Cheapest taxes near Winside; Hoskins highest

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

If you want the lowest taxes in Wayne County, you have to move your house to tax district 35195 which is near Winside. The single property owner who makes up the district will enjoy the lowest property tax rate in the county next year according to the tax levy calculations released today by Wayne Clerk Deb Finn.

Who will suffer the highest taxes next year? The dubious honor goes to residents in Hoskins whose property is included with the Norfolk School District. There a typical $50,000 property assessment will draw tax bill of $1,443.20 next year.

THE PROPERTY owner in the lowest rate district which is a small area northwest of Winside would pay only $831.20 for the same $50,000 property assessment.

The county is divided into many taxing districts based on combinations of fire protection district boundaries and school district affiliations explained Mrs. Finn.

Tax rates certified this week mean slight increases for most property owners in the county. Residents in Hoskins who are a part of the Winside school district saw their taxes go down nearly three tenths of a percent, which means a $50,000 piece of property there will have a $3.50 reduction in taxes.

Sholes residents may sputter a little when they get their tax bills this year. They experienced the largest percentage increase in taxes in the county at 23 percent. A $50,000 property there will cost $1,019 in taxes next year, up $190 from last year.

IN WAYNE, the combined tax rate shows a 3.2 percent increase. The typical $50,000 property owner will have to dig $40 deeper in his or her pockets to pay the tax bill in Wayne this year. The increase was arrived at by combining a 7.2 percent decrease in city tax levy with 8.8 percent increases from the Wayne School District and 3.5 percent from Wayne County. Several other taxing entities which levy taxes throughout the county also passed increases on to their patrons.

THOSE INCREASES included, 2.8 percent for the Wayne County Ag Society, 2.7 percent for Educational Service Unit #1, 11 percent for Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District and 5.8 percent for Northeast Community College. In Wayne over 51 cents out of every property tax dollar will be going to schools. Seventeen cents will be going to fund the Wayne

It's the year of the pheasant

By Jim Reece
For the Herald

With the start of the pheasant hunting season just over a month away, local enthusiasts have already begun to look forward to what many predict will be the best hunting conditions in years.

"This season looks excellent," said Lonnie Matthes, an official with local Pheasants Forever chapter. "It has all the makings of becoming one of the best years we've had. The spring hatch went well, conditions were ideal," he added.

The only down side to the prospects of a great hunting season according to Matthes is, "I don't get to hunt enough."

THE ECONOMIC impact of the hunting season on the community of Wayne rivals the impact of the Chicken Show in attracting tourist dollars to Wayne Chamber of Commerce figures show.

But most of the effort placed into enhancing pheasant habitat in the area has not been directed at increasing tourist dollars. Most of the work is done by local hunters for the love of hunting.

"I can't wait for the hunting season to begin," said Donovan Doescher, "I've got myself a new dog and I'm pretty fired up."

There's a great number of pheasants out there to get fired up about, said Marion Shafer, who has been the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission conservation officer for Wayne, Madison and Pierce counties for over 28 years.

"IT LOOKS LIKE it is going to be a good season," said Shafer. "There's quite a bit of birds in the Wayne area this year." Shafer emphasized the safety issues reminding hunters that they can never be too careful and reminding young hunters from 12 to 16 to carry their Nebraska Hunter Safety Cards while out in the field.

Doescher and Matthes also encouraged other hunters to observe the rules of hunter etiquette.

"I encourage hunters to seek out a place to hunt and receive permission from the landowner beforehand. We need to respect the land and the landowners," said Matthes.

Doescher said sometimes hunters can create problems for future hunting and landowner relations when they do not ask permission before hunting.

"FOR THE MOST part it runs smoothly," he said of hunter/landowner relations locally.

Correction

A listing of county tax levies in the Tuesday Wayne Herald mistakenly credited the Winside School district with a 4.2 percent tax levy increase and the Wakefield District with a .9 percent decrease.

Those amounts were reversed. Wakefield went up 4.2 and Winside went down .9 percent.

Businesses may buy delinquents

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

Property owners with delinquent tax bills may be making their interest payments to an out of state company in the near future if steps aren't taken to clear past due balances, warns Wayne County Treasurer Leon Meyer.

Equivest Financial, a company from East Lansing, Mich. is working in Wayne County with the stated plans to buy the 1991 and 1992 delinquent taxes, reports Meyer.

"When this happens local property owners' interest payments will be going out of state rather than staying in Wayne County to benefit local government subdivisions," said Meyer.

He said he has heard of at least three out of state companies buying up delinquent taxes in Nebraska counties.

"They want the 14 percent interest that the state allows on the delinquent taxes," said Meyer. He said that is better interest than most other investments can earn and thus is lucrative for the businesses involved.

Meyer estimated that the county has between $50,000 and $60,000 worth of delinquent taxes on the books involving over 120 property owners.

He said he hopes the property owners with delinquencies will come in and pay them up to avoid the out of state capital drain that is threatened by the investment company's maneuver.

"This tax sale can be stopped only by the owners' quick action of paying these delinquent taxes as soon as possible," said Meyer. He encouraged land owners with questions to call his office immediately at 375-3885.

City votes to annex three tracts of land

By Tom Mullen
For the Herald

The Wayne City Council voted Tuesday to annex a parcel of land East of the current City boundary and lying South of Highway 35.

The land includes three separate parcels owned by Cityside Parks, Inc., Wayne Consignment, and Scott Thompson. Councilman Doug Sturm had been contacted by Thompson, who was concerned that annexation of his land would prohibit him from grazing cattle there, to which City Administrator Joseph Salitros stated that the current zoning, which is residential, already prohibits livestock, and any grandfather rights that Thompson may have, will be lost if he fails to have livestock on the land for a six month period. Stan Baier, co-owner of Wayne Consignment requested that the City not annex his land. Citing the additional taxes that his customers would have to pay Baier suggested that annexation would have a detrimental effect on his business. Baier noted that he receives no city water or sewer services and further told the Council that if annexed, he would suggest to his partner that, "We sell the land and move to property outside the city."

The Council, reaffirming its earlier goal to square off city boundaries, voted 5 - 3 on a first reading to annex all three parcels. Doug Sturm, Pat Prather and Patty Wieland cast the dissenting votes.

In other business, the council approved the purchase of a $120,000 tub grinder from Jones Manufacturing of Beemer. Jane O'Leary and Ralph Barclay voted against the acquisition. O'Leary feared unforeseen or hidden maintenance costs and Barclay was concerned over the additional manpower needed to operate the machine. Public Works Director Vern Schulz told the Council that the City was in danger of losing a $70,000 grant already in the bank, if the City did not proceed with a purchase soon. The grinder will be used to replace the burning of wood within the City, and the woodchips produced by the grinder will be used as mulch and playground material and the eventual sale to private parties.

Veterans host Norfolk group for meal

By Clara Osten
For the Herald

Twenty-two residents of the Norfolk Veterans Home in Norfolk were served a fried chicken supper at the Wayne VFW on Monday evening.

The event was co-sponsored by Wayne American Legion Auxiliary Post #43, VFW Auxiliary Post #5291 and by the Disabled American Veteran Post and Auxiliary, Chapters 28. Twenty-six members from these organizations helped prepare and serve the meal.

Deb Schlecht, Activities Assistant said the residents of the Norfolk home are invited by local veteran's organizations to various events throughout the summer and early fall. "Because we are in a rural area and most towns have some type of VFW or American Legion, we get out as many as 10-15 times a month during the summer months," she said.

"I usually have two or three volunteers with me to help with the loading and unloading of passengers. Sometimes we go quite a distance. We usually go in the afternoon or early evening so we can get back to Norfolk by dark," said Schlecht.

Chris Bargholz, a member of the local VFW and American Legion, assists in the loading of a veteran from the Norfolk Veteran's Home after Monday's supper.

organizations have been hosting the Norfolk group for more than 15 years. Eveline Thompson, one of those in charge of organizing the event said, "We raise funds for this event through the pancake feeds and poppy sales that are held throughout the year. Volunteers then sign up to work, either frying chicken, baking pies or serving and cleaning up." "In addition to this activity, our members also volunteer throughout the year to help with activities at the Norfolk home. We help by bringing snacks and donating prizes for the bingo games, help with pancake feeds and see to it that the veterans receive gifts at Christmas time," Thompson said.

One of those who were served on Monday was Theron Mitchell, a native of Orchard, Neb. He is a veteran of World War II who was stationed in the Aleutian Islands for four years. "I like to go places like this. This is the eighth time I have been out this month," he said.

Eddie Baier, another of the workers on Monday night said, "This is something these people look forward to each year. They like to get out and enjoy the different types of entertainment. We had accordion music for them to listen to. This is a good time of year also, because the weather is generally good."

At the present time there 110 members residing at Norfolk's Veteran's Home. "Most of these people are over 65 years old. We really could use people who are interested in volunteering who are younger," said Schlecht.

Pheasants

Nov. 5 and runs through Jan. 31. Three years ago, Wayne County was designated as one of the pheasant hunting hot spots in the nation by a national outdoor magazine. The national recognition has attracted wide attention from hunters throughout the country and has increased the local hunting pressure, requiring more attention to habitat development and encouraging hunter etiquette, say the local observers.

Pheasants Forever members planted over 5,000 trees this year alone in habitat development programs.

Tammy Gablenz and Annette Fluckey shared team honors in kill spikes with 14 each as Gablenz was 32-35 and Fluckey was 34-36. Lora Grant was 38-42 with 11 ace spikes and Jenifer Svitak was 30-32 with nine aces.

Jaime Melton notched 46 set aces while Grant led the servers with a pair of aces. Defensively, Grant paced WSC's attack with 11 digs while Gablenz had 10 and Kari Pichler, nine. Amy Gudmundson had five total blocks to lead the 'Cats.

WSC's second match ended in a straight games defeat to North Dakota State, 2-15, 1-15, 1-15. Fluckey and Svitak had three kill spikes to lead WSC while Melton recorded just nine ace sets. Grant, Svitak and Laura Pfister each had two digs.

Saturday, the 'Cats opened play against the host team, Moorhead State and lost despite winning the first game, 15-5, 7-15, 11-15, 12-15. Lora Grant notched 18 kill spikes on 32 of 34 attempts to pace WSC while Tammy Gablenz was 28-30 with eight kills.

Jaime Melton finished with 36 set aces and serving leaders were Gablenz and Laura Pfister as each had two aces. Gablenz also paced the defense with 13 digs while Melton and Jenifer Svitak had seven apiece. Annette Fluckey and Gablenz each had two blocks.

The 'Cats fell to Manitoba, Canada in the fourth match of the tournament, 8-15, 11-15, 13-15. Grant was once again the attacks leader with 13 kills on 18 of 20 attempts while Carol Sigdestad was 31-36 with 10 aces. Melton had 26 ace sets and Gablenz recorded five ace sets while defensively, Grant led the way with 10 digs while Jenifer Svitak had eight.

Grant also had a team high three blocks while Svitak and Pfister had two apiece. The final match of the tournament went the distance but WSC fell to North Dakota University, 7-15, 8-15, 15-3, 15-8, 10-15.

Lora Grant led a balanced attack with a dozen kill spikes on 31 of 35 attempts while Annette Fluckey was 32-34 with 10 aces. Tammy Gablenz had nine kills on 21 of 24 attempts and Amy Gudmundson was 18-20 with nine aces.

Kari Pichler recorded 31 set aces in the match while Jaime Melton had 14 and Fluckey was the leading server with three aces. Laura Pfister had a team high 14 digs while Grant had 11 and Fluckey, 10. Gablenz led the team in blocks with three.

"This tournament had some real quality competition," Vanis said. "We need to work on the mental edge of the game. I felt the only match we just plain didn't play well in was the North Dakota match."

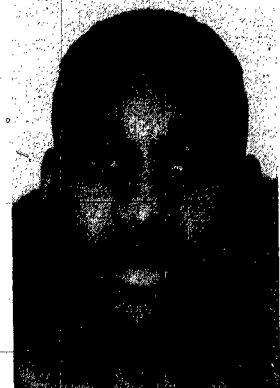

Vanis said despite the lopsided scores against NDSU, the 'Cats didn't play that badly. The 'Cats will travel to Brookings, S.D. this weekend for the South Dakota State Invitational.

BYRON CHAMBERLAIN was named the offensive player of the week against Winona State.

JEFF LUTT earned defensive player of the week for his performance in Minnesota last Saturday.

MIQUELITO MITCHELL was honored as the special teams player of the week because of aggressive play.

Wayne State to face good Wesleyan team

The Wayne State football team will look to improve on their 3-1 record when they play host to Iowa Wesleyan, Saturday at Memorial Field in a 1:30 p.m. kickoff.

The 'Cats are coming off a 33-12 victory over Winona State in Minnesota last Saturday. The host team scored all 12 of their points in the opening stanza before the Wildcats defense shut them out the rest of the way.

WSC tallied 478 total yards including 259 through the air and 219 on the ground. Redshirt freshman Jared Hendershot posted a victory in his first collegiate start in place of injured quarterback Ray Powers, who's expected back for the Kearney game.

Hendershot was 30-48 for 259 yards and three touchdowns with no interceptions. Senior receiver Byron Chamberlain was on the receiving end of 13 of those passes for 113 yards and two scores. WSC's other standout receiver Jerry Garrett, caught nine balls for 86 yards.

The 'Cats ground attack was led by Jason Williams as he rushed for 143 yards while Lamont Rainey darted for 99. The defense limited the host team to just nine completions in 45 pass attempts.

Junior linebackers Jon Adkisson and Jeff Lutt had outstanding games with Adkisson leading the team with 10 tackles while Lutt finished with eight including two quarterback sacks to run his season total to eight sacks after just four games.

Dion Johnson also had a fine game, garnering seven tackles and blocking a field goal into the second quarter. Last week's players of the game as selected by the coaching staff included Chamberlain on offense, Lutt on defense and Miquelito Mitchell on special teams because of his aggressive play.

Chamberlain was also named the NCAA Division II Player of the Week in Nebraska on offense.

Wagner said Iowa Wesleyan will be a very quality football team. "They are very talented. They will be the best team we've seen this season," Wagner said. "They have a lot of weapons on offense and defense. We should be able to beat them if we play the way we are capable of. We can't afford to have a poor first half like we did against Winona State because if we do, this team will beat us."

UNL transfer Elder leaves Wayne State

Former Sioux City West standout football player Jon Elder with drew from classes at Wayne State College and returned to his home in Sioux City, recently.

Elder, a transfer from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln to WSC earlier this fall cited personal reasons for his leaving the Wayne State campus.

Wayne State football coach Dennis Wagner said he knew Elder

Iowa Wesleyan will enter Memorial Stadium with a 3-1 record with its only loss coming on opening day against an NCAA-I AA team in Western Illinois.

The Tigers average 287 yards a game on offense but give up 295 yards a game. The weakest part of the defense seems to be the rushing game as opponents are averaging nearly 180 yards a game on the ground.

Wayland Rucker leads Wesleyan's offensive ground attack, averaging 109 yards a game. "They are very aggressive," Wagner said. "They really come after you. They have several Division I transfers at running backs and tight end."

Iowa Wesleyan lost to WSC by a 41-12 margin last year but the Tigers finished the year with a very respectable, 8-2 record. Since their loss to the 'Cats, they lost just one game in their last 10 outings.

Wagner said. "We were a little disappointed that he didn't even tell us he was leaving." Wagner said Cornhuskers coach Tom Osborne is the one who released the information of Elder's leaving WSC to the media.

Allen falls to B-R

The Allen Eagles football team slipped to 0-4 on the season after a 54-6 setback at home against Bancroft-Rosalie last Friday night.

The Eagles lone score came in the first quarter on a one-yard run by Josh Snyder but they were unable to capitalize on other opportunities because of five turnovers all of which were turned into touchdowns by the visiting Panthers.

Bancroft took a 34-6 lead into intermission and then ended the contest late in the fourth quarter due to the 45-point rule. "We just don't have enough team speed," coach Warren Jensen said. "Bancroft had 13 carries of more than 10 yards. If we don't get the tackle from our linebackers or lineman and the backs break through into the secondary we just don't have enough speed to catch up until they've gained a good amount of yardage."

Bancroft rolled up 374 yards on the ground and the Panthers never attempted a single pass while Allen rushed for 181 yards and passed for 20 for 201 total yards.

Craig Philbrick had an outstanding game despite the setback as he rushed for 120 yards on 27 carries. Philbrick was also the leading tackler on defense with 13 while Josh Snyder had a dozen tackles and a fumble recovery. Jason Mitchell had eight tackles and a fumble recovery and Mike Blohm had eight stops as well. "Something has to give this Friday," Jensen said. "We host another 0-4 team in Wynot so somebody is going to get that first win."

Conservation Award to NRD

The Nebraska Association of Resources Districts held its annual conference on Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 19 and 20 in South Sioux City. The conference was entitled "Mindfulness: Calling Us to Awareness and Action."

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District (LENRD) was represented at the conference with seven board of directors and six staff members attending.

The Soil Conservation Service (SCS) recognized the LENRD with an award at the noon banquet on Monday. Ron Moreland, the SCS State Conservationist, gave the LENRD a plaque in appreciation for their support of crop residue management, from 1991 through 1994.

Moreland commented that the LENRD has a long history of supporting crop residue management, and their recent contributions are especially significant. Some of the accomplishments during this time period were:

- Budgeting nearly $100,000 to hire temporary help in SCS offices that freed the staff for more technical duties.
- Budgeting over $50,000 for crop residue promotion such as demonstrations, tours and guest speakers.
- Hiring of hundreds of Vo-Ag and FFA students to measure residue for producers as a chapter activity and to show producers how to measure their own residue.
- Starting of a permanent crop residue plot with Northeast Nebraska Technical Community College. This plot will be used for both student and farmer education.
- Helping in the production of nine crop residue management "self-help" or "how to" video tapes. These tapes were used in SCS offices statewide and also had national interest.
- Nearly every community in the district was host to a crop residue workshop so producers throughout the district could easily get needed information.
- During this time period the amount of corn and soybean conservation tillage acres increased.
- The LENRD will continue its partnership in this effort.

WINDSURFING AT WILLOW CREEK

From the

Desk of the Superintendent

Dr. Dennis Jensen

There are programs the public school district offers to the community that many may not realize exist. Understanding the nature of these programs will better illustrate to the community the high level of caring the professional staff has for the needs of each child beyond academic performance. If for any reason, you suspect your child is having special problems relating to peers or if you notice any emotional problems that may hinder your child's performance in school, a visit with the principal will open avenues for help.

After visiting with the building principals, we have two counseling professionals with a wealth of experience in seeking help and support for students in need of assistance. Mr. Terry Munson is the high school counselor and Joan Sudmann is the middle school counselor. They have been trained in a variety of areas concerning individual and group counseling and are both responsible with the ability to keep matters confidential. Terry and Joan are familiar with helping agencies available within the community and from the region. If your child is having emotional or personal problems inhibiting performance in school, please see your school counselor.

Two programs added within the last four years with the expressed purpose of helping students with problems other than just in the classroom are the School Community Intervention Team or the SCIP program and the At Risk Program. The SCIP program contains five components to assist youth and their families experiencing difficulty which may or may not be related to the abuse of alcohol or other drugs. This program was developed jointly by representatives from both community agencies and the school system. Together the two form a network to address and resolve the problems often encountered by youth and their families.

The purpose of the SCIP team is:

1. To identify students exhibiting high risk behaviors which interfere with their ability to learn in the school. These behaviors may or may not be related to the abuse of alcohol and/or drugs.

2. To provide alternative approaches in helping students deal with these problems, and;

3. To provide a support system for students and their families to address problem areas both within and outside the school setting.

The SCIP program has 5 components, each of which assist students and their families.

1. Identification of students who exhibit problematic behavior.

2. Intervention with the students, parents and representatives from the school team to describe problem behaviors and to seek solutions.

3. Treatment at any community agency tailored to youth and families.

4. Support assists the students during or following treatment through groups staffed by SCIP team members.

5. Community coordination is essential to provide effective communication between school representatives, community leaders and treatment agencies. This allows the team to maintain its focus of helping the student and his/her family.

The SCIP team members sacrifice a great deal of their free time in the early morning hours and over the weekends to fulfill their responsibilities of being a member of the team. The community can be proud of the faculty members on the team — they are doing an important and needed service for the community.

The second program created to support students through difficult times as the At Risk project. Funded through a federal grant, this program includes study hall tutorial help with homework; a mentoring program which aligns helping adults in the community with students for adult/student interaction and the building of social skills; a work placement component for interested students; and, a part-time teacher to help students with specific problems related to coursework. It has been a very successful program in the past and, no doubt, without it some students would not have achieved increased success in the classroom or completed high school.

While these are two examples of how the faculty and staff serve the students in a caring manner, there are many other instances illustrating a high level of caring that happen on a daily basis in every classroom throughout the K-12 system. The vision statement for the school district is very accurate in what it implies: "The Wayne Public School District, working with the families and communities it serves, is committed to educational excellence for all students, promoting creativity and a love of learning within a caring and secure environment."

NEWS FROM SCHOOL

The Principal's Office

By Donald V. Zeiss
Students at Work

Most students work at a "part-time" job sometime during their secondary school career. Some jobs offer many opportunities for growth and self-actualization. Many, however, offer little but minimum wage and hard work.

Guidelines for working teens and parents include:

1. Limit part-time jobs to 15 to 20 hours per week.
2. Balance work with study, entertainment and rest.
3. Don't let the job interfere with school attendance.
4. Set aside time for homework.
5. Maintain involvement in some school activity.

Fifth Grade Science

During the past few weeks, the fifth graders at the Wayne Middle School have been involved in a science unit called "Be a Tree Sleuth." The unit is designed to give students opportunities to see objects around them and to hypothesize relationships among them. They were introduced to the process of taxonomy, and they eventually classified leaves and identified trees through the use of individual tree keys. The students were encouraged to bring leaves, seeds, branches and any other tree related materials for the "tree" center. It was interesting to see the large variety of tree species which are located in Wayne.

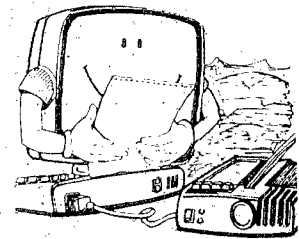

Since the leaves are changing color this time of year, this was an opportune time to learn why this happens. Through an experiment, it was learned that the chlorophyll in leaves breaks down due, in part, to the change in weather; and that process allows a leaf's true color to come through.

The students were given the opportunity to share the knowledge that they had gained from the unit by creating posters. The posters showed a tree that they had identified through the use of the tree key and also listed characteristics of the tree using scientific terms. Because no tree unit would be complete without leaf rubbings, the students created individual pictures using crayons and leaves of their choice to finalize the unit.

Compute it!

Congratulations to Mrs. Koeber for successfully setting up the Winnebago system. Mrs. Koeber has been working hard for the past two years to provide the students with the privilege of using such a system. The following are the six steps involved in library automation:

STEP 1: Meeting with a Winnebago Representative
 •Receive a hands-on demonstration of the software.
 •Learn which programs would be best for our school and what our hardware requirements are.

STEP 2: Order Winnebago Software products and services
 •Use of worksheets to itemize the software, accessories, supplies and data conversion services needed.

STEP 3: Prepare your collection for conversion to computerized records •Inventory library holdings and eliminate unwanted or low-usage materials.
 •Review shelflist cards for missing information that will be useful.

STEP 4: Install hardware, software, and network system
 •Prepare location for computer installations.

•Install hardware and peripheral equipment.
 •Install Winnebago software.

STEP 5: Customize your automation system
 •Set up loan periods, security levels, patron privileges and other aspects of your program.

STEP 6: Load material and patron data into system
 •Load computerized material records into computers.
 •Load patron data into circulation system.

This is the point where Mrs. Koeber was jumping for joy as our system was now ready to roll!!!!

"National School Lunch Week" is October 10-14. Eating times each day will be 11:15 a.m.

•Monday — first grade parents
 •Tuesday — second grade parents
 •Thursday — third grade parents
 •Friday — fourth grade parents

Please contact the elementary office two days prior to the day you will be eating. The phone numbers are 375-3854 or 375-5725. We are looking forward to seeing you.

Odyssey of the Mind Association

Mrs. Lutt

The Wayne Middle School is pleased to announce a new opportunity available to middle school students. We are now members of the Odyssey of the Mind Association. Odyssey is a creative problem-solving competition. Participation provides opportunities for students to develop problem-solving skills that are so vital today. An additional benefit of the Odyssey experience is the necessity of cooperative team effort. Any student may participate in the practice sessions. When competition time nears, teams of seven will be chosen to compete in two categories at two different levels. Students are judged on creativity, the process used and the degree of team work displayed during their presentation.

Middle School Strings

Bonita Day
 Middle School Strings are off to an excellent start. Our four weeks of summer playing really gave us a boost. Many good fifth grade players have elected to continue for the second year.

Calendar dates coming are Thursday, Oct. 6, State Ballet of Missouri, Black and Gold Series at WSC; Thursday, Nov. 3, our fall concert; Saturday, Nov. 5, grades 7, 8, 9 attend the Grand Island Junior High String Workshop all day. Parents are invited to a 4 p.m. concert. Information about the Siouxland Symphonette will be available soon.

The $30 rental fee for school instruments is due. Please take care of this as soon as you can.
