Tax levies show impact of aid and valuations

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

Wayne County tax levies certified last week reflect tax increases for schools and the county while city and village levies show decreases due mainly to sizeable increases in property valuations.

This year's tax levies are the first following major property assessment re-valuation implemented over a year ago at the order of the Nebraska Department of Revenue.

The valuation increases generally caused city and village tax levies to decline, while a combination of state aid reductions and salary increases forced school levies up.

In Wayne, the property tax levy for schools will be going up 8.8 percent while Winside will post a 4.2 percent hike. Both schools stayed well within the state spending lids according to county officials.

With the Wayne Schools looking at a possible bond issue election later this year to construct a new Middle School and High School addition, the unanticipated tax increase was distressing, according to Superintendent Dr. Dennis Jensen.

He said he still needs time to evaluate the levy increase certified by the county since the amount revenue the district requested in new funding was less than in the previous two years.

He said school officials had purposefully tried to hold costs down to avoid a tax increase. Eying a $10 million increase in property valuation for the district and its affiliated districts, Jensen said it was felt the "hold the line" budget passed by the board might have resulted in a property tax decrease this year.

The biggest single factor cited by Jensen as cause for the tax burden shift to the property owners was a $106,000 reduction in state aid this year. He down-played the impact of a $121,000 worth of salary increases for teachers and administrators.

Other neighboring school districts received increases in state aid he added. Winside received $104,000 more in state aid this year and Wakefield was the beneficiary of a $201,000 state aid increase.

Jensen said the salary increases granted to teachers in their contract negotiations were mandated under state law and Wayne has no choice but to stay comparable with other school districts its size. Salaries currently account for approximately 80 percent of the total school budget.

Noting there is no way of going back on this year's budget, he said the schools may have to look at not spending budgeted funds this in hopes of building a surplus which could be used to ease the property tax burden next year.

While the tax levies have yet to be tallied for all the taxing agencies, the big three, Wayne County's 3.5 percent levy increase, Wayne City's 7.2 percent decrease and the school's 8.8 percent increase, would combine to equal a $35 total tax bill increase on an average home with $50,000 assessed valuation. School taxes have averaged over 50 percent of the total property tax bill locally in recent years.

County Clerk Deb Finn said the remaining tax levy amounts for out of area taxing entities such as Educational Service Units, Natural Resources Districts and the community college district will be tabulated later this week and then property owners will have a clear view of what to expect when they open next year's tax notices.

College funding plan decried

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) -- Nebraska community colleges should be friends of four-year schools, not competing with them for funding as would be the case if a proposal takes away the property tax base, say community college presidents.

The governor-appointed Nebraska Tax Review Committee, considering ways to lower property taxes in the state, suggests switching community college funding from local property taxes to state sales and income taxes.

"I cannot think of anything good to say about it," said J. Richard Gilliland, president of Metropolitan Community College in Omaha. "If the taxpayers know what's going on, I don't think they're going to like it a bit."

Responding Thursday to the committee's proposal, the college presidents said the replacement of property taxes with state funds would make the schools compete with the four-year colleges and universities when they should be working as partners with those schools. The presidents also said their flexibility in responding to the needs of their areas would be diminished by increased state control and funding.

The Nebraska Tax Review Committee also mentioned special education in local school districts as an item that could be funded by the state income tax and the sales tax instead of property taxes. The committee is considering other shifts from the property tax to state funds as well.

"I feel it would be troublesome to the funding of the community colleges," Robert Cox, president of Northeast Community College in Norfolk, told the Omaha World-Herald.

In 1993-94, the six community colleges of Nebraska levied property taxes ranging from 7.13 cents per $100 of actual property value at Northeast to 12.76 cents at Western Nebraska Community College based in Scottsbluff. At Metro, the levy was 7.67 cents in 1993-94, or $38.35 on a $50,000 home.

Senate bill nixes pork roads

Sen. Jim Exon, D-Neb., praised Senate passage of a National Highway System bill Friday which he said eliminates specially funded "pork barrel" additions that were added to the system by the House of Representatives version of the measure.

The version, approved by the House in the spring, had included "special projects" funding for two bridges across the Missouri River in Northeast Nebraska at Niobrara and between Newcastle and Vermillion. Though a compromise between the House and Senate versions of the bill may be forthcoming, it is not clear how the construction projects in highway transportation system designation will be funded.

Allan Feyerherm, an aide in Rep. Doug Bereuter's office in Washington, said funding provisions for the bridge projects including $4.6 million which had been authorized in the House version, were stripped from the senate version. However, a House-Senate conference committee appropriations report released today in Washington has included $2 million in additional funding for each bridge.

If approved the funding recommendation would leave the Newcastle bridge, estimated to cost over $17 million, only approximately $2 million short of full funding. Several million dollars have already been appropriated for the project in previous years and the states of Nebraska and South Dakota will be expected to kick in 10 percent each on the cost of the bridge building.

Feyerherm said it would have been easier to gain full funding for the bridge if the house special project designation had been left in the

In educating kids for the 50's

'We have never done a better job'

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

Calling himself one of America's leading proponents of increased local control in education, speaker Jamie Vollmer predicted a future of excellence in education...if parents, communities and schools work together to adapt to a dramatically changing world.

Vollmer spoke to approximately 75 school open house attendees Monday night in an address that was positive about the status of education today but warned that changes must be made.

"Your teachers have never done a better job," said Vollmer. He said every standard of measure shows that students today score higher than their parents did on aptitude and ability tests. Graduations today are double what they were 50 years ago, he said.

"We have never done a better job of preparing kids to go out into the world... of the 1950s," he said. The problem is, the world has changed dramatically since the 50's and schools have not changed with it.

He said public education is still in the process of selecting and sorting human beings, a job it was designed to do 100 years ago when only a very select few (young men) were expected to go on to college and "take their rightful place as the leaders of the nation."

Vollmer, an educational consultant and professional speaker, said schools were designed for the times when only a small percentage of the graduates ever got jobs in which they were paid to think.

"Today's economy is knowledge driven," said Vollmer. "It demands workers who need to think for a living."

He said schools can't be forced into the position of raising America's kids by teaching them all the things such as values and life-styles that parents used to be responsible for teaching. He cited a long list of things that have been added to school curriculums ranging from health and nutrition to consumerism and sex education. And yet not one minute has been added to the time schools have to teach.

Vollmer cajoled the parents in the audience to get involved and participate in their children's education, to identify the specific things they want their children to know and be able to do when they graduate.

"And then decide who's going to teach them these things, because schools can't do it all. If you are busy, this is just simply something else that has to be squeezed in."

He emphasized the importance of a well-prepared young population to enter the work world because he said in just five more years there will only be two people working for every one individual on retirement. In 1960 there were 22 workers for every person on retirement.

"We've got to tell this story in clear, simple and unambiguous terms," Vollmer told the Wayne Herald after his talk. He said there is a great deal of misinformation out about the process of change in the educational system in America, but simply put, the schools of old are not preparing the workers of the future.

"Somebody's going to have to lead your town into the future, and its going to have to be you," he told his audience.

Technology group forms

Thirty-six people, including State Sen. Pat Engel, attended the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce's Communication Technology meeting Monday at the Black Knight.

The meeting conducted by Chris Hoy, Special Projects Director for the Nebraska Department of Economic Development focused on the need for Wayne to place itself in the fastlane of the information superhighway.

Hoy stated that information will be the next public utility. He compared the coming advances in communication technology to the discovery and use of fire.

"Information and knowledge will be power." Those who prepare for the coming of this new age will have control over how and where this power is used, he said.

Hoy encouraged the citizens present to take action by forming a committee to construct Wayne's

Your Medicap pharmacist

Are you allergic to a medication?

Allergic reactions to medicines are not uncommon. The reactions most commonly seen include penicillin, sulfonamides and codeine. If you experience anything out of the ordinary while taking a medication, contact your pharmacist or physician. True allergic reactions are often misinterpreted when an upset stomach or diarrhea occur. These are side effects which are often experienced with many over-the-counter and prescription medicines. An upset stomach can usually be overcome by taking the medicine with food or milk. Cases of diarrhea are usually acute and resolve themselves in a few days. However, if an upset stomach or diarrhea persist, contact your physician. Any type of rash, hives, or inflammatory response should be seen by a physician and the medicine discontinued immediately. It is also extremely important to notify your physician, pharmacist, and other health care providers of your allergy. Depending on the severity of the reaction, you should also consider documenting your allergy on your drivers license and or wearing a medical alert bracelet or charm to notify others if an emergency should occur. It is important to remember that you have control over what medications you take. If you suspect you may be allergic to the medicine or have had problems taking it before, discuss the situation with your pharmacist or physician to determine the best regimen for you.

National Highway Systems bill, but that he expects the projects would receive final funding approval within a couple years.

The Senate bill designates over 2,680 miles of roads in Nebraska as part of the National Highway System. The status of Bereuter's proposed state highway link between Wayne and the Newcastle-Vermillion bridge which he had asked to be included in the national system last spring, is not clear.

A map of the state routes included in the national system shows Highways 57 and 20 via Laurel as the designated bridge connector.

Three pass bar exam

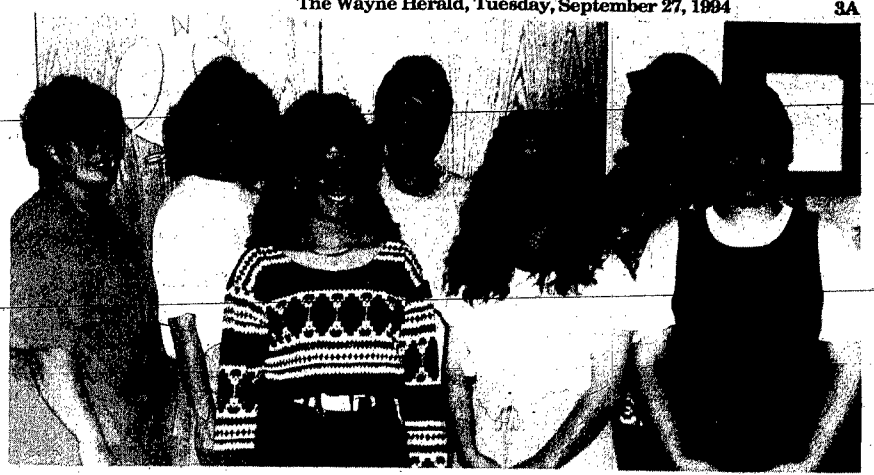

The Nebraska State Bar Association announced the admission of 193 persons to the practice of law in Nebraska, including three from Wayne County.

The three are Annette Walker-Farnan, who is the daughter of Laymond and Ann Walker of Marryville, Mo.; Lesa McDermott of Wayne, who is the daughter of Mrs. Charles McDermott of Wayne; and Roberta J. Loberg of Omaha, who is the daughter of William and Monica Loberg of Carroll.

The 124 men and the 69 women were sworn the morning of Sept. 22 during statehouse ceremonies in Lincoln. They were among a 213 persons taking multistate essay and professional responsibility examinations in July to qualify for admission, according to the Nebraska State Bar Commission.

Supreme Court Chief Justice William C. Hastings of Lincoln and Federal Judge Lyle E. Strom of Omaha administered the oaths of office. NSBA President Lawrence H. Yost of Fremont welcomed new layers on behalf of the organized Bar. Admittees were honored at a Young Lawyers Section reception following the swearing-in.

The Nebraska State Bar Association is a 7,800-member professional organization dedicated to improving the administration of justice.

ESU building is sold

The old Educational Service Unit 1 buildings at Third and Main in Wakefield have been purchased by the City of Wakefield to be made available for new business ventures in Northeast Nebraska. The buildings were purchased using $75,000 in Community Development Block Grant Business Development Funds from the State of Nebraska, plus $75,000 in grant funds from the Gardner Foundation.

The facility will be called the Hatchery.

The Hatchery has also received a $25,000 Rural Business Enterprise Grant from Farmers Home Administration for start-up operations and costs.

An area board of directors has been appointed to oversee the operations of the building complex. They are Carol Nixon, Rita Fendrick, Tysha Black, Dan Gardner, Marvone Ekberg, Nancy Schulz, Theresa Miner and Alice Harman, all from Wakefield; Karen and Kenneth Anderson from Allen; Joe Ferguson from Northeast Community College in Norfolk; and Loren Kuchera from the Nebraska Business Development Center at Wayne State College.

ESU Administrator Rod Garwood said he expects to move from their present buildings to the new office building located on the south edge of Wakefield this fall, making over 10,000 square feet of space available in the Hatchery for interested business ventures. As of this time, three new businesses have reserved space when it becomes available.

The Hatchery is also making business assistance services available to tenants and any other businesses in the region.

For information, contact any of the directors or Lowell Johnson at the Wakefield City Office, 287-2080.

A new slogan

Now that Lyle George, the originator of the "Wayne, America" slogan on the water tower, has moved from town we think it is time to consider a new slogan to be painted on the tower.

Our suggestion this week would be "Wayne, city of stupid stoplights."

We've seen numerous drivers confused by the permanently flashing traffic signal at the corner of Second and Main. Main Street motorists often mistake the flashing amber light for the signal that the traffic light is about to change to red, the way it has for years, so they stop. This confuses motorists behind them and cross traffic waits until the confusion is cleared.

Either the light should be returned to full functioning status or removed and replaced with a much more efficient pair of stop signs.

But this isn't the epitome of worldwide stoplight stupidity. No, that status is reserved for the traffic signal at the corner of Third and Pearl in Wayne, America.

This archaic, neck stretching signal has to be in the least practical location in the community. Seldom is there any other traffic anywhere in sight when motorists are forced to sit, burn gas and wait through the entire cycle until it turns green again.

So sparse is the traffic at the intersection it barely seems practical to have stop signs there but these would be immensely safer and more efficient than the old stoplight which should have been sold in the last city auction as a valuable antique...

...The last city auction in the 50's that is.

Heed the message

Jamie Vollmer told parents what to do to ensure that their children graduate with the best possible chance for success during his presentation in Wayne Monday night.

Get involved, he said. "Your schools can't do it all." His was a message of parental responsibility. His was sound advice.

Pondering the plight of invisible pundits

Steam rose lazily above Jim's coffee in a ghostly whirl.

"Did you ever imagine what kind of fun you might have if you could instantly become invisible?"

No, can't say that I have, Jim. Are you maybe hinting I disappear? "Nothing like that! But if invisible, there are some fun things I'd like to do!"

Do I dare ask? Like what?

"Like driving a car, flying a plane or riding a bicycle! I can just fancy people's faces seeing a car park itself, a pilotless plane take off, or a riderless bike go pedaling by! Ha!"

There might be advantages being invisible, at least for awhile. Here's a good one: how about if I were invisible and was taking up the offering in church! Do you suppose a few people might see that floating plate going from pew to pew and divvy up quite a lot more than they had planned! Ha!

"And suppose the preacher was invisible! Folk could see his Bible floating up to the pulpit and hear his voice saying it was time to get serious about not letting the left hand know what the right hand was doing! Baked oysters! I'll guarantee you most folk would stay awake that morning!"

But you'd hear a few surprising Amens! Especially if you were an invisible organist, yet those wondrous tones continued erupting throughout the sanctuary!

Doubters just might be converted that Sunday!

"Get this scene! I'm an invisible cop, O.K.? This young man, who thinks he's Evil Knievel on the ride, looks in his rear view mirror and sees a riderless motorcycle coming up behind him at a high rate of speed! Ha! Suppose he'd lose control when I got along side and yelled "Pull it over, buster!?" Ha! Ha!

And envision this! I'm invisible and playing in the outfield. O.K.? This batter gets a hit and upon catching the ball, I throw it to second for an out! Field of dreams!

"What sport! You could drive your neighbor kooky when your lawn mower appeared to be buzzing along on its own!"

Or going to a football game getting the ball from your favorite team's center and zig-zagging it 90 yards to a receiver in the end zone!

"Want to hear about some actual wizardry that's really spooky? Complete World Series baseball teams and their owners unexpectedly disappeared!"

With an incantation of only two words!

"Baseball strike!"

LINCOLN — The Capital City is a wonderful place to jog or ride a bicycle. It's flat and not very congested, like most Nebraska cities.

One of my favorite routes for my dog and I passed right through the southern part of Lincoln, by 27th and Highway 2.

A couple of weeks ago, we took a night off and missed something that seems to be becoming more common in our quiet prairie state — a standoff between a crazed man with a semi-automatic gun and police.

This guy had driven by a couple of cops, yelled "bang, bang" and later unloaded his replica machine gun into a University of Nebraska-Lincoln police cruiser and shot at a Lincoln police car.

Luckily, the UNL officer was not killed, only slightly wounded, and the Lincoln cop was missed altogether. But this nutcase had a chance to shoot hundreds as he drove across Lincoln — through the University, past the State Capitol building and to the intersection right next to a shopping center.

This could have been a very, very tragic afternoon.

Fortunately, the man gave up before he shot again.

Some Nebraska law enforcement officials think guys like him shouldn't have a gun in the first place.

Ironically, UNL police had taken away the gun used by the man, Gerald Schlondorf, two years ago after Schlondorf had attempted suicide. That's a reasonable action to take when someone is trying to kill themselves.

Unfortunately, UNL was forced to return the gun last month after Schlondorf filed a lawsuit. He hadn't committed any crimes, so the gun had to be turned back.

Lincoln Police Chief Tom Casady and Omaha's top cop, James Skinner, both said that people like Schlondorf, as well as persons with lengthy criminal records, should not be allowed to have guns.

Right now, they said, police chiefs and sheriffs — who approve the handgun buyer permits required in Nebraska — cannot find out if a person has been committed to a mental hospital or deemed insane by a court. That information is confidential in Nebraska.

Thus, Casady said, he's signing permits for people to buy guns who he wouldn't even trust looking after his goldfish when he's on vacation.

A bigger problem, the chiefs said, is the number of people with lengthy criminal records who can still legally buy guns. Convicted felons cannot possess guns, but Casady produced records of a handful of nasty fellows who had 40 or 50 arrests for unsavory acts like assault and resisting arrest, but they were all misdemeanors.

Disqualifying people with violent misdemeanor records is somewhat new, but a couple of states and cities have already tried it in an attempt to keep guns away from criminals.

Whether the ideas of the two chiefs ever see the light of day in the State Legislature remains to be seen. Senators have been reluctant to pass even minor gun-control laws in the past couple of years.

If only they had been jogging near 27th and Highway 2 a couple of weeks ago.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Gun issue keeps popping up

Listening in the Park

In the noon day sun From a bench in the park. I listened to the music of the little meadowlark.

The trill began softly Like a tip toe in the dark. Then it grew in volume Each note so clear and sharp.

Then the music dwindled. A mere whisper it became. The lark took to the sky The day was not the same.

Another day I rested On a bench in the park Where vainly I listened For the little meadowlark.

As sadly I watched the leaves Bounce a dance in the sun, There came the voice of children Filled with laughter, love and fun.

I no longer missed the music Of the little meadowlark. For ah! Nothing sounds sweeter Than children in the park!

My Turn

Guest Column

Dear Citizens of Wayne:

Several months ago my son came home crying because he'd just watched a kitten be run over. He feels it was intentional. I moved the kitten out of the road and asked the person responsible for the kitten if they were aware of what had happened and if they wanted to dispose of the body. They didn't. The body decomposed in the weeds along the road.

In August, I received a call by some distressed individuals who care enough to find help for a kitten that had been run over in front of their business. She was still alive, so I paid for her veterinary care and became her foster owner. Her name is Gracie and she is doing fine in the home I was fortunate enough to locate for her.

On Sept. 10, I became a foster owner again. Rebecca was two hours old when I was called by her mother's "owner" to come and do something about her. It seems Rebecca's mother gave birth to her on the steps of her home and abandoned her. Her umbilical cord was still attached and she was cold, hungry and crying. A group of children had gathered around her and were watching helplessly, wishing they could do something for her.

Why did I agree to take her? Why am I the one who is getting up at night to bottle feed her, the one who will cry if she dies? She wasn't my pet. Her mother didn't belong to me. I wasn't seeking to acquire a new pet. I know I could have walked away, but she was in a bad situation and leaving her would've come back to haunt me. She is now my responsibility because I care.

On Sept. 15, I received a call about a kitten at the high school. It, too, needed help, but I couldn't take it because it wouldn't have been fair to the ones I'm already taking care of. My means have been stretched thin and I feel that I'm fighting this battle single-handedly.

While I am not a perfect pet owner by some people's standards, I can honestly say that the money I spend on my pet bills per month would buy me a nice car or some great furniture. However, I choose to be responsible for my pets. My anyone is curious about these afflictions, I have pamphlets that are graphic in their descriptions. No creature deserves to live in such agony.

The average life span of a healthy cat is 10 to 15 years. Street cats are lucky if they live for three years and they are always old beyond their time. These cats don't ask to be born and thrust into a hostile environment where they must struggle to survive. Many would argue that farm cats live fulfilling lives under the same circumstances, but those cats are not within city limits and have limited contact with humans.

I believe that people who choose to own pets must be responsible for them and any offspring they might have. If your pet creates it, it's yours to keep or to find a home for. Unfortunately, not everyone adheres to this philosophy. That is why it is time for the city of Wayne to take some kind of control over this situation. Many communities have effective laws that concern both dogs and cats.

As things stand now, if you find a cat in Wayne that is sick, injured or lost, the police won't pick it up. You must either leave the animal where it is or incur all expenses for its care. It is time to create an ordinance that insures the licensing and vaccination of all cats. All non-licensed cats should be impounded until they are claimed, adopted or euthanized. This may sound extreme until you consider the ridiculous amount of injured, sick and stray cats running all over Wayne.

If anyone reading this hasn't seen evidence of this problem, I'd like to know where you live because I haven't been in your neighborhood. If anyone reading this is one of the cat "owners" I have described above, please rethink your method of ownership. If you have an outdoor cat, feed it regularly so that it doesn't have to scavenge. Have it spayed or neutered so I don't have to be responsible for its babies. Vaccinate it so it can be happy and healthy. And when it dies, dispose of its body.

Thank you.

Jackson-Mrsny united in traditional ceremony

Kayla Jackson and Jason Mrsny were united in marriage on Aug. 20 at the Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne. Parents of the bride are Dwayne and MariGay Jackson of Crofton. Parents of the groom are Steve and Jill Mrsny of Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Mrsny

Pastor Jeff Anderson conducted the traditional ceremony with organist and trumpeter, Colleen and Curt Jeffries, accompanying the soloist, Rod Eisenhauer. The bride was given in marriage by her parents.

Kayla wore a white gown of imported satin over a Dacron lining. The fitted bodice had an open neckline with long fitted sleeves that had a unique pouf at the top. The lace on the sleeves and bodice were highly trimmed with the lustre of pearls and sequins. The Basque waistline was also trimmed with pearls and the smooth satin skirt fell gently into a full skirt that was also trimmed with Schiffli lace. Scalloped Schiffli lace trimmed the hemline and traveled into a cathedral length train that had lace cutouts on and a candy-box bow on the back.

Her maid of honor was Nicole Day of Lincoln. Bridesmaids were Karen Eliasson of Lincoln, Claire Thiel of Omaha, Dawn Garret of Pender and Allison Mrsny of Wayne.

Jason's best man was his twin brother, Adam of Wayne. His groomsmen were Kelly Mrsny of Wayne, Jarrod Wood of Omaha, Chad Jones of Sioux City, Iowa and Tony Mrsny of Wayne.

Flower girl was Savanna Mrsny and ring bearer was Joseph Mrsny, cousins of the groom. Candelighters were Katie Jackson of Bow Valley and Elizabeth Jackson of Bloomfield, nieces of the bride. The guests were ushered by Kurt Jackson of Madison, Ron Sylvester of Ainsworth, Corey Frye and Daryl Lindsay of Wayne.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in Wakefield at the Legion Club. Jenny Jackson of Bow Valley and Joshua Mrsny of Wayne attended the guest book. Cutting the cake were aunts of the couple, Barb Eliasson of Fremont and Chara Mrsny of Wayne. Hosts and hostesses were Kelly and Duane Witt and Lori and John Carollo, all of Wayne, friends of the couple.

Kayla graduated in 1993 from Wayne State College with a BS in early childhood. She is employed at Clarkson Hospital in Omaha. Jason graduated in 1994 from Wayne State College with a BS in criminal justice. He is employed at First Bank of Omaha in Omaha.

After a trip to Kansas City Worlds of Fun the couple is at home in Omaha.

What is the most common marital problem?

QUESTION: What is the most common marital problem you hear about in your office?

DR. DOBSON: Let's suppose I have a counseling appointment at four o'clock tomorrow afternoon with a person whom I've never met. Who is that person, and what will be the complaint that brings her to me? First, the patient will probably be Mrs. Jones, not her husband.

A man is seldom the first to seek marriage counseling, and when he does, it is for a different motive than his wife seeks it. She comes because her marriage is driving her crazy. He comes because his wife is driving him crazy.

Mrs. Jones will be, perhaps, between 28 and 42 years of age, and her problem will be extremely familiar to me. Though the details will vary, the frustration she communicates on that afternoon will conform to a well-worn pattern. It will sound something like this:

"John and I were deeply in love when we got married. We struggled during the first two or three years, especially with financial problems, but I knew he loved me, and he knew I loved him. But then something began to change.

"I'm not sure how to describe it. He received a promotion about five years ago, and that required him to work longer hours. We needed the money, so we didn't mind the extra time he was putting in. But it never stopped.

"Now he comes home later every evening. He's so tired I can actually hear his feet dragging as he approaches the porch. I look forward to his coming home all day because I have so much to tell him, but he doesn't feel much like talking.

"So I fix his dinner, and he eats it alone. (I usually eat with the kids earlier in the evening). After dinner, John makes a few phone calls and works at his desk. I like for him to talk on the telephone just so I can hear his voice. Then he watches television for a couple of hours and goes to bed. Thursday night he plays basketball, and sometimes he has a meeting at the office. Every Saturday morning he plays golf with three of his friends. On Sunday we are in church most of the day.

"Believe me, there are times when we go for a month or two without having a real, in-depth conversation. You know what I mean? And I get so lonely in the house with three kids climbing all over me. There aren't even any women in the neighborhood I can talk to because most of them have gone back to work.

Answers Your Questions

"But there are other irritations about John. He rarely takes me out to dinner, and he forgot our anniversary last month, and I honestly don't believe he's ever had a romantic thought. He wouldn't know a rose from a carnation, and his Christmas cards are signed, just 'John.'

"There's no closeness or warmth between us, yet he wants to have sex with me at the end of the day. There we are, lying in bed, having had no communication between us in weeks. He hasn't tried to be sweet or understanding or tender, yet he expects me to become passionate and responsive to him. I'll tell you, I can't do it.

"Sure, I go along with my duties as a wife, but I sure don't get anything out of it. And after the two-minute trip is over and John is asleep, I lie there resenting him and feeling like a cheap prostitute. Can you believe that? I feel used for having sex with my own husband!

"Boy, does that depress me. In fact, I've been awfully depressed lately. My self-esteem is at rock-bottom right now. I feel like nobody loves me. I'm a lousy mother and a terrible wife.

"More recently, we've been arguing a lot. I mean really fighting. It's the only way I can get his attention, I guess. We had an incredible battle last week in front of the kids. It was awful. Tears, screaming, insults; everything. I spent two nights at my mother's house.

"Now all I can think about is getting a divorce so I can escape. John doesn't love me anyway, so what difference would it make? I guess that's why I came to see you. I want to know if I'll be doing the right thing to call it quits."

Mrs. Jones speaks as though she were the only woman in the world who has ever experienced this pattern of needs. But she is not alone.

It is my guess that 90 percent of the divorces that occur each year involve at least some of the elements she described—an extremely busy husband who is in love with his work and who tends to be somewhat insensitive, unromantic and noncommunicative, married to a lonely, vulnerable, romantic woman who has severe doubts about her worth as a human being. They become a matched team: he works like a horse and she nags.

Karen's Fabric Tips

Is a Thing of Beauty a Joy Forever?

Breathe springtime freshness into your winter-weary draperies with professional drycleaning care. Removing airborne soil helps prevent fabric deterioration and extends the life of your draperies.

While your dry-cleaner can, and often does, perform miracles in restoring beauty and freshness to your draperies, there are some stains that are very difficult to remove. These are stains that were present when you gave your draperies to the drycleaner but didn't appear until after the soil was removed.

"Water rings" and yellowish stains are caused by moisture that comes in contact with the fabric. Moisture can come from open or leaking windows, radiators, moisture build-up in the home, or pets.

Wayne State over comes slow start to pound Winona State

By Kevin Peterson
Sports editor

The Wayne State Wildcats overcame a sluggish first quarter to pound Winona State of Minnesota, 33-12 Saturday in Winona leaving Dennis Wagner's 'Cats with a 3-1 record.

It was WSC's final road game until November as the Wildcats return home to the Cat Carpet for the entire month of October for four games and a bye week.

WSC trailed Winona State by a 12-7 margin after the first quarter but scored the game's final 26 points to win easily. "We had a very frustrating first half," Wagner said. "That has to change because our next four games are crucial. We have to take them one game at a time and we must be ready to play emotionally each week."

Wagner also said the early success by Winona State could have been a combination of them being ready to play and WSC making mental mistakes. "We had a fumble, overthrown passes, missed tackles and we just plain weren't executing very well," Wagner said. "We got it straightened out and the final half was very positive."

The WSC mentor was pleased with his team's outing in the second half because they came right out after the host team. "I think the score was a little closer than we wanted but we liked what we saw in the second half."

The 'Cats five touchdown afternoon started in the first quarter when Lamart Cooper caught a five-yard pass from Jared Hendershot. Incidentally, it was the first start for Hendershot, playing in place of the injured Ray Powers who is expected to be out until the Kearney contest on Oct. 8. Powers is still suffering from ligament damage between his big toe and second toe on his right foot.

WSC took the lead for good midway through the second stanza when Byron Chamberlain caught an eight-yard scoring pass from Hendershot—one of 13 receptions on the day for Chamberlain.

Lamont Rainey rumbled in from eight yards out in the third quarter and Chamberlain caught his second touchdown of the day, this one from 10 yards out to give the 'Cats a 27-12 lead after three quarters of play. The final score for WSC came on a three-yard run by Jason Williams early in the fourth quarter.

Wagner said Hendershot got off to a slow start in the first half by over throwing some open receivers but the red-shirt freshman came on strong to finish with a 30 of 48 performance for 259 yards, three touchdowns and more importantly, no interceptions.

"Jared is our leader," Wagner said. "We're depending on him to get the job done. He just needs to deliver the ball to the receivers a little quicker to allow the receivers to run with the ball more."

The 'Cats ground attack gobbled up 258 yards led by the senior sensation duo of Jason Williams and Lamont Rainey. Williams garnered 143 yards and Rainey darted for 99 more as WSC's balanced attack proved lethal once again.

WSC's defense played another solid game, holding Winona State's passing game to just nine receptions in 45 attempts for 132 yards. "Our edge players, Jeff Lutt and Dion Johnson are enjoying very good years to this point," Wagner said. "Lutt got a couple more quarterback sacks which gives him eight after just four games."

Lutt is chasing Brad Ottis' mark of 16 sacks. Ottis, of course, is playing in the NFL for the Los Angeles Rams. Jon Adkisson led the 'Cats defense with 10 tackles while Lutt had eight and Dion Johnson, seven.

Jim Meyer finished with six tackles while Sean Francisco and Kiyoshi Moody had four each. Marcus Rankin intercepted a pass.

The 'Cats will now turn focus on Iowa Wesleyan, a team WSC defeated by a 41-12 margin a year ago but since that time they've won nine games out of 10 losing only to NCAA-IAA Western Illinois in the first game of the season this year.

Laurel gridders win homecoming contest to remain unbeaten

Two of the Wayne Herald coverage area's unbeaten teams clashed in Laurel last Friday.

The third-rated C-2 Laurel Bears defeated Wakefield, 22-6 on homecoming night leaving Tom Luxford's team with a 4-0 mark while Dennis Wilbur took his troops home after suffering their first loss.

Wakefield silenced the crowd early when quarterback Justin Dutcher connected with Matt Peterson on a 48 yard pass down to the Bears three-yard line on the game's second play.

Running back Cory Brown took the ensuing hand-off and went off tackle and scored but a holding penalty negated the score and two plays later, Todd Arens intercepted a pass.

The first quarter ended with no score but the Bears hit paydirt in the second stanza when Jeff Wattier took a punt from his own 42-yard line and rambled 58 yards with some good blocking. Wattier was never touched by the Wakefield defense. Tyler Erwin hit Jared Reinohl to successfully complete the two-point conversion.

Laurel regained possession of the ball with under a minute to go in the half on its own one-yard line. Wattier took a hand-off from Erwin and sprinted around the left side and went 92 yards for an apparent score but it too, was called back because of a holding penalty.

In the third quarter Erwin hooked up with Jared Reinohl for a 30-yard scoring strike and Cody Carstensen completed the two-point conversion on a run for a 16-0 advantage.

Wakefield got on the board late in the fourth quarter on a one-yard plunge by Cory Brown but the two-point attempt failed. The Bears added another score on a one-yard run from Carstensen for the final margin of victory.

"I felt our team played at a higher level despite the loss," Wilbur said of his Trojans. "We still have some big games coming up and by playing Laurel like we did, it should give us some added confidence."

Luxford said his team played hard enough to win but the performance wasn't as sterling as he would have liked. "We made some mental mistakes but we played hard," Luxford said. "We have to give credit to Wakefield for doing a good job of preparing for us—they have a real nice team."

Laurel rushed for 202 yards while the Trojans gained 131. Erwin was 11-24 through the air for 202 yards and two interceptions for the Bears while Wakefield's Dutcher was 5-18 for 103 yards and two interceptions.

Cory Brown was the game's leading rusher with 130 yards on 26 carries while Laurel's Jeff Wattier gained 101 yards on just 13 carries. The Reinohl brothers caught nine passes for 137 yards combined with Jared catching five for 82. Matt Kucera was Wakefield's leading receiver with two catches for 52 yards.

Defensively, Laurel was led by Kody Urwiler and Jeff Erwin with 11 tackles each while Jeremy Reinohl had 10 and Cody Carstensen, eight. Arens and Jared Reinohl had interceptions.

Wakefield was led on defense by Justin Macklin's 14 tackles while Cory Brown had 12 with an interception. Tyler Peters finished with nine tackles and Jason Fischer had eight as did Ryan Hoffman who also notched an interception.

Laurel will remain at home for another tough contest Friday against rival Pierce while Wakefield returns home for homecoming against Homer.

Blue Devils defeat Wisner en route to winning round-robin

The Wayne girls volleyball team won the Pierce Invitational, Saturday and in the process did something they've been unable to do for many years—defeat Wisner-Pilger.

Joyce Hoskins-watcher her team defeat the Lady Gators in the first match, Saturday in straight games, 15-13, 15-12. "I felt our team this year was pretty evenly matched with Wisner," Hoskins said. "They defeated us in the Beemer Tournament and now we've finally won one from them."

Hoskins said both teams played good volleyball but Wayne accomplished some goals set by Hoskins prior to the match. "We wanted to serve under control, not let Wisner have more than three serves in a row and close our blocks along with staying low on defense," Hoskins said. "We accomplished every one of those goals and we came out on top."

Carrie Fink scored eight points and had one service ace to lead the Blue Devils while Jenny Thompson had eight points. Katie Lutt had six points and Amy Post had five points and one ace.

Fink was 79-81 in setting with 24 aces with Katie Lutt leading the way with nine kill spikes on 38 of 40 attempts. Thompson was 24-26 with eight kills and Angie Hudson was 14-17 with two aces. Post finished the match at 11-12 with two kills. Thompson paced the team on defense with four blocks while Post had two.

Wayne defeated Madison in straight games in the second match, 15-11, 15-9 as the Dragons went through the tournament with out a win and thus, stand at 0-12 on the year.

Angie Hudson scored nine points and Carrie Fink netted six with a service ace while Amy Post scored five. Fink was a perfect 69-69 in setting with 18 aces.

Jenny Thompson was 24-30 in attacks with 10 kills and Katie Lutt was 20-26 with six kills. Amy Post was 12-13 with two aces and Anne Wiseman was 5-5 with two kills while Hudson was 5-6 with two kill spikes.

"It was kind of tough coming off a big match with Wisner to get up right away and play again but the girls managed to do it," Hoskins said. "We started off slow but came on strong in the end." Hoskins said

Madison has a much better squad than its 0-12 record indicates.

Wayne went three games against Pierce before deciding the outcome after losing the first one, 7-15, 16-14, 15-5. "I think our team felt the match would be easier than it was," Hoskins said. "Pierce came out and played with the nothing to lose attitude and they played very well."

Wayne trailed the Bluejays, 10-7 in the second game before coming back to win and forcing a third and deciding game. "Pierce is a much improved team," Hoskins said. "They blocked us well at the net."

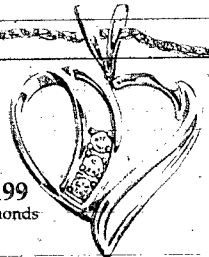

Fink, Lutt and Hudson had eight points each with Hudson notching a pair of service aces while Thompson had seven points and two aces. Fink was 71-71 in setting with 19 aces and Thompson was the leading hitter with 15 kill spikes on 36 of 40 attempts.

Lutt was 24-27 with seven kills and Wiseman was 6-7 with two aces. The 10-2 Blue Devils will play in West Point, Tuesday night before playing in the Randolph Tournament on Saturday where they play Wakefield in the first match.

WHILE THE varsity was playing in Pierce the freshman team played in a tournament in Wakfield. Wayne's "C" team won the meet with wins over Elkhorn Valley, 15-10, 15-10 and Wakefield in the finals, 16-14, 15-9.

WSC harriers run in Kearney

WAYNE-The Wayne State cross country teams competed at the University of Nebraska-Kearney, Saturday in the annual UNK Invite. Though the meet was not scored, the Wildcats had personal bests and showed continued improvement.

James McGown led the men with a 22nd place finish out of 111 in 34:17 over the 6.2 mile course. Mark Merritt was 31st in 34:38 which was a personal best and Donny Thongdy was timed in 36:48 in his first ever 10,000 meter race.

Scott Holley followed in a time of 36:48 and Mark Beran was clocked in 37:12 while Chris Garvin crossed the finish line in 38:22. "The men really had an outstanding meet," WSC coach Brian Kavanaugh said. "Had this meet been scored, we would have finished just 15 points behind North Dakota—a team we've never beaten."

Kavanaugh singled out Mark Merritt for his performance, staying closer to James McGown than he did in the first two meets and beating two UNK runners for the first time.

The women also fared well in a very tough race with six of the top 25 teams in NCAA Division II present—including #2 Cal State Los Angeles. Kathy Dalton led the way with a time of 20:45 and a 42nd place finish out of 104 runners.

Angie Chvala was timed in 21:00 and Michelle Baatz followed in 23:34. Andrea Smith crossed the finish line in 26:36. "The course was very difficult," Kavanaugh said. "It's by far the toughest one we'll see all year. Times were probably 30 seconds slower than they would have been on a course like we've run on earlier."

Kavanaugh said Dalton defeated Kearney's number two runner for the first time this season and Chvala was just three seconds behind the Kearney runner. The 'Cats are off this week but will return to action the following weekend as they host the LeRoy Simpson Invite on the eighth.

Wayne volunteers form paint brigade

The volunteer Paintbrush Brigade will be formed in Wayne again this year according to sponsors, KTCH radio station, the Knights of Columbus in Wayne and Wisner True Value Hardware.

Part of a national promotion sponsored by Country America magazine, True-Value Hardware and country music radio stations, the Paintbrush brigade program seeks to help home owners who are elderly, disabled or on fixed incomes with the upkeep on their homes, explains Alan Finn, Grand Knight with the Knights Council in Wayne.

This year the group has designated the home of Mary Glass at 312 West 8th as the house of attention. Volunteer crews will be working Thursday and Friday evening Sept. 29 and 30 preparing the home exterior for painting. Actual application will begin Saturday and is expected to be completed on Sunday, said Finn.

Volunteers can help at any time he said. Designated work hours will be 5 to 7 p.m. Thursday and Friday, 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday and 1 to 7 p.m. Sunday. Volunteers are welcome to call Finn at 375-3325 or just drop by the work site, he said.

"Taking part in the Country America Paintbrush Brigade will give us a great opportunity to show our commitment to this community and promote community spirit at the same time," said Mark Ahmann, station manager at KTCH.

ESTROGEN TO PREVENT TOOTH LOSS?

Gum Disease generally is considered to be the primary cause of tooth loss in adults. However, there is new evidence that osteoporosis may also play a role in tooth loss. In a study of postmenopausal women ages 41 to 71, it was found that those who had lost the most teeth also had the lowest bone density. Low bone density is a sign of osteoporosis.

Osteoporosis is a chronic disease that primarily affects women after menopause. Bone weakening and fractures may occur, especially in the small bones of the back. Hip fracture is not uncommon. Prevention involves a three-step approach: 1. exercise such as walking, 2. lifelong attention to getting adequate calcium in the diet, and 3. estrogen replacement after menopause. Estrogen is a prescription medicine that has been available in tablet form for many years. Now estrogen also comes in skin patches.

the Nebraska Community College Association, said the colleges have a cap on their levy at 11.5 cents, plus 1.8 cents for capital construction. He said another levy of about 1 cent has been allowed to meet government regulations on hazardous materials and accessibility to the handicapped.

The six colleges received about $44 million in property tax revenue and $34.5 million in state funds in 1993-94. Tuition provided about $19.5 million.

John Harms, president of Western Nebraska Community College, told the newspaper that the two-year colleges make up only 3 percent of the money raised through property taxes around the state. If the state wanted to decrease property taxes, it will consider taking public schools and city and county governments off property tax rolls, he said.

"I think we would be at risk, quite frankly," Harms said. "I don't think we have enough political clout ... to stay sound" without the property tax.

Competing with the University of Nebraska system would be a losing proposition, he said. NU has a large problem with deferred building maintenance and can't get adequate funding from the state to meet those needs, he said.

"If they can't do it, you know darned well we can't get it," Harms said.

The community colleges boast the ability to serve local business needs with special training programs assembled at short notice. Harms said the two-year colleges were given the power to levy a property tax to acknowledge their service to unique local needs.

Joe Preusser, president of Central Community College in Grand Island, said that requesting funds from the state for special industry or agriculture programs would slow the two-year colleges' responsiveness.

The Golden Years

By: Connie Dishrow

Day care centers for the elderly are multiplying rapidly throughout the United States. For one thing, they serve elderly parents who live with working couples and who cannot reasonably remain home alone all day. These centers differ greatly in the extent and quality of services. Regulation now varies from state to state, but the National Council on Aging is calling for uniform accreditation standards. In choosing an adult day care center, experts advise, look for a safe and clean environment, a trained staff and activities appropriate to an elder's condition.

Robert Haas, of Valhalla, New York, won medals for bravery as an Austrian army officer in World War I. But he had to flee Austria after the Nazis took over in 1938. In the United States he resumed his career and operated a studio noted for exquisite graphics and hand-press publishing. At age 95, Haas received a rare tribute. Austria's consul in New York presented him with one of that country's highest decorations for life-long achievements in printing, calligraphy and photography.

TECHNOLOGY LAB

"We no longer are just a trades and industry class, we have broadened our base to technology education," says Winside high school instructor Bill Dalton. "With the completion of our new 1,000 square foot lab (which was 320 sq. ft.), we now have 10 modular computer stations and room to expand. Students will be using computerized animation, computer aided drafting, hydraulics, pneumatics, computer application, computerized numerically controlled mill, robotics, flight simulation and telecommunications. We have one modem which makes us capable of getting information from anywhere in the world. We use IBM Works and Windows programs. Over half of the computers and printers have either been donated or were purchased using federal grant monies."

Taking these technology classes are both male and females in grades 8 through 12. Students can choose from career cluster or technology classes which include 1, communications, 2, manufacturing, 3, construction, 4, transportation, including land (automobiles, etc.), marine (boats, etc.) and aerospace. Career Cluster classes include automotive, auto body, welding, construction and small engine. The lab expansion was completed Sept. 19 by the students in the 11th and 12th technology and computer application classes.

"I would like to thank the school administration and school board for approving this expansion to give the students more computer access. I would also like to thank Rod Tompkins of Heritage Homes for donating the counter tops, formica and trim; Richard Jenkins and Harding Glass for the window donations; Cory Poppe and Chris Fischer for laying the carpet;

Jeremy Keenan and Kent Damme for the murals and painting; and my wife, Kathy for running for materials and painting."

Outside of Mrs. Eileen Jager's first grade class were pictures of most of the staff and teachers with a one or two line statement about each written by one of the students.

The Allen Community Club met on Sept. 19 at the Village Inn for a 6:30 p.m. dinner and 7 p.m. meeting. Nine members were present. Sheila Schroeder, president, called the meeting to order. The secretary's report was read and approved.

Items of old business dealt with plans for the July 1-2 alumni reunion. Dean Chase reported that no more action had been taken on a sand volleyball site. A tentative schedule of Community Club sponsored activities was made so Kathy Boswell can put the information in the next Allen Update.

The dance will be held on Friday evening, June 30, hopefully in the new fire hall. A golf tournament will be held Saturday morning at the Wayne Country Club golf course. A sand or mud volleyball tournament will be held Saturday. Marcia is to ask Tom Wilmes if the FFA will supervise a muddle volleyball tournament if the sand volleyball pad is not finished by that time.

A community church service will be held Sunday morning with the Allen Ministerial Association deciding the time. A pancake breakfast will be held Sunday morning in the school. This will be sponsored by the Allen Community Club, who will furnish workers. Tours of the schoolhouse will be conducted throughout the morning by school annual staff. Tapes of centennial activities will be shown in various rooms of the school while the breakfast and tours are in progress. Dean Chase will ask the Wakefield Corvette Club and Sheila will ask Merle Von Minden if the motorcycle club would bring their vehicles to Allen on Sunday afternoon for display. A fun run at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday will conclude the activities for the weekend.

Other organizations are encouraged to also conduct activities throughout the weekend. It was decided to have the theme of "Company's Coming Again." This will encourage Allen residents to once again make the town attractive with cleaning up and planting flowers, preferably blue and gold. Mrs. Hedlund will be contacted so she can have blue and gold flowers available for purchase next spring.

A committee will be formed to make welcome signs to be put in business windows. There are also red/white/blue banners left from the centennial which can be used as well as the welcome alumni banner from the centennial.

Kathy Boswell, as chairman of the public relations committee for the town, has distributed three welcome packets to newcomers in town.

Joy Bock will be asked to supervise the Halloween party. It was decided to pay the expenses for this party. If teen and adult Halloween dances are held at the Village Inn, the Allen Community Club will give financial aid contributions to Ron Otte and supply the judges for the costume contest.

ASCS election set Oct. 6 in County

A list of the names of all known eligible people to receive ballots in the upcoming annual ASCS committee election will soon be available in the county ASCS office, reports Mike Dunklau, chairman of the Wayne County ASCS committee. Farmers will begin nominating candidates for the ASC election on Oct. 6.

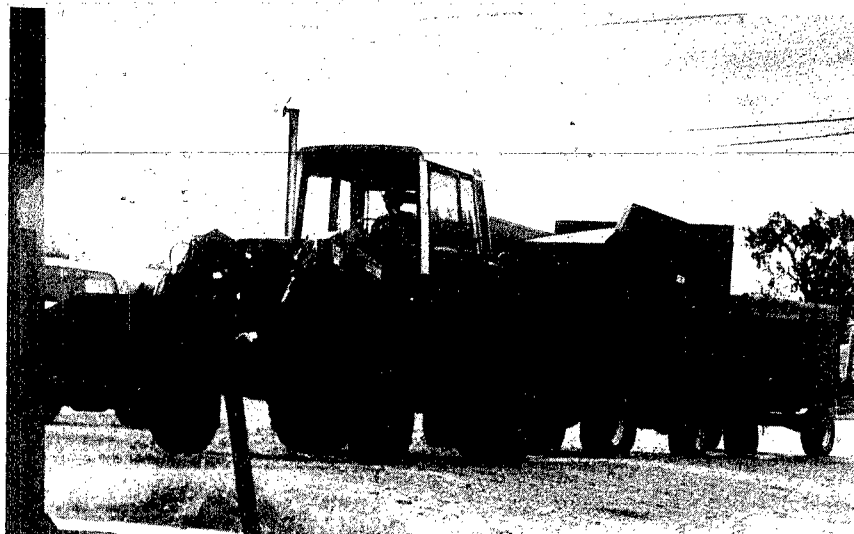

ASCS, an Agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, is responsible for farm program administration. On the local level, ASCS operates under a farmer-elected committee system. This year's election will be by mail ballot between Nov. 25 and Dec. 5. Voters may also get ballots at the county ASCS office.

Anyone who meets the following requirements is eligible to vote in these farmer committee elections: any individual of legal voting age with an interest in a farm—owner, operator, tenant or share-cropper who is eligible to participate in any ASCS program.

Several general provisions relate to ASCS voter eligibility. A wife who operates a farm with her husband can vote if her name is on the deed of conveyance. Any person or legal voting age can vote if he or she runs a farm, and a legal guardian who runs a farm for a child can vote for the child. No person can be denied the right to vote because of race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, marital status or handicap.

A person may cast a ballot in any county in which he or she is an eligible ASC voter, but he or she cannot vote in more than one community. If an eligible voter has separate farm interests in more than one community in the same county, special care will be taken to see that only one ballot is issued to that voter.

Soybeans on the move

Area farmers got an early start on harvest the last two weeks but the work was halted by rains late last week. The harvest got started several weeks ahead of last year's wet and cool growing season.

Grain rule reminder is issued

Teresa Post, Executive Director of the Wayne County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) says grain mortgaged to the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) must not be removed or disposed of before repayment of the loan or approval of release authorization.

"Removal or disposal of farm-stored grain under loan without our permission constitutes a federal violation and could result in severe penalties," Mrs. Post said. Unauthorized removal or disposition of reserve grain or grain under regular loan will result in the assessment of liquidated damages and immediate repayment of the loan plus interest applicable to the quantity. In some cases, Mrs. Post said, the loan may be called, future farm-stored loans may be denied, and investigation by the Office of the Inspector General may be required.

"Before moving any farm-stored grain mortgaged to the CCC, farmers should contact our office for specific details," Mrs. Post said.

Producers must obtain ASCS approval before commingling, rotating, moving or selling CCC loan grain. If the grain is to be used for feed, the producer must repay the loan before removing the grain from the storage bin.

The ASCS price support and grain reserve programs authorize loans to farmers who hold their grain off the market to benefit from price increases that often come after harvest. The mortgaged grain must be stored in an approved storage facility.

Raising a stink over 'cow tales'

Cows -- and their tail ends specifically -- have been in the news lately. If you've missed these cow tales, why, you are just not paying attention.

Much has been made of primates learning to communicate with human sign language, but any pet or livestock owner knows that animals communicate all the time. In the primate research, the subjects learned to communicate with signs recognizable to humans. With cows, it works the other way: humans just need to learn what the cows' signs mean.

According to a Purdue University scientist, a cow's tail positions tell the tale. A tail pointing straight down indicates she's relaxed enough to graze or walk. But a tail between the legs means she's cold, sick or frightened. If she were an indoor cow, this would be a good sign that your living room carpet needs some cleaning real quick. In other words, you can safely transfer some of your dog tail knowledge to the bovine species. But let Fido try to pull off this one: a kink in her tail means that Bessy is in a playful mood, and you had better watch out.

Jeff Severson's cows probably had their tales tucked between their legs when a tornado struck his Wisconsin dairy farm recently. Severson was saved from being crushed to death when the roof of his dairy barn collapsed after being struck by the tornado. He was pinned between two dead cows, whose bodies shielded him from being crushed by 16,000 bales of hay which fell from the loft above.

Midland View

By Cheryl Stubbendieck

Nebraska Farm Bureau

Severson lost 75 of his 125 dairy cows to the tornado, but he's grateful to those who saved his life. "If the cows hadn't been in the barn, I'd be dead," is how he explains it.

On the other side of the world, Indian farmers have been saying nice things about their cows -- or rather, about their cows' manure. The farmers hurled handfuls of manure at police in New Delhi and shouted, "Indian dung is better than Dutch dung," to protest a government plan to import three million tons of manure from the Netherlands.

The Indian farmers said their cattle produce enough manure to meet domestic needs and that imports of foreign dung should be out of the question. According to a wire service, they raised quite a stink about it.

No word about whether their cows' tails were kinked.

Cow-calf course helps managers

An 11-lesson course designed to assist cow-calf producers and farm and ranch managers make management decisions for improving profitability is being offered by the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension and Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, said Rod Patent, Wayne County Extension Educator.

"This educational opportunity allows the participants to learn without making a large time commitment away from their family," said Patent. Many beef producers, veterinarians and agribusiness people find it difficult to be away from their business for courses offered every week for six to 10 weeks. This course allows those participating to sharpen their cow/calf management knowledge within the comfort of their home or office.

Participants involvement will be encouraged through answering questions on a weekly problem set or quiz. The course will begin the week of Nov. 28. Return the completed quizzes to the Wayne County Extension Office and another lesson will be mailed along with the corrected quizzes.

Seven NU Extension Educators designed the course to address nutrition, economics and forage utilization at a basic level. Topics include goals for the cow/calf producer, basic cow nutrition, nutritional needs of heifers, basic ration formulations, forage analysis and inventory and perennial forage production.

"Production of annual forages and alfalfa, grazing strategies, intensive grazing management and determining the costs of feed rations will also be covered," said Patent.

The $40 fee includes all educational materials plus a three-ring binder to help you organize lesson materials. Each person completing the 11 lessons and quizzes by March 1, 1995 will receive a certificate of completion. The registration deadline is Oct. 24.

For more information or to receive a registration form, contact the Wayne County Extension Office at 510 Pearl Street, Wayne, NE 68787, phone 402-375-3310.

Public comment requested on wool price

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation has asked for public comment on the support prices for pulled wool (wool on unshorn lambs) and mohair for the 1995 marketing year.

The National Wool Act of 1954, as amended (the Wool Act), the two-year phaseout of the wool and mohair programs began with the 1994 marketing year. Producer payments for the 1995 marketing year will be calculated using the support prices covered by this proposed rule, but will then be reduced by 50 percent in accordance with the Wool Act. The Wool Act is in effect through Dec. 31, 1995.

The Wool Act provides that the support price for pulled wool -- the wool removed from the pelts of unshorn, slaughtered lambs -- be set at a level relative to the shorn wool support price that will maintain normal pulled wool marketing practices. This provision has been implemented in the past through payments based on the live weight of unshorn lambs marketed.

The Wool Act also provides that the mohair support price be set at a level to maintain about the same percentage of parity as for shorn wool. Under the Wool Act, the mohair support price may be set at not more than 15 percent above or below the shorn wool parity percentage.

The shorn wool support price is determined by a formula specified in the Wool Act. Based on the current reported parity index, the 1995 shorn wool support price will be $2.12 per pound, grease basis.

The proposed regulation is scheduled to be published in the Federal Register on Sept. 16.

Comments on the proposed regulation should be sent to Director, Fibers and Rice Analysis Division, Room 3760, USDA/ASCS, P.O.

Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013-2415 and must be received by Oct. 17. A preliminary regulatory impact analysis on the options considered is also available from that office.

Price hikes predicted for off-road farm fuels

New emission standards for off-highway diesels could lead to slight price increases on some farm and construction equipment, according to Robert Grisso, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln engineer.

The new emissions standards adopted by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency regulate all new off-road compression ignition (CI) engines of 50 horsepower or more, Grisso explained. Those types of engines are used in large, heavy-duty farm and construction equipment like tractors, irrigation systems, combines and so on. The vast majority of CI engines run on diesel, but the new standards apply regardless of the type of fuel used, he said.

The new standards regulate the nitrogen oxide emissions and smoke of all CI engines of 50 to 175 horsepower. Engines of 175 horsepower and above also are regulated for hydrocarbons, carbon monoxide and particulate matters. Grisso said the regulations were designed to be compatible with California and European standards.

The total national average annual cost of the new standards is estimated at $55 million. Some of that cost will be passed on to consumers. However, the overall impact on individual consumers shouldn't be too overwhelming, Grisso said.

"I don't think we'll see a large increase, in my opinion. Maybe $500 to $1,000 on a 150 horsepower tractor," the engineer said.

To ensure that durable emission systems are constructed, the EPA is requiring manufacturers to warranty all emission-related components for five years or 3,000 usage hours from the date of purchase. During the warranty period, the manufacturer is liable for all costs of repairs and replacements of the emission-related components. The EPA also will have the authority to recall engine classes that don't meet emission standards during a seven-year/6,000 usage hour testing program.

The EPA plans on introducing the standards for each engine size at staggered intervals. Regulations on 175 to 750 horsepower engines are set to go into effect on Jan. 1, 1996. Regulations covering engines with 100-175 horsepower and 50-100 horsepower will follow later, on Jan. 1, 1997 and Jan. 1, 1998, respectively.

Although all of the dates are tentative, Grisso said he expects the first set of standards to go into effect basically on schedule in early 1996. Consumers probably can expect the first price hikes caused by the new standards to show up then too, he said.

There also will be new standards for small spark-ignited engines under 25 horsepower (most often used in lawn and garden equipment). The target date for implementing those regulations is August of 1996, the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources engineer concluded.
