Planners vote to kill rural zoning

Of the Herald

Land use regulation of rural areas of Wayne County is not going to happen any time soon.

Facing a maelstrom of opposition to zoning rules the Wayne County Joint Planning Commission voted 7-1 Thursday night not to recommend that the Wayne County Commissioners adopt zoning in the county. The vote, which came after nearly four years of work on a comprehensive plan and preparation of a draft of zoning rules, effectively kills local land use restrictions for Wayne County.

The vote drew applause from the more than 150 rural residents who attended Thursday's public hearing on the proposal. Many in the audience had spoken against the basic idea of zoning and some had openly criticized the nine appointed commissioners for their participation in the process.

THE JOINT Planning Commission unanimously approved resolutions recommending that the three villages of Carroll, Hoskins and Winside, each adopt the zoning and subdivision regulations as they perte to those community bounda.

Each of the villages, if the measures are approved by their local boards, will have a one-mile zone of control around their boundaries in which they can limit and control develop-

THE COMMISSION was appointed in 1991 to address concerns about uncontrolled urban encroachment into agricultural areas. Zoning was seen then as a means to protect agriculture, one commissioner said. Most of the limits on rural development were removed from the regulations in earlier meetings at which there was strong opposition expressed from rural residents.

"We just felt like we were hanging out there without any support," said another commissioner who added he was tired of seeing his friends turn into enemies over the issue. He said that is why he voted to end the process.

"WE DON'T REALLY know the_status of this group in lieu of what has happened tonight," said commission chairman Neil Sandahl. He was the only member who voted against the motion to not recom-mend the zoning ordinance to the county commissioners. He said it will be up to the commissioners to decide what to do with the commis-

Becky Hanna, with the consulting firm of Hanna-Keelan Associates said the villages may have to reformulate the commission without representatives from the rural areas or they may chose to form separate commissions in each village

Not all of the testimony Thursday was against zoning rules, three residents spoke in favor of implementing rules and some of those who voiced opposition to the existing draft said they could see a need for certain rules but none as extensive as the 57 page zoning document which was being debated.

ALBERT NELSON of rural Wakefield said he was definitely against the 57 page document. He recommended a "common sense approach" that might involve "a page or two of zoning rules drawn up by the farmers. Not by town people.

"Land use regulations might do a few things for you but it can also do a lot of things to you," said Fredrick Mann. He said the zoning proposals on the table would create a bureaucracy that would keep growing. He added zoning regulations would "create more conflict than they would solve."

James Johnson argued that the zoning regulations would mean adneed for enforcement of the zoning You're just opening up a big box that is going to cause problems down the road," he said asking the commissioners to look at Wayne which has had zoning for more than 20 years.

"GOVERNMENT IS not the answer to our problems," said Carl Mellor, Wakefield. He said he watched the spread of corporate farming in Kansas and the plowing of county road rights of way for cropland. "I haven't seen a dime's worth of benefit from all the regulations," he added.

"The residents of Wayne County, the property owners of Wayne County, are the best deciders of what to do with property laws," said Kevin Kai. He said whatever regulations the commissioners might pass could be changed too easily later on and therefore nothing should be en-

Wayne autorney Duane Schroeder also argued against the zoning regulations although the quipped if the rules were passed "it will probably bring me a lot of business,,, but it is business I don't think I want." He said he was philosophically opposed because he doesn't think we need big brother to take care of us." He added, "Anytime we regulate ourselves, we make ourselves less free.'

Bonnie Nelson said she thought that leases were up for farmers who were renting farm ground," said one local resident. Most, but not all, of those who were moving on March 1 were farmers who were renting ground and for one reason or another, were moving to another farm. Sometimes, the farmer had owned the ground but, because of the Depression, couldn't pay for it. Other times the owner of the ground had a son who was now old enough to farm and the farmer who had been farming the ground was forced to move. Other movers were relocating to larger farms. There weren't huge numbers of people moving, but because Moving Day was al-ways March 1, it seemed like a big event," said one of those old enough to remember moving on several occasions.

Bob Merchant recalls that a hitching post for horses was located of the present fire station and on Moving Day, it would be filled with horses belonging to farmers on the move. "There would be a line of horses almost a half block long. The people that were moving would stop in town to have dinner before they moved into their new home," he said.

"March 1 was Moving Day regardless of the weather. Many times, the roads, which were just dirt at that time, would be very muddy and the horses and wagons would come into town covered with

School officials across Nebraska are watching the Legislature to see what state senators do with a proposal to eliminate educational service units that let schools share expenses for some support services.
Without an ESU local school districts are still going to have to provide the federally mandated programs of special education and the ost would probably be higher, said Wayne School Superintendent Dr. Dennis Jensen.

Other school officials said the loss of ESUs would hurt.

"It would be terrible" if ESUs were eliminated, said Moseley, superintendent of the Phelps County School District in south-central Nebraska. He said ESUs are particularly important for smaller districts.

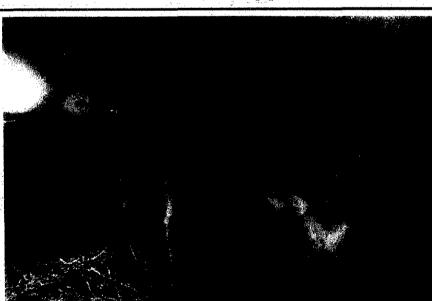

"We can't go out and hire a psy-chologist," Moseley told the Omaha World-Herald.

Services provided by ESUs vary in each district. They include data processing, film and video libraries, Internet computer links, driver education and specialists such as speech

There are 19 ESUs in the state. Seventeen serve regions. The Omaha and Lincoln school districts each are served by their own ESU.

Sen. Paul Hartnett of Bellevue introduced a measure (LB780) that calls for elimination of ESUs. He also introduced a bill (LB761) that would lower the property tax levy ESUs can assess, and another (LB733) that would make it easier

More than a handful

A ewe on the Roy Gramlich farm near Carroll delivered six healthy lambs Wednesday in what ag officials call an almost unheard of occurrence. Wayne Veterinarian Dr. Ken Liska who attended, said he has never heard of such a feat. Dennis Brink, animal science professor with the University of Nebraska-Lincoln said based on USDA studies quint lambs come along only .009 percent of the time. There are no stats on six lambs at once. He estimated it can't happen more often than one in a million births. "This is the boys' 4-H project that got out of hand," said Mrs. Gramlich of the family's sheep operation. The ewe cannot raise six lambs, so part of her brood was adopted out.

Guard cuts slight in Wayne

Nebraska's Army National Guard announced extensive reorganization plans in an effort to reduce its force but the plans are expected to have. little immediate impact in Wayne.

Currently, the Wayne guard unit has an authorized strength of 130. but only has 101 guardsmen on the force at this time

The plans announced by Maj. Gen. Stanley Heng, the state's adjutant general, Wayne's new authorized force will be 111 guardsmen.

Heng said Wednesday the overall Nebraska Guard manpower will be reduced by 1,321 positions and one armory will be eliminated in cuts ordered by the Pentagon.

Heng said the Nebraska Guard has known the cuts were coming and had already reduced the number of members in most units through attrition in recent months.

He said the new force numbers will allow some units, like Wayne,

Planners vote to kill rural zoning

Of the Herald

Land use regulation of rural areas of Wayne County is not going to happen any time soon.

Facing a maelstrom of opposition to zoning rules the Wayne County Joint Planning Commission voted 7-1 Thursday night not to recommend that the Wayne County Commissioners adopt zoning in the county. The vote, which came after nearly four years of work on a comprehensive plan and preparation of a draft of zoning rules, effectively kills local land use restrictions for Wayne County.

The vote drew applause from the more than 150 rural residents who attended Thursday's public hearing on the proposal. Many in the audience had spoken against the basic idea of zoning and some had openly criticized the nine appointed commissioners for their participation in the process.

THE JOINT Planning Commission unanimously approved resolutions recommending that the three villages of Carroll, Hoskins and Winside, each adopt the zoning and subdivision regulations as they pert to those community bounda.

Each of the villages, if the measures are approved by their local boards. will have a one-mile zone of control around their boundaries in-which they can limit and control development.

There was no opposition expressed at the public hearing to the need for land use regulations within the vil-

THE COMMISSION was appointed in 1991 to address concerns about uncontrolled urban encroachment into agricultural areas. Zoning was seen then as a means to protect agriculture, one commissioner said. Most of the limits on rural development were removed from the regulations in earlier meetings at which there was strong opposition expressed from rural residents.

"We just felt like we were hanging out there without any support," said another commissioner who added he was tired of seeing his friends turn into enemies over the issue. He said that is why he voted to end the process.

"WE DON'T REALLY know the status of this group in lieu of what has happened tonight," said commission chairman Neil Sandahl. He was the only member who voted against the motion to not recommend the zoning ordinance to the county commissioners. He said it will be up to the commissioners to decide what to do with the commis-

Becky Hanna, with the consulting firm of Hanna-Keelan Associates said the villages may have to refor mulate the commission without representatives from the rural areas or they may chose to form separate commissions in each village.

Not all of the testimony Thursday was against zoning rules, three residents spoke in favor of implementing rules and some of those who voiced opposition to the existing draft said they could see a need for certain rules but none as extensive as the 57 page zoning document which was being debated.

ALBERT NELSON of rural Wakefield said he was definitely against the 57 page document. He recommended a "common sense approach" that might involve "a page or two of zoning rules drawn up by the farmers. Not by town people."-

"Land use regulations might do a few things for you but it can also do a lot of things to you," said Fredrick Mann. He said the zoning proposals on the table would create a bureaucracy that would keep growing. He added zoning regulations would create more conflict than they would solve."

James Johnson argued that the zoning regulations would mean adneed for enforcement of the zoning laws. "You're just opening up a big box that is going to cause problems down the road," he said asking the commissioners to look at Wayne which has had zoning for more than 20 years.

"GOVERNMENT IS not the answer to our problems," said Carl Mellor, Wakefield. He said he watched the spread of corporate farming in Kansas and the plowing of county road rights of way for cropland. "I haven't seen a dime's worth of benefit from all the regulations," he added.

"The residents of Wayne County, the property owners of Wayne County, are the best deciders of what to do with property laws," said Kevin Kai. He said whatever regulations the commissioners might pass could be changed too easily later on and therefore nothing should be en-

Wayne attorney Duane Schroeder also argued against the zoning regulations although the quipped if the rules were passed "it will probably bring me a lot of business,,, but it is business I don't think I want." He said he was philosophically opposed because he doesn't think we need big brother to take care of us." He added, "Anytime we regulate ourselves, we make ourselves less free.

Moving Day. The words bring to mind U-Haul trailers full of possessions and large moving vans with carefully packed articles. However, as several older residents of Wayne remember "Moving Day" of the 1920s, 30s and 40s, the process was more complicated.

"During that -time, "Moving

Day" was always done on or just before March 1. That was the day were renting farm ground," said one local resident.

Most, but not all, of those who were moving on March 1 were farmers who were renting ground and for one reason or another, were moving to another farm "Sometimes, the farmer had owned the ground but, because of the Depression, couldn't pay for it. Other times the owner of the ground had a son who was now old enough to farm and the farmer who had been farming the ground was forced to move. Other movers were relocating to larger farms. There weren't huge numbers of people moving, but because Moving Day was always March I, it seemed like a big event," said one of those old enough to remember moving on several occasions.

Bob Merchant recalls that a hitching post for horses was located just west of the present fire station and on Moving Day, it would be filled with horses belonging to be a line of horses almost a half block long. The people that were moving would stop in town to have dinner before they moved into their new home," he said.

"March I was Moving Day regardless of the weather. Many times, the roads, which were just dirt at that time, would be very muddy and the horses and wagons would come into town covered with

Educators eye ESU measures

School officials across Nebraska are watching the Legislature to see what state senators do with a pro-posal to eliminate educational service units that let schools share expenses for some support services.

Without an ESU local school districts are still going to have to provide the federally mandated programs of special education and the cost would probably be higher, said Wayne School Superintendent Dr. Dennis Jensen.

Other school officials said the loss of ESUs would hurt.

"It would be terrible" if ESUs were eliminated, said Kenvall Moseley, superintendent of the Phelps County School District in south-central Nebraska. He said ESUs are particularly important for smaller districts.

We can't go out and hire a psychologist," Moseley told the Omaha. World-Herald.

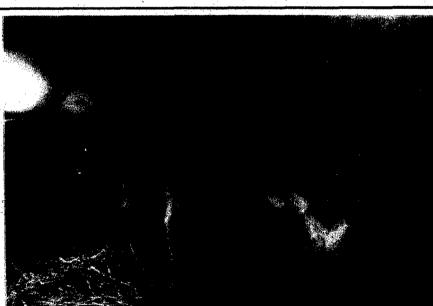

Services provided by ESUs vary in each district. They include data processing, film and video libraries. Internet computer links, driver education and specialists such as speech therapists.

There are 19 ESUs in the state.

Seventeen serve regions. The Omaha and Lincoln school districts each are served by their own ESU.

Sen. Paul Hartnett of Bellevue introduced a measure (LB780) that calls for elimination of ESUs. He also introduced a bill (LB761) that would lower the property tax levy ESUs can assess, and another (LB733) that would make it easier

More than a handful

A ewe on the Roy Gramlich farm near Carroll delivered six healthy lambs Wednesday in what ag officials call an almost unheard of occurrence. Wayne Veterinarian Dr. Ken Liska who attended, said he has never heard of such a feat. Dennis Brink, animal science professor with the University of Nebraska-Lincoln said based on USDA studies quint lambs come along only .009 percent of the time. There are no stats on six lambs at once. He estimated it can't happen more often than one in a million births. "This is the boys' 4-H project that got out of hand," said Mrs. Gramlich of the family's sheep operation. The ewe cannot raise six lambs, so part of her brood was adopted out.

Guard cuts slight in Wayne

Nebraska's Army National Guard announced extensive reorganization plans in an effort to reduce its force but the plans are expected to have little immediate impact in Wayne.

Corrently, the Wayne guard unit has an authorized strength of 130 but only has 101 guardsmen on the force at this time.

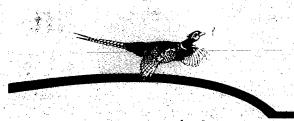

The plans announced by Maj. Gen. Stanley Heng, the state's adjutant general. Wayne's new authorized force will be 111 guardsmen.

Heng said Wednesday the overall Nebraska Guard manpower will be reduced by 1,321 positions and one armory will be eliminated in cuts ordered by the Pentagon.

Heng said the Nebraska Guard has known the cuts were coming and had already reduced the number of members in most units through attrition in recent months.

He said the new force numbers will allow some units, like Wayne,

Wayne Rotarians Nancy Schulz and Wilma Moore put the finishing touches on a window display in downtown Wayne to celebrate the 90th anniversary of Rotary International.

Rotary celebrates 90th anniversary

On Thursday, Feb. 23, more than one million Rotarians around the world - men and women in business or the professions -- celebrated Rotary International's 90th anniversary.

Founded in Chicago, Ill., by a group of business associates on Feb. 23, 1905, Rotary has become the "granddaddy" of service clubs. Its motto is "Service Above Self." Wayne Rotarians will be observing event by hosting the Chamber coffee on Friday, according to President Brad Coulter.

Wayne Club members have also put up a Rotary window display next to Kid's Closet on Main Street. The club will also observe the milestone at its weekly meeting Wednesday at 7 a.m. at the Black Knight.

Through the member-supported Rotary Foundation, Rotary conducts the world's largest privatelysponsored international scholarship program. Yearly, it awards hundreds of its "Ambassadorial Scholarships" for study in a land foreign to the recipients. In addition, among its service projects, Rotary sponsors hundreds of international exchanges for youth and young adults, scores of humanitarian grants and health care visits, particularly in Third World nations.

One Rotary goal is to eradicate the scourge of polio and several other childhood diseases in the world by the year 2,000.

The Rotary Club of Wayne and its 47 members are part of the Rotary District 5650, headed by Governor Burrel H. Beck. The district, covering Southwestern Iowa and Eastern Nebraska, includes 48 Rotary clubs with a combined membership of approximately 3,000.

"Neighbors would always help each other during the move. People knew their neighbors better back then. Also, most of the moves would be less than 10 or 12 miles, so even though children had to go to different schools, people were still generally in the same area," said Merchant.

Ella Lutt recalls a move her family made on March 1, 1943 the temperature was 21 degrees below zero. "We had a baby, just three weeks old and our other two children were just three and two years old. It was terribly gold but that was the day to move, so we moved. I also remember moving again in 1953 and the house we moved into had running water and a bathroom. Before that we had to carry water and use an outhouse".

"The family possessions were loaded in a wagon that was pulled by a team of horses. Livestock was moved in different ways, depending upon what it was. Cattle were generally herded to the new home, hogs were hauled in farm wagons and chickens were put in cages to make the trip to the new home," said Merchant. One of the last possessions to be loaded before the move was the kitchen stove. It was the the first thing to be unloaded because without it there would not be anything to eat," recalls Leland Herman, who although has never moved himself, recalls watching people move past his home as a youngster.

"Things like hay and feed could be gotten at a later date or sometimes the farmers had an agreement between each other to leave it for the new tenant," said Herman.

Farming was a little different during this time. Oats and cornwere the main crops. Soybeans were not grown until after World War II. Hay for horses was mainly slough grass-there wasn't a lot of This meant that there was little in the way of hay or grain to move;" said Merchant. "Part of the move involved the county needed protection but not land use protection. "We need protection from the planners."

AMONG THOSE speaking in favor of the zoning regs or parts of them was County Highway Superintendent Sid Saunders who said the 35-foot setback requirement on new buildings would save money in the future when county road construction work is required.

Lavon Schrant of rural Winside said she thought the county needed regulations to help prevent circumstances like what occurred near her parents farm in Stanton County where a large public landfill is proposed. Others in the audience argued that zoning would not prohibit a public landfill from being built in Wayne County.

Glenn Kietzman admonished some of his fellow farmers in the audience for what he said was their selfishness in not wanting to see land use rules implemented. He said he did not hear one individual volunteer to help prepare a workable plan that would protect agriculture from urban encroachment. "Economic development is going to come," he argued. He said he didn't think the planning commission should be ridiculed and criticized for trying to help protect the local

IN THE END new commissioner Don Liedman, who was appointed by the County Commissioners last week to fill the post of Al Baden, who moved out of the county, put the first nail in the zoning coffin. Liedman, who had been a vocal opponent of zoning before being appointed to the commission, moved after the hearing to disband the commission. His motion died for lack of a second.

But his subsequent motion to not recommend zoning to the County Commissioners was seconded and approved by the planners. That motion came after each of the village planning and zoning documents was of 2.8 cents per $100 of assessed value to support it. The maximum levy allowed is 3.5 cents per $100 of assessed value.

ESU No. 1, based in Wakefield, which serves this area has a levy of 3.27 cents of assessed value in addition to a one half cent assessment for telecomputing.

Wayne's Jensen said the ESU program provides special education teachers and services, training programs, Internet access, a school nurse and more to the Wayne district on a cost-share basis with other schools in the unit.

He said it would likely cost each of those districts more to hire those services individually.

John Deegan, an assistant superintendent in the Bellevue School District, said he has mixed emotions about the proposed elimination of ESUs.

It's good to examine ways to reduce property taxes but elimination of ESUs could be tough on smaller districts because they couldn't afford speech therapists and other specialists on their own, he said.

The State Board of Education voted earlier this month to oppose Hartnett's bills, saying it intended to vote in March on doing its own study of ESUs and their efficiency.

Mary Campbell, lobbyist for the ESUs, said the proposed legislation is a signal to ESUs that they must do a better job of explaining their role to the public.

The "Word" for the Week Lawlessness, rebellion, pollution

I've been asked the question more than once, What is sin? Our society is so far removed from God it rejects the concept. Here is a three-

First, sin is violation of God's standards for living. These standards are found in the Ten Commandments. For example, cheating on an exam is sin. Cheating is stealing answers from someone. The Eighth Commandment says, "You shall not steal" (Exodus 20:15). This is God's law. "Sin is the transgression [violation] of the law" (1 John 3:4). Adultery is also sin. The Seventh Commandment says, "You shall not commit adultery" (Exodus 20:14).

Second, sin is rebellion against God. God is both Creator and King.

He rules the universe. When people refuse to listen to the words of God this is an affront to the Almighty. "For this is a rebellious people, false sons, sons who refuse to listen to the instruction of the Lord" (Isaiah 30:9).

Finally, sin is inner pollution. God says to us, "Be holy; for I am holy" (Leviticus 11:44). Our problem is a lack of holiness, That is, our hearts are inclined against God. We would rather shub Him and please ourselves. We'd rather robel against God and cheat on the exam or shack up with our girlfriend. We have no qualms. We feel no guilt. That's inner pollution. That's sin in our hearts.

Wayne boys fall to Cadets in sub-district finals, 59-56

The Wayne High boys basketthe finals of C1-7 Sub-District finals, Tuesday in South Sioux.

Rocky Ruhl's Blue Devils opened sub-district play with a 50-32 whipping of Hooper-Logan View on Monday but West Point sent the locals home for the season with a 59-56 setback on Tuesday.

In Monday's game Wayne took control early and never looked back as they took a 21-12 halftime lead and led 35-17 heading to the final stanza. "We did a good job of playing patient and looking for our shot," Ruhl said. "Logan View played a 1-3-1 zone and the tempo of the game was slowed some but opportunity was there.

The Wayne coach said his squad played a number of different defenses and overall it was the solid team defensive effort that netted the Pick Ryan and Matt Blomenkamp led the winners with 13 points each while Andy Witkowski scored eight and Jason Carr, five. Joe Lutt finished with three points and Ryan Martin, Nick Vanhorn, Erik Wiseman and Shawn Nolte rounded out the attack with two each.

Wayne out-rebounded Logan View, 38-21 led by Blomenkamp's 13 caroms while Witkowski ball with Wayne having just eight turnovers while Logan View had seven and the Blue Devils were 9-14 from the free throw line which was identical to Logan View THINGS TUESDAY. changed for Wayne as they suffered a disappointing season ending loss to West Point by three points, 59-56. "We've kind of lost games like this all season long," Ruhl said, "It was very disappointing to us because the kids really wanted to re-deem themselves for the regular season by winning sub-districts.

The Blue Devils jumped out to a 12-6 lead midway through the opening stanza but they didn't score again until the second quarter as West Point tallied the last eight points of the first period to lead, Wayne trailed by three at the half, 27-24 and the gap was trimmed to one after three quarters of play, 37-36. "We took a 42-37 peared to be on our way," Ruhl said. "Then, Justin Ahrens got hot and we couldn't stop him.

The West Point senior tallied 17 of his game-high 28 points in the fourth quarter including a stretch of nine straight to rally his Cadets. Down the stretch, however, Wayne missed several front ends of oneand-one's which proved costly as West Point took advantage.

The winners also hit nearly 60 percent of their shots from the field c22-37) while Wayne was 19-43.
Paul Blomenkamp led the Blue
Devils with 21 points while Ryan Pick tallied 17 in his final high school contest. Joe Lutt finished with a dozen and Andy Witkowski added four while Jason Carr scored two.

Wayne was out-rebounded, 20-14 but they did a good job of handling the ball with just three turnovers while West Point had 10. Wayne was also 13 of 21 from the foul line and the Cadets were 12 of 17. The Blue Devils closed out the season with a 9-12 record.

ANDY WITKOWSKI and Joe Lutt battle for a rebound in second half action of the Blue Devils three point loss.

Allen boys get first win at sub-districts

The Allen Eagles boys basketball team finished the regular season with an 0-17 record but Doug Schnack's squad notched a first round sub-district victory over Macy, 63-52 Monday in Homer in D1-6 Sub-District action.

The Eagles season was concluded on Tuesday, however, as Winnebago defeated them by a 79-62 margin. Against Macy, Allen jumped out to a 13-7 lead after one quarter of play and they took a 24-21 lead into the locker room at the intermission.

The Eagles continued to lead throughout the third quarter as they doubled the score on Macy, 16-8 to take a 40-25 lead into the final quarter of play. "The biggest difference in this game was rebounding and free throw shooting," Schnack "We out-rebounded them, 49-12, and we scored 22 points from the foul line while they didn't score any."

Schnack said his team's goal was hold Macy below 60 points. You have to give our kids a lot of credit for playing solid defense, Schnack said. "In fact, you have to give them a lot of credit for not packing in the season. They kept pushing and pushing all season despite coming up short each game and this time it paid off."

David Miner led the winners with 18 points while Josh Snyder tossed in 14 and Michael Blohm, 11. Jeremy Kumm netted eight points and Craig Philbrick scored seven while Scott Williams finished with five.

Snyder led Allen on the boards with 12 rebounds while Miner had 11 and Williams, 10. Allen committed 17 turnovers and forced 18 and the Eagles were 22 of 46 from the foul line while Macy was 0-6.

had their season ended in the district championship game by Emerson-Hubbard, Thursday night at Wayne

High School, 47-35.
The Lady Pirates advanced to the Nebraska State Tournament while the Bears closed out the season with a 12-10 record. "The storyline for us in the first half was turnovers," Laurel coach Rick Petri said. "We had 16 of our 20 turnovers for the game in the first half."

Emerson scored the game's first six points and never trailed in the contest despite having its lead trimmed to two at 12-10 early in the second quarter.

The Bears trailed by a 20-13 margin at the half and 37-26 after the third quarter. "It seemed we were always working from behind," Petri "We didn't have a very good night shooting the ball either, hitting just 27 percent of our attempts."

Emerson's standout junior Tonya Porter was held to six points in the first half but she exploded for 22 of her team's 27, second half points. Tracy Ankeny and Dawn Wickett led Laurel with nine points each while Becky Schroeder tallied eight.

Alissa Krie scored five points while Cathy Mohr and Megan Adkins tallied two points each. Laurel did win the battle of the boards, 48-35 led by Adkins with a dozen car-oms while Wickett and Schroeder

The Bears hit five of 13 free throw attempts compared to 14 of 26 shooting by the winners. "We had a good season," Petri said. "We improved from last season and now we look to improve on this season next year." Laurel loses just two seniors in Dawn Wickett and

Wakefield boys capture C2-7 sub-district crown

The Wakefield Trojans advanced through the C2-7 Sub-District basketball tournament on Monday and Tuesday with a first round win over Homer and a championship win over Emerson-Hubbard to advance to Monday night's district championship game with Laurel at Wavne High School with the winner notching a berth in the Nebraska State Basketball Tournament,

Brad Hoskins' team played Homer for the second time in three days on Monday with the Trojans coming out on top of a 45-34 score. Wakefield was never to the point where they were uncomfortable in this game despite shooting poorly from the field.

We just didn't make many shots," Hoskins said. "We missed a lot of easy, point blank attempts and Homer played some good defense. It's tough to play the same team back-to-back."

The Trojans took a 24-18 halftime lead and still led by five after three quarters of play, 33-28 before putting the game away with a 12-6 run in the fourth quarter.

Justin Dutcher led the winners with 15 points while Cory Brown tallied 11 and Wes Blecke, 10. Tory Nixon finished with six and Mike Rischmueller added two while Matt Kucera rounded out the attack with

The prolific scoring senior had five, 3-pointers and hauled down a game-high 16 rebounds for a complete game. WSC track teams set more records at USD

Wayne State sophomore track stars James McGown and Mark Merritt set two more school records while winning their respective races during the South Dakota "Fast Chance" indoor track meet on Feb. 18 in Vermillion.

McGown, a 1993 graduate of Cairo Centura High School, lowered his own school record-in the 1500 meter run from earlier this season to 4:02.97 to remain undefeated in open competition. The old school record was 4:06.0, set by McGown in the USD Open in January. McGown is only about four seconds away from provisionally qualifying for the NCAA Indoor National Championship in March, Merritt, d 1992 graduate from same high school, broke Chris Huff's 1993 record of 15:59.7 by winning the 5000 meter run in a :55.81-bis first vict the season.

This race was also the first time that three Wayne State runners have been under 16:30 at the same time as sophomore 16:17 and Donnty Thongdy (Long Beach, CA) placed seventh in 16:26.24.

For the women, freshman Stephanie Lilja (Norfolk)set a season-best mark in the long jump with her eighth place leap of 16-.75. Sophomore Kathy Dalton (Waverly) placed third in the 3000 meter run with a time of 11-22-63 and junior Charronna Chambers (Omaha) placed second in the 55 meter dash with time of 7.40.

"Charronna was running the race of her life," head coach Rick Moorman said. "Unfortunately, she had to pull up with about 20 meters to go because of a quad muscle pull. Even so, she placed second against some tough competition."

In the high jump, sophomore Cinda Wheeler (Bellevue) placed sixth, clearing 4-10. The women's 800 meter relay team of Lilia, Amy and Chambers placed fifth in basketball team captured championship honors at the C2-8 Sub-District in Crofton with wins over Randolph in the first round and ninth-ranked Osmond in the finals, Tuesday night, 48-43.

In the first round the Bears had to defeat a stubborn Randolph team for the third time this season, 68-58. Laurel led throughout this contest, taking a 31-23 halftime lead before playing the second half tairly

Randolph stayed in the game solely through senior Ericht Arens who drained the nets for 30 points. The Cardinals played a 1-3-1 zone defense but the Bears still got the balkinside where they scored a large portion of their points.

"We had a 12 point lead with about two minutes to play but Arens hit a couple 3-pointers and we missed three front ends of oneand-one's," Steele said. "I was just happy to see us come out on top.

The dynamic duo of Jeremy and Jared Reinoeht drained the nets for 48 of Laurel's 68 points with Jeremy leading the way with 25. Rich Rasmussen followed with 10 and Cody Carstensen scored six while Tyler Erwin rounded out the scoring with four.

The rebounding battle was even according to Steele but the Bears were 12 of 17 from the charity stripe compared to four of five shooting by the Cardinals.

IN THE FINALS, the Bears had a tough task in playing the ninth-ranked Osmond Tigers, winners of 13 of their last 14 games and Laurel had to come from behind to get the job done after Osmond took a seven point lead in the third

"Osmond has a real nice team," Steele said. "They got a couple real nice players in Craig Johnson and Brian Hoffman," Steel said Osmond shot the ball well from the field but in the middle of the third quarter his kids kind of look over.

Laurel out-scored Osmond, 26-19 in the second half but with under a half-minute remaining the Tigers trailed by three and they were going to hold the ball for the last shot,
