

City decides to 'leaf' tree code alone

By Tom Mullen
Of The Herald

A self proclaimed tree hugger, Duane Schroeder approached the microphone at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council, in an attempt to change the direction of a proposed tree ordinance that may include fines of up to $500 per day for people who are found to be in violation.

"We should be doing everything we can to encourage the planting of trees," barked Schroeder, "I think by over regulating this, we have exactly the opposite effect. People are hesitant to get involved with the bureaucracy."

After listening to the council debate some of the finer points of the proposals that deal solely with the removal and replacement of trees on city terraces, Schroeder pleaded with the council to consider using what he called a carrot approach, reading at length from the notes he had prepared.

Schroeder warned that most people would avoid planting trees rather than deal with city codes and regulations. He suggested that the city advertise free trees in its spring utility bills and if a sapling survives its first year in Wayne's soil, the city could give the arborist, "a $10 credit on their water bill."

"Let's make it as easy as possible to plant trees," he pined, "you get a lot better results if you ask someone real nice."

The Council suggested that City

Nebraska Chamber of Commerce & Industry

Wakefield business tycoon Daniel Gardner was inducted into the Nebraska Business Hall of Fame Thursday during a ceremony in Lincoln.

Wakefield's Gardner in state Hall of Fame

Using the occasion as an emotional tribute to the people and the work ethic of Northeast Nebraska, Wakefield's Dan Gardner thanked others said were responsible for helping him earn induction into the Nebraska Business Hall of Fame.

Gardner, was inducted into the exclusive hall Thursday night in ceremonies at the Nebraska Chamber of Commerce and Industry meeting in Lincoln. Nebraska Gov. Ben Nelson assisted in the presentation.

Gardner made all the 100 or so banquet attendees from Northeast Nebraska stand after he was presented with Hall of Fame honor. He thanked and praised them and others in his emotional acceptance speak.

He joins only 20 other members of the prestigious Hall of Nebraska's business leaders. The three others inducted Thursday with Gardner were: George Abel, chairman of the board of Nebco, Inc.; Walter Scott, Jr., president of Peter Kiewit and Sons, Inc., and the late Harold Warp, inventor and founder of Pioneer Village in Minden.

Gardner said part of the reason for his success as the CEO of the M.G. Waldbaum Company in Wakefield was the family atmosphere of the business. He recalled a banner placed in the break room at the plant that read "We're family, not employees."

Gardner was born in New York

City and served his country in World War II. He graduated from Syracuse University in 1948. On vacation in 1951, he came to Nebraska and visited Milton Waldbaum after the Wakefield man had just started his egg production business.

Gardner moved to Wakefield in 1952 to run the company while Dr. Waldbaum began medical studies in Omaha. Beginning with only 25 employees, the M.G. Waldbaum Company now employs close to 900 people in Nebraska.

Starting as a regional wholesaler of locally produced eggs, the company eventually began to produce its own eggs and developed new egg products of the entire food industry.

Hotel fire blamed on hot blanket

HARTINGTON, Neb. (AP) — Investigators are blaming an electric blanket for a fire at an historic hotel in northeast Nebraska.

No one was injured in the fire that broke out at 6:30 a.m. Wednesday at the three-floor brick Hartington Hotel that was built in 1917 and once housed famous visitors like band leaders Guy Lombardo and Glenn Miller.

Jean Larson, whose family has owned the building for 58 years, said her 91-year-old father, Frank Novotny, knocked on her door at the hotel to tell her that his blanket was on fire.

An alarm on the second floor alerted other residents. Twelve people live in the building; everyone managed to escape unharmed.

Mrs. Larson, her father and other family members, however, had to wait until firefighters arrived on the scene and broke out a first-floor window for them to be able to escape.

"We're thankful that no one was hurt," she said. "There's not really too much damage. It could have been a lot worse. The firemen did a really good job."

Terry Zwiebel, a state fire marshal's investigator, confirmed that an electric blanket was the cause of the blaze. He estimated damage at $50,000. Fire damage was limited to one room, but there was smoke damage throughout the hotel, he said.

Part of Hartington's main street was blocked off during the fire.

Fire departments from Crofton, Coleridge, Fordyce and Wynot were called in to help Hartington firefighters with the blaze.

The hotel, located on the town's main business street, housed some senior citizens. The central part of Slain woman called 'heroine'

NORFOLK, Neb. (AP) — The oldest son of a convenience store worker who was shot to death will remember her for her heroism in a fire 12 years ago, not for the violent end to her life.

In 1983, Brian Gill rescued one of his younger sisters from a fire at the Gill home in Butte and was awarded a medal of bravery.

"But it was my mom who got my other sisters out of the house," Gill, 23 said. "I got the medal, but she was the hero. She saved my sisters."

The fire killed Ms. Gill's other son, Brad. Ms. Gill, 42, was killed early Sunday while working at the Gas 'N Shop in west Norfolk.

Todd Cook and Shane McManamon, both 18, are charged in Madison County Court with first-degree murder in her shooting death. They also are charged with felony robbery and use of a firearm to commit a felony.

Gill, who lives in Bassett, also will remember his mother as a Nebraska Cornhusker football fan.

"She really liked it," he said. "She had a football autographed by some of the players from a few years back and for a while she drew cartoons about Nebraska football that were published in a few newspapers."

Ms. Gill had lived in Butte for

Wayne family to reopen clothing store

By Clara Osten
Of The Herald

In September of 1895 a men's clothing store opened on the corner of Second and Main Streets in Wayne. Since that time, there has always been a men's store in that location.

In early March, Ed and Irene Fletcher plan to open a new store in what was formerly Surber's Men's Store. They plan to call their store Legends because of the history associated with the building.

"ACCORDING to some old newspapers we found, the first store in this location opened in September of 1895. We plan to have a grand opening in September to celebrate 100 years of having a men's store in this building," said Irene.

The idea of having a clothing store has been a dream of Ed's for many years. "He worked in the men's department of Kuhn's for a while before joining the Navy. He enjoyed it and ever since has wanted to own his own clothing store," said Irene.

Ed and Irene Fletcher will be opening a new clothing store in Wayne.

"We hated to see Surber's close and the idea that there wouldn't be a men's store in Wayne, so we decided to use this opportunity to make Ed's dream come true," said Irene.

THE FLETCHERS have gone to markets to purchase clothing for their store and hope to have shipments of spring clothing by the end of this month. "Markets are featuring fall merchandise already, but we need to get spring and summer clothing also," said Irene.

Plans call for some minor work to be done on what was the women's section of the store first and operate out of that portion of the building while work is done on the other half of the building.

Legends will offer tuxedo rentals and the Fletchers will be measuring those who need to rent them even before the store opens. Persons wishing more information on renting a tuxedo can call the Fletchers at home.

JANE AHMANN has been hired as manager of the new store which will offer young men's and men's clothing at the present time. "We are very excited to be working with Jane. She will bring a lot of experience to our business," said Ed.

"For now, we will concentrate on men's clothing. Having women's clothing is an option for the future, but right now, we will

The company has been instrumental in vaulting Nebraska to the number one spot in egg production in the country.

According to the State Chamber video presentation on Gardner, the key to the company's growth was his leadership in developing complete control of production including feed mills, pullet farms, laying farms and processing facilities.

Wayne State College President Dr. Donald Mash, in a letter nominating Gardner to the hall, said, "Dan Gardner has been an outstanding businessman and has brought much attention and acclaim to Northeast Nebraska. But just as important are all of the other things he has done and continues to do to build the attractiveness of Northeast Nebraska as a place to work and live."

Gardner and his wife Jeanne and their children have been major public servants and philanthropists for Wakefield and Northeast Nebraska. He and Jeanne chaired Wayne State's major capital campaign and have created the Gardner Foundation to provide leadership grants, community assistance programs and scholarships.

The Nebraska Business Hall of Fame was established by the Nebraska Chamber of Commerce and Industry in cooperation with the UNL College of Business Administration and the Nebraska Council of Postsecondary Education in Business established the hall of fame in 1992 to recognize business leaders whose contributions to the state's economy and business environment are deserving of public acclaim.

A permanent display will be located at the UNL College of Business Administration.

Staff consider re-evaluating their proposed code, and return to Council for further consideration at a later date.

In other business, Council accepted an engineer's bid to build a new Public Works Facility.

Bruce Gilmore and Associates of Columbus was chosen to head the relocation of the existing facility which must be moved to allow for the expansion of the Wayne Power Plant.

Olsson and Associates of Lincoln, the engineering firm selected in November of 1994 for the power plant expansion, had estimated the cost of the relocation. "The Gilmore bid was 10 per cent below that cost," according Public Works Director Vern Schulz. The Olsson estimate was $590,000.

carry only young men's and men's clothing," said Irene.

The store will also offer alterations of merchandise. "People tend to shop out of town because they think prices are better, but it is service that counts. Many of the discount stores do not offer services such as hemming a pair of slacks," said Irene.

"WE HOPE to offer items that will attract people of all ages. We really want people to shop Wayne first because we feel that this community has a lot to offer. We will continue to have merchandise similar to that offered by Surber's, and hope to add to that," said Irene.

The Fletcher's have found some old fixtures and other items from the original store and hope to incorporate them into the remodeling they are doing. "We are trying to find a balance between the old and the new in an attempt to attract customers of all ages," said Irene.

Former Waynian ready to release third rock tape

Travis Koester, grandson of Donna Grashorn of Wayne, is in the process of releasing his third musical tape. He is a former Wayne resident and the son of Lea Petersen.

Koester, a junior at Columbus Lakeview High School, is involved with two different rock bands in Columbus. He is the lead guitarist and vocalist for the group known as The Gypsy Sun that plays '60 music. He is also a vocalist for another group known as Nesbits, which is a rock band.

The tape "Shauna" features songs written by Travis. He also does all the solos. He has also produced a tape titled "Journey" with an original song by the same name as part of The Gypsy Sun. The Nesbits have produced a tape titled "Have You Seen Bob?"

"Our main goal is to just enjoy ourselves. When I moved to

Travis Koester

Columbus, I decided to do something like (joining a rock band)," said Koester.

Members of both bands are made up of teenagers from the Columbus area. Koester has been involved with the two groups for over a year.

Anyone wanting information on Koester's tapes can contact him at (402) 564-1143 or write him at 4629 30th Street, Columbus, Nebr. 68601-2109.

of farmers themselves."

"Announce that you're going to some small town in Arkansas and sit around a coffee table with some farm family and write it down," Kerrey said he told Barre.

"If you can accomplish nothing else but this, see if you can't get the Farm Bill to be 40 or 50 pages long."

The 1990 Farm Bill was hundreds of pages long. Kerrey said that the longer the bill is, the more difficult it is to administer.

Farmers should brace for major changes, Kerrey said Tuesday from Washington during his weekly conference call. He favors higher loan rates to save money and refusing to appropriate federal disaster funds to farmers so they will buy disaster insurance.

Blood bank says thanks

Pam Masching, director of donor services with the SiouxFall Blood Bank, wishes to thank the community of Wayne and the surrounding areas for their terrific support of the blood drive held on Thursday, Jan. 26 at Providence Medical Center.

Seventy-two individuals volunteered to donate. A total of 70 pints of blood were collected.

She especially cited the following individuals:

Eight gallon donor, Lavern Greunke.

Six gallon donors, Kenneth Jorgensen and Loma Loberg.

Five gallon donor, Jean Sturm.

Three gallon donors, Alan Hart,

Judy Martindale and Karen Zach. Two gallon donor, Lynn Bailey. One gallon donor, Randal Bargholz.

First time donors, Mary Jo Anderson; Al Ehlers, Janelle Fleer, Dale Gushall, Tom Holdorf, Randy Holdorf, Somchar Neisen and Sherr Wittler.

Sincere thanks goes out to the community of Wayne and the Hospital Auxiliary for everyone's generous help. We gratefully acknowledge and commend each and every individual for their help in assuring our SiouxFall communities of a safe blood supply, she said.

New manager hired at Riley's

Riley's restaurant has a new manager, Terry Poland, and his wife Jean Peatrowsky, of West Point, along with their two sons, Eric and Troy are settling into the new home they purchased in Wayne.

A native of Valentine, Terry said he believes in the same high standards and expectations of local customers, "where a meal is always fresh, good, and served fast."

Poland resigned from the Nebraska State Fair Park as Assistant Food and Beverage Manager, and Manager of Catering, to become Riley's manager. He also brings management and kitchen experience from some of Nebraska's most popular restaurants, including The Prospector, Grisanti's, Misty's, and Tony and Luigi's. He is a five year member of the Culinary Federation of America and also attended the Culinary Institute of America in Hyde Park, New York.

Poland said that he is looking forward to bringing Riley's patrons the best of what he has learned from his experiences, "and putting them on the table to share with Northeast Nebraska."

"Our family is excited about the possibilities the city of Wayne has to offer and we are looking forward to making new friends in Wayne while getting involved in the community," said Poland.

Director named

Marian Borgmann-Ingwersen, instructor of biology at Wayne State College, has been named director of the Northeast Nebraska Coalition for Math and Science Education.

The State of Nebraska was recently given $10 million from the National Science Foundation to spend to improve math and science education. Part of these funds will be transferred to the seven coalitions in the state and will be appropriated by those coalition boards and directors to schools that apply for the funds, according to Borgmann-Ingwersen.

The Northeast Nebraska Coalition is made up of the communities served by Educational Service Units #1 and #8. It is currently set up to spend $90,000 this year and will get additional funding over the next two years.

Coalition monies were appropriated via a proposal submitted by several persons associated with the two ESUs.

Borgmann-Ingwersen, who has been a Wayne State faculty member since 1990, earned her bachelor of arts degree from Wayne State College, and her master's degree from the University of Nebraska-Omaha.

Dixon County FCE meets

The Dixon County Association for Family and Community Education Council met Jan. 12. The meeting was led by Judy Martindale of Concord at the Northeast Center in Concord. Judy Martindale installed the new officers. They consist of Judy Martindale, chairperson; Suzie Johnson, chair elect; Janice Hartman, vice chairperson; Judy Rastede, secretary; and Deb Clarkson, treasurer.

The minutes from the last meeting were read by Pauline Fischer, acting secretary. A letter was read from the Artemis Club.

Deb Clarkson, treasurer, reported that the group received a $15.91 surplus from the State Convention held in South Sioux City. The group also adopted the budget.

Janice Hartman presented the goals in the areas of family life, citizenship, cultural arts, health and environment, membership and education. The third grade poster contest was dropped this year. Cultural arts contest projects this year are photography and quilting.

It was decided to sponsor the Champion 4-H Sewing Project again by presenting a sewing scissors at county fair.

The biggest project the group has undertaken is a historical review of the Dixon County Home Extension Clubs. Deb Clarkson and Suzie Johnson are leading the process of putting together photos and narration on video tape. The historical program presentation is set for Saturday, April 29 at 9 a.m. at the Northeast Center in Concord. Past members, current members and the public are invited to share in history and friendship. Past members who would like an invitation can call the committee or the Extension Office at 584-2234.

Judy Martindale handed out project deadline sheets to each club. Karen Wermers, extension educator, distributed the 1995 handbooks. The meeting was followed by a salad luncheon.

Pastor Lang to speak in Wayne

Topics related to the creation/evolution debate will be presented on Friday, Feb. 10 and Saturday, Feb. 11 by Pastor Walter Lang of the Genesis Institute. It will be held at the Lutheran Student Center on the corner of 10th and Logan, just south of the Willow Bowl.

Pastor Lang will speak at 7 p.m. on Friday on the finds of Fossil Men. On Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. presentations will focus on how the Bible and nature call for a young age for the earth and catastrophe rather than uniformity and immense time periods in geology.

Pastor Lang's presentations are free and open to the public. For more information, call Grace Lutheran Church at 375-1905.

Two women win $500

Two area women, Deb Paulson and Teresa Roberts, won $500 in a Home Interiors drawing on Saturday, Jan. 28. Both are from Wakefield and have done business with their decorator/consultant Linda Heitman from Laurel for several years.

The $500 Gold Card Hostess event was the first annual for the Carla Van Meter unit. Their names were drawn from over 175 qualifying hosts and hostesses all across the Stoutland area. In order to qualify they had to have had at least a $200 decorating and accessory sale in 1994.

Leaders/teachers from four counties gather in Wakefield on Jan. 21

Over 40 Dakota, Dixon, Thurston and Wayne County Association for Family and Community Education (FCE) Clubs and other club leader/teachers met Saturday, Jan. 21 at the Christian Church in Wakefield. Each of the participants came for at least one of the five community club members at one of their meetings this year. Many of the participants also had lunch at Jeannes' at the Haskell House.

Lessons presented included: "Ethical Leadership by Extension Educator, Lynda Cruickshank, Wayne County. This lesson stressed core ethical values of trustworthiness, respect, responsibility, justice and fairness; caring and civic virtue and citizenship. Ethics are expressed as the foundation that in turn supports morals, which are acted upon as values.

"Support Systems in Crisis Situations" was presented by Rod Patent, Extension Educator in Wayne and Dixon Counties. Some of the steps of helping a person cope with change, crisis and loss included actions that listen, encourage, do not blame nor give false assurance.

"Nancy Lange, Extension Educator in Thurston County, presented The Positive Effects of T.V. Education was one of the most positive uses of T.V.

"Dixon County Extension Educator Karen Wermers taught The 90's Home Into the 21st Century. It highlighted new technologies. Participants shared ideas they perceived as a need with a potential market.

A heart wreath decoration workshop completed the day by Extension Educator, Carol Larvick of Dakota City.

Wakefield chosen to participate Past may become key to future

Wakefield's past may become the key to its future if local property owners get involved in a new self-help program for small towns.

Wakefield was chosen to participate in the Nebraska Lied Main Street Program. Matt Hussmann, senior program associate for National Main Street Center, and officials of the Nebraska program visited Wakefield Jan. 23 and 24 to get Wakefield started in the program.

A group of local business people has already pledged financial support to the program. These business people and other Wakefield residents have also made a commitment of their time to study Wakefield's history, image, markets and potential and begin to make a plan for improvement. The board of directors include Norman Minola, Tom Anderson, Carol O'Neill, Leslie Bebee, Dr. James Bierbower, George Holm, Terry Hoffman, Larry Soderberg, Laura Barelman, Val Bard, Linda Rischmueller, Al Omera, Mayor Leity Olson, Randy Lanning and Pat Lunz. The program manager is Val VanderVeen.

Improvement ideas discussed at the public meeting include restoring the historical beauty and value of Wakefield's building, landscaping, planning coordinated retail and social events in the downtown and strengthening the economic base of the community by knowing who the customers are, what they want and how Wakefield can provide it.

Hussmann said that in a town the size of Wakefield, the program is not limited to the businesses in the downtown. Other businesses in the community are welcome.

The main street officials will return in April to make a first draft of a work plan and offer training.

The Main Street Program is a volunteer program. Hussmann said the towns decide what programs and activities they want to do and the officials provide the knowledge and experience.

Alliance, Fremont and Red Cloud are the other Nebraska cities getting started in the program this year. The University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Architecture, the Nebraska State Historical Society and the Nebraska Departments of Economic Development and Roads will be offering their help.

SALEM WOMEN
The Women of the ELCA of Salem Lutheran Church met Jan. 26 in the church basement. After president Mae Greve read a poem on the beauty of trees in winter, Carol Bard gave a devotional message on holy places. She described them as places where God communicates with people. The hymn "For the Beauty of the Earth" and "This is My Father's World" were sung by the group. The offering was received while Famy Johnson played the piano, followed by prayer by Carol Bard.

Pastor Mark Wilms gave the Bible study from Hebrews 9:1-28, which was on the theme, Holy Places. Comparison was made on what was considered holy in the time of the Bible and now and how Christ fits into the idea of holy places.

Mac Greve began the business meeting by thanking the hostesses for the day. Reading of correspondence included many thank yous, for cheer boxes delivered at Christmas and monetary gifts given by the Women of the ELCA. The budget of 51 percent plus $2 of general and circle offerings going to statewide headquarters and 49 percent used for local needs was adopted.

Ruth Johnson, Christian action committee, announced two quilt days for February. A work day will be held Feb. 7 and a regular quilting day on Feb. 8. Monetary as well as tangible gifts for Bethpage should be brought to the Feb. 23 meeting.

Coming events will be World Day of Prayer in March and Spring Gathering at Emerson on March 18. The Women of the ELCA will be in charge of the March 8 Lenten service with Patsy Johnson as chairman.

mately $10 million for the houses across the country in the past eight years. The aluminum can tabs are sold and the funds used to support the homes.

The tabs and symbols may be given to any Wakefield elementary student or taken to the elementary office during school hours. Collections will be made until the end of April when they will be turned over to the Sioux City Ronald McDonald House.

Thank yous were extended from the Kinney family and from Bonnie Bressler. Members were reminded to start thinking of the soup supper.

GARDEN CLUB
The Hoskins Garden Club met at the home of Nona Wittler on Jan. 26 for a dessert luncheon. Elsie Hinzman, president, opened the meeting with a reading, "A Brand New Year." The hostess chose the song "Little Brown Church in the Vale" for group singing.

Frieda Meierhenry had the poem for the month "Gift of Friendship." Members answered roll call by telling about their worst blizzard experience. Secretary and treasurer reports were read and approved.

The hostess conducted word games and quizzes for entertainment. Esther Rechtermann had the comprehensive study, "simple steps can make gardening more fun and less work."

The lesson on "chives" was presented by Rose Puls. She also read an article about the Butchart Gardens in Canada.

The meeting closed with the watch word for the day, "when we have a pet peeve, it's amazing how often we pet it."

Esther Rechtermann will be hostess for the next meeting on Feb. 23.

Wayne State men put stop to Quincy's winning streak, 79-76

Greg McDermott's Wayne State men's basketball team snapped Quincy University's 10-game win streak, Wednesday night in the friendly confines of Rice Auditorium, 79-76.

The Wildcats have notched back-to-back wins against 18-2 and top ranked Northern State and 15-4; Quincy to improve their own record to 9-9.

"We made some big plays down the stretch against Quincy," McDermott said. "Quincy is an excellent basketball team."

WSC jumped out to an early lead on the Hawks but most of the first half saw the lead see-saw between both teams often with the 'Cats leading by two at the intermission, 39-37.

The host team led most of the second half with their largest lead coming at the 10:59 mark at 60-53. Quincy led on three occasions in the second half with the final time coming with 46 seconds remaining at 76-74.

Down the stretch in the final three-and-a-half minutes it was B.P. time once again as Billy Patterson scored eight of the final 10 points including eight straight from the 3:18 point of the second half to the five second mark.

Patterson drained a 25-foot, 3-pointer with 11 seconds remaining to give WSC a 77-76 lead. Quincy had the ball with the chance to go for the final shot and the win but the Hawks turned the ball over after one of the guards dribbled off his foot out-of-bounds.

"We did a real nice job of executing our in-bounds play because we knew Quincy had to foul us right away," McDermott said. "We wanted the ball in Billy's hands or Mike Fitzner's and Mike was fouled and nailed both free throws with out touching any rim."

McDermott said Fitzner also made a game-saving rescue of the ball as it was going out-of-bounds on WSC's possession which ended up having Patterson drain the long 3-pointer to give the 'Cats the lead for good.

"Again, it was a good, team effort," McDermott added. "I thought Omar Clark did a real nice job of playing defense against Quincy's top scorer, holding him to 11 points and Greg Ryan stepped up and had a nice game on the boards with 10 rebounds."

Patterson paced the winners with 22 points while Fitzner and Clark tossed in 14 each. Dan Anderson scored 10 points and Kyle White netted eight while Craig Philipp finished with seven. Ryan rounded out the attack with four points.

WSC was out-rebounded, 42-34 despite Ryan's 10-carom performance. Patterson garnered seven rebounds and dished out a game-high eight assists. The 'Cats hit 31 of 64 shots from the field for 48 percent and nailed nine of 10 free throw attempts while Quincy was 30 of 70 from the field and 8-13 from the charity stripe.

WSC will host Bemidji State on Saturday afternoon at 3:00 and the 'Cats will remain at home for a Monday night contest with Teikyo-Westmar at 7:30 p.m.

GREG RYAN gets hacked in the act by a Quincy player during the second half of the 'Cats 79-76 victory over the Hawks. WSC snapped Quincy's 10-game win streak.

WAYNE STATE'S Dan Anderson lays a shot off the glass for two of his 10 points during the Wildcats three-point win over Quincy University of Illinois, Wednesday. The 'Cats improved to 9-9.

WSC women improve to 11-8 with 15-point win over Quincy

The Wayne State women's basketball team upped their record to 11-8 with a 91-76 victory over Quincy University, Wednesday in Wayne.

Mike Barry's troops opened up a 48-35 halftime advantage and were never threatened in the second half. The high scoring first half was a result of Barry telling his team to push it a little.

The line-up for the 'Cats has been now due to the unusual number of injuries suffered in recent weeks and the WSC mentor was hoping to see the fivesome he put on the floor run with the ball but the 'Cats were limited in their running game because of fouls.

There were 53 personal fouls called in the game which slowed the pace down. The first part of the second half was when a lot of the fouls took place as Quincy came down the floor and once they penetrated the lane a Wildcat foul would occur.

Amy Brodersen and Deb Kostreba led the winners with 21 and 19 points, respectively as both were aggressive in looking for their shots. Brodersen penetrated the Quincy defense at will and dished off to the open player when she was picked up or she shot the ball.

Julie Heine was in double figures in scoring for the first time in her young career with 11 including a perfect 7-7 performance from the free throw line.

Kara McLarty finished with eight points and Maria Stewart tossed seven while Susie Osborn netted six. Mindi Jensen scored five and Renee Belz finished with four while Lisa Davids, Danyel Grammar, Jodi Heller, Lori Zeimetz and Deedra Haskins tallied two each as all 13 Wildcat players that were suited up, scored.

WSC dominated the boards, 52-40 with Brodersen hauling down 11 rebounds from her point guard position. Kostreba finished with eight caroms and led the 'Cats in assists with five while Brodersen and Stewart dished out four each.

The winners had only 11 turnovers while forcing 17 and Kostreba led WSC with four steals. The 'Cats were 32 of 74 from the field for 43 percent while hitting 25 of 38 free throw attempts while the visitors hit 26 of 63 shots from the field for 41 percent and hit 18 of 27 free throws.

WSC will host Nebraska-Kearney on Friday night and Bemidji State on Saturday at 1 p.m. before playing at Winona State on Wednesday.

MINDI JENSEN shoots over a Quincy defender during the women's game on Wednesday. The Wildcats improved to 11-8 with a 91-76 win.

AMY BRODERSEN penetrates the lane and shoots over two Quincy players for two of her game-high 21 points. Wayne State will host Kearney on Friday night.

Freshman girls lost to Cedar

WAYNE-Troy Harder's freshman girls team from Wayne fell to 1-4 on the season with a 38-32 setback to Hartington Cedar Catholic, recently. The Blue Devils were led by Gayle Olson with 11 points and Mindy McLean with eight while Lindsay Baack netted five. Molly Linstor added four points and Megan Meyer tossed in three while Timoni Grone finished with one. Wayne will host Norfolk Catholic on Feb. 9 at 4:30 p.m. at the City Auditorium.

Junior high rec teams fall to Pierce

WAYNE-The Wayne Junior High recreation basketball teams lost to Pierce on Super Bowl Sunday with the seventh grade boys losing a 26-20 decision while the eighth grade boys lost, 52-38.

In the seventh grade game Joel Munson led Wayne with seven points while Dustin Schmeits scored six. Klinton Keller finished with four and Pritam Dalal added three for the 2-1 rec team.

The eighth graders were led by Ryan Dahl with 13 and John Magnuson with 11 while Cody Nieman tossed in five. Ryan Dunklau, Dustin Sutton, Nick Muir and Matt Sobansky each netted two and Ryan Stoltenberg finished with one.

Wayne will host Laurel on Monday.

Laurel boys capture NENAC tourney; Girls fall in semis

The Laurel boys captured the championship of the Northeast Nebraska Conference Basketball Tournament, Thursday night in Plainview with a 55-53 win over Crofton.

Laurel senior Cody Carstensen sank a short jumper with one second remaining to lift the Bears to their 15th win of the season against one loss. Laurel had led 53-50 with about 20 seconds remaining before Crofton's Brad Jansen hit what Bears coach Clayton Steele said was a double-pump, 3-pointer with a Laurel defender in his face.

"We called timeout with 19 seconds to go and set up a final play so the worst thing that we wanted to happen was that we'd go overtime," Steele said. "Cody drove the lane with about six seconds to go and hit an off-balanced shot off the backboard."

Crofton had one second left but Laurel intercepted the in-bounds pass to seal the win. The Bears led 20-14 after one quarter of play but was out-scored by the Warriors, 10-4 in the second stanza which tied the game at the half at 24's.

Laurel took a 42-39 lead into the fourth quarter. The winners were led by Rich Rasmussen with 14 points while Jeremy Reinoehl tossed in 13 and Cody Carstensen, 12. Tyler Erwin netted eight and Jared Reinoehl chipped in five while Travis Stingley rounded out the scoring with three.

The Bears hit nine of 15 free throw attempts compared to 11 of 19 for Crofton. Laurel will travel to play Coleridge on Monday and play at Neligh-Oakdale on Friday night.

THE BEARS reached the championship game with Crofton after defeating Plainview for the third time this season in the semifinals, 57-42 on Tuesday night in Plainview.

The Bears took a three point lead into the locker room at the intermission, 25-22 and led 40-33 heading into the fourth quarter before dominating the host team, 17-9.

"We played pretty fair at times," Steele said. "We did have some problems on the boards with Plainview getting a number a second and third chance shot attempts on the same possession."

Steele said the pace of the game was slow as both teams were patient on offense. Cody Carstensen led the winners with 14 points while Jeremy Reinoehl tossed in 13.

Travis Stingley and Rich Rasmussen each tallied eight while Shane Schuster netted six. Tyler

Erwin and Vince Ward rounded out the scoring with four each. Laurel was 11-17 from the free throw line while the host team was 5-11.

RICK PETRI'S LAUREL girls team was defeated in semifinal action on Tuesday night in Plainview by Crofton, 58-42 leaving the Bears with a 9-7 record heading into Tuesday's home game with Wisner-Pilger.

"Basically the difference in this game came down to converting turnovers into points," Petri said. "We had 23 turnovers which led to 16, Crofton points and they had 19 turnovers which we could only manage to score two points off of."

Laurel trailed 21-13 after the first quarter but trimmed the margin to three by half, 29-26. Crofton out-scored the Bears 14-10 in the third quarter for a seven-point advantage at 43-36 and the Warriors continued to increase their lead through the fourth period.

Allissa Krie led Laurel's offensive attack with 11 points while Becky Schroeder and Allissa Krie tossed in 10 each. Gina Monson finished with six and Cathy Mohr added four while Dawn Wickett scored one.

Laurel did out-rebound Crofton, 35-33 with Schroeder leading the way with eight caroms while Krie and Mohr had six each. Laurel hit eight of 16 free throw attempts while the Warriors made good on 10 of 13 from the charity stripe.

ANN SHARER captured the women's singles title after rolling a 628.

DEB PETERSON was the all-events champion with a nine-game total of 1607.

300 bowler

Melodee Lanes owner Val Kienast recently bowled a perfect game while bowling for Melodee Lanes in the City League. Kienast was unavailable for comment because he left for Florida the morning after.

Allen gals to face Emerson in rematch for Lewis crown

The Allen girls basketball team advanced to the Lewis Division finals on Friday night and earned some revenge at the same time.

Gary Erwin and Lori Koester watched their squad defeat Bancroft-Rosalie on its home floor in the semifinal game of the Lewis & Clark Conference Tournament, Tuesday 55-47.

The Lady Panthers were one of four teams to beat Allen this season and the Eagles have made amends for two of those setbacks with wins in the second tilt over Bancroft and Emerson-Hubbard—a team the Eagles must play again for the right to play the Clark Division champion on Saturday night in Rice Auditorium, on the campus of Wayne State College.

Allen will play the Lady Pirates of Emerson on Friday night in Rosalie just one week after the Eagles pounded Emerson by 19 points in Allen which gave Cliff Wiseman's squad their first loss of the year and dampened their number two ranking.

"Bancroft has an excellent basketball team," Allen coach Gary

Erwin said. "They have three, four-year starters but we didn't shy away from them."

The Eagles went to a quicker lineup, with sophomore Shanyl Moran starting in place of Mindy Plueger and the 5-11 forward helped force several turnovers which led to Allen points.

"Shanyl had only started one other game but her and Mindy usually sub quite a bit for each other," Erwin said. "We had a big second quarter, out-scoring them, 19-8 but we got into foul trouble in the process."

Still, the Eagles were able to overcome the foul problems with smart play. "Three of our starters, Jaime Mitchell, Abbey Schroeder and Holly Blair played all 32 minutes despite some foul problems," Erwin said. "They played smart down the stretch."

Allen led 33-21 at the intermission and 45-32 after three quarters of play before Bancroft attempted to rally with a half-court trapping defense. "They played tough all the way to the end," Erwin said. "We just did the things it took to win."

Schroeder poured in 19 points to lead the Eagles while Tanya Plueger tossed in 13 and Mitchell, 11. Blair scored six and Mindy Plueger, four while Moran netted two.

Allen out-rebounded the bigger Panthers team, 28-24 with Tanya Plueger hauling down a team-high eight caroms while Moran notched seven rebounds.

The Eagles did have 20 turnovers compared to 14 for the host team and Allen was 7-14 from the foul line compared to 7-16 shooting by Bancroft. "We hit almost 50 percent of our shots from the field," (24 of 50) Erwin said.

Winside grapplers lose to Wisner

WINSIDE-The Winside Wildcats wrestling team lost a close 36-33 decision to Wisner-Pilger in the final dual action of the regular season, Tuesday in Winside.

Paul Sok's crew received a forfeit at 100 pounds with Justin Bowers pinning Josh Jensen in 1:47 of the 106 pound match. Jeff Jacobsen lost a 13-2 decision to Tony Lampman at 112 while Jason Wylie pinned Mike Hughes in 1:12 of the 119 pound match.

Scott Jacobsen won by forfeit at 126 and Josh Jaeger won by technical fall over Lee Renn, 17-1 at 134. Lucas Mohr pinned Austin Lampman in 3:18 of the 142 pound match while Steve Svatos lost, 20-7 to Adam Ott at 151.

Shawn Magwire was pinned in 5:26 of the 160 pound match to Jed Erickson and Winside forfeited at 172 because Lonnie Grothe was still out, healing his back injury.

Dave Paulson won a 15-6 decision from Jason Johnson at 185 and Joe Schwedhelm lost a 15-2 decision to Kevin Kramer at 215. Brian Burrell of Wisner won by forfeit at heavyweight.

Freshman boys improve to 6-2

WAYNE-Duane Blomenkamp's freshman boys basketball team won two of three games, recently, falling to Norfolk's A team, 74-60 but rebounding to win against West Point, 54-34 and Hartington Cedar Catholic, 43-31.

Against Norfolk, Justin Thede led the Blue Devils with 18 points while Matt Meyer poured in 14. Jamar Lewis tallied seven and Chris Dyer netted six while David Ensz and Adam Endicott netted five each. Ryan Sturm scored three points and Brad Maryott closed out the scoring with two.

Against West Point Adam Endicott led all scorers with 16 points with Matt Meyer adding nine and Justin Thede, eight. David Ensz, Jamar Lewis and Chris Dyer finished with seven each.

Justin Thede led Wayne against Cedar Catholic with 14 points with Ryan Sturm and Jamar Lewis scoring seven each. David Ensz and Adam Endicott chipped in five apiece and Matt Meyer scored three. Chris Dyer rounded out the scoring with two points. Wayne, 6-2 will host Norfolk Catholic next Thursday at the City Auditorium.

Area boys teams compete in Lewis & Clark Tournament

Several Wayne Herald area boys teams competed in the Lewis & Clark Conference Basketball Tournament this week including Winside, Wakefield and Allen.

Winside came into conference tournament play as the last seed in the Clark Division but Bill Koolstra's squad surprised the top seed Wynot on Monday in Wynot, 55-50.

The win snapped an 11-game losing streak by the Wildcats dating back to Dec. 2 and advanced them to semifinal play on Thursday night at home against Osmond where they were defeated by a 70-49 margin.

"We played our best defense of the season against Wynot," Koolstra said. "To hold a team like that to 28 points through three quarters of play on their home court is obvious the defense won the game for us."

The visitors took a 15-10 lead after the first quarter and led 29-18 at the half. Wynot did cut into the lead by three after the third quarter at 36-28 but Winside quickly put the margin back to double digits early in the fourth quarter where it stayed for some time. In fact, Wynot hit a 3-pointer at the buzzer to bring the deficit below double digits.

Jay Shelton led the winners with 15 points while Chad O'Connor continued his scoring barrage in the month of January with 14. Jaimey Holdorf was in double figures with a dozen while Colby Jensen and Jeff Bruggeman notched seven apiece.

Winside was out-rebounded, 42-38 with Bruggeman leading the Wildcats with 10 caroms while Jensen and Shelton had seven each and the visitors committed just 11 turnovers in the game compared to 12 for Wynot. Winside won the game at the free throw line according to Koolstra, hitting 18 of 26 attempts while Wynot was just 3-5.

"Despite being the last seeded team and playing at the number one seed we did go in with confidence," Koolstra said. "We have been playing pretty decent basketball but just not coming out on top until this game."

Things didn't go so well on Thursday in the semifinals against Osmond, however, as the Wildcats were beaten by 21 points. "We just had a horrible first half," Koolstra said. "We finished the game with 21 turnovers and 17 came in the first two quarters."

The host Wildcats got down by a 22-11 margin after the first quarter and were out-scored, 16-4 in the second period to trail by 23 at the half, 38-15. "We just didn't come ready to play," Koolstra added. "We didn't get many good looks at the basket and we played tentative."

Jeff Bruggeman paced the Wildcats with 18 points while Jaimey Holdorf scored a dozen and Chad O'Connor chipped in 10. Jay Shelton netted four while Colby Jensen and Josh Behmer added two each. Greg Mundil rounded out the scoring with a free throw.

Winside tied the Tigers on the boards at 35 caroms each with Shelton hauling down a team-high nine rebounds while Bruggeman recorded seven. The 2-12 Wildcats will play at Wynot on Tuesday and at Osmond on Thursday before traveling to play Lindsay Holy Family next Friday night.

THE WAKEFIELD Trojans clashed with the Hartington Wildcats in other first round Lewis & Clark Conference tourney action and once again the game was high scoring with Hartington edging the Trojans, 86-84.

The first time these two teams met they set the all-time record for points scored in a high school contest for the State of Nebraska with Wakefield winning in triple overtime, 119-107.

Overtime was nearly needed in Monday's game but Cory Brown's final attempt to tie the game was errant. Wakefield appeared to be in control of the contest until the fourth period when Hartington out-scored the visitors, 32-20 to post the two-point win.

"We played well with the exception of the final five minutes," Wakefield coach Brad Hoskins said. "They out-scored us, 22-12 over the final five minutes with the majority of those coming from the free throw line."

Wakefield led the host team, 44-38 at the half and 64-54 after three quarters of play. The Wildcats hit 16 of 22 free throw attempts over the final eight minutes to aid in the win.

The Trojans were led by Cory Brown with 23 points while Justin Dutcher poured in 19. Wes Blecke and Tory Nixon each tallied 14 and Luke Tappe was in double figures with 10 while Mike Rischmueller rounded out the attack with four.

Wakefield won the battle of the boards, 36-30 with Brown and Blecke sharing team honors with eight caroms each while Tappe hauled down seven. The Trojans committed just 12 turnovers while forcing 23 but the big difference came from the foul line where Hartington was 21 of 30 while Wakefield finished 8-16.

The 9-7 Trojans will host Coleridge on Thursday, Feb. 10.

THE ALLEN Eagles remained winless after 14 games with a 103-51 blasting from top seed in the Lewis Division, Winnebago. The host team sprinted to a 26-13 lead after one quarter of play and never looked back as they led, 57-22 at the half and 84-34 after three quarters.

"Winnebago nailed 60 percent of its shots and many of them were 3-pointers," Allen coach Doug Schnack said. "Our last two games with Winnebago and Emerson-Hubbard have blowouts. We've been very flat and haven't shot the ball very well."

Davis Miner led the Eagles with 21 points while Scott Williams chipped in eight. Michael Blohm and Josh Snyder each tallied seven and Craig Philbrick scored six while Jeremy Kumm rounded out the scoring with two.

The Eagles were out-rebounded, 38-18 with Miner and Blohm hauling down five boards each to lead the Eagles. Allen turned the ball over 25 times compared to 20 for the winners and the Eagles hit six of 13 from the charity stripe while Winnebago was 11-22. Allen will play at Macy next Tuesday.

Wayne State football staff says recruiting class is best

Wayne State head football coach Dennis Wagner has announced 20 student-athletes that have signed national letters-of-intent to attend WSC and play football for the Wildcats. The WSC football staff has signed 10 high school and 10 junior college transfers. Four other players have transferred in from four-year schools, bringing the total number of newcomers to 24.

The Wildcats had a record of 7-3 last season following a 9-1 campaign in 1993. Over the last two seasons in NCAA-II statistics, WSC has ranked in the top three in total offense per game. In 1993, they led the nation at 581.5 yards per game.

"Based on the what our needs were, this is the best recruiting class we have had here," Wagner said. "We have brought in a great mixture of junior college and high school players who will help us now and in the future."

Wagner said it was vital to sign some junior college players. "We lost 18 seniors who played some very important roles for us the past few years," Wagner said. "It was important for us to sign some junior college players who could come in and help us right away. The student-athletes we signed out of high school will allow us to build for the future."

The following is an alphabetical list of this year's signees:

Rick Barry—A 6-1, 190-pound safety from Chadron. He was a team co-captain, earned all-conference and all-region and earned four letters in both football and track and two in basketball. His father Mike is the Wayne State women's basketball coach.

Jeff Bruggeman—A 6-5, 240-pound offensive lineman from Winside who was a two-year starter on offense and three-year starter on defense. He finished his prep career with 210 tackles and 20 quarterback sacks. He was named all-state last season and is a two-time all-conference performer. Bruggeman earned three letters in football, basketball and track.

Aaron Hoffman—A 6-5, 215-pound defensive lineman from Ida Grove, Iowa who finished his senior season with 55 tackles while averaging 39 yards per punt. He was an honorable mention all-state punter and earned three letters in both football and basketball. Hoffman is also the president of the senior class.

Jason Jansen—A 6-3, 210-pound linebacker from Norfolk Catholic. Jansen had 13 quarterback sacks his senior year and two block punts. He was named the team MVP and earned all-conference and all-state as a junior and senior. He lettered four times in football and basketball.

Jaime Jones—A 6-6, 210-pound quarterback from Hartington Cedar Catholic. Jones was a four-year starter for the Trojans and notched 4300 passing yards and 1400 rushing yards with 59 total touchdowns. He was a first-team all-state performer as a junior and senior and a four-time all-conference selection. He earned four letters in football and three in basketball. He will also play hoops for the Wayne State Wildcats.

Kevin Kinsella—A 6-1, 180-pound linebacker from LaVista (Papillion). He registered 138 tackles his senior year including 71 solo hits. He was named to the second-team super-state as well as being named to the all-conference team. He earned three letters in football.

Brent Kneiff—A 6-3, 275-pound offensive lineman from South Sioux City who played football at Sioux City Heelan. Kneiff was named to the second-team all-state and all-Northwest Iowa team as well as the all-metro team as a junior and senior. He earned two letters in football.

Dan Peed—A 6-2, 275-pound offensive lineman from Page, NE who played ball for Ewing. Peed was an honorable mention all-state selection and earned all-conference and all-area. He was the Class D shot put champion in 1993 and runner-up in 1994. He earned four letters in football and three each in basketball and track.

Damion Morrow—A 5-9, 160-pound running back from Omaha Central who rushed for 1366 yards as a senior and 1256 yards as a junior. Morrow gained over 1600 yards rushing as a sophomore. He was named to the second-team super-state and first-team all-state as well as first-team all-metro. He was named the team MVP the last two seasons and earned three letters in football and two each in track and power lifting.

Sean Taylor—A 6-5, 225-pound offensive lineman from Omaha Roncalli who was the team co-captain and an honorable mention all-state selection. He was a two-time all-conference pick and earned two letters in football, basketball and track.

The following is a list of the junior college transfers:

Chris Baker—A 5-10, 185-pound wide receiver from Pensacola, FL and Palomar College in California. Baker was the offensive player of the year in 1994 with 110 receptions over the past two seasons.

Jarrod DeGeorgia—A 6-2, 200-pound quarterback from Lompoc, CA and Santa Barbara City College in California. DeGeorgia passed for 3160 yards and 28 TD's as a sophomore and was the team MVP. He was named 1994 Western State Conference Player of the Year. He passed for 2850 yards as a freshman with 21 TD's. He was also drafted in 1994 as a pitcher by the St. Louis Cardinals.

Coco Grayer—A 6-3, 200-pound wide receiver from Santa Rosa, CA and Santa Rose Junior College in California. Grayer finished the 1994 season with 38 receptions for 640 yards with six TD's and was an all-conference performer.

Art Maulupe—A 6-3, 240-pound defensive lineman from Los Angeles, CA and Long Beach City College in California. Maulupe was a first-team all-conference performer last season.

Ryshaun Mosley—A 6-6, 220-pound defensive lineman from Sierra Madre, CA and Marshall Fundamental Pasadena City College in California. Mosley was an all-conference performer last season.

Kenneth Rudd—A 6-0, 215-pound linebacker from Mt. Vernon, Ill and Mt. Vernon Township Bakersfield Junior College in California. Rudd helped his team win the 1993 Western State Conference championship. He was named the conference's outstanding linebacker and led team to the 1992 Potato Bowl Title.

Kevin Swayne—A 6-3, 175-pound wide receiver from Riverside, CA and Palomar College in California. Swayne finished with 1993 with 84 receptions for 1300 yards and 13 TD's. He led his team to the national championship and made 13 receptions in the title game vs. San Francisco City College.

Raymond Taylor—A 5-8, 190-pound running back from Cairo, Georgia and Ellsworth Community College in Iowa. Taylor finished last season with 1223 yards rushing and was an all-conference and all-region performer.

Wayne grapplers lose to Lakeview

WAYNE—The Wayne wrestling team closed out its final regular season dual at Columbus Lakeview, Tuesday night and the Blue Devils fell, 30-18. There were just six matches held with Lakeview winning four. Wayne's Jody Campbell was decisioned 10-4 by Steve Jenny at 112 pounds while Tyler Endicott lost a 4-2 decision to Eric Maschmeier at 119.

Anders Lundsgaard lost by pin to Jeremy Jasper in 5:46 of the 126 pound match while Jeremy Sturm notched Wayne's first win with a 4-2 decision over Phil Bates at 151.

Ryan Brown had the night's most exciting match at 185 pounds as he came from behind to capture a 20-16 decision from D.J. Jasper and in the final match it was Jeff Hamer losing by pin to Nathan Jedlicka in 3:55 of the 215 pound match.

"After a great performance at the Albion Invite we had a let down against Lakeview," Wayne coach John Murtaugh said. "We learned some valuable lessons from this meet and it should motivate us for the district tournament."

Brian Van Hook—A 6-7, 310-pound offensive lineman from Covina, CA and Mt. Sac Junior College in California. Van Hook was a two-year starter and a two-time all-conference performer.

Keyon Vinegar—A 6-2, 325-pound offensive lineman from South Bend, Indiana and College of DuPage of Illinois. Vinegar was a first-team junior college all-American and a two-time all-conference player.

The following is the four-year school transfers to Wayne State:

Robert Ball—A 6-3, 220 pound offensive lineman from Hollywood, FL and Portland State along with San Jacinto junior college. Ball was a starter at Portland State in 1993 and was the offensive line MVP. He played two seasons at Mt. San Jacinto Junior College and was a two-time all-conference performer.

Randy Clemons—A 6-4, 280-pound offensive lineman from Lancaster, CA and Utah State. Clemons redshirted at Utah State last year after being named all-region at Antelope Valley junior college as well as being a two-time all-conference performer.

Lamont Gilchrist—A 5-9, 180-pound cornerback from Omaha and UNO. Gilchrist did not play last season due to injury. In 1993 he was sixth on the team in tackles with 61 and had a team-high seven pass deflections. He was named the team's outstanding defensive back while averaging 22.4 yards in 19 kickoff returns. He was a second-team all-North Central Conference performer.

Gary Murray—A 6-4, 235 pound linebacker from St. Petersburg, FL and St. Cloud State in Minnesota. Murray was a two-year performer with the Huskies.

The "Word" for the Week

God's way to change

In pitch darkness you open your car door, slip behind the wheel, deftly place the key in the ignition, start the car, easily reach for the light switch, put the car into gear and back out of your garage. You are on your way without a thought. You are a creature of habit. On the negative side, your body learns to reject food involuntarily when you train it to do so by bingeing and purging. You can stop putting your finger in your throat but your stomach regurgitates any food you put in it. You need medication. You also need to break the bad habit and form a new one.

Is this possible? Absolutely. "For just as you presented your members as slaves to impurity and lawlessness, resulting in further lawlessness, so now present your members as slaves to righteousness, resulting in sanctification" (Romans 6:19). These are words to people who are no longer slaves to evil desires and bad habits. Empowered by new hearts given by God and by the Holy Spirit, these people must form new habits. Perhaps these people lie every time they open their mouths. Strengthened by new dispositions from God to tell the truth, these same people must practice. They must consciously set aside their lies and tell the truth at every turn. Practice brings new habits and new life.

50-Day Spiritual Adventure provides help facing fears

The Evangelical Free Church of Wayne will be one of more than 4,000 churches participating this spring in a 50-Day Spiritual Adventure designed to help people address and overcome their fears.

Members of the Evangelical Free Church will center their focus on this year's Adventure theme, "Facing Down Our Fears: Finding Courage When Anxiety Grips the Heart," from Feb. 26 through Easter Sunday, April 16.

A 50-Day Spiritual Adventure is a program of accelerated spiritual growth provided by the Chapel of the Air Ministries, an outreach dedicated to the revitalization of Christians and their churches.

Nationwide, individuals, families, small groups and entire churches — well over half a million Christians — will experience the challenge to find courage and face down their fears.

Each 50-Day Spiritual Adventure is built around eight Sundays. This year the Adventure will challenge participants to face eight fears:

- The fear of a society that's breaking down.
- The fear of living insignificant lives.
- The fear of rejection.
- The fear of the big "F" (failure).
- The unhealthy fear of God.
- The fear of sickness, aging and death.
- The fear of threats to our children.
- The fear of rise of evil.

The Adventure coincides with a daily radio program called The Chapel of the Air, which can be heard Monday through Friday on KPNO 90.9 FM at 3:45 p.m.

"I'm delighted that our church can be a part of such a dynamic, powerful Adventure," says Pastor Cal Kroeker. "We anticipate that doing the Adventure together as a church will bring about many positive benefits as we learn to find courage in the midst of our fears."

Pastor Kroeker encourages anyone who would like to become a part of this exciting Adventure to visit the Evangelical Free Church one mile north of Highway 35 on Centennial Road or call 375-4946 for more information.

Counselors receive licenses

Wayne State College counselors Lin Brummels and Karen Granberg recently received their licensure.

Brummels has been employed at Wayne State in counseling positions since 1979, and has been the director of the Counseling Center since 1988. She earned her bachelor's degree in psychology from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, and her master's degree in rehabilitation counseling from Syracuse University.

Granberg has been a counselor at Wayne State since 1989. She earned her bachelor's degree in psychology from Bethel College in St. Paul, Minn., and her master's degree in agency counseling from Wayne State College.

Counselor licensing is the responsibility of the State of Nebraska, Department of Health, Bureau of Examining Boards.

Licensure requirements for Brummels and Granberg included a master's degree in mental health as defined by the Licensure Board, five years experience in providing mental health services and successful completion of the National Counselor Examination required of all nationally certified counselors.

Lin Brummels

Karen Granberg

Brummels and Granberg passed the examination which allowed them to earn NBCC (National Board of Certified Counselors) certification as well as State of Nebraska licensure as mental health practitioners.

DIXON COUNTY TEEN LEADERS

A regular meeting of the Teen Leaders was called to order on Jan. 29 at 7:10 p.m. by Megan Adkins. Pledges were said to the flags and then roll call. The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting and the treasurer's report was given. It was voted on how the scholarships should be given out. The final vote was to give the scholarship directly to the student when they have provided they are enrolled into college. It was also decided to hold the Ronald McDonald House by saving pop can tabs. Finishing up the meeting, the group made a list of what it takes to be a good Teen Leader. A list was also made of things to do for future meetings.

COMMUNITY CLUB

The Allen Community Club met at the Village Inn on Jan. 16 with 20 members present. Sheila Schroeder, president, called the meeting to order. The secretary minutes were read and approved. Old business was discussed.

Kathy Boswell will continue to try to get funding for a sign by the trailer park. Jerry Schroeder reported that the committee will continue to work on getting the Highway 9 and 20 sign put back up at the junction. Kathy Boswell noted that the next "Allen Update" was to be published the end of January.

The Lodge of Allen will sponsor a brunch on Saturday morning during the Allen School centennial to be held in July. The motorcycle club will come and it will be decided what prizes to give. Dean Chase reviewed the plans for the pancake breakfast at the school on Sunday morning from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. It was decided that the Community Club would supply the volunteer workers, with profits possibility being donated to the fire hall construction.

Dwight Gotch gave a report on the new fire hall. At this point they are at a standstill due to lack of funding. The town board has approved using the land between the fire hall and old hardware store as a park. Ronnie Gotch showed several pictures of gazebos and gave price quotes. It was decided to keep the present gazebo committee but change it to the park committee. Members are Ronnie Gotch, Sheila Schroeder, Rita Mates, Dean Chase and Jerry Schroeder. They are to continue work on planning the layout of the park, getting professional help and estimates if necessary. Wayne Chase donated an evergreen tree if it is feasible to move it. It was suggested that payment for the park be through memorial gifts.

The only new business brought before the group was a Nebraska Office of Rural Health Application for grants for health care projects in rural areas. No interest was shown.

LADIES AID

St. Paul's Ladies Aid met Jan. 20 with a study from Lutheran Women's Quarterly and prayer. Donna Stalling opened the business meeting as new president. Projects were discussed for 1995 and it was decided to make quilts and spiritual kits. Spring workshop will be on April 18 at St. John's in Wakefield. Plans were made for the Circuit Pastors Convention at St. Paul in March: A potluck lunch was served.

MERRY HOMEMAKERS

Merry Homemakers Club met Jan. 24 with Mae Pearson as hostess. Thirteen members were present. The spring event and cultural arts contest was discussed. A donation of $100 was given to begin a fund for a portable hair dryer for the Hillcrest Care Center in Laurel. Doris Nelson had entertainment and each one made a Valentine wreath. Husbands will be guests for a night out on Saturday, Feb. 25 at a Wayne restaurant.

Roll call was answered with "a very special valentine."

Mr. and Mrs. Vic Carlson and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Anderson attended the 50th wedding anniversary of Bill and Esther Craig of Prairie Village, Kan. It was held at the Abdallah Shrine Temple in Overland Park, Kan. on Jan. 27. They were house guests of Donald and Nora Pinkston in Overland Park and returned home Jan. 2.

Jan. 29 guests in the Steve Martindale home in honor of their son Dane's fourth birthday were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wacker, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Wacker and family and Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Wacker, all of Wayne.

Concord relatives Mr. and Mrs. Glen Magnuson, Mr. and Mrs. Verdel Erwin, Quinten and Rod Erwin and Mrs. Jack Erwin joined other relatives and friends at the Wayne Care Centre on Jan. 29 to help Verlie Cleveland celebrate her 86th birthday. Afternoon refreshments were hosted by her family and the care centre.

DUE TO ENROLLMENT NUMBER REQUIREMENTS, PRE-REGISTRATION FOR ALL CLASSES IS REQUIRED.

ENROLLMENT POLICY:
Because adult education classes are partially supported by registration fees, we must reserve the right to withdraw a class of which enrollment is not adequate. This will be done, however, only after those who do register are given the opportunity to continue the course in such cases for a slightly higher fee or for lower sessions.
Junior and senior high students may attend by permission only. Registration not complete until all charges paid. Fees will be collected the first evening of classes. Please pay all fees by check made payable to Northeast Community College. Persons enrolling may call the High School between 8:30 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. daily, Monday - Friday. Persons may enroll at the first session if pre-registration numbers are sufficient to have the class.

More ways to file

Keeping up with today's technology, the Internal Revenue Service offers people a choice of ways to file their tax returns.

Over 10 years, acceptance of electronic filing has steadily increased. Now, 14 million people are using it. Preparers and transmission services accepted by the IRS send their clients' tax return data directly from their computers to the IRS. Electronic filing lets people who owe file when they're ready, then send the payment by April 15. Those who get refunds can have them directly deposited into their bank accounts.

People with home computers can prepare their own returns using tax preparation software sold in computer stores. Many software programs come with a 1040PC format that prints out an answer sheet of the return to mail to the IRS. Unlike traditional forms that may have many blank lines, the 1040PC program prints only the lines that have entries. The result is a three column list that fits on one or two pages.

TeleFile lets some people with simple tax returns file by phone. They call a toll-free number using a touch-tone phone and enter total wages, interest and tax withheld. IRS computers figure the adjusted gross income, the tax and any refund or tax owed while the person is on the phone. It is still being tested in certain states. Those who are eligible will get a 1040-TEL tax package in the mail.

Whether people choose the traditional way to file or pick one of these alternatives, they should always double check their return. And keep in mind that the correct Social Security number prevents processing delays, and a complete return address and enough postage will help make sure a mailed return gets to the IRS on time.

Tax guide for small business

Running a business is hard enough without thinking about taxes. But not keeping up with the taxes can break a company. The IRS has a free publication to help explain the tax responsibilities of small businesses. Call 1-800-829-3676 and ask for Publication 334.

Save by filing shorter tax forms

Continuing tax changes make it possible for many people to file simpler returns.

For example, now more people can file Form 1040EZ. Married couples filing a joint return with no dependents may be able to file the EZ as well as those who are single.

Although they may get the same type of form they used to file their return last year, people should review their tax situation to see if filing a different form would be better.

Choosing the simplest tax form may save people time and money. The shorter forms, such as Form 1040EZ or 1040A, reduce the possibility of errors, which reduces the cost to the government for processing them. And the shorter the form, the less it costs people who pay a preparer to fill out their tax return.

The tax package explains the different tax forms. Or get free Publication 17, Your Federal Income Tax, for more details. Forms and publications can be ordered by calling 1-800-829-3676.

It's not just for refunds anymore

Last year 14 million people took advantage of electronic filing. Here's what they learned: Electronic filing produces refunds in three weeks.

But there are other very good reasons for using the Internal Revenue Service's high-tech filing option. With three separate checks for accuracy before processing, electronic filing offers 99.5 percent error-free filing. And in 30 states, one-stop filing for both federal and state tax returns is possible.

And if there are problems with the return as filed, people are notified of them within 48 hours so they can correct them before they become troublesome and expensive. Problems get troublesome because of increased contacts from the IRS. They get expensive with possible penalties and interest.

Also, people who owe tax can file as early as they like and pay what's owed by April 15. By filing electronically, they have the advantage of getting written acknowledgement that their return is accepted for processing. No other way of filing offers this written notice of receipt. The IRS sends reminders to those who "file now, pay later."

Many tax professionals nationwide offer electronic filing. Some even transmit returns people prepare themselves. Electronic filing services and fees vary. Those who are interested can contact tax professionals in their area for specific information.

Mailing something to the IRS?

Did you use enough postage and write in a complete return address? If you didn't, your mail could be delayed reaching the IRS costing you penalties, interest and frustration.

Answers for retirees

Often the IRS is asked, "Is my federal retirement income taxable?" The answer is yes.

Although federal civilian retirees are not taxed on the part of the annuity that represents their own contribution, the rest of the annuity they receive is taxable. This includes disability retirement benefits. The taxable portion must be added to other taxable income (bank interest, dividends, wages, etc.) to determine whether a retiree owes any income tax. Office of Personnel Management (OPM) Form 1099-R, "Statement of Annuity Paid," is mailed to federal retirees in January each year.

For military retirees, generally speaking, retirement pay is taxable. However, if a person retired with disability retirement pay awarded by the Department of Defense (DoD), the disability portion may not be taxable in certain instances. Disability retirement pay should not be confused with disability compensation awarded by the Department of Veterans Affairs (DVA). IRS Publication 525, Taxable and Nontaxable Income, covers disability pay.

IRS Publication 721, Tax Guide to U.S. Civil Service Retirement Benefits, explains the General Rule or the Simplified General Rule to compute the taxable part and the tax-free part of the annuity.

More questions and answers for federal retirees are covered in IRS Publication 1798, Retiring Qs&As. All publications are free by calling 1-800-829-3676.

Child or dependent care straining budget?

You may be able to get a tax credit if you pay someone to care for your children or disabled dependent so you can work. Don't break the bank. Take credit where credit is due. Call the IRS at 1-800-829-3676 and ask for free Publication 503.

Settle overdue taxes now

Haven't filed lately? People who have fallen behind in filing their tax returns should not wait any longer to settle up, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

The IRS says it understands that most people who are behind have personal problems, like a serious illness, a death in the family, divorce or financial setback. But others deliberately avoid filing their taxes or answering IRS notices, and those are the ones the IRS will look hard at.

There are several good reasons to file overdue taxes now. Interest and penalties keep adding up for those who owe taxes, and refunds must be claimed within a certain period of time or people lose their right to the money. Also, people who don't file a return and owe Social Security tax won't have a work history, so they can't collect Social Security benefits when they retire.

It's best for people to go ahead and file their returns, even when they don't have the money to pay if they owe taxes. By sending in a return, they at least won't pay a penalty for not filing.

The IRS has payment options for people who can't afford to pay what they owe. One option is to pay in installments over time.

But some people can't pay enough to cover the penalties and interest that keep adding up and they'll never pay off their taxes. "For those people, we've got an alternative," the IRS says. It's called an offer in compromise. People can make the IRS an offer to settle their tax account for less than the amount owed. The offer must be in the best interest of both the person and the government, which usually means an amount equal to the person's assets. If the IRS decides not to accept an offer, people have the right to appeal that decision.

The IRS will work with those who are trying to catch up on their back taxes. IRS employees can help reconstruct old income records, like Forms W-2 and 1099, that are needed to fill out old returns. And they have tax forms and schedules for past years if people don't have their old tax packages.

"Wiping the slate clean may not sound easy," the IRS says, "but it's easier than you think when you come to us on your own." Those who wait too long may find the IRS harder to deal with.

There are consequences to not filing returns or answering IRS letters. People could face criminal charges. The IRS could file a lien against their property or even seize it. But the IRS tries to contact people and give them a chance to pay voluntarily before taking these enforcement steps.

When people deal with the IRS, they should know their rights as taxpayers. They should also find out more about the collection process, how it affects them, and where to go for help if a problem can't get resolved.

Details on these topics are covered in Publication 1, Your Rights As a Taxpayer, and Publication 594, Understanding the Collection Process. Both are available in Spanish. Call 1-800-829-3676 for free copies.

HELLO? IRS?

Fuel for farmers

Normally, diesel fuel removed from a refinery or terminal has a federal excise tax imposed on it. But diesel fuel used on a farm for farming purposes is exempt from federal excise tax.

To identify tax exempt diesel fuel, the fuel is dyed either blue or red. Blue dye indicates high sulfur fuel that may be used by farmers only for off-road farming purposes. Red dyed low sulfur fuel may be used by farmers for home heating and in off-road vehicles.

Undyed diesel fuel can be purchased tax free from a registered ultimate vendor. The buyer must give the vendor a signed certificate verifying that the fuel will be used only on a farm for farming purposes. This does not include undyed fuel purchased for use as heating oil or other nontaxable use.

Any person or business using dyed fuel in a highway vehicle, selling or using dyed fuel for a taxable use, or willfully altering or attempting to alter the strength or composition of a dyed fuel is subject to penalties. The penalty is $10 for every gallon or $1,000, whichever is greater. After the first violation, the $1,000 portion of the penalty increases depending on the number of violations.

The IRS believes that until persons have become familiar with these new rules, farmers and over the road truckers are in the most vulnerable position for violating them.

For more information, call 1-800-829-3676 to get free Publication 510, Excise Taxes for 1995.

Double check tax payments

Every year thousands of people send tax payments to the IRS without the correct Social Security number and other necessary identification. These payments are often delayed from being credited to taxpayers' accounts.

People can avoid a note from the tax man just by making sure the right identification is on their tax payment before mailing it to the IRS. Here's what the payment should have on it.

- A correct identification number (Social Security number). If filing for someone else, make sure the person's name and correct identification number is on the payment.

- The tax year the payment is for, and the type of form, like "1992 Form 1040" or "1995 Form 1040A."

- The correct mailing address and a daytime phone number.

- "Internal Revenue Service" spelled out (not "IRS").

- The check, money order, or related payment signed. (Never send cash or postage stamps when making tax payments.)

Attach the payment to the front of the tax return. If it is separated from the return or correspondence before it is credited to the taxpayer's account, the information on the payment will identify who it belongs to.

Take a quick check to see if the tax return is correct, too. A complete and easy-to-read return can stop problems before they occur. For example, income reported on the wrong line can slow down the processing of a tax return. Here's what to double check for.

- All names and Social Security numbers are correct and are on each form and schedule.

- Arithmetic is correct; decimal points are in the right place.

- The right amount from the proper column in the tax table is used.

- All Forms W-2, "Wage and Tax Statement," and other necessary tax forms and schedules are attached in the right order.

- The return is signed and dated.

A little time now spent checking the return and payment can save a lot of hassle later, or a lot of time waiting for a refund if one is due.

Security is top priority

Protecting the privacy and security of tax returns is a top priority at the Internal Revenue Service.

More than 100 million tax returns, and millions more related tax documents, are received by the IRS each year. All tax information is confidential and is not subject to disclosure, except as specifically provided by the Internal Revenue Code.

New systems are being developed at the IRS to handle the increasing workload. And with more modern capabilities, taxpayers should see a big improvement in how the IRS answers their needs.

"We are making sure appropriate safeguards are built into these new systems to better protect the confidentiality of taxpayers' information," the IRS says.

For example, in the electronic filing of tax returns, the IRS employs user identification and authentication techniques, like passwords, to prevent unauthorized access. Plans are underway to code tax data so that no tax material is transmitted in plain text. This will provide protection from unauthorized access and disclosure.

Also, beginning this year, tax professionals participating in the electronic filing program will have to submit a set of fingerprints with their applications. They also must authorize the IRS to get a credit report.

"These checks will help us verify identities and confirm there are no criminal convictions," the IRS says. The FBI will check the fingerprints against its criminal record files. The IRS already checks the tax records of applicants to identify any tax compliance problems that would bar a person from the electronic filing program.

The release of taxpayer data by the IRS to outside agencies is also carefully controlled by applicable laws.

"The privacy of taxpayer information continues to be a cornerstone of the U.S. tax system," the IRS says. "And we take every step possible to protect it."

Tax credits available

The tax laws include a number of credits for taxpayers. They range from the earned income and child and dependent care credits, to the mortgage interest and foreign tax credits. Call 1-800-829-3676 to get free Publication 17 for info on the credits available.

IRS matches income with earning statements

Report all your income on your tax return. Your employer, bank and others who make payments to you send copies of your statements to the IRS. The IRS matches these statements with your tax return so it can verify the income you report.

Damages awarded, not taxed

If you are awarded damages from a claim of discrimination under the U.S. Civil Rights laws or from a claim under the Americans With Disabilities Act, you do not include it as income when you file your tax return.

By hiring household workers ordinary people become employers

Hiring household workers can turn ordinary people into employers, and they may not even know it.

When people hire babysitters, cooks, maids, or gardeners to work at their homes; when they tell the workers what, when, where, and how to do the job; when they give workers the tools they need, and can fire them, too, they become household employers.

These employers have tax responsibilities that other people do not. They first must have an employer identification number (EIN), which can be applied for either by mail or by telephone. Then they must keep a record of the name and Social Security number of each employee for tax purposes.

Household employers must withhold Social Security and Medicare Tax (FICA) from employee wages, as well as pay an equal amount from their own funds. They also must withhold federal income tax if the employee asks for it and they agree.

Depending on the amount of wages paid to employees, household employers may have to pay Federal Unemployment Tax (FUTA), or advance payment of the earned income tax credit if the employee qualifies for it.

None of the taxes apply, however, if the worker is hired through an agency that is responsible for who does the work and how it is done. For example, a nurse is hired from a home health care agency to tend to an elderly parent. The agency sets and collects the wages, pays the nurse and requires regular reports from the nurse.

But if the agency only gives out a list of nurses, is not responsible for how the work is done and does not collect the wages, then chances are the nurse is a household employee. In that case, the taxes apply.

An employer also has to file certain forms with the Internal Revenue Service. These forms are to report the amount of tax withheld from employees' wages and are filed either quarterly or at the end of the year, depending on the amount of wages paid and the type of tax.

For specific information on this topic and on getting an EIN, call 1-800-829-3676 and ask for free Publication 926, Employment Taxes for Household Employers.

Tax incentives

Some businesses qualify

Businesses operating in distressed urban and rural areas may get some tax breaks, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Under the Revenue Reconciliation Act of 1993, qualified businesses operating in certain distressed areas called "empowerment zones" and "enterprise communities" get special tax incentives.

State and local governments nominate and devise strategic plans for areas that meet eligibility requirements in population, distress, size and poverty rate. The goal is to revitalize these areas by bringing in businesses and employing residents, the IRS says.

Businesses operating in one of these areas will be eligible for up to three incentives. Those in empowerment zones may get an employer wage credit, increased section 179 deduction and new tax-exempt bond financing. Those in enterprise communities will be eligible only for the tax-exempt bond financing incentive.

By the end of 1995, the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development will name up to six empowerment zones and 65 enterprise communities in urban areas. The Secretary of Agriculture will name up to three empowerment zones and 30 enterprise communities in rural areas.

The designation as an empowerment zone or enterprise community will stay in effect for up to 10 years. If the state or local government changes the boundaries of the area, or does not follow the agreed strategic plan, then the designation may be revoked.

Full-time student working is a taxpaying person

Yes, it's true! Being a full-time high school or college student with a part-time job is enough to make a person a taxpayer.

That means "taxpayer responsibility" ...to report income to the Internal Revenue Service by filing an income tax return. Wages, tips, self-employment income, investment income (including interest on a bank account), and taxable scholarships and fellowships are kinds of income students often get that they have to pay tax on.

When students begin working, they fill out a Form W-4, "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate," to help their employer determine the amount of taxes to withhold from their paychecks. They should use the W-4 worksheet to figure out how many allowances they can get. Students may claim one allowance on their W-4 for themselves if no one else can claim them as a dependent. This lessens the amount of tax withheld from each paycheck. If students choose to claim zero allowances, their employer will withhold more.

Any time their income changes, students should take another look at the allowances on their W-4. It could mean the difference between paying tax or getting a refund at the end of the year.

When filing a tax return, students usually take the standard deduction that reduces the amount of income a person pays tax on. People who paid large medical bills, mortgage interest, state or local income taxes, or contributions to charities may want to itemize deductions if the dollar amount totals more than the standard deduction.

Students are not required to file a tax return if their income is less than a certain amount. But to get a refund of any taxes that were withheld from their paychecks during the year, they must file a return.

Most students can probably file using Form 1040EZ. It's the shortest, simplest form. However, Form 1040EZ cannot be used if income includes more than $400 of taxable interest, any amount of dividends, or any income from self-employment. In these cases, students must use Form 1040 or Form 1040A.

For details about students and tax filing responsibilities, get free Publication 17, Your Federal Income Tax. It can be ordered, along with tax forms, by calling the IRS at 1-800-829-3676.

Restaurants, IRS agree on tips

The Internal Revenue Service is giving restaurant owners nationwide an opportunity to participate in a new program to encourage more accurate reporting of employees' tips.

Restaurant owners and the IRS can enter into a voluntary agreement called a Tip Rate Determination Agreement. Under the agreement, the owner and the IRS agree on the correct tip rate based on the last six months of business. This rate is then used for tip reporting by the restaurant owner and the tipped employees.

At least three-fourths of the employees must agree to report tips at this rate, although if employees keep an accurate record of their actual tips, they need report only the actual amount. Employers and employees will not be audited on the tip issue as long as they are participating in the program.

"These agreements ensure employees properly report their tips with a minimum of hassle," the IRS says. And they provide employers with an accurate method of reporting.

"Although employers pay FICA (Social Security and Medicare) taxes on the tips reported by their employees, they are entitled to a credit for a portion of the tips reported after December 31, 1993," the IRS says.

For more information, or to explore the possibilities of signing up for a Tip Rate Determination Agreement, restaurant owners can call or write to their local IRS district director.

Children at school?

You may be able to claim your children as dependents, even if they lived at school most of the year. You can find all the "tests" for claiming a dependent, plus other filing information, in Publication 501. Call 1-800-829-3676 for a free copy.

Tips that workers get are taxable

Tips that workers get are taxable income. If tips total $20 or more a month while working for one employer, workers must report them to the employer. Employers must withhold income, Social Security and Medicare taxes on those tips. Then employers must file Form 941 to report the withholding to the IRS. Get all the details by calling 1-800-829-3676 and asking for free Publication 15, Circular E, Employer's Tax Guide.

Taxes

One thing that unites most of the people in American today is their aversion to taxes. Everyone dislikes taxes, and unfortunately, many people have become somewhat resigned to their fate. They seem to feel that short of moving to another country, there is nothing that they can do to reduce their income tax liability. Well, that is simply not true. There are a number of investments and strategies that you can use to reduce your income tax liability.

There are three main classes of tax-favored investments for you to consider. Tax-exempt investments are completely free of federal income taxes, and in some cases, state and local taxes. Tax-deferred investments defer taxes on all investment income and capital gains until the investment reaches maturity or the income is withdrawn. Finally, tax-advantaged investments shelter a portion of the income they generate from federal income taxes. In addition, they may generate tax credits that can be applied to the investor's federal income tax.

In addition to investing, there are a number of strategies you can use to improve your tax situation. If you're considering selling shares of a mutual fund, instruct your broker to sell the specific shares that you purchased for the highest amount of money so you can reduce your capital gain and the resulting taxes.

However, even after considering these investments and strategies for reducing your tax liability, there are still a number of dilemmas that you may have to face. After all, these options may not be the right ones for you. However, talk to an investment professional and ask them about any other strategies or investments that will help you find the tax reduction program to best suit your needs.

Tips to save taxes

Intelligent tax planning can be a powerful in protecting — and building — your assets. When seeking to minimize your tax bite, it is important to know how deep that bite is.

Tax-Exempt Investments

One way to reduce the tax bite is through tax-exempt investments. The most commonly used tax-exempt investments are municipal bonds and muni-bond funds. Virtually any bond issued by a state or local (municipal) entity is free from federal income tax. Bonds issued by Nebraska entities are also state income tax exempt.

Tax Credits

Another strategy which can take a big bite out of income tax is to maximize tax credits. A variety of tax credits exist for such things as qualified day care for dependents, earned income credits and investments in subsidized housing. Unlike deductions, tax credits offset taxes paid dollar for dollar.

Tax-Deferred Investments

The interest and dividends paid on certain tax-deferred products such as deferred annuities and universal life insurance are not immediately taxable. Tax deferral allows you to earn a return on dollars otherwise paid in taxes while you postpone the payment of taxes until receipt of this income at a later date — preferably when you are in a lower tax bracket.

IRAs

You may make fully deductible IRA contributions if: (1) you and your spouse are not covered by an employer-maintained retirement plan for any part of the year or (2) you are or your spouse is covered by an employer-maintained retirement plan and your combined adjusted gross income (AGI) does not exceed the applicable dollar amount (see a financial advisor for details). You may contribute up to $2,000 or 100% of your compensation, whichever is smaller. IRAs can be invested in certificates, annuities or mutual funds and securities. They grow tax deferred until receipt of this income at retirement.

Itemize

In 1994, individuals are allowed a standard deduction of $3,800 and married couples are allowed $6,350. If your itemized deductions exceed the applicable amount you may deduct the greater amount from your adjusted gross income (AGI). Some of the deductions allowed are: (1) medical and dental expenses exceeding 7.5% of AGI, (2) real estate and state income taxes you paid, (3) home mortgage interest, including home equity loans, (4) charitable contributions, (5) qualified employee business expenses above 2% of AGI and (6) other qualified casualty expenses.

A variety of other tax-saving strategies exist for retired taxpayers which can reduce or eliminate taxes on Social Security benefits or qualify for homestead exemption. For further information or clarification contact George or Jennifer Phelps, Scott Rath or Curt Wilwerding at American Express Financial Advisors at 375-1848, 254-6270 or 1-800-657-2123.

Disaster: IRS may be able to help

If your main home was damaged and located within a declared federal disaster area, the IRS may be able to help. You can file an amended tax return for last year right now and get a refund of taxes you have already paid. Call 1-800-829-3676 to get Publications 547, 1600 or 1600SP (Spanish).

Get tax saving now on retirement income

Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs) are still a great way to lower taxes now and save for the future.

"They are personal savings plans that offer a tax advantage to people who set aside money for retirement," the IRS says. That means people may be able to deduct all or part of their contributions to an IRA. And the amounts in the IRA, including earnings and gains, are not taxed until they are distributed.

People with taxable compensation, like wages, commissions, taxable alimony and tips, who are younger than age 70 1/2 at the end of the year can contribute to an IRA. They may also be able to contribute to an IRA for a spouse who doesn't work.

"Contributions must be in the form of money, such as cash, check or money order," the IRS says. "Property doesn't count." The most that can be contributed for any year is $2,000 or taxable compensation, whichever is smaller. People can put money into an IRA at any time during the year or by the due date of their tax return for that year, not including extensions.

"People now have a myriad of choices on how to invest in an IRA," the IRS says. "But all IRA plans must meet Internal Revenue Code requirements." Different IRAs can be set up with a variety of organizations at any time during the year. They can be set up at a bank or other financial institution or with a mutual fund or life insurance company. They can also be set up through a stockbroker.

Publication 590, Individual Retirement Arrangements, gives more information on IRAs, including how to report contributions, when to start withdrawing money and what actions will result in penalties. Order it free by calling 1-800-829-3676.

Change your name lately?

If your name has changed for some reason, like marriage or divorce, notify the Social Security Administration (SSA). If the name and Social Security number you show on your tax return do not match the one SSA has on record, there can be a delay in getting your federal income tax refund.

Change in address: tell the IRS

If the IRS doesn't have your current address, any mail they send, including refunds, may end up back at the post office as undeliverable. That could cost you a lot. Remember, anyone who moves for any reason should be sure to send the IRS Form 8822. This form lets them know of your change in address. Don't let your refund get lost or returned to the IRS.

Be aware of tax law changes in 1994

Help the disabled and get a break

If you own or operate a business, you can get tax breaks for helping persons with disabilities. You can deduct the costs of removing architectural or transportation barriers so access to your business is easier for disabled or elderly people. You can get a credit for the costs of providing access to disabled persons, like furnishing special equipment, or interpreters and readers for persons with hearing and visual impairments. You can also get a credit for hiring those with special employment needs. Get free Publications 334 and 535 by calling 1-800-829-3676.

People should be aware of some of the tax law changes for 1994 that could make a difference on the bottom line of their tax return.

The standard mileage rate for the cost of using one's car for business miles is up a penny to 29 cents per mile. And for business travel away from home, people can't deduct the travel expenses paid for someone accompanying them, such as a spouse, unless that person is an employee, has a specific business purpose for the travel, and would otherwise be allowed to deduct the travel expenses.

For those who work and have qualifying children, the earned income tax credit amount will increase. The amount a person can earn and still be eligible for the credit will increase, too. No longer available will

Tax info for disabled

You may get special tax benefits if you have a hearing or visual impairment, are permanently and totally disabled or have disabled dependent care expenses. Also, you may be able to deduct work-related expenses necessary for you to do your job. Get all the tax breaks you're entitled to. be the health insurance credit and the extra credit for a child born during the year.

The earned income tax credit expands to include people who work but don't have any qualifying children. They can file for the credit using Form 1040EZ. However, people with qualifying children must use either Form 1040 or 1040A.

Also in 1994, Social Security and equivalent tier 1 railroad retirement benefits may be taxed at a higher rate. Some people may continue to include up to 50 percent of their benefits in taxable income, while others may have to include up to 85 percent. Whether the new 85-percent rate applies depends on a person's income.

Beginning in 1994, people who make a charitable contribution of $250 or more must get written documentation from the charity before they can deduct it. Also, any charity that gets a payment over $75 that is partly a contribution and partly for goods or services must give the donor a written statement, giving the value of the goods or services and stating that only the amount over that value is tax deductible.

Some work-related moving expenses are no longer deductible. They include meals while moving from the old to new home; travel expenses, meals and lodging for pre-move househunting trips; meals and lodging while staying in temporary quarters near the new job; and qualified home sale, purchase and lease expenses. Also, to deduct allowable moving expenses, the new main job location must be at least 50 miles farther from the former home than the old main job location. This changed from 35 miles.

Moving expenses will no longer be an itemized deduction. People will be able to deduct these expenses in figuring their adjusted gross income. And they can only deduct the expenses that are not reimbursed by their employer. Employer reimbursements are not included in income.

Starting in 1994, people can deduct only 50 percent of the cost of business meals and entertainment expenses. And there is no longer a deduction for dues and fees for membership in clubs; although people can still deduct specific business expenses, such as meals, that are spent at a club if the expenses meet certain requirements.

Luxury taxes on aircraft, boats, furs and jewelry were repealed. However, for 1994, the luxury tax does apply to passenger vehicles with a sales price over $32,000. The tax does not apply to parts and accessories installed to help a person with a disability operate, enter or exit the vehicle.

Bartering: What's in a trade

Everyone wants to find ways to make their money go just a little bit farther. Many have found bartering, that is, trading property or services for something of equal or near value, to be an excellent way to make a little income go a long way. However, just like other forms of income, bartering income must be included on one's federal income tax return.

An example of bartering might be a cattle rancher with a tractor in need of repair. A friend, who happens to be a mechanic, might agree to fix the tractor for a side of fresh beef. The fair market value of both the repair and the side of beef must be reported as income by the recipients.

In the case of the rancher and the mechanic, fair market value for the repair is what an unrelated person would have paid if he went to a repair service for the job. The fair market value of the side of beef would be what the rancher would have charged a stranger for it. If the parties agree ahead of time on the value of the products or services being traded, that value will be accepted unless it can be shown to be otherwise.

Anyone who barter through a barter exchange should receive a Form 1099-B, "Proceeds from Broker and Barter Exchange Transactions," or similar statement, by January 31 of the following year. The statement will generally show the value of cash, property, services, credits or scrip received from exchanges during the year. For more information, get Publication 525, Taxable and Nontaxable Income, by calling 1-800-829-3676.

IRS hears small business owners

Small business owners have an ear at the Internal Revenue Service. The newly established Office of Small Business Affairs listens and responds to tax-related concerns and issues facing small business owners and helps improve their ability to follow the tax laws.

The office is the national contact for small business owners or their representatives to voice concerns or suggestions about IRS policies, regulations and tax laws. Its staff will then recommend changes to any of these that cause undue burden or are unfair. It will assist other IRS offices to understand small business owners' needs and motivations when developing regulations and policies related to the small business community.

The office will also be a communications link to the organizations responsible for informing small businesses and their representatives about IRS products and services. And it will work with the Small Business Administration and other federal, state and county government agencies that will reduce the small business burden governmentwide.

At this time, small business owners or their representatives who have concerns or suggestions about specific IRS policies and tax laws can write to the IRS Office of Small Business Affairs PC, Room 1313, 1111 Constitution Avenue NW, Washington DC 20224. Small business owners with problems other than policy issues still have an advocate in the Problem Resolution Program (PRP) office. Those who have not been able to solve a chronic tax situation after repeated attempts through normal IRS channels can count on PRP staff to give immediate attention to their problem. Call 1-800-829-1040 and ask for PRP.

Understanding all the tax rules for businesses may never be easy, but with the Office of Small Business Affairs on one's side, soon following the rules may not be so hard.

Dealing with death and taxes

When someone dies, it often means the start of a process that includes collecting all of their assets, paying the creditors, and distributing the remaining assets to the heirs or other beneficiaries. And keeping the old maxim in mind, a tax return for the decedent (the person who died) also must be filed with the Internal Revenue Service.

All these things can be done by the personal representative of the decedent's estate: an executor, an administrator, or anyone who is in charge of the decedent's property.

Depending on when the person died, the representative may need to file more than one tax return. If the person died between January 1 and April 15, and had not yet filed the previous year's tax return, the representative must file on or before April 15 of that year. Any other prior year returns not filed by the decedent also must be filed at this time.

However, the IRS does not consider this to be the final tax return. The representative may have to file the final return on or before April 15 of the following year to account for any income or liability the decedent had between January 1 and the date of death.

If taxes are owed, the representative must collect the amount from the estate and send a check with the tax return. If a refund is due, the representative must attach to the return a copy of the court certificate showing his or her appointment as representative. This certificate authorizes the IRS to make the refund payment to the decedent's estate. Power of attorney or a copy of the will is not acceptable. Form 1310, "Statement of Person Claiming Refund Due a Deceased Taxpayer," may be required for those who are not court appointed or certified representatives.

Generally, a surviving spouse may file a joint return for the decedent if he or she did not remarry in the year of death. In this case, making a payment or claiming a refund is handled the same way as if the person were still alive.

The surviving spouse or personal representative should promptly give notice of the death to all parties, including financial institutions, who paid income to the decedent. This will ensure the proper reporting of income earned by the estate or heirs.

A person's death can also have an effect on the tax returns of the heirs and the estate. It may be wise to have the representative coordinate the filing of all tax returns to make sure they are done correctly.

Extra take home pay available with tax credit

It's always news when the IRS takes money from people. But, how often do you hear about them adding extra money to paychecks?

It's no tall tale. The IRS and employers nationwide are working together to help families get the earned income tax credit (EITC) throughout the year. Families who will earn under $24,396 in 1995 and have at least one child living with them for more than half the year may qualify to receive extra money in each paycheck.

"It's a simple concept," the IRS says. "Based on the amount of earnings, the employer adds an additional amount of money, which is actually a portion of the EITC, to eligible employees' pay. That means more money to take home now, instead of waiting to get a refund next year when the tax return is filed."

The earned income tax credit is not new. It's been around since 1974. However, in the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993, Congress expanded the credit and raised the income level to make more people eligible for it. The income level will be adjusted each year for inflation.

There are two ways to get the credit. The first is by claiming the credit on the income tax return when it's filed. People who have at least one qualifying child must attach Schedule EIC. The second is "in advance," meaning that the person can get part of the credit in each paycheck throughout the year. The IRS calls the second option the advance earned income tax credit, or AEITC.

To get the AEITC, employees must fill out a Form W-5 and give it to their employers' payroll office. The W-5 should be available through employers. If not, the form and Publication 596, Earned Income Credit, which outlines the rules to qualify for the credit, can be ordered free by calling 1-800-829-3676.

People who get the AEITC must file a tax return by the following April 15th to report the amount of credit they received. In addition, if people find they are no longer eligible for the credit because their circumstances changed, they must complete a new W-5 form and give it to their employer to stop the payments.

The self-employed and people without children are not eligible to get the credit in advance, but they may be able to claim it when they file their return.

"We want to encourage every person who is eligible for EITC to apply for the credit. If people need assistance or have tax questions, IRS-trained volunteers are on hand to offer free one-on-one tax help through the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program, called VITA," the IRS offered. "The volunteers can help fill out basic tax returns, tell people if they are eligible to get the earned income tax credit or the advance payment of the earned income tax credit, and help them complete the forms."

VITA sites are available in many cities nationwide. To locate one nearby, call the IRS at 1-800-829-1040.

Clean fuel vehicles pay off

You may get a tax break if you own an electric or clean-fuel vehicle. The vehicle must meet certain requirements and be placed in service from July 1, 1993, through December 31, 2004. For more info, get free Publication 535 by calling 1-800-829-3676.
