

Week's rains brighten crop scene - slightly

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

While very welcome, this week's rains may have been too late to help some of the areas crops.

The Wayne area did escape the severe weather and heavy rains that hit parts of N.E. braska. Reports of up to seven inches were reported in the Creighton area.

Wayne weather observer Pat Gross reports that the city of Wayne recorded .57 inches of precipitation Saturday at 7 a.m. The city received an additional .56 inches Tuesday and .93 inches as of 7 a.m. Wednesday. Rain totals are measured on a 24 hour period that ends at 7 a.m. each day.

The total of 2.06 inches is the most rain the area has received since May 28 when the city of Wayne received 2.97 inches in one day.

"The months of June and July together as one period were the driest since 1936. It is a real tribute to farmers and the hybrids they plant that the crops were able to hang on as well as they have," said Gross.

THE NORTHEAST Station at Concord received 1.70 inches of rain. According to Charles Shapiro, Crop Specialist at Concord, rain totals in N.E. braska were "pretty variable but all the rain will help".

"pretty variable but all the rain will help".

"The water will help soybeans that have pods fill out. Those that don't have pods probably won't benefit from the rain. The same goes for corn. Those fields that were in moderate to good condition will be helped by the moisture. That corn which did not pollinate or has gone beyond the milk stage won't be helped by the rain," said Shapiro.

For corn that does not have ears and that which will be used for silage, the moisture will allow the stalks to grow taller. Producers have had concerns about the nitrate content of such corn and according to Shapiro, several Neb Guides are available to answer questions regarding the usability of this corn.

Shapiro said a number of people have reported production losses because of this year's dry weather.

"COMPACTION HAS been a problem this year. Soil that was worked when it was wet has become very hard. Because of this, the roots were not able to develop properly."

"There has also been a tremendous difference between corn that

Bye bye summer

No matter what the calendar and thermometer might say, summer officially ended for students and teachers alike this morning at 8 a.m. First grader Brooke Anderson and student teacher Jaime Melton attempt to contain their excitement Thursday morning in Mrs. Suehl's class at West Elementary School.

The hot topic today: we're back in school

Of the Herald

After several cool days, temperatures are again climbing, just as students head back to school. Higher temperatures and high humidity could force school officials to let students out early.

"At the present time, we plan to keep the students here the full day. We are really playing it by ear. If we have a sustained heat wave, we may have to change our plans," said Dr. Donald Zeiss, principal at Wayne High School.

"Our problem here at the High School is the fact that the bricks in this building do not cool off at night. We come back in the morning to a building that is as warm as when we left," he said.

ENROLLEMENT numbers appear to be fairly steady in the Wayne Public Schools. Final counts are not in yet but preliminary figures show 330 students in the elementary schools (West Elementary and Carroll), 310 students in the middle school and approximately 280 students at Wayne High School. At St. Mary's School, a total of 54 students are expected when school begins on Monday.

"Our numbers are up here at the High School because of a larger than normal freshman class. The first day is always confusing for the freshman but other than that, things

We get more than we give

Wayne county is one of 69 in Nebraska that receives more state aid than it collects in sales and income taxes.

According to a Nebraska Tax Research Council report, the states most populous counties including Douglas, Lancaster, Buffalo, Hall and Madison, paid in more than they received. On the other hand, counties with smaller populations such as Dixon, Thurston, Cedar, Stanton and Wayne, received more state aid than they contributed.

According to the report, Wayne county received $952,484 more than it contributed. Thurston county received $4,564,227 more than it contributed, Dixon $2,1189,712, Cedar, $1,885,933 and Stanton $1,355,786 more than it contributed.

The report used 1992-93 fiscal year figures and according to John Jordison, Research Council president, the information was not detailed enough to reach conclusions that taxpayers in some counties actually subsidize programs in other counties.

"Rather, the study merely provides a benchmark for use in the pending debate over property taxes. If you're going to shift taxes, it's important to have an understanding of where we are to be confident about where we are going in the future," said Jordison.

Jordison also noted that not all of the state's tax revenues and state aid can be calculated on a county-by-county basis. As a result, only 83 percent of the contributions and 96 percent of the state aid distribu-

Thought for the day:

School and education should not be confused; it is only school that can be made easy.

Orientation night is planned

WAYNE — Wayne Middle School seventh grade orientation night for parents will be held Tuesday, Aug. 29 from 7 to 8 p.m. The meeting will be held in the Middle School Library. This will be an opportunity for parents to meet teachers and find out more about seventh grade schedules.

Hosting coffee

WAYNE — The W.E.B. group will be hosting the Wayne Chamber coffee on Friday, Sept. 1 at the Elementary School. The public is invited to attend.

The famous school cinnamon rolls will be served and the new computer software will be on display.

People attending the coffee will be encouraged to visit classrooms and see the teachers and students in action.

Open house

WAYNE — The Girl Scouts of Service Unit 16 are having an open house on Aug. 31 from 6:30 to 8 p.m. It will be held at the Girl Scout Cabin on East 4th Street in Wayne.

There has been some remodeling and the public is invited to view the changes. The cabin serves the Girl Scouts of Wayne, Carroll, Wakefield and Winside every summer for day camp.

Registration will also be held for all girls, kindergarten through 12th grade, who are interested in being a Girl Scout.

Civil defense system testing

WAYNE — The City of Wayne will conduct the monthly testing of the Civil Defense Outdoor Warning System at 11:45 a.m. on Friday, Aug. 25.

Each siren location will be tested separately. A short oral message will be given to test the effectiveness of the public address system.

Immediately following the testing of the outdoor warning system, the city will test the Cablevision Emergency Alert System. This will mean disruption of both the audio and the video programming of every television set on the cablevision system that is in use. This test will last approximately 15 seconds.

Library to start new hours soon

WAYNE — The Wayne Public Library will resume its regular hours after Labor Day weekend. It will be open every day throughout the school year, Monday through Friday from 12:30 to 8:30 p.m., Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sundays from 2 to 5 p.m.

The current summer hours end Sept. 2. The library will be closed Sept. 3 and 4.

Nebraska tied two other states with the highest percentage of its 1995 high school graduates taking the ACT college entrance exam and still managed a fifth-place tie nationally for highest composite scoring average.

To Nebraska Department of Education spokesman John Clark that means "we have a solid performance by a broad range of students."

Localizing the figures for Wayne provides even more encouraging news as students head back to class for a new school year.

Here almost all students are encouraged to take the ACT test and the vast majority do.

Wayne's scores are traditionally among the tops in the state and have always bested the state and national averages by wide margins. The test scores are often seen as an indication of the educational success of a school system officials said.

Two other states, Louisiana and North Dakota, matched Nebraska's 75 percent participation. North Dakota's average score was 21.2. Louisiana had a 19.4 average.

Nebraska seniors this year had an average score of 21.4, an increase of one-tenth of a point over 1994. The 1994 composite of 21.3 was an in-

New police chief due in September

By Eric McCarty
Of the Herald

The Wayne City Council hired Lance W. Webster to be the new Chief of Police in a special session Monday afternoon.

Webster is currently a Sergeant for the Cozad Police Department and will be assuming his new post on September 11, tentatively.

The 39-year-old said he will use his first 30 days as an assessment period, but has no "hard core plans" for his new force.

Webster listed accessibility as one of his main goals. "I want to be very visible and open to the public," said Webster. "As the head officer in Wayne, the people have the right to give me their complaints, opinions and praise when they want to."

The council is currently considering a midnight curfew for everyone 18 and under. Webster said Cozad has a similar curfew, and that he would recommend one.

"I don't think it's a bad idea at all," said Webster. He continued that the curfew is not enforced when school dances and other special activities are being held.

Webster has a wife, Peggy, and two sons, Ian and Colin, 2 1/2 and 1 year old, respectively. "We take extra pains to make time for the family," Webster said. Peggy had more to add. "If he doesn't come home, we just go to the office to see him," she said, laughing.

This is Webster's fourth trip to Wayne, and he is excited about returning for good. "The town was something that my wife and I found very exciting. It's a nice little town."

Webster was born in Enad, Oklahoma, but spent much of his early days on the road with a father in the military. His and Peggy's parents reside in North Platte.

Wayne Mayor Sheryl Lindau recommended Webster to the council largely for his communication skills. "One of the priorities for me was that it be someone who was going to be strong in community relations," she said. "Someone that the community would like and respect."

Another shining qualification was Webster's community involvement outside of law enforcement in Cozad. He is a member of several groups: Volunteer Fire Department, Optimist Club, Area Kinship Program, American Heart Association, Chamber of Commerce, Development Corporation, and American Lutheran Church.

Mrs. Lindau, who chose to recommend Webster from three finalists, said all finalists were highly qualified. "It was a hard decision," she said.

For one; for all

An extensive research report issued last week by the independent Nebraska Tax Research Council could add more fuel to the growing prairie fire which is dividing rural and urban sectors of our state.

The report indicates quantifies the none-too-surprising fact that the most populated areas of the state, namely Omaha and Lincoln, contribute more in tax revenues to run the state government and services than they get back in state aid and expenditures.

There is a natural tendency after a report like this, for the populated areas to start clamoring for their state senators to divide the pie up differently so that bigger and bigger pieces go to those places that produce the most revenue.

This could easily be accomplished since the most populous counties in the state own most of the votes in the state senate.

It is important to consider the whole state picture when reading reports like this. It is important to avoid taking reports like this as face value examples of tax and spend inequities.

It would be dangerously parochial for one sector of the state to try to win greater shares of the state expenditure pie based simply on population. A state dollar spent in remote Sioux County for an access road to one of Nebraska's wilderness areas would argue is more beneficial to the residents of the Lincoln and Omaha than it would be to the ranchers who live there and have to put up with increased tourism traffic.

In a similar way, a state dollar spent in Wayne to support Wayne State College benefits more than just the residents of Wayne County. It benefits all the residents of the state who send their students here for an education and who look forward to a well-educated work force for the future economic health of the state.

We must remember as residents of this diverse state that in matters of state expenditures, what benefits one, benefits all, no matter where it is spent.

Senators stir with summer work

By Melvin Paul
Statehouse Correspondent

LINCOLN — Almost two months after the end of the 1995 legislative session, state senators are finally beginning to stir again.

Two legislative committees are hitting the road to gather public comment about bills that are expected to generate some hot debate next year.

One is the attempt to equalize the playing field for users of ground water and water from rivers and streams.

A public hearing on that bill last week in Kearney generated a bushel of complaints from farmers who rely on center-pivot irrigation for their livelihoods.

They maintained, in no uncertain terms, that Legislative Bill 108 — the conjunctive use bill — was unnecessary. Threats that the state of Kansas would sue Nebraska if it doesn't pass the bill are overblown, they maintained.

Allowing shutdowns of center-pivot irrigation systems when nearby river flows run low, they added, threatens the very backbone of the state's billion-dollar irrigated crop industry.

Backers of LB 108 say that farmers have been misinformed. The restrictions would be used rarely, and only in a few areas where the pumping of underground water has harmed the flows of nearby rivers.

The Republican River valley is an example. Flows in the river have been declining steadily over the years.

Kansas, which has a compact with Nebraska to send so much water down the Republican, says

Nebraska has not been meeting its obligations. That state has been making loud noises about filing a lawsuit like the one that they recently won against the state of Colorado over flows in the Arkansas River.

Backers of LB 108, led by State Sen. Chris Beutler of Lincoln, say that Nebraska would be much better off resolving the problem on its own rather than face court-ordered restrictions on irrigation and the possibility of a multi-million dollar payment to Kansas.

The prospect of a "water war" was raised during the hearing in Kearney, which only illustrates how much more talking will be needed before such a bill can pass in the Legislature.

Two controversial topics in health care will also be the topic of hearings this summer.

The Legislature's Health and Human Services Committee has scheduled hearings in Scottsbluff and Omaha about the impact of private corporations' purchases of hospitals in those two cities.

In Omaha, the University of Nebraska Medical Center is locked in a legal battle with the giant health care corporation Columbia HCl over Columbia's proposed purchase of Clarkston Hospital.

In Scottsbluff, owners of the Regional West Medical Center are seeking bids from private companies for a buyout.

Some senators expressed concern about the prospect of medical care being delivered for a profit rather than merely for the public good. Others argue that corporate ownership only improves competition and thus can lower healthcare costs.

Private ownership of hospitals is a trend that has already swept across most of the country and is just now coming to Nebraska, where only two hospitals (in the Omaha area) are corporate owned.

Senators will also be gathering input about alternative forms of health care, like herbal treatment and chelation, the treating of illnesses through blood transfusions.

People swear that these sometimes wacky forms of medicine work, and insurance companies are starting to look at them as a lower cost form of making people well. Doctors, of course, fear the competition from what they consider less-qualified practitioners.

And, for real controversy, senators will soon be hitting the road for hearings on that most talked about subject, property taxes. We should have plenty to talk about until next January.

The views expressed in Capitol News are those of the writer and not necessarily those of the Nebraska Press Association.

Everyone's got a lottery dream

Bill, how many lotto tickets did you get?
"Just ten since I need money for rent and groceries too."
"That's ten bucks!"
"Yeah, but I'm Harry! Buyin' lotto tickets is the gateway to my biggest dream! Think what $30 million would do!"
"It's paid over 20 years. You'd get about $1.5 mil a year!"
"Now, cause the government would help themselves before I ever saw it."
"You'd still get lotsa dough though, Uncle Sam didn't get too greedy."
"I suppose."

What are your chances of winning anyway?
"About one in 55 million, but I keep dreamin' of what a kick it would be to win!"
"And just how would you get your kicks, Bill?"
"I've got a secret hanker, a big dream! Everybody does. Since I was a little boy I've had to work extra hard."
"Bet I know your dream! Bet you would like to just lazy in the sun!"
"Nope! Oh, if I won, things would change, of course. I'd buy a new car, travel a bit, pay off my debts, and have a house."
"Your in-laws would likely drive you crazy!

"No problems there. We get along great! No, my secret hanker ain't against my kin. Us somethin' else I've always dreamed of."

Bill, for Pete's sake, to hear you tell it, you've got this one gargantuan, gosh-awful desire lurking around your brain. Out with it!
"If I tell you it could come back to cause me trouble! They always sez what goes around comes around."
"O.K., O.K., if you don't want to tell me how you'd get your biggest bang with that $30 mil, forget it!"

Good therapy on this moral soapbox

One of the truly enjoyable things about this job we call newspaper editing is the obligation to express your views on all manner of subjects in this space on a weekly basis. I call it my weekly tirade. I take the other day that people who read whatever chance they are provided to energetically express their views, tend to have fewer mental problems. Getting it off your chest is good therapy most any professional counselor will tell you. This is my weekly opportunity to get a therapeutic spleen venting. I have been fidgeting with weeks about how to respond to a recent column Merlin Wright published in this paper in which he cited Biblical principles to support his argument in favor of the death penalty. I am obviously not as well versed as Merlin in scriptural knowledge but I always believed my Sunday school teachers who said Christ changed a lot of the Old Testament doctrines when he came to live among us the first time. One of those doctrines he tried to change was the idea of capital punishment. When the crowd wanted to stone the adulteress, as had been the Biblical custom, Christ told them that the person without sin should cast the first stone. To me, this scriptural story means I can't ever argue for capital punishment. I can't pass the criteria for throwing the first stone (or electrical switch).

Mann Overboard

By Les Mann

Okay, while I'm on my therapeutic soapbox, I might as well aim a tirade about idiotic attitudes about physical beauty. Soybeans. They are the answer to the quest for big breasts. At least that is what we are being told by a Swiss plastic surgeon who plans to market a soy-based breast implant for women who want bigger bosoms. I am pleased to see new uses developed for an important agricultural commodity grown in abundance in our region, and I am pleased to learn that the soy implants should prove to be much safer for women than the old silicone enlargers used previously. However, I still find it sad that we place such importance in our society on physical beauty and we have developed such an unnatural attitude about female attractiveness that women will risk their health to try to fit the bigger busted mold we men have carved out for them. It's not right that women should have to feel inferior or incomplete because of breast size or even because of breast loss due to surgery. But they do have those feelings because we men have created a false image of feminine beauty. We have purchased too many pornographic magazines and videos. We have been wrongly conditioned to believe that bigger is better. And we, in turn, have convinced our sisters so well, that millions of them are willing to risk their very lives to try to please us. We should all forget the soy and the silicone. Natural beauty is much more than physical sizes and shapes. I was saddened to learn that Shannon Faulkner gave up last week. In her effort to become the first woman cadet to enroll and graduate from the all-male military academy, The Citadel, she couldn't meet the physical demands. I was angered to read the reports which recounted the school's efforts to keep her out and to force her out once the courts ordered she should be admitted. Galling was the picture of boorish cadets rejoicing and celebrating Miss Faulkner's failure. Those jerks must certainly be headed for careers as Navy Tailhook flyers or maybe senators from Oregon. Many years ago I interviewed and followed the efforts of one of the first women cadets to be admitted to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. She was from the town in which I worked. In that case the woman was treated with respect and the school officials worked to help her and other female cadets succeed. West Point officials knew the valuable contribution women officers could make to the military and they wanted to make the system fair but not purposefully unbearable for the new female cadets. The woman who was academy career I reported on always said her experience was tough but rewarding and she always spoke with a great deal of respect and admiration for the institution and her fellow cadets. I doubt Shannon Faulkner can express the same sentiments about her experience.

JEFF SUTTER will be teaching third grade at West Elementary. A native of Eaton, Colo., Sutter graduated in May from Doane College in Crete with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Elementary and Special Education. He student taught at Seward and Lincoln.

This is Sutter's first year of teaching. He will also be coaching freshman girls' basketball.

Sutter played baseball at Doane and said that during his four years in college, he grew to like Nebraska.

Sutter feels more and more men are going into elementary education and feels they provide students with positive role models.

In his spare time he enjoys baseball, golf basketball and skiing.

LAURIE HANNA will be the Special Education teacher at the Middle School. Ms. Hanna returns to the Wayne School system after living in Framingham, Mass. for two years while her husband Fred obtained his doctorate degree.

During this time, Ms. Hanna taught one year in Framingham. She is a graduate of the University of Arkansas and taught at West Elementary for two years before moving to Framingham.

Her husband is the band and orchestra director at Wayne State College. The Hannas are the parents of two children, Kristin, age two and one-half and Kevin, four months.

SCOTT LEPKE will be teaching seventh and eighth grade U.S. History at the Middle School.

A native of Mitchell, S.D., Lepke came to Wayne from Marshall, Minn. He graduated from Southwest State University where he received a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Political Science. This will be his first year of teaching.

In addition to his teaching duties, Lepke will be the head junior high wrestling coach and the assistant junior high football coach.

Lepke's wife Sarah is employed at the Tower School.

In his spare time, he enjoys wood carving and all types of sports activities.

SANDI DORCEY will teach Keyboarding to fifth and sixth graders as well as coordinate the School to Work program which is being funded through a grant from the federal government.

Mrs. Dorcey received her Bachelor of Arts in Business Education degree from Wayne State College in May. Her husband Kevin is a team leader at Great Dane. The couple has three children, Sarah, 14, Bridget, 12 and Blake, 7.

In her spare she enjoys spending time with her family and attending her children's activities.

THE ONLY new teacher at St. Mary's School is Rebecca Onderstal who will be the fifth and sixth grade teacher as well as being head teacher.

Mrs. Onderstal is a graduate of Wayne High School and Wayne State College. She taught for five years at West Catholic School in Fordyce and did substitute teaching for a number of years.

Mrs. Onderstal and her husband Patrick, who works at Great Dane Trailers and farms, have two sons, Sheldon, six and Seth, two and one-half.

In her spare time, she enjoys cooking, walking and riding bikes.

Fairgrounds Avenue.

City Administrator Joe Salitros said the sales-tax-funded project should improve conditions during heavy rainstorms. "This should relieve the flooding of intersections and central business section around Logan Street," said Salitros.

The project was one of three large projects included in a sales tax presentation in 1994.

The removing and resetting of the current sewer main began at Fairgrounds Avenue and will continue north to the intersection of 2nd and Nebraska streets.

New pipe will be laid for one block west of 2nd and Nebraska and north to third street, which will join two main sections. Salitros said streets involved will be closed as needed.

Affected businesses will be contacted by the city before roads are closed.

The $250,000 construction will be conducted by Concrete Specialty of South Sioux City.

Laurie Hanna, left, is the new Special Education teacher at Wayne Middle School. Scott Lepke will be teaching seventh and eighth grade U.S. History.

lege preparatory courses or core courses.

ACT officials define a core program as one that includes four or more years of English and three or more each of social studies, science and mathematics. The ACT is designed to test students' abilities in the core program.

Figures showed that 56.3 percent of the Nebraska students who took the test in 1995 met the standards of an ACT core program, compared with 53.5 percent in 1994, 51.3 percent in 1993 and 49.6 percent in 1992.

Wayne's core students have also traditionally scored well above state and national averages on the test. In 1994 Wayne's Core students logged a 26.3 score compared with 22.7 for the state and 22.0 for the nation.

There has been a gradual increase since 1986 in the percentage of Nebraska students taking the ACT who were enrolled in a core program.

Nebraska's 1995 score still lags behind the state's 1988 average of 21.6. The state's score dropped to 21.4 in 1989 and fell to 21.2 in 1990, a level where it remained until last year.

Gilsdorf said he was uncertain why the ACT score dropped in 1989 and 1990. The percentage of students enrolled in core courses grew in those years, too.

However, he said it can take a number of years for increases in the percentage of students taking core courses to result in a higher state composite score.

increase of one-tenth of point over 1993. Wayne's scores were a full point above those.

The 36-point exam tests English, math, reading and science reasoning.

Nebraska's 1995 score tied for fifth highest with Colorado and Utah.

Among the 25 states where 50 percent or more of graduating seniors took the test, Wisconsin had the top average at 22.0, followed by Minnesota at 21.9 and Iowa tied with Montana at 21.8. Iowa and Wisconsin led the nation a year ago.

The national composite average remained steady this year at 20.8.

Jack Gilsdorf, a Nebraska Department of Education consultant, speculated that increases in Nebraska's score the past two years were because a higher percentage of students tested were enrolled in col-tions could be allocated on that basis.

Local tax revenues such as property and local sales taxes also were not included in the report Jordison said.

Jordison predicts property taxes will likely dominate the 1996 Legislature. Several petition drives also are expected as lawmakers and the public push to get a proposal on the November 1996 ballot.

OTC Antihistamines and Drowsiness

Over-the-counter (OTC) antihistamines are useful in many health problems, especially allergic conditions such as hayfever. They can cause drowsiness, and some are valuable as sleep aids. However, all OTC antihistamines do not cause the same degree of drowsiness.

There are three major chemical classes of OTC antihistamines. Antihistamines in the ethanolamine class tend to be the most sedating. This class includes diphenhydramine, clemastine, and doxylamine. On the other hand, antihistamines in the alkylamine class tend to cause little sedation. This class includes brompheniramine, chlorpheniramine, and triprolidine. The third class ethylenediamine, contains the antihistamines pyrilamine and thonzylamine which cause an intermediate degree of drowsiness.

Coaches smiling over team's commitment

By Les Mann
Of the Herald

There's a little sparkle in Lonnie Ehrhardt's eye these days. Ehrhardt, Wayne High's head football coach, said he is excited about the team he will be putting on the field in a little over a week against Schuyler. He is also excited about showing off the progress Blue Devils have made in preparation for the season.

The community will have the opportunity to see a sneak preview of the 1995 football team during Friday's Pop Scrimmage at the high school beginning at approximately 6:15 p.m. General admission is a can of pop.

The coach is openly pleased with the hard work, commitment and leadership his veterans have shown in preseason practices. Their desire to succeed has been displayed in the intensity at their practice sessions even during triple digit heat index days.

Ehrhardt is even happy about the heat conditions during practices.

"The heat is beneficial because of the added conditioning," he said. He said the effort his players have put out during the current hot weather will be reflected in every fourth quarter throughout the season. Many games are won in the fourth quarter, he said during practice this week.

Ehrhardt encouraged everyone to view the 1995 edition of the team during the annual pop scrimmage Friday.

He said not only will varsity plays be run during the scrimmage but the community will get to see a talented and large freshman squad perform as well.

The freshman class has the coach smiling too. The large group of talented freshmen has the coach excited about the future. Fifty five Wayne boys are out for football this year, up from about 48 in most years, said the coach. He said the unusually large freshman class is the main reason for the increase.

Looking down the road even farther, Ehrhardt said he is also pleased with the talent levels and numbers he sees in the junior high ranks and predicts an extended period of very competitive programs for the Wayne, not just in athletics but in music and drama as well.

"I just really feel pretty good about things," said the coach referring to both the present and the future.

For the present, Ehrhardt said his football team will be ready mentally and physically for its opener.

He said a strong point for the team is the leadership and experience back from last year's 7-3 squad.

"That carry over is very important and we see it in the leadership and commitment at practice," he said.

The coach added that the team is well disciplined and been fortunate to make it thus far through the preseason without any major injuries.

Sports editor starts Aug. 29

A new sports editor will be on the job for the Wayne Herald beginning Tuesday, Aug. 29, it was announced this week.

Korey Berg, a recent Wayne State College graduate will take over duties as sports editor from Kevin Peterson who has left the paper to accept a new management position with the Central City Republican-Nonpareil.

Berg has spent the past summer as an intern with the Midwest Baseball League in Beloit, Wisc. The internship was part of his requirements for a sport management degree from WSC.

He previously received an associate of arts degree from North Dakota State College of Science in Wahpeton, N.D. He is a native of Wahpeton.

Berg previously worked on the sports staff of the Wayne Stater and in the Wayne State College Sports Information department.

Rec Center hours are announced

Wayne State College has announced the hours that the College Recreation Center will be open.

During the 1995-96 academic school, the Rec Center will be open as follows:

Monday-Thursday: 6 a.m.-11 p.m.

Friday: 6 a.m.-8 p.m.

Saturday: 10 a.m.-6 p.m.

Sunday: 1 p.m.-9 p.m.

These hours are effective Monday. The swimming pool is temporarily closed due to maintenance. It is scheduled to open by mid-Sept.

Quarterback Ryan Junck looks for an open receiver during practice Wednesday. Junck is competing with Paul Bloemenkamp for the starting position.

Wakefield brings memories back from the bayou

The Wakefield Juniors met some tough competition in Gonzales, Louisiana, Friday and Saturday.

They lost to teams from Arkansas and Oklahoma in a field of 64 of the region's best baseball teams.

On Saturday afternoon, the squad fell to Byng, Oklahoma 3-10, giving up six in the bottom of the fourth.

Wakefield jumped on top early lead with two runs in the first. Mike McQuistan was hit by a pitch and advanced to second when Shane Schuster advanced on a walk.

Josh Snyder singled in McQuistan before a well executed squeeze play by Justin Dutcher brought Schuster in to make it 2-0.

Oklahoma held Wakefield scoreless until the ninth inning when they added one more as Cory Coble scored. Center fielder Mike Blohm led the batting with two hits.

Wakefield was unable to jump out to their normal early lead as they fell to Bryant, Arkansas, 3-7.

Trailing 0-5, the team finally got one on the board when Schuster took home on a double steal while Snyder claimed second.

Bryant put two more on the board in the bottom of the sixth. Behind 1-7, Wakefield tried to put together a comeback, but was only able to add two in the top of the seventh.

Blohm again led Wakefield bats with two hits and scoring one run.

Heavy Hitters

Representing Wayne at the state "Heavy Hitters" competition held in Doniphan recently were Joel Munson, back, who was 10th in his age group, Brad Hochstein, left, who finished 8th and Cale Giese who was 11th in the state competition.

Special education savings sought by school districts

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — School district officials are seeking ways to save money a year before a state law that limits special education funding takes effect.

Although the cap doesn't take effect until 1996, districts must make changes this year. Districts incur expenses one year and are reimbursed the next. Growth in the funding will be limited to 2.5 percent next year and to 3 percent in 1997-98. Spending increases have averaged 10 percent the past six years.

Sharon Bloehle, president of the Learning Disabilities Association of Nebraska, said some of the group's 700 members are worried that the cap will affect services. More than one of every 10 Nebraska students are in special education; the 38,792 enrollment last year was a 25 percent increase from 1984.

"It's hard to predict what's going to happen," said Deborah Hahn of Lincoln, a board member of the Autism Society of Nebraska. "It's pretty frightening."

The Lincoln school district's 1995-96 special education budget is 2 percent smaller than last year. The cuts were achieved partially by cutting 17 teacher's aide positions and four staff positions.

The staff cuts were part of an overall plan to reduce spending, said Linda Douglas, Lincoln's special education director.

The Millard district has trimmed costs by giving its special education teachers the maximum amount of work allowed by law. The district also has its own program for mentally handicapped students instead of contracting with another district.

In Omaha, district officials in 1993 allowed special education students to attend neighborhood schools. The move has saved about $300,000 in transportation costs.

Officials in Omaha's District 66 and in Grand Island also plan to look for ways to help students with minor speech or reading problems before labeling them for special education.

The pilot projects of the two districts will be evaluated by the state, Don Anderson, an administrator with the Nebraska Department of Education, said last week.

TOXICITY OF ACETAMINOPHEN

The widespread use of acetaminophen (Tylenol, etc.) to alleviate many common aches and pains may develop into overuse in some patients, creating a dangerous toxicity. Too much acetaminophen may create symptoms such as vomiting, anorexia, nausea, and stomach pain within 24 hours of overdosage. Symptoms can progress to involve the liver, creating a condition called jaundice, characterized by a yellow color of the skin. Emergency first aid treatment of acetaminophen poisoning should include emptying of the stomach contents with the use of syrup of peccac and transporting the patient to the emergency room. Carefully read the directions on bottles of acetaminophen before medicating yourself or others, especially children. consult with your pharmacist about proper use of acetaminophen for your specific needs.

Elementary boosters help the school

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

All parents who have a child or children in grades kindergarten through fourth grade are being encouraged to become active in W.E.B.

"W.E.B. stands for West Elementary Boosters and is a parent support group similar to early P.T.A. groups. We want to promote educational growth of our elementary age children and be supportive of the needs of elementary teachers, administrators and staff," said Lori Carollo, treasurer of the group.

Each spring W.E.B. holds a carnival at the Elementary School. This is the major source of income for the group, which in turn uses the profits to purchase something specifically of the elementary school.

"THIS PAST spring we contacted the local businesses for the first time and were overwhelmed by their generosity and support. Due in a large part to business support and parental support at the carnival, W.E.B. was able to purchase $1,300 worth of software for the Elementary School. This software has all been purchased and is ready to use in the classroom this fall," said Mrs. Carollo.

The group also sells T-shirts and sweatshirts each fall that promote the elementary spirit. W.E.B. also recognizes teachers on Teacher Appreciation Day and office staff on Secretary's Day. They also remember each staff member with a card on his or her birthday and try to recognize special events in the life of all staff members at the Elementary School.

"This fall W.E.B. is trying a new format for their monthly meetings. Each month will focus on a particular grade and will be an informational meeting for parents to see what is actually going on in their child's classroom," said Mrs. Carollo.

DURING THE meeting teachers will present a typical day's schedule, as well as giving an overview of what students in that grade are studying.

W.E.B. meetings are scheduled for the third Monday of each month beginning at 7 p.m. and generally last an hour. Dates and grades to be featured are as follows: Sept. 18--Kindergarten; Oct. 16--First grade; Nov. 20--Second grade; Dec.--no meeting; Jan. 15--Third grade; Feb. 17--Fourth grade; March 18--Carnival planning; April 20 (Saturday)--

Carnival.

The group will be hosting the Wayne Chamber Coffee on Friday, Sept. 1 at 10 a.m. at the Elementary School. The school's enrollment will be saved and the public is invited to attend. The new computer software will also be on display.

"Those attending are encourage to visit the classrooms and see the teachers and students in action," said Mrs. Carollo.

Officers for the 1995-96 school year include: Deb Dickey--Pres.; Zoe Vander Weil--Vice Pres.; Renee Kurpewcic--Sec.; Lori Carollo--Treas.; Sue Jammer--Publicity and Jessica Olson--T-Shirt Sales.

The Principal's Office Lunch policy outlined

By Don Zeiss
Wayne High Principal

Students in grades 9-12 and their parents are reminded that the school does have guidelines concerning the hot lunch program at Wayne High School. The guidelines for the program are as follows:

1. All deposits for lunch money must be made before school starts in the morning at 8 a.m. No deposits will be accepted after 8:15 a.m.
2. No food, including lunches brought from home, may be taken out of the lunchroom.
3. No outside food or drinks may be brought into the school during the hours of 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.
4. The designated lunch period will last from 11:27 a.m. until 12:44 p.m.
5. The student meal price is $1.

Parents and students should also be aware of the latest policies regarding school lunch programs and competition with that program from outside sources.

The school must obey the Competitive Foods Policy which reads:

"Foods sold in competition with National School Lunch and School Breakfast Programs are subject to all federal regulation. Such foods shall not be sold on school premises during the period, for breakfast and/or lunch and lasting until one-half hour after the serving of breakfast and/or lunch. State and Federal reimbursements may be withheld from schools found in violation of this policy."

The Competitive Foods Policy does prohibit foods such as pizza, hamburgers, etc. from being brought into the school during meal service times--designated as 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the High School.

The policy also prohibits any food or drinks brought to school from outside sources during meal service times.

The pop machines also may not be used during that period.

Students or parents may bring a sack lunch from home.

Contact the high school principal's office at 375-3150 for more information.

About 40 attended the August birthday party on Aug. 18 at a Laurel cafe. Birthday cake was served. Honored for their birthdays were Marie George, Helen Gould, Anita Gadé, Florence Johnson and Amanda Schutte. The next gathering for September birthdays will be held Monday, Sept. 18 at the same place and time.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Borg were in Iron Ridge, Wis. Aug. 12-13 to attend the 41st annual reunion of members of the 3818 Quartermaster Co. Supply Company. This unit served in the South Pacific during World War II. Nine comrades and their families attended. On Saturday evening they were guests in the Nick Persha-Ruth Abram home. On Sunday, a catered dinner was served at the Town Hall. Mrs. Louie Marmo of South Sioux City accompanied the Borgs. Also attending from Northeast Nebraska were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gensler of Martinsburg and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Andersen of Pilger. Genslers will

Wayne wins NPPD honor

The city of Wayne is a winner of the "Leading Edge" award, presented by Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) in recognition of achievement by an outstanding wholesale electric customer of NPPD.

NPPD presented the award Aug. 17 during the annual NPPD Wholesale Customers Meeting at Columbus. Awards were given in recognition of outstanding achievement in the fields of winter load growth, incentive payments in relation to electric load, area development and annual sales increase. Wayne's award was for annual sales increase of 16.6 percent as a result of two manufacturers' expansions.

"Leading Edge" and "Peak Performer" awards were presented to 23 municipal systems and power districts that purchase power at wholesale from NPPD.

Lloyd Castner, NPPD manager of marketing, said the "Leading Edge" award was presented to those customers who have achieved special accomplishments. The "Peak Performer" award was given to municipal systems and power districts that surpass all other wholesale customers in particular categories.

Wayne establishes housing assistance

By Eric McCarty Of the Herald

In response to community needs, the Wayne Community Housing Development Corporation (WCHDC) is seeking to provide emergency assistance to low-income home owners.

Linda Anderson, WCHDC Executive Director, drew up the guidelines for the proposed Housing Emergency Program (HELP) for a presentation to the City Council on August 8. The subject will be on Tuesday night's agenda for the council.

Furthermore, guidelines state that "priority will be given to homeowners with a disability or older adult (62+) homeowners."

MRS. ANDERSON hopes to keep the project eligibility as open as possible to meet community needs. "An example might be that a furnace would go out during the winter, and the owner couldn't handle the repair cost," she said.

Mrs. Anderson said that due to the nature of emergency needs in Wayne, the program should not be used extensively. "There is a certain expectation that it will not be used very often," she said.

The assistance comes from the Wayne Revolving Housing Loan Fund, established in 1985 through the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

HUD provided moneys for the state, which in turn administered a loan to the Great Dane Company to build a plant in Wayne. The interest being paid on that loan makes up Wayne's Revolving Housing Loan.

The revolving loan is also used for a home ownership opportunity program for first-time home buyers and a for-profit developer's housing assistance fund.

HELP'S PURPOSE is to "provide financial assistance... to correct housing component deficiencies which are urgent and extreme in nature." (from guidelines)

The guidelines further specify that a $5,000 maximum will be used for each project and the minimum investment is expected to be no less than $1,000.

Applicant eligibility is said to be a home owner who receives less than 50 percent of the Wayne County median yearly income by family size. That median is set by HUD each January.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

The Wakefield School Board of Education met Aug. 14. In conjunction with the regular school board meeting, two budget hearings were held. The first was to hear protests to exceed the zero percent lid. It was explained at the meeting that the district would need to exceed the 1994-95 general fund expenditures of $1,074,243 and that the 1995-96 general fund expenditures is set at $1,166,887 which is a 4.46 percent increase over the previous year.

In further discussing during the regular budget hearing it was explained that the total expenditure for the upcoming year was up by 1/4 percent but that the total tax requirement would drop by 1 percent.

Visitors at the hearings were Dale Hansen, Glendon Meyer and Leon Svoboda, board members from District 25. The board voted to exceed the lid and also approved the budget for the next school term.

During the next meeting Richard Puls, chairman of the building and grounds committee, explained the facility needs student committee's proposal to the visitors. Following a question and answer period, the District 25 board members left as they had another meeting.

Principal Jeanne Surface reported on projected enrollment numbers and class schedules. She also discussed the class average ACT scores for last year's graduates. It showed that Wakefield's students' scores were above the state and national norms. Some student handbook changes were discussed as well as permits for students going home for lunch.

Supt. Derwin Hartman reported on summer maintenance items and that most tasks have been completed.

The board discussed having a pre-school opening dinner for all staff members.

Mr. Hartman distributed the 1995-96 school bus route schedules for each board member.

Marcia Kratke, chairperson of the board policy committee, reviewed the many changes that have been put into the new manual and recommended that it be adopted in its entirety for the 1995-96 school year. The board approved its adoption.

The board members discussed the facility needs committee's proposal and instructed Mr. Hartman to put it on the September agenda.

The board accepted the bid of Cornhusker Casualty on the school insurance package, but the board will keep the workmen's comp coverage with the Nebraska Association of School Boards. The board set the milk, breakfast and lunch prices for the 1995-96 school year, which will remain at last year's prices.

The board discussed several operation enrollment concerns that are pending and waived the deadline date to allow Paul Zulkosky to attend school in Wayne.

The board accepted the bid of Diane Davies of Pilger to do the annual audit and financial report.

As the last items of business, the board discussed a couple of requests to use the school facility and also discussed a couple of personnel matters.

SWIM FOR HEART

Twenty-three swimmers participated in the Swim for Heart at the Wakefield pool and raised $1,028 for cardiovascular research. The top three fund raisers have been invited to a swimming skills clinic sponsored by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln swimming and diving team. They are Parker Dolan, Melissa Turney and Lori Bridgman.

Others participating were Josh Soderberg, Loretta Nelson, Tanner Soderberg, Amanda Nelson, Traci Lueth, Steven Mavis, Vanessa Nelson, Rob Mavis, Lacey Ball, Luke Henderson, Ben Henderson, Ranjli Barge, Titus Nelson, Shannon Klomme, Jamie Barge, Megan Barge, Anna Brownell, Joseph Nelson, Frank Holm and Nick Muller. Carol Clark coordinated the event.

EMPLOYEE PICNIC

M.G. Waldbaum Co. recently sponsored a picnic and activities for employees and their families. It was held at the Wakefield park. Those in attendance received various door prizes, compliments of local businesses and vendors.

The Wayne Jaycees organized games and contests for the children. The food was catered by US Catering of Wakefield.

A dance was held in the evening, with an invitation to the community. It was hosted by the Wakefield Firefighters.

The organizing committee worked on plans for the event for about six months.

HAPPY HOME MAKERS

The Wakefield Happy Homemakers Club met Aug. 10 at the Helen Domisch home. Five members answered roll call. Visitors were Katrinka Hansen of New York, Debra, Laurie and Patrick Mavovorm of Colorado and Elvera Borg of Concord.

Pauline Fischer, president, called the meeting to order. They opened with reading in unison the Nebraska Extension Club Creed. The secretary and treasurer reports were read and approved. For the "fun kitty" they were to put in 25 cents if they had not picked and eaten five vegetables in the past three days from their garden and 15 cents if they had.

The group received an invitation to attend the FCE meeting of the Northeast District on Sept. 7 at Verdigris.

A letter was read from the Wakefield Health Care Center Auxiliary. The fall festival will be held Saturday, Oct. 14 and everyone was encouraged to assist with the festival.

Lois Berns will host the annual picnic at her home on Sunday, Sept. 10 at 6:30 p.m.

TRAIL RIDE

The Allen Golden Spur Saddle Club had a ride at the home of Gary and Leta White at Ponca on Aug. 12. There were 35 riders. They served finger food at the end of the ride.

The next meeting will be with Mark Sorensen of Wayric hosting the ride on Sunday, Oct. 1 at 2 p.m. Everyone is to bring finger food.

Scholarship presentation

Trevor Schroeder, left, was congratulated during a ceremony at the Walmart store in Norfolk last week. He is one of the recipients of a $20,000 scholarship fund set up by Walmart with Wayne State College. Worth $2,500 a year and renewable for four years, Schroeder's scholarship was presented by Connie Hence, Walmart manager in Norfolk. Shown at the reception was Mark Stubbs, representing the Wayne State Foundation and Dr. Jogindar Johar, head of the Math/Sciences Division at the college. Walmart has contributed a total of $60,000 to the college's scholarship fund in the last three years. David May of Hampton, Neb., was the other winner of a $2,500 scholarship this year. Schroeder, a freshman, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Schroeder of Wayne.

Interim pastor leading large Lutheran flock

By Claire Rasmussen
Of the Herald

After almost a month without a pastor, members of Our Savior Lutheran Church are enjoying a new pastor. Former Wayne resident Bill Koeber is serving a one year term as interim pastor, at the church.

Koeber was raised in Wayne across the street from St. Paul's Lutheran church and graduated from Wayne High School and Wayne State College. After attending the Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia, Koeber was ordained as a minister on June 18, 1967 at Redeemer Lutheran Church. Koeber's mother Norma Koeber and brother Don Koeber still live in Wayne.

KOEBER BEGAN his career as a minister at the First Lutheran Church in McCool Junction south of York where he served from 1967 to 1972. He then served for 21 years as pastor for the Resurrection Lutheran Church in Gretna. For the past two years, he lived in Blair with his wife Valerie and served as a representative for the Lutheran Brotherhood.

The Bishop's office contacted Koeber and he was called to serve in Wayne.

Koeber said he chose to enter the ministry, his vocation for over 20 years, at an early age.

Rev. Bill Koeber

"DURING MY EARLY years in Fond du Lac, Wisc. and Wayne I was positively influenced by ministers. We lived near them and the church. My relationship with them, their faith in God and an attraction to worship were the beginnings of my decision to enter the ministry.

"I also very much like the facets of Christian ministry. No other institution can bring people the life and hope that the Church of Jesus Christ offers."

In the short time he has worked with the congregation, Koeber says he is delighted with all of those involved with the church.

"I am finding that the people here have a great spirit and are working together remarkably well.

"It's really a team effort here getting things done. We have a wonderfully dedicated and efficient church staff."

AS INTERIM pastor Koeber will oversee the basic duties of the church including Christian education, Sunday School, youth worship, evangelism and stewardship, pastoral care, visitation and committee work.

Said Koeber, "I think if you're doing the basic things—teaching, preaching, visiting the sick and providing for youth and adults a meaningful ministry, the congregation will grow spiritually. I look forward to the challenge and opportunity to serve at Our Savior and in this community."

As for Wayne, Koeber says he has seen a few changes since the early 60s when he lived in Wayne. Among those changes were the growth of the town and the emergence of the Chicken Show, but he said he has felt at home.

"WAYNE IS really friendly in so many ways. People cooperate to accomplish many good things."

Mrs. Koeber lives in Blair and is a registered nurse at Bergan Mercy hospital in Omaha. The Koebers have two sons—Chuck, who is a graduate assistant at the State University of New York and Steven Drivers beware!

This driver was not prepared to stop driving golfballs down the side of highway 77 for a fundraiser by the Jaycees of Nebraska. The Jaycees hit golfballs across the state of Nebraska from south to north to raise money for the DARE program. The Wayne Jaycees hit from Winnebago to Homer Friday afternoon. Pictured is Dave Bird. Jaycee John Farnan says the six mile stretch took about two hours for the five participants. They were Farnan, Bird, Scott Thompson, Scott Brummond, and Joel Ankeny. Farnan wished to thank ball donors: Dave Swanson, Larry Berres and Bob Keating. No cars were hit, though one ball hit by Thompson rolled into the bucket of a highway department Bobcat. Thompson did not play through. Farnan estimates that the tandem used about 100 golf balls, though it took only 70 strokes. "We took a few mulligans," he said.

School leaders

Jolene Jaeger will be among 60 of Nebraska's urban and rural high school leaders meeting on Sept. 20 to travel by rail on a Union Pacific Railroad train. The group will depart Fox Park in Council Bluffs for the day-long journey to Nebraska City and will return to Western Heritage museum in Omaha.

"The goals of this project are statewide youth leader networking, rural and urban partnership and leadership skill expansion," reported Ann Goldstein, RCR Youth Leadership Special coordinator.

The high school juniors and seniors involved have all benefited from or participated in Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben sponsored programs including Youth Leadership Omaha, Youth Leadership Kearney, 4-H and FFA.

While on the train, the students will share their community commitments with each other. In Nebraska City, the group will meet at the Arbor Day Farm Lied Conference Center for leadership workshops and a luncheon. They will also tour the Morton Orchard and John Brown's Cave.

Megan Adkins

Grand champion

Megan Adkins of Laurel was named the World Reserve Grand Champion in the speech competition at the American Junior Quarterhorse Association (AJQHA) World Championship Show in Fort Worth, Texas, Aug. 5 to 12.

Speaking on the qualities and benefits of the American Quarterhorse, Adkins competed with entries from 30 states. She was honored at the awards breakfast and presented with a world AJQHA Championship silver belt buckle and a $250 scholarship, sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bingham of Illinois.

This year marked the 25th anniversary of the Junior Association, which has become the largest youth equine association in the world with over 30,000 members.

In other competition, Megan joined Courtney Lewis of Omaha, to present a program on the Nebraska Junior Quarterhorse Association.

Their efforts resulted in Nebraska being named the Reserve Champion National Youth Association of the Year. Capitalizing on the theme of the National Championship of the Nebraska football team, the program was designed to highlight accomplishments and service of the youth association.

The official bronze AJQHA trophy was presented to the state during the opening of the World Show during the Parade of States. Thirty-five young people from Nebraska represented the state in World Show events which drew a record total of 1,953 entries this year.

Megan is the 16-year old daughter of Rick and Joan Adkins of Laurel.

Recent grad

Machelle Noe, daughter of Keith and Joanne Noe and granddaughter of Mary Noe of Dixon, graduated from the University of Northeast Omaha Aug. 12.

She received her bachelor of science degree in criminal justice. She graduated with cum laude honors.

A special graduation party is planned for Aug. 26 with a brunch at the Lied Conference Center in Nebraska City for family members.

Winners united

A reunion celebrating 33 years of champion state 4-H public speaking is scheduled for Sept. 3 during the Nebraska State Fair.

In attendance will be the first contest winner from 1942, Edith Pumphrey Solomon, formerly of Lyman. Also attending will be Jolene Jaeger of Wayne, last year's winner.

The reunion is intended to unite past winners and to learn how the contest has influenced careers.

Sue Friesen, administrative coordinator for the Nebraska Development 4-H Foundation and reunion coordinator noted, that in many cases, individuals credit 4-H for helping get them off to a good start with successful careers.

"Many say, 'I'm doing what I'm doing now because of my experience in 4-H,'" said Friesen.

Jed Reeg

To be escort

Jed D. Reeg will be one of nine escorts for the Ak-Sar-Ben Coronation Ball. Reeg graduated from the University of Arizona in 1993, and anticipates receiving a graduate degree from the University of Kansas School of Law next May.

He was a member of Sigma Chi at Arizona and volunteers for the American Cancer Society. His interests include golf, racquetball and cooking.

He is the son of Bob and Joyce Reeg of Wayne and the grandson of Marjory Reeg of Wayne and Richard and Bette Kern of Van Wert, Ohio.

Reeg's sister, Heidi, was a coronation countess in 1993.

Good Neighbor

Carol Nixon of Wakefield was presented an Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Award by Ambassador Steven Lühr during opening ceremonies at the Dixon County Fair Sunday evening, Aug. 13. She was nominated for the award for her work with the Midwest Disaster Relief.

The nomination stated that "she has unselfishly contributed much time and effort toward a goal she strongly believes in. Surely this is in keeping with the standards of the Ak-Sar-Ben Good Neighbor Award."

Carol formed her first relief effort after listening to broadcast of the devastation of Hurricane Andrew a few years ago. Her first efforts were for victims in Louisiana. She began in temporary headquarters at Salem Lutheran Church and since has moved her collection point to the basement of the old hospital building.

Her relief projects have been as near as Wakefield and Ponca, to flood victims in Craig, Mo., to tornado victims in Sutton, Neb., to earthquake stricken California, to homeless in Omaha and also to the Orphan Grain Train Norfolk, which distributes world-wide.

Carol continuously welcomes donations of good used clothing, non-perishable household items, such as paper products, canned foods, personal items such as toothpaste, etc. These items may be taken to the basement headquarters any time.

New consultant

Power Unlimited Consulting, a division of First Step Inc., has been established to meet your computer support needs. Power Unlimited Consulting is located at 110 North Main.

President Gary Böttger has a long history in computer science. He spent five years in the U. S. Air Force dealing mainly with the operation and support of large computer networks and four years at Gateway 2000 Inc. While at Gateway, Gary built computers, was part of the Quality Control system, and provided telephone technical support. Gary also helped develop the On-line CompuServe, Podigy, Delphi, SpaceWorks and the Internet. Gary was an instrumental part in building Gateway 2000's On-line Information Network into one of the largest Corporate support Bulletin Board Systems in the world. While at Gateway, Gary designed the database that houses all the technical information and tools that on-line technicians use to do their job. He also developed the information retrieval and statistical management system that on-line Service managers and supervisors use to project technical support needs. Gary has designed many successful database applications including ones for farmers, housewives, churches, insurance companies, small businesses, fishermen, and the one he is designing for R Way that will revolutionize the outcome measures tracking system for the mental health industry.

Learns diamonds

Shani Kavanaugh of Wayne has completed a course in diamonds with the Santa Monica, California-based Gemological Institute of America, and has been awarded the institute's prestigious diamonds certificate.

Established in 1931, the non-profit institute is an educational and research organization serving the jewelry industry, with campuses and laboratories in New York and California. To complete the diamonds course successfully, Shani was asked to learn a range of information from the creation of diamonds to world diamond markets and techniques of selling.

Chain expands

Cenex Convenience Stores, a network of 342 facilities located from the Upper Midwest to the Pacific Northwest, now rank number 38 among nearly 1,000 c-store chains in the United States. The Cenex Convention Store in Emerson is part of the chain.

The Cenex system was recognized as number 38 among the top nation's 50 convenience stores in a ranking published Aug. 1 by Convenience Store News. Cenex, which ranked number 46 in 1993 in its first appearance on the list, and 43rd in 1994, remains one of the nation's fastest growing chains.

Fair winner

Kristin Roberts was named Junior Division Horseman-ship Champion at this year's Wayne County Fair.

Mood improvement seen with weather

What a difference 10° makes! There was a definite improvement in mood and energy over the weekend. Now we have to dig in and cope with more heat and humidity.

We had guests from Kentucky last week. They say the humidity there is so high, so much of the time, it's often hard to breath. They also are fortunate to get one cutting of quality hay a year.

Which brings them to Nebraska. They've been buying hay from a local farmer. He invited them to see this part of Nebraska.

Im usually very gracious to our guests. But one of these folks got my hackles up over breakfast. He began explaining why tobacco is such an important crop in the south; mostly, on the basis of the taxes it provides.

He had toured UNL on Saturday, and someone pointed out to him the new sky-box at the coliseum, saying that cigarette smokers paid for it, and you can't have a cigarette in it. He found that ironic. I guess I don't.

As a hospice nurse, I see the results of smoking every day. I also see the high costs of the health care they have received. And I guess my taxes are still part of the Medicare budget. And my health insurance premiums have escalated.

In fact, after breakfast, I went to see an emphysema patient who can hardly walk from his recliner to the bathroom. An ex-smoker.

My Dad smoked unfiltered Camels, and died an early death of lung cancer. The Old Joe ads really get my goat. Several other loved ones also smoke. They spend a lot of time on my front porch when visiting.

By Pat Meierhenry

I know, it's a free country. But I find it difficult to understand one arm of the government encouraging an industry while the other one spends many bucks discouraging it.

As I told my guest, "If I knew the answers, I'd run for Congress." Meanwhile, I suppose we will continue to tax unhealthy behavior. I believe it's called a Sin Tax.

I always remember eating lunch with a smoker after the Chernobyl disaster. She had already been treated for a throat cancer. She wasn't drinking milk that summer because she had heard there may have been nuclear drift over our pastures! Then she lit up a cigarette.

We humans are a strange species; always able to justify our actions. And our gentleman from Kentucky was really very nice, aside from his views on tobacco. Incidentally, he's not a smoker.

Recording artists perform at Wayne Christian concert

The public is invited to attend a special concert at Praise Assembly of God Church, 901 Circle Drive in Wayne on Sunday at 6 p.m.

Paul and Trish Jackson will present a program of vocal music and various instruments including acoustic guitar, bass guitar and synthesizers. The Jacksons are recording artists on the Pinebrook and Clarion labels and have a varied musical style at appeals to all ages and tastes.

Church music workshop is slated for Sept. 30

A workshop designed to assist persons working in church music will be held Sept. 30 in Wayne at First United Methodist Church.

The nondenominational workshop begins at 9 a.m. with an anthem reading session. All interested persons are invited to sing and need not register if they are attending only this session. Sessions for adult choir directors, organists and children and youth choir directors will follow. The final session for the day will focus on new hymn texts and tunes.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln School of Music is sponsoring the workshop in cooperation with the Schmitt Music Centers. The workshop is supported in part by the Bostrom Memorial Fund. Workshop leaders are Quentin Faulkner, UNL; Margot Woolard, UNL; and Kim Patterson, Westminster Presbyterian Church, Lincoln. Orvid Owens is coordinator.

Participants can look to the workshop for practical presentations of techniques and skills. Persons from small churches and churches with modest resources for music are especially invited to attend.

The workshop fee is $25 per person, and pre-registration is encouraged.

For more information or to register by phone, call either Michele Deaton, UNL School of Music, 402-472-6861 or Orvid Owens, 402-483-7237.

AAL Branch 1542 meets in Wakefield

The Aid Association for Lutherans Branch 1542 met Sunday evening, Aug. 20 at St. John's Lutheran Church in Wakefield for a 6:30 p.m. potluck supper. Twenty-nine members were present. Pauline Fischer called the meeting to order and Evelyn Lienemann gave the secretary and treasurer reports.

to give him financial assistance to help him with the project. He is planning to go to China with a group Oct. 1.

The Nebraska Federation Convention of the AAL will be held in Grand Island on Aug. 26. Four members plan to attend.

Evelyn Lienemann presented a program on "Together Against Crime." A video was shown followed with discussion.

The "Word" for the Week

Premium quality life

How much of a premium do you place on life? That's up for grabs. If it's my life, the premium is high. If it's someone else's life, it might not be as important. This is especially true if the "quality of life" issue raises its head. The "quality of life" argument seems very strong. The argument is used against infants in the womb and infants who have some congenital defect. It is used against the elderly and infirm. "Quality of life," however, should really be evaluated in the light of eternity. The point is, every human being has an immortal soul.

Where there has been a disaster such as the one in Oklahoma City, people who have faced death experience unusual anxiety. No wonder. Have these people considered the eternal perspective? Are they ready to enter eternity? Anxiety can really be great when the soul is not prepared to cross the great divide between this life and the next and stand before its Creator.

Such anxiety should be answered with the words of the Bible, "Repent [turn back] therefore and return; that your sins may be wiped away, in order that times of refreshing may come from the presence of the Lord" (Acts 3:19). When we return to the Lord, anxiety fades. God's love "casts out fear" (1 John 4:18). Then life has real quality!

Weekend is planned

A Wellness Weekend for Women will be held at Niobrara State Park Sept. 15-17. There will be something for everyone — grandmothers, mothers, daughters and anyone interested in meeting new people and enjoying the beauty and relaxation of Niobrara State Park. All women are invited to attend a weekend of relaxation.

Sessions will include information on balance work and family, nutrition for health, investment basics, reminiscence, bread making, wellness and your funny bone, stenciled welcome plaques and wardrobe basics. Joan Burney, MSEd will present "The Power of Positive Mental Imagery." Delores Ruzicka, a nationally recognized craft designer and owner of Country Creations in Verdigre, will also present workshops. Jane Reeson, Consumer Product and Marketing Director of the Nebraska Pork Producers Association Inc., will present a session entitled "Still in the Dark about the Other-White Meat." The Nebraska Pork Producers Association is sponsoring the Saturday luncheon featuring pork products.

Also available will be professional messages, personal color analysis and exercise sessions offered by professionals certified in their field.

Activities will begin on Friday evening with registration and conclude with a brunch featuring Joan Burney "Celebrating Change" on Sunday morning.

The Wellness Weekend for Women is sponsored by the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension, Northeast Community College and the Nebraska Pork Producers Association.

For more information and a brochure, call your local extension office, or the Cedar County Extension Office at 402-254-6821.

Ambassadorial honors

The happy first winner of the Wayne Ambassadors "Secret Shopper" award of $10 in Chamber Bucks was Melissa Hammer, right, a customer service clerk at Word Works in Wayne. Shown presenting the bucks is this week's "Secret Shopper" Maribeth Stodola who cited Hammer for extra effort in friendly, helpful service. The secret shoppers can give the gift to clerks or shoppers they find to thank them for doing business in Wayne.

Area reunions held

Three family reunion

A three-family reunion of the Brock/Uemark, Soderberg/Jeffrey and Tell/Mullenberg families was held at the Treasure Lake Resort at Bronson, Mo. on July 22.

A brief program was held which included the presentation of awards. Buck Ryncarson was the "most senior" guest, Aaron and Harriet Tell were honored for most great grandchildren, Edna Ryncarson had the most grandchildren, Aaron and Harriet Tell were married the longest and the youngest award was given to Janessa Huntington Hanson. Aaron and Harriet Tell and Dan and Karen Tell traveled the farthest.

States represented at the reunion included Washington, California, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Illinois, Nebraska and Missouri.

The next reunion will be in 1997 with Sherylyn Tell Tester in charge of arrangements.

Granquist reunion

Eighty-four relatives and guests attended the third annual reunion Sunday, Aug. 6 at Bressler Park in Wayne.

Lyle Wayne Gamble of Seward was master of ceremonies. Drew McDaniel of Lenexa, Kan. played a violin solo. Visiting and family announcements were enjoyed.

Family members attending the cooperative dinner came from Kansas, Arkansas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and Omaha, Fremont, Oakland; Rosalie, Pender, Seward, Norfolk, Plainview, Lincoln, Carroll and Wayne.

Attending from the farthest distance were Dean and Helen Granquist of Bella Vista, Ark.; Kevin and Brenda (Gaunt) McDahiel, Drew and Natalie of Lenexa, Kan.; and Mark and Carol (Granquist) Borglum and children of St. Paul, Minn.

Clarence Beck was honored as the oldest uncle. Joy Getman and Glenn Granquist were the oldest granddaughter and grandson present. There were five births and three deaths recorded. The youngest present was McKenna Gibson, daughter of Brian and Shannon Gibson and great granddaughter of Donna Lutt of Wayne.

Meyer reunion

The August Meyer family reunion was held at the Pioneer Senior Center in Pender on Saturday, Aug. 19. There were 81 in attendance and two guests. The oldest present was Clarence Meyer, 91, of South Sioux City. The youngest present was Jessica, two, daughter of Melissa and Tom Howes of Sioux Falls, S.D. and granddaughter of the Gerry Meyers of Grand Island.

Towns and states represented were Windom, Minn.; Loveland, Colo.; Dixon, Ill.; Quimby, Iowa;

Clark, Watertown, Sioux Falls and McCook, S.D.; Lincoln, Wakefield, Grand Island, Emerson, Norfolk, Pierce, Pawnee City, Osmond, Elkhorn, Omaha, Pender, Holdrege, Minden, Walthill and South Sioux City.

The reunion was hosted by the Bernice Meyer family. The 1977 reunion will be held the second Saturday in June at Pender.

Johnson reunion

Fifty-four descendants of Clara and Andrew Johnson gathered at Bressler Park in Wayne for a reunion on Aug. 20. Families came from Kansas City, Sioux City, Bella Vista, Ark., Blair, Hoskins, Norfolk, Lincoln, Omaha and Wayne.

Entertainment was looking at old pictures and clogging by family members from Omaha.

It was hosted by Warren and Leora Austin of Wayne.

Next year it will be held the third Sunday in August with Melvin and Dorothy Johnson in charge.

Mann reunion

Seventy-five attended the Sunday, Aug. 13 Mann family reunion held in the Wayne park. Those attending came from Missouri, Texas, Nebraska, Iowa, Arkansas and Wyoming.

Elders man was Fred Mann and the eldest lady was Mary Mann, both of Concord. Youngest child was McKenzie Peterson of Wayne. Youngest married couple present were John and Rhonda Mann of Electra, Texas. Coming the farthest was Mary, Morgan of Mildland, Texas.

This year's hosts were Werner and Vera Mann of Winside. The next meeting will be the second Sunday in August, 1996 at the Wayne park with Fred and Faye Mann as hosts.

Bicycle safety can prevent accidents

You and your bicycle. A great way to have fun. For most, yes. But for others, no. Each year about 1,000 bicycle-related deaths occur in the U.S. Another 500,000 bicycle-related injuries are treated in the nation's hospital emergency rooms.

Safety experts throughout the country encourage bike riders of all ages to use helmets. Why? Because studies have shown that using bike helmets can reduce head injuries by up to 85 percent.

However, not all bicycle-related injuries can be addressed by the use of safety equipment alone. Rider actions and reactions — especially obeying traffic laws — play a major role in contributing to injury-free bicycling enjoyment.

Ten smart routes to bicycle safety:

1. Protect your head. Wear a helmet.
2. See and be seen. Wear bright colors or reflective stripes.
3. Avoid biking at night.
4. Stay alert. Keep a lookout for obstacles in your path.
5. Go with the flow. Ride with traffic.

Cooperative Extension
Sally Ebmeier
Cedar County

6. Check for traffic. Be aware of traffic around you, especially at intersections and driveways.

7. Learn the rules of the road. Obey traffic laws.

8. Assure bicycle readiness. Is your bicycle properly adjusted?

9. Can you stop your bicycle? Check brakes before riding.

10. Check your wheels. "Quick release" wheels should be securely fastened. When a helmet is provided along with the new bicycle, it will become a normal part of a child's protective riding gear.

Briefly Speaking

Bridge is played at Country Club

WAYNE — Ten tables of bridge were played following the Wayne Country Club ladies luncheon held Aug. 22, with 49 attending. Hostesses were Alta Baier, Rachel Wolske and Erna Sahs.

Winners last week were Florence Wagner, high and Norma Janke, second high.

Mother seeking guide for parenting

Q. I'm afraid I'm not ready to raise the baby I bore last month. Sure, I understand how to feed and bathe and diaper him. But I'm uncertain about the future. What should be the objective of my relationship with him? Can you give me a foundational philosophy that will guide my parenting efforts during my child's first four years of life?

Dr. Dobson
Answers
Your

you."

Q. Our two teenage daughters excel in different areas: one is very academic, and the other is a social butterfly. Often they exchange sharp words laced with jealousy. How can we minimize the antagonism that exists between them?

A. The first step is to avoid circumstances that compare your daughters unfavorably with each other. In addition, each child systematically measures himself against his peers. Accordingly, parents should guard against comparative statements.

Children are extremely sensitive about the matter of physical attractiveness and body characteristics. Suppose, for example, that Kelly hears this casual remark about her sister: "Lisa is sure going to be a gorgeous girl." The very fact that Kelly was not mentioned will probably establish the two girls as rivals. If there is a significant difference in beauty between the two, you can be assured that Kelly has already concluded, "Yeah, I'm the ugly one. When her fears are confirmed by her parents, resentment and jealousy are generated.

The matter of intelligence is another sensitive nerve to be handled with care. It is not uncommon to hear parents say in front of their children, "I think the younger is actually brighter than his brother." Adults find it difficult to comprehend how powerful that kind of assessment can be in a child's mind.

Children (especially boys) are extremely competitive with regard to athletic abilities. Those who are slower, weaker and less coordinated than their brothers are rarely able to accept "second best" with grace and dignity.

These questions and answers are excerpted from the book Dr. Dobson Answers Your Questions. Dr. James Dobson is a psychologist, author and president of Focus on the Family, a nonprofit organization dedicated to the preservation of the home. Correspondence to Dr. Dobson should be addressed to: Focus on the Family, P.O. Box 444, Colorado Springs, CO 80903 (c), 1982, Tyndale House Publishers, Inc.

A. Your question reminds me of a friend who flew his single-engine airplane toward a small country airport many years ago. He arrived as the sun had dropped behind a mountain at the close of the day, and by the time he maneuvered into a position to land, he could not see the hazy field below. He had no lights on his plane and there was no one on duty at the airport. For two hours he flew his plane around and around in the blackness of the night, knowing that he faced certain death when his fuel was expended.

Then, a miracle occurred. Someone on the ground heard the continuing drone of his engine and realized his predicament. That merciful man drove his car back and forth on the runway to show my friend the location of the airstrip, and then he let his lights cast their beam from the far end while the plane landed.

I think of that story whenever I am coming down at night in a commercial airliner. As I look ahead, I can see the green lights bordering the runway that show the captain where to direct the plane: If it stays between those lighted boundaries, all will be well. There is safety in that illuminated zone, but disaster lies to the left or right.

As new parents, we need clearly marked boundaries telling us where to steer the family aircraft. We require some guiding principles, as you requested, which will help us raise our children in safety and health.

Toward that end, let me provide two distinct messages which must be conveyed to every child during his first 48 months. These concepts are of great significance in my approach to parenthood, and can be thought of as beacons or guiding lights. They are:

1. "I love you more than you can possibly understand."
2. "Because I love you, I must teach you to obey me. That is the only way I can take care of you and protect you from things that might hurt

The Golden Years

By: Connie Dishrow
President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the Social Security Act in 1935. It went into effect in 1937, with each employee and employer contributing one cent for each dollar the employee was paid, up to a maximum tax of $30 per year. Payment of retirement benefits began in 1940. The first to receive monthly benefits was Ida May Fuller, of Vermont, who continued to get them until she died in 1975. Since its beginning, about 125 million Americans have received social security benefits.

John Waldo Adams may not fit popular images of a poet. At 87, he can look back on working as a cowboy on his family's ranch in Utah, then into mining, fruit-picking, truck driving, teaching, building homes and most recently operating a roofing business in New York. He took to writing poetry late in life. While others write about feelings, "with me it's what you do," he explains. If his father hadn't lost all in the Depression, Adams says, "my life wouldn't have been as interesting as it is."

Remember When? July 15, 1933 — Twenty-four Italian Navy planes landed at Chicago in a goodwill flight from Italy that took 13 days.

Progressive Farmer family safety evening to be held Aug. 26

Wayne County will host a Progressive Farmer Family Safety Evening on Saturday, Aug. 26 from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Wayne County Fairgrounds.

This fun family evening will teach adults and children to be aware of safety hazards. It will also include a family picnic. The event is being sponsored locally by the Nebraska 4-H program, the Northeast Nebraska chapter of Farm Safety 4 Just Kids, Cargill Cares Corp., Wayne and Dixon County extension offices and Wayne County area businesses.

Topics will include first aid, electrical safety, animal handling, tractor and PTO safety and chemical safety.

Admission to the evening event is $15 per family and covers dinner and two T-shirts. Attendance is limited to the first 100 who register. For more information, contact the Wayne County Extension Office at 402-584-2261, Rod Patent at 402-337-0099 or Joanie Adkins at 402-256-3581.

"The Wayne County team has been great because they're as enthusiastic about farm safety as we are," said Susan Reynolds of Progressive Farmer. "So many of our readers know children or adults who have been injured on the farm. We hope the information shared at this event will encourage farm families and remind them that safety must always come first. If we prevent just one person from being killed or injured, we'll consider this program a success."

"Even adults who have been farming for years can see their whole lives changed in one moment of carelessness," said Progressive Farmer Editor Jack Odle. "Kids are even more at risk because they tend to think they're invincible. Unfortunately, nothing could be further from the truth."

This summer marked the beginning of many Progressive Farmer safety events. In addition to this evening program, Progressive Farmer has conducted 17 farm safety day camps for kids since May and will hold another in September. These events have been held in Alabama, Georgia, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Nebraska, North Carolina, North Dakota, Texas and Tennessee.

Progressive Farmer is published by Southern Progress Corp., which also publishes Southern Living, Southern Accents and Cooking Light magazines, as well as Oxmoor House books. The Birmingham-based company is the largest regional publisher of books and magazines in the country.

Cattle on feed unchanged

Nebraska cattle feeders had 1.44 million cattle on feed on Aug. 1, according to the Nebraska Agricultural Statistics Service. This inventory was equal to last year but down 14 percent from 1993.

Placements of cattle into feedlots during July totaled 300,000 head. This was down 15 percent from last year and was 9 percent below two years ago.

Fed cattle marketings for the month of July totaled 420,000, down 1 percent from 1994 and 5 percent below 1993.

Other disappearance during July totaled 20,000 head compared with 10,000 head last year and 20,000 head two years ago.

Cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market in the 7 States preparing monthly estimates totaled 7.70 million head, up 3 percent from a year ago and virtually unchanged from Aug. 1, 1993.

Placements in feedlots during July totaled 1.38 million, 13 percent below 1994 and 9 percent below 1993. Net placements of 1.33 million for July were down 14 percent from last year and 7 percent below 1993.

Marketings during July totaled 1.74 million, up 1 percent from 1994 and 2 percent above 1993.

Other disappearance during July was 55,000 head, no change from last year and 32 percent below 1993.

The corn leaf on the right, from Mycogen's NG7059, shows no damage from a heavy natural and artificial infestation of European corn borer larvae. The plant has built-in corn borer resistance from both native and Bt genes. The leaf on the left is from a susceptible check hybrid.

Mycogen receives EPA approval to market seeds

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has approved Mycogen Corporation to market seeds of corn hybrids that are genetically engineered to resist insect damage, clearing the way for commercial introduction in 1996.

The University of Nebraska Research and Extension Center in Concord participated in research testing in recent years of Bt-engineered corn.

The new hybrids produce a protein that protects them from European corn borers, a pest that can cost U.S. farmers as much as $1 billion a year in lost yields. This built-in protection will reduce or eliminate the need for conventional corn borer insecticide applications.

"Corn is America's largest crop, so this insect-resistance technology will produce tremendous economic and environmental benefits," said Jerry Caulder, Mycogen's chairman, president and CEO. "Built-in protection from corn borers will give farmers higher yields without the expense and environmental side effects of chemical insecticides. We expect this product to capture a significant share of the $2 billion U.S. seed corn market."

The gene responsible for corn borer resistance is a synthetic copy of those produced by a naturally occurring microorganism, Bacillus thuringiensis (Bt). Bt proteins selectively target pests such as corn borers without harming beneficial insects, animals or humans. Bt-based foliar sprays have been used for more than 30 years.

In March, the EPA granted Mycogen a seed increase registration that allowed the company to begin producing seeds for the transgenic hybrids at designated locations in six states and Puerto Rico. Caulder said Mycogen's plant sciences group will add the new hybrids to its NatureGuard line of insect-resistant seed products.

In 1994, Mycogen introduced corn hybrids with genetically enhanced natural resistance to the first generation of corn borers which strike corn plants early in the season. Those hybrids, which are not subject to EPA regulation, were planted on more than 100,000 acres in 1995. Bt-based resistance will provide a second control mechanism and one that will protect corn plants throughout the season against both the first and second generations of the pest.

Mycogen field-tested the transgenic hybrids last year under an EPA Experimental Use Permit. Caulder said the company plans to develop and market seeds containing both natural and Bt-based control genes to reduce the likelihood that the pests might overcome a single control mechanism.

CRP tour to be at Concord

The Northeast Research and Extension Center (NEREC), 1 1/2 miles east of Concord, will host a Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) research tour on Friday, Aug. 25.

The tour's focus will be returning CRP land to production and includes presentations on crop selection and rotation, residue management, soil moisture and fertility, pest management and trees for field protection. NEREC specialists and staff will be available to answer questions.

Participants have the option of attending a 2:30, 2:45 or 3 p.m. tour. Each will last approximately two hours. NEREC has applied to offer Certified Crop Adviser CEU credits in soil and water management and pest management.

For more information, contact Melinda McVey McCluskey, CRP Project Coordinator at 402-584-2810.

Defoliation is a concern

As is usual for this time of year, some soybean defoliation is occurring in Nebraska, warns Keith Jarvi, NU Extension Integrated Pest Management Assistant. Bean leaf beetles, grasshoppers, blister beetles and thistle caterpillars, among others, are helping themselves to leaf tissue. Treatment needs are based on how much of the leaf area is being removed. "Now that soybeans are in the reproductive stages, any leaf area loss above 25 percent of total plant leaf surface may result in yield loss," said Jarvi.

People tend to overestimate percent leaf loss since most defoliation occurs on the upper, and therefore more visible, leaves. Leaf tearing can also be attributed to the weather conditions, such as high winds and small hail. Other stresses, including herbicide burn, can take their toll on leaves as well. Wind tearing is the most common injury confused with insect feeding damage. "Insect feeding usually appears as a clean cut, and disease or environmental damage as a ragged tearing," said Jarvi.

For more information about treatment of these soybean defoliators, producers should contact local extension offices for the circular, 'Insect Management Guide for Alfalfa, Soybeans, Wheat, Range and Pasture' (EC95-1511).

Allen couple celebrates 40th anniversary with open house

A 40th anniversary open house was held for Forrest and Norma Smith on Aug. 6. It was held at 2 p.m. at the First Lutheran Church in Allen. This was the church they were married in on Aug. 7, 1955.

There were 125 guests in attendance. They came from Orange City and Primgar, Iowa; Tyler and Dallas, Texas; South Sioux City, Wakefield, Winside, Norfolk; Emerson and surrounding communities.

The guests were greeted by the couple as they entered the sanctuary.

The guest table was attended by their daughter, Cathy Macke and granddaughter, Jennifer Smith. The guest table was decorated with a red and white floral arrangement given in honor of the couple from Ardith Linafelter.

A short program was given with participation coming from friends and relatives. The program closed with background music of the song "Because" which was sung at the couple's wedding and a poem written by Norma, dedicated to her husband.

Square dance lessons are being scheduled

The Single Wheelers Square Dance Club of Norfolk, along with square dance caller John Orlovski Jr. will start square dance lessons for singles or couples. Persons of all ages are welcome and it is not necessary to have a partner to learn to square dance, have fun and meet new people. Square dancing is for the young and the young at heart.

A fun night is planned for Tuesday, Sept. 12 at 7:30 p.m. at Pufahl's Barn east of Norfolk. The lessons will continue on Tuesday nights, the first, third and fifth Tuesdays at the Norfolk Jr. High, and the second and fourth Tuesdays at the IOOF Hall, 4th and Norfolk Ave. All lessons begin at 7 p.m. The first three weeks of lessons are open to new dancers, so if a person is unable to attend the first two lessons they are still welcome.

For more information about square dance lessons contact Colleen at 402-379-1137, Jeanne at 402-371-9200 or Mary at 402-371-9276.

band. Benediction was given by Pharyce Eslick, sister of Norma.

Fellowship followed in the church basement with cake and sandwiches served by the wedding committee and several friends. The anniversary cake was baked by Mrs. Joyce Benstead and served by Arlene Linafelter and Tommie Aulie, sisters-in-law of the couple.

The Llewellyn B. Whitmore Post #5291 Ladies Auxiliary met Monday evening, Aug. 14 at the Neva Lorenzen residence.

Glennadine Barker, president, called the meeting to order with nine members present.

Eveline Thompson, treasurer, gave the treasurer's report. Verna Mae Longe, hospital chairman, sent get well cards to Fauneil Lynch and Winifred Craft. Eveline Thompson, membership chairman, reported there are 14 paid up members for 1996.

Pillow cleaning is Sept. 8 from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the garage in the alley by Wayne City Hall. Helping that day will be Verna Mae Longe, Neva Lorenzen, Amy Lind-Say, Fauneil Hoffman, Lillian Granquist, Darlene Draghu, Darlene Helgren and Eveline Thompson.

Stapleton-Dickens united in ceremony

Carla Stapleton and Rusty Dickens were united in marriage at the Allen United Methodist Church on July 29. The Rev. Nancy Tomlinson and the bride's uncle Rev. Ton Gattis officiated at the 5 p.m. ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Jim and Carol Jean Stapleton and Dale and Janice Taylor of Allen, and the late Jerry Dickens Sr. Grandparents are Gaylen and Carol Jackson, Matt and Lois Stapleton, all of Allen, Babe and Maxine Lamprecht of Ponca and Jack and Bonnie Copple of Westminster, Colo.

The church was decorated in the bride's chosen colors of red and white. The bride, given away by her parents, wore a traditional V-neck white satin gown fashioned with sequins and pearls with a chapel-length train and finger tip veil.

Matron of honor was Heather Dohrman of Emerson. Serving as bridesmaids were Chantel Stapleton of Waterbury, Cindy Chase of Allen and Kara Welch of Ainsworth. The bride's attendants wore red short-sleeved suits trimmed with white lace. Dresses in the bridal party were sewn by the bride's mother.

The best man was the groom's brother, Jerry Dickens of Allen. Groomsmen were Greg Stapleton of Waterbury, Jason Taylor of Randolph and Kent Chase of Allen. The men wore black tuxedos with red and black vests and bow ties.

Flower girls were Jessica Dickens of Allen and Ashley Ley of Sullivan, Wis. Adam Schwartz of Hinton was the ring bearer. Candles were lit by Katie and Corie Schwartz of Hinton.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickens

Guests were seated by ushers Todd Hohenstein, Ben Jackson, Jay Jackson and Doug Kraemer.

Amy Jackson and Heather Sachau attended the guest book. Music for the ceremony was provided by organist Angela Jones and vocalists Sandy and Stephanie Chase who sang "The Fathers Days I Do" and "Cross My Heart." Other special music included a saxophone and piano duet by Tammy and Tracey Jackson.

A reception and dance followed at the Allen Fire Hall. Waitresses were former Eagleette Strutters Jessica Bock, Elizabeth Bock, Samantha Bock, Alaina Bupp, Jessica Bupp, Shannon Koester, Katie Koester and Jennifer Smith.

Serving cake was Mary Jean Jones and Deanna-Dickens. Punch servers were Lori Belt and Holly Dickens. Coffee servers were Kathy Boswell and June Stapleton with Sue Stapleton serving iced tea. Kitchen helpers were Karen Blohm, Joy Bock, Vicki Bupp, Carol Chase, Edith Harder and Rita Matthes. Laney Boswell and Beth Hodgson were in charge of gifts.

The bride is an elementary and special education major at Wayne State College. The groom is employed at Sows-N-Acres Farms near Allen. The couple is at home in Allen.

Thank You!

to the many volunteers who contributed to the 1995 Wayne County Fair's success. Many volunteers help with building upkeep and repairs, some help on entry day, some help with the barbecue, some sell tickets and park cars, and some help with after fair cleanup. Plus many more people help with other jobs as well.

Congratulations to all 4-Hers on your outstanding efforts. Congratulations to Stan Morris for receiving the Kilroy Award. Congratulations to Leland Herman and Albert Topp for serving the fair so faithfully.

Thank you, people who bring your open class exhibitions. Thanks to the many people who set up booths and displays. Many thanks to the news media for your excellent coverage of the fair. A hearty thank you to all "Fair goers"!

See you all once again in 1996! Because we do it all for you!!

DIRECTOR OF DEVELOPMENT PROVIDENCE MEDICAL CENTER FOUNDATION WAYNE, NEBRASKA

The Providence Medical Center Foundation seeks a director of development to manage and conduct a fund development program for the hospital. Special emphasis will be placed on developing planned gifts through charitable gift annuities, charitable trusts, endowment fund and life insurance gifts. Director of development will also be responsible for annual giving, occasional grants, memorials and major gifts. The board has engaged a planned giving consultant to assist the new development director during the first years of operation. Sales and communication skills are of utmost importance. Bachelor's degree and development experience are preferred. This is a great opportunity for a professional who wants to establish a strong program and record in a newly created position. Position reports straight line to hospital CEO, and dotted line to Foundation Board of Directors.
