

Lightning fire devastates Wayne church

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

It could be more than a week before members of Redeemer Lutheran Church in Wayne will know the fate of their heavily damaged church building.

The church was hit by lightning and fire early Saturday morning and fire fighters from four towns battled for four hours before it was extinguished. The blaze gutted some sections of the building and destroyed the roof over the sanctuary.

The entire building suffered fire, smoke and water damage and the fire chief's estimates place the property value loss at well over $1 million.

Pastor Frank Rothfuss said insurance adjusters won't have the damage figures totaled up until next week and any structural assessment of the standing walls will take some time as well.

Fire chief Dutch Sitzman ordered people kept away from the east wall of the church building because the unsupported rock edifice was seen to sway when fire hoses were trained on it during the height of the Saturday morning fire. He said heat damage to the mortar in the rock walled 1948 structure leads him to question its structural soundness.

The church members worshiped with members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church Sunday and prayers were offered up in churches throughout the area for the shocked congregation.

Sitzman, himself a member of Redeemer, had been scheduled to give his daughter away in marriage Saturday evening in the sanctuary he battled to save Saturday morning. The wedding went off anyway at St. Paul's that afternoon.

For one solid two-hour period during the battle Sitzman said firemen pumped 3,000 gallons of water per minute onto the blaze. Yet when it was all out, there was less than two feet of standing water which had to be pumped out of the basement Saturday afternoon he said. Church members went through the structure Saturday looking for items that could be salvaged.

Firemen were called back to the building that afternoon to deal with a hot spot discovered as Sitzman and fellow church members hauled out salvageable items.

"We've always said the church is people, not the building," said Rothfuss. The church council was scheduled to meet Tuesday night and the pastor said he has been heartened by the outpouring of help offered by the other churches in the community.

"It's like any other loss. You feel stunned and shocked and you have all kinds of questions about why and what do we do now," Rothfuss said. "We will pick up the pieces," he added.

Prior to the fire, members of the St. Paul's and Redeemer Lutheran Churches had discussed merger possibilities but many involved said it was too early to speculate on the impact the fire will have on merger, rebuilding or new structure decisions.

Neighbors reported a lightning strike in the area of the church at approximately 2:30 Saturday morning.

Early morning disaster

Fire departments from four towns pumped over a half million gallons of water on the Redeemer Lutheran Church early Saturday morning in an effort to bring a lightning caused fire under control. The lightning hit structural steel beams in the roof of the structure on the left side of the photo behind the bell tower. Firemen fought the blaze for four hours in a steady rainstorm. Smoke from the blaze covered a large area of the east part of town. More photos of the devastated church can be found today on Page 10 A.

General headlines Nifty Fifty party

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

James Davis said he thought about talking to his fellow graduates from Wayne High School about the sorry state of United States' affairs, about the potential disaster of or national decline in power and will, about a bumbling federal administration... about a host of other world problems.

Davis, a retired four star Air Force general who was the supreme commander of allied forces in Europe is easily recognized as one of the world experts on these subjects, but he didn't talk to his classmates about those things.

"Because it depresses me," he told the members of the Nifty Fifties graduates who returned for a reunion in Wayne Thursday through Saturday.

Davis, a member of the Wayne High Class of 1953 was the keynote speaker of the festivities.

He said he has hosted foreign heads of state in his home, has rubbed shoulders with U.S. Presidents and high level officials, has spoken before foreign parliaments but he said he has never experienced so much stage fright as he did before he stood to speak to his former classmates, friends and especially teachers.

"Because you know me," He said it was Wayne teachers, friends and life-style that affected and influenced his military career for over 35 years. He said the simple honesty, integrity and Godfearing trust instilled in him during his early life in Wayne he credits with much of the success he attained.

He was a decorated fighter pilot in

Reunion is successful

The largest school reunion in Wayne's history was held over the weekend as the decade of the 50's had a high school reunion that reunited over 300 people from decades past.

The official tally was 316 people, coordinator Tom Roberts said. "The reunion should have benefited the community from an economic development standpoint in that those attending spent a good deal in money in town."

Roberts said work on the reunion began last September and continued through the beginning of last week. "There's a lot of work involved in something like this but I think the time put in by the committee was well worth it."

Civil defense system testing

WAYNE — The City of Wayne will conduct the monthly testing of the Civil Defense Outdoor Warning System at 11:45 a.m. on Friday.

Each siren location will be tested separately. This month the attack signal will be allowed to run approximately 15 seconds at each location to test its effectiveness.

Immediately following the testing of the outdoor warning system, the city will also test the Cablevision Emergency Alert System. This will mean disruption of programming of every television set on the cablevision system that is in use. This test will last approximately 15 seconds.

Country dance

WINSIDE — The Wayne County Old Settlers committee has announced there will be a country dance in the village auditorium on Friday evening, June 24 from 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Music will be provided by D.J. Bryan Deck of Winside. There will be a $2 per person charge.

DARE Day is rescheduled

RANDOLPH — The 1994 Northeast Nebraska DARE Day for past and present graduates of the drug free DARE programs and their family members will be held in Randolph, Saturday, July 23 beginning at 8 a.m.

This is the rescheduled event that was rained out June 18. The activities, to be held in the Randolph City Park, will include softball, a fun run, swimming, tennis and more. Lunch will be served.

Kids spell WSC camp F.U.N.

By Kim Imdieke
Of the Herald

One hundred F.U.N. Campers took the stage in WSC's Ramsey

Theatre Friday night for the culmination of an eventful week. The campers, students having completed grades five through eight, entertained their families and friends with skits, projects and musical numbers highlighting the week's activities.

The week began Sunday, June 12, when families of resident campers hosted a potluck picnic for their guest from various parts of Nebraska, South Dakota, Iowa and Kansas. Non-resident campers then went home with their host families for a night's sleep before classes began Monday morning. Each of the next five days, students attended four classes chosen from: Visual arts, Creative Music, Creative Theatre, Creative Problem Solving, Storytelling, Sign Language and Creative Writing.

Teachers promoted individual expression and encouraged campers to recognize the importance of fine arts in everyday life. Part of each class period was devoted to preparation for the final program, excerpts of which were presented to the Chamber of Commerce Friday morning. Evening activities included a stand-up comedy routine, a sack lunch picnic, and a bonfire at Ike's Lake, complete with hot dogs, marshmallows and ghost stories.

Cyndi Swarts, former language arts instructor at Wayne Middle School and current mentor for Lincoln Public Schools, founded F.U.N. Camp in 1983. She shared the frustration of many of her

Eagles March for 'Jail and Bail'

The Wayne Eagles Club will be conducting a "Jail and Bail" on behalf of the March of Dimes this Thursday, June 23 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Riley's Cafe will become a temporary "Jail" to house some of Wayne's well-known personalities who will be "arrested" to help in the March of Dimes Campaign for Healthier Babies.

The jailed "culprits" will "do time" for 45 minutes on the phone, calling friends to raise bail in the form of pledged contributions to the March of Dimes. Some of the reported crimes committed have been "littering the woods with golf balls, visual assault with a loud necktie, excessive modesty and humility and exceeding the speed limit while jogging!"

The March of Dimes is a national voluntary health agency whose mission is to improve the health of babies by preventing birth defects, low birth weight and infant mortality. The March of Dimes is credited with funding the research for the polio vaccine discovered by Dr. Jonas Salk in 1955.

More recently, the March of Dimes has played a key role in finding new surgical techniques to correct birth defects with babies still in the womb. In addition, the group has helped make educational advances for women in need of prenatal exams and postpartum check-ups. The dollars raised from the Jail and Bail will fund programs of community services, advocacy, research and education in Wayne.

colleagues at the lack of time to promote creativity in the class room. Working with these instructors and several members of Wayne State College faculty, she established a week-long fine arts camp for middle school students.

In the eleven years since then, the college has continued to provide use of its facilities, and the number of campers has more than doubled the original forty-four. The camp's theme, inspired by a song associated with Jim Henson's Muppets, is the search for the "Rainbow Connection". Each year's final program ends with a performance of the song by all campers.

Swartz credits the success of F.U.N. Camp to the students, their parents, resident host families, the college and her staff. The work of Assistant Directors Donna Ewing of Wayne and Swartz' son Brett, himself a former F.U.N. Camper, begins weeks before camp convenes. Instructors likewise devote hours to advance preparations. This year's faculty included two instructors from Wayne Middle School who have led groups every year of the camp's existence. They are Mary Ann DeNaeyer, Creative Problem Solving; and Joyce Mitchell, Creative Writing.

Other returning instructors included Paula Baker of Lincoln, Visual Art; and Duane Hutchinson of Lincoln, Storytelling. Three additional Lincoln residents, Charles Bowling II, Creative Music; Juli Burney, Creative Theatre; and Linda Pearson, Sign Language, rounded off the faculty as first-year instructors.

Bowling saw the camp as an avenue for students to discover and express themselves in a non-threatening environment and a wonderful opportunity for confidence growth. "Cyndi has done well in organizing the camp and providing each teacher the opportunity to be flexible," said

Bowling who, added he "would consider it an honor to be back next year."

The campers echo Bowling's enthusiasm. For Mindy McLean, daughter of Bob and Rita McLean of Wayne, 1994 marks the fourth and final year of F.U.N. Camp. She says she will remember all the people she met and mentions that her sister, a 1994 Wayne High graduate and another former camper, has maintained a close friendship with the girl her family hosted when she was in middle school.

Mindy "recommends" F.U.N. Camp to everyone in the age group because it's a really great opportunity to meet new friends and learn lots of new and interesting things.

Kenneth Kopperud and Eric Shapiro, both first-year campers, agree. Kenneth, son of Keith and Cheryl Kopperud of Wayne, says the final program was his favorite part of the week. Eric, son of Charles Shapiro and Joan Sudman of Wayne, adds, "All the teachers were cool, Cyndi in particular." Both boys hope to return next year.

Wayne woman has to wait on winning ticket

Wednesday's Nebraska Lottery Grand Prize Drawing held special meaning for a Wayne woman.

Linda Smutzler was anxious for the big day, not because she was hoping for one of the $10,000, $20,000 and $50,000 prizes, but because she had a winning "Instant Luck" ticket somewhere among the 250,000 "Nebraska Doubler" and "Tic-Tac-Toe" Grand Prize Drawing entries.

On April 6, Smutzler, 41, bought five "Instant Luck" tickets at the 7-Eleven store in Wayne, and found one of them to be a $1,500 winner. Although she intended to claim her prize by mail by sending it directly to Nebraska Lottery headquarters in Lincoln, she accidentally sent it instead to the special Grand Prize Drawing post office box. When she realized what had happened, Smutzler called Nebraska Lottery Headquarters to inquire about claiming her prize. She found out that patience and perseverance would be important.

"The response to the Grand Prize Drawing was so heavy, there was no way to locate Linda's ticket before the Grand Prize Drawing," said Jim Quinn, Acting Lottery Director. "However, once the drawing was completed, we were able to let her have access to the entries. We hold all the entries for 30 days after the drawing for audit purposes, and in case winning tickets are accidentally mailed to the wrong post office box."

Thousands of entries for the Grand Prize Drawing were received each day and, for security purposes, they were placed in large bags sealed with evidence tape. Those bags were stored together in a special security area of the Nebraska Lottery warehouse until the Grand Prize Drawing process began this week.

Early Friday morning, Smutzler was given supervised access to the 101 bags containing the entries and, after searching through three bags of entries from early April, she found the envelope with her ticket in it. Reunited with her winning ticket, Smutzler claimed her prize at Lottery Headquarters, becoming the thirtieth person to claim a $1,500 "Instant Luck" prize.

Twenty-six others have won $1,000 "Instant Luck" prizes, and another 16 have claimed $5,000 prizes in the game.

Merlin on track of hypersonic planes

Is the hypersonic "Aurora" flying over Nebraska?
Informants claim the USAF is testing a radar-evading reconnaissance plane that flies faster than sound at altitudes above 100,000 feet.

On June 2, a few minutes after midnight, four separate sightings were made of hypersonic objects at high altitudes, mere pinpoints of light. As an amateur astronomer, I was observing the night sky when a small star-like object appeared west of Wayne northbound at a pace judged to be hypersonic. That's Mach 5. Satellites are faster, therefore were ruled out.

After getting binoculars from the house, the object had disappeared. But a few minutes later a second object was sighted southbound. Binoculars detected no observable position lights or rotating strobe lights normally used by aircraft. Same speed. No sound. A third high-speed "star" appeared southbound.

A fourth craft was observed minutes later in the northwest, traveling southeast. Perhaps all were the same craft? Or were there four?

Dreamland is the name given a secret air base at Groom Lake, ninety miles northwest of Las Vegas. Last month, on April 8, sheriff's deputies in Lincoln County, Nevada, confiscated an ABC news crew's camera gear after they attempted taking photos. Earlier, March 23, deputies seized film from a New York Times news team working in the same observational area.

Dreamland has been a test site for Uncle Sam's most secret aircraft, the latest of which is dubbed "Aurora".

Officially, the base doesn't exist, but is clearly visible from a mountain top called Freedom Ridge, and is also readily seen in Russian satellite photos. The USAF is trying to shut down nearby civilian mountain-top observation points administered by the federal Bureau of Land Management.

An anonymous photo analyst claims he has examined a classified Landsat image of Groom Lake that reveals three parked, triangle-shaped craft on the ramp at Dreamland. Very hush-hush.

Intelligence junkies describe Aurora as a hypersonic, diamond-shaped craft capable of stopping on a dime and changing directions. Its turbojet engines emit a signature of smoke rings. Hearsay gives it vertical takeoff capability, using an exhaust based steering system, but horizontal speed is hypersonic, twice the speed of a rifle bullet, or 3,800 mph.

Is Aurora testing here since video cameras recorded it over California?

In 1988 Aurora was a classified "black" government program with a $2.1 billion budget. The information was unintentionally released in the 1985 Pentagon budget.

Welcome to Nebraska, Aurora! Maybe?

Capitol News — Committees wade through issues

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — It's a much-used (and some would say over-used) ploy for state government to the local PTA: if you have a sticky, complicated problem that you're not ready to deal with, appoint a committee to study it.

It's a problem-solving tool that's been used frequently under Gov. Nelson.

During his 3-1/2 years in office, the governor has either created or employed 42 such commissions or task forces to tackle state issues.

When confronted with a constitutional crisis in the state's personal property tax system, Nelson created the Revenue Revitalization and Restructuring Commission, the 3-R Commission.

Out of last year's flooding, a Task Force for Disaster Recovery was formed.

prairie, Nelson is forming a group to compare the state's overall tax system (particularly property taxes) with other states in terms of fairness and equity.

Mansion watchers say Nelson has used such commissions and task forces more than other recent Nebraska governors. It's a hallmark of his administration, to get people together, talk things out, then seek solution.

That's either a good deal or a bad thing, depending on who you talk to.

Supporters say commissions and task forces are great ways to get the public involved in government and to reach agreement and compromise on difficult issues.

Most folks agree that achieving 40 votes (of 49 state senators) to approve the personal property tax plan in 1992 was a long shot, but Nelson, with the momentum of his 3-R Committee, pulled it off.

The 1993 compromise between labor and business on reforming the state's workers compensation system was another coup. I mean, how many times do you see management and workers joining together to pass a bill?

Detractors, however, say creating such groups is a good way to put off decisions or defuse controversies.

"I know we laugh about it in the Republican Party organization. If you've got a hot potato, just appoint a commission," said former Gov. Charlie Thone.

A spokesman for Gene Spence, Nelson's GOP campaign opponent, said the current governor's penchant for commissions was another example of Nelson's lack of leadership, of waiting to react to problems instead of heading them off.

That brought a sharp response for the governor, who said his commission's have proven their worth, delivering results on issues that were previously stalemated, like the workers compensation system and the personal property tax system.

Overall, Nelson has had more winners than losers result from commission and task force studies.

The personal property tax solution, whether you liked it or not, was a masterful bit of compromise and education.

But his prison reform task force (like similar prison task forces of the past) has yet to bear fruit and his welfare reform commission won more of a hollow than solid victory last spring.

So what do I really think? Let me defer that to a committee and I'll get back to you.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Remove it

Dear Editor:

Here we go again. Finally, it has arrived in Wayne: the pro-choice and anti-choice movement. The stone in the cemetery was put there by an out-of-town firm for one reason only — to cause controversy. So let's hop to it. Let's turn on our neighbors, friends and family. Let's boo at any individual who might have a different opinion than our own. The cemetery board should see its mistake, remove the stone and allow Wayne to return to the friendly town it has always been.

This issue has never been about "abortion." It is about CHOICE and POWER. Do women have the intelligence to make decisions that concern their lives? The Catholic Church, headed by unmarried men who in the past publicly shamed women who had children out of wedlock, began this movement. Evangelists jumped on the bandwagon on television because the money flowed into their coffers after their hate-filled sermons calling those for "choice" murderers. They never mentioned the many women who were killed in back-alleys by quacks; women have never mattered in this dispute. Who are 95% of these evangelists — men. Who are these priests — men. Who heads and drills supporters blocking clinics — men! Oh, they get women to go along by the hundreds by showing murky films and sermonizing shows. But the bottom line has always been the following: Are women intelligent enough to make the choices that affect their lives? — Or do they need overseers as they have had for centuries?

Do you want priests and ministers sitting at your birthings again telling husbands when a choice is to be made about who lives (even if you have ten children at home) to save the baby instead of the mother because the mother has already been baptized and the baby has not? Do you women really want every little miscarriage investigated by the state? Do you really want to carry a baby to term if it has been conceived by rape or incest? Do you really want contraceptives banned? All the above have been done in the past? Do you really want to go back to that? Do you know that in Ireland where the Catholic Church rules supreme, women cannot get contraceptives. Do you really want that again?

Up until 20 years ago, women who had children out of wedlock were shunned and ostracized. Where were the organizations formed today to help those women then? Do you take care of these babies after they are born? No, now most people even want to do away with welfare.

All of you people who want to do away with choice go ahead and have your children. No one is stopping you. In time, you will be the majority and we will have no need for choice anymore. By the way, remove the stone and let's get back to being neighbors, friends and family once more in Wayne.

'No malice'

Dear Editor:

During the past few weeks I have been reading the articles in the paper and the many letters to the editor concerning the grave marker which was put up in the Wayne cemetery. I realize that the many letters for and against the stone in the cemetery reveals the great division of beliefs and feelings concerning abortion within our community. And I realize that this is not a local issue, but a national issue. I am reminded of the reference Abraham Lincoln made in the debate with Stephen Douglas where Abraham Lincoln made this memorable, "a house divided against itself will not stand."

I fear that we again are a "house divided." Both sides have equally strong feelings about the issue before us: I publicly declare that I am against abortion, yet I also feel that those in the debate today are quick to choose up sides and see each other as the "enemy" or "opponent." There is a sense among many that "we must win" concerning this issue. I sense that that attitude will quickly divide us, and in the end not advance the cause of either side.

In public debate we must be very careful that we do not let our positions separate us a community. Or we will indeed find ourselves in the same situation which Abraham Lincoln was in. It is not without warrant that after years of war over the slavery issue, Abraham Lincoln also pointed out that to reconstruct the nation we should have "malice towards none."

My challenge to our community is can we have malice towards none in this debate? Can we deal with the issues? Can we be willing to allow a neighbor disagree with us without seeing him as the enemy?

Rev. Cal Kroeker
Wayne

Accept it

Dear Editor:

We are plat owners in Greenwood Cemetery and appalled the board can't make up its mind to accept the wonderful "baby monument." Other cemeteries deemed it worthy and thankfully accepted it.

Where's all of our consciences? (distinctions made between moral right and wrong, especially in regard to one's own conduct.) We feel nothing when over 4,000 babies are aborted a day in the USA? Don't forget the abused and neglected!

Pro-choice?? You "choose" — before the act! In this day and age you didn't know you could get pregnant? Bull! The inconvenience (a hindrance, or trouble) is murdered because you wouldn't be responsible for your actions. I applaud all who give life by adoption.

The animal rights activists raise more stink than humans do over inhumane actions. I'm not judging, just remembering the Ten Commandments. They are not ten suggestions! God have mercy on us all. P.S. This is Father's Day! Thanks "Mom and Dad" for keeping me, even though I may have been an inconvenience in the dirty thirties and depression.

Mrs. Bonnie Frevert

Maligned stone

Dear Editor:

The Christian Church as well as the stone at the cemetery have been much maligned recently.

The whole Christian Church on earth did not participate in the Spanish Inquisition. During the time period from 1233-1820, the Reformation was going on in Germany and other countries in Europe for many of those years. Years before Martin Luther nailed his 95 theses on the church door at Wittenberg, Germany, in 1517 church reformers were burned at the stake for trying to take out the wrong that existed in the church. For hundreds of years the Christian Church has been instrumental in establishing hospitals, orphanages, schools, Gospel/rescue missions for the homeless, alcoholics, drug addicts, etc. Every city contains these missions where the hopeless are helped and can find new life physically as well as spiritually. The Open Door Mission and Project Hope, both in Omaha, as well as the Sioux City Gospel Mission are examples in the local area along with the Norfolk soup kitchen. There is help given to homeless and transients coming through Wayne by various local churches that never gets publicized. Various denominations give help regularly to the Wayne Food Pantry and also contribute to Haven House right in Wayne. The Orphan Grain Train, based in Norfolk, has sent much help in the form of medical supplies, clothing, food, as well as local volunteers to help with schools and other needs in the countries of the former Soviet Union: The Grain Train also helps when disasters occur in this country, including Hurricane Andrew, the floods of 1993 and where local needs occur. The Orphan Grain Train was founded by Pastor Wilke of Grace Lutheran Church, Norfolk. Various denominations and many other things helping the deaf, the blind and the mentally handicapped.

While I disagree with Servetus' theory, I do think burning at the stake was too harsh. But is that any worse than ripping apart live babies in their mother's womb over 4,000 times daily in this country? I would like to ask all of you to watch the videos, "The Silent Scream" and "The Eclipse of Reason," both of which were produced by Dr. Bernard Nathanson. He formerly presided over 65,000 abortions in New York and his story was printed in a leading, secular women's magazine. He began to see blood in his sleep and could no longer go on with abortion, but became a pro-lifer. He produced the movies to show the public the true horror of abortion. Before you brand him a "right-wing fundamentalist," the last information I read, he is an atheist.

There is nothing embarrassing or repulsive about the stone at the cemetery. I admire the people who erected it, and I certainly hope it stays where it is as a fitting memorial and reminder of thousands of child abuse victims.

Clara Heinemann
Wayne

Know the truth

Dear Editor:

In regard to the opposition of the BABY monument placed in the Wayne cemetery: You shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free. Therefore if the Son (Truth) makes you free, you shall be free indeed.

We are praying for you.
Debbie Rise

Unbelievable

Dear Editor and

Citizens of Wayne: It has saddened me to see the community of Wayne so torn as it is, over the placement of a Pro-Life Monument in the cemetery.

For an elected group to use this sacred place to express their personal views is unbelievable as well as unthinkable. More so, is the fact that the cemetery plot owner has failed to call for an open meeting to express their views and request the removal of this monument from the cemetery.

It would seem to me that certain by-laws apply only to the masses while a select group continue to do as so desired. This would be the placement of flowers and advertisements.

I question the legality of allowing Rausch Monument Co. and Pro-Life to advertise both views and company on property they do not own. I also question the legal right of certain board members to violate the by-laws and allow the erection of such a monument, plus place items on areas they do not own. This would be the well and bench, without a majority vote of the plot members.

The cemetery board is composed of volunteer members elected to oversee the care of our loved ones resting place. This is expected to be done with respect and dignity.

Fire

The fire was reported at 3:30 a.m. Fire fighters were called from Wakefield, Carroll and Winside to help Wayne crews fight the blaze. City water crews were called in to keep all pumps running to supply the fire fighting effort. More than half a million gallons of water was used in the battle.

Water was used by the firemen to keep the stained glass windows cool in hopes of salvaging them from the blaze, and Sitzman said he thinks that effort was successful. Many of the windows were given to the church as memorials.

He said battling the fire was as emotionally taxing for his fire crew as it was physical. "Many of the firemen spent their entire spiritual lives in that church," he said.

Sitzman said the State Fire Marshal confirmed the area where the lightning struck the church in the southwest area of the roof. Missing the bell tower, the bolt-hit a steel structural beam in the roof and was carried through the steel frame, electrical systems and conduit of the entire area, he said. He said the investigators found blue, distorted metal indicative of a lightning hit clear down to the altar area of the church. The strong thunderstorm which passed through the area left only .86 of an inch in Wayne but there were reports of 9 inches of rain falling near Wausa and the rising Elkhorn River caused evacuation of more than a dozen homes in Osmond. Water was also reported over Highway 20, forcing closure of the road until early Sunday morning.

Placing of such a monument, displays neither.

I recently met with several of the board members and personally requested the removal of this monument, on behalf of the Pile family. We strongly feel that, had not our forefathers and mothers had the foresight they did, nor struggled as they did, we would not have achieved the standards of today. They gave to us love, honesty, desire, dignity and respect for one another. Now, it is our turn to see that they Rest in Peace with those same qualities.

It is the Pile Families request that you the citizens of Wayne come together and see that the members elected to this Board, do not continue to impose their personal views or desires upon you or your families and those who have gone before us.

While many of us are not now, physically residing in Wayne, we consider it our home. Wayne will always be in our hearts. It abounds with friendships and bonds that miles cannot destroy nor break. It has given us values that will never falter as we pass them on from generation to generation.

Thank you beautiful people!

Oppose tyranny

Dear Editor:

From the World-Herald Sunday, "Concern is growing among political activists about the influence of right-wing religious groups in the Republican party."

William Edelen, writer, minister, "The brilliance and genius of our Founding Fathers is beyond imagination. Will we ever again see men, or women, of their stature in this Country?" Thomas Jefferson: "I have sworn upon the altar of God, eternal hostility against every form of tyranny over the mind of man" (political and religious).

Thomas Paine: "Those who expect to reap the blessings of freedom must, like men, undergo the fatigue of supporting it."

Benjamin Franklin: "Those who would give up essential freedom to purchase a little temporary safety ... deserve neither liberty or safety."

It seems the threat comes from political organizations that have fielded candidates who advocate school prayer, support government aid to religious schools and oppose equal rights for gay and lesbian people. U.S. Rep. Fred Grandy blamed the religious right for leaflets distributed at churches for his loss in the Iowa Republican primary. Grandy has voted for federal funding of the arts. He said the leaflets twisted his position, making him out to be an advocate of expanded rights for pornographers. In Virginia, the nomination of Oliver North, with strong help from the Pat Robertson organization, has alienated a number of moderate Republicans in that state.

Albert R. Hunt, who covers politics for the Wall Street Journal, referred to the religious right as a "thundercloud, hovering over the bright Republican political hopes for this year and beyond." Why? "The narrow, negative fervor of the religious right offends many Americans."

In Nebraska, too. "This year," Hunt wrote, "was supposed to be curtains for three-time Ne. Rep. Peter Hoagland; he got only 51 percent last time, and Bill Clinton was clobbered in Omaha and its suburbs. Dems expected the GOP nominee would be Brad Ashford, a state senator who is conservative on crime and economics but pro-choice on abortion. But that inflamed members of the religious right, who turned out to nominate one of their own, Jon Christensen."

Several years ago, the Academic Dean of Stanford U. wrote these words in their Univ. magazine: "The Christian Right is potentially much more dangerous to our nation than the Community Party ever has been. This group presents the gravest crisis of this century because of their wedding of religious slogans with their politics. They are infringing upon a precious right that each of us inherited from those learned men of the 18th century who expressly separated church and state in these United States of America."

Former Secretary of Education, Terrel Bell, wrote that our textbooks today are being so dumbed down (by the Christian fundamentalists) that nothing resembling education is taking place in thousands of schools across this country. He wrote that "science texts have degenerated into pabulum."

On Sept. 17, 1787, the Constitution of the United States guaranteed us our freedoms, if we, as a free people, assume responsibility for them. This document is the heart of representative democracy.

On the 4th of July holiday, please do forget cold beer and fire-crackers for a few moments, and remember some words written by Stephen Vincent Benet. Memorize them. Read them to your children, neighbors and friends. And ... read them ... over and over and over again.

"There are certain words ... Our own and others we've used ... heard ... had to recite. Forgotten. Rubbed shiny in the pocket, left home for keepsakes ... inherited ... stuck away in the back drawer ... in the locked trunk ... at the back of the quiet mind.

Liberty ... Equality ... Freedom ... To none will we sell, refuse or deny ... right or justice. We hold these truths to be self-evident ... I am merely saying ... What if these words pass? It took long to buy these words: It took a long time to buy them ... and much, much pain..."

Lost rights

Dear Editor:

The dust has momentarily settled, and as State Coordinator of the Peoples Petition Network, it is my responsibility to inform you about your right to petition your state government.

On May 13 of this year you, my children and maybe grandchildren pretty much lost your right to petition your state government.

How and why? On May 13, our State Supreme Court clarified our State Constitution on which formula was to be used in determining signatures needed to place a petition on the ballot for you to vote on. We went from a percentage of votes cast for governor to a percentage of registered voters. Big, big difference! From reading petition history and current experience with our petition process, it was a big enough difference to kill your right to petition.

In the matter of one hour on May 13 of this year the signature requirement went from 58,645 valid signatures to 92,000 valid signatures. If that was not bad enough, next year the federal Motor Voter Registration Law will take effect. I personally believe the signature requirement for petitions will go to 115-125,000 next year. Then even higher in 1996, 97, 98, 99.

What needs to be done? Plain and simple, a special session with one simple mandate — put our petition process back the way it was (votes cast for Governor).

Why a special session? If we do not correct this on this November ballot it will be two or possibly four year period without a workable petition process. What does this mean to you? Well for a two or four year period our State government can pass about any law they want on your taxes, schools, guns, anything, knowing that the people of this state can do nothing about it! Kind of scary if you know of some of the laws some of those Senators can come up with every year.

Another reason, if this problem does go to the regular session in 1995 one of two things will happen: A. It will get buried and absolutely nothing will get done or B. It will get buried but passed through with unacceptable language to be put on the ballot. Not good either way!

Why put it back the way it was (votes cast for Governor)? For 80 years (1914 to present) our petition process has worked the way it was suppose to. It would weed out the bad petitions and yet allow petitions the people really want on the ballot. Of the hundreds of petitions filed during those 80 years only 45 made it on the ballot. Of those 45 only 15 were voted in by the people.

If we get stuck with the "registered voter formula," I seriously believe you will never vote on an issue again. Ever.

What can and must you do. Call your Senator (Day, Schellpeper, Engle) today, not next week. If you have to call them at home and demand they commit themselves to not only a special session but to putting your petition process back the way it was.

To close please remember two things. Because we have no money to fight this, our only power is in you and your phone calls. And your right to petition is special and worth a special session.

PUBLIC HEARING
Communities and Schools Served by District #17 (Wayne-Carroll)

District 17 is hosting a community hearing on a proposed building plan recommended by the Facility Study Committee which will effect patrons in Wayne, Carroll, and Affiliated Districts #51 and #57.

The purpose of the hearing is to first review the history of the facility study committee and to present rational as to why the district is considering a major building project. After the presentation is finished, there will be time for public comment.

This will be an opportunity for all the communities involved to have a better understanding of the facility problems facing the district and what should be done, in the most efficient and effective way, to resolve these facility concerns.

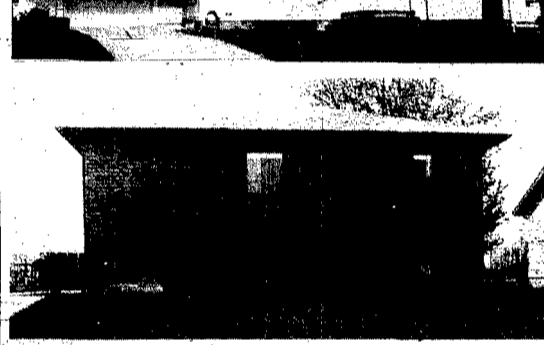

The district urges all those interested to attend - the public school is the responsibility of the community and it depends on the support of everyone, not just those with children currently in school. The future of America rests on how well our communities' prepare the children.

Rockwell-Kincanon wedding at Wayne State Willow Bowl

The Willow Bowl on the Wayne State College Campus was the setting for the garden wedding of Janeane Rockwell of Wayne to Kerry Kincanon of Norfolk. The double-ring ceremony took place in the afternoon of June 3.

The bride is the daughter of Paul and Kathryn Rockwell of Sioux City and the groom is the son of Gene and Mary Ellen Kincanon of Norfolk.

The groom's mother decorated the setting with basket arrangement and Garland Isle decorations.

Justice Robert Enz of Wayne performed the ceremony.

Mary Kay Hasamann, Laurel, and Ben Wilson, Wayne, were vocalists. Musicians included Brett Fuelberth, Irwin, Iowa; Scott Brayshaw, Omaha, and Chris Berry, York. They performed, "I Carry Your Heart" and "Love will come to You."

The bride wore a cream colored lace dress with pink underlining. The tea-length dress was made by her mother. It featured long lace sleeves with pink trim, pink trim at the neckline and a dropped waist and bottom flounce.

Her headpiece was a comb decorated pink and cream flowers. She carried a fresh spring bouquet.

Maid of honor was Sylvia Patterson, sister of the bride, from Champaign, IL. Her bridesmaid was Sara Dederman, Norfolk.

The attendants wore light cream colored cotton dresses with a pink and violet floral design. Readers for the service were John Dunning,

Mr. and Mrs. Kincanon

Wayne, and Chris Ewerdt, Norfolk. Best man was Ben Wilson; Wayne and groomsmen was Scott Brayshaw, Omaha.

A reception at Riley's Ballroom followed the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of West High School in Sioux City. She received her bachelor's degree from Wayne State College in 1991 and master's degree in 1993. She is a manager at Riley's Restaurant.

The groom is a 1990 graduate of Norfolk High School and a 1994 graduate of Wayne State College. He is a tutor in the STRIDE program at Wayne State and this fall will join the staff there as a graduate assistant.

What can I do to save my marriage?

QUESTION: I'm certain that I'm losing my husband. He shows signs of boredom and total disinterest in me. He treats me rudely in public and is virtually silent at home. And of course, our sex life is nonexistent. I have begged and pleaded with him to love me, but I'm losing ground every day. What can I do to save my marriage?

DR. DOBSON: These are symptoms of a condition I call "the trapped syndrome." More often than not, the man is thinking these kind of thoughts: "I'm 35 years old (or whatever age), and I'm not getting any younger. Do I really want to spend the rest of my life with this woman? I'm bored with her, and there are others who interest me more, but there's no way out. I'm stuck."

These are the feelings that usually precede esoteric infidelity, and they can certainly be felt in the strain between a husband and wife.

How should a woman respond when she reads the cues and realizes her husband feels trapped? Obviously, the worst thing she could do is reinforce the cage around him, yet that is likely to be her initial reaction.

As she thinks about how important he is to her, and what on earth she would do without him, and whether he's involved with another woman, her anxiety may compel her to grab hold of him.

But her begging and pleading only continue to drive him to disrespect her more, and the relationship continues to splinter.

There is a better way that I have found productive in counseling experience. The most successful approach to bringing a partner back toward the center of a relationship is not to follow when he moves away from it.

Instead of saying, "Why do you treat me this way?" and "Why won't you talk to me?" a wife should pull back a few inches herself. When she passes her husband in the hall and would normally touch him or seek his attention, she should move by him without notice. Silence by him is greeted by silence in return. She should not be hostile or aggressive, ready to explode when he finally asks her to say what is on her mind.

Dr. Dobson

Answers
Your Questions

Rather, she responds in kind... being quietly confident, independent and mysterious.

The effect of this behavior is to open the door on his trap. Instead of clamping herself to his neck like a bloodsucking leech, she releases her grip and introduces a certain challenge to his mind. He may begin to wonder if he has gone too far and may be losing something precious to him. If that will not turn him around, then the relationship is stone-cold dead.

What I am recommending is extremely difficult to express in written form, and I am certain to be misinterpreted by some of my readers on this issue. I haven't suggested that you rise up in anger—that you stamp your feet and demand your domestic rights, or that you sulk or pout in silence. Please do not associate me with those contemporary voices that are mobilizing feminine troops for all-out sexual combat.

Nothing is less attractive to me than an angry woman who is determined to grab her share, one way or another. No, the answer is not found in hostile aggression, but in quiet self-respect!

In short, personal dignity in a marriage is maintained the same way it was produced during the dating days. The attitude should be "I love you, and I am totally committed to you, but I only control my half of the relationship. I can't demand your love in return. You came to me of your own free will when we agreed to marry. No one forced us together. The same free will is necessary to keep our love alive. If you choose to walk away from me, I will be crushed and hurt beyond description because I have withheld nothing of myself. Nevertheless, I will let you go, and ultimately I will survive. I couldn't demand your affection in the beginning, and I can only request it now."

Somehow, that releasing of the door on the trap often results in revolutionary changes in a relationship.

Dana Nelson is bride of Jess Ziess

Dana Nelson of Omaha became the bride of Jess Ziess also of Omaha at a May 28 ceremony at the United Methodist Church in Wayne.

She is the daughter of Jim and Sandy Atkins of Wayne and LeRoy Nelson, Carroll. The groom is the son of Don and Jan Ziess of Wayne.

Pastor Jackie Johnson Hoy, Scribner, performed the afternoon double ring ceremony. The church was decorated with roses on the altar for family not able to be there. Other decorations included a brass heart unity candle holder, candelabras and lace hearts with pearl and ribbon accents on the pews.

Mary Murtaugh, Red Oak, Iowa, was the vocalist and Colleen Jefferies, Wayne, was the organist. Trumpeter was Curt Jefferies of Wayne.

Musical numbers were "Time for Joy", "The Wedding Song", "And On This Day" and "He Has Chosen You for Me".

Given in marriage by her stepfather, the bride wore a gown of white bridal satin selected from the sposaluropa collection by Demetrios. It was fashioned in an off the shoulder neckline with long sleeves of satin tapering to the wrist. The fitted bodice dropped to a Basque waistline. The floor-length satin skirt swept around into a cathedral train.

The neckline was edged with hand-beaded lace with sequins and seed pearls. The bodice and sleeves were also extensively applied with lace, sequins and pearls. The back bodice, skirt and train featured cut-outs and generous appliques of lace, sequins and pearls.

The bride wore a Juliet cap of beaded Venice lace, silk and satin roses and pearl sprays. A double shoulder-length veil had a wired edge and full pouf attached in the back.

Danielle Nelson, Wayne, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Jill Mathers, Lincoln; Wanda Stumpff, Omaha; Vickie Kocian, Seward; Robin Gamble, Wayne; Kellie Williams, Omaha, and Kristy Hansen, Lincoln. Junior bridesmaid was Autumn McIntyre, Carroll.

The attendants wore hunter green brocade floor length gowns.

Taylor Holliday, Lincoln, was flowergirl. Drew Simon, Carroll, was ringbearer. Candlelighters were Kelli Davis, Lincoln, and Stephanie Weber, Omaha.

Jeff Ziess, Wayne, was the best man. Groomsmen were: Jeff Mathers, Lincoln; Ronn Nolin, Omaha; Jeff Sutter, Eaton, Colo.; Todd Geiken, Gothenburg, and Brian Meyer, Cairo. Junior groomsmen were Jason Parks, Wayne.

Serving as ushers were: Curt Nelson, North Richland Hills, Texas; Cory Nelson, Pierre, S.D.; Jarod Wood, Omaha; Jim Vaughn, Denver, and Shannon Narber, Lincoln. The men wore black tuxedos with white shirt, black ties and cummerbunds.

The National Guard Armory was the setting for a reception which followed the wedding. It was attended by 340. The reception was hosted by Glenie Hurlbert, Carroll, and Dan Frink, Kearney; Dick and

Mr. and Mrs. Zeiss

Judy Sorensen, Wayne, and Gordon and Norma Davis, Carroll.

The couple plans to delay their wedding trip until 1996 when they will travel to Atlanta for the Olympics. They are at home in Omaha.

The bride is a 1989 graduate of Wayne High School. She is attending the Methodist College of Nursing and is scheduled to graduate this December. She is employed at Methodist Hospital.

The groom is also a 1989 graduate of Wayne High School. He graduated from Doane College in 1993. He is employed by the Jan Stoney for U.S. Senate Campaign.

"If You Don't Go To The Doctor, They Can't Help You."

Irene Liebsack had Cataracts.

She had No-Stitch Cataract Surgery.

"I had gone to Missouri to visit my step daughter. I told the lady traveling with me, 'you had better be a good co-pilot because I can't read the signs.' I knew I was having trouble.

Dr. Feidler said it was time to remove my cataracts. I knew I had given up a lot of things. I went to large print. I just took it as a sign of old age. If you don't go to the doctor, they can't help you. I've had both eyes taken care of. When cataracts start to give you trouble, that's the time to get rid of them.

Now I'm back sewing, gardening, quilting. I'd say I'm back to doing things I was doing 20 years ago. I made 5 quilts this winter.

All you have to do is talk to other people and you'll know there is nothing to fear. Dr. Feidler is a very compassionate doctor and a very friendly person. At the hospital he was very understanding about my being an asthmatic."

Diaper Rash

Diaper rash affects 65% of infants from the ages 9 to 12 months, but is effectively treated by non-prescription medications. Frequent changing and the use of loose, well ventilated, diapers will help avoid the problem. Soaps and cleansing wipes may irritate the skin, so cleaning with plain water is preferred. In addition to these measures, a product to moisturize and protect the area may be used. If treatment lasting longer than one week is required or if the rash worsens, a physician should be contacted. Ask your pharmacist to recommend an appropriate product to treat this common problem.

Ceremony at Wayne church

First Presbyterian Church in Wayne was the setting for the June 4 wedding of Shannon Lea Bargstadt and Rodney Earl Diedrichsen both of Lincoln.

The bride is the daughter of Randall and Connie Bargstadt of Winside and the groom is the son of Ivan and Rosalie Diedrichsen also of Winside.

The Rev. Craig Holstedt officiated at the afternoon, double ring ceremony. The sanctuary was decorated with candelabras and white and fuchsia carnations.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white, cathedral-length gown of summer satin over Dacron. The gown's Sabrina neckline was trimmed in Schiffl lace, pearls and Austrian sequins. It featured long, fitted sleeves, a Basque waistline, bow in the back and heart-shaped cutouts on the back with strings of pearls.

Her veil was a Queenly headpiece trimmed with sequins and cracked ice. She carried a bouquet of white lilies, carnations and stephanotis.

Vocalist Roger Tarey of Osmond sang "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer". Organist Jane O'Leary provided accompaniment.

Mr. and Mrs. Diedrichson

Rachel Klingemann of Grand Island was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids included: Heidi Pietgen, Lincoln; Jennifer Wacker, Omaha, and Kari Bargstadt, Omaha. They wore fitted street length dresses of fuchsia crepe.

Shelby Meyer was the flower girl and ring bearer was Taylor Bargstadt.

Darcy Speer, Omaha, was the best man. Groomsmen were: Jason Bargstadt, Lincoln; Randy Leapley, Kearney, and Scott Wattier, Randolph. Ushers were Darin and Justin Bargstadt both of Winside, Mark Gudenkauf, Osmond, and Larry Meyer, Winside.

The men wore black tuxedos with paisley print vests and bow ties. The groom and ring bearer's vests and ties were white.

A reception was held at the Winside City Auditorium in the evening. It was attended by 280 and was hosted by Rod and Nancy Schwanke, Wayne; Dick and Nancy Tietgen, Lincoln, and Bob and Deb Gustafson, Omaha.

After a wedding trip to the Black Hills, the couple will be at home in Lincoln. The new Mrs. Diedrichsen is a 1990 graduate of Winside High School and a 1994 graduate of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. She is employed at the Peed Corporation in Lincoln.

Her husband is a 1987 graduate of Winside High School and 1990 graduate of Northeast Community College. He was honorably discharged from the Army National Guard in 1993 and is employed by the Crete Carrier Corporation in Lincoln.

Bridal Showers

Amy Dubblede

A bridal shower honoring Amy Dubblede was held Monday evening, June 13 at St. John's Lutheran Church in Wakefield. It was hosted by the ladies of St. John. Forty-two guests attended. Decorations were in the bride's chosen colors of mauve and country green. A program and games were the entertainment for the evening.

Miss Dubblede will become the bride of Galen Samuelson on July 2 at St. John's Lutheran Church.

Shealyn Libengood

A miscellaneous bridal shower for Shealyn Libengood of Omaha was held Sunday, June 12 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Winside. The bride to be was presented a corsage in her colors of peach and teal. Table decorations were in the same color. A Precious Moments bride and groom and a candelabra centered the service table of salads.

For entertainment, several games were played and Rebecca Polley, sister of the bride-to-be, sang a song. Twenty-eight guests attended from Pender, Omaha, Wakefield, Grand Island, Norfolk, Hoskins, Winside and Wayne. These included Shealyn's mother, Jane Marsh of Omaha and her father mother-in-law, Bonnie Becker of Norfolk; grandmothers, Mrs. Wilmer Deck of Norfolk and Mrs. Hilbert Libengood of Wayne.

Shealyn Libengood and Michael Becker, both of Omaha, will marry July 2 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Norfolk. Their parents are Jane Marsh of Omaha, Ralph Libengood of Hadar and Marvin and Bonnie Becker of Norfolk.

Hostesses for the shower were Patty Deck of Winside, Karen Hamm of Pender, Joan McKee of Grand Island, Kim Libengood and Judy Libengood of Norfolk, Fern Deck of Hoskins, Janice Roberts and Donna Johnson of Wakefield and Joyce Dennell of Washington state.

School meal nutrition plan is released

The United State Department of Agriculture has just released a new nutrition plan for school meals, said Darlene Martin, NU extension nutrition specialist.

"This latest step towards improving nutrition standards for school meals will give greater guidance to schools, many which are already offering more healthful food choices," Martin said.

One of the most significant parts of the School Meals Initiative for Healthy Children, is that it requires schools to be consistent with the 1990 Dietary Guidelines for Americans. The compliance to the program will be measured by one week menu cycles, not meal by meal.

"The true test of a healthful diet is how it measures over time," Martin said.

It is important that nutrition be taught in the classroom along with implementing it into the lunchroom.

"Research shows that most children learn about food, eating, and nutrition practices in their school," Martin said. "Also, early development of healthful eating habits will help establish a lifetime pattern of sound nutritional practices."

Better nutrition also means better performance in school.

"Attention paid to the food our schools feed children's bodies clearly is as important as the attention given to their minds," Martin said.

First Trinity LWML of Altona holds meeting

First Trinity Lutheran Women's Missionary League of Altona met in June with nine members, four guests and Pastor Bertels. The meeting began with prayer by Pastor Bertels, who gave the lesson, "Setting Boundaries," taken from the LWML Quarterly. The group sang "How Sweet the Name of Jesus Sounds."

The LWML Pledge was recited by the group as the mite box offerings were taken.

Julie Stuthman, president, presided at the business meeting. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and the treasurer's report given. A thank you was received from Lutheran Church Missouri Synod - World Relief for the donation to the earthquake fund. Correspondence was also received from Bethesda Lutheran Homes and University Lutheran Chapel, Lincoln.

It was announced that Pastor

Schut from St. John's in Wakefield will now be on the ballot for pastoral counselor.

A bus will be leaving Wayne at 5:30 a.m. on Saturday, July 9 for the convention in Omaha. Bernice Splitterger and Janice Bertels will be the delegates. The officers' slate and proposed mission projects were discussed.

The motion was carried to buy one new card table to be used in the church and school.

The birthday song was sung for Julie Stuthman. Former member, Viola Hilpert of Beatrice, observed her 80th birthday June 14.

Guests were Ashley Easley, Gertrude Heins, Janice Mau and Melvy Meyer. The meeting closed with the table prayer and the Lord's Prayer.

Hostess was Bernice Splitterger.

The next meeting will be held on July 7 at 2 p.m.

Bible school was held at First Trinity in Altona

The Golden Years

By: Connie Dishrow

Alcoholism among the elderly is more widespread than previously estimated, according to a study published in the Journal of the American Medical Association. The national study found that 87,000 people age 65 or over were hospitalized in a single year for alcohol-related problems, more than for heart attacks. Of the 87,000, the ratio of men to women was about 4 to 1. The extent of alcohol-related medical problems may be even worse than the study showed, researchers said, because the study did not include Veterans Affairs hospitals and not all people with alcohol problems are hospitalized.

How Good Is CARE CHOICES HMO?

"When We Compared Plans, It Was Apparent What We Should Do."

— Cathy Keyser, South Sioux City

We switched to Care Choices HMO last November when I was pregnant with Kristian. Care Choices took care of everything with the Family Care Program.

With the program, we received home visits from a nurse, a high infant car seat, and even a diaper service. And we didn't have to switch doctors or hospitals with the plan.

With two small kids, we really appreciate the immunizations that Care Choices covers.

When you compare Care Choices to a traditional plan for a family like ours, there's just no comparison.

Wakefield sluggers win again

WAKEFIELD-The Wakefield Midgets and Junior Legion baseball teams were victorious at home, Monday against Emerson's Midgets and the Pierce Juniors on the 51st anniversary of baseball at Eaton Field.

"The first game was played on June 20, 1943," Wakefield coach Paul Eaton said. The Midgets improved to 19-3 with a 9-0 blanking of Emerson as Travis Birkley pitched a complete game shutout with 11 strikeouts while allowing just two hits.

Wakefield tallied nine hits led by Mike Blohm and Mike White with two singles each. Justin Dutcher and Tony Nixon each doubled while Josh Snyder, Mike McQuistan and Matt Kucera each netted base hits.

The Juniors improved to 15-7 with a 2-1 victory over 7-2 Pierce with Justine Anderson notching the pitching victory after striking out 14 and allowing just three hits.

Brent Beacom tagged a pair of doubles while Miah Johnson, Matt Peterson, Justin Dutcher and Kevin Belt each singled. Belt was also singled out by Eaton as having a solid defensive game.

Wayne 14-under girls place second at league tourney

The Wayne 14-under girls softball team placed second at the league tournament over the weekend in Oakland. Steve Jorgensen's squad blanked Hooper, 18-0 in the first game with Stacey Langemeier earning the victory from the mound.

The winners had 10 hits led by Langemeier's double and single while Alycia Jorgensen singled twice. Marci Post, Shona Stracke, Megan Meyer, Brandy Frevert, Heidi Johnson and Tina Ruwe each had a base hit.

Wayne defeated Beemer in the second game, 11-7 with Langemeier again notching the victory from the mound. Wayne netted five hits led by Stracke's double and single while Langemeier tripled. Marci Post and Brandy Frevert each singled.

Wayne blasted Oakland on Sunday, 21-6 as Shona Stracke earned the pitching victory allowing just two hits while striking out nine. Wayne pounded out 15 hits led by Marci Post with a home run and four singles. Stacey Langemeier doubled and singled and Frevert laced a pair of singles while Stracke, Megan Meyer, Heidi Johnson, Karris Coulter, Tina Ruwe and Hailey Dachnke each singled once.

In the fourth contest Wayne defeated Fremont, 19-9 with Shona Stracke earning the victory. Wayne's bats were hot once again with a dozen hits led by Langemeier with a triple and double.

Frevert and Timoni Gronc each doubled and singled while Marci Post smacked two singles. Stracke, Alycia Jorgensen, Jessica Raveling and Heidi Johnson each singled for the winners.

WAYNE PLAYED Beemer in the championship game and lost a 14-3 decision with Stacey Langemeier taking the loss. The locals finished with just three hits and committed six errors. Langemeier smacked a home run and Shona Stracke doubled while Megan Singled to account for the offense.

Since it was Wayne's first loss, a second championship game was played and Wayne fell to the same Beemer squad, 17-13 with Shona Stracke taking the loss.

Wayne did pound out 13 hits but committed four costly errors because the game went extra innings before the outcome was decided. The locals scored three runs in the seventh inning to force the extra inning but suffered three errors in the eighth inning which enabled Beemer to score seven runs.

Alycia Jorgensen led Wayne with a triple and double while Stracke doubled and singled. Jessica Raveling and Marci Post each had two singles and Megan Meyer notched one base hit.

"We played some outstanding softball," Jorgensen said. "Our girls scored a total of 85 runs on 58 hits with just 15 errors during the tournament and 11 of the 15 errors came in Beemer contests."

Post led the team in hitting throughout the tournament with 11 hits while Langemeier had 10. Stracke notched eight hits and Jorgensen netted seven while Brandy Frevert finished with six.

LAST FRIDAY Wayne's 14-under team hosted Beemer and lost, 22-6 with Shona Stracke taking the pitching defeat. Wayne finished with seven hits but committed seven errors.

Marci Post led the way with a double and single while Stracke had a pair of singles. Alycia Jorgensen doubled while Stacey Langemeier and Megan Meyer each singled.

Winside girls softball teams win two of three from Osmond

The Winside girls softball teams hosted Osmond last Thursday and the host team won two of three contests. The 14-under team improved to 9-1 with a 15-0 blanking of Osmond as Sarah Wagner earned the pitching victory after tossing a no-hitter.

Winside had nine hits including a home run, triple and single by Jodie Miller. Jani McMillian singled twice and Kim Oberle doubled while Jenny Wade, Sonya Sievers and Wagner each had one base hit.

The 16-under team won a 6-3 decision from Osmond as Mindy Janke was credited with the win from the mound after striking out five and scattering four hits. Winside finished with six hits led by Wendy Miller and Janke with triples while Monica Sievers doubled. Tracy Nelson, Jodie Miller and Jessica Janke each singled. The team record improved to 4-3.

The 18-under lost a 4-3 decision to Osmond with Stacy Bowers taking the loss. Winside out-hit the visitors, 9-8 led by Sarah Painter's triple and double and Catherine Bussey's two singles. Yolanda Sievers doubled while Bowers, Mindy Marotz, Emily Deck and Mindy Janke each singled for the 1-2 squad.

WAYNE 18-UNDER batter Traci Oborny crouches down in her batting stance in order to get a smaller strike zone during action last Friday against Beemer at the City Softball Complex in Wayne.

Wayne 18-under girls improve to 14-6; 16-under slip to 5-8

The Wayne girls fast pitch softball teams hosted Beemer last Friday and earned a split with the 16-under dropping a 21-2 decision while the 18-under won the nightcap, 8-5 in a revenge game from last weekend's West Point Tournament.

Bob Oborny's 18-under squad jumped out to an 8-1 lead over the visitors before settling for the 8-5 win. Wendy Beiermann was the winning pitcher with eight strikeouts to her credit.

Beemer had seven hits in the game while Wayne pounded out eight led by Jenny Thompson with a triple, double and single. Traci Oborny doubled and singled while Molly Melena, Jenni Beiermann and Wendy Beiermann each singled. "We played 'real solid defense,'" Oborny said. "Beemer hit the ball hard but we did a good job of jumping out on top and holding them."

The 16-under team was beaten by a 21-2 margin with Stacey Langemeier taking the loss from the mound despite striking out six. Wayne gave up 11 runs in the fourth inning on a combination of walks, errors and some solid Beemer hits.

The visitors notched 13 hits in the game while Wayne settled for five. Kellie Lubberstedt led Wayne with a pair of singles while Stacey Langemeier tripled. Jenni Beiermann and Heidi Johnson each had a base hit.

The 18-under team got a brilliant pitching performance from Wendy Beiermann who faced just 28 batters in the game and fanned 15 while scattering five hits. Wayne's bats were red-hot with 15 hits led by Carrie Fink with two doubles and a single. Traci Oborny had three singles and Wendy Beiermann doubled and singled.

Molly Melena and Katie Lutt each had a pair of singles while Jenny Thompson and Jenni Beiermann had a base hit each. The victory left the 18-under with a 14-6 record while the 16-under team slipped to 5-8.

The 18-under team will play in Schuyler on Tuesday before hosting Oakland on Thursday. The 16-under team will host Decatur, Thursday. Both the 16's and 18's squads will play in the league tournament this weekend in Oakland.

JENNY THOMPSON throws a Beemer runner out at first base after fielding a ground ball at her shortstop position during the Beemer contest last Friday.

Wakefield Midgets notch three victories

The Wakefield Midget Legion baseball team improved to 19-3 with victories over Hartington, Friday and Columbus on Sunday afternoon.

Wakefield decisioned Hartington, 9-2 with Austin Lueth recording the pitching victory with relief help from Justin Dutcher. Dutcher struck out all five batters he faced in the final 1 2/3 innings.

Mike Blohm paced Wakefield's offense with a triple and three rbi while Mike McQuistan doubled and notched two rbi. Cory Coble, Lueth, Dutcher, Tyler Peters and Matt Kucera each had a base hit.

In Sunday's double-header with Columbus Reds, Wakefield won the opener, 11-7 and swept the second contest, 18-8 in five innings. Cory Coble notched the victory in game one from the mound with relief help from Justin Dutcher.

The winners pounded out 10 hits led by Coble and Josh Snyder with two singles each. Tory Nixon doubled while Mike McQuistan, Wes Blecke, Mike Rischmueller and Austin Lueth each had base hits.

Wakefield welcomed the return of Travis Birkley in the second game after being sidelined the entire season to date with a broken ankle. Birkley got a pitching save with 1 1/3 innings of relief work, allowing no hits and no runs with two strikeouts.

Eric Beacom was the starting pitcher and earned the victory after pitching the first 3 2/3 innings. Wakefield notched 11 hits led by Mike White and Tory Nixon with a double and single each while Mike McQuistan and Wes Blecke had two singles apiece. Matt Kucera, Mike Rischmueller and Tyler Peters each had one single.

THE WAKEFIELD Junior Legion team improved to 14-7 with a 17-3 win over Hartington last Friday with Josh Snyder notching the pitching victory. Snyder went the distance and allowed just five hits while striking out five.

Wakefield blasted 19 hits in the contest led by Matt Peterson, Cory Brown, Brent Beacom and Justin Anderson with three hits each while Kevin Belt tripled and single.

Miah Johnson and Jason Rhode each had two hits while Shane Schuster laced a single. Wakefield will host Sioux City North in action Tuesday before playing Norfolk on Wednesday and at Schuyler, Thursday.

Granddaughter earns MVP status

WAYNE-Kacie Tietgen, 10-year-old daughter of David and Davalynn Tietgen of Mesa, Arizona and granddaughter of Wayne and Mable Tietgen of Carroll, earned most valuable player status in a local baseball tournament, recently—that's a boys baseball tournament.

Tietgen is the only female in the entire league in Mesa for 10-12 year-olds and is one of the top pitchers and third base players on the team. Following her championship status in the tournament on the mound, she was named to the all-star team which will play in July. Her batting average on the team is currently .650.

Group golf lessons at country club

WAYNE—Those interested in taking golf lessons at the Wayne Country Club may do so in a group limited to 12 females and 12 males on a first come first serve basis.

Troy Harder will be the teacher for classes which will start July 5th and run each Tuesday in the month of July. Men's group lessons will be held from 5:30-6:15 p.m. each Tuesday with women's group lessons being held from 6:15-7:00 p.m. the same nights.

The cost of the lessons is $25 per person. Those interested in taking private lessons may do so by contacting Harder at 375-1152. Cost of private lessons is $10 per lesson. You need not be a member of the country club to take lessons.

Shooting camp set for June 25

WAYNE—There will be a shooting camp for boys and girls entering grades 7-12, Saturday, June 25 at the high school. The camp will be conducted by Dave and Jim Irwin of Indiana. The cost of the one-day camp is $25. To enter call Rocky Ruhl at 375-1565 or be there at 8 a.m. on the 25th.

Appreciation Night is June 24

WAYNE—Wayne Baseball Association's Parent & Fan Appreciation Night has been slated for Friday, June 24 at Hank Overin Field. Wayne's Midgets and Junior Legion baseball teams will host West Point with games beginning at 6 p.m.

Door prizes will be given away and Wimmers hot dogs will be on sale for just 50 cents each along with 50 cent pepsi's.

Booster Club to sponsor golf tourney

WAYNE—The First Annual Wayne High School Booster Club Golf Tournament will be held Sunday, July 24 at the Wayne Country Club. The format is a two-person best ball and the cost for the 18-hole tournament is $30 per person. All proceeds will go to the high school fitness center.

Tee times begin at 7:30 a.m. and cart rentals are limited so early registration is encouraged. A free complimentary T-Shirt will be given to each participant and there will be special money holes available. To enter contact the Country Club at 375-1152.

ON MONDAY both fast pitch teams played in Ponca and again earned a split with the 16-under losing a heart-breaker, 18-17 while the 18-under had no trouble in getting past the host team, winning 14-2.

Rochelle Carman was tagged with the pitching loss in the first contest with Stacey Langemeier also seeing action from the mound. Wayne out-hit Ponca by a 12-6 margin led by Megan Meyer, Stacey Langemeier, Carol Longe, Sarah Metzler and Kellie Lubberstedt with a pair of base hits each. Rochelle Carman doubled and Nicole McLagan singled.

Wayne got down 12-0 after the first inning but came back to tie the game at 17 in the third inning before the host team won it in the bottom of the third.

How To Treat Athlete's Foot

According to a recent issue of the medical journal Patient Care, of the 175 fungi that live on or in humans, only 20 can cause infection. A broad term for a fungal infection is tinea. The most common type of fungal infection on the skin is called tinea pedis or athlete's foot. This infection, which is seen primarily in men between the ages of 20 and 40, may cause mild itching and burning to severe inflammation between the toes and on the bottoms of the feet.

Treatment of athlete's foot begins with proper drying of the feet after bathing, use of absorbent cotton socks to maintain dryness, and the wearing of leather shoes or sandals which allow air to reach the feet.

Several nonprescription medicines are effective against the fungi that cause athlete's foot. These medicines include clotrimazole (Lotramin AF; Mycelex), miconazole (Micatin), tolnaftate (Tinactin; Naftate), and undecylenic acid (Desenex; Cruex).

A community tries to cope with the loss

Members of the congregation of Redeemer Lutheran Church in Wayne try to console each other Saturday morning as they view the devastation to their house of worship (top left). The effort to bring the blaze under control was both physically and emotionally draining for firemen, many of whom were members of the church. Russell Prince of Winside was one of those firefighters who relaxed on the steps of a neighbors house after the blaze was controlled (top right). Pastor Frank Rothfuss (above) and members of his congregation worked Saturday to try to salvage what they could from the building which fire chief Dutch Sitzman said sustained over $1 million in damage. A steady stream of shocked onlookers viewed the remains of the building over the weekend (right).

Swine barn featured at open house

The public will be able to tour a "state of the art" swine research barn during an open house June 30 at the University of Nebraska Northeast Research and Extension Center at Concord.

The research barn was designed in response to questions farmers were asking Mike Brumm, NU swine specialist and the designer of the barn.

"It's very typical of the design many producers are considering right now, and it greatly expands our research capabilities," Brumm said.

The double-wide barn is 44 feet by 112 feet with an inverted V or chimney ceiling vent. Both the north and south walls are curtained, with the north curtain wall insulated, he said. Inside, the barn can have any combination of 7- by 8- foot, 8- by 14- foot, or 14- by 16- foot pens. It has fully slatted pens with a fresh water system to move the manure to a swine lagoon.

The barn will be used to gain management experience so Cooperative Extension faculty can make practical recommendations to producers, and to study space and other housing requirements for growing and finishing swine, Brumm pointed out.

He said 1,000 producers are expected to tour the new barn, the swine lagoon, and the irrigation plots the lagoon fertilizes, NU Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources researchers from Lincoln will talk about other swine research.

Tours will depart every 15 minutes from 3:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. There will be a free barbecue after the tour funded by industry donations.

The way it was...and is

Murray Leicy still likes to give his Belgian team a workout with the two-row cultivator on the 15-acre patch of corn on his farm south of Sholes. Murray and the team were photographed last week going through their picturesque paces that harken back to days of yore.

'It's not about dying, it's about living'

Another hot, humid day. We've had only showers of rain, and could use a good soaking. The Big Farmer was cheered when Eddie called from the farm on Saturday to say they had had two inches! Quite a contrast to last summer, when we were praying for rain to stop.

I mentioned the Nebraska Hospice Association meeting last week. Since then, there were two letters to Ann Landers that brought tears to my eyes. Both told of being at the bedside of loved ones as they were dying. Both patients experienced great pain, both family members had to beg for pain medicine, after which both sufferers experienced pain relief, and died peacefully. Stories like that always bring tears to my eyes; then make me angry.

The speaker at the Hospice Association banquet was Dr. Josefina B. Magno, president of the International Hospice Institute. Dr. Magno is a delightful, devout native of the Philippines whose introduction was a litany of accomplishments and awards.

Most amazing to me was the rearing of seven children while maintaining her professional life. Her husband, also a physician, died when those children were ages one to ten.

Dr. Magno downplayed that, saying she had a cook, housekeeper, gardener, chauffeurs, etc. She commented that a true heroine was a colleague here in the U.S. who is raising three children with no assistance.

Anyway, she told us of coming to Georgetown University to study oncology. She noted that their cancer patients were receiving treatment until the day they died. When Theresa. She inspired all of us, and managed to be entertaining, too. I drove home with renewed determination to be an advocate for Hospice.

As Dr. Saunders says, "It's not about dying. It's about living until you die." There's a distinct difference. And all of us should have that opportunity.

Fireworks need care in handling

As our nation's birthday approaches the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department's Prevention Committee is asking the citizens of Northeast Nebraska to please put safety first this 4th of July.

The number of fireworks related injuries in the state increased in 1993, two short of the record high in 1988. Hospitals reported 104 injuries with sixteen percent of these being caused by the use of illegal fireworks. Nationwide nearly 11,200 people are injured seriously enough in fireworks to require a visit to a hospital emergency room. Several injuries involve loss of fingers or hands, most are second degree burns.

Even sparklers, which many people consider harmless, can reach temperatures of 1800 degrees Fahrenheit and remain dangerously hot even after they have burned out, said Art Barker.

"Fireworks should be used only with extreme caution. Older children should be closely supervised and younger children should not be allowed to play with fireworks. Children suffer most from fireworks incidents. The majority of fireworks injuries involve victims under 15 years of age. A youngster between the ages of 10 and 14 is more than 10 times as likely to be injured by fireworks than an adult 25 years or older," said Bill Kugler.

The following is a list of fire department recommendations for safety in the use of fireworks:

Before using any fireworks, read and follow all warning instructions printed on the label.

Light fireworks outdoors in a clear area away from houses, dry leaves or grass. Keep away from

Former resident is named to advisory board

Anna C. Borg, a Lubbock, Texas CPA was recently appointed to the Texas Tech University Accounting Advisory Board. This 12-member group of industry and public accountants meets regularly with University accounting faculty to offer advice on department curriculum and policy.

Ms. Borg, a former Dixon resident, graduated from Laurel-Concord High School in 1978. A Hastings College alumna, she has been a CPA for 11 years. After she received a Master of Professional Accounting degree from the University of Texas-Austin she was employed by the Lubbock office of KMPG Peat Marwick.

In 1987 she began a solo practice specializing in agricultural and small business accounting. She has also been designated as a Certified Financial Planner by the College of Financial Planning, Denver.

Ms. Borg is beginning a term as president-elect of the Lubbock chapter of the Texas Society of CPAs. She organized a chapter of the American Women's Society of CPAs in Lubbock and has served on the National Board of that group. For the past two years she has been chairman of the Lubbock County Extension Board and is a United Way volunteer.

CRP projects begin

The Northeast Nebraska Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) Council at its last meeting, voted to begin working on two projects dealing with Conservation Reserve Program (CARP) acres that will soon be released.

Through proper management and correct use of those acres, it is hoped that farmers will have some economically viable options.

Within the RC&D's six counties there are over 152,000 acres of CRP land. Much of that is scheduled to come out of the program in the next two years. To maintain productivity on those fields, provide economic alternatives for the farmer, and to control erosion, a combination of management practices may be needed.

One project being considered is development of a prescribed burn certification program. Persons wanting to do prescribed burns for grass maintenance should be knowledgeable in how to do it properly and safely.

Another project is to be a demonstration. It may include grass strips, haying, grazing and crop rotation. Each may have a different benefit. Or, in combination, they might be the right answer for some of the acres now enrolled.

Both of these projects are in the development stage. If you are interested in working on either of these, please let the RC&D office know by calling 582-4866.

Corn borer feeding seen in area fields

European corn borer moth flights peaked on June 6-7, and whorl feeding is now evident in corn fields, said Keith Jarvi, NU extension IPM assistant.

"We are still catching moths in our light trap, but we expect the numbers to steadily decrease from now on," Jarvi said. "Most areas are looking at treatment timing, if necessary, beginning the week of the nineteenth."

If treatment is necessary, the time for excellent control is now until around June 27-30, when the larvae leave the whorl to bore into the stalk.

"An average count of live larvae in the whorl is the most important factor in determining whether or not a field should be treated," Jarvi said. "The presence of shotholes along is not sufficient to warrant treatment."

Jarvi added that even if one hundred percent of the plants were showing shotholing, an average of less than one forer per plant would not call for treatment in many situations.

To help determine if treatment is necessary, farmers can contact their local extension office.

Look for larvae

Common stalk borers have been moving into corn from nearby grassy areas, and damage is visible now, said Keith Jarvi, NU extension IPM assistant.

"At first, large shotholes can be seen, and later, as the stalk borers burrow into the plant, the plant looks very ragged and stunted," Jarvi said.

Sometimes common stalk borer damage is confused with corn borer damage, but the common stalk borer is usually confined to a few rows that border grassy areas.

The larvae is pale white, with dark brown to purple stripes that converge to form a saddle shape on the middle of the body.

"There is nothing that can be done once the stalk borers have gotten into the plant," Jarvi said.

Feeder numbers fall

Nebraska cattle feeders had 1.8 million cattle on feed on June 1, according to the Nebraska Agricultural Statistics Service. This inventory was down 13 percent from last year and was 2 percent below June 1, 1992.

Placements of cattle into feedlots during May totaled 250,000 head. This was down 32 percent from both last year and two years ago. These are the lowest May placements since 1976.

Fed cattle marketings for the month of May totaled 440,000, an increase of 2 percent from 1993 and 7 percent above May 1992.

Other disappearance during May totaled 40,000 head compared with 40,000 head last year and 60,000 head two years ago.

Cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market in the 7 states preparing monthly estimates totaled 8.23 million head, down 1 percent from a year ago but up 5 percent from June 1, 1992.

Placements in feedlots during May totaled 1.41 million, 22 percent below 1993 and 19 percent below 1992. This is the smallest number of cattle placed during May since 1976. Net placements of 1.31 million for May were down 21 percent from last year and 18 percent below 1992.

Marketings during May totaled 1.68 million, up 1 percent from a year ago and 5 percent above 1992.

Other disappearance during May was 92,000 head, 30 percent below last year and 25 percent below 1992.

Kranz receives award

After teaching farmers as an irrigation specialist through the Northeast Research and Extension Center for 8 years, Bill Kranz is now receiving an award for being a student.

The Reverend P.T. Taiganides Student of the Year Award was given to Kranz to honor his work towards a doctorate degree in Agricultural Engineering at Iowa State University.

"My work there is trying to identify a combination of surface tillage and liquid nitrogen application that result in the least amount of leaching loss," Kranz said. "I'm conducting a lab test on blocks of soil, that were removed from a field, with about fifteen years of tillage history."

The major faculty at ISU and Reverend Taiganides' son elected to give Kranz the certificate and $250 award based on this work.

"I feel really honored to have received this award. It is always nice to know that my effort is recognized by the faculty," Kranz said. "I look forward to employing the expertise gained at ISU to problems in Northeast Nebraska."

Law is lagging behind technology

For the past several years, the U.S. government has been trying to resolve the "Delaney Dilemma." It's a classic case of law trying to catch up with science. With rapid technological change, law will probably always lag behind: sometimes it's easier and faster to push back the frontiers of science than to get a bill passed by Congress. And very often it makes sense to observe the impacts of new technology before regulating left and right.

The Delaney Dilemma is truly a blast from the past. Enacted in 1958, it says essentially that any detectable level of residue of a pesticide that caused cancer in a laboratory rat is prohibited in food products. Back in '58, scientists could barely detect residues in the range of parts per thousand. Nowadays, they can find parts per billion and even smaller levels of residues. Very likely there's no more residue present now than in the 1950s, it's just that we have the equipment to find it in ever-smaller quantities.

The march of science has caused problems for regulators charged with enforcing the Delaney Clause and various proposals to update U.S. food safety laws have been advanced. Now comes the Clinton Administration and its Environmental Protection Agency with the "Pesticide Reform Act of 1994." As with so many of the

Midland View

By Cheryl Stubbendieck

Nebraska Farm Bureau

ideas coming out of Clinton's reinvented government, it's far-reaching, overblown and more complex than it needs to be.

The Clinton bill amends virtually every aspect of current pesticide regulation. It contains a vast array of enforcement provisions aimed at farmers, including giving authority to EPA employees or designees to enter farms to inspect records and take samples of virtually anything they find there. Recordkeeping requirements would be expanded and any citizen could ask EPA to begin legal proceedings against a farmer alleged to have violated the pesticide act.

The Clinton/EPA plan starts with the assumption that if you consume food, you're at risk for contracting cancer. In theory at least, you are: any action you take, could conceivably result in harm: crossing a street, driving a car, batting a softball, telling a joke. The concern, of course, is the relative risk: how much chance is there you'll be injured in an accident, hit by a ball, slugged because somebody didn't like your funny story? Usually, not much, and the risk, such as it is, is worthwhile because of the benefit received.

One key flaw in the Clinton bill is that it ignores the benefits of pesticides and focuses only on perceived, infinitesimal risks: it assumes that having a widely available and affordable food supply plays no role in human health. Increasingly, well-done scientific studies strongly suggest that eating more fruits and vegetables -- crops treated with pesticides -- helps prevent cancer.

It's worth pointing out that plants, without any assistance, make their own pesticides or toxins. Dr. Bruce Ames of the University of California at Berkeley points to studies showing that each American eats about a gram and a half of natural pesticides a day, which is about 10,000 times more than they eat of synthetic pesticide residues.

It's also noteworthy, that if you exclude deaths from lung cancer, the overall cancer rate in the U.S. is declining. Nonmelanoma skin cancer, a treatable cancer, continues to be the most common type, and it, of course, is caused by sun exposure, not pesticide residues.

"The U.S. Food and Drug regularly tests foods for pesticide residues. In 1992, 65 percent of food tested contained no detectable residues. Thirty-four percent contained residues less than the established tolerances and less than 1 percent had residues in excess of the tolerance level. Other federal and state test results affirm that pesticide residues are rarely found in excess of tolerances.

So, if residues are rarely found, cancer deaths are declining and eating more fruits and vegetables is a good, not a bad, thing, then why are the Clinton Administration and EPA proposing vast, far-reaching, possibly crippling restrictions for farmers? The best answer is that pesticide phobia is an effective tool for getting Congress to appropriate funds for EPA and its burgeoning bureaucracy.

A much better solution to the Delaney Dilemma is found in H.R. 1627, which takes a balanced reasonable approach based on improvements in science and technology -- and which also considers the benefits of pesticide use. U.S. pesticide law does need updating, but not a massive overhaul to solve a problem that doesn't exist.

flammable materials such as gasoline cans.

Keep a bucket of water or hose nearby for emergencies and for pouring on fireworks that don't go off.

Do not try to relight or handle malfunctioning fireworks. Douse and soak them with water and throw them away.

Be sure other people are out of range before lighting fireworks.

Never ignite fireworks in a container, especially a glass or metal container.

Keep unused fireworks away from firing area.

Store fireworks in a dry, cool

LADIES AID AND LWML

St. Paul's Ladies Aid and LWML met June 8 at the church basement with six members and Pastor Bertels present. Pastor Bertels opened with a prayer and Nancy Junc conducted the business meeting. The secretary and treasurer reports were given and approved. Nancy read an article from the Hospice newsletter, "A Touch of the Master's Hand."

The Aid paid $100 to the Sunday school to help pay for Bible school supplies. Pastor Bertels volunteered to take the hygiene kit to Darlene Frevert who will deliver it to the meeting in Omaha in July.

It was discussed about the congregational meeting to be held July 14 at 7:30 p.m., which will be a potluck supper and will combine the Ladies Aid annual birthday party and the meeting into one group. Edith Cook volunteered to call all the church members to tell them about the meeting.

Edith read from the Quarterly for Christian growth, "Pastor, How Can I Help You." Pastor Bertels, told of the meeting he attended in Seward.

The meeting was closed by prayer. Edith Cook was the hostess and Gerry Buresh will be the August hostess.

FIREMEN

Firemen met June 14 with 19 members present. There were five firemen who attended the Nebraska Fire School in Grand Island May 20-22. They were Rick Davis, Keith Claussen, Jeff Davis, Jim Harmer and Verlyn Stoltenberg.

Carroll Days was discussed, which will be held on July 16. There will be a sand volleyball tournament with entry fee of $25. If anyone is interested in having a team, contact Scott Bonsall at 585-4887 or Rod Cook at 585-4542 as soon as possible. The volleyball tournament will start at 9 a.m. There will be water fights at 1 p.m. with bath tub races to follow the water fights. For the bath tub races there will be a $10 entry fee and the teams can be made up of either four men or five women.

The annual firemen's picnic will be held on July 24 at noon at the city park. There will be an Elkhorn mutual aid meeting held in Carroll on July 26 at 8 p.m. The next regular firemen's meeting will be July 12 at 7:30 p.m.

Writer honored

C. Ellis Staehlin, currently of Bellevue, Wash., formerly of Allen, was recognized for achievement in L. Ron Hubbard's Writers of The Future Contest, the acclaimed international competition for new and aspiring writers of speculative fiction. Her winning story, "The Bridge to Over There," was published in May in L. Ron Hubbard Presents Writers of The Future, Volume X.

As part of her prize, Staehlin was flown to Hollywood to participate in a special writing workshop taught by leading authors in the field, including Dave Wolverton, Algis Budrys and Frederik Pohl.

Every three months, a panel drawn from among top speculative fiction authors selects the winners. Judges in The Writers of The Future Contest at present are Gregory Benford, Algis Budrys, Ramsey Campbell, Orson Scott Card, Anne McCaffrey, Larry Niven, Andre Norton, Frederik Pohl, Jerry Pournelle, Tim Powers, Robert Silverberg, Jack Williamson, Roger Zelazny and Dave Wolverton.

Staehlin graduated from the University of Nebraska, with honors, in 1973. She recently completed the fiction writing track at the University of Washington. She works as a radio program host for the Washington Talking Book and Braille Library, and is a volunteer reading tutor for Literacy Volunteers of America.

Interns at lab

Susan Sorensen of Wayne recently completed an internship at Pacific Northwest Laboratory in Richland, Wash., through Wayne State College's Cooperative Education Program.

Sorensen, a 1989 graduate of Wayne High School, is the daughter of Dean and Marsha Sorensen of Wayne.

Through a mutually-beneficial relationship between Wayne State and the business community, students may earn Cooperative Education course credit by working in jobs that are directly related to their program majors in school, according to Rowan Wiltse, director of cooperative education at Wayne State.

Students gain progressively responsible, paid, career-related work experience and the employer is assisted in the recruitment and development of outstanding employees.

The Cooperative Education Program's intention is to increase direct cooperation between education, business and industry for the development of an educated and trained work force.

Delanie Phillips

Photo winner

Delanie Rose Phillips, daughter of Paul and Tammie Rose Phillips of Omaha, recently won honors in two baby photography contests in Omaha.

Delanie Rose is the granddaughter of Don and Sandra Schulz of rural Wayne and Frank and Barbara Phillips of Ashland, Wis. Her great grandmother is Rose Schulz of Wayne.

The contest, sponsored by Lisle Ramsey Photography, chose Delanie Rose as one of the top babies out of 55 entries in the 18 month and under age group. She was awarded a gift certificate and free photo.

Delanie Rose was voted sixth out of 117 all-age entries in the Merwin Reese Photography Contest held at Oakview Mall. She was awarded a savings bond and Platinum membership at their photography studio.

Delanie Rose will also be seen in several upcoming Pamida ads.

Robert Holtgrew

Begins training

Robert Holtgrew, a 1994 Winside High Graduate, left May 25 for basic training in the Michigan for the U.S. Navy. After basics, he will be going to Florida for training in aircraft maintenance before being assigned to a Navy base. He has enlisted for three years. Robert is the son of Robert Sr. and Catherine Holtgrew of Winside.

Attends TEK

The effects of NASA technology will be felt by more than 100 of Nebraska's best and brightest young students this week during a week long camp known as the TEK (Technology, Ecology and Kids) Institute. The Institute will be held at Dana College in Blair, beginning Monday, June 20 for students in grades 4 through 9.

Students attending the TEK Institute from the local area include Chris Van Meter of Wayne.

The Institute is virtually the only program of its kind in the United States and is designed to stimulate a student's interest in mathematics and science by using creative techniques that show how a mix of math, science and technology can directly affect the environment. The emphasis of TEK Institute is hands-on experience in place of the traditional classroom setting.

During their experience at Dana, students will design and build robots to perform a variety of functions, use satellite communications and computer technology, and utilize the resources of the two NASA Resource Centers located in Nebraska. NASA technology will include the use of satellite and remote sensing imagery, and more.

Classes are taught by master teachers who are experts in their fields and recipients of Presidential or national honors for teaching excellence. Many of the teachers have received training by NASA in their respective fields.

The TEK Institute held at Dana College each year is sponsored by Dwight D. Eisenhower Funds through the Post Secondary Coordinating Commission, the Nebraska Department of Education and Dana College.

TEK Institute was designed in response to former President Bush's mandate that the United States become the world's leader in mathematics and science by the year 2000.

Jeff Beckman

Takes new job

Jeff Beckman, director of college relations at Wayne State College, has been named director of university relations at the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse.

Beckman will oversee the university's news bureau, publications and sports information areas in the UW-La Crosse Office of Advancement and External Relations. He officially begins Aug. 1.

Beckman earned a bachelor's of science from the University of Nebraska-Kearney in 1983. He held various broadcast and print positions before becoming director of publicity and publications at Briar Cliff College, Sioux City, Iowa, in 1986. He has directed college relations at Wayne State since 1987.

UW-La Crosse is one of the 13 four-year comprehensive institutions in the University of Wisconsin System. Located in La Crosse, Wis., the state's largest city on the Mississippi River, the university has around 8,700 students enrolled in nearly 80 undergraduate and 18 graduate academic programs.

Director of College Relations

Wayne State College is a dynamic, comprehensive public college located in northeast Nebraska. Enrollment has increased significantly during the past five years to approximately 4,000 students. Several campus building projects are under construction, the Wayne State College Foundation is concluding a $13.5 million national fundraising campaign, and the College has been adding faculty positions.

The College seeks an experienced communications professional to manage the College Relations Office. Successful applicants must have a bachelors degree and five years of experience in public relations, media, or a related field. Strong writing and interpersonal communication skills are required.

The director is responsible for overseeing news and information, media relations, publications, advertising, and will be editor of the Wayne State Magazine, a quarterly publication mailed to over 20,000 alumni and friends of the College. The director is a member of the President's Cabinet and will report to the President of the College.

The successful applicant must have the ability to work effectively with the College's many constituencies and function as a team player with other members of the College's administrative staff. An excellent benefit package is provided with a competitive salary based on qualifications and experience.

The position will remain open until filled. Please send cover letter and resume with a listing of names and addresses of at least three references to:
