

Musical hits Wayne stage

The annual Wayne High School musical will this year feature a production of "I'm Sorry the Bridge is Out, You'll Have to Spend the Night." The opening is Friday night at the High School Lecture Hall. Students have been rehearsing for weeks for the production which is being directed by Kathryn Ley. In the scene above, Jeremy Meyer and Sara Kinney discover a mummy played by Chris Headley. The performances will be at 7:30 p.m. both Friday and Saturday nights. Admission is $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for students. Tickets are available at the door. The musical centers around a couple who are stranded in a less than enchanted castle because a bridge is out.

Construction moved up on library/center

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

Construction may begin as early as this summer on the new Wayne Public Library and Senior Citizen Center—nearly a year ahead of schedule, according to the projects spearhead.

Approved last spring by Wayne voters in a city sales tax election, the library and senior center project was originally scheduled for a spring 1996 construction start. But moving the work up several months could save substantial amounts on the building and still maintain the plan of building without financing said Pat Gross, who serves on the building committee.

The architects have finished gathering information about what the people in the community want in the new building and are currently working on the first design plans for the building which is budgeted to cost from $1.2 to $1.3 million.

OVER 30 PEOPLE attended a session with architects Thursday night to discuss needs for the building in what Gross called "the visionary process." The new facility will more than double the existing space for both the public library and the senior citizen center.

Tentative plans call for the new facility to have two wings separated by a large entry way and each wing to be about 5,500 to 6,000 square feet. A community meeting room, rest rooms and heating/air conditioning plants will be shared by the two entities.

The architects, Bob Mabry and Steve Ginn of the firm Zenon, Beringer Mabrey Partners, were asked last week to make sure the plans include collection space for the library to house 40,000 volumes, up from 22,000 in the existing location on Main Street.

OTHER "NEEDS" requested for inclusion in the plans are a comfortable reading area and children's/youth section as well as an area for the library's genealogical and local history collections. An area for current events and art displays will also be designed into the facility.

The architects were also directed to include space for possible future technology expansion, said Gross. He said the budget for the facility won't allow the inclusion of more than a couple or three public use computers now, but in the near future, he said, the library may want to have space for 10 to 15 computers in a technology area.

"THAT NEEDS to be planned and designed into the building now," he said predicting that there will be more and more demand for public access to electronic information through the local library.

On the Senior Center side, requested features include a large dining room.

Russian teacher gives students foreign flare

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

From the City of Yoshkar-Ola, a city of 250,000 in Wayne, Tatyana Matrukhovich has found many similarities and "exciting, new challenges".

Tatyana, who prefers to be called Tayna, came to Wayne State College for a semester of teaching through a program known as International Research and Exchange Board (IREX).

Tayna had to pass three examinations before being chosen to participate in the program. "There were only 40 people chosen to come to the United States. They came from all over Russia—Siberia, Karelia, Caucasus, the Volga region and from the Far East. I feel very lucky and honored to have been chosen," she said.

"COMING TO the United States has been a dream come true for me. I feel a great responsibility to gather as much information about the United States as I can so I can share it with my students and friends," she said.

Tayna was born and raised in the City of Yoshkar-Ola which is the capital of the Republic of Mari-El. "The name means 'Beautiful City'. It is a very old city, founded in 1584.

After completing 11 years of school, Tayna attended teacher's training college and received a degree in Foreign Language. She

PA of the Year

Gary West, Physician Assistant at Northeast Nebraska Medical Group was recently honored as Physician Assistant of the Year by the Nebraska Academy of Physician Assistants. The honor was in recognition of the exemplary service West has given to the Physician Assistant program. "This was a complete surprise to me. I feel it is a tremendous honor from my colleagues across the state," West said. West received the award during the group's annual meeting which focuses on education for the Physician Assistant.

Many stories surround odd bus accident

SIoux CITY, Iowa (AP)—School officials are trying to sort out exactly what happened in the bathroom of a moving bus before a teenager fell out the window to the pavement below.

Tyler Stillely, 16, of Des Moines was being treated for serious head injuries at Marian Health Center in Sioux City. Hospital officials declined other information at the request of the family.

But boy's parents did release a statement through the hospital last week, saying their only concern right now is the health of their son. "We do not wish to speculate about the cause of the situation nor responsibility," the statement from Dick and Diane Salley said. "At present, these issues are unimportant."

Pennies purchase plenty

What does a penny buy today? A new storm sewer, a library/senior center, a renovated city auditorium, and maybe even a widened highway.

Wayne's 1¢ City Sales Tax, in effect since October of last year, appears to be on target for an estimated $2 million in revenue over the next five years, according to City Administrator Joe Salitros.

But Salitros warned that it is too soon to tell if the $113 thousand generated during the first four months of the new tax will be a good indication of future revenues. "The numbers don't mean anything yet. I've given this information to the Council and told them that it will be another two months before we get a good feel for how we are doing."

The initial project to be funded by the tax is the Logan Street storm sewer, which will provide relief to the overburdened Main Street storm sewer. Construction is scheduled to be completed sometime this summer.

Searching for fire clues

Wayne Fire Chief Dutch Sitzman paws through the remains of a minor fire in a stairwell at Bowen Hall at Wayne State College last Tuesday. A bag of trash containing aerosol cans. The cans apparently exploded from the heat of the fire. Little damage occurred and the trash fire for the most part was extinguished by the time firemen arrived on the scene but the appearance that the fire was deliberately set had officials doubly concerned.

ing area that could be partitioned into smaller spaces. Senior citizens also requested a quilting and crafts room, a senior lounge area, pool room and office spaces as well as serviceable kitchen and serving spaces.

Gross said the architects will return with preliminary floor plans and designs in as little as two months.

The bulk of the funding for the project was raised through a private pledge campaign which included several sizeable grants and gifts, including major funds from the Dr. Robert Benhack family and the Peter Kiewit Foundation.

GROSS SAID FUNDS coming in from the successful fund drive will help get the project started without financing while the city continues to build the sales tax pool which is planned to pay for nearly half of the construction cost.

He said there are still unfunded needs in the facility which include additional design features and technology enhancements in both wings of the new building.

The facility will be built on the southwest corner of 5th and Pearl. Two remaining houses on the building site will probably have to be torn down to make way for the construction. One other house on the site was moved last fall.

Artist featured at reception

A reception and dinner honoring artist Herb Mignery will be held from 5:30 to 8 p.m. on Monday, April 10 at Jeanne's at the Haskell House, 320 Johnson, in Wakefield.

Reservations, which are $20 per person, may be made by calling 375-7209.

The reception is to draw attention to Mignery's work on a larger-than-life clay sculpture for Wayne State College's Lyle Seymour Heritage Plaza. The sculpture will later be cast in bronze and erected in the Plaza during a dedication ceremony this fall.

Mignery is working in Wayne State's former power plant building located behind (west) of Wayne State's U.S. Conn Library. The public is invited to view Mignery at work.

"There's been a tremendous amount of supporters who have come by to view the sculpture," said Mignery. "Individuals, classes and other groups have dropped by to see the progress. I hope more and more folks will come by in the future." Mignery estimates that approximately 600 pounds of clay will be used before the sculpture is completed.

Other receptions for Mignery will be held in Norfolk on Tuesday, April 18; Lincoln on Thursday, April 20; and Grand Island on Friday, April 28.

Mignery, of Estes Park, Colo., is an alumnus of Wayne State. He grew up in the sandhills of western Nebraska, and is one of America's foremost western artists. Mignery is among only a handful to be included in the Cowboy Artists of America, a prestigious group of 26 members. He served as the organization's president from 1992-93.

His work captures what he learned on his father's ranch in Bartlett. Since 1968, he has produced the artwork for an annual cartoon calendar. He also creates a full page color cartoon for Western Horseman Magazine each month.

Many of Mignery's sculptures and works depict people or events in his life. His sculptures are located in homes throughout the country. His commissioned works are in parks, libraries and corporate headquarters in Colorado, Hawaii, Texas, Kansas, Missouri, California and Nebraska.

Mignery also created the 1994 Pioneer Award for the Academy of Country Music.

Tatyna Matrukhovich, a teacher of English in Russia, is presently teaching Russian to a group of Wayne State College teachers. Matrukhovich has spent the last semester her in Wayne as part of a program known as International Research and Exchange Board.

Russian

teaches English in a school of 2,000 students.

"Our school offers three foreign languages—German, French and English. English is the most popular because it is the language of business. Our school is made up of very bright students. We specialize in the Natural Sciences," Tayna said.

UNLIKE SCHOOLS in the United States, Tayna is responsible for teaching English to her students throughout their school years. "I get a group of students and work with them the whole time they are in school," she said.

People in Russia show a great interest in American culture. "They get information from T.V. and the press. They are looking to America for answers to their questions," Tayna said.

Life in Wayne is somewhat different than what Tayna was familiar with. "It is very quiet and peaceful here. In Russia there is lots of noise, sounds and smells. People in Russia are out in the streets walking. Cars are a luxury in Russia. It is very expensive for us to keep a car, especially with the inflation our country is experiencing right now."

"I LIVE in a very industrial city. We have lost lots of jobs during the conversion from the manufacture of military goods to the manufacture of other products. Unemployment is a serious problem in the country," Tayna said.

"The unemployed people can't count on the government for support. This is especially difficult for older people. The young people can find other things to do. All the people need to be careful with their money, especially with inflation making things very expensive," she said.

"The people in Russia are insecure about what tomorrow will bring but I don't want to give the impression that the situation is hopeless. The people in Russia have a flair for life and have hope for the future," Tayna said.

TAYNA FEELS the future of the country is in the hands of those she teaches and she is nurturing a new generation of people who will do better in life.

Tayna is enjoying her experience in the U.S. "I am very happy to meet people. I think it is important to meet individuals to understand the culture. I have met people of different cultures also. We don't have a multi-cultural society in Russia," she said.

While in the U.S. Tayna has had the opportunity to visit Florida, Georgia and Colorado also. She loves to travel and is enjoying doing things she has never done before.

WHEN SHE is finished teaching here at Wayne State College, Tayna plans to travel the west coast of the United States and hopes "to see as much as possible."

The group of 40 students from Russia will be holding a de-briefing conference in Washington at the end of May to compare and discuss what they have learned during their time in the U.S.

"This has been a very valuable experience for both me and my students. I hope to share what I have learned with them. I miss my students, and am trying to get new teaching methods to use in my classroom when I get back home," Tayna said.

"I have taken lots of photographs and hope to share with those in my country that people here do work to achieve their goals and that there are a lot of similarities between the two countries," she said.

College aids video project

Thanks to Wayne State College, many of the nearly 30,000 high school students in the 1st Congressional District of Nebraska have learned more about how the U.S. Congress works and the importance of their involvement in their democracy.

They learned this from a civic, educational videotape contributed to every public and private high school and some of the area chambers of commerce and public libraries by Wayne State College and the Committee for Citizen Awareness. The videotape, entitled "The U.S. Congress and You," features award-winning newsman Howard K. Smith, Dr. Donald J. Mash, president of Wayne State College and Representative Doug Bereuter.

The videotape includes information pertaining only to the 1st Congressional District of Nebraska.

Wayne State College, via the Wayne State Foundation, has provided this educational videotape for our area as have over 300 other corporations, universities and organizations in other locales across the country.

Over 10 million people have seen this educational videotape, the purpose of which is to improve democratic participation.

Mash said, "Wayne State College became involved with this public-service project after learning the disturbing fact that the United States, which we consider to be the world's greatest democracy, has the worst voter turnout rate in the world. We are pleased to have the opportunity to help correct such voter apathy through sponsoring this videotape program."

Surveys conducted by the Committee for Citizen Awareness of this videotape which is being shown nationwide have shown that 88 percent of the students who view the videotape would recommend it to a friend; and the number of students who indicated that they were more inclined to vote after viewing the tape increased by 40 percent.

For more information, contact Kimberley Matthews Fraser of the Committee For Citizen Awareness at 202-393-8553.

Accident

Service, was taking a group of 42 choral students at Des Moines Roosevelt High School to a competition in Norfolk, when the accident happened near Wisner, last Tuesday. After the accident the youth was transported by ambulance to Providence Medical Center in Wayne before being flown by air ambulance to Sioux City.

The initial story was that while talking with friends in the bus bathroom, Silley was leaning against the window when it failed.

"We're hearing different things now," said Mark Horstmeyer, a Des Moines school spokesman.

"Several kids were saying that the young man was trying to push the bathroom door open and was leaning against the window," Horstmeyer said. "Some pressure was being placed against the window."

Horstmeyer said he didn't know why that would be so.

"We're trying to sort through all this. You can imagine that with 42 kids on a school bus, we're getting a lot of different stories."

Medical scholars

A total of 632 students at the University of Nebraska Medical Center received scholarships during the 1994-95 school year. The academic scholarships are funded and administered in part by UNMC and the University of Nebraska Foundation.

College of Nursing
Hoskins — Jason Gillespie, Scottsbluff County Scholarship, $300.

Pierce — Michelle Reil, Martha T. Smith Memorial Scholarship, $200.

Wakefield — Lana Ekberg, Olive Aistrope Lamb Scholarship Fund, $3,400.

College of Pharmacy
Wayne — Kimberly Benjen, Plough Pharmacy Student Scholarship, $750.

School of Allied Health Professions
Wayne — Douglas Larsen, Regents Scholarship, $4,308; Teresa Prokop, Albert A. and Ethel M. Drier Scholarship, $399 and Nellie Powley Hills & John Willard Hills Scholarship, $100.

Freshman orientation is planned

On Tuesday, April 18, from 6:30 to 9 p.m., Wayne High School will be holding its annual freshman orientation.

On that evening, parents and students who will attend Wayne High School during the 1995-96 school year, are invited to visit school, tour the facilities and visit with teachers regarding student class schedules.

A general session in the Lecture Hall at 6:30 p.m. will begin the evening activities. Parents and students will then be allowed to visit with teachers in various locations.

Final registration for all ninth graders will take place during the days of April 24-26.

April is National Occupational Therapy month. We would like to devote this column today to our own Occupational Therapist, Coletta Ottans, OTR/L (registered, licensed Occupational Therapist). She is an employee of Rehab Excellence Group, L.L.C.; began her service at the Wayne Care Centre October 13, 1994; is a graduate of Creighton University; and obtained valuable experience at Madonna Rehabilitation Hospital before moving to Wayne. Coletta works with those who have difficulty: dressing and feeding themselves; transferring from chair to bed, a wheel chair, or the toilet; moving their arms or hand; remembering places in the Care Centre; or not looking to one side which causes them to run into people and things. Her numerous skills are "the bridge" between Physical therapy and Speech-Language Pathology services. It's great to have Coletta on "our Rehab team!"

Alfred Eisenstadt has had one job since 1936, as a famed magazine photographer. At 95 he was still taking photos, accepting awards, otherwise turning up daily at his office in New York's Life Building. "Wherever I am, I am the oldest," he told an interviewer. "But my brain is 29 years old and I have not forgotten anything that ever happened to me."

AWANA Olympics

These kids enjoy a friendly contest of keeping the balloon in the air during just one of many activities at the annual AWANA Olympics which were held at Wayne High School, recently. AWANA, which evolved from a biblical passage in the Book of Timothy, stands for Approved Workman Are Not Ashamed. Area churches in northeast Nebraska got teams of 18 youth to participate in the regional competition which was hosted for the first time in Wayne. The winners advanced to the state competition at Hastings High School this Saturday afternoon. Those advancing from the Wayne competition included a pair of girls teams from the Concord Evangelical Free Church and the Wayne Evangelical Free Church. The two boys teams that advanced to state were from the Concord Evangelical Free Church and the Victory Road Evangelical Free Church in Norfolk. There were 425 kids involved in the Olympics with over 1000 spectators on hand.

Music is sometimes a gamble

It's Friday afternoon, and I've finished my charting early. Therefore, I'm quitting early to make up for working last weekend and several long days this week. I'm eating popcorn and listening to a cassette tape of wedding songs.

Long ago, I commented that I wished someone would record the most commonly-used wedding songs so couples would have them to listen to. I have one today that was recorded on a harp and a flute and it is beautiful.

The first song is Pachelbel's Canon in D. My goal is to play that, all 10 pages, on the organ. And if I don't practice more than I have been, it will never happen.

Fortunately, the white frame church near us asks me to play for services once in a while, forcing me to get to the instrument.

Acquiring my organ was quite a feat, and I shouldn't neglect it. It was about 15 years ago that my brother-in-law saw a sign for a Conn organ for sale on the bulletin board of a friend's workplace. They wanted $1,000.

After some time, and negotiation, they agreed to $100 a month for 10 months. I was a school nurse then; I worked weekends in the hospital emergency room for the extra bucks. And I conned Steve Krajick into bringing it from Omaha for me, in his van. I don't remember who got it on the pickup for me when we moved here, but I know the poor brother-in-law helped get it in the house.

There was a beautiful old piano here, and the owners elected not to take it along. So I gambled, and gave them $100 for it. It turned out to have a cracked sound board. A technician told me it was not worth repairing. I never was much of a gambler.

Two different carpenters also told me it wasn't worth the work to salvage the ornately-carved wood, so it was hauled away.

In its place is another old upright I found at the Elmwood Senior Center. The ivories are in good condition, and it sounds only slightly out of tune.

But used organs are selling for very little now. It's a shame. Folks want the computerized ones, like a fellow in Murdock has. The songs can be pre-recorded and played whenever. It's amazing.

By the way, those animals at the Lied Jungle were tapers, not topists!

Ten days ago, I was enjoying spring weather and seeing robins. Then there was a drastic change, and it hasn't warmed up yet. Plus, I've had a bunch of elm branches in the yard from the wind again. Typical Nebraska.

Former Waynian to speak on journalism

Marjie Lundstrom, metro editor of The Sacramento Bee, Pulitzer Prize winner and University of Nebraska-Lincoln graduate, is speaking at Northern Arizona University's 13th annual Honors Week.

In April 1991, Lundstrom won the Pulitzer Prize in national reporting for a four-part series on child-abuse deaths, co-authored by Rochelle Sharpe of Ganett News Service in Washington, D.C. The stories disclosed that hundreds of child-abuse deaths go undetected each year because of errors by medical examiners and coroners.

She is the daughter of Max and Margaret Lundstrom who formerly lived in Wayne and now reside in Hutchinson, Kan.

Lundstrom is being joined in this speaking venture by her hus-

Marjie Lundstrom band and senior writer at the Bee, Sam Stanton. Like his wife, Stanton is also known for his hard-hitting reporting and is widely credited with breaking the stories that led to the impeachment of former Arizona Gov. Evan Mecham.

They will take turns speaking to communication and journalism students on Thursday, April 6.

One of the focuses of NAU's Honors Week is to help expose students to professionals with real world experiences. It provides a forum for stimulating ideas presented by distinguished speakers from across the nation and the world.

Lundstrom graduated Phi Beta Kappa from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in 1978. Today, she is a visiting faculty member in journalism ethics and newswriting at the Poynter Institute for Media

New recruit

April M. Taylor of Hoskins enlisted on active duty in the United States Air Force on March 23.

April will attend Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

According to Ssgt Bill Smith, the local Air Force recruiter, April will earn credits toward an associate degree in applied sciences through the community college of the Air Force upon completion of basic training and technical training school.

She enlisted in the surgical services career field.

On Dean's list

Mark A. Niemann, Wayne, a building construction technology student at Southeast Community College, Milford Campus, is on the Dean's List for the winter quarter ending March 22. A grade point average of 3.5 (B+) must be achieved on a 4.0 (A) scale to be so honored.

A total of 309 students were named to the Dean's List this quarter. The total enrollment for the winter quarter was 906 full-time day students.

WSC presenters

Wayne State College instructors Dr. Daryl Wilcox and Dr. Charles Manges, and Marilyn Sorenson of Norfolk, recently presented the "Linking Assessment and Instruction: The Dimension of Learning Model" workshop in Grand Island.

It was sponsored by the Nebraska Council of School Administrators and involved elementary and secondary faculty and administrators.

Wilcox, professor of education, has been a Wayne State faculty member since 1993. She earned her bachelor of arts degree from Baker University, and her master's degree and Ed.D. from the University of Kansas.

Manges, assistant professor of education, has been a Wayne State faculty member since 1991. He earned his bachelor of arts degree, master of arts degree, Ed.S., and Ph.D. from the University of Iowa.

Sorenson is a special education instructor at Norfolk Public School.

Kelly Soden Tammy Teach

Two scholars

Two Wayne students have been awarded a John G. Neihardt Scholarship to attend Wayne State College in the fall.

Kelly Soden, who will graduate from Wayne High School in May, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Soden.

Tammy Teach, who will graduate from Wayne High School in May, is the daughter of Frank and Linda Teach.

The Neihardt Scholarship Program recognizes academically skills students with an outstanding record of achievement. Neihardt scholars participate in a specially designed program of study to help realize their academic potential. Neihardt Scholarship recipients are awarded full tuition for four years — valued at approximately $5,750 — plus a $500 annual stipend.

Technical guide

Maureen Carrigg, assistant professor of communication arts at Wayne State College, recently served as a technical and creative consultant for the University of South Dakota's Independent Strollers Group.

The Independent Strollers are a musical comedy group much like the Wiffenpoofs. The group won the best costume award and placed second overall at the 72nd annual Strollers competition held recently in Vermillion.

Carrigg, who has been a Wayne State faculty member since 1988, earned her bachelor of arts degree from Queens College, and her master of fine arts degree from Brooklyn College.

Talks on reading

Dr. Robert Sweetland, associate professor of education at Wayne State College, presented "New Quality Children's Literature for the Elementary Classroom" at the Nebraska State Reading Council's 22nd annual reading conference.

The presentation included sharing recently published quality children's literature and methods on how to use literature to develop caring in students for learning and other people.

Sweetland, who has been a Wayne State faculty member since 1987, earned his bachelor of arts degree from Doane College, and his M.Ed. and Ed.D. from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Library Week lectures feature access, freedom

Area educators, administrators and concerned citizens are invited to a series of lectures being presented by Wayne State College's U.S. Conn Library during National Library Week, April 9-16.

Mark Bowen, state coordinator for Sen. Jim Exon's office, will present "Access Issues in the Electronic Media" at noon on Monday, April 10, in Wayne State's Student Center. This lecture will focus on the controversial proposed bill regarding access to electronic information, and the laws and concerns of access to information which will include perspectives from the K-12 arena and postsecondary education.

Senator joins health board

State Senator Stan Scheilpepper of Stanton has been appointed to the board of the Nebraska Rural Health Association (NeRHA).

NeRHA is a not-for-profit, non-partisan association whose goal is to improve and preserve health care in rural Nebraska. It is composed of individuals and organizations interested in providing leadership on rural health issues through advocacy, communication and education.

NeRHA is active in its support of rural health care awareness and education. Each year the group sponsors the Nebraska Rural Health Care Conference. Other programs planned for 1995 include a Rural Health Day for State Legislators and a statewide Rural Health Care Awareness Day.

M.L.S. will present "Project Gutenberg and the Electronic Book" at noon on Tuesday, April 11, in the U.S. Conn Library's Great Plains Room. This lecture will describe Project Gutenberg and demonstrate several means of gaining access to its resources. Several additional issues will also be discussed.

"Censorship and Intellectual Freedom" will be held at 10 a.m. on Wednesday, April 12, in the Great Plains Room. Mark Higgins, assistant professor of communication arts at Wayne State, will discuss laws, policies and national trends, while educators from public schools will describe experiences with challenges to intellectual freedom in the K-12 environment.

A display of banned books will also be exhibited on the second floor of the U.S. Conn Library throughout April. Refreshments will be furnished during the lectures.

For more information concerning these activities, contact Maureen Battistella, director of informational services, Wayne State College's U.S. Conn Library, 402-375-7259.

Pianists compete

Three piano students of Mrs. Sue Powell of Wayne competed at the National Federation of Music Clubs contest held at Briar Cliff College in Sioux City on March 18.

Receiving superiors on their piano solos were Lisa Mitchell, primary 4 level, daughter of Jim and Janice Mitchell; Tamara Schardt, primary 2 level and Greg Schardt, elementary 2 level, children of Lowell and Karen Schardt.

Cough may occur with these medicines

A group of medicines used to treat high blood pressure and congestive heart failure has been known for some time to cause cough in many individuals. These medicines are known as angiotensin-converting enzyme inhibitors, or, simply, ACE inhibitors. Examples include captopril, enalapril, fosinopril, lisinopril, quinapril, and ramipril.

According to a report in Journal of Clinical Pharmacology, cough occurred more often in patients treated for congestive heart failure (26%) than in patients treated for high blood pressure (14%). Cough occurred within one week of starting therapy. In one study, most patients with high blood pressure tolerated the cough, which improved over time. However, more than half of the patients with heart failure had to stop taking the medicine. Changing from one ACE inhibitor to another does not reduce the likelihood of cough.

Child Find can help

Do you have or know of a preschool-age child who may have physical, mental or emotional problems? If so, Child Find can help.

Child Find is a community-wide effort to find and help preschool-age children who are handicapped and in need of special educational programs or services.

In many cases, a special program can correct the child's problem if it is noticed early enough. Sometimes, however, parents do not seek help for a child because they do not know what services they can get for the child or they do not realize the child has a problem.

Free screenings and special education programs are available at the Laurel-Concord School to meet the needs of children with special problems.

So if you know of a child who may have a problem, contact Cheryl Connot at 256-3730 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Or write to Laurel-Concord Schools, Box 8, Laurel, NE 68745 to the attention of Cheryl. All information is confidential.

Scholarships offered

NORFOLK— The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District is now accepting applications for 4-H summer camp scholarships from youth throughout the 15-county district. The Lower Elkhorn NRD will reimburse six 4-H members for the full camp registration fee.

Three scholarships are available for the Natural Resources and Leadership Camp which will be held June 26-30 at Halsey. Winners of the three Expo Visions Camp scholarships will attend the camp in Lincoln on June 7-9.

4-H scholarship winners must register for the camp, arrange for their own transportation and pay all fees. The Lower Elkhorn NRD will reimburse the registration fee after the scholarship winners send camp attendance verification to the Lower Elkhorn Office.

Any 4-H member who would like to apply for these scholarships should contact their local Cooperative Extension office for more information and an application form. All applications must be received by April 28, 1995. 4-H scholarship winners will be notified the week of May 8th.

Order NRD trees now!

Spring is here and this is your last chance to order tree seedlings for spring planting!

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District is once again offering tree seedlings for residents of the 15-county district.

This year, the NRD is selling 36 different species of Clark-McNary tree seedlings. This wide variety of evergreens, hardwoods and shrubs may be ordered in lots of 25 trees per species and will be available in early April.

Tree and shrub seedlings can be ordered by contacting your local Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) office, formerly the Soil Conservation Service (SCS). NRCS personnel will assist landowners in choosing tree species, designing plantings, ordering trees, and if desired, arranging for Lower Elkhorn NRD Planting contractors to do the planting.

The availability of species varies from year to year depending on the growing conditions and supply demands. So, order now!

For tree seedling prices and other information, contact your county NRCS office or the Lower Elkhorn NRD in Norfolk.

La Leche League is beneficial organization

More than 100,000 women per month have contact with La Leche League for breastfeeding information and support. This volunteer organization's goal is to help every woman to have the breastfeeding experience that she desires. Local groups meet monthly to provide mother-to-mother support. Any woman who is interested in breastfeeding is invited to attend and ask her breastfeeding questions.

Pregnant women have found that attending meetings before the baby is born is especially beneficial.

La Leche Leagues of Norfolk meets the second Tuesday of each month. Next meeting will be Tuesday, April 11 at 7:30 p.m. at Skyview Medical Center, 110 North 16th Street, Norfolk.

For more information call Velda Meyer, 371-9160.

Questions about menopause

Dr. Dobson
Answers Your Questions

Question: Our children are all on their own now, and my husband and I are free to do the traveling we have always planned to do. But lately I feel too tired and too depressed to care about doing anything extra. Some mornings, I can hardly get out of bed. Why do I feel so terrible? Could I be losing my mind?

Dr. Dobson: I think it is quite unlikely that you have anything wrong with your mind. The symptoms you describe sound as if you may be entering a physiological phase called menopause, and your discomfort may be caused by the hormonal imbalance that accompanies glandular upheaval. I suggest that you make an appointment to see a gynecologist in the next few days.

Question: Can you give me a simple definition of menopause?

Dr. Dobson: It is a period of transition in a woman's life when the reproductive capacity is phasing out and her body is undergoing the many chemical and psychological changes associated with that cessation. Menstruation, which has occurred monthly since perhaps 11 or 12 years of age, now gradually stops, and hormonal readjustments occur. Specifically, the ovaries produce only about one-eighth of the estrogen that they once did. This affects not only the reproductive system, but the body's entire physical and psychological apparatus.

Question: When I was young, my mother told me that menopause happens when a woman is about 45. I'm only 37. Surely I'm too young for menopause, don't you think?

Dr. Dobson: The age of onset of menopause varies widely. It can occur at any adult age—as early as the 20s or as late as the 50s. As your mother indicated, the early 40s represent the mid-range, but individuals differ significantly.

Question: I am going through menopause now. Will this ever end? Will I feel like my old self again someday?

Dr. Dobson: There is definitely a silver lining to the dark cloud that hangs over you now! The experience is not a permanent state, but a stage of a journey through which some women must go. But "this too shall pass." It may last for several years, but it will pass.

Just as with men in mid-life crisis, the period after menopause can be brighter, happier, more stable and more healthy than any other period of life. Often, a more balanced personality develops after menopause and greater energy is experienced. A better day is coming!

Incidentally, the human female is the only creature who outlives its reproductive capacity by a significant period of time. Does that help your self-esteem?

Question: Is there a male menopause comparable to what is experienced by women?

Dr. Dobson: This is a question with strong cultural overtones that have clouded the truth. Some women apparently fear that female menopause will be used as an excuse to withhold positions of leadership from middle-aged women. Therefore, they stress the existence of comparable "male menopause."

While men do experience a climacteric that can be called menopausal, it is very different in origin and impact from that experienced by women. For men, the changes are not so related to hormonal alterations but are more psychological in nature.

It is difficult for a man to face the fact that he will never reach the occupational goals that he set for himself... that his youth is rapidly vanishing... that he will soon be unattractive to the opposite sex... that his earlier dreams of glory and power will never be realized. Some men who have achieved less than they hoped are devastated by the realization that life is slipping away from them. This, primarily, is the male menopause.

These same influences agitate a woman, but she has an additional hormonal turmoil undermining her security from within. Other things being equal, the feminine variety is more difficult to endure, particularly if it remains untreated.

Allen couple celebrates 40th anniversary

Walter and Dorothy Hale of Allen celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary with a family buffet dinner held on Sunday, April 2 at the Black Knight in Wayne. Also observed was Erma Barker's March 26th birthday, Merrill Hale's March 30th birthday and Sally Hammer's April 13th birthday.

Others attending were Merrill and Maggie Hale, Vanessa and Cora of South Sioux City; Art and Erma Barker, Kirk and Ardith Sommerfeld, Blair and McKenzie, Roy and Tommy Barker, Joshua and Sydney, Duane and Kelly Witt, Spencer and Kori, Sara Lee and Scott Hammer, all of Wayne; and Bill Young and Sally Hammer of Laurel.

After dinner they all went to the Art Barker home for a social afternoon. Ice cream and cake was served for lunch. Molly Thompson and Joe Otto of Wayne joined the group.

The couple was married April 1, 1955 at the United Methodist Church in Wayne. They have lived on a farm north of Wakefield all their married life.

They have one son, Merrill and Maggie Hale of South Sioux City and two grandchildren.

Dorothy's sister, Erma Barker, and the couple's son, Merrill Hale, also had a card shower for them.

PINK EYE

Pink eye is also known as conjunctivitis. Symptoms of conjunctivitis include watery discharge, discomfort, and occasionally blurred vision. These symptoms resolve in one to three weeks. Treatment of conjunctivitis to relieve the symptoms can be accomplished by the use of cold-compresses, artificial tear preparations, and ocular decongestants. If conjunctivitis is accompanied by pain, sensitivity to light, mucous discharge, blurred vision, a history of trauma or contact lens wear, a physician should be seen promptly.

Making sense of chocolate milk controversy

Many parents and school personnel consider chocolate milk to be an acceptable alternative to plain milk, but others do not. Among some of the concerns expressed are the sugar, caffeine and oxalic acid content of chocolate milk.

A cup of white milk contains about 2 1/2 teaspoons of lactose or milk sugar. A cup of chocolate milk contains about two additional teaspoons of sugar, in the form of sucrose, or table sugar. The only health risk associated with sugar consumption is dental caries. The promotion of dental caries from chocolate milk is no greater than that from plain milk. Chocolate milk is not a sticky substance, does not stay in the mouth for a long time and washes off of the teeth easily. Even though chocolate milk contains some added sugar, it does not cause any health risk to children. Both plain and chocolate milk contain the calcium, Vitamins A and D and riboflavin that children need to build strong teeth and bones.

The amount of caffeine in cocoa varies somewhat depending on the origin of cocoa beans. One cup of chocolate milk contains approximately seven milligrams of caffeine, and a cup of hot cocoa contains about ten milligrams of caffeine. In contrast, a cup of brewed coffee contains about 150 milligrams of caffeine and a 12-ounce cola drink has about 45 milligrams. The cup of chocolate milk contains less than

Sally Elmeier
Cedar County
Cooperative Extension

one-tenth as much caffeine as a cola beverage and less than one-twentieth as much as a cup of coffee.

Three cups of chocolate milk a day contain less than half the caffeine found in a single 12-ounce cola beverage. In addition, the chocolate milk provides calcium, Vitamins A and D and riboflavin; the cola provides no nutrients other than calories.

Oxalic acid, or oxalate, is a natural-occurring substance found primarily in foods of plant origin. When it is eaten, it is not changed by the body and is excreted in the urine. In healthy people, most of the oxalate consumed in the diet is not absorbed by the body. It forms an insoluble complex with calcium inside the small intestine and is excreted in the stool, taking the calcium with it. High oxalate intake may interfere with the body's absorption and use of calcium, and can be a special problem for people eating a diet high in vegetable grains and low in milk and milk products.

In the United States, where the diet contains a wide variety of foods, people usually consume more calcium than oxalate. Normal dietary intakes of oxalate in the United States are approximately 100 milligrams per day, while normal calcium intakes are much higher, averaging about 800 milligrams per day.

Although the popular press has suggested that, compared to regular milk, the oxalate in chocolate milk hinders calcium absorption, results of a recent study indicate that this was not true. In fact, there was only a five percent variation in the amount of calcium absorbed from whole milk, chocolate milk, yogurt, imitation milk, cheese and calcium carbonate. Thus, it also appears that the popular belief that more calcium is absorbed from cheese and yogurt than from milk is also unfounded.

Many schools offer both chocolate and white milk. Some offer chocolate milk once a week while others offer it every day. If a child does not drink white milk, chocolate milk may be offered as an acceptable alternative. Chocolate milk consumed by a child provides more calcium, protein, Vitamins A and D and riboflavin than white milk left in the carton. Whole chocolate milk provides 60 more calories per cup than whole white milk, but chocolate milk is often sold in the lowfat form. If a child replaces whole milk with lowfat chocolate milk, this difference is reduced to 20 calories. In addition, the caffeine content is minimal, and chocolate milk contains the same valuable nutrients as white milk. The availability of lowfat chocolate milk may help to ensure that both youngsters and adults take in the daily recommended amount of calcium.

Our Savior Women of ELCA hold joint meeting

Our Savior Women of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America held a joint program circle meeting on Wednesday, March 8 at 2 p.m. Thirty-seven women attended the annual birthday party.

Phyllis Rahn, president, opened the business meeting with a prayer. The secretary and treasurer's reports were read and approved. Thank you notes were also shared.

Visitation group reported visiting 42 shut-ins in February.

The sewing group has seven quilts prepared to take for Spring Gathering. Tabitha Circle also has three baby quilts to send.

The new prayer chain was explained and handed out.

Phyllis Rahn reported on her attendance at the leadership workshop in Grand Island.

It was approved to have Lyn Nuss from Norfolk as speaker for the Our Savior guest day in July.

Along with the regular offering, the annual flower fund offering was received.

A reminder was given to save Campbell's soup labels and cancelled postage stamps. Margaret Korn will deliver them to Bethphage.

Following the business meeting, Arlene Ostendorf led the program, "Busy Signals." Those assisting were Barb Heier, Erna Karel, Ardyce Reeg, Eva Nelson, Janice Barclan, Rodella Wacker, Madge Bruffat and Roberta Carman.

Faith Circle decorated the tables and hosted the lunch.

Those receiving special birthday balloons were Hazel James, Anita Johnson, Arlene Ostendorf, Dorothy Fegley, Roberta Carman, Ardyce Reeg, Frieda Jorgensen, Ila Pryor, Lydia Thomsen, Ella Lutt, Margaret Korn and Opal Harder.

Ask Karen...

Q. I sometimes notice stains that weren't there when I brought the clothes in. What happened?

A. Some stains are literally invisible until the article is drycleaned. If you know that there was a coffee or some other spill on your clothing, no matter how minor, you need to tell your drycleaner before the article is cleaned.

The "Word" for the Week Judas and the Last Supper

Many people simply do not believe it possible. How could Judas have been at the Last Supper with Jesus? Anyone in his right mind would not have admitted that betrayer to a feast portraying unity. Before you make any grand pronouncements, perhaps you should examine the Bible. Dr. Luke's objective was to investigate the life of Christ and "write it out for you in consecutive order" (Luke 1:3). No other gospel writer announced this particular purpose. Only Luke makes such a claim.

Look at what Luke says. As Jesus was instituting the Lord's Supper, "He took the cup after they had eaten, saying, 'This cup which is poured out for you is the new covenant in My blood. But behind the hand of the one betraying Me is with Me on the table'" (Luke 22:20-21). There he is, Judas has his hand on the table as the cup is passed. Noted commentator John Calvin says, "I would say it is probable that Judas was present when Jesus shared the tokens of His body and blood."

Of course the other disciples did not know the plot in Judas' heart. They knew him as a fellow believer. There is a good lesson for us here. "God sees not as man sees, for man looks at the outward appearance, but the Lord looks at the heart" (1 Samuel 16:7).

Pastor returns to former church to hold meetings

Rev. Mel Loge, who pastored the Concord Evangelical Free Church between 1963 and 1972, will return to the church for a series of messages on the theme of "Restoring The Foundations" April 6 and 7 at 8 p.m. and on Sunday, April 9 at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Sermon topics include "Main Is Responsible," "Does God Control History," "Christian Living at Home and on the Job" and "Negative and Positive Outlook." Pastor Loge grew up on a farm near Cooperstown, N.D., attended college at Prairie Bible Institute in Alberta, Canada and has pastored Free Churches in Alberta and Manitoba, Canada, in Minnesota, North Dakota, Kansas and Nebraska. Seven of those churches have been as church planter.

'Last Supper' to be presented on April 9

Loge, now in semi-retirement, lives in Aurora and is interim pastor at the Evangelical Free Church in Crete, Neb. The community is invited to attend these services. For further details or information call Pastor Bob Brenner at 402-584-2396.

Pastor Mark Steinbach and the congregation of Praise Assembly of God Church in Wayne would like to extend an open invitation to the public to attend the dramatic presentation of the "Last Supper." This moving presentation is intended to assist believers in gaining a greater awareness of the reality of the Passion of Christ. "This is the second year we're putting on this drama," Rev. Steinbach says, "and we hope to make it an event which will benefit the entire community in the years to come." The "Living Last Supper" will be held on Sunday, April 9 at 7 p.m. at Praise Assembly of God, 901 Circle Drive. For more information or for transportation needs, please call 375-3430 or 375-3103.

Landscape workshop is offered through Extension

Looking outside at fog and 40 degree temperatures, one is not thinking of outdoor spring planting and the caring for flowers, landscape plants and gardens. A day of 70 degree sunshine will motivate us to start digging and mowing. The Wayne County Extension Service is offering a unique opportunity to learn more about beautifying your landscape, enhancing your garden with annual flowers and greens.

A three workshop series will be offered on Tuesday evenings starting April 11, 6:30 to 9 p.m. at the meeting room in the Wayne County Courthouse.

The classes will be taught by Dr. Melinda McVey McClusky.

Individual class sessions will cover:
Tuesday, April 11 — Annual flowers - identification, landscape use, care and maintenance of annuals in Nebraska.

Tuesday, April 18 — Vegetable gardening - soil preparation, culture and maintenance, plus you get to start your own seeds to take home.

Tuesday, April 25 — Garden pests - identify insects and diseases commonly found in Nebraska plus pesticide safety for the home gardener.

The tuition charge for the 3 sessions will be $12. Preregister by April 10 at the Wayne County Extension Office if you plan to attend.

Family hog operations still viable say local farmers

By Bettina Heinz Hurst
IANR Communications Associate

A well-managed, small hog production enterprise can still provide sufficient income for a Nebraska family. "The emphasis lies on 'well-managed,'" said Larry Binney, agricultural economist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. "You don't have to be very big if you're good at it."

Recent industry trends have some Nebraska pork producers worried that they might not be able to compete. Producers perceive a large-scale investment is needed to be successful, according to Binney.

However, this need not spell economic struggle for many of the 12,500 hog farms in Nebraska. No doubt the market has changed. After decades of producer-directed markets, consumer demand now has become a powerful voice. Consumers want lean meat, and meat-packing plants have begun to select certain types of animals over others.

Dan Hansen, who farms and raises hogs near Carroll, said some industry magazines paint too gloomy a picture.

"The magazines have overblown the situation to the point where they discourage producers, almost making some of them quit. I think it's not as serious yet," said Hansen, who has a 250-sow, farrow-to-finish operation.

Meat-packing plants want to be assured of a large number of uniform animals so they can turn out a consistent product, Binney said, but small producers will be able to sell their hogs if they meet certain requirements. "It used to be that you could raise any type or shape of hog and sell it. That's no longer the case," Binney said.

A common myth among pork producers suggests that packers price hogs based on the size of truck in which they were delivered — big prices for big trucks, small prices for small trucks. In reality, packers price hogs based on quality, regardless of quantity.

"I don't have a real lean hog right now, but yet if my hog buyer needs hods, he calls me first," Hansen said. "I can still earn premiums. If I want more money, I'll raise a leaner hog."

Pork producers who adjust to the new market realities have a good chance of making a decent income, Don Rinne, manager of pork procurement at Hormel Foods in Fremont, said customers need to produce leaner hogs and pay close attention to genetics and feed efficiency.

"It's a question of better management," Rinne said. Still, he said, there is no reason why a well-managed small production unit should not be able to sell its hogs.

Rinne said he anticipates the market for hogs produced in Nebraska to remain stable or improve slightly over the years. Hormel Foods began a $20-million expansion project of its Fremont plant in 1993, which is expected to be completed this year.

"It'll probably become more difficult in the future to sell hogs that aren't as lean, but we're always looking to the future anyway. We always try to adjust to the market," Hansen said.

Several factors actually give Nebraska pork producers an edge over pork producers in other states, said Michael Turner, UNL agricultural economist. In terms of feed, labor and water, Nebraska pork producers profit from favorable conditions.

"We're abundantly blessed with ample supplies of feed grain in this state," Turner said. Most areas of the state have a feed grain surplus, meaning that they produce more feed grain than they consume. The benefit to Nebraska pork producers is the low price of feed grain. Nebraska corn prices tend to be lower than in any other area in the country with the exception of northwest Iowa and southwest Minnesota.

Hansen produces his own grain supply on the 750 acres he farms.

"But even if I didn't, here in Northeast Nebraska, we have a pretty good supply, even in dry years," he said.

Nebraska's abundant groundwater also is beneficial to producers. "We do not generally find water quality or water quantity to be a major constraint in Nebraska's pork production," Turner said. However, pork producers need to address potential contamination concerns to surface water and groundwater and consider the threat high nitrate concentrations pose to hogs.

Labor does not pose much of a constraint either unless hog producers try to greatly expand their operations. In that case, they have to compete for employees in an already tight labor market.

"For small or medium-size farms, growth or expansion is less of a problem," the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources faculty member said.

Nebraska's spaciousness also favors hog production, although increased environmental awareness is a concern.

Gerald Bodman, UNL agricultural engineer, emphasized that in this aspect, too, efficiency counts. "There's an increasing number of exporters who are willing to say it's not the size but producer efficiency that makes the difference," he said.

Bodman said he disagrees with the perception that corporate pork production is squeezing out the independent producer. "The ones being squeezed out are the ones that are not willing to update to modern management," he said.

Hog producers need to upgrade in the areas of disease control, facilities, feed and odor control, to name a few. It's crucial to have a system design that prevents any runoff of water containing manure, Bodman said. The production facility needs to have manure storage that is usable at least 180 days a year. Many current facilities don't meet these basic requirements, Bodman said.

"The golden rule applies to the odor problem, Bodman said. "We need to design facilities where we don't impose ourselves on someone else's environment. It can be done," he said. A well-designed lagoon would not be offensive in odor, according to Bodman.

Pork producers need to be aware of the potential of environmental contamination, he said. At a recent pork conference, a pork producer talked about the "favorite-field syndrome," which refers to a field that usually lies near the farmstead or livestock buildings, and where excess manure is applied.

"Producers must keep in mind not to apply manure in excess," Bodman said. "It leads to leaching and soil and water contamination, and it's also expensive," he said.

Overall, there are no factors inherent in small or medium-sized pork production units that would cause more difficulty for them to meet environmental regulations, Bodman said.

The biggest obstacle that small or medium-sized pork production enterprises face is raising the capital necessary for buildings, Hansen said.

"We don't get much in buildings for $100,000," he said. To grow into the size of operation that some experts indicate is needed to be competitive would cost hundreds of thousands of dollars. Still, he added, if a building is well designed, efficient and well-managed, the independent producer can still feed out a hog as well as the corporate competitor.

Many changes have occurred since the 1960s, said Hansen, who has been farming for almost 20 years. "Today's ag producers are more professional, more competitive," he said.

The outlook for Nebraska hog production is not as bleak as some think, he said. In the last six months, Hansen expanded his hog unit from 175 to 250 sows and added an employee. He's also planning to expand his farm from 750 to 1,000 acres.

"There's tremendous opportunity here. I may have to make some changes, even in my way of thinking, but there are always opportunities for people who strove to be above average. Raising hogs is no exception to that," Hansen said.

It is important to debunk some contemporary myths about pork production, Binney said. The bottom line is that efficiency, not size, determines competitiveness and profitability.

"Family hog producers will have to change, but if they do, they're not going out of business," Binney said.

Jerry Zimmer of Wayne is presented with the regional conservation award by Markin Edwards of Pioneer Hi-Bred International at the recent national meeting in New Orleans.

Wayne manager honored

Jerry Zimmer, Farmers National farm manager from Wayne, was recognized as one of three 1994 Farm Manager Conservation Award recipients at the National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD) annual meeting on Feb. 7 in New Orleans.

The award is presented annually to acknowledge superior conservation efforts on the part of farm managers. The award is sponsored by NACD, the American Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers (ASFMR), Pioneer Hi-Bred International Inc. and Agri Finance magazine.

Evaluations are based on outstanding performance in:

• Soil and water conservation programs on managed farms.

• Cooperation with local conservation districts and public agencies to meet soil and water conservation challenges.

• Innovative conservation practices utilized on managed farms.

• Utilization of new technologies in their natural resource management programs.

According to the Soil Conservation Service (SCS), Zimmer has either installed or maintained 94,442 feet of terraces, 2,000 feet of underground outlets, 23.5 acres of waterways, 3,703 acres of conservation tillage and 200 acres of legume crops.

"My philosophy is to leave the soil in as good or better shape than when I became involved," Zimmer explained in his application. "I am concerned with the loss of soil that could have been prevented by proper tillage methods and residue cover."

With 58 clients and 74 farms to manage, Zimmer works closely with the landowner, farm operator and the SCS to show the value of using needed conservation practices.

Of the 74 farms Zimmer manages, 68 require conservation plans. In five years, Zimmer has increased the acreage included in residue management systems from 50 to 90 percent of the crop land he manages. A quarter of the farms Zimmer manages have terraces, half have waterways and more than 60 percent have contour-cropped fields.

"Pioneer is dedicated to supporting excellence in farm management and the Farm Manager Conservation Award," says Dave Sallee, Western Farm Manager Coordinator with Pioneer Hi-Bred International Inc. "We hope that managers like Jerry Zimmer serve as an example for farm managers across the country."

WAYNE SENIOR Nate Salmon tees off number six during the Blue Devils meet with Oakland and Wisner, Monday afternoon. Salmon, Wayne's number one golfer fired a 41 in the cold and very windy conditions.

Wayne High golfers notch dual victories

The Wayne High boys golf team opened up season play last Saturday in Norfolk in winning fashion with a 160-205 dual victory over Norfolk Catholic at the Norfolk Country Club.

Despite a chilly day with temperature's hovering around 45 degrees, three Blue Devils carded scores in the 30's with Ryan Martin, Nate Salmon and Alex Salmon firing 39's while Jason Carr and Ryan Pick finished with 43's.

Nate's round included a pair of birdies on a par three and a par five while Martin birdied a par four. The Blue Devils reserve team also posted a season-opening victory, 175-253 led by Adam Diediker and Terry Hamer with 42's while Pick's 44 on the varsity was included in the reserve tally. Kurtis Keller rounded out the scoring with a 47.

"I thought our scores were very good," Wayne golf coach Terry Munson said. "I was especially pleased with the play of Alex Salmon who stepped up to the varsity level and fired a three-over-par 39."

Monday-afternoon at the Wayne Country Club the Blue Devils won a triangular with Oakland-Craig and Wisner-Pilger-Beemer amidst extremely windy and cold conditions.

Wayne carded a 171 to finish four strokes ahead of Oakland-Craig while Wisner-Pilger-Beemer finished with a 191. Medalist honors went to Nate Salmon with a 41 while Ryan Martin carded a 42 to tie with Oakland's Gus Ray.

Ryan Pick placed fourth overall with a 43 followed by a tie with Oakland's Ryan Jones and Andy Parker along with Wisner's Toby Thompson. Jason Carr finished with a 45 for Wayne while Alex Salmon notched a 47.

Wayne's top reserve team also notched a second straight win on the links with a 182, topping Oakland-Craig by 34 strokes and Wisner-Pilger-Beemer who finished with a 243.

Terry Hamer was medalist in reserve action with a 44 while Kurtis Keller was one stroke back for runner-up honors. Lyle Luit carded a 46 to tie for third with Oakland's Michael Johnson and Erik Wiseman finished with a 47 to round out Wayne's scoring. Adam Diediker's 48 was not included in the team total.

The Blue Devil's "B" and "C" reserve teams competed against each other with the "B" team winning a 195-210 decision. Brent Geiger topped the field of 10 with a 47 while Brandon Novak fired a 48 followed by Ryan Sturm with a 49 and Nick Hagman with a 51. Scott Olson's 53 was not included.

The "C" team was led by Carl Samuelson with a 50 while Todd Koeber netted a 52 and Paul Zulkosky, 53. David Boehle rounded out the scoring with a 55 while Jason Heithold's 59 was not included in the team total.

Wayne's varsity team will head to Lincoln, Thursday to compete in the Pius Invite before the Blue Devils compete in the Plainview Invite, Saturday.

Wakefield girls capture win at Laurel-Concord Relays

The Wakefield girls and boys track teams competed in the Laurel-Concord Relays last Friday at Wayne State with John Torczon's girls team capturing first place with 80 points while the boys placed sixth with 40.

The Lady Trojans 1600 medley relay team placed first in 4:03.9 with Alison Bepson, Jenny Sandahl, Susan Brudigam and Mindy Eaton and the 3200 relay team placed first in 11:28 with Kristin Preston, Andrea Lundahl, Sandahl and Eaton.

Mary Torczon placed runner-up in the high jump with a 5-0 leap while Brudigam added a second in the 400 meter dash in 68.8. Eaton placed second in the 1500 in 5:36 and the 800 medley relay team of Bree Oswald, Benson, Torczon and Brudigam placed second in 2:09.3.

Andrea Carson placed third in the shot put with a 28-10 effort and Kristin Preston was third in the 1500 in 5:49.1. Fourth places went to the sprint relay foursome of Oswald, Torczon, Carson and Amy Hattig in 57.3 while the 800 relay team placed fourth in 2:07.8 with Carson, Torczon, Hattig and Rachel Dutcher.

The 1600 relay team placed fourth in 5:00.3 with Kristin Preston, Stacey Preston, Oswald and Lundahl and Stacey Preston added a fifth in the 1500 in 6:14.7.

The winning Trojans out-distanced themselves from runner-up Homer by 20 points in the nine-team field.

IN BOYS action the Trojans got a championship effort in the discus from Matt Kucera with a 128-9 toss while Ryan Hoffman added a third in the shot put with a 39-2 effort.

The 800 medley relay placed third in 1:52.6 with Jim Rusk, Josh Hohn, Mike McQuistan and Hoffman while the 1600 medley relay team of Kucera, Hoffman, McQuistan and Cory Brown placed third in 4:16.3.

Justin Mackling placed fourth in the high jump at 5-8 and Brown placed fourth in the shot put with a 37-9 toss. Rounding out the list of placers was the 400 relay with Mackling, Kucera, Rusk and Brown in 48.34.

The Trojans will compete in the Ivan Krumwiede Invite in Homer on Friday.

WSC baseball team falls to 5-18

Struggle continues for sluggers

John Manganaro's Wayne State baseball team competed in the Sioux City Classic last weekend, playing five games in three days and despite a 1-4 record during the stint, the 'Cats played very competitive baseball and with a break here or there could have been 4-1.

Things started off on the right foot for the 'Cats with a 7-1 victory over Northern State of South Dakota as Joe Thompson pitched a complete game one-hitter with just two walks and nine strikeouts.

WSC had 11 hits and no errors with Raul Urias leading the way with three singles while Adam Bealle and Mike Vanderwilt had two base hits each and two rbi apiece.

Pat Moran belted a double while Jon Small singled with an rbi. Barry Richards and Cory Graves each had a base hit for the winners.

The second contest ended in a 9-8 loss for the Wildcats against Briar Cliff but the game went 10 innings before a winner was determined. WSC trailed by a 5-2 margin heading into the seventh inning but scored three to tie on a pair of singles, a double and a walk.

The 'Cats went ahead by an 8-5 margin in the eighth inning after scoring three runs on three walks and two base hits but Briar Cliff duplicated that feat in the bottom of the eighth on exactly the same scenario, three walks and a couple base hits.

The Chargers scored the winning run in the 10th inning on a one-out double and later, an rbi single.

WSC finished with eight runs on 12 hits and no errors while Briar Cliff had nine runs on 13 hits and one error. Bryan Stockwell was tagged with the pitching loss after relieving starter Jon Janssen in the eighth inning.

Chad Cerveny belted three singles to lead WSC with Jon Small notching a double and a single with three rbi. Raul Urias and Darin Gregory each had two singles while Mike Vanderwilt, Aaron Garmong and Scott Cooper each singled.

THE 'CATS fell to Morning-side in the third contest, 5-1 with Aaron Garmong taking the loss after pitching 2 2/3 innings. Brian Bellinghausen came in for relief and pitched the final 3 1/3 innings.

WSC managed four hits and committed two errors while Morningside had five runs on five hits and no errors. Garmong led the 'Cats at the plate with a solo home run while Scott Cooper, Adam Bealle and Cory Graves each singled.

Sunday, WSC lost a pair of close contests with a 5-3 setback to Mayville State in the first outing in nine innings. Nate Corman took the loss despite going the distance and pitching an excellent game according to WSC assistant coach

ADAM BEALLE has the team's only triple this season while netting 13 rbi.

Therron Brockish.

The 'Cats had 10 hits in the game along with two errors while Mayville State had five runs on nine hits and no errors. Adam Bealle led off the game with a home run and later added a single while Mike Vanderwilt laced three singles in the contest.

Darin Gregory doubled and singled while Cory Graves, Chad Cerveny and Jon Small each had one base hit.

JOE THOMPSON leads the pitching staff with a 2-3 record.

The final game of the Sioux City Classic was a rematch with Briar Cliff in the consolation game for third place and WSC fell, 4-3 with Tim Fancher taking the loss. Chad Stalzer also saw pitching action for the final 1 1/3 innings.

WSC had three hits in the game with two errors while Briar Cliff had eight hits and three errors. Scott Cooper blasted a two-run double to pace the 'Cats offense with Darin Gregory and Adam Bealle each singling. "We're not playing that badly," Manganaro said. "Actually our kids are playing well, we're just not getting that big hit when we need one. We haven't had a whole lot of luck to this point, either."

Manganaro said his young team had just one fielding error in the five games. WSC fell to 5-18 after the Classic and will host Briar Cliff on Thursday afternoon at Hank Overin Field in a 2:30 p.m. contest.

Wayne State softball team goes winless at Augustana Tourney

The Wayne State women's softball team struggled on offense over the weekend which led to six consecutive losses at Morningside and at the Augustana Tournament.

Last Friday the Wildcats dropped a twinbill in Sioux City against Morningside with WSC failing to score a run in either contest. Maryellen Livingston took the loss in a 3-0 setback in the opener as WSC managed just two hits while committing four errors.

Morningside scored three runs on six hits and they committed no errors. The 'Cats lone hits came on singles from Tina Lehman and Kim Stigge.

WSC lost a 7-0 decision in the nightcap with Neely Herman taking the loss. The 'Cats were tossed a no-hitter from Morningside while committing five errors. The host team had seven runs on six hits and they committed no errors.

The 'Cats first opponent at the Augustana Tournament on Saturday was St. Cloud University with WSC falling, 5-1. Maryellen Livingston took the loss from the mound.

WSC had four runs but committed five more errors while the winners had five runs on five hits and one error. Kim Stigge laced a pair of singles to lead the 'Cats offense while Tina Lehman and Michelle Rowe each singled.

WSC lost a 14-0 decision to NCAA-ranked Augustana in the second game with Mindy Alt taking the loss. The 'Cats got two hits—singles from Meg Neuberger and Kris Krigbaum while committing two errors as a team while the host team had 14 runs on 15 hits and no errors.

UNO handed WSC a 5-1 setback in game three of the tournament with Maryellen Livingston taking the loss. Both teams had three hits with WSC committing three errors while UNO had a pair.

Betsy Wegner, Kim Stigge and Tina Lehman each had base hits for the 'Cats. The final game ended in a 1-0 loss to North Dakota with Maryellen Livingston tagged with the loss. WSC managed one hit and three errors and North Dakota had one run on four hits and two errors.

Michelle Rowe notched the 'Cats lone hit with a single.

"We have to start hitting the ball with a little more consistency," coach Joan Scherbring said. "We faced some pretty good pitchers who moved the ball around the plate pretty good but we're just struggling at the bat right now." The weekend setbacks left WSC with a 5-15 record.

BETSY WEGNER clutches the ball tightly after catching a fly ball while second baseman Kris Krigbaum comes out to help her out during WSC's game with UNK.

MARYELLEN LIVINGSTON hurls the ball towards home plate during the first game of the 'Cats double-header with UNK, Wednesday. Livingston pitched both games.

Bears host their own track meet

The Laurel girls and boys track teams hosted the Laurel-Concord Relays last Friday at Wayne State College with nine teams participating.

Hartington's boys captured top honors with 62 points followed by Laurel with 52 and Coleridge with 48. Bancroft-Rosalie was fourth with 46 while Homer, Emerson and Wakefield tied with 40. Beemer was eighth with 38 and Ponca rounded out the team scoring with 26.

The Bears 400 and 800 relay teams captured first place with times of 47.04 and 1:39.51, respectively. Both foursomes were identical with Jim Dickey, Dave Pinkerton, Todd Arens and Jeff Wattier.

Dickey added a runner-up finish in the long jump with a 19-3.5 leap while 1600 and 3200 relay teams placed third with times of 4:02.2 and 9:23.7.

The 1600 foursome included Jeremy Reinoehl, Jeff Wattier, Todd Arens and B.J. Ehlers while the 3200 squad consisted of Jeremy Reinoehl, Josh Anderson, Tyler Nixon and Ehlers.

Jeremy Reinoehl placed fourth in the 1500 meter run in 4:50.37 while Jared Reinoehl placed fourth in the triple jump with a 37-11 3/4 leap. Jared also placed fifth in the high jump at 5-6 while Arens placed fifth in the discus with a 105-8 toss.

The girls team race was won by Wakefield with 80 while Homer and Hartington tied for runner-up honors with 60 each. Coleridge scored 58 to finish fourth followed by Laurel with 50 and Bancroft-Rosalie with 30. Beemer placed seventh with 26 and Ponca was eighth with 14. Emerson rounded out the field of teams with a dozen points.

Tracy Ankeny copped top honors in the 1500 meter run in 5:36 while the 800 relay foursome of Ankeny, Gina Monson, Katie Monson and Dena Stapelman placed first in 1:59.

Kristy McCoy placed runner-up in the discus after a 91-10 toss and the sprint relay team placed second in 56.1 with June Dickey, Dena Stapelman, Katie Monson and Gina Monson.

The 1600 relay team came across the finish line third in 4:54.7 with Tracy Ankeny, Dena Stapelman, Gina Monson and Katie Monson and Gina Monson added a third in the long jump with a leap of 14-10. McCoy closed out the scoring with a sixth place effort in the shot put of 28-1. The Bears will travel to Homer on Friday to compete in the annual Ivan Krumwiede Invitational.

Wildcat softball team loses twice

Joan Scherbring's Wayne State women's softball team continued to struggle, Wednesday afternoon as they dropped a double-header with NCAA-II, top 10 ranked Kearney in the Wildcats first home games of the season and the first games ever played at the new college field on the campus of Wayne State.

The shut out losses the visiting Lopers handed the 'Cats left WSC with an 11-game losing streak and an overall mark of 5-17 heading into weekend competition at the UNO Tournament.

The first game with UNK ended in a 7-0 setback with Maryellen Livingston taking the loss from the mound. The winners pounded out 10 hits and committed just two errors while WSC had four hits and suffered seven errors.

"We had the bases loaded twice and didn't score," Scherbring said. "We just can't get the hits when we need them and right now our whole offense is out of sync."

The Lopers scored two in the top of the second inning and added four in the fourth and one in the sixth. Three of UNK's 10 hits went for doubles while all four of WSC's were singles. Betsy Wegner, Tina Lehman, Maryellen Livingston and Angie Louck were recipients of base hits.

UNK notched a 5-0 shutout of the 'Cats in the second game as Livingston was tagged with the pitching loss. The Lopers finished with eight hits and one error while WSC had seven hits and four errors.

Livingston and Kris Krigbaum each had two singles to lead WSC while Kim Stigge, Tina Lehman and Meg Neuberger each had one base hit to account for the 'Cats offense.

"I thought we played better in the second game," Scherbring said. "Kearney out-hit us by just one but they put their hits together and we strung ours out."

This weekend's tournament in Omaha will be split into three pools with 14 teams. WSC will be with Augustana, New Mexico Highlands and North Dakota.

Another pool will have South Dakota State, Central Oklahoma, Kearney, Mankato State and Colorado Springs with the final pool consisting of Adams State, Minnesota-Duluth, UNO, Mesa State and Morningside.

Pool winners will advance to a tournament format on Sunday.

The 'Cats will be at home again on Monday when they host one of the premiere NCAA-III teams in Buena Vista.

Young author award winners selected to attend Festival

Lesa Lutt, second grade daughter of Dee and Kathy Lutt, and John Jensen, fourth grade son of Dennis and Monica Jensen will represent the Wayne-Carroll Elementary Schools this Saturday at the Aspiring Young Author's Festival in Crofton.

They will join approximately 70 other students in grades K-6 for the festival and have the honor of working with Nancy L. Sharp, an author from Fremont who wrote the book "Today I'm Going Fishing With My Dad."

This is the fourth year Wayne-Carroll has participated in the Aspiring Young Author's writing activity. It began as an effort to recognize the talent of students who have an outstanding ability in writing.

Each homeroom teacher in the West Elementary and Carroll Elementary School selected two stories from a writing project to be submitted for possible selection. Out of all these two finalists were selected.

The honorable mentions went to the following students: Ransen Broders, Taylor Nelson, Brian Robinson, Jacob Nissen, Jon Pieper, Matt Sharer, Pariss Bethune, David Loberg, Shaylyn Robinson, Amanda Reeg, Amanda Grone, Kyle Straight, John Brady, Andrew Peterson, Summer Bethune, Josh Rasmussen, Micaela Weber, Jenny Brummond, Elizabeth Baier, Megan Ketelson, Beth Wurdeman, Josh Ruwe, Leah Pickinpaugh, Carrie Walton, Charity Kroecker, Kari Hochstein, Joshua Ford, Brad Frevert, Kari Hochstein (Carroll), Kyle Schmale, Emily Brady, Jacey Klaver, Melissa Nissen, Tamara Schardt, Alissa Dunklau, Britni Bethune and Laura Jones.

SECOND GRADER Lesa Lutt and fourth grader John Jensen will represent Wayne-Carroll Elementary Schools this Saturday at the Aspiring Young Authors Festival in Crofton.

RC&D council holds meeting

The Northeast Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) council held its regular monthly meeting March 27. Jim Neneman, manager of the Lower Niobrara Natural Resource District at Butte, presented information on their groundwater management plan. Kathy Klein reviewed the council's responsibilities to diversity and program delivery.

The economic development committee presented several projects to the council for their approval. The council agreed to help sponsor a youth leadership conference, "Tomorrow's Leaders Today." It will be held Oct. 24 at Northeast Community College for ninth and 10th graders.

Junior and senior students will conduct the workshop. RC&D will also support a community builders program if there is enough interest. This program brings eight to 10 communities together for a six month period. They talk about their strengths, weaknesses and common concerns while providing support for rural community leaders. In the near future the council will begin working with Gerald Biby, UNL industrial ag center, on a biomass-to-energy project.

Linda Kastning reported on the area recycling meeting held Monday. Thirty-four people from the six county area attended: Two speakers provided information on different recycling programs. Kay Stevens, Nebraska State Recycling Association, talked about working together in cooperatives to achieve better prices for recyclables. Good discussion resulted between several communities.

Other items that were covered were: 1995 budget approved, information/education letters will be sent to individuals with known infestations of knapweeds and prescribed burn school will be held April 7 and 8 at Dixon.

The next meeting will be Monday, April 24 at 8 p.m. at the RC&D office, Warren Hill, National Parks Service, will be the speaker. The public is invited.

Purchase made for Wellness Center

Quality Food Center manager Randy Brenner matched funds raised by the Providence Wellness Center to purchase a new NordicTrack for the facility located in the basement of Providence Medical Center. The decision to buy a NordicTrack was based on survey returns by members as to what they would like to see added to the facility. Also pictured is Wellness director Linda Carr and assistant director Robin Gamble.

Laurel golf team wins

The Laurel Bears boys golf team officially began their quest to repeat as the Class C-2 State Champions with a dual on Tuesday against Crofton at Cedarview Country Club in Laurel.

The Bears won the season-opener by 30 strokes, 168-198. Shane Schuster topped the field with a two-over-par 38 while Nic Dahl carded a 41 and Mark Johnson, 43. Spencer Bose neited a 46 and Jeff Erwin carded a 48.

The Bears reserve team also won their opener, 181-240 with Chad Jorgensen notching the best score with a 43. Dustin Thompson carded a 45 and Jared Anderson, 46 while Josh Johnson finished with a 47 and Jason Penlerick, 48.

Laurel will compete at the Beemer Invitational on Thursday before playing in the Plainview Invitational on Saturday. The Bears will host their own invitational, Tuesday at Cedarview Country Club.

Tough to imagine

Try to imagine that you work for a company that pays top wages. Imagine having great benefits, paid vacations and sick days. Imagine yourself working for a company that allows vestiture from your first day of employment, a company that will pay up to an additional six percent of your annual income into a retirement plan for you, to help you in your golden years.

Now imagine going to the owner of that company to complain about your new retirement plan, a plan that the owner is kicking several thousand dollars into for you every year. Imagine telling the boss that you don't feel your new retirement plan is fair because every year, the company that manages the plan will deduct from the plan, not from your wages, $18 for their services.

Now imagine that you are the owner of that company. Put yourself in the owner's shoes. Do those shoes feel familiar? They should. They are your shoes.

Would you believe that just last week, your Wayne City Employees came to your City Council and asked them to have the taxpayers pay all of that $18 fee? Hard to believe, but they did just that.

We don't imagine that you sympathize any more than the Council did when, in their wisdom, they rejected the petty plea. Imagine that.

Illogical idea

The latest lunacy to come out of Lincoln is an attempt to prohibit insurance companies from charging different insurance rates for one area of the state than are charged in other areas.

This is a bad legislative idea that would ultimately cost rural residents more and bring down the insurance costs for urban dwellers.

Insurance companies know that residents of high population areas tend to use insurance services more frequently. They have greater chances for theft, vandalism, and accidents. Consequently, their premiums are higher.

Los Angeles residents logically pay much more for insurance than Nebraska residents because it costs more for the insurance companies to provide services to residents there than it costs for the same services provided to the average Nebraskan.

The philosophy espoused in Omaha Sen. Don Preister's proposal to require insurance companies to charge all residents of the state equally would suggest that Nebraskan also should be charged the same as Californians.

Are you ready $3,000 a year car insurance bills? Rural residents, who often pay more in per capita taxes to support better roads, more police protection and other safety services, should expect a benefit for those expenditures by enjoying lower insurance rates.

We encourage area residents to contact their state senator and urge defeat of this illogical idea.

Major disruption caused by paper

Changing schedules disrupt lives. It has been an interesting week with the schedule change for the Wayne Herald from twice a week to once a week.

We are finding out how many lives are affected by the schedule of the newspaper. The county commissioners plan many procedures around the publication schedule of legals. Families whose young people deliver the newspaper often adapt their activities around their deliver time obligations. Faithful readers who got into the habit of looking for their local paper on Tuesday and Friday evenings are having to change their routines. Church secretaries and others who submit information for publication are changing their schedules to meet new deadlines.

I have to apologize again for disrupting so many others lives with our change but I am confident we will all find advantages to the new schedule as well. One I hope readers will appreciate is evidenced this week with the inclusion of a front page picture in color. Our previous press schedule did not allow time for doing the extra work involved in publishing color photos. The new schedule is less stringent and we are planning to make your paper much more colorful.

As Earth Day '95 approaches, we think it is important to remember that the newspaper schedule change was a resource conservation move. Recently Wayne second graders toured the Wayne Herald plant and were shocked to learn that on average six small trees go into the manufacture of every roll of newsprint used at the newspaper. While recycling is important, conservation of the world's tree resources by reducing consumption whenever possible is also a crucial environmental necessity.

Those who compare today's paper with last week's two publications will

Legislature hits its busy stride

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — One of my favorite country songs is a Jerry Jeff Walker tune with the chorus: "Like to sleep late in the morning, don't like to wear no shoes..."

Yes, your capitol servant/columnist is a night person. The fingers — and the brain — just engage a lot better after a few hours of warming up.

Rolling out of a bed is a major chore. How do those peppy people on the "Today" show do it anyway?

The Nebraska Legislature traditionally goes through a similar warm-up period.

The first half of the session is traditionally taken up with long, sometimes tedious committee hearings. Senators hear the proposals and decide which ones should advance to debate by the full Legislature and which ones should die a silent death in committee.

Lawmakers also pick their priority bills, designating which proposals must be debated this year.

Those preliminaries are now out of the way and the Legislature has emerged from their morning stretching exercises into the early afternoon of legislative work.

This week, senators will begin debating Gov. Nelson's welfare-reform bill, a major rewriting of benefit programs for poor Nebraskans that aims to hustle them off government aid and into jobs.

Other major bills are not far behind, including the governor's much trumpeted bill to combat violent and repeat crimes.

We'll see some particularly long and nasty debate on both of those controversial bills.

State senators got a taste recently of how nasty it might get when discussing a bill to prevent government regulations from damaging private property rights.

The measure, known as the "takings bill," was a top priority of the Nebraska Farm Bureau and other farm groups.

It would require the Nebraska Attorney General to review every proposed state regulation to determine if it might be a "taking" of private property rights. Basically, it was a way to help keep government off the backs of farmers and ranchers.

But the measure, LB 168, ran into trouble early and often. Many senators said the state already reviews regulations to make sure they don't take away private property rights or otherwise violate the U.S. Constitution.

They said the bill was just needless, costly regulation that wouldn't solve anything. That's sort of ironic because that is what LB 168 was designed to prevent in the first place.

Senators debated LB 168 for eight hours over five days without moving it forward an inch. State Sen. Ernie Chambers of Omaha, the master of delaying tactics, helped grind the measure to a halt.

Chambers would rather waste several days on such minor bills in order to put off — possibly until next year — debate on the measures he really hates, like the crime and welfare bills.

Senators detest it when Chambers jumps up and starts harassing their bills. The longer he talks, the less support is left for the idea.

Chambers, a physically fit man of 58, is a night person, too. But he's also no less active during the morning, noon and night. We'll see that clearly as the real work of the Legislature begins.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Please listen

Dear Editor:
I believe that parents are ultimately responsible to see that their children receive a good education. Part of that responsibility is to keep yourself informed and aware of any major curriculum, assessment, policy changes that are proposed in your child's school.

Outcome Based Education is not a new concept but it is fast becoming a reality in many school districts. Focus On The Family will be airing a broadcast entitled "Goals 2000: History Redefined" on Tuesday, April 11 and Wednesday, April 12. Focus On The Family airs on KTCH radio daily at 12:30 (PM) and 9:30 (AM & FM).

All parents owe it to their children to be aware and have up to date information on the agenda behind "politically correct" educational reform and the impact it could have on schools across America. Knowing what to look for in any major restructuring of our schools is the first step. Please listen.

Dear Editor:
RE: The UNICEF Exhibit at WSC (and WSC Faculty Art Show)

Question: What do Wayne Chautauqua '92 and the '95 UNICEF Exhibit at WSC have in common? Meena Dalal, WSC Professor of Economics. She wrote a grant which helped bring Chautauqua to Wayne, and she spent considerable time on the phone in the fall of '94 with UNICEF officials to see that the exhibit came here.

Question: By May 1, what will the World Trade Center and the WSC Hahn Administration Building have in common? Both will have housed the UNICEF exhibit, entitled "Girls and Girlhood: A Perilous Path" for six weeks.

Question: By May 1, what will Wayne, America and Minneapolis have in common? Both will have had this exhibit in their city limits for six weeks.

The only other place this particular exhibit has been up to now is in some city in Europe (Brussels, perhaps?)

The WSC Student Activities Board/Student Council appropriated the funds necessary to pay UNICEF to bring it here, install it, return and dismantle it ($1,500). The WSC Administration did what was necessary to build panels with velcro strips to hold the 360 feet worth of exhibit panels (the length of a football field). The place they found big enough, with security built in naturally (that is, no easy access by keys given out to many, as a classroom building would be) is the place fall registration normally takes place. Instead, individual faculty advisors are handling some of these registration tasks, and I understand so far this seems to be working. UNICEF requires 24-hour security for its exhibit, so the WSC Student Education Association is providing one student on site per hour of the four hours per day, five days per week.

Question: Do you understand now why the hours the exhibit is open are limited?

I went to see the exhibit yesterday. It is beautiful and very "thought-provoking." Younger school children will not be able to read a lot of the material, but should delight in the pictures and the children's stories printed in large print on half a dozen or more panels. Adults will have to read some of these aloud, I should think. I read nearly everything and got through it in 35 minutes.

For some mysterious reason (Meena can be persuasive) we have this exhibit. So let's all go see it! It's open 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on weekends this month of April, and by appointment (call 375-7533).

P.S. While you are there, if during the day, wing by the gallery in Fine Arts Building. The current WSC Faculty Art Show is a stunner, too! In between these two places is where the sculptor is working (we saw all three in an hour). However, be sure and take all the time you want to soak it all in.

A taxing frustration

If you are frustrated after gathering your tax records, reviewing 1994 checks, verifying contributions, and angered that you have to "donate" countless hours of valuable time filling out IRS forms, then you may not care to continue reading, because this week we're talking fidgets and digits!

Digits are, of course, any one of the ten numeral symbols, 0 through 9. Digits feed information through computers. They also identify us with Social Security and the telephone company. Street addresses, height and weight measurements, and a hodgepodge of other things use digits. Clocks need digits for displaying time, and measuring tape digits gauge our waist bulges.

Digits ring our cellular and home phones, jangling our nerves. They set off bedside alarm clocks. By satellite they can now unlock doors and start car engines.

Grocery shoppers are using digits more than ever, paying closer attention to expiration dates stamped on products. Folk stocking the grocery shelves have been known to put the freshest milk, for instance, behind the older dated cartons which they want to sell first.

Products nearing their digital expiration dates are sometimes put on "sale." The item is still good, and the buyer saves money.

A gasoline station's digits are usually displayed on lofty signs. Gas is never $1.15 in Nebraska, but $1.15 and 9/10ths. Oil people surely have the most fun making

First Fridays features sculptor

Artist and sculptor Herb Mignery will be the guest speaker during the First Fridays program series for area senior citizens on April 7 at Wayne State College.

The program, sponsored by Wayne State's Center for Cultural Outreach, will begin at 9 a.m. in the North Dining Room of Wayne State's Student Center. A complimentary continental breakfast will also be served, according to Dr. Beverly Solt, director of the Center.

Mignery is currently at work on a larger-than-life clay sculpture for Wayne State's Lyle Seymour Heritage Plaza. The sculpture will later be cast in bronze and erected in the Plaza during a dedication ceremony this fall. During the program, Mignery will demonstrate the various techniques he's using in creating the sculpture. Persons will also have the opportunity to tour the former power plant building and view Mignery's progress.

Tours of campus galleries and museums may also be offered after the program.

First Fridays will be co-hosted by DeVon Coble, director of alumni relations at Wayne State.

During each program, a special senior citizen guest of honor will be recognized.

BOYS STATE

Ryan Hoffman was selected to represent American Legion Post 81 at Boys State this summer. Ryan is a junior at Wakefield High School and is the son of Terry and Bonnie Hoffman.

Cornhusker Boys State is a week long session held during June in Lincoln to teach youth about state government. Candidates selected must be in the upper one-half of their class and show qualities of leadership and good citizenship. Ryan will join other students from across the state to hear and also actively participate in workshops and mock governmental processes.

At Wakefield High School, Ryan's activities include football, basketball and track. He, along with another student, recently built chair racks in shop class for the Legion Post as a community service project. Ryan and his family are also active members of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne.

He also participated in the Close Up Tour to Washington, D.C.

RECYCLING

Approximately 40 tons of recyclables were collected at the Wakefield trailer during 1994. The figures translate into four semitrailer loads of materials. The City of Wakefield has a contract with Antelope County Recyclers to provide a trailer and take the recyclables.

A summary from the company breaks down the inventory with 13,164 pounds of glass, 2,579 pounds of number one and two plastics, 5,067 pounds of steel cans, 2,403 pounds of office paper, 11,067 pounds of corrugated cardboard, 47,217 pounds of newspaper, 4,570 pounds of magazines, 937 pounds of clothing, for a total of 87,044 pounds.

The Wakefield trailer is mainly operated by volunteers and is open on Saturday mornings from 9 a.m. to noon.

Volunteers are needed to work. If interested, contact the City Clerk's office or stop at the trailer on Saturday mornings.

YOUNG AUTHORS

Four young authors were selected at the Wakefield Elementary School to participate in a festival in Crofton on April 8. Winners were Jessica Schroeder for the fourth through sixth grade level and Bonnie Kluthe for the second and third grade division. Alternates were Amy Leonard and Ashley Anderson.

Other class winners were Derrick Nettleton, Samantha Peterson, Alyssa Bressler and Garrick Bebee, who read the kindergarten class stories. Tanner Soderberg and Andy O'Neill were winners from the first grade.

Bonnie Kluthe and Ashley Anderson were from the second grade and Charlie Kucera and Ashley Schultz were third grade winners. Brindi Utemark and Jessica Schroeder were from the fourth grade. Fifth grade winners were Megan Brown and Frank Holm. Heather Kramer and Amy Leonard were the sixth grade class top story writers.

Guest author and facilitator at the workshop will be Nancy Sharp Wagner, who wrote the children's story "Today I'm Going Fishing With My Dad." She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sharp of Wakefield and her book has been available at the Wakefield Drug Store.

RECEIVES DEGREE

Keith Wenstrand of Wakefield was one of 86 students to graduate from Southeast Community College, Milford Campus, on March 22. He received an associate of applied science degree in John Deere Ag Tech. He is a 1991 graduate of Wakefield High School and is the son of Ron and Rose Wenstrand of rural Wakefield.

4-H speakers win county honors

Todd McQuistan of Pender and Jolene Jager of Wayne received top honors at the Wayne County 4-H Public Speaking Contest held Thursday, March 20 at the Methodist Church in Wayne. Twenty-two Wayne County 4-Hers participated. Todd's speech, entitled "Gone Fishin'" earned him the trophy for top overall speech. Jolene's 4-H promotional Public Service Announcement earned her the top PSA trophy. Both trophies are sponsored by KTCH Radio of Wayne.

The Public Speaking contest is designed to provide an opportunity for 4-H youth to gain experience and confidence in speaking before an audience.

Northeast District counties are allowed to enter senior, junior and intermediate participants in the District Public Speaking Contest to be held on April 8 in Norfolk. Wayne County qualifiers in the Senior division speech category are Krista Magnuson of Carroll and Tim Heinemann of Wakefield. Nicole Hansen and Melissa Hansen of Wakefield qualified with their speeches in the intermediate division. Todd McQuistan of Pender and Beth Loberg of Carroll are eligible for further competition in the junior division speech category.

The Novice Division of the county contest allows eight and nine year olds to read a poem or story about any topic they choose.

In this year's contest, there were five entries. Placings were Purple: Amber Nelson, Lisa Miller and Ashley Loberg; Blue: Nicole Hansen and Scout Hansen.

The Junior Division is for 10 and 11 year olds who wish to deliver a speech they have written about 4-H. Placings for the seven contestants were: Purple: Todd McQuistan and Beth Loberg; Blue: Greg Schardt, Tamara Schardt and Ann Temme; Red: Ross Hansen and Joshua Austin. Placings in the Intermediate Division, consisting of members ages 12 and 13 were: Purple: Nicole Hansen; Blue: Melissa Hansen and Melissa Hoemann.

Senior division placings, for 4-Hers age 14 and older, were: Purple: Krista Magnuson and Tim Heinemann. Blue: B.J. Hansen.

4-Hers were also able to compete in a second area of public speaking in the Public Service Announcement category. Public Service Announcements were added to the contest to encourage youth to begin developing broader communication skills. The objective is to enable them to write and deliver a message which conveys a complete thought in 60 seconds or less. This is a reality in personal communications, as well as in broadcasting.

There were six participants in the Public Service Announcement category. Jolene Jager and Melissa Jager of Wayne qualified to compete at the District level in the senior division. They each earned purple ribbons. Tamara Schardt and Greg Schardt of Wayne earned top honors in the junior division. They also earned purple ribbons. Cassie Anderson was a blue ribbon winner in the Junior Division.

The Dairy Queen of Wayne provided each contestant with an ice cream coupon. Jolene Jager served as emcee for the contest, and assisted in the distribution of awards.

Judges for the event were Zoe Vander Weil of Wayne and Anita Gade of Laurel.

The Commissioners will begin their day at 8:15 a.m. with a tour of Wayne State College.

On Monday, April 10, the Commission will hold a mini-retreat to discuss planning issues. The retreat will be held at Wayne State College, beginning at 5 p.m. and continuing through dinner.

Meetings of the Commission are open to the public. If notified in advance, the Commission will make arrangements for individuals needing interpreters or other special assistance.

Volunteers Kathy Skinner, Randy Lanning and A.J. Johnson work on the windows and walls of the former Wakefield High School which now houses the Humpty Dumpty Day Care and the Senior Center.

Volunteer work at Wakefield center

Over 30 volunteers attended last Saturday at the former high school building in Wakefield which now houses the Wakefield Family Resource Center to get it ready for a community open house scheduled for April 27. Several projects were started, such as trimming shrubs, painting walls, repairing the boiler room, cleaning out store rooms, shampooing carpets and more.

The help started arriving at 8:30 a.m. and didn't clear out until 5 p.m.

Acapella group performs

Music appeals to people of all ages. Soul Support is a group of five men from the Lincoln area whose acapella music style has captivated audiences all across the midwest.

Soul Support will be performing on Tuesday, April 11 at 8 p.m. at Wayne State College in the North Dining Room of the Student Center, located south of the football field.

The public is invited. The group is being sponsored by the Cooperative Campus Ministries.

Merlin

You can't, of course, buy only 9/10ths of a cent of gas and get the change. Paying even cents would evidently wreck the total pricing structure.

Then was it Sears or Wards which started the $1.99 gimmick? Why not just price the product at $2.00? Calculators would be in less demand. It would certainly simplify figuring sales tax.

Wouldn't you nearly have a heart attack if you priced a new car having an even dollar price tag? Check auto advertisements and you're more apt to see $19,995.95 rather than $20,000. If you're politically correct, it's called having a "digital deficiency."

How different it would be to see a restaurant menu with dinner prices like $8.00, $10, or $15.00 rather than $7.95, $9.95 and $14.95. Prices in disguise? I think the penny lollipop or five-cent package of gum were the last items I ever acquired having rounded off prices. That, of course, was 50 years ago.

The IRS lets us round off dollars. Suppose that convenience will ever trickle down to local levels?

It would be a different world with rounded numbers. Well, I can dream can't I?

THANK YOU

THANK YOU

A big THANK YOU to the following people who helped make the annual Wayne Music Booster's Soup Supper a success: Bonita Day, Keith Kopperud, Kaki Ley, and Brad Weber and the music students for providing the entertainment. The Black Knight for placemats; Hardee's for the orange drink; Runza Restaurant for the napkins; State Farm Insurance for the cups; the Senior Citizen's Center for the use of their trays; Johnson's Frozen Foods for the use of the aprons; to the businesses and families who let us borrow their roasters and coffee pots. To the City of Wayne and Wayne Women's Club for the use of the auditorium, club room and kitchen. To Dean Newton for helping with the electrical set-up. To the sub-committee chairmen and workers who helped in any way with set-up, food preparation, serving and clean-up. Special thanks go to the parents and community for supporting this project. Your interest in our music students is tremendous. You all made our job a lot easier!

Kelly Baack, Connie Hall, Jo Junck and Rhonda Sebade

WHICH CAME FIRST?

The chicken or the egg, well, you know the dilemma. It's a classic, heated and short debate. Argue for the chicken or the egg. Home. And what about your newspaper? Chances are your hometown paper was recording history before there were many chicken eggs around town. So what's the point of chicken eggs? There's not really a point, it's rather a full rounded end. Oh, you mean the point of this discussion?

Well, it's not really which came first, it's the fact that your paper is still here and still very much a part of your life. We believe that a community without any connection to a newspaper is doomed to become stale, if not extinct. Your newspaper helps create a sense of community, helps define goals and reach those goals. It helps give your community its identity. Without your newspaper, where would you be? Unattached and unloved. Break out of your shell... rediscover your newspaper!

Dinner to honor retiring professor

Tickets are still available for a dinner honoring Dr. Cornell Runestad who is retiring after serving 25 years as the director of Wayne State College's Concert Choir and Madrigal Singers.

Tickets, which are available to the public at a cost of $15 per person, may be purchased by calling the Wayne State Alumni Office, 402-375-7209. The dinner is Saturday, May 20 at Riley's Conference Center, and tickets must be purchased by May 1.

first performance of the annual Elizabethan Christmas Feasts. Now in their 23rd year, approximately 230 performances have been given throughout the Midwest.

In 1989, Runestad received the Rebensdorf Excellence in Teaching

Award, given annually to a faculty member in the Nebraska State College system.

A performance in New York's Carnegie Hall, May 13, will mark Runestad's last appearance as conductor of Wayne State singers.

During Runestad's tenure, the group has concertized in Canada and Mexico and since 1980, they have made seven European tours to 13 European countries.

COUNTRY CLASSICS 4-H CLUB

The meeting of the Country Classics 4-H Club met on March 12 at 2 p.m. on the Randy and Shari Dunklau farm. All members brought a Bake and Take item which were voted on being taken to the Wayne Care Centre and KTCH Radio Station.

Alexander Austin, Joshua Austin and Amber Nelson all gave speeches. The club decided to have a booth at the A to Z pancake feed.

After the meeting, Kim Dunklau presented a lesson on kitchen utensils and on judging muffins. The club also painted barrels and finished up barn signs.

A home/economics session will be held at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne on April 7.

The next meeting will be April 12. The Austin family will be hosting.
