Local entities ready as ADA rules take effect

By Clara Osten Of the Herald

By Thursday, Jan. 26, 1995 all state and local government agencies are to have completed plans to end discrimination of the basis of

The Americans With Disabilities Act, passed in 1990, requires all government facilities and programs be accessible to citizens who experience disabilities. Agencies are required to provide equal opportunity to those with disabilities to use and participate in government programs, activities

In Wayne, the act affects Wayne State College, the city of Wayne, Wayne Public Schools and the Wayne County Courthouse

BOB LOHRBERG, Director Administrative Services at Wayne State College, said, "Wayne State College was in pretty good shape when ADA was passed. We have actually been working on providing accessibility for those who are physically challenged since the 1970's and are still working.

"We have done a survey of the entire campus and identified areas that needed change. Our goal is to provide reasonable accommodations and to make our services available to all students," said Lohrberg.

The latest project undertaken by the college to assist those with disabilities was to put up signs on each of the buildings on campus indicating the location of accessible entrances to the building.

"THE CHANGES that have taken place in recent years have given hope to those who may have otherwise felt college was not an alternative to them. Technological changes have made it possible for some of those who are disabled to accomplish what was unthinkable just a few years ago,"

Lohrberg.
The city of Wayne has budgeted money to make areas of the city more readily available to those who are physically challenged. City Administrator Joe Salitros said improvements have been made at City Hall, in the parks and through the sidewalk improvement project.

"We have lowered the counter in the city clerk's office and added handicap accessible restrooms in the building. While the present library is not fully accessible without the assistance of staff members, it is possible to use this facility. This situation will be remedied with the construction of the new Library-Senior Citizen's Center," said

"WE HAVE tried to be responsive to citizen concerns in our improvements, especially in the area of our parks. Last summer we added handicap accessible swings in several parks and have budgeted money for more ADA pieces of equipment to be installed this summer. Money has also been setaside to construct a sidewalk through Bressler Park to make it

Wells gives 50-100 performances each year throughout the United States, demonstrating both the American and Mexican styles of roping. She has received numerous awards for her roping ability. Wells' presentation was funded by a grant from the Nebraska Humanities Council and was part of an all-night read-in at St. Mary's celebrating the 10th anniversay of Pizza Hut's Book-lt program which encourages reading. The Wayne Pizza Hut provided pizza during a snack for the nearly 50 students who participated in the Read-In. Participants also enjoyed a sing-along, campfire songs and a movie.

Motor voter law means clerk work

The implementation of Motor Voter registration programs have more than doubled the number of voter registration filings in Wayne County in the first weeks of January reports Deb Finn, Wayne County

Under the new federal mandate, residents renewing their driver's licenses or visiting welfare offices can register to vote at the same time.

Mrs. Finn said the 23 new registrations that have come through since the new law took effect this month have been about double the number of a previous period. She said however, that a fourth of the new registrations are duplicates.

The new law places an increased record-keeping and processing burden on the clerk's office and Mrs. Finn said she is not sure the law will resulting greater numbers of voters going to the polls.

For change of address and regis-tration name changes, the new system will be beneficial she said because voters can change their address up until they cast their ballots on election day. They don't have to change registrations many days in advance of the election as the previous law required.

However, the downside will be additional record-keeping for election officials and special handling of those ballots. This will result in delays before the final tallies are in on election days, she said. Another effect of the new law will mean that with more registered voters, getting issues on the election ballot by petition will be more difficult because more petition signatures will be re-

Passed by Congress in 1993, the National Voter Registration Act was designed to eliminate some of the bureaucracy and legal technicalities that discourage some people from voting.

Last year, the Nebraska Legislature passed a bill to implement the federal law

Critics of the act said it would create more bureaucracy and be ex-pensive to implement.

Beermann said the measure could cost more than $738,000 in the first two years and mean more work for clerks and treasurers in the state's mand for quality farmland in Nebraska exceeds the number of good farms available, according to a national farm real estate company headquartered in Omaha.

"We expect the market to remain very stable in 1995 with some upward movement in values," said Monty Meusch, vice president for real estate for Farmers National Company

Gary Joseph, a real estate broker in Cambridge, said there is strong demand for good farmland in south-

Some irrigated crop land is selling for $1,500 to $2,000 per acre, he said this week. Some dry land is trading at $450 to $600 per acre, and some pasture land up to $250 per acre.
"I've talked to many landowners over the last year who are ready to sell, but he sitate to do so because of tax consequences," Meusch said. "If Congress acts on a major capital gains reduction, I'm sure we will see an increased number of farm

Co-pastors shepherd new church

Co-Pastors of the New Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne are the Rev. Frank Rothfuss and the Rev. Jack Williams.

By Stacey Schaller For the Herald

Two ministers were inducted as co-pastors of the new Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne Sunday. Special services were held at Wayne State College for the unique induction, which was a continuation of the season of celebration over the consolidation of St. Paul's and Redeemer Lutheran churches.

Inducted in the gala service at Ramsey Theatre were the Rev. Frank Rothfuss and the Rev. Jack Williams who will jointly shepherd the newly combined Lutheran flock associate. Their Girlinghouse, who had been the associate pastor of Redeemer and Campus Ministry coordinator had also been scheduled to be inducted as associate pastor at the Sunday Service, but he was on the other side of the podium Sunday, helping conduct the ceremonies.

He told the congregation last weekend that he would be leaving. Wayne to accept a call to become the campus pastor at the University of South Dakota, Vermillion.

Helping Girlinghouse perform the induction ceremonies was Marybeth Peterson, from the synod Bishop's office. Pastors and lay leaders from Wayne and surrounding areas also attended the service.

Sunday's induction service featured several musical numbers by the Wayne State College concert

The consolidation of St. Paul's and Redeemer has an interesting history. About two years ago, members began to question the necessity of having two Lutheran churches of the same association one block away from each other.

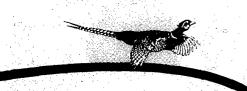

They wondered what relationship the congregations should have with each other.

As a result of that dialog, both congregations voted to consolidate into one church were put into motion. According to Pastor Rothfuss, the move to consolidate was "driven by the desire to do the best job of ministering to the needs of the people of the community." Consolidation was further accelerated by a fire which destroyed Redeemer's church building last summer,

Both pastors commented that the consolidation move was very evidently the work of God.

They see great potential for Our Savior in this community. As the positive momentum swings into full throttle, Pastor Williams believes, "The only thing that can stop it is if we go against God's will, ...or we decide that we do not want to dream dreams or have [positive] visions [for the future].

Both pastors see their different gifts and ministry styles as complimentary, so long as they continue to be obedient to God's direction.

Airfares are a bargain

Air Travel is currently a bargain out of Omaha advises the Trio Travel professionals in Wayne.

A round-trip ticket to Chicago is as low as $78 from Omaha now reports Becky Keidel with Trio Travel. She said airfares to other destinations from Omaha are reflecting similar savings.

Round trip to Washington, D.C. is only $178 and to many West Coast locations in only $198.

New competition for air carriers in the Omaha market has caused the fare wars, Mrs. Keidel explains.

Southwest Airlines, known for its low-cost, no frills travel, starts service at Eppley Airport this spring. Frontier Airlines stated service at Eppley last week and AirTran Airlines recently announced it would begin flying from Omaha this year

A record 2.56 million passengers flew from or to Omaha's Eppley in 1994 and airport officials, pointing to the new carriers, are predicting as Denver and Kansas City is the key to increasing travel from Omaha, said Don Smithey, executive director of the Omaha Airport Authority.

Airport officials are hoping to top last year's figures with a 20 percent increase in passenger travel this year due in large part to Southwest Air-more accessible," said Salitros.

We feel we have made an honest attempt to make improvements and be responsible to the public. We want all the public to have access to the buildings and programs we have available," said Salitros.

Through the sidewalk improvement project, which has been in place for several years, curbs have been dropped at nearly all intersections in the areas of the business district, the schools and the ball park, making it easier for those who are physically challenged to get to these areas, began the process of making areas more accessible three years ago. "This is an on-going process, not something that can be done in one summer. We are continuing to make the programs we have accessible to those who are physically challenged," said Dr. Dennis Jensen, Superintendent of Wayne Public Schools.

The rest room on the third floor of the Middle School has been made accessible and new playground equipment was put in this summer at West Elementary that is more accessible," said Jensen.

"We will continue to work on a case by case basis. We follow an Individualized Education Program (IEP) for each student in the Special Education program and work with the parents and those involved to make the programs accessible."

WOULD not financially possible to make all the changes at one time. Instead, this is a step-by-step process that will take time to complete, said Jensen.

The Wayne County
Commissioners have studied various proposals to make the Courthouse more accessible. A plan is in place and progress is being made toward making all areas of the building accessible to those who are physically challenged.

The Golden Years

By: Connic Disbrow

In 1900 there were 200,000 one-room schools in the U.S. By 1960 almost all had given way to consolidated schools. Many older people fondly recall their one-room schools with one teacher for all grades. The Shelly School in Richland Township, Pennsylva-nia, built in 1885, closed in 1957 and is preserved as a museum At a recent alumni reunion, a former teacher recalled that "everyone knew they had to be-have...everybody knew the rules...and what was expected of them."

In 1939 Herman Simms was 29, a struggling artist, when he won a grant to paint a mural in a Brooklyn, New York, school. He got $20 a week for the eight months it took to paint pupils in various activities. Simms became a fashion illustrator and portrait artist in Newport Beach, California. But every 12 to 15 years he returned to inspect the mural and sometimes to restore some deterioration. On a 1994 visit at age 84 he reported, "It still looks good." "I expect to see you (next time) when you're about 97 or 98," said the prinic-pal. "OK," Simms said.

Background checks are being encouraged on school employees

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) - Criminal background checks of prospective school employees is a necessity in Nebraska to ensure the protection of school children, says an Omaha school board member who supports a state law to allow such checks.

Unification needed

The Wayne County Commissioners did the right thing in voting to reject a lodging tax for Wayne County at last weeks meeting but we believe the issue should be revisited.

Citing discord between the Chamber of Commerce which proposed the three percent tax and the motel owners which opposed the measure, the commissioners said the issues should be settled before any tourism tax is implemented.

Wayne is the largest community in the state without a lodging tax and the funds generated would benefit the community events (and motel owners) by attracting more visitors.

The groups need to get together and work out the differences and then present a unified proposal to the commissioners.

A harrowing trip and mail to answer

The area is fortunate not to have to be looking for a pair of key education

Donovan Leighton, the school superintendent at Winside and Dave Lutt, the elementary principal at Wayne were returning from a meeting in Lincoln the week before last when their car collided with a dazed steer on the road.

"We're lucky to be alive," says Lutt, who now laughs about the incident but by the sound of things, there was little that was funny at the time when the big black steer loomed suddenly out of the darkness and came up over the hood of the car and through the windshield.

"There was absolutely no time to react," said Lutt. He said the black animal was invisible in the headlights of the car until a split second before impact. The accident occurred near North Bend and totaled the late model car Leighton was driving. They ran into the south end of the northbound steer.

Ask Dave to show you pictures of the car when you see him.

Lutt and Leighton were pinned in the car until rescue units freed them and transported them to the hospital. Even though the 1,200 pound steer landed on Lutt's side of the car, he came away from the mishap with nothing more than a small piece of glass in his eye and "some very shaky legs."

Leighton was knocked unconscious by the impact and suffered some nasty bruises. While still pinned in the car, Lutt notified the authorities of the mishap on the car's cellular phone.

The dazed animal, which was killed by the impact, was on the high wife after having fallen out of a truck authorities said.

The Wayne principal said the advice his mother gave him about wearing clean underwear in case of accidents was sound indeed. He said the emergency room professionals stripped him bare faster than you could say, "no body's business". It must have looked pretty bad, he related. He said he was covered with blood from head to foot, but all of it was the steer's.

Besides the underwear advice Dave is also advising friends and relatives to wear their seat belts. "I'm a real believer," he added.

Send letters to Stevie

Elsewhere on this page we find a letter from nine-year-old Stevie Samaan of Mission Veijo, Calif. who says he wants to be a Nebraskan some day and would like to hear from folks about what they think is neat about the state.

He's working on a report on Nebraska for his 5th Grade Class. I would encourage anyone interested to jot a note to Stevie and give him your personal impressions of our great state. Also send a copy to "Dear at the Wayne Herald. We'll publish all that we receive. Plus, we'll have a panel of 5th grade teachers from here in Wayne pick out the best response from local readers and we'll give that writer a free dinner for two to the restaurant of his or her choice in Wayne.

Here's what I'm sending:

"You are obviously a child of superior intelligence. I can tell by your writing ability and your focus on the future. Any child of nine who already has identified where he wants to live in the future and has the foresight to pick the best place on earth, must be in the gifted class. The fact that you want to leave California for Nebraska is further proof of your higher intellect. "When I was nine I still needed daily directions to the boys bathroom. It is nice to see you are making plans for where you are going years from now.

"I can answer your question about why Nebraska is such a great place to live in two words--it's people.

"Having lived in and visited many other places in the country, including

California, I can speak from experience. There's no other place like Ne-

The people here have a great work ethic and personal integrity. They'll look you in the eye and tell you what they think. They'll roll up their sleeves and work beside you on projects that make their community and their state better. And they like to have fun in the process.

"Nebraskans take pride in their homes, their schools, their communities and the state. They are willing to make personal sacrifices to ensure their young people have the best education opportunities available in the world today. Nebraskans are great stewards of what they have been given in natural and other resources. They work daily to try to make sure the future will be better than the past.

"People in Nebraska have a healthy sense of humor. They don't take themselves too seriously. We've been known to call ourselves hicks from the sticks. Sometimes we put ourselves down so others won't have the opportunity. It's called being dumb like a fox.

"Our big summer celebration here in Wayne is a tribute to chickens. We have contests where people win big bucks for imitating chickens, calling chickens, catching chicken eggs, singing about chickens or having legs and beaks that look like chickens. Ten thousand people attended the festivities last year and Parade Magazine named the Wayne Chicken Show the best contest in the country in its year-end edition last month.

"Oh, sure Stevie, we in Nebraska have our problems. No body's perfect.
We have a few soreheads and there is the crime problem. Here in Wayne last week the big problems on our police report were a missing bike and a dog that knocked over a lady's garbage can.

"Taken in perspective, however, I think you will find we probably are at the bottom in the nation in soreheads per capita. (Where does California rank on that scale?) And our crime problems seem laughable to some folks out your way.

"Well, Stevie, I hope I've helped you with your report and I hope others who read your letter will send you better examples about the greatness of Nebraska than I have. When you get your report done, would you send me a copy of it? I would like to share it with the newspaper readers. Hope you "A". Tell Ms. Austin that I said you should. Your Friend,

No lack of work for senators

By Melvin Paul Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

I INCOLN - The writers of the Nebraska Constitution gave state senators 10 days to introduce bills at the beginning of each legislative

And like always, state senators rushed proposals to the podium like Nebraska's offensive line in the fourth quarter of the Orange Bowl

But after introducing 884 bills and 36 constitutional amendments - likely a record for the beginning of a 90-day session — it wasn't Miami that was pounded into submission, it was the state's beleaguered press corps.

Don't get me wrong; it's an exciting time of year.

Mann

Overboard

By Les Mann

But reading "whereas" and "be it resolved" a hundred time a days can turn anyone's eyes bloodshot. So what will be the big issues? Here's the Mighty Mel forecast for 1995:

GAMBLING - Omaha is feeling the heat from Council Bluffs, Iowa, where riverboat casinos and video slot machines are soon to begin sucking in the dollars from the state's largest city. And the horse racing industry is still reeling.

So hang on tight; proposals to allow video slot machines and casino gambling will put the pressure on senators to allow expanded gambling in our state.

TAXES — Gov. Nelson has his income tax-cut proposal, but there is also a herd of ideas about broadening sales taxes to include food and services and relieving property

The property tax measures were all over the board; from allowing come taxes to eliminating property taxes altogether.

Plenty of farm-area senators want action (as do some angry citizens who are ready to fire up another petition drive) but there is little agreement among senators, and Gov. Nelson is content to leave the problem to local government.

CRIME — Senators want to get tougher on drunk drivers, create the crime of carjacking, speed up deathpenalty cases and guarantee rights for crime victims. The governor's got his plan to lengthen sentences for violent, repeat criminals, and several senators want more juvenile programs.

Something will be passed here but don't forget: the war on crime is an expensive game. Sen. Roger Wehrbein of Plattsmouth, who will guide the budget-making process colleagues of that, introducing a bill for a new 480-bed prison. The price tag: $54 million to build, $10 million a year to operate. WELFARE REFORM governor's welfare-reform bill is back, and opponents are loaded for bear. Sen. LaVon Crosby of Lin-coln, a kindly senator who fiercely defends the poor, already introduced a sort of "truth in legislation" proposal against the bill. She wants an estimate of the extra costs to counties and social agencies caused by dumping people off of welfare rolls and into the streets Urging people to work is one thing but consider this: it would be cheaper for the state to pay welfare mothers to stay at home with their children than to pay all the child support, job training and health care costs to get her into a job.

HEALTH CARE — The death of health-care reform efforts in Washington, D.C., has state legis-lators looking for local answers to the high cost of insurance and the large numbers of uninsured Nebraskans. One unique idea: health savings accounts, a tax-free account from which people can withdraw money to pay for cheaper health insurance with higher deductibles.

And we'll be writing a lot, un fortunately, about filibusters and fits launched by Omaha Sen. Ernie Chambers. Senators tried to pare back his arsenal of delaying tactics with a rule change last week but only succeeded in eliciting a promise from Chambers that he would bottle up the session in other

Focus on musics' quality

Dear Editor:

In response to Mr. Moomaw's letter

We too are great fans of Dr. Runestad's music. The Christmas concerts are wonderful and the Christmas madrigal dinners are even better. But Mr. Moomaw is imposing his own values upon the matter. What makes Dr. Runestad such a valuable employee of the college is the excellent quality of his music as well as the dignity of his leadership. We have also learned to appreciate his sense of humor, which he exhibits mainly at the mádrigals without detracting from his dignity.

If we thought for one minute that Dr. Runestad's main purpose at either the concerns or the madrigals is to promote sectarian religion, we would not be writing this letter. since he is a public employee and Wayne State is a public college. It is obvious to us that his main purpose is always the music, with or without the religion, and with or without the humor.

Let's keep it that way. Amen. Tom and Pat Cook Wayne

Your grandfather says she makes money disappear, especially when she's shopping for you grandkids. "Yeah! Neat! Anybody else?"

They're not relation, but we often spend more time with them with family, and that's the folk who do sleight-of-hand "mind magic" on television.

'Mind magic? What's that, dad?" You're old enough to understand, so sit down here and I'll explain. You see son, television has never been much about entertainment, it is mostly about power selling.

Yeah, sometimes I can't hardly watch cartoons because of all the commercials!"

The first illusion of television is that it is for entertainment. Actu ally, television is having a fullsalesman in your front room 'And they've got some really

So when your mom and I buy cereal, we're also paying for the advertising. But that is the way busiiess works. It's legitimate. And that doesn't bother me. It's what we don't see on TV that bothers me.
"Like what, dad?"

What bothers me is the unseen agenda, promoted by liberal minds to teach you, your pal Jimmy, and all the other children, to think in in ways. They can teach you to think a certain way about some-thing, and you aren't even aware you are learning it from them

"Wow, dad, that's super subtle magic!"

Unfortunately, the shrewd TV script-writing magicians do their work well. They scream and holler about violence outside an abortion clinic but never point out the daily killing inside the clinic, With an exact selection of words they believe they can convince viewers that abortion is not planned murder. They want to teach you, my son, that pornography is art, that you evolved from an ape, that the universe just popped out of nowhere, that you need not be responsible for your own actions, and that the media are the truth tellers, even when they attempt to rewrite history.

Why are they so interested in what I think?"

Inspirational speaker wows Winside audiences

By Diane Jaeger Winside Correspondent

David Okerlund, one of only two people to have twice finished in the final three of the World Championship of Public Speaking, presented programs to Winside students, teachers and parents in three separate programs at Winside on Thurs. Jan.19.

Okerlund presents over 100 keynote addresses and seminars annually in the United States and Canada. Last spring he was named one of 1993's "most professional speakers in America" by Sharing Ideas Magazine and has shared the platform with American greats such as Zig Zigler, Dr. Robert Schuller, acocca and Bob Hope.

Okerlund and his wife of 25 years reside in Clear Lake, Iowa. His philosophy in speaking and life is simply: "You'll never discover the best in life until you discover the best in you".

Thursday evening's lecture was titled "Raising Good Kids in Tough Times" and was structured on eight of the 17 commandments he has written for raising children.

He said, "Your mental attitude toward life has a lot to do with raising good kids in tough times. You don't need a fortune to raise them, you just need to open up your heart and say a lot of I Love You's'. Let your kids see the kid in you. Have fun, laugh and most of all, let them see you express your love for them and your spouse."
"Share your failures as well as your accomplishments with them, let them know you make mistakes and have problems. If you share with them, they will share with you," said Okerlund.

David Okerlund

Teach your kids it's OK to NOT be number one. Too many kids these days are committing suicide because if they aren't the best at something they do, they think they have failed."

Many children under the age of 12 today are being permanently physially and psychologically damaged from parents who are 'forcing them' to compete in sports and other activities that they are not equiped for. There have been at least fifteen cases of such suicides reported in Nebraska, Iowa and Minnesota over the past year and a half, Many times the moments you grow and learn the most are not the times you come home with the trophy," Okerlund said.

A survey taken in 1953 showed 93 counties. But Beermann said ignoring the federal law would force the U.S. Justice Department to consider felony charges against his office. The move is resulting in more voter registration, however.

Madison County Clerk Nancy Scheer said her office saw 10 times the amount of voter registration as a result of the new law in the first few days of January. But she, too, wondered if higher registration would mean better voter turnout.

In the first week of the motor voter law, driver's license examiners in Buffalo County had registered about 33 people to vote.

In Lancaster County, 210 people had registered in the first week at either vehicle licensing bureaus or at social service agencies.

Land ·

ker in Geneva, said area farmers and nonresident investors both are showing interest in farmland.

Nebraska lost 33 percent of its farm population in the 1980s, according to U.S. Census data. Experts blamed the drop on low income from small farms and youths seeking other jobs, among other rea-children's developing charactoer were, in order of importance: 1) family, 2) faith, 3) school, 4) peers, 5) georgraphy and 6) income. This same survey taken in 1993 showed the catagories in the following order of importance: 1) media (television. movies, etc.), 2) income, 3) peers, 4) family, 5) school, 6) geography and 7) faith. You can see from this survey that drugs and guns are not causing bad kids but what is happening in the home and family are causing the drug and gun problems," said Okerlund.

The eight commandments

Okerlund discussed were:

1) The first and greatest challenge is to learn to say, "I love you". The second and perhaps most difficult is to say "I'm sorry

2) Never give your child any extra love, any extra toys or any extra affection when they are sick. If you do, they'll soon learn it pays to be sick or bad.

3) Let your children not only get to know the parent you are, but also the child that is within you.

4) Teach them to strive but not

5) Teach them to desire but not to compare.

6) Teach them the balance between selfishness.

selflessness. 7) Be a breeze that gently caresses their sails, but let them control the rudder.

8) Take time before time takes

Okerland recommended parents read the humerous book, "Growing Up Isn't Hard To Do If You Start Out As A Kid" by David Heller.

One of Okerlund's favorite quotes was made by Dennis Rainey-The legacy you leave may be more important than the life you live; yet the life you live will determine the legacy you leave".

Okerlund was brought to Winside through the efforts of the SCIP (School Community Intervention Program) group. This group was organized two yars ago and is made up of Winside school personal. The group received grant money from the Drug Free School

Solving morning time problem

QUESTION: I have a horri-ble time getting my 10-year-old daughter ready to catch the school bus each morning. She will get up when I insist, but she dawdles and plays as soon as I leave the room. I have to goad and push and warn her every few minutes or else she will be late. So I get more and more angry, and usually end up screaming insults at know this is not the best way to handle her. Tell me how I can get her moving without this emotion every day.

DR. DOBSON: You are playing right into your daughter's hands by assuming the responsibility for getting her ready each morning.

A 10-year-old should definitely be able to handle that task on her own steam, but your anger is not likely to bring it about. We had a very similar problem with our own daughter when she was 10. Perhaps the solution we worked out will help you.

Danae's morning time problem related primarily to her compulsivity about her room. She will not leave for school each day unless her bed is made perfectly and every trinket is in its proper place. This was not something we taught her; she has always been very meticulous about her possessions. (I should add that her brother, Ryan, does not have this problem.)

Danae could easily finish these tasks on time if she were motivated to do so, but she was never in a a particular hurry. Therefore, my wife began to fall into the same habit you described, warning, threatening, pushing, shoving and ultimately becoming angry as the clock moved toward the

Shirley and I discussed the problem and agreed that there had to be a better method of getting through the morning. I subsequently created a system which we called "Checkpoints." It worked like this:

Danae was instructed to be out of bed and standing erect before 6:30 each morning. It was her responsibility to set her own clock radio and get herself out of bed. If she succeeded in getting up on time (even one min-ute later was considered a missed item), she immediately went to the kitchen where a chart was taped to the refrigerator door. She then circled 'yes" or "no," with regard to the first checkpoint for that date. It couldn't be more simple. She either did or did not get up by 6:30.

The second checkpoint occurred 40 minutes later at 7:10. By that time, she was required to have her room straightened to her own satisfaction, be dressed and have her teeth brushed, hair combed, etc., and be ready to be gin practicing the piano. Forty minutes was ample time for these tasks. which could actually be done in 10 or 15 minutes if she wanted to hurry Thus, the only way she could miss the second checkpoint was to deliberNow, what meaning did the checkpoints have? Did failure to meet them bring anger and wrath and gnashing of teeth? Of course not.

The consequences were straightforward and fair. If Danae missed one checkpoint, she was required to go to bed 30 minutes earlier than usual that evening. If she missed two, she hit the "lily whites" an hour before her assigned bedtime. She was permitted to read during that time in bed, but she could not watch television or talk on the telephone.

This procedure took all the morning pressure off Shirley and placed it on our daughter's shoulders, where it belonged. There were occasions when my wife got up just in time to fix breakfast, only to find Danac sitting soberly at the piano, clothed and in her right mind.

This system of discipline can serve as a model for parents who have similar behavioral problems with their children. It was not oppressive; in fact, Danae seemed to enjoy having a target to shoot at. The limits of acceptable performance were defined beyond question. The responsibility was clearly placed on the child. And it required no adult anger or foot

There is an adaptation of this concept available to resolve other thorny conflicts in your home, too. The only limit lies in the creativity and imagination that you bring to the situation.

QUESTION: If we are to believe the statistics we read today, infidelity has become extremely common in the Western culture. Why do people do it? What is the primary motivator that would cause a husband or wife to cheat--to even risk destroying their homes and families for an illicit

DR. DOBSON: Every situation is different, of course, but I have observed the most powerful influence to emanate from ego needs.

Both men and women appear equally vulnerable to this consuming desire to be admired and respected by members of the opposite sex. Therefore, those who become entangled in an affair often do so because they want to prove that they are still attractive to women (or men).

The thrill comes from knowing "someone finds me sexy, or intelligent or pretty or handsome." That person enjoys hearing me talk--likes the way I think-finds me exciting.

These feelings flow from the core of the personality-the ego--and they can make a sane man or woman behave in foolish or dishonorable ways.

RYAN PICK goes up for a slam dunk attempt during the Blue Devils win over Cedar Catholic, Friday.

Wakefield teams sweep Wynot Trojans win on road

The Wakefield girls and boys basketball teams swept Wynot at the Devil Dome last Friday night with Gregg Cruickshank's Lady Trojans winning by a convincing margin of 61-45 while Brad Hoskins boys came from behind to post a five-point win, 68-63.

"We had our best offensive performance of the season," Cruick-shank said as his Trojans jumped out to a 30-20 lead at the half and coasted from there. "We really did a good job of executing our offense and finding the open player," Cruickshank said. "Our goal on defense was to stop the dribble pene-tration by Wynot and I thought we did a nice job of doing that as well.

Jamie Paulson led the winners with 13 points while Amy Hattig tossed in 10. alison Benson scored nine and Mary Torczon added eight while Kristin Preston finished with six. Stacey Preston netted four to round out the offensive attack

Wakefield out-rebounded the host team, 31-27 with Torczon and Hattig sharing team honors with seven rebounds each. The Trojans did a good job of handling the basketball with 15 turnovers while forcing 24 and Wakefield was 11-23 from the foul line compared to 5 of 15 shooting from the charity stripe for Wynot.

Wakefield will host Laurel on Thursday before a rematch with Wynot at Wakefield on Saturday in irst round of the Lewis & Clark Conference Basketball Tour-

THE TROJAN boys team trailed Wynot by 13 points at the half, 38-25 but they crased the double-digit deficit to tie the game after the third quarter following a 23-10 advantage in the third stanza.

Wakefield continued its defensive intensity in the fourth quarter and out-scored Wynot, 20-15 to notch the five-point win. "We really didn't do anything differently in the second half on defense," Hoskins said. We just picked up the intensity a

The Trojans coach said his team just went through the motions on offense in the first half and stood around instead of being more aggressive. "We came out of the locker room and went on an 11-3 run to start the third quarter,' Hoskins said. "Then, Wynot an swered with an 8-0 run and we were still down by 13 with just over three minutes remaining in the

The Trojans went on another run-this time a 13-0 run sparked by Tory Nixon and when the run was over, the game was tied at 48. ## Wayne boys beat C-1 rated Cedar Catholic and Randolph

Rocky Ruhl's Wayne boys basthe rest of the Blue Devil opponent's this season after their play over the weekend. That message consisted of not taking them lightly after they defeated seventh-ranked Hartington Cedar Catholic on Friday, 72-65 and thumped Randolph, 64-48, Saturday.

Both contests were played in the friendly confines of the Wayne High gym. "It was a good week-end," Ruhl said after his team snapped a five-game losing streak and captured their first wins of

The 4-8 Blue Devils found themselves trailing Cedar Catholic by a 29-17 margin midway through the second quarter but Wayne caught up in a hurry and tied the game at 34 with under 30 seconds to go in the first half before Cedar's Jaime Jones canned a long 3-pointer to give his Trojans a 37-34 halftime advantage. **
The Blue Devils defense took a stand in the third quarter, holding Cedar Catholic to just seven points while Wayne tallied 15 to take a five point lead into the final staffza

Wayne led by double digit mar-gins on two occasions in the final period before settling for the seven point victory. "We got some quality minutes out of our bench players," Ruhl said. "Ryan Martin came in and did a real nice job for us

The player that made the difference, however, was senior guard Ryan Pick who lit up the Cedar Catholic defense for 27 points. "Ryan was in one of those zones you hear about every once in a while," Ruhl said. "He was 4-7 from 3-point range, 6-8 from two-point range and a perfect 2-2 in free throws. He really played a fantastic

Andy Witkowski poured in 17 points and Paul Blomenkamp tallied 15 while Martin scored seven. Joe Lutt and Jason Carr rounded out the scoring with four and two points, respectively.

At halftime the Blue Devils were being out-rebounded by Cedar Catholic and Ruhl said they talked about that in the locker room. Things changed in the second half as Wayne dominated the boards and ended up out-rebounding the visitors by a 33-23 margin.

Blomenkamp hauled down a me-high 12 boards while Pick had seven rebounds. Wayne had 12 turnovers in the game compared to just nine for the Trojans and Wayne throw line while Cedar was 4-11.

"Our defense played a very good game," Ruhl said. "I was especially pleased with the way we controlled the boards in the second half. I thought one of the differences in the game came when Joe Lutt came back into the game after sitting out because of foul trouble. He did a nice job of penetrating with the ball and dishing off to the open man when he was picked up by the Cedar defense,"

ALTHOUGH IT WAS an important win for the Wayne team, there wasn't much time for a victory celebration as the Blue Devils had to play Randolph on Saturday.

The well-coached Cardinals of Lyle Nannen never got untracked as a team because of a tenacious Blue Devil defense as Wayne rolled to a 16-point win, 64-48.

Once again I felt our defense was a key factor," Ruhl said. "To hold them to just seven points in the first quarter showed our intensity. Again, we got some quality play from the players on the bench with Shawn Nolte scoring eight points and hauling down five rebounds while Todd Koeber got an important offensive rebound and a put-back for two points." Mark Lentz and Ryan Martin also spelled some of the Blue Devil starters with some quality minutes.

Wayne out-scored Randolph in every quarter with the Blue Devils leading by a 27-19 margin at the half and 45-34 after three quarters of play.

"Joe Lutt and Paul Blomenkamp really had great games for us," Ruhl said. "After Friday's game we told Joe to look for his shot a little more and he really responded with 19 points."

Wayne State women win first road game

Mike Barry's Wayne State women's basketball team escaped Morris, MN with a 73-72 victory Saturday night over Minnesota-Morris, then returned home to defeat Dakota State of Madison, S.D., 72-50 on Monday night.

The Wildcats have won three straight games and will take a 9-7 record to Kearney on Wednesday to play the Lopers. The news is not all good once again for the Wildcats as starfer Kristy Twait may be lost for some time with a knee injury suffered in Morris.

"She got hurt with just under three minutes to go in regulation after driving to the hoop," Barry said. "Her knee just gave way and at first we were told it was probably a sprain but she's getting an MRI done, Tuesday and we'll know for sure but the possibility is there that she may have a torn ligament and be out for the year like Liz Reeg.

The game with Morris was close throughout with WSC leading by as many as 10 points. "They played us tough up at their place last year, too" Barry said. "We didn't play real well but we overcame it enough to win and notch our first road win of

The game did come down to the last play with Morris having a chance to win but a 3-pointer at the buzzer drew nothing but backboard. "We trailed by three points late and managed to get ahead by four but they hit a 3-pointer with 18 seconds to go to cut the lead to one," Barry said. "We were fouled with nine seconds left but we missed the front end of a one-and-one.

Morris called timeout with four seconds to go and the ball at half court. They set up a play and much to Barry's surprise the post player took a 3-pointer at the buzzer. "We were glad to get out of there with a win," Barry said. "We had to change our rotation with the loss of Liz so with all things said and done, the win was very nice."

Amy Brodersen led the winners with 17 points while Deb Kostreba, Mindi Jensen and Twait notched 11 each. Susie Osborn was also in double figures with 10 while Marla Stewart netted nine. Lori Zeimetz and Renee Belz rounded out the attack with two each.

IN MONDAY'S tilt with Dakota State the Wildcats were virtually never threatened after blowing the game open from a 12-9 lead. The host team out-scored the visitors, 21-8 to close out the half with a comfortable 33-17 advantage. Dakota State went about eight minutes with out scoring during first half action.

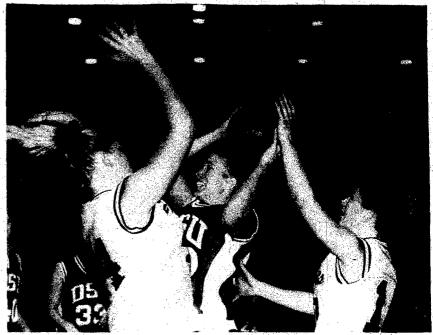

"This was what I called a taking care of business night," Barry said. Playing our third game in six days wasn't easy after getting home from Minnesota on Sunday morning at 3:30 but the girls responded well and I thought we played pretty good defense overall."

Dakota State did cut the gap to 10 points in the second half but WSC retaliated with a 14-0 run to put the game completely out of reach. Susie Osborn paced the winners with 15 points while Marla Stewart tossed in 11. Mindi Jensen and Deb Kostreba each tallied 10 while Amy Brodersen, Danyel Grammar and Rence Belz scored five apiece.

Kara McLarty scored four points and Julie Heine finished with three while Jodi Heller and Lori Zeimetz closed out the scoring with one field goal each.

WSC men fall to Morris in closing minutes, 71-67

The Wayne State men's basketball team was edged by Minnesota-Morris, 71-67 at Morris, Saturday night, dropping the Wildcats record to 7-8 on the season.

Last season WSC was annihilated in both outings with the Cougars but Greg McDermott's squad put up quite a fight before falling by a narrow margin in the first meeting between the two schools this season.

Once again we got off to a poor start," McDermott said after his team trailed quickly by a 10-point margin, 15-5. "We trailed by 13 points at the half and were forced into playing catch-up.

The 'Cats came out gunning in the second half, scoring on 10 of their first 12 possessions and they tied the game with eight minutes to go. "We led by three points on two occasions," McDermott said. "Our last lead of three came at the five minute mark."

WSC was down just one point with 40 seconds remaining but gave up an old-fashioned three-point play and missed a couple free throw opportunities.

Patterson performance, awesome

basketball team put an end to Briar Cliff's recent dominance over them with a convincing 16-point victory in Rice Auditorium last Wednesday

Greg McDermott's squad would not be denied down the stretch and one reason was the play of senior guard Billy Patterson who got to enjoy his first win over the Chargers during his four-year tenure as a

Despite the fact the 'Cats haven't enjoyed a winning season in the last half-decade those that have watched Patterson play have enjoyed his basketball playing ability and this writer just happens to be one of his biggest fans.

His performance against Briar Cliff may have been one of the alltime greats in Wildcat history as Patterson, literally took over the ball game down the stretch includ-ing a run of 10 straight points and 16 of 20 over a seven-minute span.

It was truly a hall of fame type outing for the Chicago native who said in a recent interview that he just wants to win so bad. No matter what the record will end up being for the 'Cats this season Patterson has already proven he's a winner.

A criminal justice major, Patterson appears to have his future mapped out. He will return to Chicago upon his May graduation and will begin working at a correctional facility.

He will leave Wayne State as the all-time leader in assists and steals and he's still climbing the charts in seoring, having recently become the 17th player in WSC history to surpass the 1000 point barrier.

During his time at WSC, Patterson's parents have subscribed to the Wayne Herald to follow their son's career a little closer since there isn't a lot written about Wayne State, Nebraska in the Chicago Tribune. I've had the pleasure of talking with Mr. Patterson when he calls each year to re-subscribe and he's one proud dad when it comes to talking hoops as well he should be.

I'd like to take these few lines to let the Patterson family know just how much this sports editor has enjoyed watching Billy play for the Cats and to wish him the best of luck after graduation.

I've attended all the WSC home games and the attendance seems to be smaller than ever and I just don't understand it

McDermott is doing a whale of a job coaching the team in his first season at the helm and the players are responding, admirably. In fact, the product that WSC puts on the floor night in and night out is one of the best in recent history and the 'Cats are already at the seven-win plateau this season, something they haven't gotten to in the past several years until late February or early March.

At press time WSC's record was 7-8 but they've been in virtually every ballgame, something else that's improved from the past few

I think the Wildcat teams descree better attendance. The 'Cats will need the home town support, Saturday when they play the num ber one rated men's team in NAIA Division II in Northern State of Aberdeen, S.D.

Northern State's women's team also sports the number one ranking in the nation in NAIA Division II.

Last year, the Northern State women captured the national championship as they went through the season with a 34-1 record—the lone loss coming against WSC in the first game of the year. This year, will come into Rice Auditorium with one loss after being up set last weekend.

Mike Barry is not quite enjoying the amount of success he's had the past couple years at WSC but none-the-less, the 'Cats are playing pretty good basketball, especially at

The loss of Liz Reeg and Kristy Twait to knee injuries will hurt some, but if the Wildcats continue to get quality scoring from point guard Amy Brodesen and Deb Kostreba, they'll be a tough team to beat the rest of the way and will assuredly improve on their 9-7.

Business education program thrives

A cooperative business degree program between Northeast Community College and Wayne State College, which allows students to complete a bachelor of science degree in business administration at Northeast's campus, is still going strong after five years of existence.

The program, 2+2, permits students to take the general education requirements and the basic core of business classes (totaling about 66 credit hours) from Northeast. Once students have met the prerequisites. Wayne State's participation begins by offering evening classes at Northeast, about 60 credit hours of upper division business and elective courses to complete the 125 credit hour degree requirement.

Students then graduate with a degree from Wavne State.

Dr. Vaugiin Benson, head of Wayne State's Division of Business, echoes Feuerbacher's praise of the program.

"It's been a tremendous success," says Benson. "Enrollment in the program has always been very strong, and the students have displayed an outstanding work ethic. Not only does it generate more students on each campus, but it creates a closer relationship between both colleges

Students and graduates agree that the program works for everyone.

Steve Manzer of Osmond graduated last month and is now employed as a loan officer with Osmond State Bank. He says his degree was made achievable because of the program's step-by-step format, and Feuerbacher's willingness to guide him through the program.

At first, I just wanted to get my associate degree from Northeast," says Manzer, "but Roger told me about the benefits of the program and was very helpful in guiding me through it."

Norfolk's Tracey Baker, who is currently pursuing his degree, is employed full-time as a production supervisor at Arnold Engineering in Norfolk. He says the availability of classes around his work schedule is an advantage for him.

"I didn't want to spend a lot of time traveling late at night, and I didn't want to quit working full-time," says Baker. "When I found out I could take evening classes in Norfolk, the program became ideally suited for my schedule.
