutheran Hospital in Norfolk. The children's relationship to Frerichs was not known.

Two people in the second truck, Eugene Cederburg, 39, of Pierce, and his passenger, were uninjured.

The accident remained under investigation. No charges were filed, the Pierce County attorney's office said Friday.

Mrs. Brummels said she wasn't wearing a seat belt, but her sister-in-law was. Both infants were in child seats, she said.

"I didn't get it that bad," said Mrs. Brummels, whose ribs were sore. "My niece and my sister-in-law got the worst of it."

After the accident, Mrs. Brummels said she reached over and felt Mrs. Timmerman's neck.

"There was a good, strong pulse there," she said.

She said she tried to perform cardiopulmonary resuscitation, but there was too much blood coming out of her sister-in-law's mouth and nose. By the time Mrs. Timmerman arrived at a Norfolk hospital, she was dead.

Seat belts were not in use in the Frerichs vehicle, the State Patrol said.

The Timmerman deaths were the 112th and 113th on Nebraska roads this year, compared with 82 by June 3, 1993.

One of the highlights of during the grand opening tours of the new Wayne Care Centre was the aviary in the resident's lounge area. The large cage contains 17 birds which the residents enjoy watching raise their young.

Opening

(continued from page 1) the heavy turnout for the open house indicated that "the community was showing as much pride in the facility as we are."

Former Administrator Gil Haase told the audience he was excited to return and see the culmination of "the dream" that started years before his retirement.

Greetings and congratulations from Rep. Doug Bereuter were delivered by Wayne native Jeanne Ring Walker who is on the congressman's staff. Bereuter helped with federal loan guarantee approval which allowed local funding of the project through Farmer's and Merchant's State Bank.

CONLON SAID Bank President Tim Keller deserved praise for his tireless efforts to work through the government regulations on the funding side.

Cookout to honor Kerrey

Forty Northeastern Nebraska residents will be hosting a cookout for U.S. Senator Bob Kerrey on June 11 at the Concord fairgrounds.

The barbecue allows Kerrey the opportunity to "touch base" with fellow Nebraskans.

"It's good to get out and talk with constituents and friends throughout the state, as I try to do every weekend," Kerrey said. "It is always good to get back to Northeast Nebraska."

The $15 per person barbecue will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Concord fairgrounds. The event is open to the public, and is free for children and students.

Dr. Darlene Martin, an associate professor for the University of Nebraska's Northeast Research and Extension Center and cookout co-host, said the barbecue primarily is recognition of the "tremendous service Bob Kerrey has done for Nebraska."

"We felt it appropriate to show Bob that his work in the senate does not go unnoticed," Martin said. "He is more than an important asset to the state, he's also a good friend."

Waynian is national student nurse honoree

The United States Achievement Academy announced that Lois Polt of Wayne has been named a United States National Collegiate Award winner in nursing. This award is a prestigious honor very few students attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes less than 10 percent of all American college students.

Mrs. Polt, who attended Northeast Community College in Norfolk, was nominated for this National Award by Marsha Henn, a nursing instructor at the school. Lois will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Collegiate Yearbook, published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly United States Achievement Academy award winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy. The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of professors, coaches, counselors or other school sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a stu-

Mrs. Polt is a recent graduate of the Northeast College nursing program and is employed at Providence Medical Center in Wayne.

He pointed out that stage performances are only one way the organization serves the community. Its board also participates in the County Fair and Chicken Show as well as offering scholarships to area high school students.

Current board members, besides Ms. Morris and Headley who serve as president and past president respectively, are: Joan Brogge, vice-president; Carolyn George, secretary; Brenda Corider, treasurer; Dan Chase, Vicki Skokan, Rick Gathje, Dan Baddorf, Darci Fraum, Tamara Reddman and Jason Preston.

Susan Nuernberger

WSC names new recruiter

Susan Nuernberger has been named assistant director of admissions at Wayne State College.

A native of Wakefield, Nuernberger will represent Wayne State College throughout northwest Iowa, southwest Minnesota and southeast South Dakota.

Nuernberger will visit high school students, counselors and administrative personnel to answer their questions about Wayne State. She will also be responsible for training campus tour guides, assisting with publications, tele-marketing prospective students and assisting with summer registration activities.

Nuernberger earned her bachelor's degree from Wayne State College in May.

Card center donates to community project

The First National Bank of Omaha credit card center in Wayne has become the latest in a long list of major contributors to the Wayne Public Library and Senior Citizen Center project.

President Chris King recently presented Pat Gross, chairman of the community project with a check for $5,000. The latest funds bring the community drive total in pledges and gifts to $327,000, said Gross.

Major grant applications have been submitted for matching funds form foundation, according to Gross. Those anticipated grant funds are what the community has planned to use in meeting the $575,000 private funding goal for the project.

Voters approved a one cent sales tax in the May election to help raise fund for the Library/Senior project and others in the community.

Plans call for construction of a $1.2 million facility on the southwest corner of 5th and Logan. Construction is not anticipated to begin for two more years.

Two from here win at State Lions talent contest

Ying Wang and Emily Kinney both '68 Wayne were first place winners at the Lions Club State Youth Talent Contest held in Norfolk Friday. Both girls were sponsored by the Wayne Lions Club.

Wang won the title in the 12 to 14 year old division with her violin solo "Chinese Selections".

Kinney was the winner for the eight years and under division with her acappella rendition of "Jesus Loves Me".

The entrants competed on local and district levels and moved onto the state competition. Youth from across the state competed in the contest.

In front of a capacity crowd, the contest was held at Northeast Community College in conjunction with the State Lions Club Convention.

Sunscreens Against Skin Cancer Studied

Researchers have evaluated sunburn and aging of the skin as direct results of excess exposure to the ultraviolet (UV) rays of the sun. Sunscreen products have been studied and determined to be the single most important method of protecting the skin from these types of skin damage. Sunscreens have not, however, been studied very much in relationship to their effect in preventing skin cancer. A study recently reported in the New England Journal of Medicine evaluated over 400 individuals who had one to 30 solar keratoses, hardened areas of skin that are considered major risk factors in the development of skin cancer. Half of the group applied a topical sunscreen product with a SPF (sun protection factor) of 17. The other half applied a cream without sunscreen. The sunscreen group had nearly 200 fewer new lesions than the group without sunscreen. These researchers recommend use of sunscreens to reduce skin cancer risk.

Shirley Brokaw had a Cataract.

She had No-Stitch Cataract Surgery.

"I wasn't afraid of cataract surgery because I had run a baling wire through my eye six or seven years ago. I couldn't see anything right afterward. After Dr. Feidler took care of that, it has been just perfect. That hurt much worse than cataract surgery. There is not much to cataract surgery.

I noticed when I was driving at night that my eyes were blurry. Just kind of clouded over. Headlights seemed very bright. At a routine eye examination I found out I had cataracts. I learned about cataracts from what they told me down here at Feidler Eye Clinic. When the time comes, I want to get my other eye done because I know its not that difficult.

I think that Dr. Feidler is just great. He's kind and a good doctor. I've always gotten my glasses here for years. It is the only place I've gotten them. I've had such great luck with my glasses, too."

We get nervous when 'gang' gathers

Efficiency before rate increase

Several years ago the United States Postal Service implemented a $1 billion automation program that was sold to the American public on the idea that it would cut costs and hold down future postage increases.

Mail processing centers were established with new high-speed automation equipment. Long time postmasters were given the opportunity to retire early to reduce payroll expenses under the new efficiency plan.

But few of the savings were ever realized. Indeed, now the Postal Service Board of Governors wants the public to absorb a 10.3 percent across the board rate increase because the service has overspent its budget by a mere $1.3 billion this year.

How do you manage to go around spending that much more than you anticipated? According to Rep. Doug Bereuter, a large share of the cost overruns come from overtime pay because the 690,000 full-time postal workers and their new automated system aren't productive enough to handle the volume of mail.

Meanwhile, in the private sector, where competition guarantees delivery companies are both efficient and cost conscious, the volume of packages the private carriers are delivering is also increasing. But, conversely, the prices aren't going up in that sector. In many cases they are actually going down.

We think there is a lesson there for the Postal Service. And until they learn it, we don't think the American public should be asked to reward gross mismanagement and inefficiency with postal rate increases.

We encourage readers to relay their comments and concerns about the proposed postal rate increase to the U.S. Postal Service Board of Governors by writing to Chairman Bert H. Mackie, U.S. Postal Service Board of Governors, 475 L'Enfant Plaza S.W., Washington, D.C. 20260.

LINCOLN — The Gang of 49.

The first time I heard that term to describe the 49-member Nebraska Legislature it was an official of a small city, describing the anxiety they felt during legislative sessions.

"I don't sleep very well until the Gang of 49 goes home," the official said.

He made it sound like we were all better off if they didn't meet at all.

Well the gang — two months after they adjourned for the 1994 session — will be back soon if Attorney General Don Stenberg has his way.

Stenberg, the state's highly visible, crime-fighting AG, had earlier called for a special session to deal with an adult crime bill that senators refused to pass this spring.

Then, when the Nebraska Supreme Court struck down the state's 2-year-old term limits law, Stenberg called Gov. Nelson to convene a special session on that issue.

Now the attorney general is adding another reason to call a special session: the state parole board.

The Parole Board recently voted to grant releases to a convicted murderer, Dearle Alexander, and a convicted rapist, Sylvester Jones.

The board, which includes four Nelson appointees, decided both men had spent enough time behind bars and were reasonable risks to return to society.

Nelson, a Democrat, didn't like the decisions and said he's readying proposals to allow the governor to fire parole board members if he doesn't like their performance and to give the governor veto power over paroles of violent criminals.

Stenberg and his fellow Republicans didn't think that was enough. The GOP criticized Nelson for jumping too late on the parole bandwagon.

Their candidate for governor, Gene Spence, has proposed eliminating the parole board altogether. He would give that job solely to the governor.

Stenberg said Nelson should fire bad parole board members and shouldn't wait for the 1995 session, but call a special meeting of legislators now.

Geez, don't you just love politics? Stenberg has become the Republicans' main pit bull in the Capitol, growling at the Democratic governor's every move.

Nelson is a fairly easy target. He doesn't want to call a special session.

It costs money, about $250,000 for an average session. Spending money in an election year is a no-no.

Number two, nothing would get done, at least nothing popular.

The Gang of 49 has already pointed thumbs down twice on Stenberg-backed crime packages. And now the attorney general wants to climb back into a ring where he's been flattened twice before?

Meaningful term limits will not be passed by senators. Most legislators hate them. And a filibuster by Omaha Sen. Ernie Chambers is guaranteed if Nelson, Stenberg or others want to gut the parole board's authority in a special session.

The bottom line is that the governor continues to play it conservatively, and to play both sides of the fence: a special session would be a good idea, but it costs too much and wouldn't accomplish anything.

The attorney general, on the other hand, plays a too-easy political card on behalf of Spence. Stenberg doesn't have to spend a drop of money for a special session and if the Gang of 49 does nothing, it's not his fault, it's the governor's.

Don't you just love an election year?

Faith in system restored

Dear Editor:
I would like to take this time to thank the Wayne Recreation Board, the Wayne City Council members and the parents of the kids on the Wayne Swim Team who supported our effort to abolish the $10 fee imposed on the swim team.

I first confronted the Recreation Board with my concerns and they were very supportive and I felt like they were really concerned about the welfare of our kids. They then suggested that I bring our concerns before the City Council who actually were the only ones who could do anything about the fee. I then had parents help me call our council people and inform them of our concerns on this matter and they too were very supportive and willing to look into the matter more thoroughly.

I would also like the parents to know how much I appreciate their willingness to contact their council people and to attend the council meeting about this matter!

It just goes to show that if you truly believe in something that you have to go to the people who are suppose to be here for you and your kids and voice your concerns. My faith in the system has truly been restored. Thank you!

Remove it

Dear Editor:
With family from California, Washington D.C. and Colorado we had just attended a graveside service for Merrill Whitman at the Wayne Cemetery on the Friday before Memorial Day.

I was shocked and somewhat embarrassed to suddenly come upon this monument in the Wayne Cemetery. Whether you are "Right To Life" or "Pro-Choice" there are many other issues. However this is a very controversial, political issue and has no place in our privately owned cemetery.

According to the by-laws of our cemetery, it prohibits advertising of any kind. Rausch Brothers Monument Company placed it there. Why would they desecrate the plot for the family of J.M. Pile, the first President of Wayne State College? This monument should be removed.

Marjorie L. Armstrong

Detracts from solemnity

Dear Editor:
When one visits a cemetery in order to place flowers on a grave site or to simply pay your respects to a loved one who has preceded you to that final resting place, one has a right to expect a certain level of dignity and the absence of distractions that such a solemn location deserves.

The recent appearance of a marker which touches upon an issue that one can only describe as controversial does not enhance those characteristics mentioned earlier and indeed detracts from that solemnity.

The stone would have been controversial enough by itself, but when one sees the prominent location that it was accorded and the fact that they were allowed to ignore rules of conduct that we are all required to follow, one wonders who is making these decisions. The presence of the bench, the wishing well, the flowers, etc. indicate that this was not just a passing fancy on someone's part. This had to have been well thought out and planned in advance. And clearly someone had to approve of it.

Let's be fair. What's good for the goose is good for the gander. Make the same rules apply to all.

Did it ever occur to anyone that leaving this stone in place leaves the door wide open for people to erect a stone promoting any cause of their choice?

Let's remove this controversy and get back to normal.

$4,000 raised

Dear Editor:
Thank you for your coverage of the May 13 potato bake benefit for Todd Baier that Redeemer sponsored.

The benefit was a great success! The freewill offering taken at the event and other gifts received at the church brought in $2,470. Aid Association for Lutherans Branch 9609 and Lutheran Brotherhood Branch 8212 will each add $1,000 in matching funds to this amount. After meeting expenses, Redeemer will give Todd and his family over $4,000.

We appreciate your continued coverage of the Wayne churches, our activities, programs and events.

'Ignorance is expensive'

Truisms from old west hit close to home

Confusion, the oriental wisdom merchant, didn't have anything over most cowhands of the old west. The tradition of imparting wit and wisdom in savvy sayin's while leaning on a fence post or waiting for the branding iron to heat

I was having a pleasant phone visit with a particularly sagacious old Sandhills saddlertamp recently when I told him about a home repair project that resulted in several stitches.

"Ignorance is expensive, ain't it," was his unkind, but true epigram to my tale of woe.

I should have hung up then but later in the conversation, when I told him about my wife's suggestion for solving the fix-up problem he hit me with, "It just goes to prove, if you marry a woman with brains enough for two, you'll come out even."

Well at that point I'd had about all the sagebrush horse sense I could stand, but before I could get the old codger off the phone he hit me with a couple more. "The best way to convince a tenderfoot is to let him have his own way." For good measure he added, "Some men got more guts than gumption."

"Talking to you is like walking barefoot through a prickly pear patch, it's a great relief when you get through," I shot back. I keep a valued copy of Ken Alstad's book, "Savvy Sayin's" handy for just such occasions.

Alstad has edited a compendium of "lean and meaty one-liners" that serves as an excellent conversation guide for fence post philosophers. A cattle country best-seller, it is now in its sixth printing. If you have ever "Lightning does the work, thunder takes the credit," is one of my favorites.

"Suspicion ain't proof."

"If you wake up feelin' half way 'tween 'Oh Lord,' and 'My God,' you've overdid it."

"If you want to stay single, look for a perfect woman."

"Some men's wives are angels. The others are still alive."

"Drownin' your sorrows only irrigates 'em."

"You can't tell how good a man or a watermelon is 'til you thump 'em."

"Sweat never drowned no one."

"The pessimist's problem is he thinks the whole world is just like him."

"Never trust a man who always agrees with you. He's probably wrong."

"You can't be hurt by the words you don't say."

"It's safer to have a good enemy than a bad friend."

"You can educate a fool, but you can't make him think."

"Before you go in the canyon, know how yer gonna get out."

"Shallow rivers and shallow minds freeze first."

"Easy money is like a shadow. The harder you chase it, the faster it moves."

"Life is like checkers. When you reach the top, you can move whichever way you want."

"If you ain't got a choice, be brave."

I recommend the book if you want more, or just call the closest thing you know to a crusty old ranch hand and before you get through talking, he'll spout most of them for you.

Not the time or place

Dear Editor:
It has been said that there is a time and place for everything. Perhaps, but this was neither the time nor the place for someone to take a position in the controversial issue regarding right-to-life versus right-to-choice. The reference is of course to the new stone that has recently been erected in the Wayne Cemetery.

Memorial Day was instituted for the purpose of recognizing the contributions made to the preservation of democracy through the supreme sacrifice made by our many soldiers who died in the line of duty. How tacky it is to choose this timing. It also seems exceedingly callous to make such a statement of position in a location that many of us regard as almost sacred.

To erect such a granite billboard is offensive to me and I hope to others.

The prominent position it occupies and the willingness to compromise the rules that others are required to follow, such as the planting of shrubs and flowers, cause me to be even more offended.

Those who share my view, arise! Make your feelings known. Have this repulsive stone removed or at the very least moved to a location where we aren't required to see it.

Bev Sturm

Stunned by monument

Dear Editor:
I visit Wayne for love of relatives and friends, for its beauty, friendliness and culture. I give nothing to the town. It gives me peace and inspiration. This year I was there over Memorial Day. My visit to Greenwood Cemetery left me stunned when I saw statement, posing as a memorial, on a stone placed on the J.M. Pije lot. Who is responsible for this? Some member of President Pije's family? Obviously it is offensive. Isn't it illegal? Something should be done about this before some other city newspaper reporter learns of it and makes Wayne an object of ridicule. Or could that be the whole idea?

Election is just another rerun

"Another election come'n up," growled Slim Pickens. "Probly just a re-run!"

What do you mean?
"All that election hype. Gets monotonous."

But elections highlight a government "of the politicians, by the politicians, and for the politicians." It's America!

"Exactly! They fooled me last time. Never again!"

How's that?

"They promised a 'no deals' congress. Now they're deal'n 'cause they're get'n caught!"

Some call that progress.

"It would help if they'd just tell the truth."

You mean, Slim, you want a politician to blab how many tax dollars he'll honestly spend?

"You mean spend honestly! I want a candidate who says, 'My fellow Americans, elect me and I'll perpetuate the alibi and the fix! Campaign funds will go toward raising your taxes. I'll cave in only to rich lobbyists. I'll prevaricate, equivocate and fabricate. I will remain loyal to my party pals even if it takes deceit, cover up and fraud!' Now wouldn't that be honest?"

Would that grab the voters attention? Last time, fifty percent didn't even vote! But ninety percent are complaining! D-Day memories are the big story this week. Many folks believe the freedom those guys died for is the freedom not to vote.

"Right! Did you read about Rostenkowski? Seventeen felony counts! His troops say he'll be re-elected anyway."

Yeah, I read it. Chicagoans think it's normal.

Merlin Wright

"It's disingenuous! Ha! How'd you like that big word?"

You'd make a fine politician, Slim! Perfect gobbledygook! If running for office, what all would you promise?

"Well, I'd say: 'I know your problems. I feel your pain. Elect me and the only time I'll help you is when I'm up for re-election! Where there's a camera, 'cept when I'm play'n golf with lobbyists in the Islands, I promise you I'll be promising you! I promise the jobless that you're probably that way because you never learned to do anything that needs doing. You learned to evade hard work, but you're finding out that doesn't pay cash. Right now S.S.I. is only for the 'physically disabled,' but I promise you, elect me and I'll get S.S.I. payments for all who are disabled by ILLS (Increasing Labor Laziness Syndrome). Elect me and your check is in the mail!"

Golly, Slim! You're really promising! As you head for Washington, what will be your campaign slogan?"

"Get your share while I'm there!"
God bless America!

Parents should send kids to 'media camp'

The Principal's Office
By Dr. Donald V. Zeiss
Parents: Send Your Kids to "Media Camp"

Help your children become smart consumers of media and critical views of television. Use the suggestions below to set up your own family "media camp" this summer, and help maintain the media literacy skills your child learned during the school year.

Encourage your "campers" to:
Keep a media log of shows they watch on TV, articles they read in magazines and newspapers, and programs they listen to on the radio. Have them record the amount of time they spend on each activity, and then compare their media habits with those of other family members.

Compare how different media cover the same topic. If your family watches a television adaptation of a novel, have your children read the book (or read it to them), and then compare the different treatments, tone and effect on the viewer/reader.

Watch an ABC news program and have your children check how newspapers, magazines and radio news programs cover the same stories.

Express their opinions and ideas in writing. Encourage your children to write a letter to our local ABC TV affiliate or the network if they enjoyed a particular program, or disagreed with its point of view. To comment on an ABC Network program, "campers" can write to: ABC Audience Information, 77 West 66th Street, 9th floor, New York, NY 10023.

Conduct neighborhood interviews on your town's top news event. Your children can record the interviews using pen and paper, a tape recorder or a camcorder. Have them use their interviews to write a newspaper article, tape a radio news report or produce a TV new clip.

Thank for the "media camp" concept go to: Elizabeth Thoman, Executive Director of the Center for Media Literacy, Los Angeles, Calif.

Monument not the best forum

Dear Editor:

When one chooses to take sides on an issue, there are many forums that one can use. Examples include paid advertisements in the paper, paid ads on TV or simply letters to the editor as you are reading now. It is exceedingly unfortunate that we are now subject to a tactic whereby property that many of us regard as public is being used to promote a position to which so many take exception.

Who are we dealing with? An out of town firm comes in here and defaces our cemetery with a monument that is offensive to many and at the same time is allowed the privilege of placing it in a location that has been denied everyone with the possible exception of God himself.

Does this reflect the fact that those on the governing board support this position and are using their authority to promote this cause? Not necessarily, but it does make one wonder.

There must be a reasonable resolution of this issue. Let us work together to find it. Perhaps removal, maybe relocating it to a less conspicuous spot or maybe simply changing the wording. Suggestions?

Look at Christian history

Dear Editor:

Over the years I've watched the issue of abortion and the fanatical zeal of the pro-life movement. If a person wants to say, "I do not like abortion," that is fine, but please do not use the Christian Church to justify a pro-life position. I would suggest that they read the history of the Christian Church regarding murder.

After Moses told the people that the "thou shalt not kill," order came from God. He then proceeded to give them some of the most vicious commands in the history of civilization. He told the Hebrews to kill just about everything that walked or moved. He gave commands for genocide -- to kill babies and children -- (except young virgins for the men to keep and use). He gave orders for a scorched earth policy and thousands were slaughtered because of the commands of Moses.

The Christian church has one of the most horrible, unjust and cruel murder records in the history of our species. From Constantine through the Inquisition, to the Salem witch horror, the torture chambers of the Inquisition were filled with instruments that stagger the human mind. Racks, thumb screws, iron maidens, knives, whips, scourges, fire, tongs and hoists were used.

The Inquisition, started in Spain in 1233, was joined in 1478 by the Pope, run by the Holy Office, and covered all of Europe. It did not end until 1820. For 600 years the Christian Church carried on the systematic, horrible slaughter of hundreds of thousands of innocent men and women. All possessions had to be turned over to the church. Families were encouraged to denounce one another. No charge was needed for an arrest. The accuser was the judge.

John Calvin burned Servetus at the stake because Servetus said he could not find any evidence of the trinity in the Gospels.

You may not like abortion and you have a free speech right to speak against it, but if you are mindlessly waving banners, marching in the street, blocking clinics and planting bombs--in the name of all that is sacred, all that is truth, stop using the bloody hands of the church for your justification.

How can I help my wife cope?

QUESTION: My wife is a full-time homemaker, and we have three children under 6 years of age. She often gets depressed, especially when she can't keep up with everything expected of her. But I have my hands full too, and am required to put in a lot of overtime. What can I do, to help my wife cope with these busy years?

Dr. Dobson

Answers Your Questions

DR. DOBSON: Let me make two suggestions to you:

1. For some reason, human beings (and particularly women) tolerate stresses and pressures much more easily if at least one other person knows they are enduring it. This principle is filed under the category of "human understanding," and it is highly relevant to homemakers.

The frustrations of raising small children and handling domestic duties will be more manageable for your wife if you will let her know that you comprehend it all. Even if you can do nothing to change the situation, simply your awareness that she did an admirable job today will make it easier for her to repeat the assignment tomorrow.

Instead, the opposite usually occurs. At least 8 million husbands will stumble into the same unforgivable question tonight: "What did you do all day, dear?" The very nature of the question implies that the little woman had been sitting on her back-side watching television and drinking coffee since arising at noon! The little woman could kill him for saying it.

Everyone needs to know that he is respected for the way he meets his responsibilities. Husbands get this emotional nurture through job promotions, raises in pay, annual evaluations and incidental praise during the workday. Women at home get it from their husbands--if they get it at all. The most unhappy wives and mothers are often those who handle their fatigue and time pressure in solitude whose men are very, very sure that they always act so tired.

2. Husbands and wives should constantly guard against the scourge of over commitment. Even worthwhile and enjoyable activities become demanding when they consume the last ounce of energy or the remaining free moments in the day.

Though it is rarely possible for a busy family, everyone needs to waste some time every now and then--to walk along kicking rocks and thinking pleasant thoughts. Men need time to putter in the garage, and women need to pluck their eyebrows and do the girlish things again.

But as I have described, the whole world seems to conspire against such reconstructive activities. Even our vacations are hectic: "We have to reach St. Louis by sundown or we lose our reservations."

I can provide a simple prescription for a happier, healthier life, but it must be implemented by the individual family. You must resolve to slow your pace; you must learn to say "no" gracefully; you must resist the temptation to chase after more pleasures, more hobbies, more social entanglements; you must "hold the line" with the tenacity of a tackle for a professional football team.

In essence, three questions should be asked about every new activity that presents itself: Is it worthy of our time? What will be eliminated if it is added? What will be its impact on our family life?

My suspicion is that most of the items in our busy day would score rather poorly on this three-item test.

QUESTION: My unmarried daughter recently told me that she is three-months' pregnant. What should be my attitude toward her now?

DR. DOBSON: You cannot reverse these circumstances by being harsh or unloving at this point. Your daughter needs more understanding now than ever before, and you should give it to her if possible.

Help her grope through this difficulty and avoid "I told you so" comments. She will face many important decisions in the next few months and she will need a calm, rational mother and father to assist in determining the best path to take.

Remember that lasting love and affection often develop between people who have survived a crisis together.

Teething Pain

Children often become irritable as their teeth are coming in, and dealing with this is frustrating to many parents. The American Dental Association has not accepted any product to treat teething; but topical anesthetics, such as Anbesol™, and frozen teething rings may provide some symptomatic relief of the pain associated with teething. If teething is accompanied by a fever, a dentist or physician should be contacted. Consult your pharmacist for a recommendation for your child.

The Golden Years

Do you expect to retire in the next 10 years? A brochure titled "Staying Independent" can help you focus on what to do now so you won't wind up saying "if only I'd known then what I know now." It outlines future needs and how to manage what you own and what you owe for financial independence in later life. Copies of "Staying Independent" (No. 4462) are available at 50 cents each from the U.S. Consumer Information Center, 3D2, PO Box 100, Pueblo, Colorado 81002.

Brooke Astor has been called New York's Queen Mother of philanthropy as head of the Vincent Astor Foundation, created by her late husband. Since 1960 she has given more than $165 million to museums, libraries and other institutions. She told an interviewer the foundation's money is almost gone, quipping that "I didn't think I would live this long." But at 91, she hasn't run out of energy. She meets with people from institutions before making a contribution, attends social events four nights a week and in summer walks seven miles a day.

Remember When? March 10, 1949 — Mildred Gillars, the "Axis Sally" broadcaster for the Nazis in World War II, was convicted in Washington of treason. She spent 12 years in prison.

Playoff needed to decide champion of golf tourney

The Annual Wayne Men's Memorial Golf Open was held Sunday with over 200 golfers taking part. Championship flight golfers competed for 18 holes to decide which 24 would earn the rights to play the final nine holes.

Laurel's Rick Petri appeared to have things well in hand after the first 18 holes after carding a four-under par 68. Only two other golfers were below par including former Oakland-Craig High School and University of Nebraska golfer Jason Peterson with a 70 and Westminster, Colorado's Chuck Fisher who fired a 71.

A confident yet competent Peterson set Petri in his sights for the final nine holes but it didn't look promising early because Peterson put his tee shot on the first hole out-of-bounds for a two-stroke penalty. Still, Peterson came back to shoot even par over the nine holes while Petri settled for a 38.

The two-stroke difference ended up tying the two for the championship at two under par 106 for 27 holes so a sudden death playoff was needed to decide the overall champ. Petri ended up taking a bogey in the first hole of sudden death while Peterson parred the number one hole at the Wayne Country Club to complete his comeback and earn championship honors.

Fisher finished third overall with a 109 while Kirk Eymann fired a 110 to finish fourth, edging Mike Zadalis by way of a score-card tie-breaker. Sam Martin placed sixth with a 111 and Gayle Larson was seventh with a 112. Jerry Nelson placed eighth with 112 and Kirk Wacker was ninth with a 114. Troy Sullivan rounded out the list of championship placers with a 114.

The day was also highlighted by a hole-in-one on number three by West Point's Thomas Kreikemeier of the first flight. The following is a composite of placers in each flight: First flight—Roger Lorsch, 72; Mark Brown, 75; Thomas Kreikemeier, 76; Lumir Kampschneider, 77.

81; Gene Claussen, 81; Kevin Peterson, 82.

relief of Kelly Meyer and Dane Jensen.

Dusty Jensen, Jeremy Sturm and Jason Wehrer each had two base hits to lead Wayne while Adam Beebe doubled. Jason Starzl, B.J. Wochler, Scott Agenbroad and Joe Lutt also had base hits for the 2-4 Juniors.

WAYNE'S JUNIORS and Midgets hosted Wisner-Pilger-Beemer in a double-header at Hank Overin Field, Monday with the Midgets winning a 5-4 decision to improve to 3-1 while the Juniors lost, 10-0 which left them with a 2-5 record.

Josh Starzl struck out eight Wisner batters in leading the Midgets to victory. Wayne built a 5-1 lead after three innings but had to hold off Wisner late to notch the victory. Starzl allowed just two hits but Wayne was limited to a Terry Hamer single.

Wayne scored two runs in the second inning on three errors and a walk and the locals added three in the third on two errors, a hit batsman, a walk and a base hit.

The Midgets will play in Homer on Wednesday before playing a double-header in Tilden, Thursday.

The Juniors fell victim to the pitching of Nick Kumm but Wayne got a solid performance from Dusty Jensen who allowed just two runs after four innings but left with an injury.

Wayne finished with four hits—all singles. Jim Fernau had two hits while Jeremy Sturm and Jason Wehrer had one each. Dane Jensen and Jeremy Sturm also pitched in relief of Dusty.

Wayne will play at Homer on Wednesday before hosting Wakefield on Friday.

KLINTON KELLER fires the ball from his shortstop position to first base to force a Wisner runner out.

Decorating with 'horse sense'

Mary Gamble of rural Wayne decorated her chicken house in an unusual manner using recycled horse shoes. It took over a year to collect the 60 horseshoes she used for the leaves and flower petals. The stems are garden hose and the centers of the flowers are coffee can lids. Everything except the garden hose is brightly painted with weather proof paint. Gamble credits her friend Delores Hoefs of Pender with the idea.
