

Council puts halt to curbside 'trash talk'

By Tom Mullen
Of The Herald

The citizens of Wayne have spoken, and their councilpersons have listened.

Council members took no action, at Tuesday's meeting, to amend or change the municipal code relating to garbage pickup.

"I've had a dozen people call me, saying, 'if this goes through, I don't know what I'm going to do,'" related Councilperson Doug Sturm.

Sturm's experience was shared by others as evidenced by the reversal of the nearly unanimous vote in February to bring this ordinance change before the council.

"I THINK WE should leave it as it is. The businesses can inform the people when this needs to be done," suggested Councilperson Jane O'Leary, referring to Lueder's G-Men and Mrsny's Sanitary Service, the businesses that contract with the City to provide refuse hauling for residents of Wayne.

Representatives of the two haulers had appeared at the previous council meeting to petition the elimination of alley pickup. But curbside pick up would force Wayne residents to carry their garbage, in most cases, from the backs of their houses, out to the street.

Councilperson Verdell Lutt stood alone in his concern for O'Leary's suggestions that the haulers implement curbside pickup, at their own discretion, on an as needed basis.

"THAT LEAVES IT on a day to day basis and people will have to sit by their radios wondering if the weather is severe enough to merit a curbside pickup," warned Lutt.

"This has been left in the lap of the council," replied Sturm, expressing his concern that this issue was before the council and agreeing with O'Leary that the haulers should decide where to pick up the trash.

City Administrator Joe Salitros restated the Public Works' position, which endorsed the curbside pickup.

Community network seen as cooperative possibility

By Les Mann
Of The Herald

A new "top drawer" computer system that would give everyone in the community who wanted access to the information super highway would cost over $100,000 to build and nearly $14,000 a month to maintain a design specialist told a group Wayne residents Thursday night.

However, said John Pritchard, the cost would be greatly reduced if the community access system were tied into one of the existing computer networks in town either at the high school or Wayne State College.

"You are way ahead of a lot of communities," said Pritchard, who owns Catalyst Solutions in Sioux City. He has been hired as a consultant to help South Sioux City and other communities develop local Internet access systems.

PRITCHARD TOLD the 30 computer users and community leaders who gathered at Wayne State College to talk about local Internet access Thursday that he was "trying to scare you" when he outlined the costs of developing a separate system for general community access to the super highway.

"You are taking on more than you can handle," he said but added that working a cooperative arrangement with either the high school or college would be a practical approach that would save thousands of dollars for the community.

He said a cooperative arrangement with the high school or college would allow the community access without the purchase of some of the most expensive pieces of equipment that would be needed.

He estimated that $25,000 could provide the lines and equipment needed put those interested in access in Wayne onto the superhighway if the system were merged with the high school or college.

"INSTEAD OF building a new system, I think we should look into adding on to something that is already there," said Bob McCue, Wayne State associate vice president.

'Presidents shouldn't lie'

By Clara Osten
Of The Herald

Millions of children dream of growing up and becoming President of the United States. The President symbolizes qualities such as honesty, hard work and leadership.

Fourth graders in Mrs. Shirley Hamer's Reading class have been studying the presidency during the past month. They studied several articles on presidents and read books on the requirements for becoming President of the United States.

As a conclusion to the project, students were asked to write on the topic "What I Think Makes a Good President". The following are the opinions of the future presidential hopefuls.

"I THINK a president should help the homeless, protect the animals. Take licenses away from drunken drivers. Be more strict to people on drugs. Make it tougher on people who pollute."

Darin Bargholz
"To be a good president, I think you have to be fair and kind. Help people as well as protect the environment. Listen to people and stop crimes such as people who are using drugs and guns. Help stop pollution."

Tyler Schneider
"I think a president should be considerate to his people. He should be honest and truthful. Other good qualities in a president are to help the homeless. He should keep us out of wars."

Dustin Lamb
"I THINK presidents should not lie. They must be very responsible. Be 35 years of age and live in the U.S. for 14 years."

Jami Stewart
"I think a good president should lower taxes. Provide for the poor. Get more cops on the streets and put a stop to drug dealers and put them behind bars. But still let good people hunt with guns. I think the president should have the White House surrounded with more security. Have more protection for our country."

Joel Polhamus
"A good president is loyal and kind. They should not lie, be truthful to the people. He should be able to talk to people of all walks of life."

Brittany Jareske
"I THINK a president should be nice and truthful. Be able to talk to people all over the world. He should help people get off the streets and provide for more jobs. A good president is there to help you all the time."

Ashleigh Anikputa
"I think a good president should have respect for our people. Should encourage people to get on their feet and off the street. I think the president should help the homeless. I think our president, Bill Clinton

Bible issue debated in court case

By Pila Martinez
Associated Press Writer

Federal appeals judges in Omaha Tuesday questioned arguments that a Lincoln man's constitutional rights were violated when Bibles were distributed at his son's elementary school.

Three judges from the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals heard arguments on an appeal filed by Charles Schanou. The court session was held at Creighton University.

Schanou filed a lawsuit in November 1993 to block Bible distribution to children on Norris School District grounds. His son, then a fifth-grader, had picked up a Gideon Bible after school in 1989.

Schanou argued in his lawsuit that the school district violated his constitutional rights by distributing Bibles to children at the school.

The same issue is currently being publicly debated in Wayne where residents have raised concern about the school involvement in the distribution of Gideon Bibles and others have argued in favor of continuing the practice.

In the Omaha case, U.S. District Judge Richard Kopf sided with the school district.

Attorney Thom Cope argued in his appeal before the panel that the distribution of the Bibles violated the separation of church and state.

The school board's policy allowed distribution on the Bibles on school grounds, Cope said. U.S. Circuit Judge George Fagg also noted that the school board's policy creates an open forum at the school, enabling several groups to use the school building as a community meeting place.

U.S. Circuit Judge David Hansen questioned how Schanou's constitutional rights were violated since the incident involved his son, Jace. He also noted that the Bible wasn't forced upon Jace.

In addition, Hansen questioned if the statute of limitations — four years — had expired because the Bible incident occurred in 1989 and the lawsuit was filed 4 1/2 years later.

Fagg said Schanou's request to block Bible distribution appeared to be moot because it was unlikely it could occur again since Schanou's son no longer attends the school.

Cope argued that Schanou still had an interest in blocking distribution of the Bibles because he still lived in the school district and because the policy is still in place.

Schanou need not be affected by the Bible distribution to have an

Weather warning to be drill

As a part of the "Nebraska Severe Weather Awareness Week," March 20 through 26, the City of Wayne will take part in a "Tornado Warning Drill."

The drill will consist of a mock tornado watch shortly after 10 a.m., followed by a mock tornado warning at approximately 10:30 a.m., Wednesday, March 22, in the event of an actual severe weather risk at the time of the drill, the drill will be cancelled.

The tornado sirens will be activated for 60 seconds at approximately 10:30 a.m., Wednesday, March 22. The Cablevision Emergency Alert System will also be activated at this same time.

If this were an actual tornado warning, all persons should seek below ground shelter upon hearing the sirens or cablevision warning. This would also be a good time for all employers, teachers, parents and others to practice their own tornado plans.

Wayne Police Chief Vern Fairchild warns there is no such thing as an "all clear" signal given on the sirens. So, if you should hear the tornado signal being given a second time, it will mean that another tornado has been sighted and you should remain in your shelter.

"Please, do not grab your camera and run outside to take pictures when you hear the tornado signal. Some tornadoes may be extremely close before we have time to sound the warning signal," said Fairchild.

The tornado signal in Wayne is a steady three minute tone.

Trash

The City shares the cost of maintaining the graveled alleys with the adjacent property owners, and according to Public Works Director Vern Schulz, much of that maintenance is necessitated by the heavy garbage trucks which tend to rut the alleys and pull the gravel into the street.

interest, Cope said.

He also said that while the school's policy allows open access to the school facility, the Gideons actually sought access to the children.

Gregory Perry, the attorney for the school district, argued that for the lawsuit to be valid, Schanou would have to be directly affected by its outcome.

The school informed the children that Bibles were being distributed, but informed the children that it was their choice whether to take one, Perry said.

Students were not directed to the table where the Bibles were being distributed and the people passing out the Bibles did not speak to the students about religion, Perry said.

The panel did not issue a ruling on the appeal.

SALITROS THEN asked if Frank Mrsny would like to address his concerns again to the council?

"We've pretty much stated our views. We've stated the pros and the cons, and it's up to the council. We're not going to stand up and holler for this. We will do as the council wishes."

Lutt then introduced the amendment to instate the curbside pickup, but the motion died as no other councilperson would second the motion.

Mrsny then asked who would be held responsible for trimming the trees that may be damaged as his trucks continue through the alleys, and pose a hazard to the men that ride along the sides of the trucks.

SALITROS REPLIED that the city tries to keep branches from encroaching the public alleys by trimming branches below 12 feet.

O'Leary ended the discussion in answer to a remark that some residents refuse to share in the cost of alley maintenance.

"If the residents don't want to share in the cost of gravel, then I guess they're saying that they don't want alley pickup."

Forsberg seeks less time

HARTINGTON, Neb. (AP) — A man sentenced to 50 years in prison for killing a Coleridge woman by running her down with his pickup truck wants to have his prison term reduced.

James Forsberg of Coleridge wants the state Supreme Court to cut his sentence to 20 or 30 years.

Forsberg was convicted last fall of second-degree murder in the Jan. 20, 1994, death of 74-year-old Ellen Gray of Coleridge.

Investigators said Forsberg had feuded for years with the Gray family.

At the time of his sentencing in January, District Judge Maurice Redmond told the 60-year-old Forsberg:

"I doubt, Mr. Forsberg, that you will ever leave the penitentiary."

Michael Stevens of Yankton, S.D., Forsberg's attorney, said that since Forsberg has been found mentally ill and a psychiatrist has indicated his condition could be effectively treated with medication, a sentence of 20 or 30 years would be more appropriate.

Stevens filed his appeal in Cedar County District Court in Hartington last month.

Forsberg was accused of running down Mrs. Gray as she crossed a street in downtown Coleridge. Forsberg accelerated his truck, crossed the center line and hit Mrs. Gray, who was crossing the street.

After jumping a curb, the truck then hit the Gray-Munter Insurance building, knocking over a pillar. The business is owned by Mrs. Gray's daughter and son-in-law.

Originally, Forsberg pleaded innocent to first-degree murder. He later withdrew that plea, and under the terms of a plea bargain, entered a plea of no contest to second-degree murder.

Teen mom ordered to trial

WEST POINT, Neb. (AP) — A 17-year-old girl was ordered Tuesday to stand trial as an adult in the February death of her 2-year-old daughter.

Cecelia Popoca Arce is charged with felony child abuse. An autopsy listed the cause of death as shaken baby syndrome.

Forensic pathologist Dr. Thomas Bennett of Sioux City, Iowa, testified at Ms. Arce's preliminary hearing Tuesday that Ms. Arce's 2-year-old daughter, Lucreo, had external and internal injuries including severe bruises to the lip, scalp and brain, and cuts to the upper lip.

There also was retina hemorrhage behind the eyes, which indicates violent shaking, Bennett said.

Arce's attorney, Stuart Mills of Pender, had argued that Ms. Arce's case should be heard in juvenile court.

But Cuming County Judge Richard Krepela ruled that among other things, the aggressive nature of the crime dictated that she be tried as an adult.

Arraignment in district court was scheduled for April 6.

Ms. Arce is from Mexico and had been living as an illegal immigrant in West Point.

School board moves meeting nights

By Les Mann
 Of The Herald

Wayne School Board members have decided to move their meeting nights to Monday to help avoid conflicts with city meetings and school functions on frequently held on Tuesday nights.

Voting 6-0, the board decided Monday would be a better alternative that the Tuesday night meetings the board has been holding for at least the last 10 years.

The board will begin meeting on Monday nights with the start of the new school calendar in September.

In other business at the Tuesday meeting, board members were reminded of the scheduled Monday meeting (March 20) at the Carroll Auditorium to discuss future plans for the Carroll Elementary School Building.

BOARD PRESIDENT Phyllis Spethman said she hoped residents from throughout the district will attend the meeting to discuss the needs and plans for the Carroll facility. The building needs handicap accessibility and structural repairs.

An enhanced relationship between Wayne Schools and neighboring affiliated districts was also discussed at the Tuesday meeting.

Shared library services, computer services and teacher in-service training sessions have been planned between Wayne and the District 57 school board, said Superintendent Dr. Dennis Jensen. He said other schools have been invited to participate as well.

"There is no cost to us and it is not going to take away from what we are doing for the students of Wayne Community Schools," he added.

Board members spoke favorably about the cooperative arrangements which also include affiliated students participating in Wayne school extracurricular activities.

"IT'S A POSITIVE thing," said Mrs. Spethman. She was echoed by Jean Blomenkamp who added that encouragement of greater levels of cooperation would be beneficial to all districts.

Wayne schools will be applying for a $250,000 grant from state lottery funds to help purchase new equipment. Citing the projected reduction of state aid because of an enrollment drop, Jensen said the grant funds may be the only way the district can afford any equipment replacements next year. He told the board to expect $126,000 less in state aid next year. The district suffered a $100,000 aid loss last year as well.

He said those aid losses make it imperative to apply for grant funding to avoid raising property tax assessments to make up the difference.

BOARD MEMBER Will Davis agreed with the need for grant funds but he said he philosophically opposed to the lottery funding mechanism.

"I've seen what addiction does," he said. "On the other end of that pool of (lottery) money is great human suffering. It sticks in my craw that schools have to live or die from a system (gambling) that relies on addiction." He called the lottery a major social evil because the people who traditionally support it are those who can least afford it.

Members of the board's facility study committee are still gathering information for a decision on whether to seek a public opinion survey in the community on what the patrons think should be done about the system's building needs.

Potential new fiscal agents for another run at bond issue funding will be interviewed by the board at the April meeting, at which time the facility committee is also expected to return with a recommendation about the public survey.

City backs off from Middle School issue

By Tom Mullen
 Of The Herald

The Wayne City Council nearly jumped into the fray of the ongoing problem of what to do with the Middle School, by considering a grant application to study possible future uses of the building, at their Tuesday night meeting.

Wayne County voters narrowly defeated a $7 million bond issue late last year which would have built a new school. Some opponents of that measure had criticized the school board for not addressing the demolition or reuse of the Middle School.

But the City Council proved unwilling to spend the $800, requested by City Administrator Joe Salitros, to hire a firm to write the grant application.

"THE MORE I think about this, the less I like it," offered Councilperson Jane O'Leary.

If awarded, the grant would have provided 75% of up to $34 thousand, with some of those funds to be used to study a former nursing home in Wayne.

"Neither of these buildings belong to us, right?" questioned Councilperson Verdell Lutt.

According to Salitros, the owners of the properties to be studied, had made offers to share in the City's 25% obligation if the grant was awarded.

"THESE FUNDS, if they are to be made available, must come through the city," Salitros added, commenting on the nature of the grant.

"I'd like more time to think on it," requested Councilperson Ralph Barclay.

But Salitros warned that a deadline loomed too close.

"Unless we act in the affirmative this evening, there is no need to go on... without calling a special meeting later this week, the window of opportunity closes."

Councilperson Darrell Fuelberth asked if the owner of the former nursing home was willing to share in the $800 grant writing cost. Salitros replied that the City would have to bear that cost alone.

"IT'S MAKING ME think maybe we don't need this study," said O'Leary.

"There's a lot of money going out to speculate and think about things. It's air to me. To me we're just spending money on air," she added.

Councilperson Doug Sturm then made a motion to spend the money to write the grant application but the motion died for lack of a second.

He said the Wayne High School system is powerful enough to provide Internet access to everyone people in the community who wants it. However, he said the Educational Service Unit, through which the schools feed to get access to the Internet node in Lincoln, is restricting the system for Kindergarten through high school uses only and does not want people in the community having access through the ESU.

HE SAID THE state and the ESUs are to be commended for establishing Internet connectivity but the political subdivision and role and mission definitions preclude the public from having access.

"It makes no sense to me as a taxpayer of this community to not have access to the Internet when it is already here," said Linster. In his address to the school board members Tuesday he said the community will have to work together to develop and pay for a phone line connection that would bypass the ESU system if everyone wants access.

The school system was designed, Linster has said, so that school children and their parents from home can dial up access to the Internet to do homework and research. The Wayne schools even added notebook computers that students can check out and take home to plug in and access the school Network and through it the Internet.

the Wayne Chamber of Commerce committee working to develop Internet accessibility for businesses and the community said he believed the community could work out a cooperative arrangement.

In predicting the future, Pritchard said communications and information services will merge in the not too distant future.

"OUR HOMES will have 'communications devices' not a television, not a phone, not a computer," he said. All of those traditional pieces of equipment and the services they provide, in addition to many new services, will be handled by one home communication unit.

He said people will get their magazines, TV programs, videos, computer games, computing services and phone calls (complete with video) all on the same piece of equipment.

Pat Gross, who attended the meeting Thursday, suggested formation of a non profit corporation to seek grant and private funding for a community system and several individuals left the meeting making plans to hold subsequent sessions to form such a group.

EARLIER IN THE week, the Wayne School Board heard a report from Dennis Linster, the director of network services at Wayne State College, who assisted in the design of the computer system at Wayne High School.

is doing a great job."

Sara Most
 "I think the president should band beer so there aren't so many accidents. People should also be fined for polluting the air."
 Jason Volmer

"I THINK that a good president should have control on drugs. He should not allow taxes to get out of hand. I think a good president should not be paid. It should just be an honor to be a president. He should band cigarettes and be more strict on crimes. Keep peace with the world and not make silly mistakes. Put more money in education. That would make a good president."

William Carr
 "I think a good president should be loyal, honest and friendly. He should help people all over the world. Help the poor. Try to stop gangs and fights."

Michael Sturm
 "I think the president should be honest and should help the poor. Be more strict on polluting. Should lower the countries taxes."
 Amanda Munter

"I THINK the president should help the homeless by finding more housing for them. The president should try to put a stop to people on drugs. He should be able to control the pollution problem. The qualifications to be president is to be 35 years of age and a citizen of the U.S."

Ryan Schmeits

"I think the president should help the poor and stop the gangs, drug dealers and pollution. I don't think the president is honest because he hasn't done anything he said he would do."

Matthew Webb
 "To be a good president he would have to be honest to the people. He should keep the water clean and help the poor all over the U.S. He should have the go-ahead to act on many issues such as: drugs, wars, and gun control. I think the president should help people in other countries who are struck by earthquakes."
 Cory Schlines

"I think a president should be true to his country, and the people. He should be willing to fight for the America's rights. Control the country to where it will be a great place to live for all people. Make sure we are safe."

Megan Burge
 "I THINK the president should spend some time with the children that are in the hospital. Stop the drug trafficking and tear down the factories that are polluting the air. Enforce the law that everybody recycle. The president should save our national bird, the Bald Eagle."
 Drew Smith

"I think a president has to be loyal to the people. If there is a problem in the world he should be there to solve it. If a war breaks out he should know exactly how to handle it. A president should be able to address people of the nation anytime."

Ric Volk
 "I think the president should work for better schools and education. He should have better control on our taxes. Keep us out of wars. Have stricter laws on the use of drugs and guns. Put a stop to all gun dealers."

Ask Karen...

Q. My suit is ruined! I picked it up at the cleaners and it's as stiff as a board. What should I do?

A. Your better dry cleaners use sizing to maintain the body of your garment. Certain fabrics retain more sizing than the customer desires. This can easily be rinsed out with no damage to the clothes. Simply return the garment to your dry cleaner and explain the problem.

Double ring ceremony unites Chapek-Marotz

Nancy Marie Chapek and Erin Lane Marotz were united in marriage on Feb. 18. Father Larry Gyhra officiated the double ring ceremony at St. Wenceslaus Catholic Church in Wahoo.

Parents of the couple are Ernest and Marie Chapek of Wahoo and Lane and Rogene Marotz of Hoskins.

Grandmothers of the bride are Anna Chapek of Wahoo and Marie Smetak of Wahoo. Grandparents of the groom are Nelda Lueders of Norfolk and Lyle Marotz of Norfolk.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore her mother's wedding gown. The floor length gown was of bouquet taffeta with reembroidered alencon lace. The empire bodice of the lace featured a portrait neckline and long, pointed sleeves. Overlays of the jeweled lace cascaded down the front panel of the A-line skirt, which was worn with an aisle wide detachable train. The bride chose a satin pillbox hat with venise lace applique embellished with pearls and sequins. The bride carried a cascade of white sweetheart roses accented with gold.

Maid of honor was Julene Schoen, friend of couple, of Grand Island. Bridesmaids were Leah Marotz, sister-in-law of the groom, of Hoskins and Sherri Schmale, sister of the groom, of Carroll. They wore tea-length dresses of red satin featuring a lace overlay.

Flower girl was Kourtney Schmale, niece of the groom, of Carroll.

Best man was Kevin Marotz, brother of the groom, of Hoskins. Groomsmen were David Chapek, brother of the bride, of Wahoo and Jay Neisius, brother-in-law of the groom, of Omaha.

Ushers were Harold Kavan, cousin of the bride, of Omaha; Shawn Fuhrman, cousin of the groom, of Norfolk; and Chad Lueders, cousin of the groom, of Fort Morgan, Colo.

Organist was Lyla Fuhrman, aunt of the groom of Norfolk. Soloist was Kris Nerem, friend of the couple, from Norfolk. Guest book attendant was April Neisius, sister of the groom, of Omaha. Personal attendants were Peggy Allen of Blue Hill and Jill Lane of Cascade, Mont., friends of the couple.

Host couples were Renald and Bernadine Tobey, uncle and aunt of the bride, of West Point and Rod and Judy Lueders, uncle and aunt of the groom, of Fort Morgan, Colo.

A reception dinner and dance followed the ceremony at Starlite Ballroom.

Following a honeymoon trip to St. Lucia, the couple resides near Mead, Neb.

Winside Book Nook

By JoAnn Field, Librarian

The Wayne Herald has generously agreed to publish news from the Winside Public Library whenever possible to keep our community aware of the activities and opportunities which we provide. We hereby publicly thank them for helping us spread the word about today's libraries. We have changed and are continually in the process of growth to serve you better.

Current activities at your library include the Nutrition March Against Cancer during March, storytime during April and the Camp Read-A-Lot Summer Reading Program which is scheduled for June and July. National Library Week will also be observed during April.

During the month of March, activity books, bookmarks, stickers and balloons will be available for pre-school through sixth grade children to educate them about healthy eating habits. Pamphlets are also available for adults concerning cancer as it relates to your eating habits. All these materials have been furnished to us by the American Cancer Society. Please stop by and pick up this excellent material free of charge.

April will hopefully bring spring weather and definitely another storytime opportunity for all 3-8 year olds. Each Saturday during April you may come to the library from 2 to 2:30 p.m. to listen to a story and make a simple craft. We will be reading National Geographic books about animals and their habits. Please register before April 1 if you want to join us.

Plans are currently underway for our annual summer reading program. We will share more details with you next time as we prepare to embark to Camp Read-A-Lot.

For all our readers, we have recently added the following to our collection: Ten new Dr. Seuss books for children. Ten new large print titles from Unverscroft. Four biographies: Marlin Brando, Burt Reynolds, Jackie Kennedy Onassis (a photo-biography) and Dolly Parton. Chicken Soup for the Soul by Jack Canfield and Where Miracles Happen by J.W. Anderson for inspiration. Best sellers: The Body Farm by Patricia Cornwell, Dark Rivers of the Heart by Dean Koontz and The Lottery Winner by Mary Higgins Clark.

Any questions?? Our hours remain Mondays from 1 to 6 p.m., Wednesdays from 1:30 to 6:30 p.m. and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m. Our phone number is 286-4422 if you need to call us for any reason.

See you at the library!!!

SEEKS DONATIONS

The Post Prom committee (junior class parents) recently met to begin organizing for a party following the junior-senior prom on April 29. Purpose of the group is to provide the students and their guests with a fun-filled chemical-free party.

The committee has decided to host the post prom party at the school using space available for volleyball tournaments, basketball games, smaller games and contests. A variety of door prizes, etc. will be given away to the students.

Parents of the students will receive a letter detailing the event schedule and rules. Parents will also be asked to donate to help purchase food and prizes.

In the past years, the post prom has received excellent support from Wakefield businesses and organizations. This support has helped the committee achieve nearly 100 percent attendance by the students.

Again this year, the committee is seeking donations of cash, gift certificates or merchandise.

Cash donations may be left at the Wakefield National Bank for the "Post Prom" account. Other contributions may be left with Marcia Kratke at the C-Store or at the Republican office with Linda Rischmueller. If at all possible, the committee would like to know about or receive donations by April 15 to allow time for final planning.

BLOOD BANK
James "Benton" Nicholson became a 10-gallon donor with his contribution on March 1 to the Siouxland Blood Bank. Forty-five individuals volunteered to donate and 42 pints of blood were collected at the Wakefield Legion Hall.

Arnie Cerny became a three-gallon donor and Larry Murfin, one-gallon. First time donors included Susan Ekberg, Arlis Lindstrom, Mary Torczon, Matt Gustafson and Michael Rischmueller.

Vocal students compete

Forty-two students of Winside Public School in sixth through ninth grades traveled to Sioux City on Feb. 25 to compete in the Morningside College Middle School Vocal Contest. Vocal instructor at Winside is Mrs. LeNell Quinn.

NAC announces all-conference picks

WAYNE—The final all-conference basketball teams of the Northern Activities Conference was selected, Wednesday night. The NAC will disband at the end of the 1994-95 school year.

In girls action, Wayne's Jenny Thompson was named to the first team along with four girls from South Sioux. Carrie Fink and Katie Lutt were named to the second team.

In boys play, Ryan Pick and Paul Blumenkamp were named to the first team while Joe Lutt received honorable mention.

Wayne State inks another recruit

WAYNE—Carla Schultz, a senior at Clarks High School, has made a verbal commitment to play basketball for Wayne State College next fall according to Clarks girls basketball coach Don Walford. Carla has just completed a successful season at Clarks in which she set the school career scoring record with 1730 points. She averaged 25.8 points a game her during her senior campaign and is the fourth recruit to sign with Wayne State and coach Mike Barry.

Conference's honor area athletes

WAYNE—Several Wayne Herald area athletes recently earned all-conference status for their successful campaigns on the basketball court this past season.

The Northeast Nebraska Athletic Conference (NENAC) honored several Laurel players including Jared Reinohl, Jeremy Reinohl and Cody Carstensen on the first team with Rich Rasmussen and Tyler Erwin netting honorable mention status. Becky Schroeder and Tracy Ankeny each made the first team in girls play while Alissa Krie and Cathy Mohr earned honorable mention status.

The Lewis & Clark Conference honored players in Allen, Winside and Wakefield including Winside's Wendy Miller who earned first team status in the Clark Division while her freshman sister Jodi was named honorable mention.

There were no Winside boys named to the first team in the Clark Division but Jay Shelton and Jaimy Holdorf earned honorable mention. Cory Brown and Justin Dutcher of Wakefield each earned first team honors in the Clark Division with Wes Blecke and Mike Ruschmuller earning honorable mention.

Mary Torenson was named to the first team in girls play of the Clark Division with Stacey Preston, Kristin Preston and Jenny Haglund notching honorable mention status.

The Allen girls had three named to the first team in the Lewis Division including Tanya Plugger, Holly Blair and Abbey Schroeder with Jamie Mitchell earning honorable mention. There were no boys from Allen on the first team but Davis Miner and Craig Philbrick were each named honorable mention.

Men's C-League champs are crowned while A-B league reaches semis

Team TWO captured the men's C-League championship with a 60-46 victory over team FIVE in last Wednesday's final night of play.

The winners got some relief help from Bob Loberg and Marty Summerfield in the finals because Jon Rethwisch and Gene Casey were not present.

Team FIVE also had a pair of subs with Daral Grim and Dave Diediker because they were with out the services of Randy Slaybaugh and Lowell Schardt.

At any rate, team TWO's Ted Baack scored the game's first bucket and team TWO preyed much led the whole way, taking a 23-17 halftime advantage. When team FIVE did attempt a rally it was cut short by a couple consecutive baskets by team TWO.

Team FIVE did trim the gap to two points late in the first half but Bob Nelson sank a pair of 3-pointers to give his team an eight point lead at 23-15.

The second half for the winners was fueled by Marty Summerfield as he nailed 3, 3-pointers during a 14-2 run by team TWO which gave them a 43-26 lead.

Team FIVE had one more rally in them as they narrowed the gap to five points with still five minutes to go led by Dave Diediker and Brendt Lessmann but Nelson answered the call once again with three more 3-pointers to put the game on ice.

Nelson led his team with 27 points while Summerfield poured in 14 and Darrell Hahn tallied 11. Ted Baack finished with five while Darrell Doescher and Bob Loberg netted two each.

Team FIVE was led by Chris King with 13 points and Brendt Lessmann with 10 while Dave Diediker tossed in nine and Daral Grim, eight. Jim Sturm tallied four and Lee Remer finished with two. Team TWO drained 11, 3-pointers in the contest compared to team FIVE's, four.

IN THE consolation game for third place it was team FOUR defeating team SIX, 57-46 led by Dave Lutt's 21 points while Dale Jackson poured in 16. Daral Grim and Bob Loberg tallied seven each and Dave Diediker netted six.

Team SIX was led by Wayne Wessel with 18 points and Sid Hillier tossed in a dozen while Marty Summerfield scored six. Marion Arneson and Don Ziess each netted four and Doug Sturm chipped in two.

PLAYOFF ACTION in the A-B league continued with quarter-finals last week with team FOUR remaining undefeated on the season with a 75-53 win over team ELEVEN. Bill Koolstra led the winners with 32 points while Steve Heinemann added 19 and Kevin Jaeger, 15. Doug Carroll led team ELEVEN with 21 points with Paul Dean adding eight.

Team TWELVE defeated team TWO, 74-61 with Mike Meyer leading the way with 21 points while Doug Manz added 18 and Steve Lutt, 12. Team TWO was led by Scott Hammer with 19 and Scott Sumner with 16 while Brendan Dorcy tallied 10.

Team SIX got past team EIGHT, 86-75 in overtime as Chad Metzler led the way with 37 points while Kevin Bussinger poured in 31. Matt Peterson led the losing team with 28 points with Nick Hochstein tossing in 17 and Jay Jackson, 16.

Team ONE defeated team SEVEN, 58-52 with Leif Olson pacing the winners with 17 points while Nate Klenke and Eldon Hutchison netted a dozen each. Brad Erwin scored 21 to lead the losing team while Mike Granquist tallied 14.

Baseball meeting slated

FIRE AND RESCUE NEWS
The Allen rescue units are now housed in the new fire hall building and the fire trucks will be moved next, as volunteers continue to work on completing the new building.

The annual fireman's Smoker will be held on Saturday, March 25 in the new building. It will be held from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. They will be serving beef sandwiches. Admission is $5 and there will also be cash drawings. Tickets may be purchased from any fireman or rescue person or at Allen Oil Co. or Security National Bank.

Rescue personal responded to a call at the Clarence Jefferies residence last Saturday and transported Mr. Jefferies to Marian Health Center in Sioux City. The ambulance was also called out to the Clara Puhman residence in Concord and transported her to an area hospital.

WEIGHTLIFTING
The state weightlifting meet will be held March 18 at Omaha Roncalli in Omaha. There are 10 members this year. They include Brian Webb, Aaron Thompson, Craig Philbrick, Steph Gregerson and Amy Morgan, seniors; Jason Mitchell and Tammy Jackson, juniors; Kyle Crosgrove and Michelle Fertig, freshmen; and Kelly Fendrick, freshman.

Last year, Allen placed third in Class "D" at the state meeting, setting nine state records.

MUSICAL
The Allen High School chorus/drama will present their first ever musical on Thursday, March 23 and Friday, March 24 at the school gym. Tickets can be purchased in advance. Students are $2 and adults are $4. Tickets purchased at the door will be $3 for students and $5 for adults. For tickets contact the Allen High School at 635-2484. Richard Lacy is the director.

CONGRATULATIONS
Congratulations goes out to Corey Thomlinson as he competed in a Special Olympics basketball tournament and has qualified to go to compete at state level in the near future.

THANK YOU
Dale Taylor, Doug Kluger and Rick Smith:
There is a Village called Allen Town,
Which has the best of maintainer men around.
In the Spring there's grading and pot-holes to fill,
From the snow that melts from every hill.
In the Summer they fix bridges and things,
And are always there when the telephone rings.
There's gravel to move,
And roads to improve.
Lots of dirt to haul,
At the County's first call.
Then comes Fall with machines to get ready,
For the first Winter blast so the blade is on steady.
When Winter hits, they're ready to go,
And the Ol' North Wind — Oh does it blow.
They get up at three — when most people can't see,
To clean the roads for you and for me!
We forget to thank them many a day,
But when the snow starts falling want them our way.
So, please, don't forget to wave and say "hi",
When your maintainer man goes driving by.
Nod your head — show them you care.
And the thankful — because they're always there!

Fighting Heart Disease and Stroke

GRANDPA,
Just a cluster of beautiful memories,
Sprayed with a million tears.
Wishing God could have spared
you,
just a few more years.

God saw that you were suffering,
The hills were hard to climb;
So he closed your weary eyelids,
And whispered peace be thine.

In my heart your memory lingers
And I just can't help to weep,
Tears of love can never wake you,
From your peaceful, happy sleep.

When a face that was so dear is no longer here,
And a voice that I loved is hushed,
It seems as if time went too quickly.
It seems as if things were rushed.

But there is a great feeling of comfort
When hearts that still grieve and are sad,
Can remember again and be thankful,
For "the wonderful years we had."

Love, Vickie

THANK YOU

THE FAMILY of Tillie Baier would like to thank everyone who remembered us with prayers, memorials, food, visits and flowers. Your kindness and sympathy will always be remembered. Also thank you to Dr. Felber, Dr. Lindau and the caring staff at the Wayne Care Centre for all your support and concern. Also thank you to Pastor Jeff Anderson and Pastor Merle Mahnken for your visits and prayers and the Ladies Aid for serving lunch. All these acts of kindness mean so much at this difficult time. May God Bless you all. Lou Baier 3/14

WE WISH to thank everyone for the cards, memorials, calls, visits and flowers and other acts of kindness shown to us at the death of our husband, father and grandfather, Clarence Stark. Your prayers and concerns were deeply appreciated. Esther W. Stark, James Stark and Family, John Stark and Family, Kent Stark and Family, Larry Thompson and Family, Gerald Scott and Family, LeRoy Janssen and Family. 3/17

I WOULD like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who remembered me with cards, phone calls, visits and flowers while I was in the hospital and since returning home. I also want to thank Pastor Wilms and Sister Gertrude for their visits and prayers. Special thanks to the Doctors, nurses and staff at Providence Medical Center, the care I received was excellent. It truly is wonderful to live in such a caring community. LeRoy Levene. 3/17

New to town

Refinisher likes community atmosphere

By Stacey Schaller
For the Herald

Do you remember those old westerns? Villain sneaks into the carriage house, planning to steal a horse. Hero is there waiting for him. They scuffle, then Villain mounts a horse and rides off. Hero mounts his well groomed steed, and follows in hot pursuit, tackling Villain and knocking him senseless.

While most people don't know much about acting, or carriage houses, one member of the Wayne community does.

Gerry Melis, a newcomer to the Wayne area, has opened a small shop in the old Bressler carriage house just North of the Armory. Making a business of a 20 year hobby, Gerry refinishes and reupholsters wood furniture. While showing some of his work, Gerry described the road that brought him to Wayne.

Gerry was raised in Tilden, Neb. He enjoyed the small town atmosphere and was impressed with country courtesy and friendliness. After graduating from Wayne State College with a degree in theatrical production, Gerry moved to Los Angeles.

Furniture refinisher Gerry Melis has enjoyed the friendly atmosphere of the Wayne area since he returned here and converted a furniture refinishing hobby into a business.

Though he was interested in a movie career, he never found a part that he was comfortable with. He also had a family to feed, and realized that "you starve in the beginning [of your acting career]."

Gerry, while looking for parts, worked numerous jobs, including insurance sales, bar tending and even selling Wrigley's gum. His sales jobs moved him to many of the major cities of America, a situation he quickly tired of. "We'd make some friends, then ... we'd have to move," he stated.

Longing for the calmness of small town life, Gerry returned to Nebraska, setting up shop in Wayne. Now, he does for a living what he did for "therapy from sales", furniture refinishing.

Gerry has a small town view of business, stating, "If I can't do business on a handshake, I don't want [that person's] business." He believes that small towns should be close knit, and the people honest and trust worthy.

Gerry also commented on the "big-town" small town, a place where neighbors do not look out for each other. He is bothered by the changes he has seen in Nebraska communities since he has been gone.

Over Thanksgiving, he had an extra turkey, and decided to give it to a truly needy family in town, but not even the pastors of Wayne knew any needy families. He remembers, "In Tilden, there were several needy families, and everyone knew who they were."

The Melis family have been involved in a few things since they have moved to town, such as the Christmas parade, but they prefer to recuperate from the hectic pace of city life before they get involved in many activities. "I just want to get my business going first," Gerry commented.

Watch for workers

Spring is almost here and highway improvement projects will soon begin across the state. The Nebraska Department of Roads reminds all motorists to be particularly alert when driving near road or bridge construction.

When driving through areas of construction, lanes may narrow, barriers may line the road and sharp curves may make the going "unusual." Reduced speeds are posted through many work zone locations for the safety of motorists as well as the workers. These speed limits will be strictly enforced.

For ensured safety, follow all posted guide and warning signs, watch for equipment and workers around all construction sites and heed the posted speed limits.

Cattlemen to meet in Wayne

The Northeast Nebraska Area Cattlemen will hold a membership meeting on Monday, March 20 at the Black Knight Steakhouse in Wayne. There will be a social hour beginning at 7 p.m., sponsored by the Wayne Veterinary Clinic and Citizens Bank of Wisner. A sirloin dinner at 7:30 p.m. will follow.

The Northeast Cattlemen encourages its member to remind local businesses that their membership support is very much appreciated and needed. All those who join or renew their membership will receive their meal for free.

Sara Kettle, of the NC staff at Alliance, will speak about the Strategic Alliance Project and Cattlemen's Carcass Data Service.

Shane Belohrad of the NC staff at Lincoln will speak on NC and NCA membership.

"If tax relief, product integrity, reduced regulations and a better understanding of the beef industry are important to you, please plan to attend," said Tim Ahlers, president of the group.

Megan Lundahl
Art winner

Megan Lundahl, a first grader at Laurel-Concord Elementary School, is the state runner-up winner in the first grade division of the post card art contest sponsored by the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs.

The contest was cosponsored by the Nebraska Tourism Office. In the contest students were asked to "send a post card from Nebraska with the theme, 'Our Nebraska Heritage.'"

The winning students were honored at state capitol ceremonies on Feb. 24. Approximately 5,000 students across the state participated in the contest.

The overall winner was Joel Blankenship, a fourth grader from Lexington.

Megan is the daughter of Ron and Sherie Lundahl of Laurel and the granddaughter of Earl and Joyce Lundahl of Wayne. Her teacher is Mrs. Dahlquist.

College rep due in Wayne

Marcy Grace of Peru State College will be visiting Wayne High School on Monday, March 27.

Grace, of the college admissions staff, will be available from 1:30 p.m. to discuss educational opportunities at Nebraska's first college with prospective students.

To arrange a visit, contact the school guidance counselor or the office of Admissions at Peru State College by calling 402-872-3815 or toll free 800-742-4412.

College will host exhibit on girlhood

Wayne State College will host the exhibition Girls and Girlhood: A Perilous Path on campus from March 20 to April 30. This world-class exhibit has previously been on display at the World Trade Center and the United Nations Building in New York City.

The exhibition combines the arts of storytelling, book and graphic illustration, painting, stage scenery, advertising, cartooning and filmmaking to guide the viewer through the maze of the various stages of a girl's development from pre-birth and birth, infancy and early childhood, childhood and adolescence through teenage years.

Well-known contemporary children's book authors, illustrators and publishers have collaborated with UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund, to make this unique exhibit possible.

The goal of the exhibit is to raise awareness about the situation of girls worldwide whose gender causes disparity in education, health and social services, gainful employment and skills training, as well as in their civil and political rights. This colorful and educational exhibit crosses many disciplines across many cultures.

It should be of interest to school groups interested in literature, art, social studies and multicultural education. It is also designed to have appeal for a wide range of age groups, children to adult.

Girls and Girlhood: A Perilous Path will be housed in the assembly room on the third floor of the Hahn Administration Building on the WSC campus. It will be open to the public 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. weekdays and other times by appointment. Large groups are advised to call for a scheduled tour time.

The exhibit is free of charge. For information or to arrange for a tour, call 375-7533.

Bereuter names young artists

Representative Doug Bereuter announced the selection of a colored pencil picture entitled "Symbolic Word" by Nicole Howard, a senior at Elkhorn Valley Schools, as the winning entry in the First Congressional District art competition for high school students.

Selected for honorable mention were an acrylic painting entitled "Turtle Man" by Cory Meyer of Walthill Public School, a watercolor entitled "Untitled" by Eric Wendt of Milford High School and a tempera and ink picture entitled "Still Life with Stool" by Jon Marburger of Laurel-Concord Public School.

Bereuter said, "As Nebraskans, we can all be proud of these talented students who have taken the time to represent our state in this national competition."

The First Congressional District art contest is part of An Artistic Discovery, the 14th annual competition conducted by members of the U.S. House of Representatives to recognize the creative talents of young Americans.

The winners were honored at a ceremony held in conjunction with Youth Arts Month on Saturday, March 11 in the Nebraska State Capitol Rotunda. A reception at the State Office Building followed the recognition ceremony.

The art work will be displayed at the State Office Building in Lincoln during March. Beginning in June, the first place winner will be displayed along with the winning entries from other districts in a corridor of the U.S. Capitol.

Church Notes

Public is invited to view film

AREA — Everyone is invited to attend the showing of the new film, "The Eye of The Storm," on Sunday, March 19 at 6 p.m. in the High School lecture hall.

The World Wide Pictures Feature Presentation is being sponsored by the congregation at Praise Assembly of God.

"The Eye of The Storm" is a real-life drama about a father, a daughter, a career and the most important decisions they will ever make. Starring in the film are Connie Sellecca, Jeff Conaway and Deborah Tucker.

For more information, or for transportation needs, please call 375-3103 or 375-3430. A free-will offering will be taken.

Wakefield holds World Day of Prayer

WAKEFIELD — World Day of Prayer services were held in Wakefield on Friday, March 3 at the Salem Lutheran Church with approximately 40 people present. The theme was "The Earth Is A House for All People."

Members of the organization committee included Becky Swanson and Marge Johnson from Salem Lutheran Church, Eleanor Park from the Presbyterian Church and Elvera Borg from the Evangelical Covenant Church.

Esther Oberg delivered the World Day of Prayer message. Music was provided by Lynn Wilms and Margaret Fischer. Others participating in the program included Linda Paul, Barbara Hickson, Pastor Susan Banholzer, Carol Bard and Ardath Utecht.

A fellowship was held at the end of the services. The 1996 services will be held at the Evangelical Covenant Church, with Correen Bard and Vendia Olson of the Covenant Church, Linda Paul of the Presbyterian Church and Marian Christensen from Salem serving on the organizational committee.

The "Word" for the Week

You have nothing to prove

People of old said, "Come, let us build for ourselves a city, and a tower whose top will reach into heaven, and let us make for ourselves a name" (Genesis 11:4). These people wanted to build a memorial to themselves. They wanted to make a name for themselves rather than making God's name great. This effort to prove their own self worth rather than God's placed them in opposition to God. Talk about self-imposed stress.

You can fall into this same pattern when you attempt to make a name for yourself. It might work like this. Someone runs you down with words. You worry and fret about what this other person says. Of course it is a lie. However, you act as if it is true. Your life is guided by this lie. You fret over how you are going to prove yourself. Talk about self-imposed stress.

You also forget you should "do all to the glory of God" (1 Corinthians 10:31). And so, when you attempt to make a name for yourself and to prove yourself, you neglect the greater duty of glorifying God. In this way you place yourself in opposition to God. This is the ultimate in self-imposed stress. It is needless. You should not believe the lie spoke against you. As a result, you should realize you have nothing to prove.
