Emergency tracking is considered

By Eric McCarty
Of the Herald

The information superhighway may not bring you better weather but it might bring you quicker information when emergencies arise.

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has been asked to add more detailed weather reports via satellite to the Police Department's report from the National Weather Service (NWS).

The new system can be installed for $295 with a monthly subscription fee of $65.

The recent move of the NWS center from Norfolk to Valley has prompted a complaint that the service has not been as good as it was before the change, said Civil Defense Director, Wayne Denklauf.

"It was a concern of a weather spotter at Winside," Denklauf said.

During some severe storms several weeks ago, Mike Miller, a Winside resident, complained that service was slower than it had been in the past.

A REPRESENTATIVE OF THE NWS says a complaint was

Juvenile center drops rates

By Claire Rasmussen
Of the Herald

In order to encourage new membership, the Board of Directors of Northeast Nebraska Juvenile Services, Inc., approved a substantial reduction in the annual assessment charged to each member county each year.

For the last two years, each member county has been charged 45 cents per capita as its annual assessment to provide funding for the juvenile detention center located in Wayne. In addition to the assessment, member and non member counties are required to pay daily room charges. Members are guaranteed bed space at the facility and are given a lower daily room space.

The approved measure will reduce the annual assessment to 25 cents per capita, resulting in a 44 percent reduction in assessment

For example, in 1994, Washington County, a member in the organization, paid an assessment of $7,473.15. For the fiscal year of 1995-96, Washington County will be required to pay $4,151.75.

In order to help make up for revenues lost, the Board approved a 13 percent increase in daily room rates for contract counties and a 25 percent increase in daily room rates for

Second restaurant fire in a week

By Eric McCarty
Of the Herald

In one short week, the list of Wayne restaurants has dwindled by two.

Eight days and one hour after the Black Night Restaurant and Lounge was destroyed by flames, the El Toro Restaurant and Lounge met the same fate.

At approximately 1:30 a.m., Tuesday morning the El Toro caught fire, according to restaurant owner Gary Costello. The cause of the fire is currently under investigation.

Five arrested following fire

Officials have arrested five people in connection with the June 26 fire at Skokan's Fireworks stand.

Wayne County attorney Mike Pieper said Daniel Janke, 19, Johnnie Smutzler, 19, Jill O'Leary, 19 and two 17 year old juveniles have been taken into custody.

Formal charges are pending until the investigators' review of the report is complete said Pieper.

The incident has been investigated by the Wayne Police Department, the State Fire Marshall's Office and the Wayne County Sheriff's Office.

According to Vicky Skokan, owner of the stand, a large quantity of fireworks were stolen from her stand before the stand was set on fire in the early morning hours of June 26.

"The only thing I know right now is that it may be suspicious," Costello said. Costello did not learn of the fire until 6 p.m. Tuesday after returning from a trip.

Wayne County Attorney Mike Pieper says continued that authorities are investigating the possible suspicious nature of the El Toro fire and they are being very careful about the information being released.

"We're not ruling out any possibilities," said Pieper indicating the possibility of accidental causes is also being considered.

Wayne Fire Departments were on the scene for several hours early Tuesday. Flames were quickly brought under control, but the mop-up work and initial investigation took several hours.

Smoke and water damage to the restaurant interior was reported to be extensive.

Assistant State Fire Marshall Curly McDonald and Wayne police officers investigate the result of the early morning fire on July 4 at the El Toro. The fire resulted in fire damage in the kitchen area and extensive smoke and water damage.

Catch a vision

Dear Editor,

When I headed toward the Saturday morning recycling center, I saw this as the perfect opportunity to understand a little better the controversy between the city fathers and the city residents about Logan Street. After this spring's downpours, I can understand the interest in updating the storm sewer system, but I am not sure this necessitates also widening the street.

As I looked at this beautiful lined street so close to the downtown business district, I knew that I also would be upset if I had to expect additional commercial traffic in front of my home.

Wayne may have missed the boat several years ago when Highway 15 was redone both north and south of town. Instead of completely replacing a highway that was in adequate condition to serve local traffic as a hard surfaced road, it would surely have been far more cost effective to have simply built a new highway 15 one mile east of the existing highway. Instead of building a treacherous curve in NE 116 to Concord, that road could simply have become a straight road all the way past the east side of Wayne. It would be closer to Great Dane as well as the farm implement dealers. It would also provide easier access to Providence Medical

Inspiring visit

Dear Editor:

I recently returned from a very inspiring visit to Nebraska. Over the past 50 years I have traveled on many occasions to your Cornhusker State. Despite the fact that you beat up on our West Virginia football team, I never cease to be impressed with your people, your public officials and the patriotism which seems to motivate so many of your communities.

As West Virginia's Secretary of State and author of the World War II book entitled "The Bridge at Remagen," I was asked to deliver the keynote address at a ceremony arranged by Robert Wostoupal, Veterans Service Office in West Point. Sharing the podium was me was your remarkable Governor, Ben Nelson. He gave up his Sunday afternoon to deliver a superb address to the overflow crowd. Unlike many executives who make brief, token appearances and then dash off, Governor Nelson remained for the lengthy ceremony, and then shook

No attempt to deceive

Dear Editor:

Following the Wayne Herald article on June 29 concerning the City Council meeting and the Logan Street project, there may be some false impressions created by that report. As the circulators of the short text of the petition, we assure you that no attempt was made to deceive or falsely obtain signatures. The Logan street residents had serious and legitimate concerns that needed to be heard, and according to the published ordinance of May 25, in which no mention was made of the proposed widening of the street, it stated that "If written objections are received within the time and manner provided, a hearing shall be held on June 27, 1995, at 8 p.m. to determine the sufficiency of said objections." If it is true as the councilperson stated at that meeting and was quoted in the paper that with or without the objections the hearing would have been held anyway, then we were the ones that were misled by a legal notice. The purpose of the petition was to organize the Logan Street residents' concerns and to have a dialogue with the city before the ordinance was put into effect. We think this was accomplished, and as a result of the petition two informational meetings were subsequently called attended by about 21 residents at each meeting.

The widening of the street is the most serious concern, especially for those living on the Fifth to Seventh Street blocks of Logan, the Center.

A beltline road around Wayne, either going south approximately at Centennial Road, across the Logan Creek, and then west about a mile south of Wayne, or going west, possibly on the road just north of where the drive-in used to be, and south past the Fairgrounds, and then east to NE 15 would be far preferable to the current necessity of funneling commercial traffic down main street.

My late husband and I developed a new-found respect for President Harry Truman when we visited Independence, MO, and learned that Truman had been instrumental in developing hard surfaced roads around the perimeter of Independence, in order to increase business district traffic into the area. Much of the latter day growth of Independence is attributed to Truman's vision and persistence in making these roads a reality. It is not too late for Wayne to catch a vision of possibilities.

As we look forward to bridge across the Missouri River at Vermillion, Wayne needs to be prepared to offer an attractive route for truckers headed south. This will not be accomplished by funneling them down Main Street or on 7th Street as we do now.

hands with the townspeople and visitors and paused and posed for many photographs for an extended period. He is truly a man of the people.

The hero of my book is a Nebraskan named Karl Timmermann, whom we honored that afternoon. In his inspiring address, Governor Nelson defined courage and "the times that courage can take every one beyond the ordinary to the extraordinary." It was wonderful to have Karl's widow, LaVera Hansen and her husband Jack, Karl's sister Mary, his daughter Gaye, his sister-in-law Mary, Col. Charles J. Barr of the 5049th U.S. Army Reserve, Karl's classmates and war buddies, as well as my fellow Secretary of State Scott Moore and the local officials. My hat is off to all of them for honoring one of the greatest heroes in military history.

most heavily residential and the site of most of the trees along the street. Most of the residents signed the petition knowing that others had the same concerns. The claim that there was a "fight" on one block of Logan Street or that it was a matter of college versus town is nonsense. If anything, neighbors got to know each other better and were generally united in their common concerns, that is, to be heard before the project proceeded, not to stop it altogether. We do hope that the Mayor, the City Council and City Administrator will consider the concerns that are most crucial by passing a width of 36 feet rather than the proposed engineering company suggestion of 41 feet, a compromise that would be agreeable to all and would give the trees a better chance of long-term survival. Since the street will be torn up for the massive sewer and water work, we cannot salvage our beautiful brick street because of the prohibitive cost of replacement, which is regretted by many.

One of the suggestions that came out of our information meetings held as a result of the petition was that Wayne might consider setting aside a designated area of brick street preservation in areas of lower traffic. This is a wonderful idea and would be a positive sign of Wayne's desire to preserve its unique qualities and heritage.

The Nelson run question remains

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — Will Ben run? That is the political question of the summer now that state legislators have gone home.

With the Gang of 49 out of Lincoln, Gov. Nelson can now concentrate on whether he wants to run for the U.S. Senate in 1996 or not.

By now the story is well known: Veteran U.S. Sen. J.J. Exon stuns the Nebraska Democratic Party this spring with a surprise announcement that he will not run for re-election in 1996. The party looks to Nelson, the obvious heir apparent.

Exon's decision was not that surprising, really. J.J. would be 75 years old when the campaign cranked up, and 81 when the six-year term ended. Add that he is now a member of a minority party and would probably face a stiff challenge from a Republican candidate and it's not so hard to imagine why Exon opted out.

Nelson has one problem. During a 1994 gubernatorial debate, he signed a pledge that he would serve out the entire, four-year term if re-elected, a pledge that the Republicans wave in his face almost daily.

Normally, politicians are fairly easy to figure out, but even those closest to Nelson can't figure out what the governor is going to do.

There's no doubt that Nelson is popular and ambitious. But those who know the governor say his ambition was always to be governor of his home state, not U.S. senator.

Recently, Nelson said he would seek the office that would best serve the state of Nebraska.

The pledge, he said, was a campaign stunt. He signed it because to refuse would have given his long-shot GOP opponent, Gene Spence, an issue.

(Heaven knows that Spence needed an issue, any issue, to provide CPR for a doomed candidacy.)

Anyway, Nelson said the pledge, like any contract, could be changed or broken. So much for the pledge.

But whether or not Nelson wants to become a Democratic senator in a (likely) Republican controlled U.S. Senate is another matter.

Insiders say that Nelson wouldn't feel comfortable playing second fiddle to Nebraska's other U.S. senator, Bob Kerrey. Ben and Bob just never seem to hit it off. Of course, others feel that Nelson will run just to prevent his buddy in the attorney general's office, Don Stenberg, from winning a Senate seat.

In the Senate, Nelson may be able to better push his agenda of transferring more power to the states and reducing the number of nasty federal mandates.

That was going to happen at this year's Conference of the States, but that effort fell short. So maybe Mr. Nelson needs to go to Washington to accomplish that goal.

But maybe he'd be better off staying as Nebraska's governor, building a stronger record nationally, and organizing governor's to press harder for reforms.

His selection recently to head the Western Governor's Association, the nation's largest group of governors, seems to play into that strategy.

The wild card in this whole guessing game — and it is a wild card — is that some folks think Nelson wants to run for president in the year 2000.

Nelson was genuinely flattered when some governors suggested that he might think about running for president someday. Sure, it's a long shot, but I'm sure the same was said about three former governors who have recently served in the White House: Jimmy Carter, Ronald Reagan and Bill Clinton.

Most observers say it's a toss up on whether Nelson will run or not. But the speculation is feeding the rumor mill while he decides.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Judge keeps UFO information secret

Are THEY here? Are extraterrestrial life forms monitoring humans? Are UFOs real? Earthlings are growing increasingly suspicious!

In November 1981 the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington upheld a trial judge's ruling that classified files from the National Security Agency, requested by Citizens Against UFO Secrecy through the Freedom of Information Act, "must remain secret."

Before denying the group's request, U.S. District Judge Gerhard Giesel examined the data behind closed doors. He concluded that the UFO-related data he read "clearly relates to the most sensitive activities of the NSA". He said releasing the material could harm the agency's work and "national security". In March 1982, following an appeal, the U.S. Supreme Court refused to order the NSA to disclose its top secret UFO data.

Dr. Richard Blade, a noted physicist, in an interview with the Wayne Herald on October 28, 1968 said he believed UFO's were some form of intelligent operation. He was at that time chairman of the physics department in the Colorado Springs Center of the University of Colorado, and author of 12 college physics textbooks. Speaking of UFO's, Dr. Blade said "What they are remains unknown, but they do exist."

Most NASA astronauts hold doctorate degrees. We assume they have analytical minds sharpened by insight and perception. Astronauts orbiting Earth on Gemini missions reported three sightings: Gemini 4, astronaut McDivitt observed a cylindrical object with a protuberance. He also reported seeing a moving bright light at a higher level than his spacecraft, Gemini 7 astronaut Borman saw what he referred to as a "bogey" flying in formation with his spacecraft. Mc-

Divitt's cylindrical object was not only sighted, but photographed with both still and movie cameras. The bizarre object remains without explanation.

UNO physics professor, Jack Kasher, in a Robert Morris interview carried by the Omaha World-Herald in October 1993, said he believed that some unidentified flying objects are visitors from other worlds. He is quoted as saying "...it's very difficult for me not to believe that some UFOs are extraterrestrial craft." Kasher has solid credentials, holding a doctorate from Boston College.

More recently Dr. John E. Mack, Harvard psychiatrist, wrote a book "Abduction", which reviews claims of UFO abductees. He is convinced his subjects believe their own stories.

The USAF has claimed another 4,000 acres for their top secret air base in Nevada, continuing their effort to keep base activities concealed, they say....."until 2001".

Will we then get a mind blowing answer?

Midgets and Juniors lose to Wakefield after beating West Point Wayne beaten in Fourth clash

The Wayne Junior Legion baseball team split a pair of games played during the last week, defeating West Point at home on June 28 by a 7-3 margin but dropping an 8-4 decision to Wakefield on the Fourth of July.

The record moved to 12-5 on the season with three of the five losses coming against Wakefield which improved to 22-1 with its win over Wayne, Tuesday.

In the West Point contest Cody Stracke struck out 13 and pitched a complete game to earn the victory, allowing just three hits. Wayne hammered out seven hits led by B.J. Wochler and Ryan Junck with two singles each while Jason Starzl tripled in the sixth inning to put Wayne ahead for good with two runs batted in. Joe Lutt and Jaimey Holdorf each singled for the winners.

In Wakefield, Wayne fell behind quickly and never threatened as the host team built an 8-0 lead before settling for the 8-4 decision. Jeremy Sturm got the loss while Shane Schuster was the winning pitcher, striking out 10 Wayne batters in the process.

Wakefield out-hit Wayne by an 8-6 margin with Adam Bebee leading Wayne with a double and single while Jaimey Holdorf, Joe Lutt, Dusty Jensen and Jason Starzl each singled once.

Shane Schuster and Justin Dutcher each doubled and singled for Wakefield while Travis Birkley had two base hits. Michael Blohm also had a base hit.

Wayne will host South Sioux on Friday before hosting a Wayne State/Wayne Baseball Association Tournament on Saturday and Sunday. The Juniors will play at noon on Saturday against Pleasant Dale and 5 p.m. against Lincoln Christian. The lone game on Sunday will be against Tilden at 1 p.m.

The final home game of the season will come Monday in fan appreciation night at Hank Overin Field when the locals host Wisner.

THE WAYNE Midgets dropped three of four contests in the past week, leaving them with a 14-7 record. On June 28, the locals defeated West Point in Wayne, 9-4 with Ryan Sturm earning the pitching victory with five strikeouts to his credit while scattering eight hits.

Wayne notched seven hits, all singles from the bats of Paul Zulkosky and Justin Thede with two each, and Brian Fernau, Jeremy Lutt, and Kurtis Keller.

GACH founded by columnist; Troopers gain new respect McDermott aims for Guinness

Wayne State men's basketball coach Greg McDermott may have etched his name into the Guinness Book of World Records. Monday with the longest hand tossed hole-in-one golf shot.

McDermott, playing in couples league with his wife Teresa on Fun Night, tossed the golf ball approximately 40 yards on the number eight hole right into the cup.

Fun Night was designed to break up the usual golfing mode and on number eight the tee boxes were moved way up. Teresa went first on the hole and despite trying a different form of tossing the ball, things didn't fare so well.

Teresa granny-tossed the ball and things may have been fine if she hadn't hung onto the ball a little too long, causing the ball to go straight up and straight backwards.

Greg, who's felt the pressure on him before from playing college and pro basketball calmly (if that was possible after watching a ball being thrown towards the green that actually went backwards) stepped up and hurled the Top Flite through the air and with his pin-point accuracy, sunk it—much like a long 3-pointer from Mike Fitzner.

For Pete's Sake
By Kevin Peterson

Now, we're not sure about the world record but odds are in McDermott's favor that he may well have a new spot in Guinness. We'll get back to you on that one.

SPEAKING OF GOLF, I have threatened for several years to write a few lines about those select few people who feel the need to honk their horns while driving by a golf course.

Maybe I'm old fashioned but what in the @##& kind of thrill is it to honk your horn right in the middle of someone's back swing—usually mine. I have enough troubles on the golf course trying to get my clubs to swing the way they're supposed to with out a break in concentration.

It seems over the past few weeks there have several car-passer-byers honking horns and it hasn't always been during my back swing. I guess I've also seen a few people on the links waving back at those cars in their own way.

It's not really a thumb's up but it's close to the thumb and it doesn't quite mean, O.K. At any rate, I promised I would speak my piece. In fact, I'm thinking about starting a new group of lobbyists. I believe I will call it GACH—Golfers Against Car Honking. Maybe I'll even get bumper stickers.

A FEW WEEKS ago the country club held its annual member-guest golf tournament and there were quite a few big sticks in town but some of the longest golf shots I witnessed were from our own local members.

The first day I got to watch Doug Rose drive number four to the middle of the green en route to firing a three-under-par 69. The second day I got to watch Dave Diediker unleash a long-ball arsenal which included about a 260-yard second shot on number 11 (yes his drive was less than impressive) but he was still on the fringe in two.

Still, one of the most impressive shots of the tourney through this writer's eyes came from a very experienced golfer from Laurel. Ole Anderson went into the sand on his tee shot on 17 and proceeded to make the comment he would be there for a week because there is no sand in Laurel.

All he did was chip out of the sand and with in about five feet of the hole. (My how time flies because that week went extremely fast when Ole was in the sand.)

TURNING TO yet another

subject—State Troopers. I have a whole new respect for these fine folks. Monday afternoon I was doing some traveling and listening to the radio at the same time like always when I looked in my rear view mirror and saw these red flashing lights right behind my car.

A brief panic overtook me but I managed to remain calm. The trooper who looked all of 12, asked me where I was going in such a hurry and I responded. Then, he took my license and registration and after a few minutes returned to my car and gave me a warning. I was very relieved.

I continued my trek and did my business and was on my way home about eight hours later and not thinking (which I've been accused of before) I entered that same zone in which I was stopped earlier that day.

Well you guessed it, I looked in my rear view once again and once again I saw those familiar red flashing lights right behind my car. This time the trooper looked experienced, at least in his 30's.

He was getting ready to take my license and registration when he noticed a familiar piece of paper sitting in my passenger seat. He asked what it was and looking over, I saw he was talking about the warning ticket I had received earlier in the day about five miles from where I was currently stopped.

He looked at it and said, it looks like you were speeding through here this morning, too. I was speechless (something else I've never been accused of being) when he took my license and registration back to his car. I knew I had it this time and I had just convinced myself that I deserved it when the trooper returned to my vehicle. I felt like Sammy Hagar singing his hit single "I can't drive 55."

He looked down at me in the car and said I was really stretching my luck but all he was going to do is give me a warning. If I would have had my head on straight I would have went directly to a gas station and bought some lottery tickets. At any rate, I have a whole new respect for these rulers of the road.

16-under softball team sweeps foe

Steve Jorgensen's 14-under and 16-under girls fast pitch softball teams played a twinbill with Lyons last Thursday night with the host team coming out on top in three of the four outings.

The 14-under squad split their double-header, losing the first, 18-7 but winning the second, 16-9 while the 16-under team earned a sweep, 7-2 and 13-4.

In the first game of the 14-under twinbill Sara Ellis was tagged with the pitching loss despite allowing just four hits. Wayne could manage just two base hits in the game from the bats of Kristen Ewing and Gretchen Wilke.

The second game had Erin Mילander earning the pitching victory as Wayne out-hit the visitors, 8-7. Heidi Johnson had three singles to pace Wayne's offense while Jessica Raveling and Carol Longe each tripled. Abbie Diediker, Larissa Coulter and Gretchen Wilke each had one base hit.

The 14-under team will play in Beemer on Thursday before closing out the regular season schedule at home Tuesday against Decatur. The State Tournament for the 14-under squad will be July 14-15-16 in Hebron.

The 16-under team got two pitching victories from Nicolle McLagan as she struck out six in the first game en route to Wayne's 7-2 win. Wayne also out-hit Lyons by a 7-2 margin led by Timoni Grono's double and single. Sarah Metzler smacked a double while Alycia Jorgensen, Megan Meyer, Kellie Lubberstedt and Stacey Langemeier each singled.

The second game ended in a 13-4 thumping for Wayne as Stacey Langemeier had an impressive outing at the plate to lead the winners. Langemeier went 4-4 with a grand slam homerun and two triples and a single. She finished the game with nine rbi.

Kellie Lubberstedt singled three times and Timoni Grono doubled and singled while Megan Meyer, Alycia Jorgensen, Nicolle McLagan, Brandy Frevert and Katy Wilson each singled once.

The 16-under team will close out the regular season on Thursday night in Beemer before heading to the State Tournament on July 14-15-16 in Grand Island.

Happy 50th Birthday David Lutt!

Wayne 18-under fast pitch softball team places second

The Wayne 18-under girls fast pitch softball team played five games over the weekend at the Fremont Tournament and they won just one, yet they placed runner-up.

Bob O'borny's crew struggled on Saturday, losing all three tilts with Yutan, Fremont and Columbus, leaving them as the bottom seed for the single elimination tournament on Sunday.

Wayne defeated Yutan on Sunday but lost in the finals to the host team, leaving Wayne with a 13-8 record on the season. In the first game of the tournament, Wayne fell to Yutan by a 5-1 margin with Wendy Beiermann taking the loss despite allowing just two hits and striking out seven.

Wayne had six hits led by Carrie Fink and Jenny Thompson with two singles each while Jenni Beiermann and Jammi McGwire had one base hit apiece. All the game's scoring was done in the first inning with Yutan's five runs coming on five Wayne errors.

Fremont handed Wayne an 8-0 defeat with Beiermann taking the loss from the mound after striking out two and giving up 11 hits. Wayne managed three hits—singles by Carrie Fink, Katie Lutt and Jenny Thompson.

"We just couldn't get our sticks going against Fremont," O'borny said. "This was by far the best pitcher we've faced this season."

Wayne lost a 7-4 decision to Columbus with Beiermann being tagged with the loss after three strikeouts and seven hits.

Wayne managed three hits with Jenny Thompson leading the way with a double while Molly Melena and Katie Lutt each singled.

Sunday's tournament action pitted Wayne against Yutan and the locals came out on top of a 7-1 decision with Beiermann earning the victory with four strikeouts to her credit while scattering four hits.

Wayne had 12 hits led by Katie Lutt's four singles while Jenni Beiermann had three base hits and Carrie Fink, two singles. Molly Melena, Shona Stracke and Don Del Brandt each had a single. "Yutan was the Class C state champs last year," O'borny said. "They will be going to Class B state this year."

Wayne lost a 6-2 decision to Fremont in the tournament finals with Beiermann taking the loss, striking out four and allowing 11 hits. Wayne managed four hits led by Molly Melena with a triple while Katie Lutt, Shona Stracke and Jessica Bohnenkamp each had one base hit.

"This was a very tough tournament," O'borny said. "Columbus and Fremont should be playing Class A and after Sunday I felt our team could play with them."

On the scene

At 1:30 am on June 26, while the Black Knight restaurant burned, Jeff Smalley, Chad Cawthon and Johnny Smutzler approached a Wayne Herald reporter and asked to have their picture taken for originally reporting the fire.

Players present program

The Need-a-Name Players will present two original theatrical productions Friday at 7 p.m. at the Carriage House Theatre in the Minershaft Mall.

The Players are a group of 19 elementary and middle school students who have participated in a three week children's theatre workshop sponsored by the Wayne Community Theatre.

They will perform "The Case of the Pink Sneaker" and "Treasures Among Us", both written by those who have attended the workshop.

"I have been amazed by what these students have come up with on their own," said Kim Imdieke who has directed the workshop.

Imdieke has been assisted by Megan McLean and Jennifer Schmitz.

Admission to the production is free and open to the public.

'Godspell' takes stage July 14-22

The Wayne Community Theatre will feature "Godspell" as its annual summer musical starting July 14. Directed by Laura Straight of Wayne, the show was conceived by Michael Tabelak as a jubilant celebration of the Gospel, as told by St. Matthew, with music by Stephen Schwartz.

This will be Straight's first direction of a musical. She directed the Wayne Community Theatre play "January Thaw" in 1993 and performed in earlier plays as an actress.

Another Wayne Community Theatre veteran, Gwen Jensen, will be the vocal music director. She has performed in "Mame" in 1993 and was the vocal director for "L'il Abner" in 1991.

THE MAIN cast members have a varied background. There are several newcomers to the Wayne Community Theatre. Nick Sieler has the part of Stephen (Jesus). Nick is a Wayne native. He and his wife, Sonja have two children, Nathan and Natalie. He owns and operates Cityside Parks here in Wayne but is probably better known as the former owner of the Black Knight Restaurant.

Jeff Sievert plays David (Judas). Jeff is from Oregon and serves as Presbyterian minister in Laurel and Belden. His wife, Lori plays Gilmer. Lori is originally from Michigan and works as a secretary at Wayne State College as well as running the Jazzercise franchise here in Wayne.

Another husband and wife in the cast are Patrick and Kathy Jernigan. Patrick has the part of Herb and Kristy is Peggy. Patrick is from New Orleans and is currently attending Wayne State College. Kristy, from Edgar, is a Wayne State graduate who will be teaching Jr. high science at Laurel-Concord High School this fall.

THE CAST also contains a brother-sister combination. Kim Imdieke is a 1993 Wayne High graduate who is an English and Theatre & Film major at the University of Kansas. She has the part of Robin. Her brother, Mike will be playing Jeff. Mike will be entering his senior year at Wayne High this fall. He's had a main part in the last three Wayne High musicals. Another Wayne High student, Carla Kemp, has the part of Lammie. Two newcomers to the Wayne Community Theatre round out the cast. Lorna Luben is a Wisner native who works with her husband, John Blake, a carpenter and ceramic tile contractor. She has the part of Sonya. Lorna is a Wayne State graduate who serves as the organist at the Wisner United Methodist Church of Christ. Molly Thompson will be Joanne. She has also been attending Wayne State while also working at the First National of Omaha Bankcard Center. Molly is from Colorado and also attended Nebraska Christian College in Norfolk, as did the Jernigans.

The rest of the cast includes Jeanie Long, Donna Martin, Lisa Nelson, Connie Sukup, Lois Polt, Keith Jarvi, Mick Kemp, Chris Headley, Lindsey Martin, Andrea Jorgenson, Brandon Williams, Amanda Polt, Katie Langbehn, Heidi Headley, Becky Fletcher, Jon Gathje, Amber Nelson, Jessica Murtaugh, Christina Gathje, Heather Headley, Mark Kanitz, Katie Straight, Amy Hyspe, and Kyle Straight. Darci Frahm is playing the piano and Sarah Hall keyboard.

THE WAYNE PRODUCTION of "Godspell" will be staged in the Wayne High School Lecture Hall. Performances will be July 14, 15, 21, and 22 at 7:30 p.m. with a Sunday matinee July 16 at 2 p.m.

"Godspell" concludes the 1994/95 Wayne Community Theatre season. Tickets are $6.00 for adults, $5.00 for seniors and $4.00 for students. They may be purchased at Sav-Mor Pharmacy, the First National Bank, State National Bank and Farmers & Merchants State Bank in Wayne. Ticket information for those out of town may be obtained by calling (402) 375-3160.

Retirement coffee

Many Wayne business people turned out for a farewell chamber coffee to Wayne Nissen. Nissen, who ran the Nutrena store in Wayne for the last ten years, has worked for the company for 31 years.

Students do series survey

Dr. Anthony Kochenash, business professor at Wayne State College, and four Wayne State students participated in conducting a survey at the College World Series in Omaha on June 5.

The survey was conducted under the direction of Dr. Dick Irwin, a professor of sports management at the University of Memphis. The purpose of the survey was to determine what the NCAA can do differently to make the College World Series a more enjoyable event for the fans.

Alfred White, director of promotions for the National Collegiate Athletic Association, told the Omaha World-Herald, "We want to find out information we can use to better market and manage the event. We want to try to find out why the people are there, and what it takes to get them back."

Irwin, also a friend of Kochenash, invited Kochenash to help with the survey. Wayne State College students Jeff Meyer, sport management; Marc Timmins, sport management; Christopher Polt, sport management; and Ryan Hesse, marketing; traveled with Kochenash to Omaha to help with the surveys.

The survey team collected information at three tables between games and went into the stands to talk to fans. "The surveys that we conducted were based on general background information on the fans' experiences with the College World Series," Hesse said. "There are couples that come from as far as California to see these games. Others plan their summer vacations just to come to Omaha to see the College World Series."

Kochenash said fans were very willing to help and had many interesting stories to tell about their College World Series experiences over the years. Many were regular fans who attended the World Series each year. "I met people who have been attending for 20 to 30 years and one fan who has attended all of the College World Series except three during which he was in the military, but he was quick to add that his wife attended in his absence," Kochenash said.

"I personally wish I would have had a tape recorder to tape many of the interesting comments I heard from the fans," Kochenash said. "It would make an interesting book."

The group had passes to the press room where they also ate. Kochenash and the students saw and met ESPN and CBS sports announcers and sports reporters from all parts of the country.

"The College World Series was a good time," Hesse said. "It was a very good experience and I thank Dr. Kochenash for allowing us to be a part of the NCAA for a day."

The most often heard expression from the fans was "don't move the College World Series out of Omaha."

never filed there and noted the system should work as well as, if not better than before. The NWS moved to Valley in order to use more advanced equipment and to provide better service.

The Police Department currently receives reports three times a day unless severe weather is approaching the area. In that case, reports are increased and radio contact is relayed from Norfolk to the station as officers are alerted to the appropriate areas.

The system under consideration is distributed by the Data Transmission Network (DTN).

Scott Steinmeyer of DTN says the product is a "compilation of several other services including Kavouros, National Weather Service, Freese-Notis, and Crop East." Steinmeyer says several emergency assistance centers as well as several airports are subscribers.

DTN customers can see satellite-transmitted, color weather maps that range from the United States to County maps updated every 15 minutes. The NWS reports, which the Police Department receives are in word form with no visual maps.

Gary Pick, CEO of Logan Valley Implement, recently invested in the company and enjoys the service. He says customers come in regularly for weather updates.

Denklauf could not say if the service from the NWS is any slower, but "there is a possibility that we may be able to locally put out a warning quicker than the weather service."

He approached the Board of Commissioners Monday with the proposal and will be talking to the City of Wayne about sharing the cost of the subscription soon.

non-contract counties.

At its meeting Monday, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, which leases the detention center facility in Wayne to the Juvenile Services organization, signed a new three-year lease agreement with the corporation.

The new lease raises the monthly rent payments paid to Wayne county from $2,000 per month to $2,300. The previous lease payment had been the same since the corporation was formed to administer the facility three years ago. Originally built as an adult jail, the center was converted to a juvenile facility which multiple counties can share.

According to Mike Applegate, the new administrator of the Juvenile Detention facility, fourteen counties and two Indian tribes are members of the facility. Applegate noted that four other counties expressed interest in joining the organization if the annual assessment was reduced.

The new lease arrangement also includes automatic rent increases to $2,415 per month in July of 1996 and $2,536 in July of 1997. The lease also has an escape clause which would allow the detention center board to get out of it after two years if they are ready to move into a new facility.

Board members have been working for several months on a plan to build a new facility in a new location. It was earlier said that Wisner would be the most likely site for the new facility but no firm arrangements have been made.

Applegate stated that two of his goals for the organization will be to reduce the cost of running the facility and to recruit new members. By reducing the assessment, Applegate felt several new members could be recruited.

Applegate said he felt the current facility could handle any increase in inmates which could result from an increase in member counties. The facility has a capacity of 14. According to Applegate, the current average capacity is 10 juveniles.

When asked about how he plans to reduce costs, Applegate said he was unsure what he plans to do.

"I'm not sure as of right now. We're just going to step back, take a look at how things are done and analyze it and go from there."

June was below average

In spite of rains early in the month, June 1995 was drier than average. With 1.38 inches of precipitation, June fell short of its ten year average precipitation of 3.56 inches.

The area is still ahead of the 10-year average for the calendar year to date precipitation by 5.46 inches.

June set the year's highest temperature of the year so far with a high of 95 on the 17th. The record high for the month of June, set in 1933, is 109 degrees.

On average, the month of June saw highs of 79 and lows of 56. The month's low temperature was 43, compared with the record low of 34 set in 1935.

Weather observer Pat Gross characterized June's weather by saying, "From very wet to hot and windy to pretty cool. Good old Nebraska weather. But it all seems to average out over the long term. A good inch of rain over a couple of days wouldn't hurt anything."

Trial ride going again from Laurel

Omaha's River City Roundup and Rodeo will kick off its three trail rides across Nebraska, Northeast Nebraska and Iowa on Sept. 16. The rides give participants and community members a chance to celebrate the area's agricultural and western heritage. The event has grown in participation and popularity since it began in 1982, and is expected to attract approximately 1,000 riders this year.

The scheduled nightly stops for the Northeast Nebraska Trail Ride are Laurel on Saturday, Sept. 16; travel to Wakefield on Sunday, Sept. 17; arrive in Pender on Monday, Sept. 18; at Bancroft on Tuesday, Sept. 19; in Oakland on Wednesday, Sept. 20 and at Nickerson on Sept. 21.

Old Settlers activities planned for 95th fete

By Dianne Jaeger
Winside Correspondent

Plans have been finalized for this year's 95th Wayne County Old Settlers celebration, which will be held in Winside on July 15 and 16. This year's co-chairmen are Randy Marks and Lori Hansen.

"We have been receiving wonderful financial support from Winside businesses, however, we would be happy to accept more from other Wayne county businesses," said Randy Marks. "We have lots of good 'free to the public' Sunday afternoon entertainment in the park which will cost approximately $1,000. There will be the Heartland Hoedowners (young cloggers) from Elkhorn who will perform twice, first at 1:30 p.m. and then again at 3. Paulyn's Dance Studio from Norfolk, the Battle Creek Brass Band, Winside area youth chorus and band and junior cheerleading clinic students will all be part of this entertainment. There will be three legged races, a 4 p.m. grand parade and the annual barbecue at 5, serving both beef and pork sandwiches, all by the Winside park."

Sunday evening Koopman's Musician Showcase — a dance band that also features big band sounds — will be performing in the village auditorium. There will be a charge for the dance and the barbecue.

Other activities earlier on Sunday include an 8 a.m. road rally and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. there will be a ground driven mini-model airplane. Sponsored by the 185th Air National Guard of Sioux City, Iowa. At 1 p.m. in the Legion Hall will be a partner pitch tournament for those 18 and older.

There will be plenty of activity for Saturday, July 15. From 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. there will be a craft show in the village auditorium. Also a kids coed volleyball tournament begins at 9 a.m. for ages 9-14; the kiddie parade with the theme "Under the Big Top," will be at noon, followed by baton twirling and kids games. There will be a 1 p.m. horseshoe tournament by the tennis courts and bingo in the Legion Hall. There will be face painting, kids pedal pull, a garden tractor pull at 3 p.m., sponsored by the Ne. Garden Tractor Pullers, 5 p.m. kids water fights and 6 p.m. fire department water fights. On Saturday evening there will be a teen dance in the auditorium from 8 p.m. to midnight with music by "Hitmen," a DJ from Wayne. For the adults, there will be a country band "Stoneyridge" in Schelley's Beer Garden.

"The majority of our committee members are Winside residents again this year," says Marks. "We're usually lucky to have a half dozen come to the monthly meetings. The last one will be Thursday, July 6 in the fire hall at 7:30 p.m. Anyone wanting to become involved is welcome to attend. We will definitely need more helpers when we construct the community food stand and put up the game booths. We'll begin on Thursday evening, July 13 and finish on July 14. We have about six game booths spoken for so far, but there are several more if anyone or group still wants one."

"The committee hasn't really discussed future years, but it would be nice to continue Old Settlers at least five more years to reach the centennial. We just kind of go from year to year, as there are usually new chairmen every couple of years. There won't be a carnival this year but we will have live pony rides, and the various game booths. There is also a community food stand for the entire event. We feel we have something for everyone and lots of good, clean family entertainment."

On training

Spc. Trevor Wehrer, a track driver with Company A, 1-134th Infantry, Nebraska Army National Guard of Wayne, ties down a multiple integrated laser engagement/equipment system (MILES) to his M-113 armored personnel carrier at Fort Carson, Colo. The Wayne native was among the more than 500 Nebraska Army National Guardsmen from the 67th Brigade who traveled to the Rocky Mountain post for their two-week annual training, June 10-24. In civilian life, Wehrer works for the Rural Electrical Association in York.

Teens seem to have the most stress

This is absolutely gorgeous weather! It promises to be a glorious Fourth. I tried to get Monday off, but there were just too many people to see. I thought a four day weekend sounded real good. The state parks and recreation areas around here are full. And we are, too.

Our guests last night were six new graduates from a rural Class D school, and their sponsors. They are the mock trial team from their school, and the lawyer who worked with them and his wife.

My comment to him this morning was that rural kids used to be at a disadvantage, but not any more. They are just as sophisticated as their city counterparts and maybe more well rounded.

I've said for years that everyone participates in a small school, or the activities would not happen. Thus, they are into athletics, music, drama and government.

The Farmer's Wife

By Pat Meierhenry

Of course, the down side is that they are busy from dawn to midnight, seven days a week. Today's high school students are probably the most stressed people around.

This group of six had some top scholars, also, and everyone is going to college. They were polite, pleasant and appreciative. And, after breakfast, we were treated to a concert because one was a talented keyboardist and they all sing. We had everything from On Eagle's Wings to Oklahoma to The Rose, and I loved it.

I would not have minded leaving with them, either. They are taking in Joslyn, Old Market, The Music Man at Omaha Community Playhouse, Henry Dooley, The Omaha Royals and fireworks. What a weekend!

It looks like mine will be busy with making beds and cleaning bathrooms. That's what we want: a full house. Right?

The Big Farmer has been busy irrigating trees and corn. We planted 100 baby blue spruce this spring. We took the farmer off the farm, but the tree planter will never disappear.

I mentioned to a friend yesterday that I haven't purchased any sparklers for years. I do have a melon in the fridge, and a package of hot dogs. Plenty of sun tea, and I'm ready for Independence Day.

The Golden Years

By: Connie Dishrow

House calls by doctors are largely a thing of the past. But several million Americans, many of them elderly, are served each year by agencies that bring health care to the home. Shorter hospital stays mean some patients need care while recovering at home. Also, as the aging population increases, many chronically ill people benefit from services of visiting nurses and other personnel. Not all home health agencies are accredited, state-licensed and Medicare-approved. Consult your doctor or hospital for recommendations. Find out if Medicare or other insurance covers the types of services needed.

For more than five decades, Lucy Kroll was an agent for writers and performers like Carl Sandburg, Martha Graham, Ben Hecht and James Earl Jones. In her 80s she sold her New York Agency to a colleague and gave away prized possessions. To the Library of Congress went more than 100 boxes of letters, scripts and other mementos of her work for clients. Friends got gifts of jewelry and other personal items, including 1940s designer clothes. "Possessions are heavy," she told an interviewer.

Remember When? August 19, 1960 — The USSR launched the first passengers into space — two dogs who were safely recovered later.

AAL Branch plans bake sale to benefit Habitat

Aid-Association for Lutherans (AAL) Branch 1470 will be holding a bake sale during Henoween activities Friday, July 7 at Riley's Convention Center parking lot.

The funds raised will be matched by AAL and will be donated to Habitat for Humanity to help build homes in the Norfolk area.

Habitat for Humanity is an ecumenical Christian housing ministry that seeks to eliminate poverty housing and make decent shelter a matter of conscience and action.

Through volunteer labor and tax-deductible donations of money, materials and management expertise Habitat builds and rehabilitates homes with the help of the future homeowners.

The homeowner is required to contribute 250 hours of "sweat equity" towards the completion of their new home. The homeowner must pay two percent of the cost of the Habitat House as a down payment. A standard 20 year, interest-free mortgage will be obtained through a bank.

The "Word" for the Week

Toppling tyranny

We are all opposed to tyranny. How can tyranny, in all of its forms, whether political or social, be destroyed? Tyranny can only be destroyed by the Good News, by the preaching of the Kingdom of God. This is the ultimate answer.

The book of Daniel tells about a great statue which represented world powers. Literally it represented the tyranny of oppressive world governments. The statue stood "until a stone was cut out without hands, and it struck the statue on its feet of iron and clay, and crushed them" (Daniel 2:34). The stone, after toppling the statue, "became a great mountain and filled the whole earth" (Daniel 2:35). What does all this mean? Daniel tells us. "The God of heaven will set up a kingdom which will never be destroyed" (Daniel 2:44). You see, only the kingdom of God can topple tyranny.

The great task of the church is to preach the Gospel of the Kingdom, to call people everywhere from all tyrannical measures to the love of God manifested in Christ. Jesus said, "repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand" (Matthew 4:17). Failure to proclaim this Gospel of the Kingdom is a failure to strike at the foundation of tyranny. One of the reasons tyranny was broken in Eastern Europe and Russia was the work of the church preaching the Kingdom.

Free health screening offered this weekend

The Wayne Lions Club and Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Nebraska will be offering free health screenings for glaucoma, visual acuity, hearing, diabetes and hypertension, during the upcoming Wayne Chicken Show on Saturday, July 8.

1995 marks the sixth year of partnership between Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Nebraska and the Nebraska Lions Foundation to offer free health screenings to Nebraskans. Since their partnership began, the Mobile Screening Unit has served thousands of Nebraskans. In 1994, more than 10,000 Nebraskans took advantage of this service. Early detection of these conditions is important and may help prevent the development of more serious illnesses.

The screening unit will be located at the corner of 10th and Lincoln Streets from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, July 8. Come join us at the Chicken Show and help yourself by joining the thousands who are screened for these conditions.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Nebraska is an independent licensee of the Blue Cross and Blue Shield Association.

Pressure canner testing is available

The University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension - Dixon County office is making available free pressure canner dial testing.

The scheduled date is Friday, July 7 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Extension Office at the Northeast Research and Extension Center, Concord.

Canners with dial gauges should be checked every couple of years to make sure they are accurate so adequate pressure is used to can foods to prevent food poisoning.

Free University of Nebraska canning, freezing and drying publications are also available.

Compassionate Friends to hold annual picnic

The July meeting of the Northeast Nebraska Chapter of the Compassionate Friends will be held Thursday, July 13 at 7 p.m. at Ta-Ha-Zouka Park in Norfolk.

This will be our annual family picnic. Each family is to bring their own table service, a meat dish and a salad or dessert. Drinks will be furnished by the officers.

The Compassionate Friends is a support group offering friendship and understanding to bereaved parents. Anyone dealing with the death of a child from any cause or any age, whether the death was recent or many years past, is welcome to attend.

For further information, you may contact Howard and Dixie Legler, Norfolk, 337-8826; Ron and Londa Schwanebeck, Plainview, 582-3645 or Ruth Meisgeier, Neligh, 887-4559.

The Nebraska Lions Foundation, in conjunction with the Wayne Lions Club and Blue Cross Blue Shield of Nebraska will be offering free health screening services from this bus during the Wayne Chicken Show.

Carroll High School Alumni were responsible for the new community message sign recently erected in Carroll. The sign went up in time for the reunion held in Carroll last weekend and a group of the graduates posed with the community betterment project. The alumni also contributed to put new siding on the front of the Carroll Auditorium.

Carroll High Reunion enjoyed by 117 alumni

Two hundred individuals, including 117 alumni representing 18 states, attended the Carroll High School Alumni Reunion held July 1.

Registration and social hour was held in the afternoon at the Carroll Fire Hall, followed by a banquet in the Carroll Auditorium. Herb and Joyce Netman served at the banquet.

Decorations were in green and white, the school colors. The classes of 1943, 1944 and 1945 were honored. The class of 1949 had the most classmates in attendance.

Mrs. John (Donna Eckert) Bowers read the roll call. Erwin

Morris of Carroll gave the welcome. Orville Lage of Pilger gave the invocation.

Erwin Morris was in charge of special recognitions. Travelling the farthest distance to the reunion were Don Ferres and Esther Klopping Miller of Salem, Oregon.

The oldest alumni present were Oliver Koles, 81, of Edina, Minn., and Elsie Whitney, 90, of Norfolk. Among the classmate marriages were Stan and Betty Morris, and John and Dorothy Rees, all of Carroll.

Honored class officers of the class of '43 were Eva (Jones) Glass of Norfolk, from the class of 44, Dean Owens of Carroll and from the class of '45, Don Harnes of Carroll.

The program included the poem "How Can you Tell" by Wilma Garwood Rees, a 1916 graduate of Carroll. The poem was read by Mrs. Wayne (Ruth Roberts) Kerstin.

Vocal selections were sung by all and accompanied by Mrs. John (Dorothy Hurlbert) Rees.

Irene Jones Martins was the speaker.

Mrs. Morris (Joyce Morris) Sandahl and Mrs. Arthur (Edith Sals) Cook lit a candle in memory. See REUNION, Page 5B

Around 200 Carroll High School Alumni, relatives and friends participated in the reunion activities which included a group photo in front of the fire hall Saturday.

'How can I hang onto my husband?'

Q. My husband is an attractive man, and he's the president of his own company at a young age. I know that women are out to get him, especially some divorced secretaries who constantly flirt with him. I'm raising our kids here at home, and I have to admit that I worry about holding onto Dwight. I believe he's been faithful to me, but I wonder if he will always turn down the opportunities around him. I mean, he comes home and tells me what these women say, and I can't believe it! How can I hang onto my husband?

Dr. Dobson Answers Your Questions

flies. Indeed, most instances of "competition anxiety" among homemakers can be attributed to husbands like Dwight who subtly create insecurities in their wives.

Why would a man do such a thing? Well, the male ego enjoys being desired by women—lots of women. That's why a married man will flirt with female employees even when he has no intention of being unfaithful. Furthermore, he will tell his wife about these admirers in order to gain "power" in their relationship. Whether consciously or not, he is saying by these disclosures, "You'd better treat me right, because there are plenty of other women out there just waiting to get their hands on me."

At some point in your conversation with Dwight, these dynamics should be discussed. I'm not suggesting that you hammer him with accusations or complaints, but an opportunity may come to verbalize your feelings and put the matter of competition in proper perspective.

Before that conversation ensues, however, I think you should look at a related issue. The way you stated your question implies that your own self-esteem is not too high. Why do I get the feeling that you see yourself as a lowly homemaker in a world of women lawyers and athletes and congresswomen? Is it possible that you feel fortunate to have "captured" your good-looking, successful man and wonder how long the illusion will last?

If these are secret weaknesses in your self-concept, they will be reflected in your relationship with your husband. He will sense your fearfulness—and your unhealthy dependence on him. You must believe that you bring as much to the family as your husband does, and not only are you fortunate to be married to Dwight, but he's a pretty lucky guy, too.

These questions and answers are excerpted from the book Dr. Dobson Answers Your Questions. Dr. James Dobson is a psychologist, author and president of Focus on the Family—a nonprofit organization dedicated to the preservation of the home. Correspondence to Dr. Dobson should be addressed to: Focus on the Family, P.O. Box 444, Colorado Springs, CO 80903 (c), 1982, Tyndale House Publishers, Inc.

This feature brought to you by the family oriented Wayne Dairy Queen. Listen to Dr. Dobson on KTCH Radio daily. KTCH FM 12:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. KTCH AM 9:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. Sunday.

A. Twenty years ago, your question would have seemed unnecessarily anxious and even a bit silly. But it makes plenty of sense today—the world has changed that much. There has always been hanky-panky going on, but never has it been so blatant.

More to the point of your concern, it is no longer taboo for an available woman to consciously lure a married man—even one with several children at home. He's fair game to anyone who can entice him away from his family. Men are just as audacious in their pursuit of women, whether those women are married or not. Thus, the concern expressed in your question has basis in reality.

Nevertheless, the solution is not to "hang onto" Dwight. You must not build a cage around him in an attempt to reduce your anxieties. That would only add unnecessary stresses to your relationship. Dwight must stay with you of his own free will—the same reason for which he married you in the first place. Love must be free, even in a world of sexual intrigue and disloyalty.

Perhaps it would be helpful for me to offer a couple of perspectives. First, Dwight is primarily responsible for the insecurity you feel, one way or the other. He could allay your fears if he wished. It's a fairly simple task for a man to let his wife know he is committed to her for life.

Instead, Dwight is regularly telling you about the sexy women who hang onto him and beg for his favors. That's the source of your butter-

Proper Method of Using Eye Drops

Before placing drops in your eyes or someone else's eyes, make sure the medicine has not expired (expiration date should be printed on the side of the bottle) and that the container indicates that the solution is for "ophthalmic use." Hold the solution bottle up and check for discoloration or sediment. Make sure the solution is at room temperature before using it. Wash your hands thoroughly before placing drops in the eyes.

Eye drops should be administered with the person's head tilted back and slightly toward the side. Have the person close their eyes for a minute. Press a finger against the inner corner of the eye to keep medicine in the eye, away from the tear duct. This helps minimize drug absorption into the blood stream where the drug can produce a systemic effect. Pull the lower eyelid down and have the person look up. With the other hand gently squeeze the dropper bottle and deliver the correct number of drops into the eye. Have the person wait for at least 10 minutes before using any other eye drops.

A new improved food safety system

The traditional food inspection system is taking an evolutionary step that will help improve safety of the food supply.

The Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Points (HACCP) is a proposed system of food inspection that attempts to control each step in food production to prevent potential food hazards. In other words, HACCP monitors foods as they are being made, instead of relying solely on an evaluation of the end product.

The HACCP concept isn't new — the system was initially developed by manufacturers to inspect non-food products. Today the system has been adapted for use in any food processing system.

The HACCP system will help the food industry develop a food quality assurance program. The program will help processors devise a detailed action plan that allows better monitoring of commercial food preparations and the development of corrective actions to handle unsafe food products. The program also would help processors verify if a system is working — before unsafe foods show up or are shipped.

HACCP consists of seven general steps:

1. Analyze hazards. Potential biological, chemical or physical hazards associated with food are identified. Also, establish preventive measures to control identified hazards.
2. Identify critical control points or areas of production where food is most likely to become unsafe.
3. Establish critical limits for each preventive measure associated with a critical control point. For example, finding the minimum cooking temperature and time required to ensure a safe, cooked product.

Cooperative Extension

Edna E. Eberle Cedar County

4. Establish procedures to monitor the control points. This may include determining how and by whom cooking time and temperature should be monitored.

5. Establish corrective actions to be taken when monitoring shows that a critical limit hasn't been met. Examples are reprocessing or disposing of food if the minimum cooking temperature isn't met.

6. Establish effective record keeping to document the HACCP system. Often this system is computerized.

7. Establish procedures to verify the system is working consistently. For example, auditing records to confirm that all critical limits have been met during a production run.

Food-borne illnesses have prompted continued interest, especially in meat product inspection. Meat and poultry inspectors traditionally have relied on touch and feel to evaluate food products. This approach is important to food inspection, but is inadequate when inspecting foods for pathogen contamination.

Food manufacturers aren't required to adopt the HACCP system, but those which do are finding the system does have advantages. They're doing a better job monitoring food safety because they place the control of food safety further back into the plant operation of manufacturing food.

The biggest advantage is to put the system into place to prevent the occurrence of problems throughout the process and not just at the end of the production. HACCP is definitely a food safety measure that is important to the future of food processing.

CRP tour features conservation talks

Nebraska currently has 1.4 million acres, seven percent of all cropland in Nebraska, enrolled in the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP). In 1995, five percent of the contracts in Nebraska will expire. The majority of contracts (85 percent) will expire between 1996 and 1998. If contracts are not extended, it is estimated that 50 to 67 percent of the CRP acres will return to crop production.

The Northeast Research and Extension Center (NEREC) near Concord hosted a CRP Tour for approximately 70 people concerned about returning CRP acres back to cropland. The NEREC is conducting research on currently enrolled CRP acres to develop cropping system guidelines for returning CRP acres to crop production. The research began in the fall of 1994 on CRP acres owned by Charles Paulsen adjacent to the Center.

Melinda McVey McCluskey, CRP Project Coordinator, said that crop selection and rotation, residue and pest management and soil fertility and moisture are some of the concerns producers will be facing when they begin to return their CRP acres back to crop production. "In Nebraska, corn is usually the crop of choice for planting in CRP acres. However, there is reason to investigate other crops because of soil fertility and moisture problems caused by the heavy amounts of residue cover and nutrient depletion that the thick stands of brome and switch grasses may have caused on CRP land," said Mrs. McCluskey.

One of the biggest questions concerned the amount of residue cover producers will have to deal with. However, David Holshouser, NU Integrated Weeds Management Specialist, said a better question may be "...how do we keep the residue on highly erodible land yet preserve the soil structure and quality that has developed since the land has been in the CRP program?"

"Initial results from the project indicate that it is possible to retain much of the residue with no-till planting," said Holshouser. He said that almost no residue remained after moldboard plowing and only 10 to 25 percent residue cover remained after the disk planting system, which is not enough to meet Nebraska conservation plans. He added that brome residue is very fragile and is easily destroyed by tillage.

Holshouser also discussed vegetation management. "The warm and cool-season grasses that now cover the existing CRP acres would be considered a weed in crop production," he said. "The problem is, how can we control the weeds without causing severe soil erosion from too much tillage. The more environmentally friendly alternative to tilling may be chemical control of the vegetation."

Tilling and getting rid of the brome and switch grasses also releases perennial weeds, such as milkweed and field bindweed, that could not flourish in the dense populations of the warm season grasses. "This leads back to no-till, since no-till does not 'plant the seed' of existing perennials like tilling the soil may do," Holshouser said.

Bill Kranz, NU Irrigation Specialist, discussed concerns about soil moisture. Again, residue cover was at the forefront of the water issues. Field research data indicates that evaporation accounts for 25 to 30 percent of seasonal crop water use. "Since we are investigating residue handling and tillage practices that will leave varying amounts of residue on the soil surface, we expect that soil evaporation may become a factor in some years," said Kranz. He added that crop residue cover has also been shown to impact early season growth of most crops. Residue cover creates a barrier between the soil and the atmosphere which causes the soil temperature to remain lower for a long period of time. This may affect future planting times.

Early estimates of how much Nebraska land will come out of CRP are approximately 50 percent or about 650,000 acres. If just half of those acres, about 325,000 acres, go to corn, Nebraska farmers may be looking at as much as $4.4 million in fertilizer costs. Concerns about soil fertility were answered by Charles Shapiro, NU Soils Specialist. "Research with no-till has shown that nitrogen (N) applied to residue results in nitrogen tie-up (immobilization) and nitrogen loss to the atmosphere (volatilization)," said Shapiro. "However both these conditions can be avoided by placing the nitrogen below the residue layer or knifing it in. The problem is we don't know how the knives will work in heavy residue or how thick the root systems will be." HE added that research data will be collected on various rates/non-rates and types of applications of nitrogen and phosphorus.

Insects and other pests will also be studied to determine the best alternatives for pesticide applications. "We're not quite certain what to expect," said Keith Jarvi, IPM Extension Assistant, "but it will probably not be unlike that which occurs in an established rotational cropping system." Armyworms and common stalk borers may be two foliar insects to look for in corn production, while wireworms, white grubs, seed corn beetles and seed corn maggots are insects you may find in the soil. "Only wireworms can be detected prior to planting and this may cause some producers to apply a preventative soil insecticide at planting," said Jarvi.

Other pests that may cause damage to cropping systems include voles, mice and ground squirrels which dig up seeds and seedlings for food. The objectives in pest research include determining the impact of rodents and birds on corn planted in brome grass fields and to determine the efficacy of in-furrow applications of zinc phosphide for controlling rodent damage to no-till corn seed and seedlings.

The CRP project is a three-year project and is supported by the Crop Production Trust Fund, Lower Elkhorn NRD, Layman Award, DowElanco, DuPont, Bayer and HACC.

"Research findings will be released occasionally to keep area producers informed on current situations that may arise," said Mrs. McCluskey.

Stalk borers plague corn

"Common stalk borers are moving into corn from nearby grassy areas and damage is now visible," said Keith Jarvi, NU Extension Integrated Pest Management Assistant. Large shotholes are the first visible sign of this pest, but as the stalk borer burrows further into the plant, the plant will look very ragged and stunted. Common stalk borer damage is occasionally confused with corn borer damage, but will be confined to the few rows that border grassy areas. "The larvae are pale white, with dark brown to purple stripes that converge to form a saddle shape along the middle of the body," said Jarvi. Once stalk borers have gotten into the plant, treatment will be ineffective.

"Weather conditions have been favorable for bringing potato leafhoppers to Northeast Nebraska," said Jarvi. Although these pests are small, 1/8 inch long, they are capable of severe damage to alfalfa. They inject a toxin into the plant as they feed. This feeding results in a distinctive yellow or purple triangle shape at the tip of the leaf. They are a particularly serious problem for first year plantings, Jarvi said. Generally these pests are not a problem on second and third cuttings. Treatment decisions are based on numbers captured by a sweep net, which is the only reliable way to scout for potato leafhoppers. Most insecticides registered for the potato leafhopper provide good control, Jarvi said. ### CAMP READ-A-LOT

Camp Read-A-Lot was held at Graves Public Library recently. There were 159 children who registered for this year's program. The activities for that week included stories, crafts and games.

Special guests during the week were Smokey the Bear (Dallas Roberts) and Bo Barge from the Wakefield Fire Rescue Squad, who talked to the children on safety.

Cathy Schroeder helped coordinate the program. Crafts were led and donated by Lynda Turney.

Group leaders were Molly Cumyn and Teresa Miner, three year olds; Charlene Bodlak, four year olds; Karen Klute and Jamie Olsufka, five year olds; Sandra Driskell, kindergarten; Mary Rastede, first and second grades; and Roberta Engstedt, third grade and up.

Aids were Elvera Borg, Kay Victor, Bonnie Hoffman, Dianne Woodman, Erin Boeckenhauer, Lacey Brown, Susan Brudigam, Kristin Eaton, Penny Frederickson, Katie Victor, Kendra Thompson and Melissa Turney.

'SAYS THANKS'

Goodwill Industries/Wall Street Mission of Sioux City expressed its thanks to Wakefield citizens for their support while the Goodwill donation trailer was in town. "We appreciate all the good usable donations," stated Fred Pilecke, vice president of industrial resources for Goodwill.

A total of 18,000 pounds of clothing and small household items were donated.

VISIT AREA

Five group tour operators from Nebraska, Washington, Iowa and Nova Scotia, along with a representative from Nebraska Division of Travel and Tourism, visited and toured Wakefield June 28. The group's itinerary put them in the northeast part of the state June 25 to 29.

APPLICATION OF TOPICAL PREPARATIONS

Topical preparations are products that are applied directly to the area of the skin that is being treated. When using any type of topical preparation, such as ointments, creams, or lotions, it is important to remember a few good tips. The affected area to which the product will be applied must be cleaned gently and dried thoroughly prior to application in order to reduce chances of infection. When a pharmacist or doctor says to use "sparingly", this means to use the smallest amount needed to effectively cover the entire area. Remember, only the cream, lotion, or ointment, that is in direct contact with the wound will be effective; therefore, application of these treatments needs to be simply a sufficient amount to cover the affected area. Using a large amount (a thick layer) of these preparations will only waste the product.

'Chickens on the March' is theme of 1995 Show

"Chickens on the March" is the theme for the 1995 Chicken Show in Wayne, America.

Arrived at after months of exhaustive deliberations, the theme is annually selected by the Chicken Show Committee to be the central focus of the celebration of zaniness and festival of puns.

Part of the reason for the 1995 theme was the reunion this year of former Wayne High School marching band members who will be in Saturday's parade. The reunion band will mark the first time in 15 years that the Chicken Show parade has boasted a marching band.

Local businesses will be decorating their windows on that theme and parade entries will score extra points from judges for portraying the theme effectively in their entries.

The theme is also depicted on the commemorative t-shirts that have become collectors' items each year. For 15 years, the shirts have been serving the multiple purposes of promoting the theme, spreading the fun idea of the Chicken Show and raising funds to defray the sizeable cost of putting on the show.

CHICKENS ON THE MARCH
July 7 & 8, 1995

The royal blue t-shirts have been selling very well this year and can be obtained at many local businesses in addition to being available at the Chicken Coop in Bressler Park the day of the Show and Downtown at Henoween.

The t-shirts sell for $12.50. A limited number of t-shirts from previous years are also available at Bressler Park the day of the show.

The Chicken Show Committee has already begun discussing possible themes for the 1996 show. Chickens in July (a Christmas theme), Chickens Ahoy and Survival Chickens have been discussed as possible themes.

T-shirts are sought as valued collector's item

The tradition of selling collector Chicken Show t-shirts with humorous chicken pictures on them started with the first show back in 1980.

That year approximately 350 t-shirts were sold but there was no theme and no scene on the back. A scene was added to the back of the shirts in 1983. That year there was the front of a chicken on the front and his back on the back.

The implementation of themes on the shirt and overall for the Show came in 1985. The theme that year was "The 101 Year Old Chicken." In 1986 the theme was Legendary Chickens and the shirts featured a view of the Lock Nest Monster. Chickens in the Movies was the theme in 1987. The 1988 Chicken Show shirt set a sales record up to that time with a red shirt with the Wild West Chicken theme.

Chickens in Space was the theme in 1989. Chickens in History were depicted on the 1990 shirt and Chickens Around the World were featured on the 1991 shirts.

In 1992, the Chickens on Song shirts set a record for sales, partly because they became a matter of artistic debate.

The shirts depicted on Opera Singing chicken complete with breastplates which some people that were offensive. Others thought the singing chicken was trying to portray rock star Madonna.

Though early sales of the shirts lagged that year because of the moral complaints, when stories about the t-shirt controversy were carried throughout the nation on the wire services, the sales quickly picked up.

The 1995 shirt shows this year's theme of Chickens in Motion on a royal blue background. According to Chicken Show Chairmen Jane O'Leary, sales are going well and the committee expects to sell approximately 2,000 shirts this year.

Collectors have started showing interest in complete sets of the chicken show shirts causing speculation that the commemorative shirt may someday be much more valuable than they were when purchased.

The shirt art was drawn by Dr. Pearl Hansen of Wayne State College for the first three years of the show's existence, since then the t-shirt artist has been Chicken Show committee member Marla McCue.

Chicken Show shirts can be purchased this week at Pac'n Save, Word Works, Sav-Mor Pharmacy, Kids' Closet and Pat's Beauty Shop. The shirts sell for $12.50. They are available the day of the show at Bressler Park.

Curious calling contest attracts all kinds

A chicken calling contest was a part of the early chicken shows but was discontinued with the rise in popularity of events like the National Cluck-Off and chicken flying contest.

Last year, in the never ending search for new talent and fun, the Chicken Show Committee has decided to reimplement the calling contest.

A panel of judges will award points to the contest participants who enter a pen of half crazed chickens and convince them to come and eat chicken feed.

The best technique, which includes the vocal art of calling the birds as well as the artistic motion of pitching their feed, will score the highest points.

The contest will be limited to the first 25 contestants who sign up. Each contestant will be given one minute to impress the judges and/or the chickens. After completion of each one-minute feeding routine, the judges will hold up scores from one to ten similar to the judges in the Olympic diving competition.

The calling contest will be held at 2 p.m. on Chicken Show Saturday in Bressler park in the same "arena" as the chicken flying meet held earlier in the day.

"Hey, Youse Chickens! Get ova heya." That was New York-styled chicken calling technique used by Easterner Andy Champ-Doran to win the 1994 Chicken Calling Contest. Other callers may want to practice their techniques. The Calling Contest prize money will be up for grabs since Champ-Doran has he will not be able to defend his title this year.

'Henoween' sets stage for biggest ever Show

Henoween activities will be expanded the evening before the annual Chicken Show in Wayne this year to include ice carving, a quilt show, tours of Wayne on a trolley and professional entertainment.

Started four years ago as an activity for the visitor who came to town the evening before the Chicken Show, Henoween has grown as a popular, Chamber-sponsored addition to the Saturday zanyness.

Friday night activities will center in the large parking lot between Carhart's and Riley's Convention Center on South Main Street.

Arts and craft items will be available for sale food will be sold and there will be pony and carriage rides. Several displays and other activities are also scheduled.

The crowds will also have an opportunity to stroll through the downtown area to survey the store windows decorated on the Chicken Show Theme "Chickens on the March".

The Cycle-Paths will have food available at the Wayne City Auditorium.

Ice Carving will take place at 7 p.m.

Musical entertainment will be provided by Jeanne Wilwerding and Susan Wright.

In addition to the Chamber sponsored activities, there will be a Children's Theatre Performance at the Carriage House Theatre.

Retirement tour planned?

Fans of the World Famous Wayne Chickendale Dancers will be heartened by the rumors that the group may return to the Chicken Show and other special Midwest events for a retirement tour. The aging group announced its retirement after last year's show, but rumors persist that they will reappear this year. Carefully maintaining their anonymity with paper chicken bags, suspected members who are known to fit the rotund profile of a typical Chickendale with "neither confirm nor deny their existence.

Theatre group stages kid show

If you need a rest from all the eggshasting activities of Henoween and would like a place to roost for a while, attend the Children's Theatre presentation which will take place at 7 p.m. at the Carriage House Theatre in the Minschaft Mall.

Kim Imdieke has been directing a three week workshop for children in grades one through eight for the past three weeks. "The workshop was divided into two groups. Children in grades one through four met Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons and children in grades five through eight met Tuesdays and Thursdays," Imdieke said.

The group became known as "The Need-a-Name Players" and consists of nine children in the younger group and 10 in the older group.

During the course of the workshop the children talked about theatre, created their own characters and plays and developed original scripts. It is these scripts that will be performed on July 7.

The title of the play being performed by the first through fourth graders is "The Case of the Pink Sneakers" and the play being performed by the fifth through eighth graders is titled "Hidden Treasurers".

Assisting Imdieke with the workshop were Megan McLean and Jennifer Schmitz.

The production is free and open to the public and Imdieke encourages people to come and go (quietly) throughout the performance.

There's something here for everyone

If you're not familiar with the Wayne Chicken Show, there are some events which have been popular ever since the first annual event in 1981 and there are some which have grown in popularity.

Events like the National Cluck-Off, the Chicken Show Parade and the Egg Drop/Catch have always been favorites of the eggstravaganza. Some events, like the Great Chicken Shoe Chucking Contest, the Chicken Flying Meet and the Olympics have given participants something to crow about.

The following synopsis offers some insight into Wayne's most impeckable annual egg-citing show. Most events are at Bressler Park unless otherwise noted.

National Cluck-Off

The National Cluck-Off pits human cluckers against human cluckers in both rooster and hen categories (although gender isn't important). Each contestant must register for either the rooster or hen categories before the start of the event. There is a rooster and hen competition in both the 13 and over age group and the under 12 age group. Contestants are allowed to enter either as a rooster or as a hen.

Obviously, contestants will be judged on his/her ability to imitate their favorite chicken. The judging scores will be on a 0 to 10 scale with a 0 being a rotten egg which should be thrown out of the competition and a 10 being egg-stra, special, grade AA.

Contestants are also judged on four criteria: Authentic - do you really sound like a chicken; Vocal Projection - can you be heard across the barnyard; Animation - do you act like a chicken; and Duration - can you do this for at least 15 seconds and can you stop before 60 seconds.

The individual scratched with the highest total score will strut off as the National Cluck-Off Champion. Cash prizes are awarded for the competition.

Chicken Show parade

Parades have always been a favorite thing of the Wayne community and the Chicken Show parade is no egg-ception.

Participants in the parade commonly dress up their floats and give the audience something to crow about while some have been known to be only good for a chuckle. This year, according to local organizers, the Chicken Show parade has more entries than in years past and it promises to be scratched down as one of the biggest on record.

The parade starts at First and Main Streets and finishes at Bressler Park. Entries in the parade are judged on chicken-ness with the 1995 theme, "Chickens on the March."

Egg Drop/Catch.

One of the day's final events is the Egg Drop/Catch contest. During this contest, participants vie for top honor and risk egg on the face by attempting to catch a raw egg barehanded dropped from the City of Wayne's cherry picker. In this event, many eggs have perished over time but the enthusiasm for the event gets egged on every year.

The record drop, set in 1988 at a distance of 52 feet, 4-inches, has been something participants have only been able to peck at in recent years. For those unfortunate many who have to drop out because they dropped their egg or got scrambled by one, a bucket of water and paper towels are available for personal clean-up.

Chicken Shoe Chucking Contest

While the idea behind the Chicken Shoe Chucking Contest is not new, the chicken shoe is relatively new (except to prehistoric farmers who used to shoe their birds for hygiene reasons, it is believed, and that's where the Abominable Chicken, who resides just north of Wayne, comes from).

The chicken shoe debuted at the Wayne Chicken Show only last year. In previous years, horseshoes were used in a pitching contest but in 1991 some creatively-minded people at Heritage Homes invented the chicken shoe to replace the horseshoes used in previous years.

Although the purpose of the chicken shoe chucking contest is the same as the horseshoe chuck, the third toe on the chicken shoe makes the task a little more difficult.

Prizes in the contest are courtesy of Heritage Homes.

Chicken Flying Meet

This is an event that not all chickens were meant for.

The Chicken Flying Meet, sanctioned by the International Chicken Flying Association of Ohio, requires that all entrants must be of the genus and species of the Gallus Domestica. Only entrants in the beak of health will be accepted. No foul fowl will be accepted.

Better luck this year, for this contestant in last year's egg drop/catch.

In this event, the chicken is placed inside a mailbox roost prior to taking to flight. If the chicken does not take to flight of its own volition after 30 seconds, it will be declared a chicken chicken. The chicken that then flies the longest distance (last year's winner is still believed to be airborne) will be declared the winner.

'Chickens Indefinite' group to hold first annual banquet

Become a card carrying member of the Chicken Show tradition by joining Chickens Indefinite.

Official memberships are available at the Bressler Park Chicken Coop on the day of the show.

With few apologies to Ducks Unlimited and Pheasants Forever, the Chickens Indefinite organization was formed three years ago.

"Chickens Indefinite is dedicated to the preservation of chicken habitat and the reasonable control of roadkill."

Annual banquets have been planned in the past, but each has been postponed indefinitely.

However, this year a banquet will be held on Sat. July 8 at 5:30 p.m. at Riley's. The banquet committee plans to offer door prizes such as signed and numbered chicken art prints, a 10 gauge chicken hook, fox and weasel traps and complimentary memberships in C.A.D. (Chickens Against Drivers).

A group of special guests have already announced plans to attend the banquet. A World War II bomber crew whose B-17 was called the Screaming Chicken, has announced plans to hold a reunion in Wayne to attend the banquet.

The Chicken Show Committee established CI as a means to welcome larger groups into the coop. Membership dues are $3 plus a pledge not to be chicken about recruiting new members and having fun at the Chicken Show.

Chicken barbecue is popular

Nearly 2,000 chicken diners will be barbecued and that many or more omelets will be served during what some consider to be the most important part of the Chicken Show--the eating.

The Omelet Feed gets underway at 8:30 a.m. Formerly a free omelet feed, this year the omelets will cost a buck apiece (still cheap). Tickets for the chicken dinners are available from numerous businesses throughout Wayne and from the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce.

Dinner tickets are $4.25 in advance and $5.00 at the gate.

The tasty open-air barbecue features a full half chicken grilled to perfection along with all the fixings. The chicken dinners are served from 12:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Proud Wayne Chicken Show Committee members crow the praises of their new parade vehicle. The 1963 Cadillac, "Coope DeVille" has been refurbished and pressed into service as the official "Chicken Coope" for the show. The vehicle features a 9-foot statue of the legendary Sasquawk monster that rid the region of prairie dogs.

Parking hassles nixed for Show

Don't let the idea of a huge crowd and difficult parking problems keep you away from the 1995 Wayne Chicken Show.

Arrangements have been made to offer timely shuttle service from the Wayne High School parking lot to downtown and to the activities at Bressler Park all day Saturday.

The shuttle busses will also provide service to and from the airport.

Shuttle busses will be driven by Wayne Rotary Club members in comfortable, air conditioned vans. The vehicles are driven direct access to the park and downtown areas and make it easy to get around.

Plan to make a carefree visit to the Chicken Show by parking at the High School on West Seventh Street and using the free shuttle to get around.

be available this year as well. The caps can be purchased for $12.50 and come complete with optional "Poop a doodle do" attached. That's the stuff that's featured in the Chicken Chip Chucking contest! It's authentic-looking but is actually made out of caulking material.

Besides the shirts and caps, the committee will be selling other Chicken memorabilia at the coop in Bressler Park. Mugs, vicious eggs and old shirts will be available as well.

Poop a doodle do turns up missing

What's the poop on the missing chicken droppings?

Members of the Wayne Chicken Show committee are wondering who has made off with hundreds of hand-crafted chicken chips that were tiny sculptures created in silicone by artist Marla McCue.

The stuff is used in the annual chicken chip tossing contest held during the Chicken Show.

The chicken chips, which look remarkably like real chicken droppings but are made of brown and white silicone, grass and pebbles, must be recreated for this year's show.

In past years many of the hundreds of fake chips were pocketed by chip chucking participants who might want to use them as gags, committee members think.

Each one of the decidedly different kinds of silicone chips is a miniature work of art, said Mrs. McCue, who has been commissioned to resculpt what she calls "poop a doodle doo."

"If anyone has any of the old chips, please return them to the committee," said Chairhen Jane O'Leary. "The Chicken Show Committee needs to get its poop in a group again," she added.

They're back...

Showing the organizational skills and keen management ability that has made the Wayne Chicken Show a world renowned event, members of the Wayne Chicken Show Committee were photographed at a recent meeting where they pondered new marketing strategies for the show. As always, the discussion at this meeting was lively and animated.
