Fire destroys Wayne 'gathering spot'

'I thought we were going to lose that whole half-block.'

By Les Mann and Tom Mullen

Firemen thought at first they would be able to contain a early morning fire to the kitchen and bar area of the Black Knight Restaurant but before daybreak the popular Wayne gathering place was a total loss.

Only the dogged efforts of the firemen and hundreds of thousands of gallons of water kept the total destruction from spreading to connecting buildings on Main Street. As it was, the Edward D. Jones offices, Doescher's Appliance, The Twin Theatre and The Wayne Chamber of Commerce, all received moderate to severe smoke and water

"When I first got there, there was some smoke but the firefighters thought they had it whipped," said Nick Sieler, co-owner of The Black Knight, "Then it was 'Oh My God, call Winside and Carroll

AS OF WEDNESDAY, the owners said they doubted the business would ever reopen. The fire chief has ordered the fire-weaken exterior wall to be demolished for fear it might fall into the street

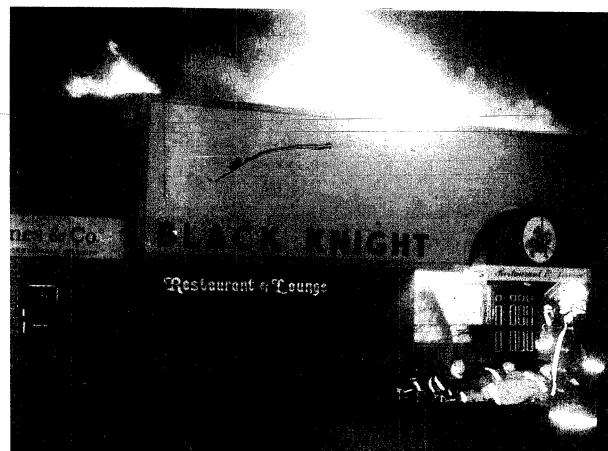

The original call came in at 12,37 a.m. and before Fire Chief Dutch Sitzman turned the block over to the insurance companies at 6 p.m. Mondepartments had battled the blaze. The fire was declared under control at 4 a.m. but crews were on the scene for mop-up all day Monday.

"I thought we were going to lose that whole half-block," explained the chief who said the fire started in one of the restaurant steam tables which had been left on since Sunday afternoon. The blaze got an eight hour head start on the firefighters said the chief.

HE SAID THE flames had moved into the area between false ceilings in the old building by the time firefighters arrived and they weren't able to get at it from above or below.

"This was one of those no-win fires," said Sitzman. He said the structure of the building with multiple ceilings and multiple roofs created so many hidden voids in which the fire could move and feed on

When firemen first arrived they attacked the fire from within the restaurant using breathing equipment. When a second wave of firemen entered the building a section of burning ceiling fell in behind them said Sitzman. That group got out but left their hose which had become tangled in debris. Another team went in with a second hose and after an hour and a half the crews thought they had the blaze under

Tom Keim, a firefighter with the Wakefield Volunteer Fire Department, directs the effort of firefighters as they attempt to bring the fire at the Black Knight under control. Flames shooting from the roof of the building were estimated to be as high as 100 feet in the air. Fire crews from six departments fought the blaze for four hours before bringing the fire under control at approximately 4 a.m. Firefighters remained on the scene for several more hours

Vandals strike while fire is hot?

Of the Herald

While firefighters were bringing the fire at the Black Knight under control, another fire occurred at the Skokan Fireworks Stand located on East Highway 35 near Diers Sup-

'At approximately 4:10 a.m. we saw smoke and I advised some of our department members to check out the situation," said Wayne Fire Chief Dutch Sitzman

A tanker and six members of the department spent approximately 45 minutes at the scene putting out the fire which destroyed the building. "There were some fireworks exploding but the fire was put out any more danger than in any other der investigation, according to Curly McDonald, State Fire Marshall. Other details can not be released until the investigation is completed. McDonald said information has been leaked out that should not have out before the investigation was completed.

"We lost everything that was in the building and the building itself, which was a converted chicken coop, can not be replaced," said

"We have had the stand in the same location for, 21 years and nothing like this has ever happened before. I just wish that if the fire was set by vandals that they would have taken what they wanted and left the building alone," Skokan

"We have gotten a new supply of fireworks and set up a tent and are back in business. Things are going as well as can be expected, said Skokan.

Special banquet planned for 'chickens'

The featured speaker for the first Chickens Indefinite" banquet Saturday night during the Wayne Chicken Show will be a former

World War II bomber pilot and museum director who is associated with reunion of the B-17 bomber crew that nicknamed their aircraft The Screaming Chicken.

DeWayne Bennett of Tucson,

390th Memorial Museum will discuss war experiences at the banquet. He will be joined by other members of the 545th World War II bomb squadron who heard about the tongue-in-cheek "Chickens Indefinite" organization and paid their $3 membership dues The event will be a fun evening with activities including an auction of chicken art and memorabilia not unlike the common Pheasants For-member and banquet chariman Nancy Schulz She said the banquet idea origi-ever and Ducks Unlimited banquets said Chicken Show Committee

nated as a parody of the popular wildlife promotion efforts and promises to be a fun wrap-up to the day of Chicken Show activities

The banquet will be held at Riley's Restaurant and the public is invited

Tickets are available for $12 from Word Works. The banquet will be from 5.30 to 8 p.m. Besides hearing the speaker, banquet attendees will have an opportunity to bid on auction items and participate in the "Chickens Indefinite Habitat Stamp art contest

The theme of this year's 16th annual Chicken Show is "Chickens on the March." The July 8 parade will feature a reunion of Wayne High School band members

Annually over 10,000 people flock to Wayne for the celebration which includes the National Cluckoff competition, a chicken calling contest, omelets and barbecued chicken, fun run, bike ride, egg drop/ catch and other fun events

Henoween activities on Friday night before the show include street dance, live music downtown and a street carnival.

Town has history of tragic blazes

By Clara Osten Of the Herald

In the past 104 years there have been 13 fires that damaged or destroved various Main Street busi-

In 1994 there were two major fires, neither involving Main Street businesses but both affecting a large number of Wayne residents.

On June 18, 1994 Redeemer Lutheran Church was struck by lightening and destroyed. Just 10 days later, on June 28, a fire at the Greater Northeast Nebraska Pig Coop southwest of Wayne resulted in the deaths of nearly 2,700 sows and pigs.

On Sept. 6, 1991 a fire on the roof Geno's Steak House started when a cigarette was dropped on to an oily rag. The fire destroyed the top floor of the building which was being renovated into apartments.

A fire on the morning of Jan. 2, 1986 destroyed the 94 year old State National Bank building on the corner of Second and Main Streets.

The building also housed five other business and several upstairs apartments.

The banking operation was moved to the former True Value Store and the other businesses, Century 21, Dr. George Goblirsch, D.D.S., Jerry Malcom, CPA, State National Insurance and Farmers Mutual of Nebraska were all relocated throughout the city.

Before the State National Bank fire, the city of Wayne had gone more than 20 years without a major fire. In April of 1965 a fire damaged the Liverhouse Trucking Service building, the city power plant and Marra Home Improvement. A total of $46,500 damage was done to the three buildings.

A Dec. 1958 fire damaged Surber's Furniture Store located on West 3rd Street.

Charles Meyer's Sale Barn suffered $10,500 in damage during a July 1954 fire.

If you responded "yes" to the above, you were correct but not completely correct. There is one thing, above all else, that makes our country a land of opportunity The Diversity in Our Unity.

In the daily news, we see how other countries suffer the ravages of racial hatred and religious intolerance. All too often, human nature leads people to fear and distrust each other on the basis of skin tone, age, sex. religion, culture, intelligence or lifestyle. Left unchecked, such intolerance can destroy a society.
Although the United States is far from perfect, we are the largest, most diverse country in the world — atestimony to the ideal that true strength results from a base of individuals whose differences compliment each

What makes America great? You. Me. Our neighbor down the street. All of us working together to make the American Dream a reality.

History

The Peterson Billiard Hall suffered $4,200 worth of damage in a 1933 fire and in March of 1931 Jeffrie's Style Shop burned, causing $8,600 in damages.

In Aug, of 1930, the Howard, Hrbak Store suffered $9,100 in damages during a fire.

A Nov. 19, 1927 fire caused $28,000 in damages to the B.W. Wright and W.C. Coryell Garage.

One of the largest fires in Wayne's history occurred on Thanksgiving Day, 1891 when six buildings on the west-side of Main Street were destroyed.

Critical time for rootworms

Entomologist Lance Mienke observed the first hatch of corn rootworm larvae at the Agricultural Research and Development Center near Mead on June 16. "For those corn producers in Northeast Nebraska, the next few weeks will be critical in managing this pest in continuous corn if a rootworm insecticide was not applied at planting time," said John Witkowski, NU Extension Entomologist.

Post emergence applications of Furadan 4F should go on soon, Witkowski advised. Cultivation applications of granular insecticides need to be applied before first dam age by the larvae, which is likely to occur in the next seven to 10 days. Applications of Lorsban 4E through the center pivot should be applied at time of second instar larvae development, in about seven to 10 days.

"Remember, corn rootworm larvae development will vary from field to field. The best way to determine development in individual fields is to examine corn roots and look for larvae or beginning signs of root damage," said Witkowski.

medicines referred to as the selective serotonin reuptake inhibitors (SSRIs) are one of the newer and most popular classes of medicines used to treat metal depression. The best known SSRI is fluvoxamine (Luvox), and sertraline (Zoloft). These medicines also sometimes are used to treat obsessive compulsive disorders and bulimia nervosa, an eating condition that primarily affects teenage females: Yet another use for the SSRIs may be for the prevention of chronic headaches. These are recurring headaches which produce band-like sensations in both temples, across the forehead. According to Dr. Glen solomon, recently quoted in Headache Quarterly, headache sufferers have symptoms of "chronic serotonin depletion. Antidepressants that prevent serotonin uptake at nerve endings may help prevent chronic and migraine headaches

But Sitzman said he kept firemen off the roof of the building even after they thought they had it under control because he feared the blaze might still be burning in the hidden

"IT WAS NOT a safe situation not knowing how long it had burned into the roof area," he explained. "I was afraid they (firemen on the roof) might hit a hot spot and we'd lose the roof of the building and the structure was rocked by at least four explosions "that were quite radical." He said the explosions could have been caused by carbon dioxide or pails of grease

Other businesses damaged

Damage to businesses surrounding the Black Knight has resulted in minor inconveniences while damage is being assessed and buildings are being restored

The Edward D. Jones office, located just south of the Black Knight suffered water and smoke damage but no records were lost. "We don't keep any of the actual physical certificates or any cash in our office. We have copies of documents here, but the actual records are kept in St. Louis," said Brad Pflueger, of Edward D. Jones.

Employees have gotten possessions out of the office and are waiting for engineers to evaluate the structure. "We have every intention of staying where we are at and hope to be back in shape as soon as possible. Until then, we are looking for a temporary location but nothing is definite yet,"said Pflueger.

Though no structural damage was done to the Twin Theaters/Hollywood Video building manager Randy Eichacker reported that the theater had to be closed for around twenty-four hours to allow the structure to be fumigated.

Eichacker said, "There was no soot damage or anything but the smell was just awful--we got headaches and things. The smell was mostly just up in the video store, the auditoriums were just Sieler said when it looked like the damage was going to be contained he decided not to interrupt Ken and Karen's outing, but when the fire erupted through the roof he put out the word for park rangers to track down his partner.

At 4 a.m. when a ranger woke Kwapnioski, he said he thought it was his partner playing one of his practical jokes. "It's no joke, sir," said the ranger. "We have it on the teletype." Kwapnioski said it took he and Karen only a few minutes to break camp and head home. They arrived in time to watch the mop-up

THE FIRE LEAVES 26 full and part time restaurant employees without jobs. Sieler and Kwapnioski were buying the business on contract from previous owners John Mohr and Marie Mohr. The Black Knight had been at the location since 1978.

John and Marie gave me my first job," said Sieler. He said he and Kwapnioski were looking forward to having the business paid for in five more years. "There are a lot of people who relied on the Black Knight for a living," he added. "We had a great team." The restaurant had bookings for special dinners and reunion functions past the year

At least four explosions shot flames high into the air over the Black Knight Restaurant in Wayne early Monday morning as firefigthers used every available piece of equipment to pump water on the blaze. Their efforts succeeded in keeping the flames from spreading to connecting buildings.

Wayne Mayor Sheryl Lindau said the loss of the Black Knight would be sorely felt by the community. She said besides the jobs lost, the restaurant was a social gathering place for the community and an anchor which attracted diners from all over the area

SIELER SAID HE thinks the steam table in which the fire started must have malfunctioned to cause it to overheat since the unit is not supposed to raise above 160 de-

"As far as we are concerned we found out where the fire started and it was not intentional, so that's where our investigation ends," said

Meanwhile many reception, reunion and dinner meeting planners are sorambling to find alternate meeting locations as the busy Chicken Show season approaches.

The Wayne Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs met weekly at the restaurant The Kiwanis Club meeting on Monday was cancelled because of the fire. Rotarians were not scheduled to meet this Wednesday morning at their regular time because they held their annual banquet Sunday night at Riley's. The Kiwanis meeting July 3 will be held in the solarium at Pizza Hut, and the other meetings in July will be beld at the Women's Club room at the Wayne City Auditorium pending decision on a new permanent meeting location. New Rotary president Ric Wilson, who was installed just hours before his club's meeting location burned, has announced that the Rotary meetings are being switched to Riley's Restaurant beginning with the July 5 meeting

Both clubs lost memorabilia and materials which were stored at the restaurant

"I always knew someday I'd not be in the restaurant business but I just didn't know it would be this soon," said Sieler

'When we're not so upset and not so tired we'll decide what we're going to do," he said of future plans There's a lot of opportunities out

O'borny said his team never really showed any enthusiasm and made too many errors. Wayne fell behind 4-0 after one inning but managed to fight back and tie the game at five after the fifth inning, only to have Beemer win the game in the sixth.

Wayne did earn its revenge against Pender, Tuesday at home with a 10-0 blanking of the visitors just five days after dropping a 14-13 decision in Pender.

Wendy Beiermann tossed a nohitter and struck out eight. It was Beiermann's fourth shutout of the season and first no-hitter. Wayne's offense mustered 15 hits led by Hills, is entering its third stage of development. Current plans call for more than 100 residences, with 15 already in various stages of construction.

Peterson sees Vintage Hills as unique

It's a different type of development for Wayne.

"THE CITY HAS been acting almost as a general contractor. They set up special districts to pay for the sewer, water the whole northeast part of Wayne."

Peterson explained that most developments of this magnitude in Wayne have been handled by a developer who would build what he termed spec (specification) houses

One building contractor would build all of the houses in a particular area, attempting to anticipate the kind of houses wanted and the demand for them.

In-Vintage Hills, lots are purchased by the prospective home owners, who then hire their own builders.

"RIGHT. NOW WE have six houses being built by five different contractors," said Peterson.

"The idea for this particular development is to provide for all different inds of construction.

"But we were not interested in being the developer, as far as building the houses goes. All we are trying to do is offer the opportunity for Wayne to grow," he

Peterson pointed out that having the city designate special utility districts, made the development a reality, but he predicts that the city will be a prime beneficiary of the

LEGION AUXILIARY

The Allen Legion Auxiliary met June 12 at the Senior Center, Sixteen members answered roll call Evelyn Trube, vice president, conducted the meeting. In old business, Allen grade school students made 45 poppy posters. The donation the unit gave to Camp Quality was seventh on the list of amounts given. This camp is for underprivileged children.

The auxiliary agreed to Deenette Von Minden's purchase of two new loose leaf notebooks for the veterans file. She will be redoing some and adding some more. These books are kept at the library.

Auxiliary and Legion color guards represented the Allen Unit and Post in Thurston's centennial parade-on May 28. A window display representing the Legion and Auxiliary will be in the Ellis Electric building for the school centenmal. Phyllis Swanson, Gail Hill and Donna Stalling will be doing this project.

Department convention was held in Kearney June 23-25 and registration was paid for Deenette to attend.

Legion and Auxiliary meetings will always be at 7:30 p.m. from now on. Twenty-five blood donors responded when the blood mobile was in Allen.

A flag burning cerémony will be held July 10 at 7:30 p.m. east of the Allen school. Everyone is welcome to attend and properly dispose of tattered and soiled flags.

Election of officers was held with all former officers being reelected. The installation ceremony was conducted by Gail Hill.

There will be no meetings in July or August. September will be the annual family picnic. Time will be 6:30 on Monday at the Senior Hostesses for June were Paulette Kumm and Delores Cook.

NEW BUILDING

Allen is offering an opportunity for families who want to build homes in the community. Dirt moving work and sewer line construction will begin soon at the Village Estates housing subdivision¹ on the east edge of Allen. During phase one, 12 lots for family homes will be developed along a new north south street. Somebody's lying

Last December only 37 percent of the voters in Wayne area school districts went to the polls to cast ballots in the school bond

This week a research firm hired to find out why the bond issuefailed released its findings.

Of the registered voters surveyed, 75 percent said they voted Only 37 percent actually voted but 75 percent claim they voted Excuse us? What doesn't seem right about these figures?

Either 38 percent of the registered voters are boldface liars or the company which did the supposedly scientific survey needs to raise its error factor a bit higher than the plus or minus five percent claimed

Whatever the reason for the discrepancy, the school board should be very careful about basing too many decisions on the results of the $6,000 survey.

. The December election was a bad civics lesson for our young people.

The abysmally low voter turnout for the crucial bond election told our young people they weren't important enough for a majority of the voters to even bother voting--yes or no

If that wasn't bad enough, now we're lying about it

Don't take notes kids:

We hope you won't be tested on this later

Make cyberporn log off

We applaud Sen. James Exon for his effort to win approval for legislation to make it illegal to transmit pornography over the information super-highway

The Exon legislation is likely to create a constitutional debate as the smut peddlers and their customers see to hide behind the first amendment in claiming their dirty little game is constitutionally protected free speech.

Sexual exploitation of women and children is not what we hope our society sees as constitutionally protected free speech

Research indicates there is a link between the pornography industry and sexual assaults on women and children

Exon's efforts should be supported:

The information network was established to enhance the exchange of educational information, especially improving the flow of information into our schools.

The idea of pornography flowing into our schools worries us Some of the most vile stuff imaginable is on the network and accessible to students reessible to students.

The Exon legislation is needed to get the experient to log off.

'Nebraska' means long ways across

Statchouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN - Having driven back and forth across Nebraska this past week, I can report two significant findings:

1. Farm fields and the Sandhills really are about as wet as they've ever been.

"Nebraska" really is an Indian word meaning "a long ways

Thanks to that silly U.S. Congress, however, No. 2 may soon chang The U.S. Senate last week voted to rescind a federal mandate that speed limits should not exceed 65 mph on interstate highways and 55 mph on other roads.

(Voting "no," interestingly, were Nebraska's two senators, Jim Exon and Bob Kerrey. What's that say about Gov. Nelson's call for more states' rights? The speed limit, plus the state's seat belt and motorcycle helmet laws, were some of those nasty federal mandates that the governor complains about so

The House of Representatives still has to approve doing away with the federal speed limit, but already state officials are reacting

Myself? I'm overjoyed. I usually feather that old cruise control (by the way, what did my parents do without those handy buttons that do away with the need to use the gas pedal? Broomsticks?) up to about 60 or 62 on highways and about 70 mph on the interstate but it's within what we'll call the "ticket limit," the speed at which a state-trooper is going to wheel when traveling those clogged thoroughfares like Highway 2 west of Thedford, where you encounter more box turtles trying to cross the road than fellow motorists, and Highway 91 west of Brewster, which has been repaved to tempt guys like me to violate the "ticket limit." Luckily, you don't meet any cars on Highway 91 cither. The point is, on those descried byways, we should be able to push the pedal to the metal.

But I digress, this column is about what state officials think. State Sen. Ernie Chambers of chomping at the bit to repeal Neeraska's current limits: around and give you a court date.

That "ticket limit" is important

The interstate, and most state highways, were engineered for much higher speeds, Chambers said, so why do we wear out our brakes?

Omaha, who has done much research into speed limits, says he's

But this is a major safety issue, said other senators, including Doug Kristensen of Minden, who is the Legislature's guru on highway safety laws.

Traffic fatalities in Nebraska dropped dramatically in 1974, when the feds ordered speed limits to drop to 55 mph to conserve gasoline during the Arab oil embargo.

You remember those days, don't you? Plodding along, watching the scenery slowly pass by, wondering why we needed to drive a car built to travel at 80 mph or so at such a slow speed...

But we eventually got used to that slower speed, and the feds eventually got used to fewer fatalities. So Congress kept the 55 limit for two-lane highways when it allowed interstate traffic to bump up to 65 beginning in 1989.

Kristensen said that he's not too excited about rescinding the 55 mph speed limit on two-lane roads. They're more dangerous, he said, and keeping the limit down will save lives.

But I've got ffty chain saw ready to buzz down those 65 mph signs. on the interstate

We should be able to zip down the super slab at 70 or 75 without worrying about whether a trooper's "ticket limit" is 5 mph over the legal_limit or not.

Plus, if the speed limit was higher on 1-80, maybe we wouldn't be known as the state that's "a long ways across"

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

We're lucky

Wayne has been very "lucky" in that one of our own has achieved the rank of General (4 star) in the United States Air Force!

While now retired-General Jim had given the Wayne Vet's many expensive and different gifts for whatever purpose. This has sparked many great ideas but nothing has been done about it!

We would appreciate your presence at the Wayne City Council Room at 8:30 a.m., June 30th for a short graphic start toward "one" more reason why Wayne is such a great community

Quality erosion

Dear Editor:

We attended the City Council meeting this week concerning the proposed widening of Logan Street. Even though we do not own a home on the street, we are afraid that such a project will further crode the quality of life in Wayne. It's bad enough that 7th Street has already lost so many trees and that the residents along it must put up with the steady rumble of trucks, a situation that will only be worsened with its further widening.

To destroy the peace and beauty of another street, in part to accommodate more trucks, seems shortsighted at best. The city planners should have considered routing truck traffic around Wayne from the beginning, but need not compound the problem by the proposed Logan Street project. We hope that the Council will reconsider whether to go forward with it

Dear Editor:

This letter was written and signed prior to the appearance of your editorial of June 22 - which we strongly applaud!

We were appalled to learn of the plans of Senators Stan Schellpeper (from Stanton) and Jerry Schmitt (from Ord) to introduce legislation in next year's Unicameral legalizing the carrying of concealed weapons in Nebraska. Such a proposal makes no sense at all to us, considering the epidemic of vio-

Lyle moved to the eelectic Fremont neighborhood of Seattle two years ago. His new neighborhood was also in the news last week when the AP wire carried an account of the controversial 18-foot statue of Lenin which is being considered for erection in the community

Salvaged from a junkyard in Slovakia, the statue would join other introversial sculptures in the community including the huge hunkered under a bridge holding a Volkswagen beetle.

But the opponents of the Lenin statue have complained about the message it represents. I can somehow image Lyle in the middle of this debate. Recalling that he established the tongue in cheek Elvis shrine in Wayne and got the city council to paint Wayne America on the water tower, I can just see him out there trying to convince the city fathers to skewer Lenin with the Seattle Space Needle.

Jargon is often hard for the uninitiated to understand. For instance what "eclectic" mean. The term was used to describe Lyle George's neighborhood in the wire service story about the Lenin statue this week I looked it up. It means really weird, unusual or diverse. Isn't that a fit

You've heard the feds are returning the setting of speed limits back to the states? This will, of course, lead to an ensuing debate over de-termining a "safe" speed.

Drivers today are setting their own speed limits. Drive 55 mph and you figure you must be parked because everyone is going around!

Safety technicians say anything over 55 mph is decreasing safety. They overlook the fact we slaughter over 100 humans daily in U.S. auto Negligent drivers make the roads unsafe at any speed! They zip through red lights and stop signs, or wait until an oncoming car is near them, then proceed to pull out in front! Not all lunatics are kept behind locked doors.

Chattering drivers and gawkers remain a hazard at any speed. Arguing with a family member is a major distraction. Using one hand to

A sleepy driver is an accident going somewhere to happen, ready to kill defenseless victims. Though nodding, they just have to reach their destination, and often do in an ambulance or mortuary vehicle.

Then there is the bozo who knows he can drive in spite of all the alcohol in his system. He feels good and no cause to worry for after all, he's driven home many times after drinking even more. He may drive 30 or 70 mph. What difference does it make because he's not going to feel the difference when he creams some family and kills them

The argument that 55 mph is "more safe" than a speed-limit of 65 mph doesn't hold water because few people pay any attention to the 55 mph limit. Legal or not, 65 mph is likely already average.

Driving is a privilege, not a right. Morons figure traffic regulations are for others and can't be bothered.

Good drivers can theoretically drive at 65 mph and be as safe as at 55 mph. But the aforementioned creeps who selfishly drive with escalating negligence make all driving hazardous, regardless of speed

Traffic "accidents" will kill over 400 Americans this holiday weekend. Killed by driving fools.

And no time to say goodbye.

LEGION AUXILIARY

Roy Reed Unit No. 252, American Legion Auxiliary, Winside, met on the evening of June 12, with Beverly Neel, president, and 13 members answering roll call and one guest. The members recited the "Pledge of Allegiance," sang the first verse of the "Star Spangled Banner" and recited the Preamble to the Auxiliary Constitution. Esther Carlson, unit chaplain, provided prayers. Hostesses for the evening were Vera Mann, Doris Marotz, Lafcanc Maretz, Marla and Pat

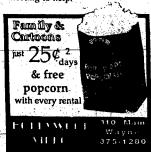

The Unit received a letter of appreciation from the Rainbow Rider group in Wayne for a financial donation made to help defray expenses of the program. Additionally, the Norfolk Veterans Home acknowledged a financial donation to its program as well.

Correspondence from District III also provided information on the Department Convention held June 23-25 in Kearney, as well as the membership ranking of each unit within the district with the Winside unit being over 100 percent in its membership.

Annual membership dues are now being collected from all current members. Our dues remain at $8 for senior members and $2.50 for junior members under the age of 18. A reminder was made to all members to have dues sent to Gertrude Vahlkamp, unit treasurer, as soon as possible. New members are always welcome and any member of the unit may be contacted to explain the programs and purpose. Meetings are held monthly on the second Monday and are held at 8 p.m. through August, with a 7:30 p.m. meeting time beginning in September through March.

Rose Janke, nominations committee chairman, presented a slate of nominations for the position of Unit President and Unit Treasurer, whose terms expire July 1. Nominations were also taken from the floor with elections following. Reelected to these positions were Gertrude Vahlkamp as unit treasurer and Beverly Neel as unit president. Installation of all officers will be held at the July 10 meeting.

The unit will have a float entry at Old Settlers on July 16. Members are asked to attend the July 10 meeting to help.

The annual Memorial Day dinner was well received and the group was pleased with the public response to this annual fundraiser.

The next meeting will be Monday, July 10, beginning at 8 p.m. Hostesses will be, Marilyn and Wendy Morse, Janice Mundil, Bevcrly and Laura Neel.

Petition fails in effort to halt Logan project

By Claire Rasmussen Of the Herald

The City Council chambers were almost full Tuesday night for the sufficiency hearing regarding a petition filed by Logan Street property owners which could have stopped a proposed city street project The project was designed to replace Logan's water and storm sewage mains and widen the street.

City Administrator Joe Salitros reported to the Council that after last week's informational meeting with Logan Street residents, several individuals removed their names voluntarily from the petition. After the removals, 41% of the frontage property was represented on the petition. Lawyer Mike Pieper reported that 50% of the property needed to be represented in order for the petition to be a legal barrier to the project.

DEBATE ENSUED among residents of Logan Street about what the purpose of the petition had been. Resident Keith Jeeh stated that several individuals had removed their names from the petition after he spoke to them because they were unaware of the ramifications and meaning of the petition.

Said Jech, "We have got a bad situation-its us against them and thank goodness its only on our block. We've got our college faculty treating us kind of like dum-

"These people did not know what they were signing. It was put to them as though they were going to have an educational meeting to discuss the project." It was not put to the public with the idea that this would kill the project."

ANDRE SEDRICKS, another property owner, stated a contrary opinion, "The reason for the petition was very simple. We wanted to get the facts. Why is this street being widened? What will happen when it is widened? We had concerns and one of the paramount concerns was what are the facts?

and this is my concern, I think there's been a lot of disinformation. After the meeting, I think a lot of people who didn't go were called and I don't know what they said, but I don't think they took their name off voluntarily.

"We are not here to kill the project, we are here to stop it. We want to talk about the project and we want to negotiate."

COUNCILPERSON O'Leary responded by saying, "In case something like this should arise again, I think these people should realize that nothing like this happens without a public hearing and with or without a petition you would have had a public hearing."

Salitros announced that the issue of the Logan Street project will be pursued at another informational meeting Thursday, June 29 at the council chambers at 7 p.m.

In other business, the council voted to raise rates for use of the city transfer station for garbage due to increased landfill costs resulting from new government regulations. The council also approved Salitros's request to obtain plan estimates regarding the building of an improved transfer station of the accommodate the commodate and recycling requirements.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, the health insurance benefits of city employees was discussed. Under the current plan, employees have a choice between a $100 single/$200 family deductible or a $250 single/$500 family deductible with dental insurance. Salitros stated that as a result of rising health care costs, the city has been paying for individual's dental insurance. He suggested that the council vote to change the plan to a flat $250 deductible with no option or dental

The issue was tabled after both Councilpersons Doug Sturm and Jane O'Leary raised questions about the plan. The issue will be discussed again at the next Council meetier.

THE COUNCIL also discussed the purchasing of the Elfers lot, south of the current Libeary/Senior Center project, as a part of the Library project. The land, which will cost $65,000, could be used for parking by the Library/Senior Center and St. Paul's Lutheran church as a part of a joint agreement. Or, Salitros added, the location of the Library could be moved southward and the northern part of the lot could be either converted to parking or sold to the church for parking.

Councilperson Verdell Lutt raised questions about both the cost of the lot and the necessity of the project. The acquisition, however, was approved by the council 6-1 with Lutt dissenting. Lois Shelton was not present at the meeting.

AT THE CLOSE of the meeting, Mert Marshall, Water and Wastewater Foreman, reported that July 20th and 21st, he will be smoke testing the storm sewer system to check for sewer main leaks.

Marshall reported that during the last rain, several problems arose in water run-off downtown.

Marshall explained the process to the council, "For a smoke test we put a smoke bomb in a manhole and use a fan to blow it in there and check to see where it comes out."

check to see where it comes out."

Marshall said the smoke is harmless but the city will advertise the testing to avoid panic and to answer questions about the test.

QUIT SMOKING AND GAIN WEIGHT?

According to a report from the New England Journal o Medicine, smokers who claim they can't quit smoking because they will subsequently gain excess weight will now have to find another excuse. Studies show that a majority of persons who quit smoking don't gain a lot of weight. In fact, if any amount of weight is gained, they still won't likely weigh any more than someone who has never smoked. A proper diet should always coincide with smoking cessation and it is important to consult with your physician or pharmacist about various programs which help people to quit smoking as well as appropriate diet to accompany smoking cessation.

Camp Read-A-Lot is in session here at the Winside Public Library! We have 52 children on the camp roster so far. If you have not signed up yet, you may still do so.

Mrs. Alyce Dietz, storyteller, from Norfolk was the first guest at Camp Read-A-Lot on June 12. She shared several stories and songs with the group. There were 55 children and adults in attendance.

The reading record folders, guessing games and game sheets are still available at the library for all who wish to participate. The camp mascot is here each day, so you may bring your camera and have a souvenir picture of your Camp Read-A-Lot adventures this summer.

was a Teddy Bear parade and June 26 is a Crafts-R-Us night. All programs begin at 7 p.m. at the American Legion Hall and are open to pre-school through sixth grade children. Pre-schoolers are asked to be accompanied by an adult. There will be no program on Monday evening, July 3, but the library will be open its regular hours.

A survey sheet has been distributed in Winside to determine your support for a building program for the library and the fire department. If you have not returned your survey sheet, please do so now. Collection boxes have been placed at Oberle's Market and the Post Office for your convenience. Speak up now if you have an opinion!

The library will be sponsoring a booth at the Old Settlers Celebra-tion on July 15 and 16. The public is invited to stop by and show your support. The library has applied for a book grant, and if it is approved, funds raised at the booth will be matched on a 2-1 basis for children's books for the library.

The following adult books have been added to the collection during the last month: The Cat Who Blew the Whistle, Lilian Jackson Braun; Op Center, Tom Clancy; Acceptable Risk, Robin Cook; Year of the Virgins, Catherine Cookson; The Bluebird and The Sparrow, Janette Oke; Eyes of A Child, Richard North Patterson; White Pine Chronicles, Hilda Stahl; Winds of Catawba, Laurie Stahl; The Glory, Herman Wouk: Border Music, Robert James Waller; The Viking Trilogy, Catherine Coulter; Stitches in Time, Barbara Michaels; Beauty from Ashes, Eugenia Price; McNally's Trial, Lawrence Sanders; Home Song, LaVryle Spencer: The Rainmaker, John Grisham.

Many of these books have been or are on the Best Seller List. Come and check out a good book to curl up with on these hot summer days! See you at the library!

Board discusses bond survey results

By Eric McCarty Of the Herald

Results from the Wayne Public Schools Board survey conducted ear-lier this month showed that 75 percent of those polled said they did vote on the bond issue last fall. The actual vote totalled only 37 percent of eligible voters.

In a board meeting yesterday.

Doug Evans of Research Associates, the company which conducted the survey, said some interviewees answered this question incorrectly in order to complete the Evans told the board that most pollsters will discontinue a survey if one answers "no" to a "Did you vote" question. Thus, many respondents said they did vote in order to continue the survey when they actually had not voted.

The poll was conducted over a six day period from May 30 through June 5 and included a sample of 300 randomly selected regis tered voters from the Wayne Public School District and affiliated dis-sults Monday and it was suggested that they take more time to analyze the results before further discussion. Board President Phyllis Spethman also suggested that the board not continue on its schedule for a September bond issue vote. She did not feel the board would be prepared for this action at that time. The suggestion was met with no

Board members received the re-objection. Evans recommended that the solution given by the board on the bond issue should be clearer regarding the specifics of its objectives, to which board members agreed.

Board member Sid Hillier pro-

UNL loses hold on college-bound students

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) - The University of Nebraska system has slipped in its grasp on incoming freshman numbers of college-bound students in the state, according to the Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education.

In fall of 1984, NU had 50 percent of the college enrollments in the state. By fall of 1993, the latest year reported by the commission, NU's market share was 44 percent. Nebraska's private colleges have held a steady 17.5 percent share of the freshmen enrollment for 10 years

Peru State College enrollment is up 28 percent from 1984, Wayne State's by 35 percent and Chadron State's by 44 percent. Peru has about 1,600 students, Wayne more than 3,700 and Chadron about 3,000 according to the figures released by the commission

NU's total enrollment grew 5 percent during those 10 years, while the state colleges rose by 36 percent, community colleges by 46 percent and private colleges by 13 percent.

The NU system still has the lion's share of college-bound students in the state, however, said the commission. University of Nebraska-Lincoln enrollment has been close to 24,000 each year for a decade.

Within the NU system for the public and private, in fall of 1993 A Lincoln Journal survey showed that the fall 1994 total was slightly above 108,000 for each of the past two academic years. Of that amount, the NU system had about 50,000 students, the three state colleges more than 8,500, private colleges more than 18,500 and the six com munity college areas nearly 32,000. decade, enrollment has remained virtually unchanged at UNL and the Kearney campus, NU Medical Center enrollment has risen 8 percent and Nebraska at Omaha enrollment gained 13 percent since 1984. About

16,000 students are expected at UNO

Among the private colleges, Nebraska Wesleyan University in Lincoln grew 29 percent to about 1,700 students. Union College in Lincoln, which had 1 000 students in 1982 dropped by 36 percent over the de-Doane College in Crete was up 132 percent from 1984 to 1993, although the new numbers include a newer part-time adult Lincoln campus. Doane enrollment at both sites has been about 1,700 annually in the past three years.

The Coordinating Commission says there were 116,767-students in four-year and community colleges.

College lists corrected spring honor roll

The Wayne State College listing of spring semester honor roll students released by the college and printed in the Wayne Herald two weeks ago was incorrect. The listing released in error was actually a listing of honor students from the fall of 1994.

Following is the corrected listing of students who earned honor roll status during the spring semester.

To be named to the honor's list at Wayne State, a student must have attained a 3.5 or better grade point average and have been enrolled for at least 12 credit hours during the se-

Students are listed alphabetically by hometowns. Names listed in bold face type have achieve perfect 4.0 grade point averages.

Ethanol fuel is pushed

U.S. Senator Jim Exon (D-NE) said the Environmental Protection Agency will work to boost the market for ethanol in the wake of the recent court ruling that the EPA could not require the use of ethanol in reformulated gasoline. Exon said the EPA plans to take the following three steps to promote wider use of renewable fuels:

·Ask the U.S. Department of Justice to seek a rehearing on the court case that resulted in the unfavorable ethanol ruling.

·Propose that existing summertime · limits on ethanol use be modified to allow Governors to request lifting the oxygen cap. ·Work with states to develop a model gas pump labeling system to educate consumers about the content of gasoline they are purchase

After the recent court ruling, Exon, Democratic leader Tom Daschle (D-SD) and other farm-state Senators met with EPA Administrator Carol Browner and other high-level Clinton administration officials to work on ways of boosting ethanol use.

Northeast Nebraskans raise funds for relief

The Northeast Nebraska Benefit for the Oklahoma City Disaster Victims completed their official ac tivities on June 23 with a dedication and celebration service at the Willow Bowl on the Wayne State College Campus.

At the time, $7,539.41 had been raised. Since that time, $225 more has been received.

Galen Wiser, who served on the security and disbursement committee, reported that a decision was made to divide the proceeds between three funds.

The first fund, The Governor's nd Mayor's Fund, will be used for scholarships for the orphans of one or more parent lost in the bombing.

The second fund, The Lumberman's Fund is also a scholarship fund for children orphaned by the blast.

The final fund, The Children's Hospital fund will be used for counselling, children's emergency services and other health services at the Children's Hospital of Okla

All three funds have promised that the administrative cost of the fund would be bourn by outside sources and that all monies received will be used to aid the victims o the bombing.

The funds will be transferred to Oklahoma City July 1 but the ac count used to store the funds will remain open at the First National back of Wayne until at least August I to allow individuals to make fur morrow (Friday) at Bressler Park. The activities, which are held Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m to 10:30 a.m. have been held for a number of years during the month of June.

Peg Lutt has been director of the program for eight years and according to one of the children who at tend, "is boss of the whole park"

The program is open to all stu-dents who will be entering kindergarten through those entering eighth grade. This year a total of 142 children registered for the program, with an average of 126 students attending each day, due to other commitments.

"The children participate in a variety of activities including crafts, music, listening skills, friendship skills and fun activities," said Lutt.

In addition to Lutt, there are eight teachers and three aides involved with the program.

Money for the supplies and salaries for the teachers comes from the Recreation and Leisure budget.

Guest has less work than host

Every other year, on the odd years, the women's missionary organization I belong to holds an international convention. I try to attend when they are held in the Midwest

There was Omaha in '79, when I worked in the first-aid booth. That was quite an experience. When 7.000 women descend on a city, there are all kinds of problems: housing, transportation, food and myriads of little details you don't even think about. Especially if they are there for four glays.

In the mid-80s, I drove my Mom and some of her friends to Ames. There we were on the campus at Iowa State. I found out being a guest was a lot less work than being a host; and there were some fantastic spíritual highs. Bey Hansen, Reba Mann and I traveled to Rapid City in '89. Here, we stayed in a Bed and Breakfast, and had our own beds and bathrooms, and did not have to wait in line for breakfast. You should just see what 7,000 women are like at 7:00 A.M. without coffee! Needless to say, a lot of bonding goes on. This year, the convention was in Kansas City. At first I decided I didn't have the time. Then, I debated going just for the last two days. After all, I reasoned, it's the Sunday

most inspirational

Eventually, Gloria Lessman called to say she had rooms at Crown Center, and would be taking a van. So, last Thursday morning, she and Reba Mann and Connie

Businesses give

Due to the generosity of some Wayne area businesses, Haven House, a domestic abuse and sexual assault crisis intervention agency, has established a new project to assist the agency with its volunteer program. The Volunteer Incentive Project will enable the agency to recognize a special volunteer each month who has donated many hours of their own time to help and empower victims of domestic abuse and sexual assault.

There are many opportunities for Haven House volunteers to help the agency work towards a non-violent future. Volunteers can provide crisis line coverage, office work, fundraising assistance and brochure and poster distribution. Volunteers can also assist with protection or ders, and provide medical and legal advocacy to a victim during a crisis situation, or they can provide companionship to victims and children residing in the shelter facility. Last year, volunteers donated 10,699 hours to Haven House. Anyone wanting more information about the Haven House Volunteer Program can call 375-4633 during

Haven House is tremendously grateful for all the support received from area businesses in combating violence in our community. The following businesses donated prizes or gift certificates for the Volunteer Incentive Project: Quality Food Center, Subway, Hollywood Video, Riley's, Nebraska Floral, Legend's, Udder Delights, Presto, Sav-Mor Pharmacy, Magie Wok, Mines lewelers, Garden Perennials, Four In Hand, Godfather's, Radio Shack. Hosts students

The Wayne State College Math-Science division will host 20 Native American students and four chaperones on July-6 and 7, as part of the All Nations Alliance for Minority Participation's Pre-College Bridge Program.

The program, which is designed to help improve the math and science education of Native American secondary school students, is sponsored by the Nebraska Indian Community College. "There are very limited (if any) science and math opportunities available for Indian young people on the Nebraska reservations," said, NICC President, Thelma Thomas. The AMP summer program is designed to address this issue, and create more interest by the students in the math and science fields

The 20 students will concentrate on mathematics, ecology, botany and horticulture during their two day stay at Wayne State College. They will participate in activities such as arboretum tours, planetarium observations and activities with video microscopy equipment The students will also be allotted free time-in which to explore the campus and interact.

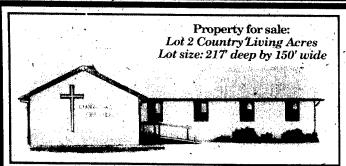

Dr. J.S. Johar, head of the Math Science Division, is campus direc tor for Wayne State College's part of the program. Wayne State Math-Science faculty members Marian Borgmann-Ingwersen, Dr. Glenn Kietzmann, Mr.: Carl Rump, Dr Charles Majer Dr. Paul Karr and Mr. Jewell Schock will instruct the students in a variety of areas, and lead them in hands-on activities Instruction will include a demonstration of computer simulation structures of simple molecules microscopic examination of plants and animals, planetarium observation of stars and planets, and botanical studies. The objective of the summer program as a whole is to involve Native American students in scientific, educational program that will enhance their interest in the math and science fields.

The "Word" for the Week -

Worry warts are near sighted

Most of us are only concerned with the present. None of this pie in the sky by-and-by stuff. The pressures of making a living and caring for a family sap all our energy, physical and emotional. We hustle to make a buck. Then it's home and hopefully a little rest. The cycle repeats endlessly. Our concerns devolve into worry. Our hearts are Jesus warns us, "Be on guard, that your hearts may not be weighted down with the worries of life, and that day come on you suddenly-like a trap" (Luke 21:34). It's amazing how the Bible rings true. The worries of life do weigh us down. They also distract us from eternal things. We become shortsighted. We cannot see the forest for the trees. We will sell all we have to retain our health. Open heart surgery, for example, is common and expensive. We will hardly walk across the street to find a cure for our souls. Although eternity hangs in the balance, we are blind to its significance.

You must be 50 or older and talented, too, to join the cast — like a 58-year-old veteran of the Folies Bergere, a former Radio City Music Hall Rockette, now 66, and a great-grandmother, 78, who swam and danced in shows at the 1933 Chicago World's Fair. More than 300,000 people have paid stiff prices to see the revue since it opened in 1933. They marvel at the cast's good for child abuse and neglect? By Karen Wermers Dixon County Extension Educator Cooperative

Karen

Dixon

Wermers

Who is 'at-risk'

People generally feel disgust when they hear of child abuse. Media programs frequently portray abusive parents as scriously disturbed individuals, yet researchers believe about 5 percent of abusers fit into this classification. There is no clear cut description of the child abuser or abused child, but there are risk factors among abusers and abused children. Child abuse is considered an interactive process involving situational demands and parental competence.

Abusers have been described as having inadequate and poor impulse control. immaturity psychological symptoms such as anger, unhappiness, rigidity, depression and frustration. Abusers are more likely to reveal physical health problems. They expressed more problems related to child rearing when revealing their feelings of competence and frustration in parenting. One study found abusers to be more annoyed and lack sympathy for a crying infant. In addition, abusers were more likely to have aversive interactions with their partner. Fewer communicative and facilitating behaviors were used.

Contrary to popular belief, abusing parents did not have unrealistic higher expectations for their children among children of the same chronological age. Abused children actually tended to be delayed in development. One study found 21 percent of abused children were premature (almost three times the average rate), 10 percent had congenital defects (three times the average rate). There were 23 percent who were illegitimate (three times the average rate) and 20 percent of mothers had originally requested the pregnancy be terminated or be ster ilized, but were refused. Low birth weight reflecting slow growth babies were also associated with a higher rate of child abuse. One The 1996 reunion will be held study found high rates of delay. Over 50 percent of abused children had IQ (mental age) scores below average. Behavior disorders were also more prevalent in the abused

The following reasons were cited by abusers as precipitating factors:

Child-related behaviors: refusals - child refused to talk, eat, listen or talked back; fighting/arguing children were fighting, exhibiting jealously or sibling rivalry; misbe-havior - child broke, destroyed, ripped something or was overactive; immoral behavior - child was smoking, drinking, lying, stealing, had inappropriate companions or was taking pills; dangerous behavior - child was setting fires, playing in dangerous areas or with danger ous objects; inconvenience - child was sick, crying, whining, soiling pants, dirtied clothing or presented difficulty being put to sleep; sexual behavior - child engaged in sex-related behavior, child was pregnant; spoiled - child was seen as spoiled or trying to get attention; aggression - child was acting aggressively; or child lost something.

Individual adult behaviors: drugs and alcohol - adult was drinking, using drugs or smoking pot; stress - adult was experiencing too much stress, for example, had very little money; anger - adult was angry or impatient: or sick - adult was mentally or physically ill. Adult expectations - child was not meeting parent's expectations; parent's lack of knowledge - adult did not have adequate information or skill related to child-rearing; inappropriate use of medical facilities; supervision - adult failed to provide su-pervision of child; unsafe home environment - home had hazards that created serious risks for children; assertion of authority - adult was seeking to demonstrate to child who is boss dislike of child - adult disliked child, child resembled natural parent who was disliked by adult; or refusal to meet family needs - adult refused to perform role of leader and provider. Adult conflict involves the following: disagreement - adults disagreed often about child-rearing; fighting - con-flict-occurred between the adults; and head leaving - a family head left or abandoned family.

Child abusers are different from arents who, neglett their children. Parents associated with neglect are characterized by adult inadequacy and the failure to assume basic responsibilities.

Physical abusers were associated. with conflict in child behaviors. In contrast, neglecting parents tended to ignore child behavior and did not show psychological reactions in a stressful situation presented by their hildren. Child abuse has been significantly linked to child behavior whereas, neglect is generally not ound to be related to child behavjor. Families with incomes below 200 percent of the poverty line, single family dwellings, vacancy houses and families who recently moved into the neighborhood were associated with higher rates of child

Dixon couple celebrates

How 'love must be tough' works

Q. I understand how the "love must be tough" philosophy can reconstruct a bad marriage. How would it func-tion in a good relationship?

A. The best way of keeping a marriage healthy is to maintain a system of mutual accountability, within the context of love. Speaking personally, the secret of my beautiful relationship with my wife, Shirley, for the past 32 years has involved a careful protection of the "line of respect" between us.

Suppose I work in my office two hours longer than usual on a particular night, knowing Shirley is preparing a special candlelight dinner. The phone sits on my desk, but I lack the concern to make a brief call to explain. As the evening wears on, Shirley wraps the cold food in foil and puts it in the refrigerator.

Then suppose when I finally get home, I do not apologize, Instead, I sit down with a newspaper and abruptly tell Shirley to get my dinner ready. You can bet there'll be a few minutes of fireworks in the Dobson house hold. Shirley will rightfully interpret my behavior as insulting and will move to defend the "line of respect" between us.

Let's put the shoe on the other foot. Suppose Shirley knows I need the car at 2 p.m. for some important purpose, but she deliberately keeps me waiting. Perhaps she sits in a restaurant with a lady friend, drinking coffee and talking. Meanwhile, I'm pacing the floor at home wondering where she is. It is very likely that my lovely wife will hear about my dissatisfaction when she gets home. The "line of respect" has been violated, even though the offense was minor.

This is what I mean by mutual accountability. Such minor conflict in a marriage plays a positive role in establishing what is and is not acceptable behavior. Some instances of disrespect are petty, but when they are permitted to pass unnoticed, two things happen. First, the offender is unaware that he has stepped over the line and is likely to repeat the indiscretion later. Second, the person who felt insulted then internalizes the small irritation rather than spilling it out. As the disrespect grows, the

A workable system of checks and balances of this nature helps a couple keep their marriage on course for a marathon rather than a sprint. And I can assure you, Shirley and I are going the distance!

Q. Do you often deal with the "line of respect" principle in your marriage counseling?

A. In virtually every troubled family I see, the "line of region" has crumbled. Sometimes the wife is trampling on the husbands territory; sometimes he is all over hers. Either way, within five minutes it is apparent that there is an absence of fair play by one of two partners. Here's an extreme example as described in a letter from a woman whose "line" is

"My husband and I have three children, and I am with them day and night because I can't drive. My husband doesn't want me to go anywhere, anyway. He is very domineering. He dishes out the money and decides how every dollar will be spent.

This past week was terrible. Mike wouldn't let the kids sing or talk in the car. He orders all of us to bed at a certain time and controls all TV and radio stations. I feel like I have no freedom at all, and my nerves are beginning to act up. The kids are afraid of Mike, too. Anything you can do to help me would be greatly appreciated."

Fortunately, most cases are not as devoid of respect as this one, but it illustrates the problem. If I were working with this woman, my objective would be to teach her how to hold her own with her husband without blowing her marriage off the face of the earth. It would be a delicate task.

The Library Card

This column is written occasionally to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library

Several years ago the library was given a grant by the Literary Classics of America for a series of reprints of American literature prose, poetry, essays and letters - of American authors. The series has included authors from Colonial times to modern writers. Two volumes, Vol. 66 and 67, contain American poetry, American Indian poetry, folk songs and spirituals. Vol. 68, "Autobiographies" by poetry, folic soings and sprittudis. Vol. 66, Autobiographies by Frederick Douglass, has at least two versions of his life. Vol. 1 contains three novels by Herman Mellville — "Typee," "Omoo" and 'Mardi." The series is representative of the best of American literature. Look for them in the shiny black covers in both fiction and non-fiction. Worth looking into.

Our thanks to the "Piecemakers," a group of enthusiastic quitters, for their gift of two books on quilting, "Striplate piecing: piecing circle designs with speed and accuracy" by Judy Florence should help quilters with difficult patterns: "A collection of favorite quilts: narratives, directions and patterns for 15 quitts" by Judy Florence has beautiful illustrations and clear directions. Both books are a welcome addition to our collection.

New to the library:

1. Five-videos on parenting which offer help to families with children from birth through adolescent years.

2. A new book on tape "Once upon a more enlightened time" by James Finn Garner. This is from the author of the book "Politically correct bedtime stories" which has been a favorite of our patrons.

3. A new book of poetry by Maya Angelou - "phenomenal women: four poems celebrating women.

4. "Mystique" by Amanda Quick.

"Rose Madder" by Stephen King.
"Strange Highways" by Dean Koontz.

7. "Practical Magic" by Alice Hoffman. 8. "Rainbow's End" by Martha Grimes.

New children's books include: "This Quiet Lady" by Charlotte Zolotow

2, "The Painter Who Loves Chickens" by Olivier Dunrea. (Just in time for Chicken Days!)

"The Librarian Who Measured the Earth" by Kathryn Lusky. 'Seashore" by Steven Parker.

"The Very Lonely Firefly" by Eric Carle. (There's a special sur-

Summer Reading Program swings into the third week of activities and reading. A quick count of books reported on by children in first through sixth grades totals 546 books. "Read To Me" children (those youngsters from age 4 through kindergarten) have had 576 books read to them by their parents (or grandparents or sitters!) A truly remarkable record. Way to go, parents!

The Northeast Research and Extension Center near Concord hosted a tour for approximately 70 people concerned about returning Conservation Reserve Program acres back to cropland. The NEREC is conducting research on currently enrolled CRP acres to develop cropping system guidelines for returning CRP acres to crop produc-

Melinda McVey McCluskey, CRP Project Coordinator, said that crop selection, rotation, residue and pest management and soil fertility and moisture are some of the concerns producers when they begin to return their CRP acres back to crop

Early estimates of how much Nebraska land will come out of CRP are approximately 50 percent or about 650,000 acres. If just half of those acres, about 325,000 acres, go to corn, the most common crop of choice in transferred acreages, Nebraska farmers may be looking at as much as $4.4 million in fertilizer costs due to concerns about soil fertility.

The CRP project is a three-year

During that time, "Research findings will be released occasionally to keep area producers informed on current situations that may arise," said McCluskey

Tarbox Hollow Living Prairie tour is planned

What were the prairies in Nebraska like before the state was settled? The grasslands adapted to the climate here and survived the weather changes, including drought. They provided wildlife habitat and their aesthetic qualities were phenomenal, Despite their qualities, these same plants have since been taken for granted and sometimes ignored alfogether - their benefits overlooked.

The Masons, a farming family located 10 miles north of Concord, are traveling back in time and are converting their Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) acres backinto native grasslands. They are grazing bison on land similar to that which the animals' ancestors graved upon.

A tour of the Mason's project, Tarbox Hollow Living Prairie, will begin at 1:30 p.m. on July 10. Tour guide Terry Gompert, UNI Extension Educator for Boyd-Holt-Knox counties, and other extensionspecialists will be on hand to discuss various issues concerning the transformation of CRP to grassland. Other topics of discussion include: switch grass as a forage, intensive grazing management, wildlife, year round grazing and evaluations of grass sites. Tour participants will see intensive grazing management, buffalo operation, stewardship directed management, cool and warm season pastures, 50 plant species identified and soil protected from erosion.

The guest focus will be on agency personnel this July 10, but all are welcome to attend. No prior registration is required. For more information call Rose Mason at

Stalk borers on the move

Keith Jarvi, NU Extension IPM Assistant, said that common stalk borers are "on the move" into corn from their previous homes in grassy and weedy areas.

Movement usually begins at about 1100 to 1300 heat units (base 41F), Jarvi said. On June 18, he noted, heat units at the Northeast Center reached 1100:

Jarvi recommends that producers planning treatment for stalk borers begin now to infercept migrating

This insect generally affects only the first three to five rows near field borders or grassy areas in conventionally tilled fields, so a border treatment should be sufficient to limit infestation," said Jarvi.

Fifty percent migration occurs at about 1650 heat units. Because of recent high temperatures, northeast Nebraska generally receives 30 to 35 heat units each day and this migration period may not last long.

Fritschen said. He added that Norfolk has become a major population center in the NEREC's 16-county district and is a prime location for centers of education.

"It's nice to meet those who were instrumental in moving the extension process along," said John Witkowski, Assistant District Director. He continued the tour by discussing the "diversified array of scientists," working at the Center today. The Center employs around fifty people, including twelve spe-

The Soybean Promotion and Research Order was implemented July 9, 1991, as authorized by the Soybean Promotion, Research and Consumer Information Act to outline the provisions of the Act.

The Act required the Secretary to conduct a referendum to ascertain whether the Order should be continued. In the referendum held February 1994, 53.8 percent of producers voting favored continuing the Order. The Secretary announced the results of the referendum on April 1; 1994.

The Act also requires that the Secretary conduct a producer poll, within 18 months of the Secretary's announcement of the results of the initial referendum to determine whether eligible producers favor conducting a referendum on the continuance of payments of refunds under the Order.

If the poll shows that at least 20 percent of all eligible producers favor a refund referendum, the referendum will be held within 1

Refunds will continue until a referendum is conducted.

If results of the producer poll indicate that a referendum is not supported, refunds will be discontinued and a refund referendum will not be conducted.

The producer poll will be held July 26, 1995 during regular business hours, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The poll will be held in the County CFSA Office. Registration and polling will take place on the same day, except for absentee registration and polling.

If you wish to absentee register and poll it will be available by mail upon written request, received either by mail or in person June 19 through July 14, 1995. If absence registrations are not returned to the County Office timely, producers may participate, in person at the County Office, on July 26, 1995.

Any person, who during the period Sept. 1, 1991 through June 1, 1995, has been engaged in the growing of soybeans in the United States and who owns or shares the ownership and risk of loss of such soybeans, is entitled to request a refund referendum.
