Methodist minister begins new duties

Main said that "although Wayne is a larger congregation, in some ways it is less stressful. When I was at Neligh, I had one service at Neligh, one at Oakdale and one at Clearwater each Sunday.

Methane official cause of fire at pig cooperative By Kevin Peterson Of the Herald partment was also called in to help with water supply.

A methane gas build-up is the official cause of a fire that devasted the Greater Northeast Nebraska Pig Cooperative, Tuesday afternoon. The fire was ignited by a pilot light from a propane heater.

The business, located four miles south, two miles west and a quarter-mile north of Wayne had eight of the 11 hog buildings completely ablaze when the first firefigher reached the scene.

Wayne fire chief Dutch Sitzman was the initial person to reach the business, managed by Russ Thede. ""I made an immediate assessment of the premises and saw eight build-ings on fire," Sitzman said. "Seven of the buildings were pretty much completely consumed and an eighth was partially on fire."

Sitzman said the decision was to cut the fire off at the point between the seventh building and the building that was partially on fire. "I called for assistance from Winside and Carroll after seeing the magnitude of the fire," Sitzman said. Later we contacted Fletcher Farm Service, Terra International, Ger-hold Concrete and Lutt Trucking to help haul water in semi's and other large trucks." Wakefield's fire de-

WAYNE County Sheriff's department and the state patrol were called to control traffic. The fire started in the farrowing barn and the strong northwest wind sent the blaze out of control as it traveled down a path from building to building ignited by methane (a form of gas released by sewage from animals).

"There were several buildings burned that were right next to each other with the exception of one right in the middle," Sitzman said. "That building didn't burn because it is much newer than the others and the methane build-up was not as prevalent, and it had just been washed down just minutes before the fire started.

Betty Henschke, a long time employee of the Coop was the one who notified co-workers and manager Russ Thede of the blaze. "She said she smelled smoke and when she went to open the door of the building she thought it was coming from, she saw fire at eye level and immediately shut the door and went to notify everyone," Sitzman said.

THEDE SAID his numbers on the animals were just an educated guess. Semi's were called in to haul away the dead animals and many of the ones that were still alive were shipped to market.

There were six people taken to Providence Medical Center in Wayne for smoke inhalation but Sitzman said all six were treated and released. Four of those were firefighters from Wayne, one was from Wakefield and another was listed as an employee of the Coop.

The Greater Northeast Nebraska Pig Cooperative employed five fulltime workers and several of those had been there for many years. It may be a while before insurance adjustors are finished with their investigations but unofficial reports around a million dollars.

Firemen were on the scene at the Thede residence until around 7 p.m. "It's still too early to tell what is going to happen," Thede said. "The Coop is owned by 25 stockholders and there will be several meetings discussing the future of the operation depending on insurance settlements and other factors.'

Sitzman said he was very pleased with the fire departments from Wayne, Carroll, Winside and Wakefield for their assistance in putting out the fire.

There are a lot of people who really pitched in to help," Sitzman Lutt Trucking, Gerhold Concrete, Terra International and Fletcher Farm Service deserve thanks for hauling water and so do the flag girls working at the construction site just south of Wayne for keeping the one lane of traffic open for fire traffic."

FIRE DEVASTATED the Greater Northeast Nebraska Pig Coop, Tuesday afternoon leaving an estimated million dollars worth of damage. Over 2500 sows and pigs perished in the blaze which was caused by a methane gas build up.

Car fire south of Wayne

The Wayne Volunteer Fire Department was called to the scene of a car fire shortly after 6 p.m., Thursday, Fire chief Dutch Sitzman said a 1982 Dodge Aries driven by Doris Ritze of Pilger, caught on fire en route to her home from Waldbaums in Wakefield where she worked.

She said she was driving home and noticed a red light that came on in her car," Sitzman said. "Then before she knew it, the car had caught fire. A resident near where the car went up in flames said they heard a loud pop," Sitzman added. Ritze was 9 3/4 miles south of

Wayne when the incident occurred. She jumped out immediately after seeing flames and ran to safety. leaving her purse and other personal belongings which eventually perished. Firefighters were on the

We landed at Utah-Beach on July 26, 1942 and assisted Patton's Third Army. The first Army had opened a wedge for us and the fourth, fifth and sixth armies broke through. This was the first actual combat I saw," said Langenberg.

"Our unit was first to be entirely behind the German lines. Several of our men got lost or captured. It was our job to lay smoke screen, search houses for German soldiers and support the infantry. By the end of August, we became part of the first Army and got to go through Paris,'

After Paris, the men went through Belgium and then received orders to liberate the small country of Luxembourg. "We were told to rescue Prince Felix who had been held captive since the start of the war. The country of Luxembourg was very grateful for what we did and has invited the entire Fifth Armored Division to be their guests at a special ceremony in September. Beach to the Elb River in less than two months. "This was a difficult time. We were always on guard. A lot of times we would go for days without being able to shave or change clothes. I remember one time, washing my clothes in gasoline because they were so filthy. Before they were dry, we got orders to move out. I had to put my clothes on wet. It was something I will never forget," he recalls.

On Sept. 11, 1944 the Fifth Armored Division became the first division to cross into Germany but because of a lack of supplies they were forced to pull out. By December they ended up in Huertgen Forest involved in what turned out to be a ill-planned attack. Many of those in Langenberg's unit were killed or wounded.

During all of his time in combat Langenberg says he never worried about getting killed but was more concerned about being captured by the Germans. "I saw and heard stories of those that had been taken prisoner and would have been better off dead," he said.

ON APRIL 1, 1945 the unit crossed the Rhine River on a pon-toon bridge and by April 12 they reached the Elb-River. Movement became easier at this point. "We started helping the British and eventually ended up in Russian territory in Germany. This is where we were when the war ended."
"From the end of the war until October, we stayed in Mulhausen, Germany and waited for a ship tocome get us. This was a difficult time also because they split up our division. Some of the men were rotated back to the United States to prepare to go to the Pacific and others waited to go home."

I went to Camp Lucky Strike, a Disembarcation camp in France. From there I went to LaHaurve and home on a Liberty ship. I got back to Nebraska on Oct. 25, 1945.

LANGENBERG returned to the Winside area where he met and married his wife, Evelyn. The couple farmed and raised three sons and a daughter --- Gene is in California, Chuck farms Henry's land near Hoskins, David lives in Omaha and Peggy lives in Norfolk.

In 1981 Langenberg, his wife, son and nephew retraced the step. that he had taken nearly 40 years "I was impressed by how the countries had been rebuilt. I am very anxious to go to Luxembourg now to see how things have changed. I feel very honored to be able to attend and am impressed by the way the people of Luxembourg are treating my whole division," he

Hansen offered these tips from the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Committee for a safe holiday weekend:

 Do not allow young children to play with fireworks under any cir-cumstances. Even the "sparkler," which is often considered to be the ideal firework for young children, burns at very high temperatures and can easily burn skin or eyes and ignite clothing. ·Allow older children to use

Christian artists to perform at Norfolk

Each fall for the past several years over a thousand students from Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota have gathèred in Sioux Falls, S.D. for the Dawson McAllister Student Conference. The conference is characterized by contemporary Christian music, comedy and relevant insight for students. Two members of this team, singer, Joel Engle and comedian/illusionist, Mark Matlock will be performing at the Johnny Carson Theater in Norfolk on Saturday, July 9 at 7:30 p.m.

Joel Engle's first popular single, "The Father I Never Had" is rooted in some of the personal obstacles Joel has overcome in life. Joel's biological father abandoned Joel and his family right after Joel was born. When Joel was 11, his mother had a stroke and passed away. He then moved from his home in California to live with his grandparents in Oklahoma. When his grandfather died, and his grandmother could no longer care for him, Joel moved into the Baptist Children's Home in Oklahoma City. A year and a half later, when he was 16, he was adopted by the Engle family.

Joel has a deep desire for ministry to teens and his music portrays that. He is able to relate his personal trials with his teenage audience. Joel communicates with students using a wide variety of musical styles in his performances. The musical talents of Joel Engle have caught the eyes of many Christian artists. He has worked with musicians such as BeBe Winans, Lisa Bevill, David Meece, Pray for Rain, Kim Boyce and Millions & Millions.

Utilizing a unique brand of artistic energy, Mark Matlock has motivated students around the world to live for Christ. Mark is a passionate storyteller who weaves biblical teaching, creative humor, illusion and audience participation into his presentation.

His career started at the early age of five when his grandfather taught him a trick to fool his classmates. The trick was a success, encouraging Mark to strive to communicate to people through the unusual and unordinary. During his early college years Mark traveled to India for seven weeks where he spoke and used illusions to illustrate biblical concepts to thousands of people. After that trip, Mark began a professional career as a visual communicator, working with his favorite people, American teenagers.

Both Joel and Mark are part of the ministry feam from Shepherd Ministries that conducts conferences across the nation with Dawson McAllister, Dawson McAllister's ministry reaches out to youth through Student Conferences, a weekly radio call-in program (heard locally on KPNO-FM 90.9 every Sunday evening from 7 to 9 p.m.), and a youth counseling hot-line.

Tickets purchased at the door will cost $5, individual tickets purchased in advance are $4 and for groups of 20 or more the cost is only $3 per ticket. Tickets are available at the Abbey Christian Bookstore in Norfolk or by calling 371-1261 or by calling the Victory Road Evangelical Free Church in Norfolk at 379-1338. The deadline for group purchases is July 6.

I wanted to be a minister and have served student churches since I was 19 years old," he said.

Main likes the size of the Wayne congregation and is enjoying the college setting even though at present most of the college students are home for the summer. "I feel this is a very well organized congregation with lots of committed lay people doing a great job," he

One of Main's first goals is to get to know the people here. He would like to visit each of the 600 members of the Wayne church and 140 members of the Carroll church. He also plans to "help the church e a warm caring church family and build up this family.

MOST OF HIS time now is spent getting acquainted with his congregation and the community but Main also enjoys traveling, spending time with his family and reading.

Chris is enjoying spending the summer with her children and is looking forward to continuing her education at Wayne State/College. "I have been taking classes for some time but am looking forward to being here in town. When we lived in Neligh there were classes and activities I could not attend because of the distance. Things should be much easier now," she said.

Main is a member of the Wayne Ministerial Association and the Campus Ministry Board at Wayne State College.

As he becomes more acquainted with his congregation, Main would like them to know "I am always available to anyone who feels they have needs that I can assist them

The new minister and family at the United Methodist Church are Rev. Gary Main holding Barrett, Tessa, front, and Chris. The Mains moved from Neligh to Wayne the first of June.
