

Thirsty crops to hit farmers in pocketbook

By Claire Rasmussen
Of the Herald

The combination of an abnormally wet May and a dry and hot summer will result in lower yields, and lower profits, for area farmers.

May had moisture totals of 9.38 inches, well over the totals from 1993 and 1992 of 1.22 and 2.47, respectively. However, June had only 1.38 inches of precipitation, in comparison with 4.65 and 4.81 in the past two years.

July is currently well short of moisture totals with precipitation totals under two inches. The two previous Julys brought 4.46 and 6.14 inches of precipitation.

ACCORDING TO experts at the Northeast Nebraska Cooperative Extension Office in Concord, the result has been stressed crops, which will culminate in lower yields.

Bill Kranz, irrigation specialist with the extension office described the situation.

"Right now the corn is very stressed, but still very much alive. If we get some rain on a regular basis for the next few days we will have some pretty decent yields. Unfortunately, the forecast is for heat, not rain."

THE "HOT," dry weather has already caused some crop damage, however.

Kranz said, "For every one inch of water that is not available to the corn, we lost six to eight bushels per acre. We've already lost two to three inches of water our crop could have used, meaning we've already lost 12 to 18 bushels per acre. That means we've lost $40 to $60 per acre already. That figure is rising every day we don't get any moisture."

"I can't give any long term forecast about overall loss in the area, but I am sure it will be fairly substantial."

TERRI POST with the Consolidated Farm Service Agency noted that the alfalfa crop has been suffering as well.

"We've heard reports that the second cutting of alfalfa was 50 percent or less than the first cutting and if we don't get any rain, we may have a tough time getting a third cutting at all."

Kranz also commented that right now is the critical time for corn and other crops.

"Right now as the tassels are emerging, we're seeing the plants in a critical time for water availability. The corn with tassels already on them will probably be ok, but those without may have serious problems pollinating."

"The pollen will fall onto the silks and what we see when the weather is off is that the timing of the process is off. The pollen doesn't fall on the silks, or the silks are there and no pollen."

IN ADDITION to the problems of crop moisture, the lack of precipitation has caused other problems as well, Dave Holschauer,

'Pleasing' school budget seen

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

"I am extremely pleased with what we have accomplished with this year's budget," said Dr. Dennis Jensen in regard to the proposed budget during Tuesday's budget work session.

The proposed budget shows an increase of slightly less than $64,000 which is an increase of 1.34 percent. The total budget calls for spending $4, 804,431 up from last year's budget of $4,741,007.

Items that received attention in the proposed budget include curriculum needs, additional offerings and physical improvements.

A KEYBOARDING class will be team taught by Darrel Heier and Sharyn Paige to fifth graders during the school year. A Video Production II class will be offered due to high interest and participation in last year's class.

A work readiness program will be offered as part of the tech/prep curriculum. In addition, due to the district receiving a $28,000 grant, a School to Work Transition and Preparation course will be taught in the afternoons.

A study skills course will be offered at the high school and a study hall supervisor and study skills course for middle school students.

City asking for budget increase

By Eric McCarty
Of the Herald

Only one board member voted against the City Council's property tax asking increase of four percent this year.

Five members buzzed in the yeah while Verdell Lutt stood against the measure. Board President Darrell Fuelberth quickly voiced in the sixth and needed yes vote.

Four percent is the increase cap set by the state legislature this year. A state statute allows at least a 2.6 percent tax asking increase for inflation.

Pilger boy dies Friday

A six-year-old Pilger boy died of what police believe to be an accidental gunshot wound Friday.

Dustin M. Mulenex was at the home of a 10-year-old boy in rural Pilger when he was shot in the abdomen with a .22-caliber rifle. The accident occurred at a shed near the house, said Stanton County Sheriff Mike Unger. The deceased's mother was babysitting at the time.

The shooting occurred at approximately 9 a.m. Mulenex was sent from Pilger to Providence Medical Center in Wayne and immediately flown by helicopter to Marion Health Center in Sioux City, where he died.

Unger said he is awaiting autopsy results before closing the investigation.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at Kuzelka Funeral Home in Wisner.

City Administrator Joe Salitros gave an explanation. "We went to the full amount to maintain a small reserve."

The answer was not enough to win Lutt's vote. "I thought we had enough in the reserve," he said. "I could see taking the 2.6 increase."

"Why not just settle for what you need?" continued Lutt. "Why take the full amount?"

There's smoke; no fire

By Eric McCarty
Of the Herald

Many Wayne residents saw smoke coming from their drains last week.

But there was no fire this time.

A sewer drainage test utilizing smoke bombs revealed that some 69 improper openings are hindering the effectiveness of the city's drainage systems.

The test comes after torrential rains this spring overloaded the lift station at the Waste and Water Division (WWD). The overloading meant that storm water is entering the main sewage lines somewhere in the city.

To find out where unauthorized water was entering the system, smoke bombs were set off within the sewer pipes. Where smoke came out, water could come in and problems could then be addressed.

The city contracted Nebraska Rural Water to test a ten block area on the west side of town. What the preliminary results show is that there are a variety of problems from dry drain traps to roof drains flowing into the sewer.

DRY DRAIN TRAPS do not cause problems regarding the overloading of the sewer system, but can pose health problems to residents in the worst of conditions. Mert Marshall, WWD Foreman, said, however, that sewer gas levels aren't high enough in Wayne to cause serious health risks.

Hydrogen sulfate (sewer gas) is heavier than oxygen and begins to displace oxygen when levels get high enough.

"Sewer gas can come back [through dry drains], which could cause problems." Headaches and nausea can occur with dry traps.

Marshall continued that if residents smell "something like a rotten egg" coming from their sink, tub or floor drains then they

With less than a week to go before the start of the 73rd Annual Wayne County Fair, organizers are working to get the grounds ready and the events organized.

A general fairgrounds cleanup is scheduled for Monday, beginning at 6 p.m. "We generally have about 200 people help with the clean-up. After the clean-up food and drinks will be provided by the local restaurant and grocery stores," said Delores Felt, secretary of the Fair Board.

"We are asking people to bring riding lawn mowers and trimmers to volunteer with the clean up. This

Adopt A Student program gearing up

WAYNE — The Wayne Chamber of Commerce needs parents — 35 of them, to be exact.

The Chamber is sponsoring its annual Adopt A Student program in which area families help incoming students at Wayne State make the transition from home to college.

Students are matched with host families in the community. The families and students then engage in activities which familiarize them with the community such as suppers, movies or community or campus events.

Currently, the program has 38 students and three parents enrolled. Individuals interested in participating in the program should contact the Wayne Chamber of Commerce at 375-2240 or write to the Chamber at 108 West 3rd Street, Wayne, NE 68787.

NE Daylily Society gathers

The annual summer garden tour and meeting of the Nebraska Daylily Society took place in Wayne July 22. Members of the society from Nebraska and western Iowa began with a tour of Garden Perennials. The group also toured the garden of Wayne and Linda Anderson of Wayne.

In conjunction with the garden tours, a show of blooms that members brought from their own gardens was held. The display was set up in the barn at Garden Perennials south of Wayne.

is a non-profit organization which will buy the land and become a partner in the Ridgepoint Corporation.

THE NEBRASKA Investment Finance Authority (NIFA), which administers tax credits for the IRS, told Ridgepoint to lower their rents in order to receive the grant.

Carhart says the corporation lowered the applicant income level to 52.8 percent of the average Wayne income in order to lower the rents. This combined with the inclusion of a non-profit organization helped Ridgepoint to win the grant in their latest application.

The Wayne Community Housing Development Corporation

Carhart, Manager of the Construction Division at Carhart Lumber, says the labor and materials will come from local business, though no contracts have been signed yet.

Carhart anticipates that residents of the units will be working Wayne families. Applicants have to have a full-time job which rules out most full-time college students.

The 16-apartment complex should be completed sometime this spring, according to Carhart.

The IRS is giving money to, not taking money from, the Wayne community.

That is, they will provide tax credits to a local corporation for building and providing low income housing for Waynians.

The Ridgepoint Corporation recently received a $55,521 per year grant in the form of tax credits to build a $700,000 apartment complex on west 13th street across from the bowling alley.

Ridgepoint is one of only two statewide applicants to receive the tax credits in the third round of allocations. The other is an Omaha corporation which will get nearly $200,000 for their housing.

CONSTRUCTION should begin soon on the local complex which will maintain family income based rents, provided residents are "income eligible."

Scott Carhart, Ridgepoint Manager, explains, "You have to make no more than 60 percent of the income median for Wayne County."

"The average income is $29,800 for a four person family," Carhart continues. "People who rent can earn no more than 60 percent of that amount."

Ridgepoint, in an earlier application, set its rent rates at no more than 30 percent of the resident's income; or 30 percent of

Not a good message

Retail sales in Wayne are continuing a more than six month slide that sees double digit drops each time a new report is issued by the state department of revenue.

Meanwhile, local crop prospects are not good as continued dry weather lessens the hope for a harvest time influx of sales. Sales receipts in Wayne have dropped since city voters implemented a sales tax last fall to build a library and senior citizen center.

We still believe the facility was needed and the sales tax was the best approach to funding it.

We also still believe that the city should have followed through with its overture to rural residents by offering them free library services in return for the sales tax passage as Norfolk does.

But, most importantly, we believe the city should have made a more concerted effort, in light of the current economic picture, to hold the line on next year's city budget. Increasing city expenditures the full amount allowed by state law, which is what the city is about to do, is the wrong message to send to taxpayers.

It is the wrong message to send especially to taxpayers who will be asked again soon to approve a new Middle School for the community.

Revocation law causes uncertainty

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN — Nebraska's "get-tough" administrative license revocation law — designed to bring swift and sure consequences for drunken driving — seems nowadays to be causing nothing but hesitation and uncertainty.

For those of you who may not remember, the 1993 Administrative License Revocation Act — ALR, for short — allows the police to take your driver's license immediately upon arrest for drunken driving. You'll get a 30-day permit to keep driving while the Department of Motor Vehicles completes the paperwork, but then your privilege to drive will be gone for 90 days, on first offense.

The no-exceptions approach seems to work. So far this year, Nebraska has had its lowest rate of alcohol-related fatal crashes since records started being kept back in the 1930s. Through the end of May, alcohol had been a factor in 31 percent of 71 fatal crashes in the state. The June numbers are expected to drop the rate below 30 percent for the first time in history.

That compares with a 50 percent rate before the state made driver's license suspension a mandatory penalty for driving while intoxicated back in 1982.

"Something's working out there," said Fred Zwonechek, Nebraska's highway safety administrator.

Still, the state's judges don't seem sure they like the concept of ALR — taking someone's driver's license before they've been convicted in court of driving while intoxicated.

Some judges have ruled it's double jeopardy — unconstitutional double punishment for the same crime. Other judges say no, it fulfills the state's legitimate interest in keeping dangerous drivers off the road.

A few weeks ago, the Nebraska Supreme Court raised another issue — whether Nebraska drivers are adequately informed of what's at stake before they submit to a blood or breath test.

Lawmakers and law enforcement are all but gnashing their teeth.

"The Supreme Court is trying to make a point," said one out-state prosecutor: "It's hard to say at this point whether I agree or disagree with it — I'm not sure what it is."

Police in both Lincoln and Omaha have decided not to use the law until the legal cloud is lifted. In Lincoln, Chief Tom Casady has stopped using breath and blood tests at all because he fears the problems created by ALR will spill over into criminal prosecutions for driving while intoxicated.

Even Attorney General Don Stenberg — usually a proponent of throwing everything in the book at a criminal — has said the decisions are understandable. If it comes down to choosing between an administrative license revocation and a criminal prosecution for driving while intoxicated, he favors the criminal prosecution, he said.

Prosecutors outside the state's two largest cities say they won't advise their law enforcement not to use ALR. They'll fight out the constitutional challenges that are being filed in nearly every driving while intoxicated case.

Defense lawyers are chomping at the bit. Some have even threatened to file mandamus actions to force police officers to use ALR — so that it can be raised as a defense when it comes time to prosecute the driving while intoxicated charge.

State Sen. Doug Kristensen of Minden, the father of the ALR law, is understandably frustrated. The Legislature could try to take remedial action during the next session — but he's not sure what it will take to solve the problem. It could just mean more time in court before ALR finally results in those swift and sure consequences.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Letters

It's our right

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to a recent letter in your paper concerning Senator Schellpeper and Senator Schmitt's proposed bill on concealed weapons.

If Mr. Burriss would investigate the facts he would find that neighboring states like South Dakota and others have had the law for many years with no increase in crime. In fact, history shows there is a decrease in crime. Also those who get a license from the sheriff's office will have never committed a felony, and the weapon they use will have the serial number registered as well as listed on the permit.

Another false implication is that all those with a permit will carry a weapon on their person (as suggested by Mr. Burriss).

This is totally false! There is actually a very small percentage that do, probably less than one percent. Those whom I know with permits actually obtained them to carry their weapon concealed in their car. Now under Nebraska law guns must be carried in view, such as on the seat or dashboard. This is an open invitation for theft at which time the gun could be used for a crime.

With the influx of drugs, illegal aliens, increased felonies, rapes, thefts, etc.; and the Nebraska Supreme Court finding technicalities to retry and release second degree murders; and the inability of law enforcement to be where the crime is being committed, comes our rights under the Constitution and Bill of Rights: There is no doubt we have the right to apply for the "legal right" to carry a weapon for our personal protection. The key words that are being ignored are "law abiding citizen."

By the way, if Governor Nelson thinks this state is so safe then why are we taxpayers paying for his armed bodyguards. Shouldn't we have the choice to protect ourselves or family in a legal way, (quietly) as he does?

Congratulations to the Senators for having the guts to stand up for the truth, and law abiding citizens of this state.

Kudos to Wakefield

Dear Editor:

I am writing to congratulate the people of Wakefield on the recent Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) awarded to your community. Your hard work and vision have been rewarded!

As you know, CDBG is a Federal program which provides grant funds direction (to large cities) or indirectly through a state agency, for community development projects. The House Committee on Banking and Financial Services, on which I serve, has the oversight and authorization responsibilities for all HUD programs, including CDBG; therefore, I am interested to see these funds used effectively for eligible purposes. It is particularly pleasing to know that the funds are being well used in Nebraska's small communities.

The people of Wakefield are to be congratulated. I wish you great success!

Best wishes,

TV is teaching us not to think

Only two things in life are worth remembering, both of which I forget. This week begins the fourth year of this column. I do remember that Time flies.

If you're a TV addict, enjoy it now. Next year's commercials will mostly be political. Or is that an improvement over current programming? With so many running for President, television should make millions. Maybe commercials dealing with fantasy, rather than fact, could be charged double?

TV is experienced in handling fantasy. As the American Psychological Association study reveals, commercial television doesn't provide a realistic portrayal of children, the elderly, minorities, family, or much of anything.

Whether you're an amateur or pro TV watcher, you've noticed hardly anyone getting a sportsman-like shot-at being realistically portrayed.

TV-land depicts a bizarre place in which the participants are physically attractive; problems get solved within minutes; and only the Waltons ever think of saying grace before chowing down.

In this electronic fantasyland, no husband is true to his wife; women have few pursuits other than to strip-tease for sex-starved men; dysfunctional families provide the talk show glamour; after the first kiss, dating is equal to mating, and too often police are portrayed as dimwits who have to fire a weapon 50 times to hit the broad side of a barn. In what world were the script writers born?

TV parents are scatterbrained twits who have children acting like miniature adults, all scripted by Hollywood. Midwesterners (get used to it) behave like hicks on the grandiose tube, while businessmen are characterized as being corrupt. Ah! What a cesspool is society, according to the electronic garbage disposal with a screen attached.

God is only mentioned in this video world of "entertainment" when some slightly-dressed damsel attempts to shock the world swearing "Oh God...oh g-a-w-d!" Quite a religion.

Was it "The Golden Girls" that originated a constant communication by sexual innuendoes? Can the screen writers be a bunch of sex-sick weirdoes playing a joke on us? People seem to love the adultery in "The Bridges of Madison County". Welcome to Crud-land virtue!

Politicians competing to get porn off the Internet might well first censor porn on the living room screen. More children watch TV than have computers.

Does TV help us not to think? If TV-land teaches us how to think...God help us!

Vacations: no place for amateurs

There are certain rules and truisms that become readily apparent when one undertakes to travel (as in vacation) with a wagon-load of "young'ns."

I discovered (or rather was reminded of) most of them in a summer trip to the west this year.

It's ranch country out there and if you've a mind, the folks in those parts will help you remember some of the rules of travel, if you ask. If you don't ask, they won't bother you.

One of my travel rules is... "Always ask." It avoids embarrassment later when you get lost.

The hearty ranch-type folks out in the mountains of Montana have good common sense, and they share it willingly. But you have to go to them. They usually aren't found in the polished convenience stores and slick franchise restaurants in the larger tourist trap towns.

They are out there in the back roads villages with establishments like Maggie's Cafe and Thar's Feed. They are driving cattle to higher range along roads which weren't meant for tourists.

Stop and tell one of the grizzled old cowpokes driving a nice lookin' string of cow-calf pairs that his herd looks great and he's liable to say something like... "compliments don't cure saddle sores."

Words to live by.

"Don't interfere with nothin' that don't bother you," is sage advise and should be heeded in all aspects of life, not just when you're traveling with kids.

"When on vacation, it's okay to eat with your fingers—the food's clean."

"Don't take a busy highway when there's a trail available."

"Don't stop a fight until its over...even between siblings."

"The best way to convince a tenderfoot is to let him have his own way." (But, I'm here to tell you it doesn't work with seven year olds.)

"Folks that always ride at a gallop miss a lot of the fun along the trail."

"Most vacationers are about as happy as they have made up their minds to be."

"Strangers are moreso if they come from east of the Missouri."

These are but a few of the truisms of vacation travel which I gleaned and embellished a little this summer.

To this list I would add some tips specific to those who travel with youngsters.

You can play word games to help pass the time on longer stretches of highway. Figure out what the youngster is talking about when he points out the window and exclaims "there's one of those longhorn things" as he directs your attention to a Pronghorn. When you figure out what he's talking about and tell him he means pronghorn not longhorn, he'll likely retort, "Longhorn, pronghorn, antelope, cantaloupe, what's the difference?"

Have the kids count the different license plates they see from the different states. While the kids count license plates the parents can count the number of times one of the rug rats ask "Are we there yet?" or "When will we be there?" Parents will always win at this game because there are only 50 states.

If you are traveling without kids, stop and pick some up. There are always parents at every turn who are willing to loan, rent, or give theirs away. Kids make a trip so much livelier. No one should ever travel without them.

Don't be afraid to tell the motel people how many kids you are traveling with. Most parents think they will be charged more per head. Not so. You see, the more you have the more sympathetic the motel people are. Anything over three and they are going to have such empathy for you that you'll get special treatment like free passes to the local landfill and souvenir mugs.

A great game to play at Yellowstone is to pull off at one of those turnouts and have everyone in the car point out their windows at nothing in particular. But, boy, watch the traffic back up anyway.

Speaking of Yellowstone. If you plan to go there, here's a tip: don't. The ugly remains of the dramatic fire are still abundantly evident and the crowds are worse. The Grand Tetons and scenery in Montana are worth the trip, however.

Here's one last truism of life on the vacation road. "The west is famous for its many rare and wonderful sights. But the rarest sight of all is clean socks in a motel room."

total of $18,000 more than they did last year. An extra $13,000 is expected to come in from new growth in the community said Salitros. Salitros commented that this construction growth should actually decrease tax levies on current city residents.

Salitros added at the end of his 30-minute budget presentation that there was some confusion among constituents about how the four percent tax asking increase would be spent.

He pointed out that the $850,000 expected expenditure for the library/senior center would not come out of property taxes.

CITIZEN KEN SITZMAN asked just how much his taxes would increase with the new budget, and Lutt voiced a similar concern. "People keep asking me, 'Are my taxes going to go up four percent?'"

Salitros replied, "There is no absolute answer to that." He stated that there are variables involved such as increases and decreases in property values.

In separate measures, the council passed a more than $2 million total budget and an appropriation bill without objection.

Council approved the basic cable rates and equipment charges of Jones Intercable. The new rates have been in place for two months and the approval was stated to be a legal matter.

COUNCIL ALSO authorized the sale of a portion of a lot in the Roosevelt park area to settle a dispute among three land owners.

The 11 foot sliver is not close enough to the road to stop any future grading and construction, engineers say.

A discussion was raised about a moratorium on burning permits within the city zoning jurisdiction.

The matter will be brought up in the next council session.

Rainbow Riders host funday horse show at fairgrounds

Nancy Lunzer and Connie Thompson organized the Rainbow Rider's funday horse show on Friday night at the Wayne County Fairgrounds. Classes varied from barrel racing to flag team penning. The show gave many beginning riders a chance to experience a first horse show in a friendly atmosphere.

Many volunteers, including seven members of AAL from Hartington, helped in making the horse show a big success. AAL donated $600 to Rainbow Riders to benefit operating expenses. Hay was also donated by AAL member Cecil Andersen to cover a loss of Rainbow Rider's pasture. Junior volunteers were given the opportunity to ride any Rainbow Rider's horse in any event in gratitude for their hours helping the handicapped riders this year.

continued from page 1A literature for the middle school and a new reading series for grades K-4 added $19,000 and $25,000 respectively to the budget. Physical improvements for the district include the purchase of a new van and installing an underground watering system for the football field and track. Plans call for the installing of new lighting retrofits for the high school. The new system is designed to produce more candle power as well as provide energy savings. Concrete work will be done at the West Elementary and the middle school. The garage doors in the automotive area will be repaired. A new lightning closet will be provided for the lecture hall and air-handling units will be repaired in the high school gymnasium. "THE BUDGET is very conservative. Depending upon the other entities requesting funds, the levy may go down. At $1.22 per $100 of valuation, we have one of the lowest levies in the state for a school our size," Jensen said. "Other reasons for the small budget increase was the retirement and not hiring of several teacher, the special education costs are lower and we will have no major computer purchases this year," said Jensen. The sinking fund levy will remain the same in next year's budget. The budget hearing is scheduled for Aug. 8 at 7 p.m. at the high school when the final budget will be approved.

Hamer to play football at Dana

WAYNE-Dana College football coach Jim Krueger announced recently, that Wayne's Jeff Hamer will attend Dana and join the Viking grid program.

Hamer, who is expected to participate in track and field at Dana, was an all-conference football player at Wayne as a senior and earned honorable mention all-state honors in Class C-1. He is projected as a defensive lineman at Dana.

"Jeff can really get off the football well and he is very powerful for his size," Krueger said. "We think he can help us this year and be a real performer for us on the D-line in the future."

Carlsen wins in Hartington

HARTINGTON-Winside's Joel Carlsen couldn't be touched during the Trophy Dash at the Cedar County Raceway, Sunday night. He also earned runner-up honors in his heat race.

Carlsen, who pilots the number 65 stock car, is in his first year of competition in the Bomber Division at the local oval. Carlsen had earned 42 points prior to the start of Sunday's races at the Hartington track which according to race officials is a solid point total for a rookie.

Carlsen and the rest of the Bomber race car drivers will be in action again this Friday with racing action closing out the Cedar County Fair.

Midgets eliminated in first round of Area Tourney

Legion still alive in Area

The Wayne Junior Legion baseball team stayed alive in the Area Baseball Tournament in West Point by beating Pierce, 8-6 on Tuesday night. The Area Tournament began last Friday afternoon with Wayne Hooper-Logan View, 12-2.

Cody Stracke earned the victory from the mound with nine strikeouts to his credit while giving up just one hit. Wayne pounded out eight hits in the game led by Jeremy Sturm with two doubles and a single while Joe Lutt tripled and singled. Jaimey Holdorf smacked a double and single and B.J. Woehler rounded out the offense with a single.

Wayne was defeated by Blair in the second round, 7-4 with Ryan Junck taking the loss from the mound. Blair out-hit the locals 11-8 with Joe Lutt leading Wayne with two base hits. Jaimey Holdorf belted a double while Jeremy Sturm, Jason Starzl, Adam Bebee, B.J. Woehler and Ryan Junck each singled.

Tuesday's loser's bracket game with Pierce saw Wayne's offense pound out 11 hits including a pair of homeruns as Jeremy Sturm earned the pitching win in relief of Cody Stracke.

Jaimey Holdorf led off the bottom of the first inning with a solo homerun and Jeremy Sturm followed suit in the second inning with a three-run shot. Holdorf led the offense with three total hits including two singles while Sturm added a single with his homer. Dusty Jensen had two base hits while Jason Starzl, B.J. Woehler, Ryan Junck and Joe Lutt each had one single.

Despite scoring six runs, Pierce was limited to, two hits. Wayne's most prolific scoring inning came in the second when they netted five runs on Sturm's three-run homer and Holdorf's two-run single. The locals did commit five errors and gave up 11 walks but emerged victoriously into the next round where they'll face Tekamah on Thursday.

The winners bracket final will have Blair playing West Point on Thursday. Just four teams remain in the tournament. A Wayne victory would match them with the loser of the winner's bracket game on Friday. Wayne will take a 16-11 record into Thursday's contest.

THE WAYNE Midgets were surprised in their first round contest of the Area Tournament, losing to Hartington by a 7-4 margin, ending the season for the locals at 18-11.

Ryan Sturm was tagged with the loss from the mound for the fourth seeded team which fell to the fifth seed. Hartington out-hit Wayne, 7-6 with Jeremy Lutt leading the locals with two base hits. Robbie Sturm doubled while Paul Zulkosky, Brian Fernau and Ryan Sturm each singled.

Little League and Pony's end season

The Wayne Little League and Pony League baseball teams closed out their seasons, recently with the Little League Blue's leading the way with a 16-2 season-ending record.

The team ended their season with a double-header sweep of Wisner, 11-1 and 17-0. In the first game Adam Jorgensen earned the win from the mound with seven strikeouts to his credit while holding the opposition to just a single hit.

Wayne pounded out 10 hits led by Shane Baack with a triple and two singles while Jayme Bargholz blasted a homerun. Trevor Wright and Drew Slaybaugh each doubled while Eric McLagan, Adam Jorgensen, Ben Meyer and Kyle Minds each singled.

Wayne-notched 10 hits in the second game as well en route to a 17-0 win with Shane Baack earning the pitching victory. Bargholz was the offensive leader for the winners with a triple and two singles while Jon Meyer doubled and singled.

Drew Slaybaugh belted a homerun and Adam Jorgensen tripled while Kevin Modrell, Greg Schardt and Baack each singled.

The Pony League Blue team notched a 13-5 victory over Wisner with Robbie Sturm picking up the win from the mound. Wayne out-hit its counterparts by a 7-4 margin led by Dustin Schmeits with two doubles while Cody Niemann doubled and singled. Robbie Sturm laced a pair of singles and Tim Zach singled.

THE PONY LEAGUE White team dropped a double-header to Pierce to end their season. The first contest ended in a 11-5 setback for the locals with Jon Slaybaugh taking the loss from the mound.

Wayne managed four hits led by Ryan Haase with a pair of base hits while Daniel Johnson and Scott

Saul each had one single. In the second game Wayne fell, 8-3 with Dusty Baker taking the loss. Wayne managed five hits with Jon Slaybaugh, Joel Munson and Brad Hansen each doubling while Jeremy Dorcey and Ryan Haase each singled.

Winside girls win two games at State

The Winside girls 18-under fast pitch softball team went 2-2 at the State Class C Softball Tournament in Hastings over the weekend. Todd LaVelle's crew finished the season with a 22-9 record.

Winside received a bye in the first round and edged the Blue Racers of Nelson in the second round, 14-13 with Stacy Bowers earning the pitching win. Winside pelted 14 hits led by the Miller sisters, Jodi and Wendy with a triple and two singles each.

Bowers aided her own pitching cause with two base hits while Mindy Janke, Sarah Painter and Jenny Wade each doubled. Sara Marotz, Mindy Marotz and Monica Sievers each had one base hit.

In the third round Winside was defeated by eventual state champions Tecumseh, 9-3. Stacy Bowers was tagged with the loss. Winside was out-hit by a 10-7 margin with Sarah Painter leading Winside with a double and single. Wendy Miller, Mindy Janke, Mindy Marotz, Monica Sievers and Bowers each had one base hit.

Winside came back to defeat Columbus Lakeview in the loser's bracket, 10-1 with Mindy Janke earning the pitching win. Winside pounded out 10 hits while holding Lakeview to four. Wendy Miller led the locals with a double and two singles while Stacy Bowers and Mindy Marotz each singled twice. Jodi Miller, Jenny Wade and Monica Sievers each had one base hit.

In the final game Winside fell to Neligh who placed third, 3-2. Mindy Janke was tagged with the loss despite the fact Winside out-hit the winners, 9-5. Mindy Janke and Mindy Marotz each had two singles to pace Winside's offense while Monica Sievers, Stacy Bowers, Sara Marotz, Sarah Painter and Jenny Wade each singled once.

Saying goodbye is not that easy

One of the hardest things about leaving a place of employment that you've been at for quite a few years is saying goodbye to your fellow workers—in my case, fine folks who have put up with my shenanigans for many moons.

After all, if you think about it, you spend more time with co-workers during an average work week than you do your family because you can't consider sleeping at night spending time with the family.

As many of you know and possibly have read on a previous page of this edition, this is my final column, my final sports pages at this newspaper and my final chance to say goodbye and thanks.

I have had a lot of good things happen since I moved to Wayne in December of 1987 and I have met a plethora of quality people who call Wayne and the Wayne area home.

Some of the best athletics in the entire state happen in northeast Nebraska (contrary to what you might believe by reading the Omaha World-Herald) and I have simply had a pleasure watching and covering many of these fine events.

I want to wish the best of luck to my coverage teams of Allen, Laurel, Wakefield, Winside and of course Wayne.

I feel athletic teams in the Wayne area are very fortunate because they not only have a fine newspaper which follows them closely but they have an outstanding sports announcer in Mike Grosz of KTCH radio.

Mike and I have become very good friends during our tenure in Wayne and one of my proudest moments was standing up with him at his wedding. I consider him to be one of the finest sports announcers in the entire state of Nebraska and I know many people who share that same sentiment—good luck Mike, Peg and of course Ryan.

For Pete's Sake

By Kevin Peterson

I did happen to pick up a nasty habit while living in Wayne. I became a golf-a-holic. I'm not sure about the cure for this swinging habit but then again, I'm not sure I want to cure it.

My golf mentor as most country club members will attest has been Doug Rose and he's among the best when it comes to tutoring on the links. Doug, however, has become much more to my family than a golf teacher. He epitomizes the term friendship and a friendship that I know will last a lifetime.

One of the most exciting yet trying times in the life of my wife and I was the birth of our first child Britney. Aside from being born premature, she was flown by helicopter from Sioux City's St. Luke's Hospital to the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha when she was two hours old. She had her first major surgery at the ripe age of 16 hours and as many know, her diagnosis was cystic fibrosis.

Not knowing if she was going to live, the first several days were the hardest with a thousand different emotions taking place at the same time. Of course with both our families being with us, it was a help but there came a point when I needed to see a friend that wasn't family but someone I could talk with just to escape a world of fear, if only for a little while.

That friend was Steve Muir and he showed up at the Med Center the next morning. That short span of time meant a lot to us and Steve's friendship is another I will never let dwindle.

MOVING ON TO another topic of quality things happening in Wayne in the world of sports—Wayne State College.

I believe that Wayne State has become a national focal point for all Division II Schools for what they are accomplishing in the world of athletics and I believe that football coach Dennis Wagner deserves a lot of the credit for that.

Wagner is not only a tremendous football coach but a hard-working, honest person who cares for his players on and off the field. When it comes to intangibles making the difference, Dennis Wagner is atop the field.

And how about the job Mike Barry has done with the women's basketball program during his tenure—outstanding. It's nice to see in this age of gender equity and equal this and equal that, that Wayne State still goes out and hires the best person for the job and in the case of the women's basketball team there is no better person.

Although I've only seen one year of his coaching ability, I believe Wayne State struck another gold mine with Greg McDermott. His desire and dedication to the game of basketball as well as his recruiting abilities will have the Wildcats in position for more than just winning seasons.

Good luck to all the Wildcat athletic programs. I hope you continue to be Nebraska's premiere NCAA-II Institution.

SO NOW THE time has come to end this column, and to close the book on this chapter of my life. Beginning Monday, I will be taking over the news duties as well as writing for Huskerland Prep Report in Central City.

My wife and daughter will join me in late September when the birth of our second child takes place. Thanks to all of you in Wayne and the surrounding area for making these past seven-plus years so very special.

A special-thanks to my second family, the Herald. There is no other work place that exists where the people are as special as the ones I've had the pleasure to work with.

My hat definitely goes off to Linda Granfield, Alyce Henschke, Judi Topp and Al Pippitt because they have put up with me the longest. Running a close second is Bill Richardson, Teri Koenig and publisher Les Mann.

Kevin Victor, Diane Butcher, David Butcher, Tom Mullen, Eric McCarty and Clara Osten have also had to deal with me and I'm a better person for it.

I can't forget a few other special folks who I've worked with that have moved on like LaVon Anderson, Chuck Hackenmiller, Dave Diediker and Rick Kerkman.

Good bye my friends...

State Games Champion

Winside's Darin Greunke competed in the recent Cornhusker State Games and he came out with a gold medal in the Sporter Air Rifle Division with a 336 score out of a possible 400. Greunke is the leader of the Sharp Shooters 4-H Club in Wayne County.

Men's/Women's club golf tourney's

WAYNE-The annual men and women's club golf tournaments will take place on Sunday, August 13 at the Wayne Country Club. Entry fee for the event is $20 and all flights will be determined by handicap.

Championship golfers must declare before entry fees are paid. Those playing in the tournament will automatically be entered in a drawing for a men's and women's Bud Light Golf Bag. The drawing will be held following the men's championship nine holes and winners must be present to claim their prize.

Junior Golf Tournament slated

WAYNE-There will be a Junior Golf Tournament for boys and girls on Friday, August 11 at the Wayne Country Club. Championship flighted boys will tee off at 8 a.m. for an 18-hole event with all other flights being determined by age.

All flights will be nine-hole events. The boys and girls flights will begin at 10 a.m.

Jaycees to sponsor Heavy Hitters

WAYNE-The Wayne Jaycees will again be sponsoring the Heavy Hitters competition for boys and girls ages 7-13 on Friday, July 28 at Hank Overin Field. Winners of each division will advance to state competition to be held in Daniphan on August 12.

The four age groups and the times they will be competing are as follows: 12-13—10:30 a.m.; 10-11—11:30 a.m.; 7-9—12:30 p.m. For further information call Jere Morris at 375-5435.

Wakefield man to be inducted into Hall

WAKEFIELD-John Torczon of Wakefield will be among the honorees at the Nebraska Scholastic Wrestling Coaches Association Hall of Fame Banquet for being a wrestling official at many State Tournaments.

The Hall of Fame Banquet will take place on July 29 in Columbus. Torczon has officiated at the Nebraska State Wrestling Tournament for many years and has also umpired at the Statesman pro tournament at Rosenblatt Stadium in Omaha for baseball.

He is a social studies teacher at Wakefield High School along with being the head track coach, assistant football coach and physical education instructor.

Torczon began his teaching and coaching career at O'Neill St. Mary before going to Albion and then Wakefield in 1971. The Hall of Fame Wrestling Banquet became an annual event in 1982.

Theater group touts 'Godspell' success

The Wayne Community Theatre cast a spell over 500 people who turned out at the High School Lecture Hall to see the Theatre's latest production--the musical "Godspell."

Laura Straight, director of the production, noted that the crowd was about average for a summer Community theatre production, though it may have been increased slightly because the musical ran for five nights as opposed to the usual three or four.

Straight pointed out, that the crowd seemed very enthusiastic about the play.

"We've really heard a lot of positive comments. This is a different type of production for us but from the comments I heard, I think people really enjoyed it."

Straight accounted the play's success to the hard work of volunteers on the play.

"I really think I can give credit for the way "Godspell" turned out to all of the people who helped with it, including the Greenhouse and Just Sew who helped with the costumes. Of course, though, I have to really give credit to all of the actors who volunteered their time."

The next Community theatre season, beginning in the fall, will start with a one woman show entitled "Chix." Gwen Jensen will be performing.

The season will continue with a Holiday show, a dinner theatre production in January, a stage play and another summer musical. Straight commented that if enough individuals express an interest, the Community Theatre will plan other performances as well.

Thousands enjoy Carroll Fun Days, pullers

By Linda Granfield
Of the Herald

Almost 4,000 individuals turned out to Carroll Fun Days Events sponsored by the Carroll Fire Department on Saturday, July 22.

The day began at 9 a.m. with a boys and girls 3 on 3 bucket tournament followed by a free throw contest.

The events continued with a horse shoe contest. The winners included: Dan Orse of Winside and Dan Junk of Carroll, first place; Gene Jensen of Winside and Merlin Jenkins of Carroll, second place; Ken Hall and Rick Davis, both of Carroll, third place.

Races and games were held in the park from 10 a.m. until noon.

A firemen's water fight began at 1 p.m. with three teams participating from Carroll, two teams from Winside, Hoskins, Piiger, Battle Creek, Meadow Grove and Wayne. Winside and Hoskins split first and second place.

The day concluded with bath tub races.

In the evening, members of the Northeast Nebraska Pork Producers and members of the National Tractor Pullers Association were on hand at the Carroll Tractor Pull.

Among those serving sandwiches to the volunteer truck and tractor pulling workers and members of the Tractor Pullers Association were Dick Sorensen of Wayne, Rod and Linda Gilliland of Wakefield and Darrell Gilliland of Wayne.

A crowd of 3,500 individuals watched the 65 truck and tractor pulls during the evening. Pullers came from Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Minnesota.

The results of the pull were as follows: 5500 Super Stock: Jim Eckenrod of New Hampton, Iowa, first place; Glen Frese of Watkins, Iowa, second place; Tom Peiffer of Harper, Iowa, third place.

7500 Super Stock: Dennis Goodwin of Farmhamville, Iowa with a full pull and Mike Rhoades

ALLEN REUNION

Descendants of Henry and Elizabeth Allen are reminded to mark their calendars for the Allen reunion to be held at the Senior Center on Aug. 6 at noon.

The village of Allen is located in its present location because Henry and Elizabeth donated 40 acres of their land to the Pacific Town Site company in 189 with the stipulation that a railroad station be located on the land. If that had not happened the townsite, would probably have been three miles south-west of Allen's present location where a country post office known as South Creek was located.

SENIOR COUNCIL

Election of officers at the Senior Citizen Center was held. Elected were Denis Moseman, president; Earl Potter, vice president; Margaret Isom, secretary; and Elizabeth Anderson.

Outgoing members Marge Bock and Betty Chapman were thanked for their three years and Irene Rasmussen and Court Roberts were welcomed to the board.

The next council meeting will be Aug. 1.

an extension specialist explained some of the other problems.

"Beyond just the drought stain, I think a lot of the earlier problems we saw with the crops can be attributed to the weather."

"The weather has caused some serious compaction problems. The wet May encouraged people to get out and get their crops planted, so the soil got compacted and now it is hard and dry."

"Plus, we've seen more disease and things in corn, which was at least partially due to the weather."

POST SAID that some hail damage has caused problems as well. She mentioned that though the damage in Wayne County has been limited, several surrounding counties have noted substantial damage.

Kranz reported that dry weather has not been the only problem. Heat has also contributed to the present situation.

"I've read data that says that every day the temperature climbs above 95 degrees, we see a one or two percent loss in yield. We've had several days like that already. In part, the heat factor depends upon other conditions, such as moisture, but we've really seen both of them together."

KRANZ SAID that there are a few measures that farmers can take to lessen the consequences of the lack of moisture.

"Farmers who can irrigate have a big advantage but its critical that they keep their systems in good working operation because a few missed days could put the crop seriously behind."

"Also, farmers need to remember that weeds can put extra water strain on your crops. The weeds seem to be getting better at getting to the water. So I would suggest spraying weeds, or walking the fields. If its not too late, as it is in most places, they might even consider cultivating the fields."

"There's not a lot we can do, though, we'll just have to wait and see what happens."

Post reminds farmers that if they are experiencing substantial crop loss, they should report to the CFSA office and to their crop insurers.

"We're not supposed to have a disaster program but if we hear enough reports, we may be able to have an early release of set aside land. We've haven't qualified for that yet, but area farmers should keep that in mind."

Town meeting

Vaf VanderVeen, program manager of Wakefield Advance, joined over 700 downtown revitalization professionals, community leaders and volunteers in Little Rock, Ark. recently to discuss revitalization issues and to exchange information about revitalization experiences and techniques.

The national town meeting on main street, now in its ninth year, is the largest annual gathering of downtown revitalization professionals, volunteers and activists in the world. Over 750 people attended the meeting in Little Rock, representing 46 states, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, Canada, France and the United Kingdom.

For VanderVeen, one of the most exciting sessions focused on promotions. "People need to know what the Wakefield community has to offer and what better way to do this promotion," according to VanderVeen.

The National Town Meeting also featured the announcement of the five communities which have won the first-ever Great American Main Street Awards.

The five winning communities are Pasadena, Calif.; Dubuque, Iowa; Clarksville, Mo.; Franklin, Tenn.; and Shegogyan Falls, Wis.

In yearbook

The United States Achievement Academy announced that Carla Kemp has been named an All-American Scholar.

The USAA has established the All-American Scholar Award Program to recognize superior students who excel in academic disciplines.

The All-American Scholars must earn a 3.3 or higher grade point average. Kemp, who attends Wayne High School, was nominated for this national award by her teachers.

She will appear in the All-American Scholar Yearbook which is published nationally.

Kemp is the daughter of Michael and Peggy Kemp of Wayne.

Jeff Lutt of Wayne will receive the Barclay Annual Scholarship to attend Wayne State College in the fall.

Lutt, a graduate of Wayne High School, is the son of Mr. Denny and Mrs. Jean Lutt of Wayne. Lutt is a graduate student pursuing a degree in sport management at Wayne State College.

Youth Summit

Kent Thompson of Wakefield attended the Nebraska Youth Environmental Summit (NYES) at the Arbor Day Farm Lied Conference Center in Nebraska City. Forty youth, representing many communities across Nebraska came to the July 16-18 environmental conference.

The Summit brought together outstanding high school students in a professional atmosphere to learn, exchange information and network with their peers on various environmental topics. The Nebraska Youth Environmental Summit was conceived to look directly at the concerns of young Nebraskans and facilitate movement towards action.

A steering committee, made up of youth leaders and interagency representatives of the state, organized the event. The addition, a planning committee was established to represent students and adult sponsors from different geographic regions of the state.

Thompson has been a member of this committee for the past two years. The planning committee was responsible to identify programs and develop an agenda for the summit.

During the summit, speakers discussed the topics of agriculture, wildlife/habitat, water and waste management in relationship to Nebraska.

The mission statement of the Nebraska Youth Environmental Summit "Our youth can accomplish outstanding feats if we only give them the tools and the opportunity" was reflected during the entire conference last week in Nebraska City.

Olympic piano

Several piano students of Mrs. Marcile Uken of Wayne took part in the Nebraska Summer Music Olympics held on Saturday, July 22 in Omaha.

The careful carrier

Rural Postal Carrier Philipp Scheurich was recently recognized for serving the Hoskins area with more than thirty years of service without a preventable accident. Scheurich averages 95 miles a day on his route. He has gone through six cars counting his current 1993 Chevy Sonoma.

Gets promotion

Marine Cpl. Marcus Janssen, son of Richard and Georgia Janssen of rural Winside, recently was promoted to his present rank while serving with 3rd Force Service Support Group, Okinawa, Japan.

Sailors and Marines like Janssen are promoted based on job performance and proficiency in military requirements among other things.

The 1992 graduate of Winside High School joined the Marine Corps in June 1992.

Two participate in workshop

Michael Olson of Wayne and Jonathan Fritz of Laurel were among 36 participants at the 15th annual Biology Career Workshop at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The workshop was designed to allow students to participate in the hands-on offerings in applied and life sciences. The students participated in field projects and laboratory experiences under the guidance of UNL faculty.

Topics at the workshop included molecular genetics, animal behavior, how mice feed, engineering basics, insect anatomy, food technology, radio telemetry, how fish develop, biotechnology, virus diagnosis and identification, soil analysis, pesticide safety, blood cells, basic anatomy and bacteriology.

The workshop is offered through the College of Agricultural Sciences and Natural Resources and 4-H Youth Development, both within the University of Nebraska's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

The "Word" for the Week

Inner warfare and abusive behavior

Men and women abuse one another because of raging inner warfare. The Bible says, "What causes fights and quarrels among you? Don't they come from your desires that battle within you?" (James 4:1). I remember a fellow in Vietnam who lost a poker game. He was so incensed he rolled a hand-grenade under the winner's bunk. "You kill and ... quarrel and fight" (James 4:2).

The answer is, "You do not have because you do not ask God" (James 4:2). Any person who rejects God has inner turmoil. Inner warfare is bound to erupt in acts of violence. The results are child abuse and wife beating.

Let me tell you about a murderer who was turned around in his tracks. He knew God says, "You shall not kill" (Exodus 20:13). He went on killing anyway; until God convicted him. Then he said, "Once I was alive apart from the law; but when the commandment came, sin sprang to life and I died" (Romans 7:9). This murderer saw how horrid his sin really was; in the midst of terrible struggle he cried, "What a wretched man I am! Who will rescue me from this body of death?" Then the answer came, "Thanks be to God — through Jesus Christ" (Romans 7:24-25).

Who was this infamous murderer? His name was Saul. God miraculously changed him. He became the apostle Paul.

New Christian Men's group meets in Wayne

A new inter-faith fellowship group of Christian men will be meeting every Saturday morning in Wayne from now on according to organizers who recently attended the Promise Keepers conference in Minneapolis.

The Wayne Promise Keepers outreach ministry group will be open to all men whether they have attended a Promise Keepers rally or not, according to Matt Polhamus, who is helping organize the regular weekly Wayne gatherings in the Columbus Federal social room at 7 a.m.

Polhamus estimated that over 150 men from the Wayne, Wakefield and Laurel area attended the 2-day rally in Minneapolis July 14 and 15.

The rally featured speakers and faith sharing to help encourage more men to become spiritual leaders in their families and their communities.

Promise Keepers is an organization of Christian men originated by former University of Colorado football coach Bill McCartney.

Since originating with huge annual rallies held in Boulder, Colo., the organization has expanded to other Midwest cities.

Those who would like more information about the weekly gatherings in Wayne or the Promise Keepers organization may call Polhamus at 375-2225 or Bob Zetocha at 375-2623.

WEDDINGS

The Wayne Herald welcomes news accounts and photographs of weddings involving families living in the Wayne area.

We feel there is widespread interest in local and area weddings and are happy to make space available for their publication.

Wedding photos to be returned should include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bible school is held at First Trinity Lutheran

First Trinity Lutheran, Altona, held vacation Bible study June 26 to 30. It was held from 9:15 to 11:30 a.m. each morning.

Theme was "God's Special Agents: Discovering Jesus in the Bible." A total of 21 children attended.

Teachers were Angie Siefken, preschool and kindergarten; Darlene Frevert, first and second grades; Clara Heinemann, middle grades; and Pastor Ricky Bertels, upper grades. Marlene Ruskamp was a substitute teacher.

A pizza party was held at noon on Friday and in the afternoon the students and teachers went to the Wayne Care Centre and gave a program of songs and Bible verses learned during the week.

A program was also held during morning worship on July 2. The students then took home their crafts.

Dixon church welcomes new pastor

Forty members and friends attended a shower welcome on Sunday evening at the United Methodist Church. It was held to welcome their new pastor, Rev. Nancy Tomlinson, her husband, Rev. Terry Tomlinson and their daughter, Michaela.

The group was welcomed by Wilma Eckert and she presented Corsages for Missions to the Tomlinsons. Janice Hartman read scripture and led in prayer. Robert Noe played several selections on his accordion.

A short poem, "Of Course," was read by Velma Dennis before a skit was presented using the grocery items that had been brought for the family.

A guitar and violin duct was performed by Rev. Terry Tomlinson and John Young closed the evening's entertainment. Rev. Terry Tomlinson played several hymns before a no-host lunch was served.

Dixon County FCE meets; plans fair, other activities

The Dixon County Association for Family and Community Education Association (FCE) Council met July 13 at the Northeast Center in Concord. Judy Martindale, president, presided. The Friendly Neighbors, Merry Homemakers and Wakefield Happy Homemakers Clubs were represented.

Literacy Chair, Paulá Haisch, reported that Matthew "Sitting Bear" Jones will be the storyteller speaker covering native American tales at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 14 near the barbecue area during the county fair.

Judy Martindale reported that their local club is sponsoring a children's story hour on Tuesday, Aug. 15 from 5 to 6 p.m. at the Concordia Lutheran Church, Concord. This timing is right before the children's armband night for carnival rides at the county fair.

The hostess scheduled was finalized to cover the open class exhibiting area at the county fair. A former FCE Club, Artemis, is also helping.

The group decided to have a display at the county fair to commemorate the county extension club's 60 year anniversary. The county scrapbooks and club displays will be located in the open class area.

Deb Clarkson and Suzie Johnson reported that county officers and the county organization will be discussed at the Sept. 28 meeting. The 1996 program lesson descriptions were passed out.

Judy Martindale and Deb Clarkson attended the 1995 state convention in Broken Bow on June 7-9. They reported an interesting and entertaining program filled with workshops and speakers. Deb Rewinkel from the Friendly Neighbors Club received one of the homemaker education awards to help her pursue further education. The award is provided by the Nebraska FCE organization.

Equipment purchase

Rainbow World recently purchased several toys and pieces of equipment designed for all, including those who are physically challenged. The money for the purchases came from the Knights of Columbus who had donated proceeds from their annual Tootsie Roll Drive. The money purchased two toy dump trucks, a slide, a swing and a basketball hoop. Pictured above are (Top Row) Tracy Meadows, Eric Lehmkuhl, Christopher Petite, (Bottom Row) Darin Connolly, Spenser Meadows, and Shayla Ziemba.

Area Retired Teachers hold annual picnic

The annual picnic of the Wayne Area Retired Teachers met in Wayne on July 11 at 6:30 p.m. The meeting was held in the First United Methodist Church parlors.

After dinner, a special program was given by Nebraska State Patrolman Frank Peck of South Sioux City, who presented a very timely and informative presentation of his work with the drug program. He brought his highly trained dog, Rex, with him. Rex is of a native breed of dog from Germany but trained in this country.

Patrolman Peck told of the rigorous training the dog must endure and demonstrated how the dog is taught to detect drugs by various methods. After a question and answer period — a white elephant exchange was held.

The place of the Sept. 5 meeting will be announced as soon as the executive committee has made a decision.

There were 34 members, spouses and guests present.

Perfectionism ups and downs

Perfectionism may be good for Olympic figure skaters and brain surgeons, but it can be burdensome to people when dealing with everyday situations.

A perfectionist wants to get things "right" beyond most reasonable expectations. Perfectionism can be a positive trait if it motivates a person to do something well. It can become negative if the person constantly struggles to achieve impossible standards.

Perfectionism becomes a problem when a person spends so much time and energy trying to achieve unrealistic goals — or won't try or take a risk at all for fear of failure.

Perfectionism may be genetic or learned as a child. For example, a child may want to please parents and teachers by getting good grades. As the child gets older, he or she may study hard for good grades, but neglect social development. Perfectionism in school behavior may become so powerful that achieving good grades is more important than learning.

In certain situations the child may even cheat on a test to get the high grade. Parents often pass perfectionism to their children by their attitudes and expectations. Parents who reward children for perfection will teach them to struggle for perfection. Children who are punished for not being "perfect" may try harder to be perfect or won't try at all.

Cooperative Extension

Perfectionist parents also can have an opposite effect on children. A child may feel that he or she can never please Mom and Dad — because expectations are so high and unrealistic that the child gives up. This sometimes happens to second children, especially if the older sibling consistently achieves perfection in the parents' eyes.

Although it's good for children to learn to set high standards for themselves, it's better for them to feel satisfied in their achievements. Children who are never satisfied with their achievements often develop low self-esteem because they feel they are constantly failing and always think they could have done better.

Changing a perfectionist person is difficult and usually requires psychotherapy. This person has to give up high standards that have become overwhelmingly important and learn to be satisfied with less. The person must give up some control and face the fact that he or she isn't perfect.

Parents shouldn't expect children to be perfect. Teach children how to do something and let them do it. Offer extra help, if necessary, but give the child a chance to do a task well on his or her own and forget about perfection.

Also, don't force children to be competitive. Perfectionist children tend to feel they are constantly competing with someone.

Give children a variety of activities to enjoy. A child may do only one or two activities well, but should feel rewarded from the motivation to try a variety of things. Show him or her that the value of experience is more important than being better than everyone else.

Most important, help the child learn to be satisfied internally with what he or she has done. Help the children learn to say "I did a good job and I am proud of myself." These are the basic lessons the troubled perfectionist must learn to feel comfortable with themselves.

OES honors 50 year members

Wayne Chapter #194 Order of the Eastern Star met Monday evening, July 10. Worthy Matron Joanne McNatt opened with the poem, "Our Flag."

The Wayne Chapter will host the district meeting for Grand Officers of Nebraska on Sept. 27.

Star members will gather Monday evening, Aug. 14 at 6 p.m. at the Temple for a potluck dinner.

Members are to bring a covered dish and service. The regular meeting will follow at 7:30 p.m. A mock initiation ceremony will be held after the business meeting.

Officers of the Chapter participated in a program honoring 50 year members, Orval and Dorothy Brandstetter, Audrey Quinn and Rosemary Mintz.

Veryl Jackson was chairman of the refreshment committee.

The chairman for the Aug. 14 family potluck dinner will be Nancy Fuelberth.

TICKS AND LYME DISEASE

Lyme disease is an infectious condition caused by Borrelia burgdorferi, a spirochete that is transmitted by deer ticks. The disease is characterized by three stages that can overlap or occur alone. A red and inflamed "bull's eye" appearing on the skin at the bite site identifies stage one of the disease, which can appear a few days to a few weeks following the tick bite. This can be accompanied by fever, headache, and fatigue. The second stage occurs 2-12 weeks after the tick bite and involves neurologic complications, such as facial paralysis and numbness and cardiac arrhythmia. Stage three follows 6 weeks to 2 years after the tick bite, is characterized by arthritis in large joints, such as the knee. Treatment of Lyme disease with antimicrobial drugs will shorten its duration and prevent complications in later stages of the disease.

Concord is wedding site for Washington couple

Diane S. Olson and Issaquah, Wash., and Will E. Dykstra of Seattle Washington exchanged vows during a double ring ceremony held on July 1 at 2 p.m. at the Evangelical Free Church in Concord.

Parents of the bride are Arden and Ave Olson of Concord.

The groom's parents are Gerrit and Cornelia Dykstra of Lynden Washington.

The Reverend Bob Brenner of Concord officiated at the ceremony.

Music was provided by singer Julie Dickey of Lincoln, organist Beverly Dahlquist and pianist Ranae Fuoss of Wayne. The recessional featured a collection of Disney songs.

The bride wore a white, ankle-length gown of eugenia lace with a double shawl collar, chiffon rose and Vinice trim. The long flared skirt of the dress featured a lace hem.

The bride's hat was made of lace.

Mr. and Mrs. Olson

Open house to be held for 50th

The children of Erma and Eldon Durant are hosting an open house for the couple's 50th wedding anniversary. It will be held on Saturday, July 29 from 2 to 5 p.m. The event will be held at the Allen Senior Center, 106 East Second Street in Allen.

Your presence is your gift to the couple.

Julie Klenk of Minneapolis, Minn., a friend of the bride, served as Matron of honor.

The bridesmaids were Kristi Kuols of Laurel, Julie Dickey of Lincoln and Amy Hannenburg of Minneapolis, all friends of the bride.

Allie Teplikie of Issaquah Washington and Hannah Barker of Orange City Iowa served as the flower girls.

Candles were lit by Kristin Brudigam of Wakefield and Braig Olson of Wayne.

Rob Dykstra of Lynden, Wash., brother of the groom, served as the bestman.

The groomsmen were Neal Dykstra of Sumas Wash., brother of the groom, Brian Myers and Joel Schoeten, both of Lynden, Wash., friends of the groom.

Mark and Doug Olson of Concord, brothers of the bride, ushered guests into the church.

The men wore black tuxedos with hunter green vests and black bow ties.

Keila Olson of Concord and Cindy Dykstra of Sumas, Wash. registered guests.

Lori Brudigam and Joseph Barker of Orange City arranged the gifts.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Church basement in Concord. A reception was also held upon the couple's return to Lynden, Wash.

Dave and Sue Solson of Wayne served as the hosts of the reception.

The cake was cut and served by Mary, Cindy and JoAnn Brudigam of Wakefield, Maureen Lautenbach of Portland, Ore. and Margaret Dykstra of Lynden, Wash.

Alice VanDoornik of Midland Park, New Jersey poured and Becky Bloom and Christi Linn of Laurel served punch.

The guests were served by Gayle Olson of Wayne, Susan Brudigam of Wakefield and Becky Forsberg of Laurel.

Following the wedding, the couple took a trip to Sun Mountain Lodge in Eastern Washington.

The couple will reside in Bellevue, Wash.

The bride is a graduate of Laurel/Concord High School and Northwestern College in Orange City, Iowa. She is currently employed as a nanny in Issaquah, Wash.

The groom is a graduate of Lynden Christian High School. He attended Northwestern College and the University of Washington in Seattle, Wash. He is currently employed as a medical legal consultant in Seattle.

Do all parents struggle with sibling conflict?

Q. Nothing bothers me as much as the fighting and bickering that occurs from morning until night between my two boys. Do all parents struggle with sibling conflict, or does it result from our failure?

A. If mothers were asked to indicate the most irritating feature of child rearing, I'm convinced sibling rivalry would receive their unanimous vote. Little children (and older ones, too) are not content just to dislike each other in private. They attack one another like miniature warriors, mobilizing their troops and probing for a weakness in the defensive line.

Children argue, hit, kick, scream, grab toys, taunt, tattle and sabotage the opposing forces. I knew one child who deeply resented being sick with a cold while his older sibling was healthy, so he secretly blew his nose on the mouthpiece of his brother's musical instrument!

The big loser from such combat, of course, is the harassed mother, who must listen to the noise of the battlefield and then patch up the wounded. If she requires peace and tranquility (and most women do), she may suffer under the barrage of cannonfire.

Columnist Ann Landers once asked her readers to respond to the question, "If you had known then what you know now, would you have had children?" Of the 10,000 women who answered, 70-percent said "No"! A subsequent survey by Good Housekeeping magazine posed the same question, and 95 percent of the respondents answered "Yes."

It's impossible to explain the contradictory results from these two surveys, although the accompanying comments were enlightening. One woman wrote, "Would I have children again? A thousand times no! My children have completely destroyed my life, my marriage and my identity as a person. There are no joys. Prayers don't help--nothing stops a screaming kid."

It's my contention that something will stop a screaming child, or even a dozen of them. It is not necessary--or healthy--to allow children to destroy each other and make life miserable for the adults around them. Sibling rivalry is difficult to "cure," but it can certainly be treated by a parent who wants to make a difference.

Dr. Dobson

Answers Your Questions

Q. How can I teach my children the right attitudes toward possessions and money?

A. This is accomplished not only with words, but also by the way you handle your own resources. It is my belief that excessive materialism in parents has the power to inflict enormous damage on our sons and daughters. If they see that we care more about things than people... if they perceive that we have sought to buy their love as a guilt reducer... the result is often cynicism and disbelief.

And more important, when they observe Dad working 15 hours a day to capture ever more of this world's goods, they know where his treasure is. Seeing is believing.

Q. At times I feel I am overreacting to insignificant issues, and at other times I fail to respond to an act of deliberate defiance. How can I know when to ignore a misbehavior and when to confront my child?

A. The ability to "read" your child's thoughts and feelings is a skill that can be learned by parents who take the time to study the behavior of their kids. Ultimately, the key to competent parenthood is in being able to get behind the eyes of your child, seeing what he sees and feeling what he feels.

When he is lonely, he needs your company. When he is defiant, he needs your help in controlling his impulses. When he is afraid, he needs the security of your embrace. When he is curious, he needs your patient instruction. When he is happy, he needs to share his joy with those he loves.

Thus, the parent who learns to comprehend his child's feelings is in a position to respond appropriately and meet the needs that are apparent.

The Golden Years

By: Connie Distrow

What if you are suddenly incapacitated, for example by a stroke? Who will handle your financial and other interests? Unless you have prepared a Power of Attorney (POA), your family might have to retain a lawyer and publicly ask a court for authority to act on your behalf, a process that can be long and costly. In contrast, preparing a Power of Attorney, designating someone to act for you if you are incapacitated, is not expensive. Consult a lawyer as to the costs and typical provisions of a Power of Attorney.

When Helen Huntington Perrin was 11 she was excited at the idea of living in San Francisco's grand Fairmont Hotel where her father was to be the first general manager. Because of the 1906 earthquake, the job fell through. When today's Fairmont officials learned of her approaching 99th birthday, they invited her to celebrate with them at early 1900s prices: $10 for today's $750 suite, 30 cents for breakfast for her and her guests, 45 cents for lunch and $1.30 for dinner.

Wayne State hosts computer camp

Wayne State College hosted its first Computer Camp July 10-13 on the college campus.

The Computer Camp was sponsored by the Division of Business, and the co-coordinators were Laurie Johnson and Lisa Newton, WSC business faculty.

"Lisa and I were very pleased with the students' enthusiasm for computing, and we look forward to next year's camp," said Johnson.

Students from area schools worked with Windows, word processing, spreadsheets, internet, DOS and e-mail. The students also visited the recreation center and had an opportunity to explore the campus.

Students from area schools who took part in the camp includes: Micaela Browning and Nicole Browning, Bancroft-Rosalie; Joe Neuhaus, Bloomfield; Tamara Butts, Cantrac Jr. High School; Joel Kucera, Clarkson; Ellen Knobbe and Erica Schlickbernd, West Point Guardian Angels; Jeremy Johnson and James White, Laurel; Anita Bowder, Pender; Ryan Dohma, Alisha Rogers and Nicholas Verzani, Ponca; Matt Benson and Michelle Schwarten, Wakefield; Dustin Allemann, Jeanne Allemann, Ryan Allemann, Caitlin Blaser, Sarah Buryanek, Heidi Dickes, Kristin Ewing, Brian Finn, Matthew Jensen, Andrea Jorgensen, Nathaniel Lipp, Emily Lutt, Erick Lutt, Carla Rahn, Craig Rahn, Jason Rethwisch and Jesse Rethwisch, Wayne; Travis Wolf, West Point; Shannon Jaeger, Laura Neel and Aaron Vondrak, Winside; Miranda Chavet and Katie Dearhoff, Zion Lutheran/Plainview.

Area students participated in the first Computer Camp at Wayne State College earlier this month. The camp was held in the computer labs in the new Gardner Business building on campus.

First Trinity LWML holds July 6 meeting

First Trinity Lutheran Women's Missionary League, Altona, met July 6. Pastor Ricky Bertels gave the lesson, "Diversity of Gifts." The hymn, "All Depends on Our Possessing," was read.

The LWML Pledge was repeated as the mite box offering was taken.

Pearl Youngmeyer, president, presided over the meeting. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and the treasurer's report filed for financial review.

It was reported that five people from Altona attended the guest day at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Carroll on June 14.

The Wayne Zone LWML executive board meeting was held on July 17 at the Wayne Campus Center. Pastor Bertels was on the ballot for counselor.

The Fall Rally to be held in October was discussed. The theme chosen is "All God's Children." Everyone is to bring menu suggestions for the rally to the August meeting.

Darlene Frevert gave a report on the International LWML convention at Kansas City, Mo. in June. She participated in a service project at Bethesda, Shawnee Mission, Kan. and also participated in a puppet show at convention.

It was voted to pay for the church booth at the Wayne County Fair. Everyone was encouraged to help set up the booth at 7 p.m.

Aug. 2 at the fairgrounds. Workers are needed for the booth.

LWML members provided bars and cookies at the Wayne Care Centre on June 30.

The meeting closed with the table prayer and the Lord's Prayer. Bernice Splittgerber was hostess.

Due to the Wayne County Fair, the August meeting date was changed to Friday, Aug. 11 at 2 p.m.

Group I chairs are Famy Johnson and Marion Christenson, Group II are Arlene Benson and Helen Anderson and Group II are Vernetta Busby and Bonnie Bressler.

August hostesses will be Lisa Salmon and Barbara Preston.

CLASS OF 1965
Jerry and Edith Anderson of Wakefield hosted the Wakefield High School Class of 1965 at their home on July 8 for a 30-year reunion. Seventeen of the 37 graduates were present.

Those attending were Rod Nicholson of Norfolk; Daniel "Al" Schroeder of Allen; Rod Gustafson of Sweden; Diane (Salmon) Krehbiel of Salt Lake City, Utah; Jean Ann (Griggs) Sullivan of Omaha; Kay Gustafson of Elkhorn; Dick Kurtenback of Kansas City, Mo.; Dan Fischer of Aurora, Colo.; Dean Boeckenhauer, Lowell Johnson, Kathy (Moller) Muller, Ken Paulson, Jeff Swanson, Jerry Anderson, Gerald Muller, Tom Anderson and Tom Eaton, all of Wakefield.

ATTENDS WORKSHOP
Sue Nelson of Wakefield was among about 61 individuals who attended an advanced train-the-trainer workshop, "Reaching Rural Communities with Alzheimer's Education," June 29-30 in Kearney.

The workshop was sponsored by the University of Nebraska Medical Center, University Geriatric Center in Omaha; Central Community College-Grand Island Campus and the Lincoln/Greater Nebraska, Omaha and Eastern Nebraska Alzheimer's Disease Associations.

It focused on helping staff members meet the daily challenges of caring for people with Alzheimer's Disease.

GOLF CLASSES
The Logan Valley Golf Course sponsored a five-week golf class for youth this summer. About 40 young people took part. To conclude the session and see how well they learned the game, the classes held tournaments.

Amber Johnson and Brian Schwarten shot the low scores in the first class tournament rounds. Brindi Utemark had the best total for the girls in the second class, while the boys were split in two age groups with Andy O'Neill winning in the younger division and Ben Shattuck in the older category.

Potato leafhoppers increasing in alfalfa

Potato leafhoppers are increasing in eastern Nebraska fields, and the adult insects have been detected at the Northeast Center, indicating that they have recently migrated here from southern areas, said Keith Jarvi, NU Extension Integrated Pest Management Assistant. "Growers seeking to produce high quality alfalfa must actively manage this insect," Jarvi added.

Potato leafhoppers are similar in appearance in both development stages. The adults are approximately 1/8 inch in length while the wingless nymphs are half that. Adults are light green in color and nymphs tend to be a paler yellowish-green. They both feed with needle-like mouthparts which they insert into the plant to suck out the liquids. "This feeding disrupts the flow of water and nutrients and the symptoms are often mistaken as drought, disease or sulfur deficiency," Jarvi said.

"Hopperburn," or tipburn, is a yellowish discoloration of the leaflets that begins at the tip and progresses toward the base in a V-shaped pattern. Continued feeding may cause the leaves to become purple and die. Entire stems or plants risk death as a result of severe feeding, and newly planted stands (last fall or this spring) are especially vulnerable to damage and death by feeding. Older stands have a greater chance of recovery once feeding ceases, but yields will be reduced even if the stands recover.

Soybeans have also become popular feeding places for the potato leafhopper. Again, this feeding is evident by the tipburn that results. Damage is not as extensive, however. "We have yet to see a serious problem in Northeast Nebraska on soybeans from leafhopper feeding," said Jarvi.

To estimate leafhopper population, sweep nets with a 15 inch diameter should be used. Sweeps are taken by moving the net vigorously through the foliage at 180 degree arcs at several field locations. Take a minimum of 25 sweeps per five field locations, Jarvi advises. Plastic ice cream buckets or other devices may be used if a sweep net is unavailable.

"Unfortunately, research has shown that once the feeding symptoms on alfalfa become visible, significant damage has already occurred," Jarvi said. Harvesting is suggested as an effective way to kill the leafhoppers. "Harvesting will cause the adults to move out of the fields and kill the nymphs through starvation and exposure," said Jarvi. Weekly scouting through the season is advised as fields may be reinfested from other nearby fields.

Some insecticides are registered for potato leafhopper control and they can help protect the alfalfa for at least two weeks. NebGuide 'Potato Leafhopper Management in Alfalfa' (G93-1136) is available at local extension offices for further information.

Estimating corn rootworm damage

Within the next two weeks, producers may want to rate corn roots for damage from this year's batch of rootworms, said Keith Jarvi, NU Extension Integrated Pest Management Assistant.

Rootworm damage is evident by the presence of feeding scars on roots. Once the dirt has been washed away, scars will appear as a brownish "trail" along the root where the pest has fed. Significant feeding actually prunes roots away from the main stalk, Jarvi said. Iowa State University developed a scaling system that can be used to assess the amount of damage that occurred.

Taking two or more corn plants from several places in the field with at least 10 plants total will give producers a more accurate rating. Damage should be visible if roots are soaked for an hour or two before the remainder of the soil is washed off with a hose. The following scale is used to rate damage from one to six: 1 - no visible damage; 2 - feeding scars but no root pruning; 3 - at least one root but less than one full node of roots pruned to within 1 1/2 inches of the stem; 4 - at least one full node but less than two nodes of roots pruned to within 1 - 1/2 inches of the stem; 5 - at least two full nodes but less than three nodes of roots pruned to within 1 1/2 inches of the stem; 6 - three or more nodes of roots pruned.

Under normal growing conditions, a root rating of three or less will not affect yields. Root ratings above three may affect yields, but this will vary with variety, weather conditions and other factors. Recent studies have indicated that a rating of four will not significantly reduce yield in many cases, said Jarvi. "Even root ratings of five have yielded as well as undamaged checks in a few places when fertility and water were adequate." Lodging from the rootworm may cause harvest difficulties even without yield loss.

Jarvi suggests that rating will be much easier if done now rather than in the fall. "Damaged roots will regenerate and make ratings damage much more difficult later on," said Jarvi.

Boars: $26.50 to $28.

Leaf aphids increasing in area corn, sorghum crops

Although not generally a problem, corn leaf aphids have been spotted on corn and sorghum recently. These small, bluish-green pests reproduce rapidly and several hundred may be present on a plant at a time. They secrete a sticky substance called "honeydew" which may give infested leaves a shiny appearance.

"The corn leaf aphids will shed their skins to develop, and the combination of aphids, shed skins and mold which may grow on the honeydew can cause the plant to look like a mess," Jarvi said. Fortunately this is usually the extent of the problem caused by this pest. "The aphids are generally a problem only in severely drought stressed corn," Jarvi added.

Once tassels emerge on the corn, a combination of weather and predators usually eliminates the aphids. Jarvi suggests that these pests may actually be beneficial. They attract predators such as lady beetles and lacewings which will feed on corn borer eggs and larvae when the aphids are gone.

Abbreviations for this legal: PS - Personal Services, OE - Operating Expenses, SU - Supplies, MA - Materials, ER - Equipment Rental, CO - Capital Outlays, RP - Repairs, RE - Reimbursement, Wayne, Nebraska July 18, 1995

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners met in regular session at 9:00 a.m. on Tuesday, July 18, 1995, in the Courthouse meeting room.

Roll call was answered by Chairman Nissen, Members Beiermann and Dangberg, and Clerk Finn.

Advance notice of this meeting was published in the Wayne Herald, a legal newspaper, on July 13, 1995.

The agenda was approved.

The minutes of the June 20, 1995, meeting were examined and approved.

The Uncollected Personal Tax Listing dated July 13, 1995 was examined and approved on motion by Beiermann, seconded by Dangberg. Roll call vote: all ayes, no nays.

The listing of Delinquent Real Estate Taxes for 1993 and prior, and Special Assessments for 1994 and prior was examined.

Don Vopalensky, American Information Systems, Inc., demonstrated the AIS-150 optical scan ballot tabulation system.

Motion by Beiermann, seconded by Dangberg to recess the Board of Commissioners meeting and convene as a Board of Equalization.

Acting as a Board of Equalization Personal Property Penalty Protests #95-18, #95-19 and #95-20 were reviewed. Verbal testimony was received on Protest #95-20. No action was taken on the protests. Motion by Nissen, seconded by Dangberg to adjourn as Board of Equalization and reconvene as Board of Commissioners. Roll call vote: all ayes, no nays.

Motion by Dangberg, seconded by Beiermann to adopt the following resolution: No. 95-22; BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Commissioners of Wayne County, Nebraska that Section 4.12 Family Medical Leave of the County of Wayne Personnel Policy Manual, is hereby adopted effective immediately.

Roll call vote: all ayes, no nays.

Proposals received from consulting engineers for bridge design and plans for Projects BRO-7090 (13 and 14), Wayne SW were reviewed. Motion by Beiermann, seconded by Dangberg to accept the Speece-Lewis proposal of $12,000.00. Roll call vote: all ayes, no nays.

Motion by Dangberg, seconded by Beiermann to adopt the following resolution: No. 95-23; WHEREAS the current One-Year Road Plan of Wayne County, Nebraska, includes Project C-90 (13), the removal of Bridge No. 01215 located on 859th Road, Mile 565, on the line between Sections 29 and 32, T. 27N., R. 2 E., Deer Creek Precinct, 1.5 miles west of Carroll, and the construction of a dam; and

WHEREAS it does not now appear feasible to construct said dam; now therefore

BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of County Commissioners of said county that said project shall consist of the removal of said bridge and the installation of a culvert.

Roll call vote: all ayes, no nays.

The county's standard bid specifications for culverts were reviewed, no action was taken.

Saunders reviewed and summarized the One Year Road Plan originally adopted in February. Drug and alcohol testing requirements for CDL operators effective January 1, 1996 were reviewed. Motion by Nissen, seconded by Beiermann to request County Attorney Pieper review the requirements.

The following officers' fee reports were examined and approved: Joann Ostrander, Clerk of the District Court, $681.35; (June Fees); Debra Finn, County Clerk $6,928.35 (June Fees); LeRoy W. Janssen, County Sheriff, $657.70 (June Fees); Lorraine Johnson, County Treasurer, Second Quarter Report for 1995.
